SCHOOL BEGINS WITH NEW FACES IN EVERY CLASS

In spite of the sanguine hopes of the nearly two thousand public school children that the school house would burn down during the holidays, the yawning mouths of the city's five schools opened wide to admit the influx of new students this morning. Little tots about six years of age with timid mien could be seen nervously trying to find which class to go to, while the old hands were busy getting re-acquainted with last year's pals and getting used to their new classrooms.

Queen Alexandra (Anne Street) School has about sixty new pupils and a new teacher in Miss Patterson.

Queen Mary School (West Belleville), boasts about forty new hopefuls, while the principal of King George (North Belleville) was unable to give any estimate as to new students.

At St. Michael's Academy the principal reported about forty additional arrivals.

All the schools have been renovated are spick and span, and in readiness for the winter's seige.

TOURIST HURT CAR HITS POLE

Steering Gear Broke When Driving on Dundas St. Going East

Charles Cogan, of Gloster, N.J., was seriously injured this morning when the steering wheel of the car in which he was proceeding down the Kingston Highway on Dundas street, broke, precipitating the car into a telegraph pole. Mr. Cogan and his brother, both students of the University of Pennsylvania were taken to the office of Dr. J. J. Robertson where Dr. Kent showed Mr. Charles Cogan to have sustained a fractured skull in addition to the severe cuts about his face which necessitated seven stitches. He is also very badly shaken up. Mr. Cogan was en route from his home to Quebec, where he had anticipated spending a short holiday.

SPLENDID WAR EXHIBIT ONE OF FAIR'S FEATURES

An exhibit on the midway at the fair which is most interesting is the war exhibit and during yesterday afternoon and evening it was visited by hundreds. Sergt. Shields who was a member of the 38th Canadian Battalion is in charge and is ever ready to impart any information in regard to the exhibit which was made possible by over 400 Canadian and American contributing to same. Photos of actual scenes along the front during the terrible ordeal, also of historic building in Rheim and other places which were bombarded. Trophies are numerous and most interesting to the general public. Sergt. Shields stated that the idea of the exhibit is of an educational nature and also to assist if possible in preventing future wars. Some horrors of the laig war are though the exhibits bought vividly to the mind and contributions by those visiting the tent are used for the benefit of disabled soldiers.

EIGHT PERSONS DEAD IN AZORES 200 WOUNDED

Earthquake There Severe—Calls for Help are Broadcast.

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 1.— Eight persons were killed and 200 injured by yesterday's earthquake on the Island of Fayal in the Azores, the Governor of Horta district reported in a message today. Four hundred houses were razed in the village of Flamengo by a series of short shocks. Other refugees from the Azores reiterate requests for aid. The civil governor of Fayal urgently asks that army tents be sent for the people rendered homeless. Warships are leaving today with aid. The message sent by the Mayor of Horta to the authorities in Lisbon said the aspect of Fayal Island and the suffering of victims were terrible in wintime. The earthquake was beyond description. In Horta nearly of the 8,000 citizens spent the night in public squares. Large cracks have appeared in the streets and the people are afraid to return to their homes in fear of renewed shocks.

Flamengo the interior district was totally destroyed. That only eight deaths are reported is attributed to the fact that the quake occurred late in the forenoon after the inhabitants had either gone to work or to market.

QUAKE IN CHILE!

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 1.—A strong earthquake was felt early yesterday afternoon in the town of Valdeza, northern Chile. No casualties are reported. The population was greatly alarmed.

Building Permits

The building permits issued from the City Engineer's office during the month of August were in numbers five, totaling an expenditure of $11,600 as against $5,500 for the same month last year. The permits for last month were as follows:

E. Wells, erect coal shed between Pinnacle and Church Streets. Cost $300.

Pasqua Bros. store and dwelling on Catherine Street. Cost $3,000.

Mac Muir, one storey dwelling on Ewan Street. Cost $1,000.

J. J. Whitten addition to garage on Grier Street. Cost $100.

W. H. Patterson, contract for the erection of a gasoline service station corner of Dundas and Pinnacle Streets for the Imperial Company. Cost $7,000.

COW ANNOYED AND MAN IS HURT

While transferring a cow from one stall to another, Mr. W. C. Dempsey, of Redneresville, was handed into a pile of crushed rock and suffered a broken rib and a badly cut head which required several stitches to close the wound. It appears that Dempsey saw that the cow was frightened by the noises going on around it, and fearing that it would run amuck, held the leader. The animal suddenly swerved and threw Mr. Dempsey on the rock face forcewards. Mr. Dempsey is well-known cattle man and formerly resided in Belleville.

FOSTER OBJECTS IN GENEVA TALK TO U. S. DEMAND

Sir George Led Opposition to American Terms As to World Court

Geneva, Sept. 1.—Opposition to the United States' reservation that the statutes of the permanent court of International Justice could not be amended without the consent of the United States, was strenuously opposed by Rt. Hon. Sir George Foster at a conference of members of the court considering reservations here today.

The condition is embodied in reservation number 4, which also provides that the United States may withdraw from the court at any time after adherence to the International tribunal.

The Conference had agreed to reservation 1, 2 and 3 and were discussing number 4 when Sir George rose to the point that the United States' reservation if accepted, would prevent members of the league of nations to which the United States has no obligations from ever amending the court statutes without the permission of United States. The Canadian senator remarked the league members might deem an amendment necessary in future and he doubted the wisdom of the United States Inhibition. Sir George's position was warmly supported by M. Markovitch, former minister of justice of Jugo Slavia.

Then all the five reservations under which the United States is willing to become a member of the permanent court of International Justice were quickly approved at a conference of members of the court here today. The reservations were numbers 1, 2 and 3. They provide that United States adherence to the court shall not be taken to involve any relations by United States to the league of Nations or assumption of any obligations under the Versailles treaty; that the United States shall be permitted to participate on a basis of equality in election of judges of the court.

GOD BLESS MY SOUL SAID GENERAL SMUTZ

Port Elizabeth South Africa, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—"We have been asked to pass a law allowing the Union Jack to be displayed on certain occasions," said Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, former Premier, addressing 5,000 people at a rally of the South African party here last night.

"God bless my Soul. Do we need a law for that?" Gen. Smuts devoted some time to national flag question and deprecated "Government's forcing an unwonted flag on section of people contrary to act of union."

GARAGE OWNER HIT ATTEMPTING TO HALT GUNMEN

Port Perry Immediately Organizes Posse Still Searching Fugitives

Port Perry, Sept. 1.—Reports reaching here from the posse seeking the whereabouts of three who shot and wounded Harold Archer, local garage proprietor, at an early hour today, state that the trio have been traced to a wood near Stouffville, where they are now said to be hiding. The trail from where the trio left their automobile upturned in a ditch just outside Port Perry on the Lindsay road, was followed into Uxbridge, ten miles from here, then on to Goodwood and then into the bush near Stouffville.

Port Perry, Ont., Sept. 1.—Harold Archer, 30, a local garage proprietor, was wounded at an early hour today when he jumped on the running board of an automobile in which three gunmen made that escape from the scene of shop breaking expedition. While on the automobile Archer was shot in one of his legs. He is making good progress toward recovery at his home here.

The three gunmen are still at large despite an all night search by a village posse armed with rifles, shotguns and revolvers. It is thought that the automobile went north on the road to Lindsay. The man hunt is still proceeding.

Provincial police headquarters in Toronto were notified early today and inspectors John Miller and A. R. Elliott and three constables, armed with rifles have been despatched from Toronto to take part in the search.

MEIGHEN BEGINS TOUR OF QUEBEC GIVEN OVATION

Train Stopped Where Unexpected Crowd Had Gathered to See Him

Chambly, Canton, Que., Sept. 1.— Premier Meighen today opened his three-day tour in Quebec. From Montreal he crossed the St. Lawrence and proceeded south through districts rich in tradition and story by the famed Richelieu River to the county of Bagot. Mr. Meighen's first meeting was planned for Longueuil but there was a crowd waiting for him at the St. Lambert end of the Victoria bridge, and there he spoke briefly. At Longueuil the hall was packed and the Premier spoke in French and English. He promised that the needs of the neighborhood would receive every consideration at the hands of his government. No reference was made to the questions at issue in the election. The Hon. E. L. Patenaude and the Hon. Andre Fauteux also spoke.

At Chambly Mr. Meighen spoke in the open air and declared that from the Atlantic to the Pacific Conservatives were filled with every hope of success.

AT MONTREAL

At Montreal last night Conservatives thronged the Forum building to hear Premier Meighen—and Hon. E. L. Patenaude open their election campaign for that part of the Dominion. Three fourths of the big auditorium was filled with an audience which was rounded out by a sandred or so distinguished visitors on the stage. These included many of the Conservative candidates from Quebec Province. Conspicuous in the front row were Sir Alfred and Lady Mond, formerly prominent in British politics.

E. PATENAUDE

Mr. Patenaude said that he had endorsed Mr. Meighen's leadership because he believed the time had come when by doing so he could best fulfill his duty to Quebec Province and to himself. He spoke of the present Conservative leader as the man who would lead the party on to fulfilment of its mission.

MR. MEIGHEN

Mr. Meighen spoke at some length in French. He stressed two sources—Zam pomb and the chaotic national question. Reviewing the evidence adduced by the former he charged that he can see a single thing which reflected discredit on any Government except that of Mr. Mackenzie King. He appealed to the electors "to push the wrong and establish the right" maintaining that while all governments had been compelled to fight smugglers from time immemorial, "the Mackenzie King Government went into partnership with smugglers."

MANION SPEAKS AT TRENTON

Mr. W. E. Tummon, Conservative Candidate in South Hastings, went to Trenton this afternoon to meet the Hon. Dr. Manion who spoke there on behalf of Mr. Tummon.

DIES IN MANITOBA

Miss J. A. Wight, sister-in-law of Rev. L. S. Wight died on Monday at Manitou, Man. The remains are being brought to Deseronto where she formerly resided, for burial.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS HARVESTER

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—An unidentified harvester is dead, and several other workers are ill following the drinking of poisonous liquor on a farm near Lauder, Manitoba. Hired to Winnipeg, the man came to the farm with a bottle of liquor. Before retiring for the night he treated several of the other workers. Later in the night he complained of being ill and before medical attention could be obtained the man was dead. He carried no identification papers, but the cost which he wore had the name of a Toronto firm on the label.

Fair Attendance

The management of the Fair have every reason to be proud of the attendance yesterday, the first day. The figures for the day as compared with the figures for the first day last year, are as follows:

First Day	1925	1926
Attendance	1607	2500

TEACHER MISSED AN EARLY TRAIN AS AUTO UPSET

Twice Rolled Over on Road to Corbyville — Ended in Ditch

Nearly every day this season minor and serious automobile accidents have been recorded in this city and vicinity and in many cases the occupants miraculously escaped injury. This morning another was added to the long list when John Wilson, a chauffeur in the employ of the Frank Smith Taxi Company, and a lady passenger were proceeding towards Corbyville on the Madoc highway when the car veered toward the ditch on the left hand side of the road turning turtle twice and finally coming to a stop on its side. The car was badly wrecked, the top being jammed in, windshield broken, and fenders and radiator bent and torn off.

As the story goes, Wilson's passenger who is a school teacher, was anxious to arrive at work for the opening day in a distant town and had been visiting relatives here. The taxi was late in answering the call and on approaching the north dyke it was ascertained that the 5.20 train to Peterboro had left, and immediately an effort was made to overtake it at Corbyville and on trying to make the turn near the Hastings Paper Mill the accident occurred. It is presumed that the car was travelling at a fairly fast clip as the turn at this point is not particularly sharp.

The casualties were brought back to the city and after being taken to Dr. Robertson's office where medical attention was given, they were able to go to their homes. The car was taken to Smith's Garage.

SIR HY. HORNTON TO SIR DUNCAN RAE

Montreal, Sept. 1.—Construction of all Canadian route to a Canadian all-year port was just as imperative as the rest of Canada as to the maritime provinces, Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, told the Royal commission investigating the position of these provinces in Confederation today. "I think that indisputable," Sir Henry later told Sir Rae Duncan when the commission chairman told him the maritimes made the point that they should not be called upon to bear the entire burden of the route. It was just a matter of deciding how the burden should be borne.

FAIR OFFICIALS FORESEE RECORD IN ATTENDANCE

First Day Saw Gain of Over 800 — All Features Enjoyable

On Tuesday, opening day, the estimated crowd was nearly 5,000 including youngsters under 14 who got in free, and officially it was announced there were 2,500 paid admissions which is quite an advance over 1925 with 1670.

Today the fair, one might say, settled down to business. Opening day had once more passed into history and with all the "fuss and feathers" over, the business of exhibiting and awarding prizes, of "seeing" the buildings, of watching the races, of "doing" the midway went on apace.

Today's crowd was a good one and before the turnstiles cease clicking tonight officials hope that last year's attendance of 4804 will be eclipsed.

While this afternoon the sky was overcast, it was not unpleasant, and all the various activities of the fair were doing a "rushing business."

Last night's crowd, apparently happy and pleased. The appearance of the grounds illumined as they were by thousands of incandescents made a very pretty sight.

Tonight the "circus" is expected to draw a bumper crowd. It is produced without a hitch and is quite well worth seeing.

The midway seemed to be a popular area and so it was reported money was spent quite freely there, the spenders being given a thrill in the meantime.

Carriage, Roadsters, Standard —NOTES OF THE FAIR

The Argyll Light Infantry Band, with Lieut. R. Hinchey in command during yesterday afternoon rendered a programme of music that was most entertaining. The number of musicians in the band was 28. Many upon the grounds were delighted with the playing of the Pipe Band under the leadership of Prof. A. Johnstone.

During yesterday, notwithstanding traffic was heavy upon the grounds and although there were present by hundreds, not a single accident was reported.

ONE WOUNDED MAN

The Red Cross Hospital at the Exhibition grounds has had one "case." A Newman man is with a bleeding finger, had it dressed and ran out, omitting to tell his name.

DR. MALOTT RETURNED

Dr. and Mrs. F. Malott and Miss Connor, accompanied by Miss Helen Ackerman, returned last evening from the former's summer camp in the Muskoka district. Mrs. Malott spent July and August at the camp and Dr. Malott joined the party in August. He preached at a special Masonic service in the new United Church in Gravenhurst on Sunday morning. Dr. Malott will take place of the union services in Bridge St. Church next Sunday. All of the party report having spent a very pleasant time on their holiday.

VISITORS HERE

TO CLOSE AT 5 P. M.

The Civil Service offices here will automatically return to the five o'clock closing hour September 1, as in former years.

IS KNOWN HERE

Mrs. Watkins, stenographer of Miss Matilda Watkins of New York, whose wedding to Sir Henry Thornton, K.B.E., president of the C.N.R., is well known in Belleville. She was formerly Miss Brenda Taylor, daughter of Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, who was manager of the Deseronto branch of the Bank of Montreal for some years, during which time he made many friends in Belleville.

DUCK HUNTING BEGINS

This was the first day for duck hunting and the latest was out early before sunrise, awaiting the annual target. Big Bay drew the usual large quota of men with guns. Ducks are reported not to be so plentiful this year.

CUSTOMS RETURNS

Figures for the port of Belleville are: Customs Revenue for Aug. 1926—$205,-939.35. Decrease from July, 1926—$20,261.73. Decrease from Aug. 1925—$22,816.63.

AT FAIR GROUNDS

Numerous complaints have been received by the police in regard to persons climbing the fences at the Fair Grounds. The police will take serious measures if this practice is not stopped and warnings have been issued to the lads.

MUSIC AT THE FAIR

The brass and pipe bands of the Argyll Light Infantry, under respectively Lt. R. G. Hinchey and Pipe-Major A. Johnston, are giving fine service during the fair. The brass band plays during the "circus" each evening. Each afternoon the bands in turn, march to the grounds from downtown playing stirring airs.

DAYLIGHT FIREWORKS

Fireworks this year at the fair are quite good. Hand & Co. of Hamilton, as usual, are in charge. The daylight fireworks are a novelty, a "bomb" being sent quite high and on "explosion" a parachute pops out carrying flags of different nations. That means a race for souvenirs by the children.

HEAVY STORM IN WEST

Harvesting Operations Will Be Delayed Several Days

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Heavy rain and electrical storms prevailed throughout the western provinces last night and early this morning, continuation of a week of excellent harvesting conditions. A delay to all harvesting operations now will result and in many districts where it is thought threshing would be general this week, it will be several days before operations can be resumed.

The rain was general in all provinces, and continued in many districts this morning, especially in Manitoba.

CRICKET A DRAW

BAKER SPOKE FOR SELF

Debts Cancellation Views Not Partizan Affair

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 1.— Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, declared today he was speaking for himself and not for any political group when he championed the cancellation of the allied war debts by the United States.

"There is nothing new in the idea," he said. "I have advocated cancellation right along. If there is any group backing the plan I don't know of it."

"MESSIAH" SPURNS BIG MONEY OFFERS

Chicago, August 31.— Theosophists opening their fortieth annual convention here were told by Dr. Annie Besant, international president, that the destiny of the people of the United States lies in "absolute untrammelled by the jealousies of Europe."

The problem of the United States, a vast country of wide areas and small population, does not lie, he said, in racial admixture of foreigners, but in the blending of institutions so "that they can survive an immigrant labour without worrying or being troubled by it."

Men of wealth, she said, must recognize their position as "Lord of millions of riches which should be used for the uplifting of all, rich and poor.

Jiddu Krishnamurti, heralded by theosophists as the modern messenger of divinity on earth, has declined "hundreds of offers for public appearances in the United States," he revealed today.

Speaking of one large offer, he said: "I don't want it. It isn't happiness. Money doesn't mean anything. Notoriety is not satisfaction. I wouldn't like them. They just seem worthless."

FINE ATTRACTIONS FOR COUNTY FAIR AT PICTON THREE DAY

Prince Edward County Fair is to be held in Picton on September 7th, 8th and 9th. This is the best distinctly agricultural Exposition in Eastern Ontario. This year the Directors are providing More Sights to See, More Objects of Interest, More Exhibits to Admire, More Pleasure for All; Increased Premiums; Daily Band Concerts; Baby Show; Extensive Exhibits; Races; Baseball, Live Stock Parade, Midway, Pageant, "International Circus". This will be the biggest event of the year. Don't miss a single day.

That PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY FAIR is recognized as the leading DISTRICT FAIR is evidenced by the fact that Hon. John S. Martin, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, will officially open the Fair on TUESDAY, September 7th, at PICTON.

This year the Directors of PICTON FAIR are putting forth every effort to make this year's Fair on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 7th, 8th and 9th, overshadow all former years in the matter of Exhibits, including Cattle, Horses ,Sheep, Swine, Poultry, Grain, Fruits, Roots and Vegetables. Attractions will be in advance of any previous year, including music by selected Military Band, Pageant, "International Circus" under direction of John H. Rogers Producing Co., Dalziel's Famous Midway and Shows. Races, Baseball, Baby Show and Dance. We advise all our people to take in this MODEL COUNTY FAIR of the DOMINION, for they will certainly enjoy every minute of their stay.

Picton Fair—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday—September 7, 8, 9. It's going to be a great Fair; It's going to be a Fair that everybody will enjoy attending. We advise all the people to take in this the Model County Fair of the Dominion for they will certainly enjoy every part of this Fair.

The Big Midway at Picton Fair will include Merry-Go-Round, Whip, Ferris Wheel and Merry-Mix-Up, as well as a large number of Concessions. The Midway will be running full force on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 6th. Plan to attend. Everybody must visit the Midway.

THE SITUATION

Premier Meighen having completed his tour of the West, arrived in Montreal last evening to be greeted by a tremendous crowd and an enthusiastic welcome. For the next few days he will be in Quebec province, where he will speak his message and show the need for a change at Ottawa from the Liberal bungling and carelessness—if not worse!

Nominations over the country yesterday provided some surprises even in addition to the wholly unexpected acclamation, through the accident of bad roads, of Mr. Beaubien in the riding of Provencher, Manitoba. Mr. King has a straight party fight on his hands in Prince Albert, but will probably win quite handily, reports say, but in many other constituencies in the West the best reports to hand state that Conservative chances are excellent.

The campaign here is still of the most exciting character. No Liberal candidate has so far definitely appeared with nomination day less than a week away.

Mr. Tummon's organization is being perfected, however, ready for any eventuality. Meetings in Tweed last evening and in Trenton today are showing great and enthusiastic support for Mr. Tummon personally and the Conservative cause generally.

Election day is now less than two weeks away. The tale will soon be told.

ANYWHERE ELSE

Taxi Driver—Where shall I drive you, sir.

Reveller—I don't care.—Shay, d'you know where Johnson street is?

Taxi Driver—Yes.

Reveller—Well, don' drive me there—than where I live.

HE'S NERVOUS

First Wardsman—I don't like the looks of No. 71. He's been pacin' up and down his cell all night, and looks dangerous.

Second Wardsman—Well, can you wonder? His sentence for bigamy expires today and both his wives will be waitin' outside.

OLD TACTICS

Mrs. Axminster—Why, Sylvia, what's this all about?

Woman Detective—I'm running down a criminal.

PRAYER PERHAPS

Farmer—I have insured my house against fire and my crops against hail.

Visitor—I can understand the fire insurance, but how can you make it hail?

NICE VACATION

Lady—So, you can't find work?

Tramp—Yes, but everyone wants references from my last employer.

Lady—And you can't get any?

Tramp—No, ma'am, you see he's been dead for 28 years.

LEVITY OF THE PRESS

Italy Under Mussolini

People who are fond of declaring that the press is a tool of capitalism should read "Italy Under Mussolini," by William Bolitho (The McMillan Co., Toronto). The writer of this criticism of the most remarkable tyranny of modern times, not excepting the Soviet regime in Russia, shows from a careful study of Fascism that when the press of a country is gagged, civil liberty perishes and democracy becomes a thing of the past. Mussolini was put into his present place by aristocratic power, by the aid of the capitalist class of Italy, the big manufacturers, and the country squires; the former have reduced the members of the trades unions to a condition of slavery; the latter lord it over their tenants and laborers with a rod of iron. And so long as the former Socialist editor, now dictator, can stifle the expression of public opinion and suppress news items describing acts of violence on the part of his army of spies and soldiers, Italy is helpless even to think of revolt.

This is one of the great lessons that Fascism has taught the world—that an uncensored press is the strongest guardian of freedom. Mr. Bolitho goes so far as to say that if Italy had leaders ten times as energetic and determined, without the press, who could not rise against tyranny, Ballot boxes, the constitution, all the other safeguards of liberty and law, are as useless as straws if the press is silenced. And the worst feature of this situation is that the suppression of the press in a modern country is appallingly easy. "The huge presses, the elaborate services of reporting and circulation, the large circulation, itself, make the news-paper peculiarly defenseless against a tyrant. One hour's work at the 'Corriere della Sera' by fifty ruffians would stop the paper into forced silence for a month, possibly forever."

* * *

Mussolini would have the outside world believe that he is the saviour of his country, benevolence personified, but Bolitho gives chapter and verse, recounting incident after incident, to show that with burnings of offices, smashing of presses, mob violence, assassination, revolver and club law, he put his foot upon the neck of a sadly scared nation. "It was an organized riot that brought Mussolini to Rome; and it has been a combination of overt illegal menace with every illegal brutality that has kept him in power. Every Fascist pamphlet every one of their papers prints some image of violence on the paver—a mailed fist, a club, a provocative chin." Mussolini has shown a real genius in his invention of forms of suppression. Almost his first act was the prohibition of public meetings. Free Masons' lodges have suffered the same fate as Catholic clubs. In fact even a literary society cannot meet unless it appoints a Fascist as secretary. The right of free speech in parliament has gone the same way as the freedom of the press, and as the Duce, as the Fascists call their Napoleon, has 4 militia of 300,000 men occupying the barracks in every town and city, and has filled the civil service with his creatures, the ordinary Italian citizen has to watch his step. This authority proves that the lot of the poor man in Italy, he whose cause the erstwhile Socialist editor once championed, is particularly hard; he works more hours for less pay in face of increased cost of living and is preyed upon by corrupt local politicians. And the only comforting thought in the minds of suppressed editors, suppressed trades union leaders, suppressed politicians, and anti-Fascists generally, is that Mussolini suffers from an incurable disease. He has been so clever in guarding himself from would-be assassins that there is little or no hope of a violent exit for him, and even when Death comes in the course of nature, perhaps another Fascist chief will rule in his stead. But at present the workers of Italy are reduced to a slavery of which Europe has hardly a parallel. "These toiling, frightened millions," says Bolitho, "kept by Mussolini the 'bread line at the end of a club,' have not even the old right recognized by the worst bandits, to scream out their protest." And changing his figure the author in another chapter pictures Mussolini as a jailer, with all the keys hanging at his belt and revolver in hand, pacing unmolested up and down Italy "as in the quiet and sullen corridors of a vast prison."

SWING TO CONS. EASILY APPARENT ALL OVER WEST

Premier Meighen's Tour of Four Provinces Promises a Majority

Toronto, Sept. 1.—The Mail and Empire published the following forecast of election results in the four western provinces, supplied by a staff reporter who travelled to the coast with Premier Meighen.

Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 1.—Premier Meighen commenced his second campaign in the East here with the greatest confidence of a decisive victory, justified by the apparent swing of the electorate to him in the four Western Provinces. His trip West was a great triumph.

In every centre his audiences were nearly double those of the Liberal leader, and they were convinced the hope of stable government for Canada rests with the return to power of Premier Meighen with a working majority. The trend of sentiment in the West justifies Mr. Meighen's confidence. Conservatives will increase their representation from every portion of Canada, while the Liberal representation will be decreased.

There will be more Conservatives than Liberals elected in the West, and there will be more Independent farmer candidates elected than Mackenzie King Progressives. In both Manitoba and British Columbia the Liberal party will be practically annihilated.

In British Columbia and the Yukon there are fifteen seats and of these the Conservatives will carry thirteen. Only two are in doubt. Comox-Alberni and Atlin, and of these, the Conservatives have a good chance in both Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works in the Mackenzie King Government, who represents East Kootenay, will be defeated. Dugald Donaghy is waging an aggressive but losing fight against Hon. H. H. Stevens.

PROSPECTS IN ALBERTA

Alberta still remains the stronghold of the organized farmer. The fight will lose Athabasca where D. F. Kellner, a farmer with Conservative support is fighting Hon. C. W. Cross. In West Edmonton, Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior, is waging a hard fight. His election is in doubt. Liberals will hold Wetaskwin and Medicine Hat. The three Conservative seats, East and West Calgary and East Edmonton, are considered safe, and they have good prospects of victory in Peace River and Bow River, while their support will elect two Independents, D. F. Kellner and W. T. Lucas.

In Saskatchewan, where Liberalism had been triumphant for many years, the Conservative party is very well organized and aggressive. Both Moose Jaw and Qu'appelle are considered certain Conservative wins, with a good chance in Maple Creek and Saskatoon. Regina Conservatives believe they will defeat Hon. C. A. Dunning, but the Liberal machine has a tremendous hold on that provincial capital. Of Messrs. Knaber, Campbell and Carmichael, the Independent farmer candidates, who are being supported by the Conservatives, the first is sure of re-election, but the other two are having hard fighting.

Mr. King will win in Prince Albert, but Mr. Motherwell is very nervous about his constituency of Melville.

MANITOBA CONSERVATIVE REVIVAL

It is in Manitoba where the Western Conservatives revival is most pronounced. In that province the Conservatives are fighting a triple alliance of Liberals, Progressives and Communists, yet they declare they are certain of carrying twelve of the seventeen constituencies and hope for more. The only Liberals in the last Parliament from Manitoba was Dr. Howden, St. Boniface. In the present contest there are four candidates, and it is believed Hon. Joseph Bernier, Conservative, will redeem the constituency. T. W. Bird, whose pair breaking episode defeated the Government, is certain of defeat in Nelson. Nothing but a miracle will save Robert Forke in Brandon, while J. L. Regan, Liegri, is already counted among the slain. MacDonald is the only safe Liberal. Progressive or Communist seat in this province, although Arthur Beaubien, Liberal-Progressive, appears to have a comfortable lead over his opponent in Provencher.

YOUNG WOMAN DROWNED

Brockville, August 31.—Miss Myrtle Church, 21 of this place, was drowned in the St. Lawrence River, three miles west of here, last night when the motor-boat of J. A. Marchand, in which she was returning from a day's outing on Picnic Island, was rammed by a large touring boat, owned and driven by Winfrid Snyder. The victim was thrown out of the craft and the body remains unrecovered. Miss Laura O'Brien, another occupant of Marchand's boat, was painfully cut and bruised.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour, gassy waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Insist upon "Phillips"

POLL NAMES "FAKED" IN LONELY WOODS

Lac Labiche, Alta., August 31.—How three polls in the Frog Lake district, Cushing, Patrick Lake and Heta Lake, at the federal election in the Athabasca riding, which elected C. W. Cross in October, 1925, were "faked up" during a day spent in the bush, well out of sight of chance passersby, was told by Peterson, deputy returning officer and enumerator at the Cushing poll, one of the four deputy returning officers who fled to the United States following the conviction of two other returning officers for illegal practice at the same election. Peterson gave his evidence without hesitation upon being assured by Mr. Justice Clark that he would be accorded protection from criminal prosecution under the Corrupt Practices Enquiry Act.

"I also believe that

it would be preferable to discontinue to watch the frontier"

In these exact words—only that they are the English translation of the French original—J. E. A. Bisaillon, Chief Preventive Officer for the Province of Quebec, wrote to Hon. Jacques Bureau, Mr. King's Minister of Customs, under date April 16th, 1925! And the letter is on file with the records of the Customs Investigation Committee in Ottawa.

All the examples of interference by members of the King Government in the interest of smugglers are eclipsed by the revelations contained in a series of letters filed with the Committee between W. M. Baldwin, M.P. for Stanstead, Quebec, J. E. A. Bisaillon, Chief Preventive Officer for the Province of Quebec, and the Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise in the King Cabinet.

Baldwin was the friend and intimate of smugglers, as was shown by the fact that in the case of a seizure from Jenkins, the king of the Rock Island smugglers, Baldwin put up his own cheque for $2,500.00 as part of a penalty imposed on Jenkins for smuggling.

"You may remember that I spoke to you in regard to removing the specials along the border in my county.

"Trusting you will grant my request, I am, with kindest regards."

"I am told that, since several months already, you have people working on the frontier at Rock Island. Would it not be possible to recall them, and to see that the service, although being well done, would not be conducted in the manner Mr. Baldwin complains of in his letter. I take the liberty of enclosing for you Mr. Baldwin's letter.

"Mr. Baldwin has not ceased to importune me on this subject. I have always delayed, from day to day, in the hope that I might meet you and talk the matter over with you. This poor Baldwin must be harrassed of this matter, since he pursues me even here.

"I hope to be perfectly well in a short time, and to be able to resume my functions."

On April 16th, 1925, Bisaillon replied as follows:

"I have the honour to acknowledge reception of your letter dated 7th instant, accompanied by that of Mr. Baldwin, relative to the officers who work the frontier at Rock Island.

"Mr. Baldwin exaggerates; . . . . and I do not believe that the people of Rock Island have become so fearful as wishes to say Mr. Baldwin; only he is pushed by Jenkins and Wilkinson, who are the greatest smugglers at Rock Island, but the latter are his friends. I also believe that, in the interest of the party, it would be preferable to discontinue to watch the frontier . . . . Mr. Bureau, this question is very delicate; but if you prefer that I recall these officers or else I talk the matter over with the Honorable Mr. Cardin, I shall do so with pleasure. A new advice on the matter will oblige me greatly."

At this time the Hon. P. J. A. Cardin was Acting Minister of Customs and Excise, and apparently, as asked for in his letter, Bisaillon got instructions to see Mr. Cardin, whom he testified that he met at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, about that time.

He apparently got the proper instructions, as the records submitted to the Committee showed that the specials were all withdrawn, and in reference to the last man on the job protecting the public revenue at this point, one Jensen by name Bisaillon reported to Mr. Wilson, Chief Preventive Officer, that Jensen had been taken off until October 29th, which was the day of the election.

The facts revealed by this correspondence and the action of Bisaillon demonstrates that the Hon. P. J. A. Cardin opened the public treasury between early in September and election day on October 29th and invited a gang of crooks and thieves to help themselves.

That they did help themselves is shown by the fact that the report of Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, auditors, on the question of smuggling at Rock Island, presents documentary evidence of the smuggling in of over a million dollars worth of merchandise at this one point alone.

While the smuggling of goods, largely prison-made, to a value of a million dollars was proven, it is almost certain that the actual amount was very much greater.

Can you conceive of any more bare-faced prostitution of political power, any more shameful betrayal of Canada's interests? Surely men who would tolerate such things should have no place in the public life of Canada!

ALEMITES EVEN SERIES FOR CITY LEAGUE HONORS

Defeated Deacon Shirt 12-5 in a Snappy Exhibition Supremes Here Tonight

The Alemite girls evened the series with the Deacon Shirt for the city league championship when they defeated the latter team on the arm-curies lawn last night by a score of 12-5. The Alemites were in the lead throughout and Deacon's never threatened seriously. Both teams played sparkling ball in the field and kept the large crowd on their toes from start to finish.

Gertie Boulter drew down the assignment for the Deacon team and pitched fairly effectively with the exception of the second inning when Jack Allen's team pushed over seven runs.

The teams are now tied with one win each and the third and deciding game will be played on Thursday night.

Jimmy Alexander umpired behind the plate and Chas. Thompson on the bases. Too game was called in the 3rd. of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Score by innings:

Deacon's	0 0 1 1 2 0 0— 5
Alemites	0 7 1 2 0 0 2—12

Lineups:

Deacon's—Murray, c; Boulter, p; J. Mason, 1b; Redfern, rf; L. Mason, 2b; Quinn, 3b; M. Mason, ss; Hickey, cf; Lupernette, lf.

The Alemites play the Supremes of Kingston tonight on the armories lawn at 6 o'clock in what promises to be one of the best games of the season.

FATE OVERTAKES BALTIMORE CREW NOW 4TH PLACE

Yanks Continue to Lose Withff Indians Five and a Half Behind

The Leafs run another game at Toronto yesterday, defeating Reading, 3 to 1, and added further to their lead at the top of the International League. The many-time pennant winning Baltimore Orioles lost a 5 to 4 decision to Buffalo and found themselves roughly jolted into fourth place, the lowest position they have held in ten years, as the Newark Bears won 9 to 7 from Syracuse and slipped in behind Toronto. The hero of the Buffalo victory over the Orioles was Andy Anderson, who slimmed the ball over the left field fence in the seventh with two out and the bases loaded.

IN THE NATIONAL

The St. Louis Cardinals displaced the Pittsburgh Pirates as the leaders in the National League by winning both games of a doubleheader from the world's champions at St. Louis, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1. Cincinnati lost to the Cubs at Chicago, 1 to 0, but remained in second place, one point ahead of the Pirates, whose double loss sent them skidding into third place.

IN THE NATIONALS

It will be no surprise to hundreds of persons to learn that the Athletics again paddled the Yankees at the Stadium today. That sort of thing has been going on all season. The Mackmen have won eleven out of sixteen with the Yanks. The New Yorkers may be champions in a lot of folks, but as far as the Athletics are concerned they are just a ball team.

The strangest of the strange goings-on today was the way the Macks piled into Herbert Pennock the best of the Yanks' pitchers. When Mr. Pennock retired at the end of the third, wearing a somewhat horried expression, the Philadelphians had compiled six runs and ten hits. This is more than Herbert Generally yields in two complete games.

The Yanks spotted the Athletics six runs and lost by 8 to 5. A very lambrious situation has now arisen. The Indians stowed away another victory and are only five and a half games behind. In the last two games the pitching staff of the Yankees has allowed twenty runs—a ratio which, if prolonged, will lead the Yanks in the world's series if they pay their way in.

SO MANY THINGS CAN BE WRONG WITH THE HUMAN EYE

That it is impossible to enumerate them all. Some of the results of eye strain are so subtle that it is hard for an ordinary individual to realize they are caused by eye strain. The condition is blamed on almost anything else than the eyes. But eye strain should be suspected in every case where some persistent annoyance cannot be accounted for. If eye strain is a detriment to you we can help you greatly.

WASH POISON FROM KIDNEYS

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation of the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a table-spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no long erare a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who say, subject to urinary disorders cause no bad effects whatever.

SportOgramS

By The "Observer"

All of the Belleville ball teams have been eliminated from further competition with the exception of the Belleville High School girls. It has been a brilliant season local. with plenty of "fodder for the fans." The Seniors put up a good argument for the C.O.B.L. pennant with the exception of the last game. It was a tough game to lose, especially the first game in the Limestone City when one bit at any Line during the fray would often have meant the ball game. But these "ifs and ands" at this stage only bring back unpleasant memories. The Kingston team are superior in both hitting and fielding. At least they were certainly far in advance of the locals in Monday's game. The Nationals have fell down miserably in hitting averages in the last few games, only two or three members of the squad showing any inclination to hit at all. "Frenv" and Harr. Mills have been clouting fairly consistently and Vern Weir has shown ote or two flashes, but apparently Cairns had the rest of the boys roped and hog-tied. Rumors are already in the air as to possible changes for next year, but it's a long time hence and any predictions cannot be taken seriously. But two or three positions need to be bolstered if the team is to go any farther than they did this year. Two things have created dissatisfaction in the league for this team. First, the three-team loop is absolutely the "dope" and it would be advisable to try and secure another fast team to round out a four-team loop. Several teams have been mentioned and among them is Deloro Intermediate. But possibilities will be discussed at the annual meeting of the league later on.

GIRLS OF B. H. S. LEAGUE CHAMPS, TO MEET TORONTO

The fast High School girls team won another championship by downing when they trounced the Deseronto Ponies right on their own backyard by a score of 12-1. By doing so The Belleville girls took two straight games for the championship of the Bay of Quinte League and will now meet the winners of the Toronto-Amherst Softball Association in the play-offs for the Ladies Intermediate Softball championship of the Province. The Belleville team is confident the Toronto girls fast night and deserve it to win although the score was fairly close until the heavy artillery of the girls's team threatened one section in the dying stages and the Ponies forked out of the picture. The good hitting of Miss Gaulin of the home team featured the game. The Belleville team hir Miss Wagar quite hard especially Jean Rumsay and Mary Anne Bolton who drove in several runs. Aileen Wilkins was in good form and very few base-runners attempted to steal.

SPEED EVENTS AT LOCAL FAIR PROVIDE THRILL

The chief attraction at the fair on Tuesday afternoon, after the formal opening, was the two speeding events which furnished good sport for lovers of horse racing. Of course the children, and they were present by the hundreds, were busily engaged in collecting souvenirs of the fair and sight-seeing up and down the midway.

The two horse races were well contested, especially the 2.17 class, when four heats were necessary to decide a winner.

2.17 CLASS, PURSE $200.

In the first heat, Hal Usko, a bay gelding owned by L. McKown of Weston, finished in sixth place, owing to the animal acting rather strangely. In the next three succeeding heats he took the lead at the start and maintained it to the finish. The track was in good condition and the time made was good. The result was as follows:

Hal Usko, L. McKeown,
Weston	6 1 1 1
Jim Todd Jr., A. T. Johnson,
Peterboro	1 2 2 2
Rena Hal, W. A. Fanning,
Lindsay	5 6 6 5
Tony Mack, Brown & Harris,

Victoria Patch, P. F. Metcalfe,
Kingston	6 4 3 3
Delgatta, J. C. Lively, New
Liskeard	3 4 5 6

Time—2.19¼, 2.18¾, 2.17¾, 2.17¼.

2.40 CLASS, PURSE $200.

Six horses were entered for this event and Just Jack, owned by Mr. V. Elmhurst, of Indian River, proved to be the winner, taking three straight heats without apparently any great exertion on his part. Delia J., the nearest competitor, secured two second and a third. The best time made was in the first heat when the timers announced the mile had been covered in 2.22¾. The summary is as follows:

Just Jack, V. Elmhurst, Indian

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

For the making of "Lovey Mary," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture directed by King Baggot, now at Griffin's theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, an entire railroad train, engine and all was run out to the studio lot.

Instead of taking the company to a railroad yard on location, the railroad yard was brought to the company. A quarter of a mile of track was laid on the M-G-M lot, the largest in the world, a spur connected to the Pacific Electric tracks adjoining, and a string of box cars rented from the Southern Pacific company, shunted in.

It was said to be the first time in motion picture production that such a thing had been done.

The time factor has become so important in the making of motion pictures that the transportation of actors to location, with its consequent loss of hours and interruptions by audiences is becoming more and more of a rarity.

Money was actually saving by bringing the train into the studio, rather than carrying the company to and from a railroad yard.

William Haines has the leading role in "Lovey Mary," with Hope Loring in the title part, while the cast includes Mary Alden, Vivi Oakes, Martha Mattox, Sunshine Hart and Russell Simpson. They, too, have been ideally cast.

AT THE BELLE

Starting with a hundred bright facts of humor, and ideas with the bounding exploits which are the sensational characteristics of its star, "The Prince Of Pep," Dick Talmadge's latest production for F. B. O., now showing at the Belle Theatre where it will be seen for two days only, "The Prince of Pep" tells the story of a young surgeon who loses his memory and forgets who he is through a blow on the head. He leaves a cart of dual life as a daring robber in New York, and as a helper of the poor. Jack Nelson directed the picture from the scenario by James Bell Smith; and foot for foot it measures up to the high standard of previous Talmadge productions in laughs, sensations and excitement. also Peacock Feathers a Universal Jewels (2) feature pictures.

PAGEANT-CIRCUS FOUND AMUSING EVENING SHOW

The "International Circus" which played for the first time in Canada at the Industrial Exhibition last evening was a fine spectacle and the applause which expressed the appreciation of the audience for the vast production was sufficient evidence that the show will "go over big" tonight, Thursday and Friday.

Announced by Mr. George Watkins, ring master as the "most stupendous production of the century," carrying "nine hundred and ninety-nine" carloads of properties and scenery, with animals and performers, the performance justified his greatest boasts; for the only Charlestoning bear; charlestoned; the only Sioux Pup in captivity grrated about; the "greatest" artists of the world entertained; and the foreigners imported from every shore in and out of Christendom did their stuff" and gave everyone two hours of solid and novel amusement.

THE SHOW

The background for the great circus, which played all in one ring, was really unique and was formed by some enormous oil paintings of the features of the continents and when the Argyll Light Infantry Band who played throughout the performance finished the first selection, the gold and green clad heralds summoned the population of the different continents who came represented as a mother, the Continent, and her children the countries on the continent, each clad in white. Each mother continent and her children took their seats before the painting of the continent they represented.

This was followed by the monster parade, clowns, wild animals, funny picture characters, denizens of the jungle and fowl assembled in the fascinating spectacle which filled in a Barnum-and-Bailey-like procession past the auditorium. The international jockeys followed with a pretty number, after which Professor Butler introduced his band with, the ring master announced, selections by Mack Robertson, May Day in Holland followed and this pretty spectacle merited the applause it evoked. Miss Ian Nobella next introduced her troupe of trained animals, and elephant as gentle as a baby kitten. Frrg, a leopard wild and furious; Teddy the charlestoning bear; Goop, the only one of its kind in captivity and of no particular species, and a man-eating gorilla. They all performed wonderfully.

The Festival in Japan was a remarkable charming feature and carried the audience into the flowery kingdom most convincingly; the world's greatest collection of wonders, including the two lite people several inches shorter and lighter than Tom Thumb; Madame Heglo, the bearded lady; Princess Lilliette, Eppie the fattest lady in the world, and Double-jointed Al, who twisted himself into horrible knots.

The Egyptian dancers with Cleopatra, represented by Miss Rushworth, was very spectacle and the closing number which followed a real jang for a good half hour. The musical equines number was very striking and the dance of the Reds, Blues and Garland Bearers charming.

THE FINALE

Britannia, beautiful and sedate, borne on a throne carried by her subjects, was represented in the finale by Miss Anna Lafferty and the tableau which cloed the programme brought down the house.

Too much cannot be said for the painstaking efrts of Mr. Knowles who trained and staged the highly spectacle and in his talented manner perceive and featured the great histrionic possibilities of young Belleville..

The baepence were Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. R. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. D. W. Adams and Mrs. Ruthsteinking.

HARVESTERS' WAGE HIGHER THIS YEAR

Shortage of Help Sends Pay Up to $4.50 and $5.00 a Day

Winnipeg, August 31.—The great demand for harvest workers in the fields of Western Canada has resulted in higher wages this year, especially in the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where rapid progress has been made during the past week of fine weather in the cutting and threshing of all grains. The workers from the eastern provinces and from British Columbia are eagerly sought, and wages generally range from $4.00 to $5 a day, as compared with $3 and $4 a year ago.

While the situation has not reached the acute stage in Alberta, where harvesting is later than in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the other prairie provinces are urgently in need of additional harvesters. Manitoba, with threshing becoming general in several sections of the province, requires at least 3,000 additional workers, and appeals have been made by city officials for every available man to go to the country and aid in the important work of gathering in the 1926 crop.

ADOPTION BY HEN OF FAMILY OF KITTENS

Pasqua, Sask., Aug. 30 (By C. P.).—A peculiar case of adoption among animals is reported here at a farm of R. Roole, east of Pasqua. An unusual feline gave up all litter of kittens and would not go near them. A ben then undertook to provide attention in the best way she knew how, and is found daily sitting over her charges.

The mother cat sometimes comes near, but will have nothing to do with her offsprings, since the hen had taken charge of affairs. The kittens are reported to be doing nicely.

Mr. Chas. Hayes and Mr. R. Kelly, of Watertown, N.Y., stopped in this city today enroute to Toronto Exhibition. "Bing" as the former was known around Belleville some years ago was active in boy's work here and he is engaged in similar work in Watertown being in charge of a party of boys who will spend a few days taking in the sights at Toronto Exhibition.

The Old Love Or New?

A quick flash of joy lighted up her face as she turned toward him for a moment, and then, having found the book, they returned to the center of the room, and Annette, taking up some work withdrew herself from the group, and sat down by the fire.

"Captain Brinley is going to be stage manager," said Mitsin, gaily—she had perched herself upon the music stool, and made a quaintly pretty picture in her frill-fitting dress of dark blue cashmere, with her pretty golden hair falling around her—"and must fix the parts. Don't give me one, please," she added, laughingly. "I could never remember six consecutive lines in my life."

"I will take pity on you," said the captain, laughing. "Roy must be Claude, of course; he'll play it perfectly. He acted it for us one night when we were stationed at Southsea, and drew down the house."

"Spare my blushes, Brinley," Roy said, laughing. "I will play it with pleasure if Miss Gosport approves."

"Of course you must, and Dr. Fitzroy shall be Damas," Minnie answered gaily.

"Dr Beaucaut," answered the stage manager.

"Oh! no, not Beaucaut; he's so horrid!" said Miss Gosport, naively. "We'll find lots of Beaucauts in a minute by. Our present anxiety must be Pauline."

"Why not do it, Miss Fitzroy?" said Captain Brinley, turning to Constance.

"I?" she said, laughing. "I could not, I am sure. Not—not Pauline, Captain Brinley. Anything else you like."

"But not Pauline?" he said, dubiously. "Well who shall we get to do Pauline?"

"Miss Letsome," suggested Constance.

"Or Miss Grey," said some one.

"Or Clara Davis," laughed Jessie.

"No, none of those will do," said the stage manager decisively. "Are you Miss Fitzroy, will you? Read over the latter part of the first scene in the second act with Roy, and try."

"Nay, dearest, nay, if thou would'st have me paint
The house to which, could Love fulfil Its fondest wish, and proceeding with that exquisite description of the home," received no response in Constance, who read her lines coldly and lifelessly.

"That won't do," Roy said, decidedly. "Read them for her, first, Brinley, just to give her an idea."

"But Miss de Vitry will," said Captain Brinley, who had been watching Annette's interested face. "I am sure she knows it."

"Do you, Annette?" said Roy, instantly. "Yes, I see you do. Come forward, mademoiselle, at once, and act your part."

Annette arose, coloring hotly, but coming forward with quiet self-possession and declining the book Captain Brinley offered her with a slight bow.

"She knows it by heart," Roy said, laughing. "Are you ready? Yes? Then here goes!"

And again with more passion and more eloquence than he had expressed it the first words, and then with equal tenderness and passion in her soft, rich tones, the girl answered:

"Oh! as the bee upon the flower I hang
Upon the honey of thy eloquent tongue!
Am I not blest? And if I love thee wildly,
Who would not love thee like Pauline?"

Captain Brinley nodded his head approvingly.

"Go on," he said, quietly; and they went on. Roy continuing the scene:

"Oh! false one!
It is the prince thou forget, not the man!
If in the stead of luxury, pomp and power,
I had painted poverty, and toil, and care,
Thou hadst found no honey on my tongue,
Pauline, that is not love."

Then came Pauline's answer, so softly vehement:

"Thou wrong'st me, cruel prince;
At first, in truth, I might not have been won.
Save through the weakness of a flattered pride;
But now—oh! trust me—couldst thou from power and sink——"

MELNOTTE:

"As low as that poor gardener's son
Who dared to life his eyes to thee."

PAULINE:

Even then
Methinks thou wouldst'st be only made more dear
By the sweet thought that I could prove how deep
Is woman's love. We are like the insects, caught
By the poor glittering of a garish flame;
But, oh! the wings once scorched—the brightest star
Lures us no more, and by the fatal light We cling till death."

"Admirably said!" exclaimed Captain Brinley, warmly. "Could not be improved upon. Helen Faucit herself never surpassed it."

"Perhaps we can induce Miss de Vitry to act it for us," Minnie Gosport said, smiling. "I am sure we shall be delighted and very grateful to her."

"Will you act, Annette?" Roy asked, hastily.

"I do not know," faltered the girl, drawing back. "Perhaps Mrs. Fitzroy may not like me to do so."

"That is soon settled," said Constance, running off to fetch her mother, and returning with her and Mr. Gosport, who added his entreaties to Minnie's that Miss de Vitry should take the role of Pauline and it was settled that she should do so.

"And in my opinion, mademoiselle," said Captain Brinley, smiling, and speaking in a low tone as he bent over her, "in my opinion you like the part, and will play it con amore."

Being rich would be nice if it didn't take so much money.

Start Her Off In a Trim Little Flannel Dress

REMARKABLE GOOD BEING DONE

Among Sick Women of Canada by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are Four Who Testify To That Fact

Sea View, Cape Breton, N.S.—"By reading the letters in one of your books I understand that a great many women sufferers have got relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I can say that my mother has taken it and has given it to me in my younger days for monthly troubles. I was working at service then and could not go to work sometimes for a week at a time, and then felt miserable enough. I could not be in a worse state than I was then. My mother said to get the Vegetable Compound, and I did, and it helped me. I am now married going on to five years and have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—MRS. CHARLES A. PATTIE, Sea View P.O., Cape Breton, N. S.

"My Girl Friend Took It"

Ridgetown, Ontario.—"For over a year I suffered from pains each month that would drive me almost mad. My mother suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as my girl friend was taking it and told me it would do me good. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I soon began to improve. I have since taken it again to make me stronger. I will answer any letters I receive asking about the Vegetable Compound."—MRS. WM. LAND HALL, R. R. 1, Ridgetown, Ontario

Admiral, Sask.—"I am sure that my one who gives your medicines a fair trial will receive benefit. I have taken both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Medicine through the Change of Life and I recommend them highly. I had dizziness and a worn-out feeling with loss of appetite for about a year. I saw your advertisement in the papers and took the medicine. My appetite returned and my ambition, and I felt like working again. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the bowels and recommend the Pinkham Medicine."—MRS. JOHN STEPHEN, Box 87, Admiral, Saskatchewan.

"Nervous Breakdown"

Felton South, N. S.—About two years ago I took what had a doctor called it. I was nervous and did not want to stay alone. He said I had a nervous breakdown. One day a friend called to see me and advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did. I felt through my whole body that it was doing me good. I am at the age now when those queer feelings come around and I can say that I am well. I cannot appreciate too highly what the Vegetable Compound has done for me."—MRS. LAURA M. WILMOTT, Felton South, Nova Scotia.

Women Dispose

Of this new hygienic pad as easily as tissue —no laundry

COUNTLESS women have discarded old-time "sanitary" pads for a new and better way.

A way that offers far greater protection. A way, too, that banishes the old-time problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

Great Throng Seen At Trenton For Manion - Tummon Addresses

GIRL, AGED 8, RUN OVER BY CAR; LIVES

TRENTON GREETS HON. DR. MANION AND MR. TUMMON

Packd Audience in Weller's Theatre For Afternoon Meeting

Waller's Opera House at Trenton was comfortably filled Wednesday afternoon for the Conservative rally.

The Hon. R. J. Manion, M.C., M.D., Ex-M.P., Postmaster General of Canada, was the chief speaker of the afternoon and he delivered a most interesting address.

Dr. Manion is a fine speaker who with his long and varied parliamentary career has the facts at his finger tips and possesses a remarkably fine manner of convincing his listeners. Dr. Manion spoke in Cobourg last evening, where W. H. Mayhee, the Conservative candidate is waging a hot fight with Mayor Fraser of Trenton.

Eben James, President of Trenton Conservative Association, acted as chairman and opened the meeting. The Bon Ton Orchestra of Belleville rendered several selections and Mrs. Gill of Trenton delighted the audience with two solos. The train bearing the Postmaster General was late in arriving and the Conservative candidate, Mr. W. E. Tummon, was called upon.

HIS THANKS

The candidate thanked the electors of Trenton for the support received in the last election and hoped they should be another fight that another majority for the Conservative party and Mr. Meighen would reign. Canada is a country of great possibilities and future. We have been told of the good times that are just around the corner by the Liberal Government, and yet we have waited a long time for them to arrive. The speaker stressed the immigration question and stated that since the quota system was put into effect, Mackenzie King has endorse dthe policies of the United States government in regard to the situation. The country to the south of us leaves the door practically open to Canadian people.

Mr. Tummon read an extract from a Philadelphia paper as follows, which goes to show how the U.S. is acquiring Canadian manhood and womanhood.

Immigration from Canada to the United States excluding the Seattle district which handles the Pacific coast ports, totalled 59,758 for the fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1926, according to the announcement by H. B. Landis, U.S. Commissioner of Immigration at Montreal. Total immigration from Canada to the U.S. during the previous year ending June 30th, 1925, including the Seattle district, was 109,538. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1924, which was the last year before the stricter quota restriction came into effect, the total Canadian immigration to U.S. was 208,196.

PROFITS TO U.S.A.

The speaker showed how Canadian raw materials have been supplied to the U.S. and the finished product shipped back into Canada netting a big profit for the Yankee manufacturer. The Canadian people, according to accurate statistics gave the Americans a total of $16.00 per capita for the year ending June 30th. The "Canada First" policy of Mr. Meighen will protect our merchants and give the laboring men plenty of work and decent wages.

W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., introduced the Hon. Dr. Manion and in his remarks referred to the acreplane that recently flew over dropping "some Liberal literature" the sort of which found a resting place in the Trent River and Bay of Quinte.

Graham Cold Storage Exhibit Won Sweepstakes at Ottawa

At the Central Canada Exhibition, which has just closed at Ottawa, an innovation was introduced by making a competitive class for the display of eggs and the education of Consumers concerning eggs and egg grading.

The class drew a number of entries and resulted in the largest egg show ever held at the Exhibition.

The displays were attractively arranged and did much to carry to Consumers an idea of the value of eggs and egg grading. The matter is one which may in time grow to be an established feature of exhibitions and from this standpoint deserves the attention of interested egg Producers and Dealers.

Belleville was well represented by an exhibit from The Graham Cold Storage who carried off the Sweepstakes with Diploma.

NOTES OF THE FAIR

F. S. ANDERSON EXHIBIT

Visitors at the Fair this week have been attracted by an unusual exhibit in that of The F. S. Anderson Coal Company. The Company is displaying a complete line of samples of Old Company Lehigh Anthracite coal, including several prizes appearing just as they come from the mine. The unusually good quality of the Anthracite may be seen to advantage in this display; along with the Anthracite there is on display samples of Pocahontas, cannel, and steam coal, making altogether a most attractive display and one of the most interesting at the Fair.

MODERN CLEANERS EXHIBIT UNUSUAL

An exhibit attracting more than ordinary interest at the Fair is that of the Modern Dry Cleaners and Dyers located in the Merchants' Building on the north side. One comes suddenly upon an artistically laid out bedroom suite, including floor lamps, reading lamps and all the accessories, and we learn that there are thirteen things in the bedroom that may be dry cleaned. An unusually large number, one might think but first glance, but a study of the article in the model bedroom, shows the extent of the service. Modern dry cleaning now offers the housewife. Bed clothing, pillow slips, lamp covers, the rug on the floor, the window curtains and drapes, slippers of the occupant, cushions, and so on along to the total of thirteen.

It demonstrates the wonderful strides Dry Cleaning has made recently and the extent of the work done when up-to-date equipment is used; and speaking of up-to-date equipment that of the Modern is as fine as any in this part of the country.

UNDERTOW MENACED 3 MEN AS WELL AS ELEANOR BONE; TWO OTHERS TO THE RESCUE

A lady signing herself "Eyewitness" has handed us the following letter of her impressions of the occurrence reported last Monday when Eleanor Bone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson Bone, was saved from death at Lake Ontario Beach when caught by the undertow. Eyewitness says:

Mrs. R. J. Graham of Belleville was at the Beach along Lake Ontario with her grandchildren for a picnic. Miss Eleanor Bone, 11 years, and her sister were in the party.

Eleanor went in bathing. The heavy seas and undertow carried her out some few hundred yards from shore and the brave girl battled for some time, but good swimming was of no use. She could not make short in such a current. She had been in the water for some time when the alarm was raised. Three Consecon men, W. Fenton and D. Mills of Consecon and G. Clark started out to the rescue with Mr. Kiser's fishing boat. When they were within a few yards of the girl the boat capsized and the three men had a narrow escape. Due to the heavy waves and the undertow they were badly bruised. Miss Bone could not have reached shore if it hadn't been for her great pluck. She managed to grasp a piece of the boat flooring. Two more men, H. Thurston and D. Mills of Consecon went out to rescue Miss Bone and the men from the upturned boat which was sinking fast. All could swim.

COOL? WELL RATHER!

The past two nights have been extremely cool, the minimum temperature last night being 46, within a few degrees of frost. Yesterday the max imum temperature was 72 compare with 32 for the sabe date last year.

CROWDED STREET TOT DARTED OUT FELL UNDER CAR

X-Ray Examination Shows No Bones Broken—In Hospital

Little Josie Fair, aged 8...of West Bridge St., had a very narrow escape from fatal injuries when she was knocked down and run over by a car driven by Ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson on West Bridge St., late yesterday afternoon.

Two wheels of the vehicle passed over her body, escaping her quite badly and fears were at first entertained for her recovery but reports from the hospital today stated that she is resting much easier and practically out of danger.

It appears that she had gone across the road from her home which faces the street, to get a bag of peanuts. On the way back she ran diagonally across, directly in the path of the car. Mr. Ketcheson did everything possible the minute he sensed the danger and stopped his car within a few feet. Willing hands picked up the little girl and carried her into her home. A physician was immediately summoned and he ordered her removed to the hospital where an X-ray examination was taken and it is not thought that any bones were broken but she will however, be forced to remain at the hospital for some time.

ST. ANDREW'S MINISTER BACK

Rev. R. G. Stewart, Mrs. Stewart and family have spent the past two weeks at Kincardine Beach, Lake Huron, have arrived home. Mr. Stewart will occupy the pulpit of St. Andrew's on Sunday next.

BOATS SKIPPERED BY KINGSTONIANS IN CLOSE FINISH

To the scores of enthusiasts who watched yesterday's dinghy races at the Bay of Quinte Country Club was presented one of the best starts and closest finishes that it has ever been their privilege to enjoy.

Skippered by dinghy racers from Kingston, the crew composed of the owners, the race was one continual jockeying for first place from start to finish. Dr. Proctor's boat, "Little Phoebe" skippered by Mr. Horn, sailed over the finishing line, winner by 30 seconds.

Every boat had the lead in turn and the race was very close from start to finish. There was a very light breeze and the skill and dexterity of the skippers were taxed to the utmost to get the lucky puff of wind that determined the position.

FOR HUNGERFORD TROPHY

Yesterday's race was the first of a series for a fine trophy presented by Mr. H. B. Hungerford. The skippers of the boats were invited down from Kingston to sail the dinghies and they certainly handled them in magnificent form. Dr. Bruce Taylor sailed Erdley Wilmott's dinghy, "Swan"; Prof. Douglas Jemmett handled Bob Graham's "Green Hat"; George Graham's dinghy was skippered by Mr. H. K. Hill; H. Hora sailed Dr. Proctor's boat, and Mrs. H. K. Hill skipper Major Medd's dinghy. A tea was served the ladies in the clubhouse, and a dinner party by local men at night. The times:

Starting Time
Green Hat	2.22.00
Little Phoebe	3.25 ½
Blue Bird	3.26 ½
Swan	3.27 ½
Major Medd	3.28.00
Finishing Time
Little Phoebe	4.53.00
Green Hat	4.53.30
Blue Bird	4.55
Gwen	5.01.00
Medd	Withdrew

Mr. C. C. Walker was clerk of the course. Capt. Harper was timekeeper.

HERE'S A NARROW ESCAPE

Putting gasoline in his car, a visitor to Belleville, appeared not to see the legs of his trousers. He struck a match and his pant legs caught fire. This happened at 10.30 last night near the McLaughlin garage. Friends quickly him extinguish the blaze before his legs were scorched.

Fair Attendance

That good exhibits at a fair and attractions that are of an unquestionable character have a tendency to attract many visitors is evidenced at the Belleville Fair. The paid admissions on Tuesday the opening day and yesterday totalled 3180, as compared with 5,811 for the first two days last year. Figures are as follows.

Tuesday	1607	2500
Wednesday	4204	6680
Total two days ..	5811	9180

MEIGHEN SPOKE SIXTEEN TIMES ON WEDNESDAY

Lake Megantic, Que. It was midnight when Premier Meighen addressed his main meeting here last night. Previously he spoke to a gathering of women on the constitutional question. He told the main meeting that for the first time than number of years the Conservatives of Quebec came to east united. When the Premier began to speak in English, his sixteenth speech of the day, there were hurrahs for King and counter hurrahs for Meighen. The Parish priest who was in the audience appealed for a fair hearing for the Premier and the disturbance ceased. Mr. Meighen and no good purpose could be served by discussing the old ammunition.

"I have no desire to hold post mortems on the past," he added and confined that for from embroiling Canada in future was the most ardent desire of voting, of peace. He hoped that Canada the Conservative party was the preserbds had seen its last war.

"We never wanted war," he said, "for both the only people who ever thought we had to do it to make sure of our own ultimate safety."

Later he said: "If Canada signs a treaty that treaty we must live to observe, but Canada should keep just as free as she can be free to all obligations leaving the Dominion to decide what shall be our course, what shall be our policy."

A FREAK SURE ENOUGH

Toronto, Sept. 2 — Two bodies, a severed head, two tails and one headless one possessed by one freak puppy which was born here today at the home of C. T. Sumner, Fairbank, The animal is still living and the mother is caring for it with the rest of the litter.

PAID ADMISSIONS INTO EXHIBITION SET NEW MARK

No Previous Day Has Equalled Wednesday — The Reason

How many people will attend Belleville Fair?

You are entitled to as many guesses as you desire and they cost you nothing.

The fact is the Fair is a knockout, a "wow", a scream; in colder language, a fine success.

Paid admissions 2500 and estimated about as many more there the first day. And a good 7000 there Wednesday makes—approximately—12000 in two days with two days to go.

So—how many?

For our part we'll let George answer.

But a new attendance record is already assured.

1400 SAW CIRCUS

The Circus at night is a most enjoyable affair and last evening over 1400 witnessed it, from the two grand stands. The performance commenced at a few minutes after 8 o'clock and was over at a reasonable time. Following the pageant are the fireworks which are pleasing to both old and young.

With continued fine weater today and tomorrow there will be a large number of visitors in attendance both during the afternoon and evening. The various occessions on the midway are doing a good business as are also the refreshment booths.

FINE ARTS DISPLAY

Some specially good work in the Fine Arts display at the Fair is attracting more than the usual interest. Some of the exhibits failed to qualify and were withdrawn and from competition. Miss M. B. Powell, Fall Fair specialist for the Ontario Department of Agriculture examined and judged 900 exhibits. Miss Powell goes from Belleville to the Canadian National Exhibition to assist in the Girls' Judging competition work, and from Toronto to the Western Fair at London. Miss Powel said the exhibits were indeed pleasing especially in the Decorative Art (China).

The lack of display space in both Needlecraft and Art Classes necessitated dividing the exhibits which addedto the difficulty of judging.

Tea Cloths, Tray Cloths, Buffet Sets, Pillow Cases and Fancy Bed Spreads and Spreads were all very attractive.

ONE CHILD LOST

One child was lost at the Fair grounds today—while its mother was being shown by a dedhonstrator how to make a cake. The child strayed from her side on—and hap pines reigned.

Coming Events

NO SHORTAGE AT SASKATOON

Harvest Help There Fills Demand as Official Shows

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 2.—"I am at a loss to understand the reports in the east regarding the alleged serious shortage of harvest help in western Canada," said W. M. Brasher, secretary of the farmers' union of Canada, in an interview last night. "Every other year," continued Mr. Brasher, "I have been besieged with requests for harvest hands, but this year I have not had a single request up to the present time. I have not even heard anything from the country of a shortage in this respect.

"The situation, in my opinion," he added, "calls for a real clarification on the part of those responsible for the statements published."

J. H. THOMAS SPEAKS AT TORONTO FAIR

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Saying that, with a general election pending, and that for that reason he would refrain from discussing politics and thus disquiet the press, J. H. Thomas, who was Colonial Secretary in the MacDonald Labor Government, delivered an address at Exhibition directors' luncheon today.

"No greater mistake was ever made," he said, "than to assume that the Union Jack which has stood for democratic government and for the most democratic constitutions, is the monopoly of any class or creed."

HEAVY DAMAGE BY FROST

Tupper Lake, N.Y., Sept. 2.—Heavy frost last night caused considerable damage to crops in the Adirondack mountain region. There are indication sof continued cold weather.

Dr. R. J. Manion, Postmaster General, endorsed the candidate, Mr. Tummon, and hailed him as a most able man who is a credit to West Hastings and the Dominion of Canada. The speaker chose the three issues that are most important in this election. (1) Cleaning up of Customs Scandal. (2) Stable Tariff Policy. (3) Placing a Stable Responsible Government in Power.

Mackenzie King has endeavoured throughout the campaign to sidetrack the REAL issues before the people. Mr. King has said that Mr. Meighen wants to alienate the Canadian Pacific Railways. This is simply an attempt on Mr. King's part to enroll the Canadian National vote. It is absolutely a falsehood, and if Mr. Meighen goes into power there will be more work for the employees than ever.

CUSTOMS QUESTION

Mr. King has shown no scruples in his efforts to be voted into power. Mr. King has blamed the Governor-General for not granting a dissolution to him and then turning around and allowing Mr. Meighen to dissolve parliament. As a matter of fact no Premier has been given two successive dissolutions, in over a hundred years, and Mr. King was given a dissolution eight months previous.

Dr. Manion spoke of the many things that King promised to do in the 1921 election and that have been left undone. National unity and treatment to returned soldiers have not been improved and the cost of living has gone up instead of down.

Out of 82 seats in the Province where Mackenzie King was born not one will support him and he has sought re-election in another Province entirely.

THE ROBB BUDGET

King says it was the greatest budget ever introduced in parliament. It abolished the tax on

(1) Automobiles

(2) Income Tax

(3) Stamps.

85% of the people of Canada have not benefitted by any of these. There was some lowering in the price of automobiles. Probably FIFTEEN people were affected which is a small percentage out of a population of nine and a half millions.

A few people were benefitted by the receipt tax a few business and professional men, but not the ordinary classes. A few cents have been saved on postage, but who wants to sell their vote, to Mackenzie King for the sake of one or two cents?

In 1923 many business men found that they were losing money through smuggling activities and prison-made goods were brought in and the Canadian merchant found he could not compete with these. Accordingly the Commercial Protective Association was formed with Mr. Sparks a pronounced Liberal at the head. In June 1921 they approached Mr. King and explained the situation. Nothing was done and after a year and eight months all hopes of anything being done were lost. They took the matter up with Hon. H. H. Stevens and the Customs Committee was formed and sittings sat for five months. A few of the incidents in the sworn evidence

(1) Mr. Sparks could get no action.

(2) Mr. Baldwin had R.C.M.P. STABLE TARIFF forces removed from certain points where smuggling was going on. (3) One but a stable one. In the last 5 years firms brought in undervalued goods to the amount of $20,000 and the Liberals settled with them for $3,000.

(3) The Dominion Distilleries brought in $750,000 worth of alcohol (4) Prison made goods imported. (5a) The Moose Axis and Bubby Robb's work brought to light. (6) Mr. Jacques Bureau instead of being condemned was given a senatorship. (7) The treasury of Canada lost $30,000,000 a year.

Dr. Manion stated that millions of dollars worth of alcohol supposed to have been sent to foreign countries came right back into Canada. The 20 a gallon tax which amounted to $32,000,000 was lost. The churches of the Maritime Provinces protested to Mackenzie King of the wholesale debauchery which went on in that territory. Nothing was done and these things will continue if King is re-elected.

PROTECTIVE POLICIES

We stand not for a high tariff policy but for a stable one. In the last 5 years Mr. King's tinkering with the tariff has driven 800,000 people to U. S. If a ton of hay goes to U. S. they charge $1 tax. When they ship it here $2.00 duty is charged.

He cried other examples. 95% of agriculture and other goods the same way. Mr. Meighen says treat them as they treat us.

A big Canadian industry was forced to close down because Belgian goods were brought in here cheaper. We must build up our own country. If they cannot get wages here they'll eventually trek to the country to the south of us. They must get work and wages.

A Stable Tariff Policy will re-open factories and keep boys and girls here. If you don't have work and wages then nothing is cheap. England has tried Free Trade and as a result many out of work. In France the opposite situation prevails. They cannot fill the jobs.

STABLE GOVERNMENT

King has been hanging on by the skin of his teeth. At the present time the Liberals have 101 members, Conservatives 116 and Progressives 24. 130 members will give us a majority. Mackenzie King needs 29. Where will he get them? Practically every province is counted upon to increase the number of Conservative members in the House. The only way to secure Stable Government is to put Arthur Meighen in power.

Those on the platform were—W. H. Ireland, M.P.P.; W. E. Tummon, ex-M.P.; Mr. W. Mayhew, Conservative candidate in Northumberland; Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Post Master General; Rhea Jansen, chairman and Napoleon Mireau, vice-Pres. South Hastings Conservative Association.

85% per cent of asbestos produced here is taken to U. S. and manufactured—the Yankees get the profit.

DIVISION OF NIAGARA POWER

The latest plea of Chicago apologists for the illegal diversion of lake water is that the diversion at Chicago is balanced by the diversion for power purposes at Niagara Falls and that Canada was by treaty allowed larger proportion of the lake water than the United States because of that diversion at Chicago. The Chicago News puts the case thus:

"As a matter of historical fact, Canada has absolutely no case against Chicago or the United States government. The theory that Chicago diverts water from the lakes contrary to the treaty or principle, to the detriment of the people of the Dominion, is utterly baseless. The boundary waters treaty between the United States and Great Britain, ratified in 1910, provided for water diversion above Niagara Falls. It allotted 20,000 cubic feet per second to the United States and 30,000 to Canada, inquiries by an international joint commission preceded the drafting of the treaty. The published reports prove conclusively that under the treaty Chicago was expected to take 10,000 cubic feet of water a second and that Canada demanded and received full compensation for that diversion.

It is a false plea. The boundary waters treaty, providing for the utilization of Niagara Falls power, makes no mention of the diversion of lake water at Chicago. That diversion was not taken into consideration at all by the treaty-makers. The sole reason why Canada was allowed a larger share of Niagara power than was allotted the United States was that a large quantity of the power generated at Niagara Falls on the Canadian side of the river was destined for delivery to the United States, having been contracted for. But for those long-term contracts Canada would have been entitled to no more than half of the water power utilized.

How absurd it would have been to balance the diversion of water at Niagara Falls against the diversion at Chicago! The 10,000 cubic feet per second which flows from Lake Michigan into the Chicago drainage canal is forever lost to the great lakes system, whereas the water "diverted" from the Niagara river above the falls flows back into the river a short distance below the Falls. Navigation interests are not affected in the slightest degree by the Niagara diversion, but the general lake levels are lowered and navigation interests are injured by the diversion at Chicago.

CANADA'S NEEDS

Commenting on an article published in the monthly review of the Midland Bank of England, the Calgary Herald strongly endorses the sentiments therein expressed. The Midland bank refers to Canada's almost exclusive possession of many of the essential, natural products, and says: "From whatever angle the position in Canada is regarded, the vision is one of substantial and well-grounded authority. . . . Given money and the right type of men, there are present all the elements of continued success and sustained growth in wealth and well-being, provided the hopeful prospects are not marred by speculation founded on exaggerated expectations." The comment of the Calgary Herald on this is:

"These remarks may well be heeded by Canadians at this time when they are about to cease their government for the next five years. Given money and the right type of men, we are told, there are present all the elements of continued success." To get men, we require a vigorous immigration campaign, something we have not had for five years. We require sound administration, with special emphasis placed upon national economy and reduction at taxation. We need clean and stable government inspiring confidence in investors. We require stability of tariffs, and this can probably be best secured by allowing the permanent tariff board a chance to work without interference by politicians. We require also a broader national consciousness respecting our great possessions and our splendid position. There is no need at all to refrain from criticism of the American attitude toward Canadian products for fear, as Mr. King said, that we may hurt the feelings of American motor tourists. A servile attitude towards the United States will never do this country any good."

EAST AND WEST

Woodstock Sentinel-Review:

It is said that the east has not responded as was expected to the call of the west for men to work in to harvest fields. Where 50,000 were required, not more than 10,000 have responded, it is said. One explanation offered is that there fewer idle men in the east than there used to be in recent years.

THE C. N. R. AND POLITICS

Farmers' Advocate:

The best way to keep the National railways out of politics is for politicians to keep still and leave them alone. Spokesmen for each party display a feverish anxiety for fear the other side will do something to tc C. N. R. Perhaps both realize what a valuable instrument this great organization would be in the hands of a party when politically controlled.

WOMEN AND POLITICS

Boston Globe:

Six years has been too short a time for newly enfranchised women to learn the political fundamentals. They have been taking the masculine say-so about what to do, and the men have not been anxious to have them do very much. There is a large amount of inertia which must be moved before women can possibly become an equal factor in our political life. Almost all of the best of them are very fully occupied, some with family life, some with business or professional work. Much time will be required before any considerable number of women appear with the ability and the desire to climb the political ladder.

Unique Mural Decoration on Station

Probably unique in artistic undertakings in this country, a mural decoration depicting Mount Sir Donald at Glacier, British Columbia, has recently been completed in the women's waiting room of the Windsor street Station, Montreal. It is painted directly on the wall of the room, and is thus conspicuously different from most similar decorations, which are first painted on canvas.

The artist responsible for the decoration is Hall Ross Perrigard, A.R.C.A., and this is his contribution to the composition now being conducted by the Royal Canadian Academy of which he is an associate. In executing this painting, Mr. Perrigard was confronted with several difficulties, not the least of which was the application of the design upon the wall itself—a problem which involved many questions of physical disabilities which were only conquered by hours of careful study and experiment. There was further the question of balancing the picture with the proportions of the room, and also a minute and careful investigation, involving much reading and observation of conditions and customs at the place of which the picture is a representation, had to be undertaken.

The painting, which is fifteen by twenty feet, covers an entire panel of the wall. On the left, Mount Sir Donald towers into the gold of the sky, and on the right there is a train of trail-riders and their pack horses, the minute details of whose costumes and burdens are depicted with perfect exactitude. The decoration is very rich in color tones, and is framed in a white gold burlap. Subject, composition and color fit in very harmoniously with the room where the painting is located.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

SOPHISTICATED

MODEST OLD SOUL

Mrs. Youngbride (in tears)—George, has left me h-because of you

Her mother—Good gracious, child I'm sure I never gave him any encouragement.

FUNNY REFLECTION

Young Lady—It seems to me that you have a very keen sense of the comical.

The Snob (visibly flattered) — Yes I cannot deny the fact. How have you discovered it?

SEEMED LIKE IT

Mrs. Fleming (reading about the exposition)—"Shall we celebrate the sesquicentennial this year?

Fleming (absently)— Great Scott have we been married that long?

QUESTION

Little Billie—May I ask a question teacher?

Teacher—What it is, Billie?

Little Billy — Are the Sandwich Islands ham or beef?

HE NEVER FAILS!

Teacher—What is this letter, Charles?

Charles—I don't know.

Teacher—Why, don't you know what comes after "r"?

Charles—Yes'm, sister's feller.

"IN THE INTEREST OF THE PARTY."

(By Our Ottawa Correspondent)

When the Royal Canadian Mounted Police interfered with a woman smuggling expensive gowns into Canada for the family of a Liberal Cabinet Minister, Hon. Jacques Bureau dispensed with their services and left anti-smuggling work in the hands of J.E.A. Bisaillon.

Bisaillon was described by Inspector Walter Duncan, investigator for the Finance Department, as a perjurer, a forger, a protector and confederate of crooks. It was also shown in evidence that Bisaillon was the friend, the confidant, the associate of Cabinet Ministers.

But Bisaillon was something more. He was an adviser—a trusted adviser—of the Liberal party.

Even after Bureau and Bisaillon had dispensed with the Mounted Police there were Liberal politicians who believed that things should be made easier for the smugglers. One of these was W. M. Baldwin, Liberal member for Stanstead. Baldwin, whose friendship for the smugglers was shown by the fact that he put up his own cheque for $2,500 to help save Jenkins, king of the Rock Island smugglers, wrote to Bureau on March 31st, 1925, as follows:

"You may remember that I spoke to you in regard to removing the specials along the border in my county.....

Trusting that you will grant my request, I am, with kindest regards," (Page 2711).

On April 7th Bureau wrote to Bisaillon as follows:

"I am told that since several months already, you have people working on the frontier at Rock Island. Would it not be possible to recall them....." (Page 2742).

On April 16th, 1925, Bisaillon replied as follows:

"I also believe that in the interest of the party it would be preferable to discontinue to watch the frontier." (Page 2743).

The "interest of the party" was preserved. The record shows that Mr. Bisaillon met Hon. F.J.A. Cardin, the Acting Minister of Customs, at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal—and that the specials were withdrawn.

The crooks, smugglers and denizens of the underworld that infested the border were left free to help themselves. That they did help themselves is proven by the fact that the report of Messrs. Carlson, Gordon and Dilworth, auditors for the Customs Committee, showed a million dollars worth of goods smuggled in at this point alone.

It is these men—the men who, in the "interest of the party" gave a free hand to fraud—that are presently themselves on September 14th as leaders qualified by character and record to go on governing Canada.

AT BELLEVILLE FAIR

One of the most interesting pieces of work in the Fine Arts Department at the Belleville Fair is a framed manuscript done by a Mr. Mathieson, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, and drawn especially for the Fair. Mr. Mathieson, who is 83 years of age, must have taken incredible trouble over the drawing as it shows the Lord's Prayer printed in very fine letters, so fine that it almost needs a magnifying glass to read it and penned in the shape of a twenty-five cent piece. There are also some very cleverly executed water scenes of Robert Burns done in the same fine script and one or two drawing in the corners of the exhibit.

MOTOR ENTANGLEMENTS

Miss Kathryn Hyman, East Bridge St., driving a Ford coupe, while backing out from the curb on Front Street this morning had her car struck by another driven by G. C. Bonzard, Albion Street. It appears that the Bonzard car was travelling north on the thoroughfare and turned to the left to avoid a collision with a third motor on the opposite side when he caught the bumper of the Ford tearing it off completely. The fender of his own car was also damaged. The parties settled between themselves.

THE FINE WAS PAID

Patrick Hurst, an old offender in police court circles was picked up last night in an intoxicated condition. He pleaded guilty to the charge this morning before Magistrate Jarmon of Bancroft, who presided in the absence of Judge Wills. He was fined $15.00 and $9.00 costs in default of 30 days in jail. The fine was paid.

CAR BACKING OUT IS HIT

Ernest Baldree while driving north on Front Street at 12.15 today, struck the rear left fender of another car owned by E. T. Cherry which was backing out from the curb in front of Hills' book store. The fenders on both cars were jammed considerably in the collision.

YANOVER AGAIN

Harry Yanover was arrested again last night by inspector Naphan and the Provincial police on another charge of selling liquor. Yanover was arrested some weeks ago on a similar offence and was to have been tried before Magistrate Jarmon of Bancroft who presided here this morning, but a busy session prevented and he was tried this afternoon. The second case has been laid over until September 10th. Yanover was allowed out on bail.

TRACTOR USEFUL IN CITY OR FARM

Fordsons Are Being Used Extensively — Twenty Sold Here Recently

The day is not far distant when the tractor will become an indispensable unit in industrial work, according to Wallace R. Campbell vice president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. "The tractor was designed originally for the farm and is that regard it is as necessary to-day as a horse was twenty years ago," he said in an interview. "But we are finding that farm work is only the beginning of a tractor's usefulness—it can be adapted to serve almost every purpose for which power is required. In the United States there are 66 firms manufacturing over 2,000 attachments for the Fordson alone.

"In Canada the use of the tractor in industry has not developed so rapidly, but many employers are realizing that they can save money and save their men by utilizing power wherever possible. In our own works we ask our men to undertake no heavy labour and practically all the inter-departmental carrying is done by mechanical tractors."

At the present time, a number of manufacturers are co-operating to sell equipment in Canada. Six distributing centres in St. John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver have been already arranged and nearly a million dollars worth of equipment has been brought into the country. The equipment includes Tractor bolats, shovels and scoops. In announcing this new development, which is likely to play a great part in the industrial development of the Dominion, Mr. Campbell said that the Ford Company of Canada had identified itself with the plan in the interests of industry.

Belleville Motors, local authorized Ford Dealers, have placed in this district since July 1st, some 20 Fordson Tractors, all of which are giving satisfactory service.

This record is sufficient indication of the ever increasing popularity of the tractor in Hastings and Prince Edward, and speaks well for the progressive attitude of our farmers.

KINGSTON TEAM EASILY BEATEN BY ALEMITE NINE

Exhibition Game on the Armouries Lawn End-ed 12-6

The Supremes of Kingston proved rather poor opponents for the Alemite girls in an exhibition game on the Armouries lawn last night. The labrietors who were strengthened by the addition of one or two fast players were after the offerings of Miss Pappas in a best-case manner and bing up eight tallies in the first two innings. The Kingstonians threatened in the final frame to overtake the east enders but the game was called in the ninth on account of darkness. Jack Alemite's played a smart game of ball and are improving wonderfully. A new pitcher was tried out in the person of Helen Lee late of the Beavers who hurled the last three innings. Janet Miles and Leanetta Curry who have practised with the same aggregation the past summer were also found in the Alemite line-up.

Maude Ray and Edith Boyle were conspicuous in the hitting department hammering out several nice safe blows. Miss Ray also made the best catch of the evening in the fourth inning when she grabbed a hot liner off the bat of Miss Sinclair.

The locals finished the game with a fast double play to prevent any further scoring.

The Supremes managed to fill the bases in the second but the Alemites cut them off without a run.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE CAPITOL

That the Capitol is booking real high class and entertaining vaudeville these days in addition to first class pictures, was evident to all attending the theatre during the first three days of this week. The musical act staged by the London Trio was especially pleasing; the piano, violin and vocal numbers were deservedly well received, and merited the good reception they got. Vaudeville acts of this type are a treat and looked forward to with pleasure by local theatregoers.

AT THE BELLE

Hoot Gibson comes to the front again in "The Arizona Sweepstakes," a Universal Jewel to be shown at the Belle theatre commencing tomorrow. There is a new angle to this latest Gibson picture which the hard-riding Hoot is first seen caught in the labyrinths of a great city's underworld before he finally gets back to his natural stamping—the free and unbounded plains of the West. Romance runs rampant.

It is a thrilling story of an unsophisticated cowpuncher's adventures in a city's gaudy life and of his battle of wits and nerve with an unscrupulous millionaire rancher from the East. Of the many exciting scenes that feature "The Arizona Sweepstakes" the great cross-country race particulated in by Hoot the cowboy and a score or more of real cowpunchers is the most exciting. It is one of the best race stunt has been seen on the screen in a long time.

Dessie Love, who seems destined to become one of the greatest whimsical character actresses of the screen, and William simes have the leading roles in the film, which was adapted from the story of the same name by Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

"Lovey Mary" is a poor little slavey in an orphanage, affectionate, but with no one to love, when she is suddenly given the care of a baby left at the orphanage.

She learns to love this child, who by the way is played by one of the cleverest children to flash across the screen since Jackie Coogan, and rather than let him go back to his disreputable mother, she kidnaps him from the orphanage and seeks refuge in Mrs. Wiggs' cabbage patch.

Mrs. Wiggs' cabbage patch is essentially the background for a comedy but as the story unfolds there is an undercurrent of genuine pathos, too, that gives Dessie Love an extraordinary chance to show that as a emotional actress of the screen she is second to none.

WOMAN BRAVES MOUNTAIN LIFE AND KILLS MOOSE

Various Adventures Come to Mary Hallet in Daily Wanderings

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 2.—(By C. P.)—Meeting a full-grown bull moose face to face in the mountains, when carrying a pack of 55-pounds strapped on her back, and with no protection other than an empty shotgun; hunting ducks on the Peace River during the middle of winter; camping out in the snow for three days in December weather without food, nor blankets; doing a man's work as a daily routine along her northern trap line—these are among the many novel adventures which Miss Mary B. Hallett, the only woman trapper in the Peace River country and one of the few known to history, can describe from actual experience.

* * *

Miss Hallett claims Fort Vermilion as her home town and uses that northern outpost as a base of operations when not living on the lot of her self-built cabin. She makes a trip to the "outside" each year.

"We have been at it for three years now and are still going strong. I know that it is rather unusual for a woman to spend her time in that way, but I am very fond of the life and have done well at it," she said, simply.

* * *

"Dad and I always go over the line together and take pot luck on whatever comes along. Sometimes we have rather hard time of it when we get caught out in the bush at night away from camp and without food or blankets. This has happened more than once, but we always managed to pull through.

"This last winter," she said, "it was only a little more than two months, but the year before I was out all season and succeeded in making more than $800 as my share of the proceeds as well as catching a beautiful silver fox, which I gave away as a Christmas present.

"Sometimes we do have exciting times, dad and I. One day last fall we were travelling through the mountainous country, packed to the very limit, and with our dogs heavily packed, when we ran into a full-grown bull moose. The only gun we carried with us was an old double-barrelled shotgun which we had taken along to kill rabbits for our food. It was unloaded at the time.

"We had just crossed a deep ravine when we almost ran into the moose coming up the other side. We had no time to load the gun, but stopped short in our tracks. Things looked interesting for a while. Then the moose, evidently more surprised than we were, beat a hasty retreat and left us in peace.

* * *

"Last winter we saw a rather interesting thing one day when we were travelling along the ice not far from Vermilion. In several places there were air holes in the ice and in one of these we came upon a flock of ducks, several of which we managed to bag. They bade a meal which was very welcome from the usual camp diet."

Miss Hallett declared that her catch last season had included a good variety of beaver, mink, marten, lynx and fox.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use. No addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

The following address was read by Miss Howard Dafoe and Mrs. Pearson was presented with a beautiful mantel clock and serving tray.

Dear Marjorie—

On behalf of this locality, have gathered to night to spend a short time with you as "one of our girls" for the last time.

We are sorry indeed that you are to leave your old home and neighbourhood but we are glad that it will mean the making of another loyal Canadian home which forms the backbone of our nation.

It is needless to say that we shall miss your help in the choir and musical gatherings. Your cheerful and willing help in these capacities has won our unlimited gratitude and admiration.

As a token of these sentiments to accept this gift, the possessions of which we trust will be a "life that binds" you to old friends.

May your future life supremely happy as may this new home which you are about to form be characterized by kindness, patience, love and christian living, and may God's blessing follow you.

Signed

Bertie Rose.
Lena G. Dafoe
Stella Rose.

To the address Miss Marjorie responded. An abundant luncheon was served and all returned home feeling the loss of a very efficient worker.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

and would do so without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all run-down and could hardly get enough to do my housework. I would be in bed three or four days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took ten bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have six grown-up boys and I do not have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off." I would fol be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. NELLIE HORN, 28 St. Matthews Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario.

Do you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recommended to take off such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition.

Easter Is An Occasion That Demands a New Coat

BUTTERICK 6712

The best coats of to-day flare smartly at the sides and have quilting on their collars and cuffs.

STYLE can be measured by inches when it comes to the small girl's coat. The one illustrated answers for all the important occasions in the life of a very young woman of the world—tea on Tuesday, dancing school Thursday, lunch with Daddy and Mummie on Saturday, and Sunday-school on Sunday. Camel's hair twill comes in all the lovely carrot pinks, almond greens and soft blues that are being worn in small circles this Spring. Tuxedo is new and very smart with quilted stitching on the collar and cuffs. Ribbed silk and broadcloth are among the "best coat" materials. Twills are worried are more serviceable.

The Old Love Or New?

CHAPTER VIII.

"THE LADY OF LYONS"

It was the evening of the amateur performance at the "Theatre Royal, Gosport," as Jack Fitzroy had named Minnie's pretty bijou stage, with its scenes and side scenes and heavy dark velvet curtain. No small excitement reigned at the Hall. The audience were arriving rapidly, driving up to the grand entrance in their carriages, partaking of tea and coffee in the antechamber, and settling themselves in the rows of chairs facing the solid blue velvet curtain. Two maids, in quaint fancy dresses, were handing programmes and showing people to their seats, and there was a general fluttering of fans and buttoning of gloves and arranging of silken dresses.

Minnie, in an exquisite toilet of shimmering pale-blue silk, was receiving her guests with a pretty, simple grace all her own, while her father ascended her family and cordially, and the musicians played a soft, dreamy overture, and the young ladies flirted and chattered with their cavaliers, and discussed the programmes with them.

Meanwhile, in the greenroom the company of the Theatre Royal, Gosport, were in the greatest excitement, and poor Captain Brisley, in his double role of stage manager and actor (he had taken the despised role of Beauseant himself), had no sinecure, calling the actors and actresses to order and reassuring them. Constance, looking very pretty and exceeding youthful as Madame Deschappelles, was having a last glimpse at her part, and Bob, before he broke-in-law, was vainly endeavoring to look as if his heavy black moustache belonged to him, and as if how the red braid of Colonel Damas's uniform coat were all in order or less perturbation, and the only crumb of comfort the unfortunate stage manager derived was from Roy who looking very handsome and debonair as Claude Melnotte, was chatting in the quietest manner, as if nothing were quite an everyday occurrence.

"I hope Miss de Vitry is not growing faint-hearted," said Captain Brisley, crossing over to his side. "These other good people are driving me crazy. Where is she, Roy?"

She is coming immediately," said Constance, glancing up from her pamphlet; and even as she spoke Annette came in quickly, looking very beautiful in her rich dress.

"I am glad all this bath is over," said Roy, as he went forward to meet her. "I think these rehearsals have been tiring to you, Annette; you have looked so pale and weary sometimes the last few days."

"I am not tired," she answered, quickly; "but I, too, shall be glad when it is over, Roy."

She fitted her eyes to his as she spoke, and something in their expression, so quietly tender and real, struck him. "Is anything the matter, my darling?" he said, tenderly. "Are you well, Annette?"

"Yes, quite," she answered, quietly, passing him; but Roy was not satisfied. "Have I offended you, Nettie?" he said, detaining her.

"You offended me?" she said, softly and tenderly. "Oh! no, no, Roy."

She touched his hand lightly for a moment and passed on, and before he could speak again the tinkle of a little bell told him that it was time to go on; and Annette and Constance went to take their places on the stage.

Has Your Bob Sex-Appeal?

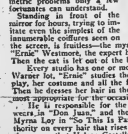

IT is always an unsolvable puzzle to discover how some different motion picture actresses manage to get their hair up into the oddest gyrations of curls and twists; the strangest silhouettes that seem to present difficult geometric problems only a few fortunates can understand.

Standing in front of the mirror for hours, trying to imitate even the simplest of the innumerable coiffures seen on the screen, is fruitless—all the "Ernie" Westmores, the expert hairdresser on the Warner lot, at work. Then the cat is let out of the bag.

Every studio has one or more hairdressers. In the instance of the Warner lot, "Ernie" studies the face of an actress, the role she is to play, her costume and all the facts concerning her screen appearance. Then he dresses her hair in the style he thinks is most becoming and most appropriate for the occasion.

He is responsible for the elaborate coiffure that Estelle Taylor wears in "Don Juan," and the bizarre, decorative hairdress worn by Myrna Loy in "So This Is Paris." He is king supreme and final authority on every hair dress that flies on the Warner playpen lands, which for the season that Helene Costello, when she was instructed to have her hair bobbed for a role in "The Honeymoon Express," came to "Ernie" and had him do the mincing.

OVER 5000 DAILY FAIR'S AVERAGE; DIRECTORS HAPPY

With smiles that betoken "everything has been all right" the directors, officials and exhibitors at the Belleville Fair are sitting back enjoying a well earned rest; their efforts to make it the biggest and best yet having gone the right way and turned the trick.

The attendance which has broken the records of previous years speeded up again today especially augmented by friends of those who knew positively that the exhibits of their friends and relatives had had a red or blue ticket attached. For the exhibitors excitement of the contest was over b ut the satisfaction of knowing that their exhibits had come first was a great attraction to all to come and gaze at their possessions.

While it was, happily, very little required, there was a certain sense of security to all interested in knowing that should anything crop up the Red Cross Hospital stood in readiness. Fires were throughout the fair absent although a little blaze of intentionally burnt papers gave the visitors last evening a thrill.

The pageant "The International Circus" has been one of the big drawing cards. Mr. J. C. Panter who was responsible for adjoining much of the entertainment at the fair in bringing the midway, was himself ill during the fair! However the contract for the attraction was rushed and the department was a huge success.

SOME LITTLE INCIDENTALS

In connection with the pageant, a little drama was staged all by itself and unknown to most of the persons who witnessed the spectacle. This was in connection with the "Shorey Twins". Every one knows the precious little doll like couple who posed as Tom Thumbs successors and when it came to choosing a little person to ride Spark Plug of the ring, Betty was chosen. Instead of representing the little Jean confided to the chaperone that she'd like to have a ride it but she knew Betty would do it better than she could". Of course every one knew that either could have ridden just a delightfully as the other but as there was room for but one Betty happened to be the lucky one.

Harold Boyd, one of the clowns, whose name was inadvertently omitted from the account of the pageant on Tuesday, has won a place in the hearts of the hundreds who have seen and seen again the brilliant circus.

OVER THE FAIR

That the fair will go over the top this year, there is not the slightest doubt and its success is largely attributed to the officers of the Fair Board, also the members of the Parks Board who have worked hand in hand for its success.

Up to this morning the attendance for the three days this year was 15,316, an increase of over 5,000 over the three days last year.

The attendance this afternoon was large and it is confidently expected there will be many present this evening when the pageant will be repeated and fireworks displayed.

In front of the grandstand this afternoon, all the prize winning animals were paraded and it was a procession of fine stock from Hastings and adjoining counties. It was the best display ever seen in this district.

The various concessions at the fair have been largely patronized and the concessionaires profess to think the fair is the best ever seen in this part of the Province. The slogan, a bigger and better fair has been realized.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 3.—Opening prices: Wheat, October ¼c lower to ¼c higher at 1.39 to 1.39¼. November ¼c higher at 1.29 2-8. December ¼ to 3-8c higher at 1.24 to 1.28 1-8. May ¼c to ½c higher at 1.33 to 1.33¼. Oats: October 1-8c higher at 46 3-8. Dec. ½c to 1-8c higher at 46¾ to 1-8.

Fair Attendance

Last year was a record in regard to attendance at the Belleville Fair when 15,760 persons passed through the gates during the four days.

This year that number will be increased to a very considerable extent. During the first three days this week, the total paid admission was 15,360. The figures for these days and the same days last year are as follows:

Tuesday	1807	2500
Wednesday	4202	6480
Thursday	4292	6180
Total for 3 days	10,101	15,360

Increase over last year for three days—5,259.

LIKED THE CAMP AT QUINTE PARK WROTE THANKS

Letters From Tourists Tell of Pleasure They Had Here

From many sources the City of Belleville is receiving highly complimentary statements about the excellence of the new Quinte Park Tourist Camp. A number of the tourists have been so impressed that they have written to express their satisfaction and to let the people here know how well they appreciate the accommodation that is furnished.

Mayor Graham has just received the following commendatory letter from Mr. H. B. Heard of the Champion Portain Company, of Detroit, Mich.:

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31, 1926.

"To the Mayor of Belleville, Ont.,

Hon. Sir:—

I had the pleasure of stopping at the tourists camp donated by your City. I was very much impressed with this ideal tourist camp. It is not out of the way and is kept up so nicely. I might add this was the only free tourist camp I had camped at during the three weeks of my touring.

Your City is beautiful and well worth while for a tourist to camp overnight and see your City instead of just driving thru.

Thanking you and your City for the courtesy, I am,

Very truly yours,

"H. B. Heard."

The following brief note was received from Hev. F. G. Kirkpatrick, of Carrying Place, Ont., by the Chamber of Commerce.

27th, July, 1926

"I was a member of an automobile party that recently lunched at your splendidly appointed free tourist camp. An overcast which was left behind you looked after by the caretaker and returned to us when we came back.

(Rev.) F. G. Kirkpatrick."

LIBS. LOSE GROUND IN ONTARIO CONS. EXPECT TO ELECT 72 MEN

Ottawa, September 3.— Claims made by Government quarters in Ontario based on reports from Toronto, regarding the election outlook in Ontario are that Mr. aMcgenzie King's handful of a following from this province in the last Parliament will be reduced by at least a quarter in the next. After last October's election, Mr. King's party had only eleven out of the eighty-two seats, his total following being raised to thirteen through the support of the one Progressive and the one Independent elected. The Conservatives held sixty-eight seats. The Government now claims that on the issues of this election. Mr. King's party will lose at least four seats. Conservatives expect to retain not fewer than seventy-two members.

One of the signs of the increased weakness of the King party in Ontario is the difficulty it has had in securing candidates. Liberals of standing in various communities have refused nomination, although brought personally by Mr. King and other party leaders to accept. In consequence, the party organization is reported to be concentrating its efforts on about fifteen ridings. Otherwise unable to secure suitable candidates in two such ridings, it has persuaded former members of the Legislature to resign their seats and accept nominations.

LOVE TRIANGLE NOW REVEALED IN SHOOTING CASE

Murdered Man Was Lured To Spot By Faked Telegram

Canterbury, Eng., Sept. 3.—A triangle case with sensational features was unfolded by the prosecuting attorney today in the arraignment of Alphonse F. A. Smith, on a charge of murdering John Thomas Derham at Smith's villa, Stella Marina, Whitstable.

Smith is the grandson of the late Hugh Ryan of Canadian Pacific Railway building fame; Derham, who was killed, August 12, came of a well known British family.

The prosecutor charged that Smith, actuated by fierce jealousy of Derham, lured him to Stella Marina with a telegram signed in the name of Mrs. Smith, and then shot him.

EXTRA MAIL SERVICE TO, FROM, BELLEVILLE

Because of representations made on the subject by the Chamber of Commerce, Belleville is to have additional and improved Railway mail service.

It was ascertained that for some inaccountable reason, C.N.R. train No. 8 having Toronto 1.20 p.m. which was delivering mail at Oshawa, Bowmanville and other points to the west, omitted Belleville from the service. The matter was taken up with the District Superintendent of Postal Service at Ottawa, and a letter has just been received from Mr. Low, the District Superintendent, stating that mail for Belleville from Toronto will now be carried by this train and Belleville Post Office will also despatch mail to Ottawa by the same train.

CUSTOMS PROBE HAS SHUT DOWN TILL AFTER 14TH

Further Quiz Into Liquor Manufacture to be Held in Ontario

St. John, N. B., Sept. 3. — The Customs Commission has adjourned to meet at some unspecified date after the election. This morning when R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission Counsel, informed them that the whole situation in New Brunswick had been revealed, Sir Francis Lemieux suspended the sittings until the vote has taken place. In doing so, he said, that he thought it was the wish of those with whom he had consulted that the inquiry should proceed no further at the present.

A Conference will be held at Ottawa between Sir Francois, and the two counsels, R. L. Calder, K.C., and W. F. O'Connor, K. C., as to the future movements of the commission, but the Commissioner stated today that unless there was some reason for a change, the next sitting of commission, would take place at Prince Edward Island toward the end of the month.

Before the adjournment, Mr. O'Connor informed the commissioner that newspapers which would probably be there has been a pressing demand in the repeated, for a further investigation of the liquor interests in Canada and their relation to smuggling practices. Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, accountants, were now engaged in examining distilleries all over the country, said Mr. O'Connor, and he had under his hand files and material in regard to their operations. As far as he was concerned, he was in a position to go ahead with this branch of the investigation at any time.

"Where?" asked Commissioner.

"In Ontario," replied Mr. O'Connor, adding that this was a branch of the investigation that must be treated, as he was treating it now, in public.

Mr. Commissioner said that he thought there should be an adjournment until after the election.

The following points report good yields: La Riviere, 27 bushels; Cartwright, 20 to 28 bushels; Napinka, 25; Macdonald and Minnedosa, 20; Westbourne, 35 to 45, and Brandvardine, 25 to 35 bushels to the acre.

Saskatchewan; Grenfell, 26 bushels; Sinclair, 24; Kelsey, 24; Roubaix, 30; Valour, 28 to 30, and Glamis, 35 bushels to the acre.

BAD WEATHER AGAIN PROMISED FOR NEXT YEAR

"Averages" May Be Normal Yet Crops Are to Suffer

Boston, Mass, Sept. 3.—Herbert Janvin Browne, long range weather forecaster of Washington, still holds to his predictions that weather conditions during the next two crop seasons in Northern and Southern hemispheres may expect danger the world's food supply. Writing in protest to the Boston Globe against a misinterpretation of his remarks, he went into a detailed explanation as follows:—"No one has made any forecast that either this year or next year would be "summerless". For three years past I have made forecasts that the crop season of 1926-1927 in the Southern Hemisphere and the crop season of 1927 in the Northern Hemisphere would witness a return of conditions in 1816, the historically famous "year without a summer."

"I have forecast repeatedly that crop conditions in two hemispheres, as above outlined, will be so seriously affected by abnormal weather as to endanger the food supply of the world. That means violent swings from heat to cold, from drought to food. It means wrong weather at the wrong time, and yet the so-called "average" of temperatures and rainfall could be normal."

COMES FROM ENGLAND TO HANDLE NERVE CASE SPEED IS THE ESSENTIAL

New York, Sept. 3.—Sir James Purvis Stewart, senior physician of Westminster Hospital, London, and one of the foremost neurologists of England, arrived today on the Mauretania. He will go at once to Montreal, where he was hurriedly summoned to handle a case. Sir James would not discuss the urgent case, saying it is a "private matter". Sir James left England on the Mauretania an hour after he received an urgent cablegram, motored to Southampton and caught the liner without a passport or other credentials.

The British State Department arranged while he was enroute to New York that he be allowed to enter and proceed to Montreal.

MAN AND WIFE DIE WHEN PLANE CRASHES, BURNS

Mechanician Escaped as Machine Nose-dived in a Fog

Letherhead, Surrey, Sept. 3.—Capt. H. R. Leavey and his wife were burned to death and Arnold Keene, mechanician, was critically burned when a small aeroplane in which they were flying from Bognor to London, nose-dived at Bookham, near here, and burst into flames.

Mrs. D. W. MacFarlane, on whose farm, the machine crashed, said she thought that Leavey was flying low at the time in an endeavor to find a way through the fog.

Keene was able to get out of the machine when it was set on fire.

TWO TORONTO WORKERS HURT AND ONE DIES

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 3.—When a steel beam fell upon him, striking him on the chest, Archibald Wade, steel worker employed in the construction of a roundhouse in connection with the new waterfront viaduct, was fatally injured here today. Fred Hill, Midland, Ont., another workman, was also injured and was rushed to the hospital where an X-ray examination will determine the extent of his injuries.

TUMMON FORCES READY FOR FRAY MEETINGS DAILY

For Next Ten Days Campaign Here Will Be Spirited

It took Colonel Vanderwater two weeks to the day to make up his mind to run as Liberal Candidate here.

He was offered the nomination two weeks ago tonight.

Announcement was officially made today of his acceptance

And so the campaign here is on.

After several rumors of acceptance and of refusal and a number of meetings of the Liberal executive here, the most recent one last night, the Liberals of South Hastings came into the open today and announced that the Colonel would oppose Mr. W. H. Tummon.

And immediately interest in the election locally blossomed forth for with the possible chance up till today of an acclamation, it had not been showing any particular life.

Immediately a stir was created around the Conservative headquarters where the workers, complete in numbers and ready as to instructions, in the event of a fight, at once started on their duties.

Mr. Tummon will speak at a series of meetings from now until election day, starting with one in the City Hall here tomorrow (Saturday) night. The whole riding will be visited. It is expected that many from the riding will be here for tomorrow night's meeting.

He has already held meetings in Tweed, Stirling and Madoc where the enthusiasm for Mr. Tummon and for the Conservative leader, Premier Meighen, has been shown to be unbounded.

Colonel Vanderwater's announcement asked for the votes of South Hastings people on the ground that he said) that only a short space of time was left and he would be unable to "see them all."

LENDS $50,000,000 TO HIS COUNTRY

Satisfactory Terms Reached Without Possibility of Stock-Jobbing

Ottawa, September 3.—"This settlement has been reached without any possibility of stock-jobbing," regarded Sir Henry Drayton, acting Prime Minister, and former Minister of Railways, commenting on the settlement of the Grand Trunk Pacific debenture stock dispute, announced from London. If the proposal of the former Government in the last session of Parliament had been accepted, said Sir Henry, companies in the Canadian National Railways system would have been authorized to issue substituted securities, guaranteed by the Canadian Government to retire the existing obligations, without further reference to the Canadian Parliament. This would have meant public speculation in the stocks affected and a repetition of what, in their opinion, said Sir Henry, the Conservatives, then in opposition, objected for that reason, he added, and as a result "the proper business course was followed, the matter was left in the hands of gentlemen of the highest probity and a settlement was reached without any possibility of stock-jobbing. The arrangement that has been entered into must be submitted to the Canadian Parliament."

Sir Henry was chairman of the royal commission known as the Drayton-Ackworth Commission of 1919, which investigated the claims of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk properties, afterwards amalgamated with the Canadian National Railways. e says that despatches from London are incorrect in saying that the commission "classed as worthless" the Grand Trunk Pacific four per cent. debentures under discussion. It was later, in 1921, that a subsequent board of arbitration considered the general question of the value of Grand Trunk Railway preference and common shares. A majority award of this board found such shares "worthless." "No question as to the value of the Grand Trunk Pacific four per cent. perpetual debentures was before either the royal commission or the board of arbitration," added Sir Henry.

EVIDENCES OF TORTURE

Chicago, September 3.—Believed to have been tortured to death with fire, gasoline and a rope, the body of a man was found in a field near Chicago Heights today. Police attributed the killing to a bootlegger' war that has claimed seven lives in the suburb.

A rope was around the neck and the clothing had nearly been burned off the body which was charred sufficiently to make identification difficult. Police said it appeared that gasoline had been poured on the man's clothes.

PREMIER GIVEN WARM WELCOME

Crowds at Palace Station to Gret Him and Patenaude

Quebec, Sept. 3.—Whether Quebec city will vote for the candidates of the Conservative party is a matter which can only be determined on September 14, but as to the cordiality of feeling towards the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the party, there can be no doubt, as a result of the series of demonstrations held here Thursday, when he came to the Ancient Capital to bring his message of good cheer, goodwill and unity. What applies to Mr. Meighen applies also to his chief lieutenant in this province, the Hon. E. L. Patenaude.

There was nothing in the reception, in the throngs which gathered to greet him with right good heart, and to bear him at the afternoon meeting, but that was encouraging to a leader.

Mr. Meighen showed that he was encouraged. He showed it clearly when his eye fell upon the crowd, which had waited nearly two hours at the Palace Station for him, the time of his arrival being much behind schedule. The luncheon hour was sacrificed for the chance to see the Prime Minister of Canada.

The layer rounds of the Palace Station was filled completely with people. In the rear of the rotunda, and running lengthwise, benches had been erected and on these, tier upon tier, people were standing, so as to be able to look over the heads of the crowd below.

KINGSTON KIWANIANS TO VISIT LOCALS

On Thursday afternoon next, September 9th at four o'clock, members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club will do battle with the local Club in an inter-city softball game in this city. The spot where the set-to will take place will be announced later and it promises to be worth seeing. Following the game the local Kiwanians will be hosts at a six o'clock dinner at the Queen's Hotel.

CASE IS REMANDED

The trial of Harry Vanover on a charge of keeping liquor for sale was opened yesterday afternoon, and most of the evidence was taken which occupied the greater portion of four hours. Magistrate Jarman who was on the bench remanded the case till the 10th of September.

BOGUS CHEQUES CHARGE

Garratt E. Lenn, a stranger, was arrested by Detective Truelock and Sergt. Boyd yesterday, and charged in police court this morning with passing bogus cheques on local merchants. Lenn was about to take a taxi to the depot when he was taken into custody. He was remanded for one week and in the meantime his previous record will be looked into.

OBITARY

NORMA PYMER

Miss Norma Pymer, daughter of Mrs. N. B. Pymer, 283 Coleman street, died early this morning in Toronto General Hospital after a short illness contracted while visiting a friend in Toronto. Deceased who was twenty one years of age, leaves her mother, one sister, Mrs. McWilliams of Peterboro, and her grandmother, Mrs. Norvell of Belleville. The remains will be taken to Picton for interment.

GIRL HIT BY CAR

While running across the street in front of her home, Vivian Hill, 10, of the Caldwell Block, Front street, was knocked down by a car driven by Mr. Joseph Porritt today at two o'clock. The girl had evidently started across to watch the band go by and did not observe the approaching motor. Mr. Porritt, who was going at a very low rate of speed, tried to avoid striking her by swerving to the curb but she was hit by the fender and knocked to the pavement.

WEDDING BELLS

MARTYN—PEARSON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson on the 6th Concession of Sidney was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, September 1st, when their daughter, Marjorie Lorraine, was united in marriage to Mr. Avory R. Martyn of the 4th Concession. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. W. E. Honey at 11 o'clock, the wedding march being played by Miss Norma Martyn, sister of the groom. The bride, charmingly attired in coral georgette and carrying red roses, was given away by her father. She was attended by Miss Nellie Martin, also a sister of the groom, wearing ashy georgette, and the bride's brother, Mr. Orlif Pearson, was the best man. About thirty-five guests were present, some from Detroit, Ivanhoe, Springbrook, Stirling and other places, and the company feasted sumptuously at tables heavily laden with good things. There was a rich array of presents, both useful and beautiful. The groom's gift to the bride was a wrist watch, to the bridesmaid and pianist, bar pins, and to the groomsman, a tie pin. The happy couple took the afternoon train for Toronto, the bride travelling in a blue suit with fawn colored hat. After their return they will reside on the 4th Concession of Sidney.

CONROY—SMITH

In Bridge Street United Church this morning the wedding was quietly solemnized, Dr. F. E. Malott officiating, of Evelyn Pearl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Smith, 62 Alexander street, and Captain John B. Conroy of London, England.

The bride, who was charming in her travelling gown of lipstick red, black needlepoint coat with black fox trimming and hat to match, was given away by her father.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's parents and after the wedding breakfast the happy couple left for Montreal where they will embark for Europe to spend their honeymoon, visiting friends in Egypt and on the Mediterrean.

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectful ly soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,
ROSCOE VANDERWATER.

PREMIER MEIGHEN IN

Premier Meighen is in Quebec where he is delivering his speeches which clarify the situation, to people who are receiving these messages of good cheer, good will and good unity, with a measure of cordiality, that, it is the confident hope, for the good of themselves and of Canada as a whole, will be translated into enough votes on Sept. 14 to elect many more Conservative candidates in Lower Canada.

Yesterday's great reception in the Ancient Capital was a happy augury of this new National Unity. The crowds at Quebec missed their luncheon to wait to see the Premier whose train was behind schedule. And they pressed in such numbers at the Palace station that Mr. Meighen perforce had to speak.

As he came in through the gates with Mr. Patenaude, Senator D. O. L'Esperance, Hon. L. G. Belley, Col. O'Meara, candidate in Quebec South Pierre Audet, candidate in Quebec East, and C. S. Lockwell, candidate in Quebec West, the crowd broke into a cheer and a stop was made to permit the Premier and Mr. Patenaude to say a few words. The visitors then walked through the crowd, with the assistance of the city police and station police, who formed a pathway for them. In the outside lobby, leading to the rotunda, facing the ticket offices, was also a crowd, and outside in the square, still more had gathered to greet him.

That could not but be encouraging to any leader of a political party and Mr. Meighen cannot be blamed if he took courage from the incident.

From coast to coast the word is encouraging to the Conservative party and from now until election day it is hoped the Dominion wide surge toward the only party which can give this country stable government will continue so that Premier Meigen will be enabled to enter Parliament with a working majority and bring, tranquility in politics to this great land.

QUEBEC A BITING-PHRASE

It is conceded that smuggling was common long before the King government came into power. In fact, there never was a time when smuggling was not common at the Canadian frontier. So long as there are import duties, so long will there be people who, for their own advantage, will try to evade the payment of those duties. And so Mr. Meighen, in his speech at Montreal made no pretence that smuggling was unknown under Conservative governments. He frankly admitted it. But he added, "While all governments have to fight smugglers, the King government went into partnership with smugglers."

It is a stinging phrase—a serious arraignment. Justification for it is contained in the evidence taken before the parliamentary committee which investigated the charges against the administration of the customs department. This is the evidence: W. M. Baldwin, Liberal member for Stanstead, wrote to Hon Jacques Bureau, then minister of customs, as follows. "You may remember that I spoke to you about removing the specials along the border in my county. Trusting that you will grant my request, I am, with kindest regards," etc. Mr. Bureau promptly wrote to Bisallon, then high up in the customs service: "I am told that, since several months already, you have people working on the frontier at Rock Island. Would it not be possible to recall them?" And Bisallon replied: "If the party, it would be profitable to discontinue to watch the frontier."

FRENCH RECORDS IN AIR

NEW YORK TIMES:

While American aviators hold many records for speed, it remains true that success eludes them in the biggest things of all. In altitude the French are first and apparently unapproachable. On August 23, Callizo went up 41,811 feet, breaking his own record of 39,676 feet. The American record, held by Lieutenant John A. Macready, is 38,704 feet.

The French are also supreme in non-stop flight. In July, Captain Girier and Lieutenant Dordilly flew from Paris to Omsk, Siberia. The air-line distance is 2,937 miles, but they probably covered more than 3000 miles. They used a Breguet plane driven by a 500-horsepower Hispano-Suiza engine. The record previously made was 2,700 miles from Le Bourget to Basra, on the Persian Gulf.

Americans have done wonders in air setting up records for speed over short distances—sprints through the air similar to the 100-yard dash of the runner. Over a course of three kilometers Lieutenant Alfred J. Williams of the navy recently flew at the rate of 266 miles an hour, but a French pilot, Benet, has dusted over a similar course at a speed of 278 miles. Lieutenant Williams is to make as attempt to fly even faster in a plane of special construction.

Such flying would seem to be a nerve-racking business, but the air sprinters always look as cool a cucumbers when getting ready for their daring work. It is not flattering to us as the pioneers of aviation that a Frenchman, Captain Rene Fonck, will shortly take the air for a non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Letters to the Editor

A SIDNEY OUTLOOK

To The Editor of the Intelligencer.

It may not be inappropriate during this splendid Fair Week when everything is centred in Exhibition Park, to recall the fact that my Grandfather the late William Hutton at one time was Deputy Minister of Agriculture and as such another Deputy Minister of Education for Upper Canada, wrote in the book in which I now live, the following prophetic words to his mother in Dublin:—

"If Belleville goes on advancing as it has done the fields at the back of our farm will soon be wanted for a Town Park. I had not the most remote idea that this country had approached so far to civilization. The children as well as the ladies are most beautifully dressed. Do not have the idea that anything will do for Canada. Canada wants and is worthy of the best."

It took just ninety-three years to fulfil the prophecy and much water has run under the Moira Bridges since that letter was written in 1833. Let us also have the prophetic and practical wisdom and insight of Belleville in this year of grace 1926 BUT let us realize it in THIS generation.

Yours,
W. N. Pooton.

CANADA PROSPEROUS SAYS SIR FREDERICK

Montreal, Que., Sept. 3.—On his return from a trip to Western Canada Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, Gen. Mgr. of the Bank of Montreal, expresses himself as most optimistic concerning the future of the Western Provinces. "The visit I made," he said, "for me to Canadians to keep before us is the necessity for team play" he said. "No one of the five provinces of Canada can accomplish much as a separate unit. We must, and we will, work out some improved scheme of co-operation so that the Dominion may achieve the best results. United, the Dominion of Canada has a great future". Sir Frederick that the development of west was so rapid that a yearly visit was necessary to visualize perfectly the picture, to absorb the atmosphere and to get the point of view of the Canadians west of the Great Lakes.

He outlined the progress that British Columbia and the prairie provinces have made in the last few years.

A small company of technical assistants is in with Mr. Cooke, and these will proceed at once with the completion of arrangements for the technical end of the tour. All booking and other plans have long since been ready, and the balance of the scenery and effects will be brought over when Mr. Lang himself arrives.

D. E. Lang, of Montreal, who is responsible with F. B. O'Neil, of London, England, for the tour of Matheson Lang, will act as advance representative across Canada and back, and will leave shortly in this connection for the Pacific Coast.

MAYOR COOKE ARRIVES AS ADVANCE GUARD OF MATHESON LANG TOUR

Mayor Cooke, general manager and technical director for Matheson Lang, the famous romantic actor, arrived on the C.P.O.S. Montclair on Friday, bringing with him a large shipment of properties, scenery and equipment, to be used on the forthcoming transcanadian tour of the star.

Mr. Cooke will consult with theatre managers along the route to be followed by Mr. Lang and his company, with a view to adjustment of scenic and other accessories to fit the various stages. He observes that in general standard of production that it is necessary to make these arrangements ahead of time, to ensure adequate stage setting.

TORONTO LEADS WITH 10 GAMES OVER NEXT TEAM

Only a Miracle Can Stop Battling Leafs For the Title

The Toronto Leafs, long contenders for the International League title, have reached the top and only a baseball miracle is going to keep the Canucks from winning this year's pennant. Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles have held the pennant for seven consecutive seasons. During the majority of these years the Leafs have been close contenders and several times grabbed the lead from the Orioles, only to slump when the test came and allow Baltimore to climb to the pinnacle. Up until a few weeks ago, the present season was a repetition of many of the previous. Baltimore was off to an early start, with Toronto and Newark following close behind. The Bears reached the top, but fell back after a few days. Toronto then came to the fore, as the Leafs of past seasons had done. This season, however, they are gradually increasing their leading margin.

Baltimore at present is fourth position, behind Buffalo, opened a series at Toronto. The Leafs, however, proved no respecter of teams in their pennant drive and downed the Orioles 7 to 4.

The visitors opened with a strong attack and drove drove Fisher to cover in the first two innings scoring four runs against Toronto's ace. The Canucks, as has been their custom of late, finished strongly, scored six runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings to clinch the game. Meanwhile Newark was losing an 11 to 1 verdict at Rochester and the Toronto lead was increased to ten games.

Reading lost another game the Bisons taking a 14 to 9 victory at Buffalo, Jersey City defeated Syracuse, 9 to 6, three runs crossing the plate in the eleventh inning, when Martin dropped a fly ball.

Another addition to Queen's rugby squad was announced today in the person o. "Moke" Godwin, former star of the Kingston Collegiate Institute team, who is enter in Queen's this fall.

Godwin has been playing snapback for collegiate team and is reported as one of the best prospects the Tri-color have. He is big and husky, and would fit in well on the line, where heavy losses have been sustained through the graduation of McKelvey, Norrie, Adams and Muirhead.

Captain Frank Frisch of the New York Nationals has not yet rejoined the team, after jumping it in St. Louis, following an alleged row with Manager McGraw. The latter has issued a number of statements calculated to minimize the trouble. Until the complete facts came out, no verdict in the matter can be reached, but the affairs of a baseball club are esoteric, only vague rumblings reaching the public occasionally.

Even though Frisch should eventually return, it is believed he has outlived his usefulness as a Giant. McGraw also announces the release of Catcher Frank Snyder on waiver to St. Louis, and the signing of Del Vormar, hard-hitting backstop from Louisville.

GEO. CALDWELL WON 3 STRAIGHT WITH P. DIRECT

Rose Todd, Toronto Mare, Captured Free-for-all on Thursday

Two good speeding events were the chief attraction at the fair yesterday afternoon and they certainly provided good sport for those who are interested in horse racing. It was no walk away in either event, but each heat was well contested and it was only on the home stretch that the winners could be picked. The track was in fine condition and conducive to good time being made. Although the fourth and final heat of the free for all was not completed until nearly 8.30, the great number of spectators remained until the finish and were rewarded for their patience by witnessing a good finish on a fast heat.

2.30 CLASS—PURSE $300

In this event there were six entries and Peter Direct, a bay gelding owned by George Caldwell, of Port Hope, was a general favorite. He proved to be entitled to first money by taking three straight heats. Jim Todd Jr., owned by A. T. Johnson, of Petcrboro, was a strong contender and in each heat was only beaten out by a slight margin. The summary of this event is as follows:

Peter Direct, Geo. Caldwell, Port Hope	1 1 1
Jim Todd, Jr., A. T. Johnson, Peterboro	2 2 2
Armdaster, C. Moise, Port Hope	2 5 3
Victoria Patch, F. F. Metcalfe, Kinston	4 3 4
Billy Sunday, J. C. Lively, New Liskeard	5 4 4

Time—2.19½, 2.19½, 2.19¾.

FREE FOR ALL—PURSE $300

Four heats were necessary to decide the winner which proved to be Rose Todd, owned by R. Payne, of Toronto. In the first two heats she won by a slight margin and in the third heat, June Custer, owned by W. Brie of Weston, went strong and raced out first ahead of Rose Todd. While Hal Unke, owned by L. E. McKeown, of Toronto, was a favorite horse with some but its best performance was the second heat when he finished second. Only four horses were entered in the event and in each heat it was a horse race from start to finish. The summary was as follows:

FREE FOR ALL—PURSE $300

June Custer, W. Brie, Weston	2 4 1 2
Hal Unke, L. E. McKeown, Toronto	4 2 3 3
Alfred 123, J. Akey, Petrboro	3 3 2 4

Time—2.15¼, 2.15¼, 2.15¾, 2.15½.

$2,000 REWARD FOR THIS MAN OFFERED BY A-G

Joseph Henry Sottile is Vitally Connected With Illicit Liquor

The Ontario Provincial police acting on instructions from Attorney-General Nickle are offering a reward of $2,000 for information leading to the arrest of Joseph Henry Sottile, wanted on a charge of manslaughter. Sottile is wanted by the American as well as the provincial authorities of Ontario, and the reward is available to police forces as well as others.

The circular issued by Gen. V. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of Ontario Provincial Police, describes Sottile as follows: Age 33 years, weight about 220 pounds, height five feet nine inches, dark eyes, black hair, good dresser, Italian and Jewish.

The circular also states that in the event of more than one person claiming to be entitled to reward, the reward will be apportioned by the Attorney-General.

The warrant for Sottile's arrest has been issued and the police chiefs throughout the province are being urged to make every effort to locate and arrest the man.

"He is vitally connected with illicit importation of illicit alcohol into Ontario," was Mr. Nickle's sole comment in connection with the offer of the reward.

BLACKWELL AS COACH

Toronto, Sept. 3.—"Lex" Blackwell will coach the University of Toronto, Ontario rugby union seniors, while "Frankie" McPherson, head inter, will devote most of his attention to the intercollegiate union team this season. Jimmy Douglas, the Arconaut middle wing, insists that he has retired, and that he will coach the University of Toronto intercollegiate and O. R. F. U. senior players will report for practice on Tuesday, September 14.

GAINED 10 POUNDS IN 22 DAYS

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

"Then, I Learned How to Shave."

"I had developed the habit, like lots of fellows, of shaving year after year with the same old "safety".

"I was out camping with a chap who used a Valet AutoStrop Razor and was very enthusiastic. 'Just try it,' he urged.

"Results! What a difference! It is all in the stropping, I learned.

"I'll never go back to the ordinary "safety" because I'll never be content with the blade giving only a few shaves, the blade getting duller with every shave. Believe me, those two weeks convinced me that I had been in a rut as far as shaving is concerned."

This is the experience of many men. Maybe you are in a habit rut. Have you tried the Valet AutoStrop Razor which automatically sharpens its blades without removal—cleans too, without removal?

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

A good director and good actors are their best.

That, in brief, is the verdict on "Lovely Mary", the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture directed by King Baggot, which opened at Griffin's theatre last night. Bessie Love, William Haines, Mary Alden and Vivia Orden have the leading roles and more capable artists would have been difficult to find.

"Lovely Mary" is essentially a comedy, but there is an undercurrent of pathos whose interpretation affords Bessie Love a remarkable opportunity for a convincing display of her exceptional histrionic ability.

The story of "Lovely Mary" has been taken from the book of that name by Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and the characters and locale are the same in both stories.

BLACKSTONE AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

Tonight at the Griffin Theatre, Blackstone will demonstrate that every alleged supernatural spiritualistic manifestation can be duplicated in a purely scientific and natural manner. The necromancer does not go so far as to tell this an expose of the methods employed by dealers in the occult but he does assert that there is no experiment ever conceived that he cannot duplicate on a fully lighted stage within full view of an audience and still escape detection. The "spook" festusive will be provided in addition to the regular Blackstone performance which includes "The Vanishing Horse" and scores of other divertising episodes. Tonight's demonstration will not be repeated. Blackstone will allow for the first time in this city his new repertoire of original card tricks. He will also attempt to escape from a stout packing case.

A TIME BELLE

Drug store cowboys, a species of male nuisance of recent development, can see in "The Arizona Sweepstakes," Universal-Jewel now, being screened in the Belle theatre, the real thing in the way of cow-boys. In this latest Hoot Gibson starring vehicle a dozen of these real hand-riding men, who learned their lessons in the rough and ready school of the plains are seen in a hair-raising demonstration of how to stay in the middle of a bucking broncho. And with them, riding just a little bit harder than they do, taking a few more chances than they do, is the famous Hoot himself providing thrills and fun in plenty for his vast army of admirers.

The cowpunchers used in "The Arizona Sweepstakes" are a few of the famous troop of Universal ranch riders. In "The Arizona Sweepstakes" both men and ponies were put to a hard test. The great cross-country race which comes as the climax to the picture is one of the wildest and most nerve-racking scrambles of men and horses that has been screened in a long time.

STARTS AT BOTTOM

Duluth, Minn., September 3.—Warren Hill, 34, son of Louis Hill, chairman of the Board of the Great Northern Railway, and a grandson of the late James J. Hill, founder of the system, is learning the railroad business from the ground up. He is swinging a pick as a $2.60 a day section hand at Forveton, Minn.

VEAL PIE POISONOUS

Peoria, Ills., September 3.—Veal loaf was blamed today for the illness of nearly two hundred persons stricken with ptomaine poisoning after the annual picnic of the City Christian Endeavor Societies.

30-DAY TERM FOR TWO MEN

Both Admitted Theft of Material From Paper Mills

Bruce Richardson, 34, and Robert Howard, 21, both of the Township of Thurlow appeared before Magistrate Jarman in police court this morning. They were charged with theft, namely stealing grease and oil from the Hastings Paper Mill on the 20th of July. Both pleaded guilty. Mr. Ingman on behalf of the Crown asked for a short sentence in the cases as Howard is supporting his mother and Richardson is married. The call in delivering sentence, said that although both had committed their first offense, he felt that some punishment should be meted out. They were each given thirty days in the County Jail. They were arrested by Sergt. Clarke and Officer Maclachlan of the Provincial force last night.

HOME-AND HOME GAMES AGAINST TORONTO GIRLS B. H. S. WAIT TWO WEEKS

Belleville High School girls' softball team will meet the Intermediate Champions of Toronto within two weeks. The first game will probably be here in Belleville, so Allan Meagher President of the Bay of Quinte League, which B. H. S. has just won announced today. Mr. Meagher said he had been in conversation over the telephone with Miss Mabie Ray, Toronto who is in charge up there and had made what arrangements are possible at this time. At all events home and home matches will take place.

MR. GEEN TO GUELPH

Owen Sound.—In honor of Mr. R. G. Women Use
Then dispose of this new hygienic help easily as tissue—no laundry

WOMEN by the millions are discarding the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new and scientific way.

A way that offers protection unknown before. A way, too, that solves the old embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in 10 better-class women now employ it.

You can dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

MONTREAL JURY NAMES SLAYER WHO NODS HEAD

Montreal, Sept. 3.—Henri R. Bertrand, secretary of "La Revue Moderne", a local weekly magazine, and former secretary of other businesses conducted by the late J. A. Beaudry, editor and publisher of "Le Prix Courant," is weekly review, was today held criminally responsible by a jury for causing the death of Beaudry on August 14. When the verdict was given Bertrand, who watched the proceedings of the coroner's inquest from the back of the room, nodded his head, but showed no signs of emotion.

The Old Love Or New?

The curtain arose, and the audience, to encourage the performers, greeted them with a round of applause, while some of the men whispered to each other about Annette's beauty.

"What a lovely creature!"

"Who is she?"

"What eyes! What feet! What a complexion!"

The young ladies bowed their thanks for their reception in the most approved professional style, and the play proceeded without any contretemps.

The acting, regarded as an amateur performance, was, on the whole, very fair; while that of Roy and Annette far surpassed the average.

The scene at Melnotte's cottage, when the betrayed girl finds that she has married the gardener's son, was admirably played. Pauline's outraged pride struggling against her passionate love; Claude's remorse at the wrong he has wrought her, his exquisite tenderness, and his deep repentance. Many a bright eye among the audience softened and grew humid, and Minnie Gosport choked back a sob, and put her little face kerchief to the soft blue eyes to wipe away the tears which would come in spite of all her efforts.

Captain Brinley was enchanted; it had surpassed his highest hopes; and when the curtain fell over the fourth act, and Roy went hurriedly off to change his dress for the uniform Claude Jeans in the last act, he went to Annette to add his congratulations to those she had already received.

The girl sat sitting in a low chair by the window, which she had pushed open, and she was leaning her head out, regardless of the bitter night air and driving snow.

"You will catch your death of cold," said Richard Brinley, closing it promptly. "What is the matter? Your head aches, I suppose? Poor child! Never mind; such a success as you have had to-night is worth many a headache. You have mistaken your vocation. Miss de Vitry; you ought to have been an actress."

"It is not too late," said Annette, trying to smile, but looking up at him with intense sadness and sorrow in her face. "It is not too late, is it, Captain Brinley?"

"I think you are destined for another role," he said, bending over her, and smiling kindly. "Do you think we are all blind here? Will you think me very indiscreet if I offer you my congratulations?"

"On my actin?" she said, purposely misunderstanding his question.

"No; on your engagement," she said, quickly. "At least— Oh! Captain Brinley," she went on, brokenly, "you are Roy's friend; let him think kindly of me in the future."

"What do you mean?" Captain Brinley asked, anxiously. "Let at this moment Roy appears, looking considerably heated one in his costume, notwithstanding the dejected appearance he was forced to assume.

"Annette," he said, hastily, "you remain here tonight, of course?"

"Why?" she said, looking at him with sudden alarm.

"Because I met a servant with your cloaks, and she said you had given orders to have them brought down."

"There is some mistake," muttered the young girl, and Captain Brinley, watching her, saw the white change which passed over her face, and wondered what was the matter with her; but there was no time for further query as the call-bell sounded and the business of the fifth act began.

Well as the preceding scenes had been played, these last immeasurably surpassed them. Perhaps it was that the actors had warmed up to their parts and entered thoroughly into the spirit of the play; but Melnotte's anguish at his wife's infidelity, Pauline's intense sorrow, were represented with a reality which was almost too painful to witness. In the last scene it appeared as if Annette spoke with difficulty, while Roy saw that the sweet face raised to his grew very white, as if she felt in her inmost soul the words she was uttering, and his own heart sank with a sudden foreboding of evil.

Very softly and pathetically arose the sweet, rich voice; with what fervor and ease the gray eyes looked up to Roy's as she spoke:

"And you will see him,
And you will bear to him—by—word for word,
All that this heart, which breaks in parting from him,
Would send—are still for ever?

* * * * * *

Tell him, for years I never nursed a thought
That was not his;—that on his wand'ring way
Daily and nightly, poured a mourner's prayers,
Tell him—"

Annette broke down, and there was a sudden silence, during which the audience sat breathless, and Godfrey Bennett muttered to himself:

"This is more than acting—there is something behind."

She went on brokenly, but with increasing passion:

"Tell him ev'n now that I would rather share
His loneliest lot—walk by his side, an outcast—
Work for him, live with him—live upon the light
The Bourbon—but!"

* * * * * *

Then came McInotte's question:

"You love him thus.
And yet doest him?"
And the heartbroken answer:
"Say, that, if his eye
Could read this heart—its struggles, its temptations.

His love itself would pardon that deception!"

* * * * * *

Then came the triumphant denouement of the play and the curtain fell amid triumphant applause, and Mrs. Fitzroy exclaimed:

"I never saw such acting. It is too wonderful."

"She acted as if she felt every word," said Minnie, who had cried openly; and Mr. Bennett muttered to himself:

"There a wonderful depth of passion in that girl, and Roy is evidently very dear to her. What a pity!"

In the greenroom there was general rejoicing at the successful termination of the play. On leaving the stage Captain Brinley had given Annette his arm, for in truth the girl seemed hardly able to stand; and she sank down on the first chair, while Bob Fitzroy, who, in his role of General Damas, had watched her closely, hastily got her some water.

"There is nothing the matter, he said, in answer to the anxious looks. "She is a little overtired and inclined to be hysterical. Leave her alone and she will be all right in a minute or two."

And having successfully diverted the general attention from her, he stood quietly beside her chair until the deadly pallor and faintness passed off, and she was able to thank him for his kindness.

"I am sure we are greatly indebted to you, Miss de Vitry," said Mr. Gosport, coming up with his daughter and Roy, whose arm she leaned. "Yours is the perfection of acting. You have made Minnie weep copiously."

PICTON MEN SAVED AS COAL BOAT SINKS IN MID-LAKE

QUEBEC BREAK SEEN AT OTTAWA AS PROBABILITY

Government Delighted at Reception Given Premier Meighen

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—It is believed here that the reception given Premier Meighen in his tour of Quebec, with its climax in the remarkable demonstration in his honor in Quebec city Thursday night, will have a decided influence on the trend of the election tide throughout the country. The Quebec meeting was the subject of general comment among politicians and political observers in the capital today and the most common expression of opinion was that it left little doubt as to the conclusive success of the Government, at the polls and also nulled the shattering of the Liberal hold on the province and the unqualified defeat of the Mackenzie King party in the country.

Observers in Ottawa detect at the end of the week an unmistakable swing of public opinion towards the Government. They consider it to be country-wide and believe it will be greatly accelerated by the manifestations from Quebec.

A factor that, it is felt here, is determining the result of the election is the realization by the electorate that the country is on the eve of a period of exceptional prosperity," requiring only the assurance of stability in government for its development. It is thought that this fact had determined the mass of the people throughout the Dominion to prevent the development from being regarded through a continuance of the uncertainty as to administration and policy that have prevailed for the last few years.

Having admitted from the outset of the campaign that they themselves had no chance of winning, but were devoting their efforts to perpetuate the Meighen Government from obtaining a conclusive victory, Liberals are now abandoning hope to succeed in the latter attempt. Many of them foresee what they fear will amount almost to the shattering of the party in the result of the polling on September 14.

Meighen and Protection will bring the Exiles home!

CASH COMPANY HELD A PICNIC

Journey to the Outlet Proved Success From Every Angle

The employees of J. & J. Cash and their guests held their first annual picnic, and it proved to be a huge success from every angle. Assemblies at the factory, the party left about 11 a.m. for The Outlet, which they reached shortly after noon. In a few minutes the camp fire was lit and the tea ready to accompany the delicious lunch, which was consumed to the strains of music from the Ottawa phonic. A siesta would not have been out of place after the lunch but the activity of the party never slackened and after some ball play, an adjournment "en masse" to the beach was moved and carried. There surely cannot be a better beach or better bathing anywhere than at the Outlet. The water just right, the beach perfect, and the sun at its best—everyone agreed that it was the "best ever."

After the bathing came the races, which included Ladies' Flat Race, won by Miss Irene Hodgen in very good style, Men's Flat won by Mr. Fio and mixed three-legged race won by Miss Annie Baker and Mr. A. Wesley.

It reached at lunch that not a scrap of food would be left under the heavy onslaught but raw baskets were opened at this stage more tea brewed, and the party sat down to a hearty tea with appetites considerably sharpened by the activities of the afternoon. During tea, prizes for the races presented by J. & J. Cash, Inc., were distributed to the winner by Mrs. Avon McLoud of Scarsdale, New York. The shades of evening were gathering as the tea concluded, so an adjournment was made to a huge camp fire, where stories were told and songs chanted for a couple of hours, concluding with Auld Lang Syne and "O Canada."

Then a few turns round the levels and Mill, with Miss Whiffen at the piano, and into the cars for home, tired and happy.

The most arrangements were in the hands of a competent committee composed of Mrs. Stephenson, Miss L. Whiffen and Miss H. Kemp.

HEAD OF MOOSE TALKS UNION

Norman Heyd, Toronto, Lawyer Quoted in Spokane Interviewed

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 4.—An eventful union of the United States and Canada was prophesied here by Norman G. Heyd, of Toronto, Ontario, newly elected supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose and first citizen of a country other than United States to hold the office. "The most that Canada has to sell goes to the United States," he said in a newspaper interview, "and the most that the United States has to buy is purchased in Canada. The Union of Nations is basically an economic institution that may take some time to work out, but it sure is going to come."

EASTERN JAPAN A STORM CENTRE 35 WERE KILLED

Tokio, Sept. 4.—Reports to Vernacular newspapers in Tokio say that approximately thirty-five persons were killed in a typhoon in central eastern Japan today. The storm was one of the most severe in recent years. At Toyoshina, near the city of Nagoya, a school house collapsed, burying about 100 persons of whom twelve may be dead and a score injured. Three houses were reported damaged there. At Hammamatsu, a clothing factory collapsed and eight persons are reported dead. Earlier reports told of five being killed and possibly fifty injured when terrific windstorm blew a train off the tracks at the same place, but later reports revealed that only a few persons suffered minor injuries.

Two lighters at Kawasaki collapsed and 15 members of crew are missing. Forty military aeroplanes at Akenogahara aerodrome were badly damaged and forty telephone lines connecting Tokio and Osaka are interrupted. Numerous villages paid a toll in death or injury or property damage to the typhoon. Railway and light plants suffered heavily although the damage in Tokio was negligible.

TUMMON RALLY TONIGHT IN THE CITY HALL HERE

Tonight at the City Hall here, Mr. Tummon will hold a rally which will include speeches by himself and Mr. G. W. Leary of Toronto, well-known as a forceful exponent of Conservative policies and a fluent and interesting speaker. There will be an orchestra and community singing led by Mr. Baldwin, secretary of the G.W.V.A. here and a fine tenor soloist; and in addition a musical programme of merit. This meeting will be the first since the Liberal Candidate, Colonel Vander-water has declared officially that he is in the running so be on hand to hear the latest developments in the campaign.

BELLEVILLE GOLF COURSE LONGER BEING DONE OVER

New Greens, Improved Fairways, and Other Changes Under Way

Plans to make the course of the Belleville Golf Club, the oldest course in this part of the country and one of the pioneer clubs of Canada, up to standard were given great acceleration last evening at a meeting of the directors of the club when approval was voted to many changes and improvements which have been mapped out for the course.

These include:

A new system of piping which will carry water to the first six greens and in addition will provide twice the present supply at the club house.

Lengthening of the course by between six and seven hundred yards which will bring it still under the standard length of three thousand; but in another year or two the whole will be cleared so that the 3000-yard length will be available.

New Greens will be constructed on the first, second, fifth and ninth holes and construction has already commenced on the second green. The first, second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth holes are being made considerably longer—and differ. The second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth holes are being made considerably longer—and differ. The second, third, fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth holes are being made considerably longer—and differ. The first is being made a "dog's leg" hole, the green being carried back about a hundred yards around the bend of the clump of woods which is now to the right of C. The second tee is being set back about a hundred yards. The third hole will be altogether changed and moved a hundred and twenty-five yards further east. This will bring the hole by five hundred yards when completed the tee being set back and the green moved forward. The tee on the ninth will be set back after some trees and small pine bushes have been cleared away.

The fairways by next spring will be vastly improved and everything points to the Belleville Golf Club being one of the prettiest and one of the stiffest courses in the district.

A very substantial increase in membership this year has made possible the contemplated improvements to the course. The directors are a unit in approving the work and with the whole club membership is looking forward with keen delight to the completion of these changes.

The work of the green guarding the second green have been put in already making it a very stiff fourth hole. Bordering behind the second and ninth are being put in. The fairway on the sixth which has been bad is being done over and widened.

EXTRA MAIL SERVICE TO, FROM, BELLEVILLE

Because of representations made on the subject by the Chamber of Commerce, Belleville is to have additional and improved Railway mail services.

It was ascertained that for some unaccountable reason, C.N.R. train No. 6 leaving Toronto 1.30 p.m. which was delivering mail at Oshawa, Bowmanville and other points to the west, omitted Belleville from the service. The matter was taken up with the District Superintendent of Postal Service at Oshawa, and a letter has just been received from Mr. Low, the District Superintendent, stating that mail for Belleville from Toronto will now be carried by this train and Belleville Post Office will also receive its mail to Ottawa by the same train.

MYSTERY WOMAN FAILED IN SWIM IDENTITY HIDDEN

Supposed to be London Medical Specialist of Powerful Frame

Folkestone, September 4.—The Channel swim of "Miss MacLaren" and Horsee Carr was abandoned owing to a rough sea, when they were seven miles off South Foreland, on the English coast, near Dover. They had taken the water at Cape Gris Nez, France, early Friday morning.

Gertrude Ederle's trans-Channel swimming record was sought by an English woman who gave the name of Miss Mona MacLaren.

Miss MacLaren appeared there suddenly and, after a few preliminaries, plunged into the water at 5.10 o'clock with the avowed intention of establishing a new time record for the swim to England.

Photographers tried to take pictures of the woman, but she successfully hid her face and only her well-greased back could be got on the plates.

The "mystery woman" who attempted to swim the English Channel under the nom d'eau of Nona MacLaren kept her real identity well concealed from the general public during her training at Hythe, although it is generally understood she is a Harley street (London) medical specialist.

FIVE ARE HURT WHEN TWO CARS CRASH WITH BUS

Toronto, Sept. 4.—Five Indians travelling from Hamilton in two automobiles, were seriously injured near the R. J. Fleming fair mail Pickering east of here today, when the automobiles collided with a large bus operated by the Toronto Transportation Commission and which was carrying employes of the Philips Glass Works, Oshawa, to Toronto. The motor coach was in charge of E. A. Bright, Toronto. Injured men were rushed to hospital at Oshawa. The two automobiles were proceeding eastward at the time of the accident. One of them collided with the bus and the bus went into a ditch rolling on its side. The small car took fire. The other car followed into the ditch, several of the occupants being injured in the crash. A passer-by stated that the small cars are a mass of wreckage.

J. H. TUCKER AGAIN WINS PORTER CUP WITH TEAM PRIZE WINNERS PARADED

The parade of prize animals before the grand stand at the fair Friday afternoon was one of the attractions. Headed by the Argyll Light Infantry band the animals were paraded once around the track and as the owners came in front of the grand stand, President P. G. Ostrom presented the beautiful silver cup to the successful competitors. Mr. J. H. Tucker won three cups including that presented by Mr. E. G. Porter, ex-M.P. As Mr. Tucker has two years in succession won this valued trophy he becomes the permanent owner of it. The donors of the cups and winners were as follows:

GIVE GERMANS PERMANENT SEAT IN THE LEAGUE

Spain May Be Appeased by Semi-Permanent Position There

Geneva, Sept. 4.—The League of Nations Council today adopted the report of the commission on reorganization of the council, providing for creation of three new non-permanent council seats and designating Germany as a permanent seat holder as soon as she is elected to league membership.

SPAIN "FIXED UP"

The League of Nations leaders plan to elect Spain to a semi-permanent seat in the League Council at the forthcoming assembly, despite Spain's probable absence from the assembly. They hope this will induce the Madrid Government to abandon any idea of withdrawing from the league.

Sweden alone expressed the opinion that there should be no increase in the number of non-permanent seats. After approving the report, the council forwarded it to the assembly, with the recommendation that it be adopted by that body. The Council also instructed the League's Secretary General, Sir Eric Drummond, to forward to Spain's representative, the reorganization commission's resolution expressing regret that the Madrid Government's desire for permanent representation a council could not be met at the present time.

Viscount Ishii, of Japan, in reporting commission's conclusions, was successful in having the council pass a resolution to the effect that Germany alone should be elected to a permanent seat at the present session.

IMPRESSION CORRECTED

Mr. Bongard who was driving the car which collided with another in charge of Miss Hyman on Front Street, Thursday, wishes to state that impression corrected that he was in no way to blame for the accident and that it was the fender of his car that was torn off instead of Miss Hyman's.

FOUR SAILORMEN WERE RESCUED WHEN NEAR DEAD

Boat Probably Sprang A-leak but Positive Information is Lacking

After having been tossed about on Lake Ontario in a rolling sea for thirty-two hours, Capt. Patrick McManus, Phillip Haskill, Ernest Zimmerman and Edward Howard, all of Picton, the crew of the Burt Barnes which sank in the middle of the lake with her cargo of 280 tons of coal, were rescued near Charlotte yesterday.

CAPT. McMANUS STORY

Captain McManus told the Intelligencer this morning that in a heavy wind one of the worst he has ever experienced, the ship lost her mils andspars and got into a trough and at midnight Wednesday commenced to fill with water. The crew stood by the still Thursday at twelve when they saw rescue was hopeless and left on the little yawl carried on the boat.

At about the middle of Lake Ontario, immediately after they boarded the yawl the Burt Barnes sank. With but two loaves of bread and a pound of butter the men faced what they thought to be certain death and Captain McManus and crew settled down to bad again, so heavy was the sea and violent the wind "I have been in several shipwrecks, he said but that experience was the worst I have ever had.

When they at last spent and dejected hopeless and half frozen, stirred up to the little island from which they were rescued, some fisher women gave them hot drinks and made a roaring fire which speedily revived them, and they were taken to Kingston.

Captain McManus has sailed Lake Ontario for the past 46 years. The Burt Barnes was owned by George Hart of Picton.

BUS AND AUTO COLLIDE, SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 4.—Five persons were injured, two of them seriously, when a motor-car and five members of the Six Nations Indians lacrosse team of Brantford, collided with Toronto Transportation Commission bus about two miles west of Whitby about eight o'clock this morning. The bus was conveying thirty five employees of W. E. Phillips Company, Limited, to the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. The sedan which was driven by R. W. Green of Caledonia, Ontario, came from behind another car and crashed into the bus on the slippery pavement

SMITH ASSERTS CLEVER STUNTS DERHAM DEATH BY BLACKSTONE WAS ACCIDENTAL PLEASE CROWD

Intended to Commit Suicide Said Note to Wife

Canterbury, England, Sept. 4.—Evidence in the Smith-Derham murder case here is of the most sensational kind with all parties involved prominent socially.

The pretty young wife sat in court not far from the dead man's aged father, as Sefton Cohen, the Crown prosecutor, outlined his case. Smith, smartly dressed, followed the proceedings with great alertness from the dock.

Mr. Cohen indicated that the two men were friends of the same age and both of independent means. Both had been educated at Eton and later at Cambridge, where they were great friends. Derham was married, but lived apart from his wife. He became a frequent visitor at Smith's villa, and Smith appeared to have become acutely jealous of his friend's association with his wife. On one occasion, said the prosecutor, Smith found a letter which his wife said she had received from Derham, and he flew into such a rage that he tore her picture from the wall.

ALTERCATION IN VILLA

Continuing, Mr. Cohen said a maid was present on the occasion of that outburst, and she reports Smith in his rage cried out: "Do you think I am going to let another man take my wife? No, I will kill them both. I don't care if I am arrested."

The prosecutor also read a letter which he said Smith had written to his wife, one phrase of which was: "My dear girl, this problem can be solved in one way, removal of your lover, Derham, or myself. With the characteristic cowardice which that individual has shown throughout your mean and sordid intrigue, he has removed himself from his room, fearing, I presume, consequences of a visit from me. His pursuit of you was and is despicable and a damnable thing. The whol ething is too mean and too disgusting for me."

Mr. Cohen declared that on the day of the shooting, a telegram in Smith's handwriting was handed in at the Whitstable office addressed to Derham in London and signed "Kathreen," presumably Smith's wife. The telegram read:

"Will you come for a few hours tonight? Most urgent. Wire General Post Office, Whitstable, not house."

Derham went to Smith's villa as so invited, the prosecutor said, and found husband and wife both there. From the testimony of the wife's sister, Lillian White, it would appear an altercation broke out among the three in the drawing room.

WOMAN SAW SCENE

Despite this, the three went out to a hotel for dinner. Afterward they returned to Bells Maris, where a bed had been prepared for Derham. Miss White testified, according to the prosecutor, that she heard Smith say to his wife: "I won't have this other lover of yours sleeping in the house."

A little later Miss White heard a bang, and running downstairs saw Smith lying on the floor with Derham sitting on him and striking him on the head and shoulder with some object. Mrs. Smith was trying to pull Derham from her husband, and finally succeeded.

The Crown prosecutor said another witness, passing the house at about this time, heard the report of a revolver.

Smith's letter to his wife was not delivered to her, the prosecutor said, but the defendant handed it to the police unopened when he was arrested. The full text indicated that he intended suicide instead of shooting Derham. When he handed the letter to the officers, he said:

"I intended to shoot myself, but in the struggle for the revolver it went off and shot Derham."

Legerdemain Expert Certainly Had Audience Guessing All Night

Round-eyed wonder, petrified horror, shouts of laughter, and an air of utter mystery prevailed in rapid succession at the Griffis Opera House when Blackstone, the greatest magician the world has ever known, proved that it was possible for him to perform "possible" impossibilities.

Before the wondering eyes of the audience he hypnotized woman lying inert on a stretcher was raised in mid-air suspended by nothing, and at the crack of a revolver dissolved into space to return alive and well through the lobby of the opera house; handkerchiefs danced; rabbits were picked out of the pockets of the audience; rings taken from the hands of Bellefluans dropped from the ceiling, having not there nobody knows how.

Blackstone's card tricks stumped the most hardened doubter and convinced all that he has something like a "superhuman" mind and right before the gasping audience a wire bird cage with a real genuine chirping canary vanished into nothingness right in the midst of the audience, not on the stage where the audience might suspected the usual legerdemain.

The performance was brought near-at home when Williamson MacLaurin, son of Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, was called to the stage and the magician extracted a little bunny from his pocket, wrapped it in a piece of newspaper and when Williamson opened the paper the rabbit had turned into a box of candy. However bunny was later found in a back pocket, and the boy took him home triumphantly.

Sinister figures clad in white come with a poor wretch fast with bonnet things. Presaant silence, save for eerie moans of a distant boot owl. Noiselessly the dire crew hoists the victim high in air. A score of rifles blaze but where expectant eyes look for a leaden riddled corpse, out rides the erstwhile menaced prestuve safe and sound, none other than Blackstone himself. Mounted on a dashing Arabian stallion Blackstone rides into an abandoned cabin—a flash—an explosion—the side of the structure falls away—there stands the rider, but the horse is gone.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE FINAL WORD IN A CAR
—for the man whose word is final

THE PRESIDENT, a Studebaker Big Six Custom Sedan, was designed, built and christened in honor of North America's executives—the only automobile ever expressly created for men at the helm of the nation's industries.

The President is replete with all the characteristics of a custom creation — designed with a long, low-swung custom body on a 127-inch wheelbase—lacquered in rich ebony with a belt of thistle green striped with Sisikiyou yellow, or in Croaton green with an ebony belt delicately striped in ivory—equipped with disc wheels, 4-wheel brakes and a ventilating windshield (exclusively Studebaker) which insures fresh air without drafts or moisture.

Powered with the quiet Studebaker L-head motor which recently set a new transcontinental record by crossing from New York to San Francisco in 86 hours and 20 minutes—a motor long noted for a smooth vibrationless flow of power which others now seek to attain, but which can be insured only by Studebaker's big crankshaft, fully machined and dynamically balanced.

The sky is the limit as to quality in The President, but we come back to earth to put a price on The President—$1895. We invite you to see what Studebaker's One-Profit facilities have achieved in this car.

THE PRESIDENT $2895

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectful ly soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,
ROSCOE VANDERWATER.

Social and Personals

Rev. M. S. McKechnie and family have returned to the city after spending a month at Sharbot Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gibson of Toronto are in the city, guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Chapman, Bleecker, Avenue.

Mrs. T. H. Kelly, 246 Foster Ave., has returned home after going under a serious operation at Toronto General Hospital.

Mrs. Alice A. Kellar, Bayview, Dundas Street, accompanied by Master Fred, left the city today to spend two weeks at Bellevue Cottage, Standard Camp Ground, Ivanhoe.

Miss Emily Foote, Miss Grace Haven and Mr. Clare MacDonald, of Utica, and Miss Herdman, of Vermont, formerly of Belleville are in the city guests of Major and Mrs. Bumpstead.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hutton, when a souvenir tea was given in honour of the approaching marriage of their daughter Rose which is to take place on September 6th. Miss Hutton was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts which shows the popularity in which the young lady is held.

Mrs. Wilmot and Mr. Eardley Wilmot gave a large dance at the Bay of Quinte Country Club last evening and when it is declared to have been the most delightful affair seen there, there will be none among the more than 200 guests who will not agree. Receiving with Mrs. Wilmot was her sister, Miss Howden. For those who did not dance, bridge had been arranged. The Ban Ton Orchestra provided very appealing music and the arrangements everywhere were perfect. Supper was served at midnight. The club rooms looked most attractive with seasonable blooms tastefully arranged.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

HELEN M. BELL

After a lingering illness of almost two years duration, yesterday afternoon death claimed Helen M. Bell, and thus another promising young life was cut off in its prime. Helen was born in Morrickville but had resided in this city for the past ten years, and had a host of friends who will regret her passing. Though being confined to bed for over a year, she was bright and patient always. Possessing a happy disposition, she endeared herself to a wide circle of friends. In religion she was an Anglican. While her sorrowing parents, there are left to mourn her loss three sisters, Georgia, Jessie and Mabel, also two brothers, Eric and Wallace, all of this city.

MARGARET M. WILSON

At the family residence, 5th Concession of Sidney Township, Mrs. Margaret M. Wilson, wife of Mr. Johnston Wilson, passed away last night after an illness of some eight months. In the Township of Thurlow, 57 years ago, deceased was born, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spencer. Mrs. Wilson was a lady who was highly esteemed. She was an active member of Foxboro United Church, being a member of W.M.S. and the Ladies' Aid Society. In addition to the husband, a son Clifford at home, survives, also two brothers and three sisters. The brothers are John Spencer of Stirling and Edward of Holloway, and the sisters are Mrs. J. A. Forrester of Dunbale, Mrs. Leonard Snider of Foxboro, and Mrs. George Hawley of Troy, Ohio.

TODAYS MARKETS

Inclement weather today had the effect of lessening somewhat the attendance upon the market. There were, however, many sellers and buyers present, and much farm and garden products were disposed of. There were but few changes to note in prices over those of a week ago.

Water melons made their first appearance and were readily disposed of ranging in price from 25c to 50c each.

Eggs showed a slight advance in price as 32c and 33c per dozen was obtained for specials, and 30c for strictly fresh.

Dairy butter was somewhat scarce and the ruling price was 40c per pound. In a few cases a slightly low er price was paid. Dairy lots were secured for 46c and 45c.

Dressed chickens commanded a good figure, namely, $1.50 to $1.60 a pair and even a higher price was asked by not a few vendors. Ducks sold at $1.25 and $1.35 each.

In vegetables the only change to note was in the price of tomatoes, namely 90c and $1.00 a bushel. Corn sold at 15c per dozen and potatoes 30c a peck.

WEDDINGS

SINE-PARNSWORTH

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Shannonville, on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, when Laura Edith, second daughter of Mrs. Abram Farnsworth, became the bride of Blake Osborne Sine, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Sine, Tyndinn.

Only the immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served and the happy couple left for Detroit, Mich., where they will reside. They carry with them the best wishes of the community.

TO HOLD PLEBISCITE

Madrid, Sept. 4.—Gen Primo Derivera, Premier, has consented to holding of the plebiscite September 11, 12 and 13 in order that the people of the country may express their feelings toward present regime. The new party—Patriotic Union—which requested plebiscite, also has asked that the National assembly be summoned to co-operate in Governing the country and to this premier has also consented.

THE GROWING GIRL

Requires a Mother's Constant Care and Watchfulness.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptom of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE FIGHT IS ON

The fight is on.

Colonel Vanderwater who asked for three or four days from the Liberal Convention took two weeks and ran the time dangerously close—very dangerously for himself.

His announcement came yesterday and while not altogether a surprise was a sort of anti-climax in that any value it might have had was pretty well discounted by his unexplained delay in making up his mind.

The story of why he finally accepted would doubtless be interesting but it may never be told.

So far as Colonel Vanderwater himself is concerned this paper will say nothing reflecting on his personal affairs and no speaker for Mr. Tummon is likely to either. He has the respect of the community and is a first class citizen, and has the interest of the community at heart with the very important exception that he is supporting Mackenzie King and all that Mackenzie stands for and that is enough to put him so far as politics is concerned in absolutely the wrong category. Colonel Vanderwater's "manifesto" or a statement is interesting in only one particular. It is not cunningly devised and is the ultimate in platitudes.

It might for that matter have been issued for any candidate of any party. It does not mention Liberalism; it does not "sound" like the so-called Liberalism of the Mackenzie King stripe.

It is possible that Colonel Vanderwater is trying to play both ends against the middle as an independent?

Or is he a Mackenzie King, sectarianist, reciprocity, anti-Empire Liberal? One of his platforms does not sound like it for he declares for a "closer bond of Union between the Mother country and ourselves." That may be what the Colonel himself desires but some of his potential leaders do not.

Other statements of what he himself says he desires are: A revaluation of soldiers' lands; and a living wage for the laboring man. The Mackenzie King government failed to provide either and on the other hand it is well known that Premier Meighen, if returned, will have the means in the shape of workable legislation, as well as the desire to accomplish both. Old Age Pensions likewise. The Mackenzie King plan was ludicrous and impracticable. Mr. Meighen's plan is workable and will have the support (which is vital) of the various provinces.

As for "Strict Economy" in administration that is the avowed aim of all Governments. The Liberals however managed to lose thirty millions or more through their "pet newsprint" with the bootleggers which should have come to the revenue dept. and therefore hardly qualify as practical economists.

"Unity and Solidarity, etc., etc., etc. between all the people of the Dominion" on the face of it, is rather humorous. Mr. King has been taking unity these many years and has been practising dis-union between Canadian provinces, but uncommercially with the States; he has furthered dis-union between Canada and the Motherland consciously or unconsciously but union between the Liberal Party and the Progressives and the Communists and the Reds and Pinks of all sorts.

Colonel Vanderwater's an estimable gentleman but by appealing on that sort of a platform he has shown himself to be insincere politically. He should as a matter of fact stop quibbling and announce himself as a Conservative and a supporter of Mr. Tummon. For quite evidently he has little in common with the Radicals of the Mackenzie King pursuasion and cannot stomach some of their policies, knowing as he must know that they are not the men to which, now or at any time, the destinies of Canada and to an appreciable extent the Empire, should be left.

From the New York World:

At Madrid, according to a despatch, there was stolen from the residence of Senor Isidro Urrain, a Velasquez painting valued at $290,999. What puzzles us is to know why the valuator, so long as the painting was gone anyhow, and there was no way of checking up, did not extend himself a bit and make it a round $300,000. To account for his excessive scrupulosity various hypotheses occur to us, the more plausible ones being as follows:

(a) That the picture was in need of cleaning and that the $1 represents the costs of a bottle of oil.

(b) That the estimate includes a $1 discount for cash.

(c) That a new frame was needed and that the $1 represents the cost of same.

(d) That the picture was slightly shopworn.

(e) That the figure $299,999 would encounter less buyer resistance than $300,000.

(f) That the purchaser, if any, would be grateful for $1 change out of his $300,000 and would want to keep it as a souvenir.

We trust later news will clear up these points, as we are frank to say it has us guessing.

EXHIBIT OFFERED AN EDUCATION AS TO BUILDING

Among the more educational exhibits at the Fair during the past week, was the display arranged by Jamieson Bone and Company Limited, General Contractors. Educational because at a glance, it demonstrated the trend which building operations are taking at the present time and the many changes the last few years have brought in the use of instance the use of galvanized steel building materials generally. Take for shingles in barn roofing, which has become more and more popular with each succeeding year.

The Pedlar people of Oshawa have, throughout 60 years constantly striven to improve this type of roof, for they believed—and more lately others have agreed—that the metal roof was the ideal type for the barn. It is water-proof, fire-proof, durable, for it will last so long as the structure itself. It is beautiful in appearance, and what is perhaps most important—a metal roof is lightning proof. The leading fire Insurance authorities agree today that the only way to overcome lightning is by the use of metal roofs properly grounded for this is the best of all lightning conductors.

So much for metal barn roofs; getting back to the city dweller, what do we find? Displayed was a sample of celetex, the insulating lumber being used extensively for finishing walls and roofs, and the only insulating lumber of the world. It's use is no more expensive than ordinary wood lumber. it is permanent, resists time and elements; is stronger by far than ordinary lumber, and more economical, because it lasts longer. Celotex makes for greater health and comfort for the family all the year round.

Then the floors with the predominance of hardwood flooring now-a-days, a display of "Cress Plus Red Oak" in Jamieson Bone and Company booth is interesting. This flooring is known as the "Satin Finish Kiln Kup" Brand; it is given its lustrous finish when being made up. This type represents the greatest finish ever made in Hardwood Flooring.

Then we notice "Stucsite" the durable beautiful Stucco finish, becoming popular at the present time. It may be rugs and emulates the house against applied to either frame or brick building, heat or cold. It is fire resisting, water proof and stain proof.

And speaking of roofs, gone in the days of the sombre looking wood shingle, for the homes of today are finished in a more durable, fireproof and economical manner. Murray made Original strip shingles of felt saturant and coating plus a surfacing of natural slate, together with Bird's Asphalt Twin shingles—are two popular roofings of today. Then beauty and durability, together with the fact that they are fire proof, accounts for their ever growing popularity in this district as elsewhere.

Thus a visit to the Jamieson Bone & Co., Ltd., booth was interesting and instructive—a wonderful lesson on up-to-date methods in building.

WATCHES OF THE PAST AND PRESENT

A glance at the timepieces of today, watches in gold and silver, small and neat, both in ladies' and men's models to suit every taste and every purse, makes one occasionally pause and reflect on the nature of timepieces of long ago and the manner of the development to their present beauty, durability and usefulness.

Unlike many of our modern conveniences, as the telephone, motor car and radio, produced comparatively recently, the origin of the watch dates back several hundred years. Indeed devices of various kinds for recording time date back to 100 B.C. when the sun dial, the earliest method, was in use. Then about this time, the water clock became popular; it consisted of a simple earthen vessel, drop by drop, in time these became intricate and elaborate automatic machines. Then we are told, about 700 A.D. the sand glass was introduced, a method which until recently was still in use among the poorer classes. From this time until the 5th Century, little improvement occurred in timepieces until in 760 A.D., Pope Paul 1st presented Pepin Le, first with the only mechanical clock in the world, Charlemagne had one in 802—a fancy ornate complication of weights to set the clocks in motion. These mechanical clocks seem to be referred to in England for the first time about 1283.

The care of making clocks soon led to the making of pocket dials carried ceremonially by the more fortunate. The reduction of the mechanical principle to the necessary small size, was the problem and it was solved first by a locksmith of Nuremburg, Phillip Healo, who in the 15th century made the first watches. These, being egg-shaped to fit the saddle bag and, later, round to be worn around the neck. Queen Elizabeth was presented with the first watch bracelet so the present popularity of these is but a revival of the old custom.

But changed and improved are the watches of today, as turned out by the well known makers and at a glance at each makes as Waltham, Elgin, Green and Longines, all represented in the complete stock of J. A. Borbridge, makes one realize what wonderful strides have been made in watch making since those earlier days. For each and every number of the family, may be had a model to suit the individual taste.

Large and small models, thin ones and those not so thin, watches in gold and silver, and watches particularly suited to various occupations, such as railroading—and all these at prices to suit the pocketbook not only of the well to do as was the case in the o'den days, but priced within the reach of almost anyone.

One cannot but be struck with the beauty and accuracy of the Longines watch, known as the "Stadard of the World" and the aristocrat of Mr. Borbridge's selection. Since 1866 this famous better grade watch has won the highest awards of all exhibitions. Subjected to extreme tests, both in the Arctics and in the tropics—at all temperatures—official records of performance over many years have been certified. It is held first place among the finer watches. The Longines have taken first place wherever railroad watches are selected by railroad officials and it is recognized as the most accurate watch in the world. And with fifty years of continuous improvement behind it, with every resource in the hands of skilled workmen with perfect instruments—with this as a basis, the acquisition of world reputation is not surprising.

FINISH OF CAR ADDS TO VALUE BETTER IF AGED

Every time you take your car out of the garage you are subjecting the finish to the various attacks of a hundred minde. It will be drenched by rain, then the hot sun shines through the tiny globules of moisture, which act like magnifying glasses in concentrating the In winter the finish encounters sudden burning rays in the finish underneath sharp changes in temperature from a heated garage to an icy outdoors. In the same slay it will probably be subjected to snow and boiling water, windblown dust of flint like sharpness will cut the finish, salt air alkaline dust, and mud, all have a share in ruining its appearance.

Duco, the popular automobile finish, coming on the market but a couple of years ago, has in this comparatively short time created such a sensation and favorable impression, among motorist and manufacturers alike, that today it ranks first in claiming the largest number of makes turning out Duco finished cars, both in plain and combination color schemes, for it may be obtained in infinite variety of color.

The producers of Duco, to maintain the high reputation their product had gained, felt it necessary to specially train those who were later to become covers a period of several weeks, and authorized refinishers. This course well fits the "Student" to turn out a various centres. Duco jobs equally as good as those new cars finished in the factory.

Isaac Stephenson, Greenleaf Bldg., authorized Duco Refinisher for Belleville District, states that results in his territory from an ever increasing number of patrons, more than justify the extraordinary claim made by the producers of Duco. Cars owned by local motorists and refinished by Mr. Stephenson a year and a half ago are actually looking better now than when "Dressed"; it is in short a product which resists all the deteriorating influences which specially ruin an ordinary finish.

Though the first cost of Duco refinishing may be somewhat higher than a paint job it will still save you money in many ways. For one refinishing will last as long as two of any other kind and be in better condition at the end of two or three years increasing the resale value of your car.

In addition there is the satisfaction of personal pride in the permanently beautiful appearance of your car.

HASTING'S PINE MADE SPECIALTY IN LOCAL YARD

LOCAL RETAIL LUMBER YARD SPECIALIZES IN HASTINGS COUNTY PINE

It will interest local citizens to learn that a very large quantity of the lumber used for building purposes in this city and district is secured from our own County of Hastings, north in the vicinity of Bancroft. One of the city's newer and most progressive retail lumber yards, that conducted by Mr. E. J. Mott on Station Street, makes Hastings County the source of practically all of its lumber supply specializing in pine, of which the northern part of the County produces an excellent brand, the equal of any to be had in this part of the country.

"Business is Good" are the welcome words of the management of this concern, which in a comparatively short few months has built up this growing business in the city. So the lumber of Hastings must be good and giving satisfaction to local builders, else this lumber yard would not be enjoying the flourishing business, as is the case at the present time.

The chief difference between playing golf and baseball on Sunday is that more of the legislators are golfers than baseball players.—Guelph Mercury.

Sinical Sadie Sees

DEFINITION OF AN OPTIMIST — Col. Roscoe Vanderwater.

Sinical Sadie says she WILL hate to see a nice man like Col. Vanderwater get so badly snowed under!

"Particularly" Mackenzie King" says Sinical Sadie.

SEEN AT THE FAIR
A huge pumpkin, labelled "0 small green peppers."

They say there's a man called Roscoe.
Wants to banish Tories to Moscow;
Say, Ernie won't mind him,
Cause we're all behind him,
In September comes Roscoe's fiasco.

The boast of Liberals, the pomp of King,
And all that Agnes, or that Forke can say,
Await alike th' inevitable hour:—
All votes turn to Meighen on Election Day.

Poems Old And New

HIS STRONG DESIRE

Beauty, have pity, for the strong have power,
The rich their wealth, the beautiful their grace,
Summer of man its sunlight and its flower,
Springtime of man all April in a face.

Only as in the jostling in the Strand
Where the mob thrusts or loiters or is loud,
The beggar with the saucer in his hand
Asks only a penny from the passing crowd.

QUESTION IN QUEBEC.

Will they love King in September as they did in May,
Will they love him in the good old-fashioned way?
Will they vote for Ill Mackenzie as they did for Lou-rier,
Will they love King in September as they did in May?

It is said of Valentino that what he really wanted was a quiet home and children.

"What aspity" says Sinical Sadie "that he didn't live long enough to meet "Miss Toronto."

ENSURING SAFETY

Firewood was scarce in the small town of Dumbletury. So that when old Donald McDougall the watchman was discovered asleep minus his wooden leg, a friendly wayfarer awoke him, exclaiming "Hey, man, they've stolen your leg!" The sleeper sat up and glowered. "Did ye think," said he sarcastically, "that I wuld gang tae sleep in this locality wi' onything about me that burnin'? The wife takes awa me leg every nicht, and brings it back i' the mornin,!"

Is loud,
Asks only a penny from the passing crowd.

So from this glittering world with all its fashion,
Its fire and play of men, its stir, its march,
Let me have wisdom, beauty, wisdom and passion,
Bread to the soul, rain, where the summer parch.

Give me but these, and though the darkness close

—John Masefield.

YOU'RE MY FRIEND

What a thing friendship is, world without end,
How it gives the heart and soul a stir-up
As if somebody broached you a glorious tun,
And poured out, all lovily, sparkingly sunlit,
Our own Moldavie, the streaky syrup,
Colnar as old as the time of the Druids!
Friendship may match with that monarch of fluids;
Each supplies a dry brain, fills you its ins-and-outs,
Gives your life's hour-glass a shake when the thin sand doubts
Whether to run on or stop short, and guarantees
Age is as tall made of stark aloth and arrant ease.

Robert Browning.

When He Was Very Young

Mr. A. A. Milne, author of that charming book, "When We Were Very Young," was born in London no longer ago than 1882. He went to Westminster School when he was eleven, and during his seven years there he contributed poems, parodies and other things to the school magazine. In due course he went to Cambridge and became the editor of "Granta" there.

The Mexican National Hymn is as follows:
"Oh my country, entwine on thy temples,
Boughs of olive so fresh and so vernal,
When inscribed in the heavens eternal,
Blessed peace for all the land thou shall see!
But if stranger and foe, in their boldness,
Dare to tread on thy soil, they must perish.
Then oh, my country, this thought only cherish:
Ev'ry son is but a soldier for thee,
Ev'ry son is but a soldier for thee.
Chorus—
At the loud cry of war all assemble;
Then your swords and your steeds all prepare,
And the earth to its centre shall tremble

"Wild Geese" a True Story

The International Book Review for August contains an account of an interview with Martha Ostenso, the young Western author, who tells how she came to write "Wild Geese," "Those of my readers who read that remarkably vivid book will be interested in what the interviewer tells us she learned.

"As soon as you meet Martha Ostenso you realize that she is a person primarily interested in the adventure of living. Publishers' blunder to the contrary, she can hardly be called a school teacher, for she has taught for only six months, and that was at the age of 19, when the wanderlust and boredom with college drove her into a desolate frontier section of Canada.

It was there that the stark drama of "Wild Geese" actually unfolded itself before her eyes. She, of course, was Lind, the young school teacher living in the house of Caleb, the old farmer whom she frequently saw "ripe the cruel smile from his face."

"Sometimes," she told me, "I was terrified, so afraid for my own life, as well as for that of the others, that I thought I would go crazy. People attack me for having created so melodramatic a character as the old man. As a matter of fact he was even more brutal than I have pictured him. To this day he is lying in wait to kill me, because I rescued Judith and carried her off to the city where she is now living and working happily."

You will remember that in the book Judith runs away with her lover to the city; but in real life he was not so gallant.

MEN AND WOMEN'S CLOTHES

Lady Violet Bonham Carter, daughter of Lord Oxford, writing in the English "Good Housekeeping" has an amusing article on men and women's clothes. She says, in part:—

"The rules which govern women's dressing appear in many cases to be simply reversed for men. For instance, their clothes should not be noticed. Women's emphatically should.

"Women should be before all things neat, but excessive neatness and care are distinctly unattractive when found in men. Smartness in men is repellent in the extreme. Analyze the smartly dressed men of your acquaintance. You will find that, though perhaps only a few of them are velvet, nearly all of them are stupid. Beware of those whose ties, socks, and shirts match. There is something wrong with men who are not a little absent-minded about their clothes.

"I write as I feel, but I shall be told that as a woman I know nothing about it, and probably little so. But men are bad critics of the clothes of women. (If women only knew men's blind indifference to the effects which they have upon the eyes out of their heads, with hours of thought and skill thrown in!) They sometimes get, in a dim, general impression of rightness or wrongness, but I have known them select for praise the most colossal blunders and pass over unnoticed subtle and flawless perfection.

"How often I have heard—and had the following conversation with a man, any man, on leaving a party: 'What a lovely frock So-and-so was wearing!' Man: 'Was she? I never noticed it—what colour was it?' Woman: 'There, there!' Man: 'Oh, that!—that sandy, dusty, nondescript thing? I can't see anything in that!' (This is a priceless Callot or Chanel model.) 'Now, B—she looked very well, I thought, in that sort of flimsy orange thing.' Woman: 'B!—spotted thing!—she was looking monstrous! You can't seriously mean you admired her.' Man: 'I never saw her look better.'

"No, decidedly—it is no use dressing for men."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"Gladiolf"—Your mistake I think was to use the nitrate of soda in that ground. It is excellent for some plants but is not good for any of the lily varieties, as it induces lots of foliage but very weak flowers.

"Anaemic"—The following foods are rich in iron,—apples, grapes, raisins, radishes, and green vegetables such as lettuce, spinach, asparagus, beet tops, cabbage and Brussels sprouts. Eggs, especially the yolks, will provide iron too.

"Old Fashioned"—No, both boys and girls' names have undergone a change, and instead of the fanciful ones we find many of the old-fashioned ones. I append a few with their meanings; perhaps one may appeal to you.

John—The Lord graciously gave.
Peter—Rock or stone.
Thomas—A twin.
Christopher—Carrying Christ. A giant once carried a little child across a river and then found that his small burden was none other than the Christ-child—hence Christopher, the bearer of Christ.
David—Beloved.
Martin—War-like.

"Mother"—You are right. Normal growth is never accompanied by pain and it there is pain it is an indication of something wrong. Do not allow anyone to convince you otherwise, as it may be serious if neglected. Of course every child has little aches caused from bumps or over using certain muscles at play, but these are not "growing pains" and soon disappear. If the slight pain is complained of frequently do not neglect it longer, even if you have to change your physician.

After the Bath

WON'T wait for their dressing gowns! A bare-pelt race from the bathroom to their bedroom! How the little savages enjoy the freedom of their birthday suits.

They live in a home warmed and humidified by a Sunshine Furnace that delivers heat soft as a summer breeze to all the rooms in the house. They breathe pure, clean humidified air.

No Wonder they are Healthy and Full of Animal Spirits

McClary's Sunshine Furnace, installed by McClary's accredited dealer, is guaranteed to supply that kind of heat delivered uniformly to all the rooms in the home.

And you burn hard coal, soft coal or coke, at will—no structural changes—simply operate the drafts. You have no fuel worries with McClary's Sunshine Furnace.

Write your nearest McClary's Branch for free booklet: "Winter Comfort in Canadian Homes," that will give you much interesting information about heating, fuel and the proper installation of furnaces so necessary in solving the problem of comfort in Winter.

The patented Air Flash Ring in McClary's Sunshine Furnace mixes the heated air with the gases and volatiles (soot) in coal causing instant combustion with an intense heat. The patented Hot-Water Pan shown in the cross above. The gases and soot are utilized. They do not leave in the chimney or flues to cause waste. The Smoke Box construction of McClary's Sunshine Furnace enables it to burn coke either above or mixed with coal without risk of crushing or burning out.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

"There is more to comedy than just a situation to be laughed at. The ancient buffoons and clowns attached to the courts of medievall royalty had one mission, in life. And that was to excite the visibilities of their jaded and satiated royal masters. But they weren't comedians. They were comics, if you get the distinction."

Reginald Denny, star of "Skinner's Dress Suit," the Universal-Jewel which will be the feature attraction at the Belle the above remarks, and then, warning up to his subject, continued.

The great Comedians of the stage and screen do more than make you laugh. They make you think, as well, and beneath your chuckles and laughter there is an undercurrent of sympathy. Not only that, but their work sets more or less as a sermon, in that, by seeing them in their undignified situations, we are unconsciously taught what not to do."

And Denny bears out his own statement, which is a result of careful study and research, remarkably well. He is known throughout the length and breath of Filmdom as the screen's foremost interpreter of farcical. And, while audiences laugh at him, they sympathize with him.

TAX SALE NOTICE

BUFFALO HERD IN SECOND PLACE TORONTO WINS

Baltimore Was Trounced 7-2 — Newark Bears Were Idle

The Toronto steam-roller continued on its crushing way and the International league leaders added to their margin by turning back Baltimore 7 to 2. Jess Doyle pitched masterly ball for the Canucks, and had the game in hand throughout. Three runs in the second gave the Leafs a lead which would have won the game. The Orioles nced Henderson and Harwood in an effort to check the upward rush of the opposition

The Newark Bears were idle, while Buffalo went into second place by once again walloping the Reading Keys, 15 to 4. Dyer held Jersey City to two hits, and Syracuse annexed a 2 to 0 shut-out.

Carl Mays pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 4 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Cincinnati and the Cards' lead at the top of the National League was cut to one game. Each team made seven hits but the Reds' submarine twirler was air-tight in the pinches. St. Louis used Haines and Bell on the mound. A wild throw by L. Bell in the first allowed the Reds to gather in two runs but St. Louis tied it up in the second. One run in each of the fifth and sixth innings gave Cincinnati its margin. O'Farrell, St. Louis catcher, had two triples.

Half a loaf still being better than none at all, the Yankees were very pleased with themselves last evening because they had held the Athletics to a stand-off in the double-header at Shibe Park.

For a fleeting moment it looked as if the Yanks would not get even the crumbs from the Mack table. They lost the first game, 7 to 3, and were well on the way to losing the second when the lads suddenly put on a five run rally in the seventh and sprinted to a 7 to 4 victory.

In the second game, Babe Ruth made his 41st home run of the season. Grove was pitching at the time and no one was on base.

Should Glasses be Worn Constantly?

Not even the Optometrist can answer that question until he has determined what condition the eyes are in. But after he has made the examination he can advise, and his advice should be followed closely in this respect. An error of vision is corrected only when the glasses are worn in spite of which fact some folks cannot be induced to wear their glasses steadily. I give my patients instructions on this point.

Results of Race On Fair's Last Day

The attraction on Friday afternoon at the Fair for the greater number of the spectators present was the two horse races and they were amongst the best held during the four days. Classes were 2.35 and 2.25 and the majority of the horses in each event were evenly matched. While in the 2.35 class only three heats were necessary it was by no means a walk over. In the 2.25 class four fast heats were necessage to be run in order to declare the winner. Both races furnished good sport for the spectators in the grand stand, also those stationed along the fence. The track was in first class condition for the events.

Just Jack a chestnut gelding owned by E. Elmhurst, of Lang, proved to be the winner in this event taking three straight heats. In each heat he was closely followed by Miss K. L. Todd and Della J., both of which showed speed. In two of the heats the finish was close. The summary was as follows:

Miss K. L. Todd, H. W. Fields.
Hamilton 2 2 2
Della J. J. McTavish, Hailesbury 3 3 3
Nancy Annable, R. McGregor, Wolfe Island 4 4 4
Grenville Lady, J. Akey, Peterboro ..... dr.
Time—2.22½, 2.21½, 2.21½.

2.25 CLASS—PURSE $300

Five horses faced George O. Tice, the starter in this event. In the first heat Lady Collins owned by W. A. Collins, of this city took the first heat and she was looked upon by many as a likely winner of the race. That however, was not the case. Harry Hall, owned by H. W. Field, of Hamilton, took the next three heats and from all appearance finished strong. The driver of Lady Collins made every effort to pass Harry Hal but was unable to do so. With the exception of the last heat the winner was closely pressed. It was in every respect a fine slow horse race, all the drivers doing their best to win. The summary was as follows:

Harry Hal, H. W. Fields, Hamilton 3 1 1 1
Lady Collins, W. A. Collins, Belleville 1 2 2 3
Bub. Ed. Jones, Peterboro.... 2 3 3 4
Ila Barr, A. McTavish, New Liskeard 4 4 5 2
Billy Hal, J. C. Lively, New Liskeard 5 5 4 5
Time—2.22½, 2.21½, 2.21½, 2.21½.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT TO SEE GREAT CROWD

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—At least five Governors, numerous members of the Congress of the United States, great droves of millionaires, prominent business and professional men and noted screen stars will soon turn their faces toward Philadelphia. This was predicted today by Tex Rickard, sports promoter who will send Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney together on the night of September 23 in a fistic battle for the world's heavyweight championship. Joe Dundee of New York, it was announced, will be time keeper for Dempsey. Tunney has not yet decided who will hold the watch for him.

The Old Love Or New?

"I am sorry," Annette said, with her pretty foreign grace of manner. "Miss Goport must forget it in the enjoyment of the dancing."

"I am sorry," Annenette said, with her pretty foreign grace of manner. "Miss Goport must forget it in the enjoyment of the dancing.

"I fear you are too tired to enjoy it, Miss de Vitry," Minnie said Smilingly. "Don't you think it would do her good to lie down for an hour?" she went on, turning to Bob. "It is not yet eleven and at twelve o'clock we could send her, and she would be a little rested."

Annette appeared to catch eagerly at the suggestion which Dr. Fitzroy seconded. And the girls went away together, Minnie turning once and a last smile, but Anetta keeping her face averted. Miss Gosport chattered gayly as she led her companion up to her room, compliimenting her in her pretty, simple manner about her acting, taking about Roy and Constance Fitzroy and Captain Brinley, and blushing very prettily over the name of the first-mentioned gentleman.

"That is Roy's room," she said, smiling. "You are next door, you see Miss de Vitry. Will you lie down on the bed or on the sofa? Shall I send you up anything?"

"No, thank you," Annette said, as she threw herself on the bed and, turned her face from the light. "I am only tired."

"We will call you in about an hour," Minnie went on, in her sweet, unconcious voice. "I hope you will feel rested."

"You are very kind."

As she spoke Annette turned on her pillow and looked at her. The girl was standing in the full glare of the silver lamp which lighted the room, and she made a pretty picture in her rich, trailing robes and pearling jewels. She nodded and smiled and coming back to the bed threw a soft shawl over Annette as she lay there.

"Good-by for thep resent," she said, stooping over Annette and offering her lips for a kiss. "Forty winks will do you good, dear."

"Good-by, and thank you," was the answer as Annette de Vitry put her arm around Minnie and, drawing her down, kissed her with a long feverish kiss, to which Minnie wondered. Then turning down the lamp she stole softly away, and oft Annette to her own devices.

For some minutes, she lay there with her face hidden in the pillows. Then she rose from the bed quickly removed the rich dress she had been wearing, and replaced it with her usually mourning attire, and, wrapping herself likewise in a long, furlined cloak.

Opening her door softly, she looked out into the long corridor and peered, but they were entirely deserted. The household were all busy with the festivities below; the guests were in the ballroom. Whatever Annette's intentions were she was secure from interruption. She left her room, went softly, with soft stealthy step, toward Roy's and, entering, noiselessly closed the door after her.

The room was lighted only by a pair of wax candles, which had been left on the dressing table, and the firelight, while before the fire was a very comfortable luxurious armchair, and on a table near a half-smoked cigar.

Annette went over to the dressing table and touched the dressing apparel with little trembling fingers. Roy was apparently rather fastidious in his arrangements, for everything belonging to his toilet appertus was of the most costly description. A pocketbook of Russian leather, clasped with silver, was lying on the table; Annette bent down and touched it gently with her lips, kissing it lovingly and tenderly. Then she crossed to the fire again, and sat down for a moment in the armchair, resting her head on thec ushion where Roy's had rested.

"Oh! my darling—my darling!" she said softly, to herself. "Will you ever know how much I loved you? Wil you ever know what I am giving up for your sake?"

At this moment a little French clock on the mantel-piece rang out, the half hour after eleven and Annett started up.

"I must go," she said, aloud. "He will be waiting for she."

She turned from the room, looking back for one long, last gance, then, drawing her cloak closely around her, she went quiet away.

THIS MOTHER GLAD DAUGHTER IS WELL

Mrs. Parks Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health

Toronto, Ontario.—"My daughter is 16 now and has been an invalid ever since she was six months old and has been compelled to remain out of school the greater part of the time. We have tried different kinds of medicine, but none seemed to help her much. Finally I was taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and when I was run-down, and it had helped me so much that I thought it might help her at this time. She has gained over nine pounds since she began it. She attends school every day now and goes skating, and does other outof-door sports. I recommend this medicine to any one who is run-down and nervous and weak."—Mrs. Parks, 106 Good Street, Toronto, Ontario.

TUMMON AND VANDERWATER WILL FIGHT SOUTH HASTINGS

NOMINATION DAY IN 218 RIDINGS ACROSS CANADA

One Acclamation Already—Quebec Not Very Definite

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—Official nominations today marked the final line-up of candidates who will contest ridings in the federal general elections a week from today. Nominations were held from 12 to 2 p.m. standard time for 218 of the 245 seats in house of commons.

The other 27 constituencies which are of particularly large areas having held their nominations a week ago to facilitate preparations for voting.

With the exception of Quebec where the situation is not quite so definite as in the other provinces, and the riding of Provencher in Manitoba where there was an acclamation, in the advance nomination, declarations based on party returns were that there would be a contest in every constituency. The acclamation in Provencher was due to the failure of the Conservative candidate to file his papers before the nominations closed. In the general election a year ago there were no acclamations. The probabilities are that there will not be so many three cornered or four cornered fights this election as in 1925, the issue settling down more generally between the two historic parties, the Liberal and Conservative, with, in several ridings, a Labor candidate. Quebec could date being nominated instead of a straight liberal. The Labor nominees will total about the same as a year ago when J. S. Woodsworth of Winnipeg, North Centre, and A. A. Heaps of Winnipeg, North, were successful.

TWO LEADERS IN TORONTO

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader and the Rt. Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, Liberal leader, were both visitors in Toronto today. The Prime Minister addressed a meeting in Pott Church this afternoon and the former Premier spoke at Newmarket in his old riding of North York. Both party leaders are spending the final week of the campaign in the province of Ontario and their itineraries have overlapped to some extent. Both will be in Owen Sound tomorrow and Stratford Thursday.

Newmarket, Ont., Sept. 7.—Mr. Mackenzie King returned this morning to his former constituency of North York to adress the nomination day meeting here in support of Harry Sifton, the Liberal candidate this year. Eleven months ago the Liberal leader, then prime minister was engaged in an intensive three days campaign through the constituency which lies on each side of historic Yonge Street, north of Toronto.

C.N.E.'s Record

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Establishing a record attendance of 258,000, or 23,000 more than the previous high of 235,000 on Children's Day in 1921, Labor Day at the Canadian National Exhibition yesterday wiped out the deficit of 34,000 caused by the downpour of rain all day on Saturday, and once again put this year's total 19,200-odd at last count. This huge attendance marks the first time that the fair has passed the quarter-million mark in one day and puts 1926 well on the way to making a new record for the thirteen days of the Exhibition, the present record of 1,519,000 having been reached in 1924. Last year's total was 1,491,000, a rainy last day pulling the attendance down by 50,000.

TENNIS TOURNEY STARTS AT ONCE ENDS 15TH SEPT.

City Champion to be Declared in Ambitious Plan By Argylls

The Argyll Club and the Campbellford club journeyed to Tweed on Monday for a friendly game and the players won a majority of their matches. The Tweed Club served refreshments at the close of the entertainment and all the players appreciated this item on the program.

The draw was made on Saturday for the city championship tournament that commences at once. All the players shown below must do everything possible to play their matches in the first round as specified. The draw resulted as follows,—

Men's Singles—E. Andrews (Bye); A. Armstrong vs. R. Cross; J. Connor, man vs. W. Coulby; D. MacFarlane vs A. Black; W. McIntosh vs. O. Butler; G. Woodley vs. S. Nurse; H. J. Parker vs W. Harding; G. Donachie vs Ed. Buchanan; Les. Reynolds vs. T. Black; H. Hurley vs. W. Fingerton; D. Poste vs. R. Brown; C. Bryant (Bye).

The back stop set out of three will constitute a win unless both players agree to play more or fewer sets. The finals of this tournament will be played on Wednesday, September 15th on the Armouries lawn. A copy of the draw can be seen on the Bulletin Board at the Armouries. Entry fee must be put before the first set is played.

This is the first time a City Champion has been declared in tennis in Belleville so it is hoped that all will do their part to make this tournament a success.

The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs have been approached in regard to donating cups to be held by the ladies' and men's singles champions for one year. This would do a great deal to create interest and it is hoped that these clubs will make such a donation to tendis in this city.

TWO REGISTERED AS MAN AND WIFE BOTH ARE FINED

Wife of Man Who Lives Here Notified the Authorities

George Smith of Toronto was fined $50.00 and costs of $7.50 and a lady friend of the same place paid $20.00 and costs before Judge Wills yesterday afternoon on charges of false registration at a hotel. Smith, who is a married man has, according to reports, not been residing with his wife for some time. He had conducted a booth at the Fair Ground last week and met his girl friend on Saturday and in the evening registered at a local hostelry as man and wife. His real wife who is a resident of this city immediately notified the police who placed the couple under arrest. Both were very much surprised and displayed considerable emotion when placed behind the bars. The girl who bears a very good reputation and comes of a fine family, was evidently enveigled into the affair by Smith.

FIFTY ARE DEAD IN THEATRE FIRE

Irish Village Near Limerick Scene of Movie Tragedy

Limerick, Ireland, Sept. 7.—Fifty persons are dead and ten seriously injured as a fire which destroyed a motion picture theatre at Dromcollogher.

THE SCENE DESCRIBED

An old wooden building without any sort of fire apparatus packed with men, women and children; an unprotected motion picture projector standing in the middle of the little hall, and inflammable films lying on a nearby table with a candle burning at the other end. This was the setting for the Drum-Collogher movie disaster as described at the inquest today. William Ford, the owner, gave this testimony himself in telling the story of how some fifty persons were incinerated in Sunday night's tragedy and many others injured. Ford said he did not even have benches for seats or sand for protection against fire. Patrick Downing, operator of the machine, told Dr. Timothy Hannon, the coroner, how two films on the table caught fire and scobled as he described the terrible stampede which followed. He declared he had not wanted to start the show at all as he did not like the place, but Ford was insistent. He said he had previously warned the owner.

The jury of twelve, meanwhile here today and attended the requiem mass in memory of the victims. The mass was an appropriate conclusion to its population and scarcely a family is untouched by the tragedy. It was only a short procession as such a picture performance had been given here.

FROM BELFAST TO DUBLIN

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 7.—For the first time in history, a message of sympathy has passed between the two Irish Governments. Finance minister Hugh Pollock, acting in the absence of Premier Craig, today telegraphed President Cosgrave of the Free State extending sympathy over Ulster's concern in the cinema tragedy at Dromcollogher.

THE WEATHER

THREAT BY MAN BRINGS POLICE

Later Allowed Out on Bail After Hearing in Court

Albert L. Johnston, of Station St., an employee on the Canadian National Railways, was brought to the police station on Saturday afternoon and placed in the cells on complaint of his wife who said he had threatened to shoot her. The accused was allowed out on bail and will appear before Judge Wills on Monday, Sept. 13th.

The police received a hurried call on Saturday to send the officers to the home as it was said that Johnston had threatened to do away with the whole family.

Sergt. of Detective Trunisch and Officer Evans answered the call and found Johnston at his home. He was later released on bail.

CAR WAS STOLEN

Returning on Saturday evening from an hours shopping in Wellington, Mrs. A. E. Morrison found that the car which her husband had left standing outside the building in Wellington in which a political meeting was being held had been stolen. The description of the car is an enclosed Chevrolet Superior No 280-154, Model 21, with nickle radiator.

Stood 1000 Feet Above Arctic Ocean Sun Did Not Set For A Whole Days

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. E. Dorcas returned on Saturday night from a two months' tour of the British Isles and Scandinavian countries, including a trip to the North Cape in Norway, a two days' sail within the Arctic Circle. The North Cape is a point a thousand feet above sea level and there they could look with undisturbed vision out over the Arctic Ocean for the four days they were there the sun never set.

Mr. Ackerman in describing it today said that "One night say it descended until within fifty feet of the ocean and then started to climb again. It was a marvelous trip and one of the finest any person could possibly take. Mr. Ackerman said they only ran into rain one day on land and that was while travelling across country in Norway. They were well prepared for rain, however and did not mind it. Dents in front of them and behind them while taking the journey north, all ran into bad weather he remarked. Crossing the Atlantic on the way home they struck some squally weather but they were very comfortable on board.

TWO HUNDRED START AT B.H.S

Old Building Again Crowded to Doors — Five New Teachers

About two hundred new pupils reported this morning at 9 o'clock at the Belleville High School for the fall term, and a good representation of the old faces was present. Five new teachers, Miss Laidley, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Nation, Mr. Howard and Miss Fenwick will take the places of those instructors who have left. Nearly all the old pupils who have not gone on to University or to take positions were back again this year. Needless to say the school was crowded.

STRAIGHT PARTY FIGHTS IN EIGHT CONSTITUENCIES

Nomination Proceedings Here Are Carried Out Without Undue Excitement - Mayor Graham Chairman - Speeches

Straight party fights in this area were determined this afternoon when nomination proceedings disclosed that:

In Durham, Mr. Bowen, Conservative, and Mr. Staples, Liberal-Progressive.

In Prince Edward-Lennox the contestants are Mr. Hubbs, Conservative, and Mr. H. H. Hersey, Liberal.

The nomination proceedings were interesting if unexciting here. The City Hall was will filled with electors of both sexes who gave the rival candidates and their assisting speakers a rousing reception. With Mr. Tummon was Col. Pratt of Toronto, a Canadian who served with distinction with the British Infantry, after being transferred from the Canadians. With Col. Vanderwater was Hon. G. N. Gordon, of Peterboro, former Liberal deputy speaker of the House of Commons, but who is not a candidate this time.

Mayor R. J. E. Graham was chairman of the meeting. Speakers for both sides alternated.

MR. TUMMON

Mr. W. E. Tummon the first speaker received a hearty reception on rising to speak and in his opening remarks stated that he had no apology to make for being the Conservative candidate last year and now this year. In October last he was elected by a majority of 2021 and he had no doubt of the result on September 14th. Mr. Tummon referred to Rt. Hon. Mr. King's speech at Richmond Hill last year in which he had seemed to mandate from the electors to proceed with the country's business. What was the result of that election? Mr. King and eight of his ministers were defeated and his party following were reduced from 116 to 101 whereas the Conservatives increased their numbers from 50 to 116. Did Rt. Hon. Mr. King resign? No; he endeavored to carry on for some time but was finally compelled to give up the run of office. He (the speaker) was heartily in accord with the progressive policy of Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen which policy was Canada for Canadians, a policy which would bring Canadians back home to this country. That this policy would prevail at the approaching election, there was no doubt.

COL. VANDERWATER

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, the Liberal Candidate, said:

It is an honor and a privilege to be called to you this afternoon in regard to the forthcoming campaign. I wish to state that it will be an absolutely clean campaign. As to my policy and platform, I am a supporter of the Robb budget. I reserve the right to announce myself until after election, but it will be in the interest of South Hastings.

In regard to whisperings of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and his colleagues in the recent campaign, Mr. Stephens and Mr. Doucet made statements which were entirely unfounded.

How is it possible for a speaker who is not responsible for what his speakers say during the campaign, can be expected to control them if they are elected?

"In regard to the Customs probe, I have no apologies to make."

The speaker showed how Customs Treasury had been increased in past years. He pointed out that the Customs had not been handled properly for some years past.

In regard to Old Age Pensions the Bill was passed, but later thrown out by the Senate. He showed Mr. Meighen's stand on the questions.

connection with Soldiers' Lands.

COLONEL A. C. PRATT

Colonel Pratt spoke in support of the Conservative Candidate. He spoke of the "announcement" by Colonel Vanderwater which appears daily in the press which, he said, did not state definitely which party he supported.

William Lyon Mackenzie King has been throwing out smoke screens in this campaign. Mr. Meighen is in favor of an adequate tariff. He has stated so on various occasions. There is nothing to be afraid of so far as it is concerned. It does not mean high prices for low, but a stable tariff which will mean a reduction in prices.

The British Government placed tariff of 33 1-3 per cent. on cars, and as a result the price of motor cars has decreased. Premier Baldwin commented on this fact in a speech made a short time ago.

The man who knows that there is crookedness in either party and neglects to stop it is weak.

"I don't believe that Mackenzie King had the moral courage or he would have stopped them. He was told many times before. The man who owns $3200 a year and can bank $49,000 a year is certainly crooked, referring to Hamilton, Liberal Candidate.

Col. Pratt showed how easy it was for certain prominent Liberals who tried to cover up their acts in reference to the candidate. We want men at our national helm who are honest and upright. He had nothing but his list of feelings toward Col. Vanderwater, a returned soldier. He (the speaker) would take off his hat to a returned man but that was not the cause. It was greater than that. In conclusion he hoped that a large majority would be rolled up for Mr. Tummon, the Conservative candidate. — (Loud applause).

HON. MR. GORDON

Hon. G. N. Gordon, of Peterboro, in his opening remarks claimed that Rt. Hon. Mr. King entering the war was just as patriotic as Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen. In regard to a protective tariff it was necessary to have some protection but a lowering of protection on autos had proved to be good as it lowered the prices of motor cars and the auto industry of this country was not afflicted. The Liberal party gave reductions in taxation which has proved beneficial. Smuggling was one of the things that has ever existed and it is often hard to detect. The tendencies is great and smuggling has gone on under different administrations, he declared.

Paris, Sept. 7.—The Prince of Wales is going to the United States next year, says a despatch to the Paris edition of the New York Herald from Biarritz, where the Prince is on a vacation.

"I am looking forward to my second visit with great pleasure," the Prince is quoted as having told Alexander F. Moore, former United States Ambassador to Spain.

SPAIN NORMAL AFTER 2 REVOLT PUT DOWN

King Alfonso Will Return To San Sebastion to Finish Holiday

London, Sept. 7.—A plot in Spain to seize the King and cause his abdication was frustrated by the prompt suppression of the military revolt.

London, Sept. 7.—The Spanish Embassy has received a telegram from Madrid saying normality has been re-established and that King Alfonso will return to San Sebastian today or Wednesday.

In a state of war earlier reports declared:

All Spain has been declared under the stringent regulations of a state of war. The artillery section of the Spanish army is in open revolt, and all artillery officers, except those in Morocco have been ordered suspended.

King Alfonso, hastily notified of the mutiny in the army, came speedily to Madrid by automobile from San Sebastian, the summer Capital. He left San Sebastian at 2.30 a.m. and arrived here seven hours later.

The King went immediately into conference with General Prime de Rivera, the Premier, and the Duke of Tetuan, Minister of War. A Government decree was issued proclaiming a state of war, and providing punishment for those disregarding it.

GOVERNMENT CLAIMS VICTORY

The Government issued an official statement declaring that the mutinous regiment of the Spanish artillery had been completely suppressed. The statement reads:

"The King and the Cabinet have reiterated their confidence in General Primo de Rivera. Messages of loyalty have been received from all branches of the army. The artillery barracks have been occupied and are being guarded by other troops, as ordered by the Government."

CIACO EXCURSION RAN INTO RAIN AT TORONTO FAIR

Were Forced to Spend Time in Buildings — No Night Show

At 7.45 a.m. sharp on Saturday morning last, the special train carrying nearly five hundred pleasure-seeking employees of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Corbyville plant left the upper station en route for Toronto and the Canadian National Exhibition. Making no stops except to get water, the train pulled in right at the exhibition grounds about 11 o'clock and everybody piled out, all ready to have one glorious time.

PLENTY OF RAIN

And then it started to rain!

It rained from about 11.15 in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, and it didn't let up for one minute either. The picnickers who all had reserved seats for the grandstand were forced to scurry for the numerous exhibition buildings and had to keep in-doors most of the day. A lot of them had brought their lunches so eat at the picnic grounds but however, with taking in all the different buildings and wandering around the sideway a very "happy" day was spent by all, and around eleven p.m. they all piled on their special train which had been brought right into the grounds and started for home.

In spite of the bad weather everybody had an interesting outing though disappointed that the night spectacle had

King Cabinet's Guilty Knowledge?

Here Is Proof Aplenty

It was proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and members of his Cabinet were fully informed in 1924, if not earlier,

That the Customs service of Canada had broken down;
That the Treasury was being defrauded of millions of dollars;
That the Customs Preventive Service was in the hands of a gang of crooks and thieves;
That legitimate business men were being driven into bankruptcy by competition from smugglers.
That the Minister of Customs, Hon. Jacques Bureau, was disregarding all rules and regulations governing the collection of the public revenue.

This is borne out by correspondence filed before the Committee between R. P. Sparks, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Commercial Protective Association, and the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

In June, 1924, the conditions had become so bad that a group of business men asked for an appointment with the Cabinet to lay the whole situation before them.

August 6th, 1924, a large representative deputation met the Prime Minister and these five members of his Cabinet—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. J. H. King, Hon. Jacques Bureau, Hon. E. M. Macdonald and Hon. George H. Graham.

The delegation represented such organizations as:

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada,
The Canadian Jewellers' Association,
The Wholesale Dry Goods Association of Canada,
The Canadian Association of Garment Manufacturers,
The Canadian Manufacturers' Association,
Merchants' Association of Montreal,
Manufacturers' Credit Bureau, Limited,
Board of Trade of the City of Montreal,
Board of Trade of the City of Toronto, and many other Boards of Trade.

A report of this meeting made at the time was filed before the Customs Investigation Committee.

It was not until December, 1925, after the Stevens motion for a Special Committee of Investigation was actually on the order paper, that the King Government made its first move in the direction of a clean-up by dismissing the crook Bisaillon!

Members of the King Cabinet, Liberal Members of Parliament and Liberal politicians involved before the Customs Investigation Committee, either by sworn testimony taken before the Committee, or by documents read into its record, were the following:

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.
Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of Militia and Defence.
Hon. Jacques Bureau, Senator and ex-Minister of Customs and Excise.
Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Acting Minister of Customs and Excise.
Hon. A. B. Copp, Senator and ex-Secretary of State.
Hon. B. C. Prowse, Senator.
Hon. J. E. Sinclair, ex-Minister without Portfolio.
Hon. P. J. Veniot, ex-Liberal Premier of New Brunswick.
William Duff, M.P. for Queen's-Lunenburg, and Deputy Speaker.
P. F. Casgrain, M.P. for Charlevoix-Saguenay, and Liberal Whip.
L. J. Lovett, ex-M.P. for Digby-Annapolis.
P. L. Hatfield, M.P. for Shelburne-Yarmouth.
Pius Michaud, ex-M.P. for Restigouche-Madawaska.
Robert E. Finn, ex-M.P. for Halifax.
J. G. Robichaud, M.P. for Gloucester.
A. E. McLean, M.P. for Prince.
F. L. Kelly, ex-M.P. for Cape Breton North Victoria.
W. J. Hushion, ex-M.P. for St. Antoine.
W. K. Baldwin, M.P. for Stanstead.

Is a Government, under which the machinery for the collection of the public revenue completely broke down, now to be entrusted with the reorganization of that machinery?

The Investigation Committee recommended the prosecution of firms and persons for the recovery of about two million dollars out of which the public treasury had been defrauded. The pressing of these prosecutions will be in the hands of the incoming Government. Liberal Ministers and Liberal members of the Committee have attempted to defend and justify these frauds.

Every case won by the smugglers and lost by the taxpayers will be welcomed as a vindication by the King Government. Every case won by the taxpayers and lost by the smugglers will be a reflection on the King Government.

Can a Liberal Government be depended upon to press them to a successful conclusion in the interests of honest taxpayers?

AN ARTISTIC WINDOW

This is pitching time and in that connection one of the windows of the Wallbridge (Bridge St.) store has a layout that is attractive and arresting. A bridge made out of cakes of garden sods supports a convoy of miniature army elephants so much in vogue as ornaments and on the backs of the mammals are various assortments of spices "from the East" including allspice and cloves and mace and cinnamon and nutmeg add one with certain pride covers an onion. The display is one with an idea and is something rather out of the ordinary.

JOINS PROVINCIALS

Word has been officially received here to the effect that Police Constable Wilfred Joseph Pranks who has been a member of the local police force for nearly three years has been accepted as an officer on the Provincial Police. Mr. Pranks has been ordered to report to Toronto for duty on September 15th. While on the Belleville forces Constable Pranks has made many friends due to his courteousness and attention to duty. His successor has not yet been determined. It is not known at what point he will be stationed with the Government forces.

AT KIWANIS

The chief subject under discussion among Kiwanians at their weekly luncheons these days is the Big Annual Karnival to be held in the Armories for five days, September 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24. Today's meeting was no exception and the enthusiastic efforts of the chairmen and members of the various committees augur well for the success of the 2nd Annual Kiwanis Karnival. Plans are maturing, taking rapidly and indicate the production of an even more successful Karnival than last year's event. The Ontario Quebec District Convention held last year in Ottawa will take place this month in Toronto, September 20th and 21st with headquarters at the King Edward Hotel. The local Club will be well represented and is planning to send a large number of delegates to the convention.

RUTTAN—KELLY

On Monday morning a pretty wedding was solemnized when Rose Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ruttan, 295 Pinnacle street, was united in marriage with William Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thomas Kelly, of Belleville, Rev. H. B. Kenny officiating.

The bride who was attended by her sister, Mrs. C. A. Campbell, looked lovely in her wedding costume of sand crepe, sand hat with sand ospery and blonde shoes and stockings.

Mr. Campbell supported the groom. Immediately after the ceremony which was preformed in the Tabernacle Church parsonage, the wedding party returned to the home of the brides parents, where wedding breakfast was served in the prettily decorated dining room. Later the young couple left by the noon train for Rochester, the bride travelling in a rust satin faced crepe costume, robin egg blue coat with fox trimming and small sand hat. They will reside in Belleville.

Mrs. Kelly, who was extremely popular amongst a large circle of friends, in the city was the recipient of many hand some and costly gifts including a dinner set from the John Malcolm Company firm and a beautiful Kenwood blanket from the employees of the firm.

SKELLY—HOWARD

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in Belleville, when Miss Laura Howard, daughter of Mr. Nelson Howard, became the bride of Mr. Harold Skelly. The Rev. Mr. Sharpe officiating.

The bride looked very pretty in a white canton crepe dress trimmed with embroidery and white hat, and shoes and stockings to match, wearing the groom's gift a pearl necklplace. The bride was assisted by Miss Blanche Lawson who looked charming in a powder blue georgette with ecru lace, black velvet picture hat and black satin shoes.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful bracelet set with sapphires and to the best man, gold cuff links.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Toronto and points west.

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectfully soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,
ROSCOE VANDERWATER.

NOMINATION DAY

Today is nomination day. Is something like 218 constituencies there will be nominated to contest seats for the House of Commons. Mostly the result will be two party fights with however, quite a sprinkling of three cornered and some quadruple contests. Other nominations took place a week ago.

In another week the country will vote. That vote at this time from the best informed circles will send to Parliament an increased Conservative representation. Gains in British Columbia, in Alberta, in Manitoba and in Ontario are confidently seen with the Maritimes holding their own and the possibility of gains in Quebec.

Premier Meighen's tour has been a great success and even Liberals admit that for them the situation is dangerous.

The two interesting sections of the country are of course the Prairies and Quebec. What they do will determine to a great extent the complexions of the next House but authoritative and reliable reports are as have been stated.

AMUSEMENT TAX TO GO NEXT

Premier Ferguson announced to a delegation the end of last week that the amusement tax on popular priced theatre tickets would be dropped, during the next Ontario legislature. This wartime levy will at last be done away with since the revenues of the province are being increased with such steadiness and certainty that the Provincial Treasurer will be enabled to frame his budget to allow for the changed system of financing.

The Premier himself likes amusements—and takes every opportunity to see them, and he likes them as do all normal people when they are not too expensive. This is what he told the delegation. It shows for one thing how "human" he is and how well he watches the needs and desires of his people. Mr. Ferguson it is to be hoped will have a long term as Premier, long enough to see Ontario safely out of the woods with respect to debts, and far on the road to its destiny as the banner province, one of the greatest units of Empire.

DOUBLE TAXATION

Ever since the election campaign began, Liberal speakers and writers have been extolling the Robb budget of 1926 as a marvel of financial skill and economic wisdom. The Robb budget has some good points, but it also has its weaknesses. One of its defects is the application of the unjust and vicious principle of double taxation.

Before this year the incomes of incorporated companies were taxed, but the incomes of individuals deriving from dividends paid by Canadian industrial corporations were exempt. It had been realized that to tax a company's net income as a whole, and also to tax it after its distribution among shareholders, would be unfair—that it would be double taxation. But in the budget of last session the exemption of dividends was abolished, and show the income of a company is taxed in bulk and also after it has been distributed in dividends.

The levying of taxes more than once up on any source of revenue is a blunder which statesmen rarely commit except under the stress of extreme necessity. Australian governments have found it difficult to find revenue enough to meet expenditure, and there is a federal income tax which yields a large proportion of Australia's national revenue. But no Australian statesman have ventured to propose the taxation both of the total income of a corporation and also of the dividends which it distributes. The Australian income tax law provides for the taxation of a company only upon so much of its income as it does not distribute among its shareholders.

CANADA'S LOSSES

Evidence before the Customs Inquiry explains how it was that in four years of Mr. Mackenzie King's rule Canada collected exactly $140,000,000 less of Customs revenue than under the preceding four years of Conservative rule. Here are the official figures:

FOUR YEARS OF CONSERVATIVE RULE

1918	144,172,630
1919	147,169,183
1920	168,796,823
Total	$594,173,487

FOUR YEARS OF LIBERAL RULE

1922	$105,686,646
1923	118,056,460
1924	121,500,799
1925	108,146,871
Total	$453,390,777

Or a difference, of $140,782,702. The "interest of the party" was clearly an expensive thing for the people of Canada.

THE ISSUES STATED BRIEFLY

1. The question of whether or not the Government and Parliament of Canada shall continue to be ruled by an irresponsible and sectional minority.

2. The question of whether corruption and debauchery of the public service at the cost of millions of dollars of the public's money shall be condoned or condemned.

3. The question of whether we shall have a national fiscal policy or one dictated by political expediency.

Saturday Night points out that these are not issues advanced or manufactured by one party or the other, but rather produced by the condition of the country and by the record of the recent Government and of the past two Parliaments. The writer concludes:

"They are issues to be decided, not by passion or patriotism, but by calm and considered regard for the economic welfare of this country and its people collectively and individually, for the survival of responsible Government, and for integrity in public life. The decision of these issues does not rest with parties; it rests with the people of Canada, irrespective of party. There is little room for partisanship in this election, and I believe that when it comes to the casting of ballots on September 14, partisanship will be pretty well put aside."

WILL DROP TAX ON AMUSEMENTS

Premier Ferguson Promises to Abolish War-time Levy

FINANCES JUSTIFY IT

Deputation of Theatre Owners Agrees to Pass Reduction On

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Telling a large deputation of theatre proprietors that he recognized amusement as a necessity of life, that he indulged in it at every opportunity and enjoyed it the more the cheaper he secured it, Premier Ferguson announced the Ontario Governments intention at the next session of the Legislature to abolish the amusement tax in so far as it affected popular-priced tickets. Complete abolition of the tax, the Prime Minister said, would be the ultimate goal, to be achieved after a period during which the portion of the tax remaining would bear only upon those who could afford to pay it.

The Premier's pronouncement was received with enthusiasm by the theatre owners, whose expectation had frankly not been for any such sweeping acquiescence in their taxation complaint. They came as representatives of the public on the day upon which it was made. Their presentation was heard, and Premier Ferguson took the occasion to make his reply favorable, declaring that the Government had had the situation under review for the past year and a half, but that Provincial finances had precluded any cuts being made heretofore. The Governments revenues, however, were showing marked improvement for the year, and it was considered feasible to have the Provincial Treasurer shape his next budget so that the amusement tax might be dropped from popular-priced tickets.

SAY EMERGENCY IS OVER

The deputation was headed by W. H. Finlayson, M.P.P. for East Simcoe, and Charles Garvin, M.P., for North Simcoe. Mr. Finlayson pointed out that the amusement tax had originally been designed as a war-revenue measure, and that the emergency which had occasioned it was now nine years past. The motion-picture theatre, he further stressed, had become a necessity, catering to the amusement needs of the masses, and could no longer be considered a luxury. He ventured the hope, accordingly, that the deputation's presentation would be favorably received.

Upon behalf of the deputation the speakers were Mayor Arthur Bugg of Midland, himself a theatre proprietor, and J. M. Franklin of Ottawa.

EIGHTEEN KILLED IN COLORADO WRECK

Denver, Col., Sept. 7.—Eighteen persons were killed, 50 injured, 2.5 seriously, when the Scenic Special, crack Denver & Rio Grande Western passenger train, Salt Lake City to Denver, was derailed 45 miles west of Salida, Col., according to an official announcement by the railway's headquarters here.

Running 40 minutes late, with G. M. Lillie, road engineer foreman and an experienced engineer, at the throttle, the train left the rails, hurtling the engine, baggage car, two day coaches and one sleeper into the Arkansas River.

CONQUER CONSTIPATION EASILY

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieves constipation because it is 100% BRAN

Mr. McEnery tried part-bran substitutes — but only ALL-BRAN brought complete relief. Here's what he says:

"For fifteen years I was troubled with constipation. About two years ago I tried cut mixed bran and extra bran but did not get much relief. Some eighteen months ago I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week in that good way I have served it to take a dose of my laxative unnecessary."

James D. McEnery

Constipation is the enemy of health. The cause of more than forty diseases. Don't let this insidious trouble send its poisons through your body. Pimples, spots before the eyes, indigestion and headaches—are warning signs.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your money is refunded. Delicious with milk, fruit or with other cereals. Fine in cooking.

DUKE AND DUCHESS TRAVEL ON "REUNION"

London, Sept. 7.—The Duke and Duchess of York, who are going to visit New Zealand and Australia, will sail from Portsmouth aboard the battle-cruiser Renown on Jan. 6, proceeding by way of the Panama Canal. This official announcement dispels the illusion that "no woman, not even a Duchess," may be permitted to journey on a British warship. Thus one of the traditions of the British Navy will soon go by the boards. The Duke of York will officiate at the opening of Parliament in the new Australian Capital at Canberra on May 9. The Royal couple will reach New Zealand in February, and will visit Australia toward the end of March.

ALEMITES PROVE THE BEST TEAM IN CITY SERIES

Won Three Games in Row on Monday to Clinch Cup

Despite the fact that the muddy track at the Fair grounds caused the cancellation of the sports yesterday which were to have been held under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council, the weather did not dampen the ardor of the softball players who staged their tournament on the armouries lawn and in the building yesterday afternoon and evening.

Five games were played for the Trades and Labor Cup and the Alemite style demonstrated their superiority over the other teams by winning all of their three games. The trophy is beautiful and caused keen rivalry among the teams.

A big crowd watched the afternoon games and even larger delegations swarmed the inside of the Armouries for the evening performance.

"Twig" Woodley umpired all of the games behind the plate with Allan Mosher and Vern Weir on the bases.

FOSTER WARD 21—A 1's 2.

The first game was a complete runaway for the Foster Ward who gave the A1 team a severe trimming. Jim McKenna's girls lashed out bit after bit and was without any bottle at all.

ALEMITES 12—DEACON'S 11

The Alemites were matched up with Deacon's in the second game with the Frontenacs drawing a bye. It was one of the best games of the day and only after a great struggle were the hitchhikers able to down the skirt-seekers by the score of 12-11. Only seven innings were played and following the game the Deacon's protested that four men had been put out in the third inning and after looking at the score-card it was found that their protest was correct and the committee decided that the game should be replayed. It should, however, have been protested at the time instead of waiting until the game was over but in the excitement of the game this was overlooked.

Alemites (12)—Baker, V. Rainbird, Boyle, E. Rainbird, O. Adams, M. Ray, W. Weese, G. Ray, Fairbairn.

FOSTER WARD 8—FRONTENACS 6

The Foster Ward with practically the same line-up as used in the first game advanced into the finals by winning the third game of the afternoon against the Frontenacs by the score of 8-6. Both teams were evenly matched and the issue was in doubt until the last batter was out.

ALEMITES 9—DEACON 5

The Alemites and Deacon's replayed their protested game at 7.30 last night on the Armouries floor before a big crowd of rail-birds. Again the east enders triumphed and went into the finals for the cup. The Deacon's, however, made things interesting for the Alemites.

ALEMITES 24—FOSTER WARD 14

The final game of the evening was a free-hitting affair with the Alemites just a little better with the willow than Jim McKenna's proteges, the final count being 24-14. The Foster team have improved wonderfully this season and will give the best of them a real argument next year. The team trotted out in natty new jerseys yesterday. Olive Adams, E. Rainbird and Marie Ray were the shining lights with the winners and M. Kelleher and M. Knott were the best for the losers.

Mr. Rowsome, manager of the Alemite plant feted the team at the Radio Cafe following their winning the cup.

The series among the Bay of Quinte teams will be played a week from Wednesday, Sept. 15th.

Should Glasses Be Worn Constantly?

Not even the Optometrist can answer that question until he has determined what condition the eyes are in. But after he has made the examination he can advise, and his advice should be followed closely in this respect. An error of vision is corrected only when the glasses are worn in spite of which fact some folks cannot be induced to wear their glasses steadily. I give my patients instructions on this point.

LABOR DAY SPORTS TO BE HELD LATER

After looking the grounds at the Agricultural Park over yesterday morning, the officers of the Belleville Trades and Labor Council decided the grass and grounds were in no condition for the different events scheduled for th celebration, planned by the organization. The little knot of optimists who with basket and bag had gathered on the grounds dejectedly accepted the ultimatum when two of the officers posted the bulletin announcing the postponement of the events until Wednesday, September 15th, when a bigger and better programme even than that scheduled will be presented.

The officers with whom the decision rested were: President, Charles C. Graten; Vice-Pres., Fred Pastery; Secretary, Thos. A. Berritt; Treasurer, Geo. McDonald; Executive Committee, officers named and D. F. Macrae; Ted E. J. Folwell; W. J. Paris; C. E. Hanna; Albert Quincey; C. W. Mott; Chas. Smith; Jesse Dowling; J. S. Pratt; S. H. BATSTONE MAY PLAY ON ARGONAUT TEAM

Expected to Turn Out For First Practice of Club on Tuesday

Toronto, September 4.—The Argonaut Club of the Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union, held its annual meeting on "get-together" today when it was announced that the opening practice of the Double Blue squad would be held on September 7. M. J. Roddon, coach of the team, Ernie Laidlaw, manager, and Isaac Dohan, president of the I. R. F. U., were among the speakers. In addition to members of the 1925 team, those present included Warren Snyder, Cecil Bromley, L. McLean, and H. Robinson of the Balmy Beach team of the O.R.F.U. Harry Batstone, former Queen's University, was not present, but it was stated that he would be on hand for the first practice: "Chuck" Hughes, backfield player and basketball star, has returned from Windsor and states he will play for Argos.

MISS ADA MACKENZIE TO MEET HELEN PAGET FOR WOMEN'S HONORS

Winnipeg, September 4.—Miss Ada Mackenzie, Mississauga, Toronto, and Miss Helen Paget, of the Royal Ottawa Club, earned the right to play off for the title of Canadian ladies' open championship, at present held by Miss Mackenzie, when they won their semi-final matches at the Elmhurst course here.

Miss Mackenzie played golf of real championship calibre to dispose easily of Lester Smith, of York Downs, Toronto, of her youthful opponent. Miss Cecil to, by a margin of 7 and 6, while Miss Paget who holds the Canadian junior title, outplayed Mrs. Vera Hutchings, of the Jericho Club, Vancouver, in the short game, to win by 3 and 2.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we dont have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents. It is improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

MEETING HERE SATURDAY NIGHT PROVES SUCCESS

Mr. G. R. Leary of Toronto Eloquent in Aid of Tummon

Despite inclement weather and the fact that on Saturday night all places of business are opened, the gathering in the City Hall last Saturday evening was a representative one and much enthusiasm was manifested. The meeting was held in the interest of Mr. W. E. Tummon the popular Conservative candidate for South Hastings who was accorded a hearty reception when he rose to speak.

Previous to the speaking the young Men's Conservative orchestra rendered some tuneful selections.

Major D. Ponton was chairman and performed that duty in a manner that was pleasing. He made a fine speech and stated that we invited opposition in this election so that a popular vote may be recorded. Mr. Tummon the Conservative candidate would be elected by a large majority. The Conservative policy is one that means stability for Canada for the benefit of the Canadian people. The chairman referred to the platform enunciated by Col. R. Vanderwater, K. C., who was the policy not of Mackenzie King but rather that of the Rt. Hon. R. Meighen. The Liberal candidate should be according to his platform supporting Mr. W. E. Tummon the Conservative candidate.

Mr. W. E. Tummon in his opening remarks thanked the electors for the splendid loyal support given him last October in electing him the representative of South Hastings. He asked for that same support at this approaching election. Canada was a country that was in a unique position being almost the side of a country that had a population of 110 millions and a great industrial country. The emigration law of the U.S. whilst shutting its door to some countries opens it to Canadian born they only come. This policy takes our Canadian born as citizens. We want Canada for our Canadian boys. In three years more 100 thousand Canadas left Canada and went to the U.S. The policy of Hon. M. King was responsible for this state of affairs. Mr. Tummon showed conclusively that the farmers were not today buying farm implements any cheaper even if the duty was lowered. Millions of dollars worth of farm machinery are brought into Canada yearly from the United States. These should have been made in Canada by Canadian labor. Is it any wonder that our boys and girls are goin gover to the United States. The policy pursued by the Rt. Hon. A. Meighen is one that will protect the industries of this country and keep our young men at this country. This is the policy upon he (the speaker) supported and it was a policy that he had no doubt would be sustained on September 14th by the electors at South Hastings and the electors generally throughout the country.

The old age pension bill passed the House unanimously but it was not such a bill as all had faith in, or the Conservatives wanted a unionmy bill which is not true of the present bill. Hon. Mr. King was deceiving the people in reference to this bill. The Senate killed it and some Liberals voted for it. If Rt. Hon. A. Meighen is returned to power he will confer with the Premiers of the various Provinces of this country and pass an old age pension bill that will be uniform and do equal justice to all. In concluding his address Mr. Tummon asked for the support of all on September 14th. (Loud applause.)

After a tenor solo by Dr. A. D. Haller entitled "I'll Sing these Songs of Araby," rendered in a most capable manner, Mr. W. H. Ireland M.P.P. for West Hastings was called upon and gave a fighting address. He referred to the fact that candidates opposed to the Conservative candidates were everything from a Liberal to a Progressive. He urged upon all to give their support to Mr. Tummon. There was only a few days left to work. Work for Ernie Tummon and give him the largest majority ever given in this riding.

Mr. T. N. Lenox, of Toronto, was accorded a warm reception when he was introduced to the audience. In 1921 when Mackenzie King had control of the reins of power and what did he do for the stability of this country. What is Mackenzie King's policy today. All it is that "Meighen can't be elected, vote Liberal" that is all. Is not anything Liberal" that is all. Is not anything that policy and see what it is. In 1921 Mackenzie King had 117 seats and the Conservatives had only 57, whereas in the election of 1925 the Conservatives climbed up to 117 seats in numbers against 101 against Mackenzie King. As we did this in 1925 we can do more at the election. The speaker referred to the customs smuggling. Did not Mackenzie know the country was being robbed and yet he did nothing but put a friend in the Senate at $4,000 a year. Mackenzie King had 4 years and 8 months to clean up this confused mixup. Did he do it? We will put in power a party that will clean it up. Why is money lying in the bank today in Canada instead of being invested in industries. It is because of the inability of the King Government. Business men do not know where they are at on account of the tinkering of the tariff by Mackenzie King.

Mr. Lenox referred to the constitutional issue which Mackenzie King would like to raise in this campaign. King realized that if a vote was taken as the House on the customs scandal he would be defeated and he went out of the back door to the Governor-General and asked for dissolution but he was refused. He left Canada during the war and he left the House on June 27th to escape defeat. The only issue in this campaign is the fiscal policy of the Conservative party. A protective policy must be maintained to keep out of Canada products that now are coming from other countries, which can be produced in this country. This will attract labor and will help industries. In closing his address Mr. Lenox asked all to go to the polls on election day and do their duty. He predicted a r'ah sweep for Hon. A. Meighen and the Conservative party on Sept. 14th.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after cheers for Rt. Hon. R. Hon. A. Meighen and W. E. Tummon.

PACIFIC COAST VACATIONS IN SEPTEMBER

Nature designed the Canadian Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Coast in such a way that their inimitable scenery will ever hold a thrill for the tourist no matter how often it is viewed.

The Alpine grandeur of Jasper Park with its hundreds of giant snow-capped peaks standing continuallee over the 4,400 square miles of lakes, rivers, valleys and forests, lures hundreds every year, and is even more beautiful and attractive in September than in the earlier months of the tourist season. Jasper Park Lodge offers luxurious accomodation and golf, tennis, climbing, campiue, motoring, dancing and water sports offer recreation.

The famous Triangle Tour, by train from Jasper National Park along the Mystic Steppe to Prince Rupert, by boat to Vancouver and then by rail through the roaring gorges of the Thompson and Fraser rivers, offers views of majestic mountains and awe-inspiring spots that cannot be seen any other way.

The Canadian National low tourist fares to these wonder records are still in effect and permit stop-overs all along the route. The National, the radio-equipped luxury train from Toronto to the West gives daily and direct East, died in Tilbury on Sunday.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT CONSULT YOUR DOCTOR

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water; each day, also get from your druggist four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

VEEDOL

Dealer Sign and ask for Veedol by Name

Veedol motor oil, made in six grades including Veedol Forzol for Fords, will give your motor the famous Veedol

"film of protection."

In every corner of the world Veedol is giving satisfaction because of its unvarying high quality.

Upon the quality of oil used in your motor depends the very life and accomplishment of your car. Only a thin film of motor oil holds the fighting line and guards your motor from damage. Your gasoline may run out—your tires blow out—your battery fail—inconvenience is the only price you pay. Poor oil and a broken oil film may mean burned out bearings—a long delay and a big repair bill.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

Humor, always a prime ingredient of the screen offerings of Colleen Moore, fairly overflows and inundates the screen at Griffin's Theatre this week, with the beginning of the engagement there of "Ella Cinders."

The marked talents of Miss Moore as a comedienne never have found greater expression than in the new John McCormick production based on the newspaper comic strip of the same which First National is distributing. Laughter rocked exactly and lences incessantly at every performance yesterday and patrons carried home with them the consciousness of having witnessed the work of an artiste whose finesse in extracting laughs is unsurpassed by any rival.

There is much to hold the interest in the tale projected by Miss Moore and her talented associates, among whom Lloyd Hughes ranks first. Even as truth is stranger, so is fact funnier than fiction, in this instance at least.

AT THE BELLE

In the last adventure which Samuel Goldwyn and Mortaren Chaney saw fit to expose to the public, of Potash & Perlmutter, these worthies were worrying through a dabble in the motion pictures production game. In the new episode in their hectic career as business associates, "Partners Again," coming to the Belle Theatre tomorrow, they are pooling their wits and resources in the "distribution" of a new automobile, the Schenckman Six.

They distribute it, by all accounts, in a very free and humorous manner, characterized, transmission, diffusion, pedals and clutches are much more complicated and even more exasperating than the movies' vamps and yes men.

George Sidney and Alexander Carr, playing the title roles in this production, have never been more happy in opportunity for real comedy making as in this particular comedy. And that they improve "each shining hour" will not be doubted by motion picture audiences."

The Old Love Or New?

"What in the world has come to Roy?" said Dave Fitzroy to Captain Brinley, an hour later. " I just told him I had seen Annette driving away ; suppose home to the Grange— and he started off like an escaped Bedlamite, and left his partner planted in; of course I could do nothing but finish his dance with her."

"Where is Roy?" exclaimed Brinley, hurriedly, as a thought flashed through his mind as to the fear which had struck Roy.

"Gone off to the stables, I believe," said Jack, carelessly. "I told you he was just a Bedlamite. Why, if there is not another!" headded, sotto voce, as the young officer rushed off in great a hurry as Roy himself had done.

"What is the matter, Fitzroy?" said Captain Brinley, on reaching the stables, and finding Roy saddling a horse with his own hands, and grumbling at the groom's tardiness. "Where are you going?"

"Over to the Grange," Roy answered, with an uneasy laugh. "Jack tells me that Annette has gone. Hang it all, Dick, you must have seen how it was between us. I an afraid she is ill, or something is wrong. I must see."

"Wait for the morning, old fellow," urged Captain Brinley. "The wretched night, and even if Miss de Vitry is ill, there are servants at the Grange."

Roy said nothing, but proceeded in silence; the groom went away for a missing strap, and Captain Brinley put his hand on his friend' shoulder.

"Roy," he said, gravely, "what do you fear?"

"I do not know," the young man answered—"I do not know; but don't try to stop me, Dick, I must go."

"I will go with you," said Captain Brinley. "But I think you are overanxious. I had better make some excuses to Mr. Gosport while they are settling about the horses.'

Roy put out his hand and grasped his friend's with a close handclasp, and when Captain Brinley came back he found the horses ready, and Roy in his saddle.

"Your uncle is very much disturbed," said his friend, as he mounted his horse. "It is an awful night, Roy!"

The wind was roaring lustily and blowing the snow about in every possible direction, blinding them as they rode out of the stable yard and turned their horses' heads in the direction of Royston Grange.

CHAPTER IX.
"SHE WAS MY WORLD"

Twenty minutes' hard riding brought the two friends to the Grange but the silent, dark aspect of the house made Roy pull up suddenly, and hesitate.

"It hardly looks as if they were here," he said, doubtfully. "Dave said Annette was not alone, and I suppose one of the servants was with her."

"We had better find out!" said his companion, dismounting, and alighting the more off his greatcoat, as he rang a peal at the doorbel, which brought Benson, the 4th butler, down in a very hasty manner, without time de nuit, for which he stammered an apology, and Captain Brinley went in, while Roy rode around to the stables with the horses.

"Have any of the party from Gosport Hall returned?" he asked ,as Benson began hurriedly to relight the dining-room fire.

"You are sure she did not return here?" said Richard Brinley, starting sometimes for the rehearsals, but in the evening when Miss Blanche was in bed, she was quiet Alone. In fact, she was alone every evening except——"

"Well?"

"Except one when Miss Fitzroy drove over for an hour or two, and Miss Annette seemed quieter than ever after that."

"The gentleman who called. Did he give his name, Benson?"

"No, sir."

"Was he an old man?"

"Oh! no, sir; young and comely." Captain Brinley's dark brows met in an angry frown. Anette had to doubt tired of her anomalous position at the Grange, and had departed with an old lover.

"Was he an Englishman?"

"He spoke well, sir; but I think he was not English. He spoke French to Miss Annette."

"Thank you, Benson," said Captain Brinley and returned to the schoolroom leaving the garrulous old man with a shrewd suspicion that something was wrong.

The schoolroom was empty when he entered, but in a minute or two Roy came down, looking ghastly pale and dreadfully agitated.

"Roy, by poor fellow,' said the friend, going forward to meet him, and holding out his hand,

"What is it all this, Dick?" he exclaimed, feverishly. "I cannot understand it. Blanche is breaking her heart upstairs, saying that Annette has gone away forever; that she went up to her before going to Gosport Hall and kissed her crying and, saying she must forget her, she was going away."

"Is is as I thought," said Dick, sadly. "I feared she was false, Roy. "She told the child." Roy went of in his hunky, broken voice—"she told the child that if Roy seemed angry she was to ask him to forgive her to think gently of her. Dick, I cannot understand it all. I am half mad, I think. Does it mean, can it mean that Annette—Annette whom I so loved—Annette whom I so trusted, has played me false?"

STRATFORD WOMAN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Stratford, Ontario. — "After my first baby was born I started to work on the tenth day and did a big washing on the twelfth day. Being so young (I was married at 19) I did not know what was the matter, so let it go until I was all run-down, weak and nervous, and had a bad displacement. For two years I could not sleep and I would always complain of having a head-ache, but a brain-ache. My mother is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and she recommended it to me. After taking two bottles I began to get a little sleep and to feel better and I have never left off since then, except for about three months. I am-safely say I have taken thirty bottles since my second baby was born. I think it makes child-birth easier as I had terrible pains with my first three children and ever for with my fourth as I was so much stronger. I am now able to do my work alone, and I am still taking the Vegetable Compound as I am nursing baby."—Mrs. OSTER PAUL, 49 Cherry Street, Stratford, Ontario.

"If you are suffering from any weakness which such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feeling, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Women Tell

Others how this new hygienic pad discards easily as tissue — no laundry

BECAUSE one woman so advises others, and because doctors so urge, most women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new and better way.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Many times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

WAR HATREDS BURIED; GERMANY ADMITTED TO LEAGUE

TUMMON HEARD AT SHANNONVILLE AND POINT ANNE

Two Fine Meetings on Tuesday Evening — Col. Pratt Helps

Mr. Tummon held two fine meetings last evening, one in Point Anne and the other in Shannonville. Speakers in addition to the candidate were Colonel Pratt and Mr. Jas. Hill, M.P.P., and Mr. Charles Payne.

The Point Anne meeting was attended by voters of both sexes and even some who were not voters for mayral wonder brought their children to the meeting. There was the first-class Baxter orchestra of Point Anne there to provide music of the catchy and appealing kind.

Mr. Tummon was in good form. His speech was heard with great attention while he reviewed the customs scandal and the tariff question. He showed that following the lowering of the tariff on agricultural implements two years ago the price rose while Colonel Pratt showed in his speech that in Great Britain following the raising of the tariff on articles there the price fell, so the arguments of the Liberals that the lowering of the tariff meant cheaper living costs was shattered.

Mr. Tummon thanked all his friends in Point Anne for their support last October and was confident he would again roll up a large majority there this occasion. He was applauded lately when he concluded.

A returned man asked: "What about the canteen fund?"

Col. Pratt referring to the constitutional issue and that Mackenzie King was making a stock screen out of it to cover the customs scandal, "but" he added, "I do not know that he knows what a smoke screen is." Except the Rockefeller kind.

"I take off my hat to the Liberal candidate. He went over to fight the battles of the greatest constitutional issue ever raised. In 1914 and after where was the place of any physically fit single man? In the Army. Was Mackenzie King there? In New York working for Rockefeller, where there were no smoke screen of the kind we saw at the front."

He told of being summoned one day to meet Lord Byng, a rather shy, but thoroughly efficient General office then commanding the Canadians. "General Byng who served brilliantly in the greatest test of man in our times has been brought into the present contest by a man of the type of Mackenzie King. And while it has not affected his Excellency it is unfortunate for Canada in many respects," he said.

Mr. Hill warned the meeting that the probability was the Liberal speakers would follow and make statements that would sound strange to them. He warned them not to be misled.

Mr. Payne said that everyone put their shoulder to the wheel on Tuesday next and roll up a record majority for Mr. Tummon, a man for stable and responsible government.

DEMPSEY'S PROBABLE "EARNINGS"
$850,000 FOR FEW MINUTES' WORK

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—Jack Dempsey may earn the fabulous sum of $850,000, nearly twice the amount of money he ever received for any two previous ring engagements, when he raises his gloved fists in defense of his heavyweight championship against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia, September 23.

The world's heavyweight champion, it was revealed today has been guaranteed the staggering sum of $475,000 with the privilege of fifty percent of the gate receipts above $1,000,000 for the Tunney engagement. Promoter Tex Rickard has assured Dempsey that the gate will undoubtedly reach $1,750,000. In that event Dempsey will get $375,000 plus the $475,000 guarantee for the fight that may go thirty seconds or the limit of ten rounds.

Dempsey received around $425,000 for his cyclonic engagement with Luis Angel Firpo three years ago. His previous record gate was $300,000 for defeating Georges Carpentier in their famous "Battle of the Century" in 1921. When Dempsey won the title from Jess Willard in 1919, he got $27,500 compared with $100,000 that went to the Kansas Giant.

Jerusalem, Sept. 8—The Prince of Wales will visit Palestine during April of next year, it is learned coming here to dedicate a war cemetery on Mount Scopus.

General Sir Geo. McDonagh, Sir Frederick Kenyon and Lord Arthur Brown, have arrived to inspect the war graves on behalf of the British War Graves Commission.

SPECIAL VESTRY MEETING HELD HEARS TERMS OF RESIGNATION BY REV. ARCHDEACON BEAMISH

A very largely attended special vestry meeting assembled in the Parish House of St. Thomas' Church at eight o'clock last evening. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises by the Rector, Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, who presided. Mr. Chas. Strickler was appointed Vestry Clerk. The Rector of Belleville then submitted the terms of resignation of the Incumbency of St. Thomas' Church to the Vestry which were fully discussed.

A special committee of seven members were appointed by the Vestry to confer with Archdeacon Beamish and report at once.

This conference was quickly carried out with one slight modification of the original statement submitted by the Archdeacon, was reported to Vestry and unanimously adopted by the Vestry with applause. The retirement of the Rector is settled with the consent of the Bishop yet to be given.

STEVENS ADMITS HE IS A TARGET FOR BLACKLEGS

Mail Rifled, Office Broken Open; Open Attacks Answered

Vancouver, Sept. 8.—That his mail had been interfered with, his office broken into and his private correspondence files rifled, and that "bootleggers and blacklegs of the liquor ring" had sworn to so besmirch him that his character would be destroyed and the cloak had started with the publication of a statement respecting his oil investments, was the declaration of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, last night addressing one of the largest meetings held in Vancouver since the campaign opened.

The Minister, towards the close of his address, was handed a note stating that he had been attacked during the evening by another speaker in scurilous fashion and that he had written a letter to Eccles Colt, of Amersburg, Ontario, virtually promising protection of liquor smuggling to United States.

Mr. Stevens read the letter in full, and challenged any fair-minded Liberal to take exception to it.

It is as follows, dated July 9:

"My Dear Gott: I have your wire re enforcement of liquor laws. All I can say in reply is that instructions have been issued that there must be strict enforcement of customs and excise laws. No one wishing to operate shows in accordance with the law will have anything to fear from me or this department.

"I would like to make it abundantly clear that as long as I am Minister of this Department I will not permit such flagrant violations of the law as have in the past existed in the past and if some are discomforted because of this, I am afraid it cannot be helped, and I am sure you will appreciate the necessity of impartial and vigorous enforcement.

30 DAYS FOR MEAN THIEF

Toronto, September 8.—After he had admitted stealing nine cents from a blind news vendor, Tony Amoto was sentenced to jail for 30 days in police court today. The case against another youth for stealing five cents was withdrawn.

THE WEATHER

Light to moderate winds, fair.

Thursday—Fresh to strong south and southwest winds, becoming unsettled with showers.

GIRL WOUNDED LEG, ARM, JAW, WERE SHATTERED

Severe Fighting in Nicaragua With Govt. Forces Victors

Managua, Nicaragua, Sept. 8.—Government forces have defeated revolutionists at El Sauce, department of Leon, and at Sonzotlle, department of Chinandega, and severe fighting is now in progress near Chinandega.

She fought desperately with the revolutionists in the recent battle and was wounded four times.

Bullets shattered her jaw, one arm and leg were badly mangled and a bullet penetrated her chest.

SCHOOL FAIR FINE SUCCESS

Exhibits Not So Numerous But Were Well Displayed

While the exhibits were not so numerous this year as in previous years, the school fair held yesterday at Canniffon was most encouraging to those in charge in as much as the exhibits were really much better in quality than those shown previously. One particularly interesting exhibit was the manual training in which some splendid examples of carpentry were shown and the crowd which filled the building during the fair showed a keen interest in this as well as the other exhibits. The collection of noxious weeds was very cleverly exhibited and catalogued.

This morning at the school the pupils under the supervision of Miss Cowan are busily engaged in cleaning all remnants of the fair and all are more than pleased with the success it proved to be.

SPAIN'S REVOLT IS OVER

Madrid, Sept. 8.—King Alfonso signed a decree today ending the state of war which was proclaimed throughout Spain on Sunday in consequence of the seditious movement in artillery units.

handling technical and organization questions.

The third committee considers the question of the reduction of armaments, and Hon. Mr. Roy and Sir Herbert Ames, financial director of the League of Nations, represent the Dominion Chereon.

Sir Herbert Ames was elected also as a member of the fourth committee, to deal with finance.

Dr. Riddle is on the fifth committee, which handles social and general questions.

The Meanest Thief

There were evidently some small-minds people at the Fair last week judging from reports from one of the exhibitors who had an especially fine display of home-grown tobacco on exhibit. Some person, thinking the weed would make a fine smoke purloined some of it from the booth and the owner found his supply somewhat exhausted upon his return to the building.

KIWANIANS PICK CARNIVAL THRILL

"Miss Toronto" to be Here For Two Nights—Gaily Boys Band Coming

A meeting was held by the Kiwanis Club in the Chamber of Commerce last night to decide the final arrangements for the Kiwanis Karnival. All the various committees were represented, and the chairman of the conference was Mr. Harry Greenleaf.

MANY BIG FEATURES

There will be many fine features in this Karnival, one of which will be the appearance of Miss Toronto for two nights, dates unknown. She will wear the respective costumes she wore at Toronto, Atlantic City, etc. Another big thing will be the Hope Chest, with a value of $100.00 which will be run on the competition basis.

BOYS' BAND TO APPEAR

The Boys' Band from Trenton will appear for the first two nights of the Carnival. They have the reputation of being one of the best boys' bands in Canada, and are being brought to Belleville to show the boys here just what could be accomplished if a band were started here. Some of Miss Mikel's dancing classes will furnish dances of all descriptions.

CONCLUSIVE VOTE EXPECTED 14TH

Conservative Headquarters See Pronounced Swing Toward Meighen

Ottawa, September 8.—As the election campaign enters its final week the swing of electoral sentiment toward the Meighen Government is being pronounced, according to advices received by party headquarters in Ottawa. Reports reaching the Government indicate growing optimism on the part of the Conservatives in all the provinces.

In an effort to offset the trend of opinion, the Liberals have planned in the final week to devote their efforts to advancing the contention that the Conservatives cannot win with a clear majority. Right Hon. Mackenzie King is going into Ontario to offer that argument from every platform.

GENEVA ACCEPTS BERLIN'S ENTRY NOW IN LEAGUE

Automatically Brings Into Force Locarno Pact — Frontiers Safe !

Geneva, Sept. 8.—Germany was unanimously elected a member of the league of Nations today by the seventh assembly.

The assembly also approved the design ation of Germany to a permanent seat in the League Council, and an increase in the number of non-permanent council members from six to nine. Both these measures were adopted unanimously. Forty-eight states participated in the voting and the applause shook the hall as the result was announced.

Election of Germany to League membership automatically brings into force the treaty of mutual guarantee, initialled at Locarno last October by representatives of Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany.

The treaty binds the contracting parties to the territorial status quo as regards the frontiers between Germany and Belgium and between Germany and France as fixed by the Versailles Treaty. It also provides that disputes between these countries which it may not be proper of diplomacy shall be submitted to a able to settle by the normal methods judicial body or decision referred to the commission. Failure of the latter to settle questions would bring their sub mission to the council of the League.

GREAT WAR "BURIED"

Europe buried the Great War hatreds and jealousies which shook the hall of the League of Nations assembly, Germany was unanimously elected a member of the League, and unanimously approved a permanent seat on League Council. When the roll call of the States was taken, Foreign Minister Briand of France, announced a sonorous "Tar" and caused his eyes toward the press galleries as if he wanted the word to go forth throughout the world that France were the first and foremost to welcome her ancient enemy into the fold of concilliation and harmony. Foreign Minister Vandervelde of Belgium, with equal enthusiasm proclaimed the approval of Germany's admission, while Sir Austen Chamberlain contributed to unanimity on behalf of Great Britain was crisp, clear and easily heard throughout the crowded auditorium. President Nischitch of the Assembly was visibly moved when he announced Germany's unanimous admission. Nischitch, a Socialist, Premier Minister to Jugo Slavia, a country which now embraces the town of Sarajevo, the scene of the assassination of the Austrian Archduke Ferdinand which was the initial incident in the outbreak of the war.

CANADA NOT FAVORED

Paris, Sept. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Geneva correspondent of Excelsior, a daily paper of Paris, says that the chiefs of the British Dominions are urging Canada to ask for a seat on the League of Nations Council, but he adds that the Canadian Premier, Islin, British Foreign Secretary, is not in favor of this. Other powers, the correspondent for the Excelsior says, are not in favor of proposals.

BERLIN TO GENEVA

Berlin, Sept. 8.—The German delegation to the League of Nations Assembly, which is leaving for Geneva tonight, consists of Foreign Minister Stresseman, Herr Von Schubert, Undersecretary and Dr. Friedrich Gops, Ministerial Director of Foreign Office with a number of advisors.

GIRL MISSING IN TORONTO

Toronto, September 8.—Laura Lagnel, aged 12 years, has been missing from her home here since Sunday morning, and relatives of the girl fear that she may be the victim of a kidnapping plot. The girl left home Sunday morning to go to church, but did not reach there, nor did she return home at night. The girl is an orphan.

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great mass of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectful ly soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,

D.R.O.'S ADVISED TO ASSIST PRESS

Chief Electoral Officer Approves Furnishing Early Reports of Polling

Ottawa, September 8.—In reply to a request that "he should assist The Canadian Press in securing as promptly as possible complete and accurate returns of the vote on election day, O. M. Biggar, K.C., the chief electoral officer, said:

"The returns do not reach me till long after polling day and every returning officers' only receives them by mail, they may not have them for several days after the poll.

Every election officer and particularly every deputy returning officer and poll clerk, should, however, do whatever he can to furnish as early in the evening as possible to Canadian Press agencies, newspapers and their accredited representatives, accurate statements of the result of the vote at every polling station.

On the completion of the count at a polling station, the deputy is required to complete several statements of the result. One of these is transmitted to the returning officer in the ballot box and constitutes the primary official record of the vote at the poll in question, but the deputy retains a duplicate in his own possession.

Similar statements are at the same time furnished to each of the candidates' agents at the poll and sent by mail direct to each of the candidates personally. Immediately upon these statements being completed the information they contain in public property, and every deputy and poll clerk, as well as every candidates' agent, should do what lies in his power to notify the figures to the press and to the candidates' organization with the least possible delay."

HEATED CAN OF LIQUID BURSTS IN HER FACE

Neglecting to put a hole in a can of roofing tar which she was heating on a stove at her home at Amelisburg, resulted in severe burns about Mrs. Ralph Terry's face, arms and body. Mrs. Terry, not pausing to think of the extra space required by heated liquid, placed the can on the fire and when she attempted to remove it, it exploded, scattering the boiling liquid freely about her face, chest and hands. Dr. Taft of Amelisburg, was called.

THREE LEADERS ALL OPPOSED

Forke Running as Lib-Prog. in Brandon — Papers Filed

Winnipeg, September 8.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, and leader of the Conservative party, will be opposed in Portage la Prairie constituency by Ed A. McPherson, K.C., Liberal nominee. Nomination papers for both candidates have been filed.

In the election of 1925, Mr. Meighen defeated Harry Leader, Progressive, having a majority of 831. The vote was: Meighen, 5,817; Leader, 4,986.

In the constituency of Brandon, Robert Forke, former leader of the Progressive party in the House, will be opposed by D. W. Beaubier, Conservative, Mr. Forke is a Liberal-Progressive candidate. He defeated Mr. Beaubier in the 1925 election.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is running again in Prince Albert, Sask., where he defeated Capt. D. L. Burgess in a by-election in February after losing his seat in North York in the general election of October, 1925. He is now opposed by J. G. Diefenbaker (Conservative).

NO QUEBEC ACCLAMATIONS

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Nomination day yesterday in the Province of Quebec found that the Conservative party was able to secure candidates in all seats of the Montreal district, and whilst there was some delay yesterday in securing news as to some of the counties of the Quebec district, the two districts being taken separately, the position at Conservative headquarters was that there were no acclamations, and telegraphic returns confirmed this opinion.

IN MARITIMES

Halifax, N.S., September 8.—Twenty-nine Conservatives, twenty-eight Liberals and one Laborite were nominated to contest the 20 seats in the federal House representative of the Maritime Provinces.

In Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick, there will be straight fights next Tuesday between Liberal and Conservative candidates in the fifteen seats involved, while in Nova Scotia, thirteen Liberals and one Laborite in Cape Breton South, will oppose fourteen Conservatives. This means there will be no three-cornered contests in the attitudes.

IN TORONTO

Toronto, September 8.—W. F. Maclean, Conservative "Dean" of the House of Commons, was independently nominated in South York to contest the constituency in the general elections. He opposed R. H. Macgregor, nominated by the ruling Conservative association, which failed to re-nominate Mr Maclean by a narrow margin. Mr. Maclean was elected last year by a majority of six thousand over Liberal and Independent-Conservative opponents.

Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor in the Liberal Cabinet of 1921-25, was nominated in Toronto High Park today, along with A. J. Anderson, Conservative member in the last House. Mr. Anderson was elected over Mr. Murdock last year by a majority of two thousand.

TORONTO NOMINATIONS

For the twelve seats in Toronto and the adjacent County of York, twenty-eight candidates were officially nominated. Straight fights between Liberals and Conservatives are shown in seven of the seats. In four others there are three-cornered fights these being Toronto Northeast, Northwest, West-Centre and East-Centre. Independent-Conservative candidates are the third men in East-Centre and Northeast. In Northwest the third man is James Simpson, Labor candidate, and John Sedgwick Labor candidate, is the third man in West-Centre.

INCENSED CROWD VENT ANGER ON OWNER OF HALL

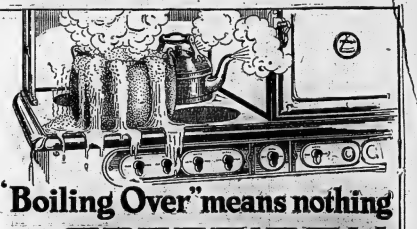

Limerick, Ireland, September 8.—A crowd of angry people last night broke the windows in the store of Patrick William Ford, owner of the Wooden building where the cinema tragedy occurred Sunday night. Ford and the motion picture operator, Patrick Downing, of Cork, are being detained by the police.

The dead and injured are believed to total 65. Forty-nine bodies have been taken from the ruins, but they were so badly disfigured that only three of them could be identified.

Search is being made of the ruins for other bodies.

"Boiling Over" means nothing to SPEEDIRON

IN the days of old-fashioned "open" elements, boiling over was a serious matter. Liquids dripping over the sides of the cooking pot and into the exposed wires and grooves frequently caused coils to burn out—a source of much inconvenience and expense.

NOW all that is changed. McClary's wonderful, new Speediron element enables you to cook with your mind at complete ease because you know nothing can injure the element. Your preserves, your soups, your kettle—they may boil over a dozen or a hundred times without doing the slightest damage. The coils in McClary's Speediron are protected by a smooth, cast-iron surface—a surface so durable that hard knocks, falling pots, leaks and drips cannot possibly harm it.

Coils Easily Renewed and Repaired

If a coil burns out you simply lift out McClary's Speediron Element. With little effort and expense you can have the coil replaced by your dealer—while you wait. It is just as easy and simple to replace the unit as it is to plug in your iron or toaster.

Lasts as Long as the Range Itself

That's the amazing thing about McClary's Speediron. It lasts for years and years. And you have a range that cooks at great speed and saves current. The contact heat principle on which the Speediron operates eliminates waste by radiation—the heat goes into the pot, not into the kitchen. This means increased speed and exceptional economy.

Harry Brookout, aged about eighty, sent up here from Deseronto as a vagrant, took sick in jail and died later in Hospital, His relatives, if any, are unknown. It was said he lived for some time in Dundas County.

AT NAPANEE

Major R. D. Pontoni of this city, last evening at Napanee and Sillwell spoke in the interest of Mr. J. Hubb, the Conservative candidate for Prince Edward and Lennox. Both meetings were well attended. This evening the Mayor speaks at Meyersburg and Sherwood in the interest of Mr. Mayber, the Conservative candidate for Northumberland.

AT CANNIFTON

Mr. W. E. Timmons and Col Ponton will be speakers at the political meeting to be held in the town hall at Canniffton Thursday night.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 5. The Lesson-Sermon is composed of selections from the Bible relative to the subject, with correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. First and Second Readers read the selections in sections alternately. A citation from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness" (Gen. 1:26). Citations from the Christian Science textbook: "If the material body is man, he is a portion of matter, of dust. On the contrary man is the image and likeness of Spirit;".....The great mistake of mortals is to suppose that man, God's image and likeness, is both matter and Spirit both good and evil" (pp. 172, 216).

LADIES' SCOTCH DOUBLES

Miss McKeown and Mrs. Davis won the Scotch Doubles contest for ladies at the bowling green on Tuesday. Competition was exceptionally keen, play being carried on from two until seven o'clock. The prizes were given by Mrs. W. B. Riggs.

TEMPERATURES

The maximum temperature yesterday was three degrees lower than for the same date last year. During the evening it was cool, but the minimum temperature up to the midnight hour was 53. Figures for the two days are as follows: Maximum 1926 was 67, minimum 53; maximum for 1925 was 70, and minimum 58.

AT CAMPBELLFORD

Mr. Geo. A. Reid, Mr. W. C. Mikel K.C., of Belleville, the Hon. Robt. Cook, Mr. McColl, of Campbellford and Col. Mulloy, the latter the blind veteran of South African war fame, were speakers at Campbellford last night at a rousing meeting in the interest of Mr. Mayber, Conservative candidate in Northumberland.

CRYSTAL CHANGES HANDS

While his plans for the immediate future are as yet more or less vague, Mr. Harold Bateman who recently disposed of the Crystal Hotel to Mr. G. H. Kingsley, assured The Intelligencer that it is his firm intention to remain as a resident of Belleville. For a short time he and Mrs Bateman will be guests of Mrs. Bateman Sr. Mr. Bateman said that Mr. Kingsley has leased the business and bought the equipment of the Crystal Hotel and will in the near future instal every modern system of equipment possible, setting the Crystal, which has always enjoyed the reputation of being up-to-date, on a footing with any of the most advanced hotels in Ontario. Among the alterations planned are running water in every guest room, private baths in many, complete refurnishing of the building and redecorating. Mr. Kingsley is really an old Belleville boy having at different times conducted very successful hotels in the city and has studied the art of keeping abreast with the times in many large cities. His coming to the city is heard with delight by the travelling public who know his management means first class accommodation.

CIVIC COMMITTEES

The first regular meeting of the civic committees since the holidays will be held tomorrow night with Council meeting set Monday night. There is considerable business to be transacted.

THE ADVANCE POLL

An advance poll for railway employees, sailors and commercial travellers, will be held at the court house here on Friday and Saturday of this week and Monday of next week.

INQEST WAS HELD

That Harry Brookhout, aged 84, came to his death at the Belleville General Hospital through natural causes was the verdict of a coroner's jury. The enquiry took place yesterday afternoon at Tickell & Sons Undertaking establishment and the evidence submitted was of a brief nature, but sufficient for the jurymen to arrive at their decision. Those composing the jury were S. T. Vandervoort, foreman; G. Brower, E. George, C. L. Walters, W. Brown, R. White and P. Harrison.

TRACE STOLEN CAR

Indications that the thieves who appropriated the Chevrolet touring car No. 289-164, serial 36216, from Wellington on Saturday night, are literally playing a game of automobile leap frog have reached the city in the fact that the persons, two men and three women and a girl of about four-teen years of age who were last seen in the stolen car on Thomasburg Point on Saturday, arrived in Wellington in a Chevrolet car No. 337346 stolen from Landsdowne, near Gananoque. An Overland car, No. 258,096, was left in place of the car at Landsdown. It is thought that the robbers proceeded west to Toronto after spending from 11 o'clock Saturday until Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. The night the Chevrolet was stolen, a plate from a Ford car owned by Garnet Instead, No. 286546, was stolen at Wellington.

FAILED TO COLLECT SALES TAX OWING

King Government Allowed Them to Mount Up, Says Hon. J. D. Chaplin

Niagara Falls, Sept. 8.—While speaking before the big Conservative rally at this point, Hon. J. D. Chaplin, recently appointed Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Meighen Government, declared that hundreds of cases of delinquency in connection with the Sales Tax have come to his attention.

"Even in Mr. King's own constituency," he declared, "there is one firm which is four years behind with the sales tax, and which owes the country $15,000. I am not mentioning any names, but the fact is known to Mr. King himself."

Hon. Mr. Chaplin told of one firm in the Province of Quebec which, in 1923, was $2,000 behind in its sales tax. A counsel was appointed to go into the matter, and a year later, the firm was $6,000 behind. Then a writ was taken out and a year later the firm was $9,000 behind. Then the Government got a judgment, and today the firm is $12,000 in arrears, as the King Government failed to make collections.

"There are thousands of such cases," Hon. Mr. Chaplin declared, "which have developed under the King administration. Some firms run up as high as $50,000."

DUXBURY—McKINNON

Oshawa, Sept. 6.—On Thursday evening, September 2, 1926, at 156 Elgin street east, the marriage took place of Miss Lillian Maude McKinnon, of Oshawa, to Mr. Orval Lewis Ruxbury, also of Oshawa. Rev. A. C. Reeves officiated. The attendants were Miss Helen G. Irish, and Mr. Charles A. Barnes, of Oshawa. The young couple will reside in Oshawa.

Miss McKinnon was a nurse at Belleville General Hospital and her marriage came as a surprise to her friends here. She left the institution last week on a holiday and her marriage was announced two days later. PER

ZANNELL—ST JOHN

Sunny Italy made Frost street how two when the wedding party which attended the Zannelli-St. John wedding drove in happy procession down the length of the thoroughfare to the other, white ribbon streamers flowing from cars, particularly the one in which the lovely bride set with the happy groom.

The wedding was solemnized at 8.30 in St. Michael's Church by Rev. Father Kileen. The bride Miss Celia St. John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. St. John, 8 Bettes street, looked lovely in a white georgette gown, long wedding veil with jewelled coronet, big bouquet of roses and lillies and was attended by her sister Hazel, and Miss Stella Melchoir each pretty in peach crepe gowns and big tulle bows tied at the side of their heads. Two little pages Charles Lepore and Michael Thomas each dressed in brown Lord Fontleroy suits preceded the bridal party up the aisle while the pretty tiny flower girl and train bearer, Ida Ferro and Adelina Lepore were each dressed in pink silk with big tulle bows at the side of theirheads. The groom Gallipo Zannelli, and Mr. Victorio Zannelli, of Montreal, was supported by Patsy Cipolla and Vincent Chiarcos.

After the wedding and following the drive about the city the bridal party had their photographs taken and later assembled at Jackson's dancing rooms where an all day celebration to be wound up by a dance tonight is being held and the happy couple are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

The happy couple leave for Montreal this evening and the bride's going away gown is of rust flat crepe, black velvet hat and blue coat. Gifts arrived from Italy which included a pair of pure silk blankets which will be preserved as heirlooms.

ALL CANADIANS TO BE PROTECTED

Premier Meighen at Falls Picnic Reaffirms His Stand o nTariff

Niagara Falls, Sept. 8.—Certain Liberal speakers who have been charging Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen with deserting his protective tariff campaign of last Fall had their answer at this point Monday, on the occasion of a big rally of the Conservatives of the Centre West District rolings, when several thousand citizens gathered in Queen Victoria Park to hear the election message of the Premier. In the course of a spirited address in which his special reference was made to the tariff, Hon. Mr.

Teck Hughes	4.75½

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 8.—Livestock. Receipts 800. Trade dull. Heavy beef, steers 7.25 to 8. Butcher steers good to choice 6.50 to 7.25. Butcher cows medium 3.50 to 4.50. Calves, good to choice 11 to 13. Hogs, select 13.90 to nil. Good ew lambs 12 to 13.25.

Meighen reiterated his protective principles, declaring that as soon as the Conservative Government was returned to power, one of their first acts would be to see that the farmers of the Dominion got that protection in their home markets which they deserved.

Mr. Meighen pointed out, as he has done on other occasions, that if there was one class of the community which must have protection in order to fight out the battle of existence on a level with the United States, it was the farmers. The Niagara district, in particular, had furnished plenty of illustrations of that; for the persistent story told by the farmers of that section of Ontario was that the growth of Canadian markets invaded by the produce of American farms. Any person associated with the affairs of the district must appreciate that the year the fruit and vegetable products of the United States flooded the Canadian market at a time of the year when the home-grown articles here not yet in a position to compete. The result was that the edge of the market was always taken off before the home-grown produce was ready to be marketed, and that, of necessity meant loss to the Canadian farmers. Mr. Meighen gave the assurance that as soon as the Conservative Government was returned to power, that situation would be corrected.

FOR Sour Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a tiny little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it over comes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

NOMINATION AND AFTER

Nomination meetings are commonly the initiatives of support from the audience present at the time to one of the gentlemen named as Candidates but the one in South Hastings and the one in Marmora for Hastings Peterboro were. Both of them unmistakably were for the Conservative candidates. Dr. Embury is being opposed by Mr. John Marshall a brother of Mr. Duncan Marshall the well-known Liberal organizer and the Doctor is expected to roll up another great majority. So for that matter is Mr. Tummon.

Col. Vanderwater's speech or one part of it here needs a little explaining. He has not declared himself except to say that he is a supporter of the Robb Budget whatever he may mean by that. He said he reserved the right to announce any further statement till after the election—whatever he meant by that!

Mr. Tummon's clear exposition of the situation was what the crowd expected and agreed with. They applauded his remarks and while the meeting was not an "election" meeting it was unmistakably almost solidly behind the Conservative Candidate.

The Hon George Gordon who is not himself a candidate this time in Peterboro or anywhere else had a lot of things to say but somehow they did not matter very much.

On the other hand the crowd heard with evident interest the remarks of Colonel Trait. His grasp of the situation was masterly and he made some telling points.

The fight is on. There will be much speechmaking and argument.

Depend on this: To support Mr. Tummon is to support a Government that is the only salvation of Canada at the moment.

The Liberals and their allies the Progressives have shown that it is impossible for them. Avoid another election by voting into power the Government of Rt. Hn. Arthur Meighen.

STABLE GOVERNMENT

There is no reason to suppose that, whatever may be the result of the Dominion election, it will return a majority of either Liberals or Progressives to Parliament. The opposite tendency was shown in the election last October, when both Liberal and Progressive representation was reduced and Conservative representation was more than doubled. Has anything happened since, has any cause been operating throughout the country, to indicate that that tendency has not only been arrested but that the tide will swing strongly in the opposite direction? The average man is not able to see it. No doubt from various local and special causes, each party will drop a seat and pick up a seat here and there. But after tendency revealed in 1925, after four years of the King Government, was away from that Government as it was revealed in that election that despite the fact that a much heavier vote was polled than in the listless campaign in 1921, the Liberals' showing in the total was more than 30,000 less. They felt perhaps that Mackenzie-King was not living up to the Liberal tradition. Still less was he able to live up to it in the last Parliament, because to keep power he had to make a deal to gain before every vote with the Progressives, a party whose total vote has diminished by nearly half a million in four years.

Should Glasses be Worn Constantly?

Not even the Optometrist can answer that question until he has determined what condition the eyes are in. But after he has made the examination he can advise, and his advice should be followed closely, in this respect. An error of vision is corrected only when the glasses are worn in spite of which fact some folks cannot be induced to wear their glasses steadily. I give my patients instructions on this point.

BISON THREAT AT LEAF'S LEAD RUDELY STOPPED

Torontos Virtually Clinch Pennant By Winning in 10th Frame

By defeating Buffalo, 2 to 1, in ten innings at Toronto, the Leafs virtually clinched the International pennant. Lea Sigsa, pinch-hitting for Mickey Heath in the tenth, doubled and scored on Otis Miller's single. The game was a brilliant pitching battle between Jean Doyle and Ernie Profitt.

It was announced that Cleo Carlyle, Toronto outfielder, had been sold to the Boston Nationals.

Reading lost its 15th and 16th games in a row, losing a double-header in Baltimore, 10 to 5 and 7 to 3. Moose Swaney pitched both games for Reading and was pounded for a total of 21 hits.

PIRATES SEE RED

At Pittsburgh Roger ornsby's Cardinals continued their dashing flight toward the National League championship here by defeating the Pirates, 8 to 0, in a game that was colored red.

MR. RUTH ASSISTED

At New York the, New York Yankees set back Boston, 4 to 2, in the first of a three-game series, marking the 15th successive defeat for the Red Sox. The Yankees bunched four hits for three runs in the third inning, Ruth's double accounting for two of the tallies.

ACIDS CAUSE BAD KIDNEYS AND BLADDER

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels removing acids, waste and poison. Else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then splendid effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women use now and then to help prevent serious kidneys and bladder disorders. By all means, drink lots of good water every day.

ALL-STAR TEAM PICKED FROM THE B. OF Q. LEAGUE

Will Play High School in Exhibition Game in Near Future

It has been announced that the High School girls will tackle an all-star team composed of the best players of the three teams in the Bay of Quinte League at the armouries in the near future. There has been discussions pro and con as to the correct selections to fill each position on a mythical all-star team and the sporting editors have been asked to pick a team. Basing the selections on all-round baseball ability. Some of the positions are extremely difficult to find as some of the girls are almost equal with one another in ability but here's how we venture an all-star team should line-up:

Catcher—L. Grase, Napanee.
Pitchers—Lillian Wager, Deseronto; Hele, Lea, Beaver.
1st Base—A. Gaulin, Deseronto.
2nd Base—Janet Miles, Beavers.
3rd Base—L. Curry, Beavers.
Shortstop—Y. Whitton, Deseronto.
Outfield—Mary Hall, Beavers; K. Ungar, Napanee; M. Stinson, Napanee.

The object of this game is to keep the High School in trim for the series with the winners of the T. A. B. A. which will likely be played next week.

The umpires in the league have also been asked to hand in a selected team to Allan Meagher, president of the League.

The High School are waiting patiently for the T. A. B. A. to produce a winner. It is expected that the final game will be played here.

ALEMITE GIRLS CROWNED CHAMPS

The Alemite girls added further laurels to their long list when they defeated the Dekcon Shirt team last evening on the armouries lawn by a score 9-5 and carried with it the championship of the girls' city league. The Alemites played smart ball and justly deserved the verdict. Jack Allen has rounded out a fast team and are certainly the best of the city loop. Every position is filled by a capable player and besides being topnotchers in fielding ability, they can clout the old apple when Big Moon runs.

Ernie Howsome, manager of the Alemite Products, is mighty proud of the girls and has been a keen and interested spectator at all the games this season.

The coal-enders started early to garner their runs, no less than five being scored in the first inning, but the Deacon team held them to four during the remainder of the fray, but the quintette scorers in the initial frame proved too much of a handicap for Dad Oakes' lassies.

Following the game the Alemite girls were a tickled lunch and they were quickly surrounded by a crowd of supporters, who congratulated them on their success attained. To show their appreciation of the honors achieved, the officers of the Alemite plant entertained the team at Laudmey's.

Florence Swetcher and Miss Baker formed the battery for the winners, and both showed rare ability in their positions. Several times Deacon's threatened seriously to score with two and three men on the bases, but promptly were cut off without runs. Miss Skelcher, besides pitching a good game, managed to get three safe hits. Olive Adams and Georgina, Ray each ered a brace of hits each.

Gertrude Boulter was on the mound for Deacon's, but her support was not as good as that accorded Miss Skelcher. She, however, pitched a nice game and deserves a heap of credit.

Vernon Weir umpired behind the plate and Allan Meagher on bases. Some of the sections voiced their opinions on some of the decisions handed ut, but there is no doubt but what the "umps" are in a better position to see the play than those behind the rail.

The Alemites will continue to play exhibition games for some time, and arrangements will be made for a game with the High School. Rumor has it that the fans here will get a glimpse of the fastest team in Ontario in the near future, the Supremes of Toronto who are anxious to book a game here.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE CAPITOL

Patrons of the Capitol are being treated this first half of the week to a picture as thrilling and interesting as has been seen in Belleville for a long time. It is no other than "The Sea Beast" the famous Warner Brothers production starring one of America's greatest actors, John Barrymore. As stirring and gripping a story of the sea as has ever been produced, the film has all the elements that go to make up a story that is outstanding in every way; grimly realistic in depicting the terrors of furious storms, and the weird actions of an unbalanced mind directing the course of a ship; a romance running through the story and contrasting vividly with the stirring action. It is Barrymore at his best.

AT THE BELLE

Samuel Goldwyn's annual contribution to the gaiety of all nations has arrived. "Partners Again—with Potash and Perlmutter" is booked for the attraction at the Belle Theatre today.

Years ago, Samuel Goldwyn decided to brighten his drab old world a bit annually, so he entered into arrangements whereby he secured the motion picture rights to the stage plays by Montague Glass built around the famous central characters of the 50-50 partners.

From the start, these motion picture adventures of the argumentative business associates have enjoyed a success seldom accorded any motion picture effort. The public seemed hungry for laughs and r. Goldwyn has released one each year.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Paris — glittering, colorful — and sometimes dramatic by the sheer keenness of it, forms the background for one of the most vivid plays of the screen season, in Edmund Goulding's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "Paris," playing at the Griffin Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BIRTHS

McCABE—At Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday, September 7th, 1926, to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCabe, (Montreal a son, (John Joseph.)

GILBERT—At Belleville General Hospital, on Tuesday Sept. 7th, 1926, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Gilbert, 47 Yeomans street, a son.

It shocks with its suspense, even in the nature of the rose played by well-known players. And out of it Goulding has evolved one of the most toothsome entertainments screen fans have been given in months.

Charles Ray proves the first surprising. The famous delineator of country persons in one cannot only take the boy out of the country but also the country out of the boy, for he romps through the role of a debonair American tourist—a rich youth in Paris, pleasure bent—who finds wild Apaches with a sang-froid that wins him victories without fighting for them—and on the other hand he takes Joan Crawford, well-known beauty and player of winsome ameri can heroines—and transforms her into an exotic Apache girl of fiery temper and strange moods. And—both are perfect.

The story is a vivid mystery laid in the dens of the Apaches, with Ray, as an American tourist, enamored of a queer Apache feud, and falling in love with Miss Crawford, the Apache dancer.

He doesn't win the girl, however—

PIMPLES ENDED BY THIS SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and away declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur.

FIRST SNOWFALL COVERS CALGARY

Earliest in Alberta Since 1908—City Was Relieved—Influx of Labor

Winnipeg, September 8.—While harvest operations in Alberta and Manitoba are at a virtual standstill, fair progress is being made in parts of Saskatchewan.

Heavy rains have been general in Alberta, while the first snowfall was experienced in the Calgary district. It is now more than a week since harvest operations have been general in that province on any extensive scale. Snow was the earliest in Alberta since 1908. Calgary was blanketed by a white mantle after a drenching rainstorm.

Inclement weather has seriously delayed work in Manitoba grain fields. Intermittent showers and drizzling rain have been general during the past tendays, and several days of sunshine or drying winds will be required to permit resumption of operations.

During the harvest delay a steady influx of labor has materially relieved the shortage of harvest help. Although the quota is reported to be far below the normal requirements at this time of the season.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

DAVID O. JONES

David O. Jones who resided in the 2nd Concession of Sidney Township and who was well known in this locality, passed away yesterday at the age of 62 years. He was a son of the late Mr. Thomas Jones and was born in Sidney. He was a descendent of a U. E. Loyalist family and was a bachelor. He was a member of the United Church.

MRS. J. WILSON

From the family residence, 5th Concession of Sidney Township, the funeral took place on Monday afternoon of the late Mrs. Margaret M. Wilson, wife of John Wilson. At Foxboro United Church, an impressive service was held, conducted by Rev. Mr. Butler of Frankford, a former pastor at Foxboro. The Church was filled with relatives and friends. At Bellville Cemetery the interment took place. Floral tributes were many and beautiful in effect. Bearers were S. Kelly, J. McMullin, E. Ellis, W. Bird, H. Carter and Geo. Bamber.

PETER CROUTER

On Sunday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Peter Crouter took place from the residence of his daughter, Miss Agatha Crouter, 131 Bridge Street West. At Albury Church Rev. F. S. Dixon conducted the burial service of the Anglican Church. At Albury Cemetery the interment took place. Bearers were W. Smith, J. Munro, A. Tripp, B. Brant, C. Crouter and J. D. Nelson. A number of floral tributes were from friends of deceased.

HELEN M. BELL

At Emmanuel Church on Monday morning funeral services for the late Helen M. Bell were conducted by the Rector, Rev. George Marshall, who also officiated at the interment at Belleville cemetery. The popularity of deceased was attested to by the numerous and beautiful floral designs. Bearers were: R. Grass, R. Holland, F. Boyer, J. Switzer, C. Latta and W. McDonald.

YOUNGSTERS REMANDED

Three youngsters from Moira village faced Justice of the Peace H. F. Ketcheson this morning, charged with the theft of an amount of money from J. L. Brickman, a resident of the village. They were remanded until Monday, the 13th. It is understood that the boys offered to make restitution for the theft and settle all damages but the complaining parties had them brought into court. Bail was furnished to ensure their appearance.

The Old Love Or New?

He flung himself into a chair, then arose and paced the room.

"It cannot—it cannot be! It is some horrid dream. Dick, tell me it is not true!"

"It is but too true, I fear, old fellow. Benson tells me that a man came yesterday—"

"A man! She is not alone, then," broke in Roy, passionately. "Dick, take care what you are saying!... Remember that you are speaking of the woman I love."

"That a man—doubtless the one of whom Mr. Connors's servants spoke—came here yesterday and remained with Miss de Vitry for some time," said Captain Brinley, sorrowfully. "Old fellow, dear old fellow! you know I would not willingly hurt you. Forget her. She was never worthy of such love as yours."

"Forget her!" Roy echoed, piteously. "I cannot. Would to Heaven I had never seen her beautiful, false face! Dick, you don't know how I loved her. She was my first and last; she was the sunshine of my future, as she was the joy of my present; and she has played me false — she, Annette!"

He looked around the room with a woe-bronze, stricken look which went to Dick Brinley's heart—the room, so full of her presence still, where they had exchanged their love vows, where she had promised to be true.

"If she had only told me," he went on, brokenly—"if she had only told me that she loved another best, I could have borne it better; but to have loved another and trusted her as I did, to believe in her truth and purity, and to find her false—I cannot bear it—Dick, I cannot bear it!"

"Roy," he said, huskily; "Roy, my poor fellow, she is not worth such tears."

"It is that which hurts me," he said, passionately. "I loved her, and she has betrayed me; and yet she seemed so true, so pure!"

"She is the last girl I should have suspected of such behavior," said Brinley warmly. "Roy. I am sure she was sorry. Do you remember how moved she was in that last scene of the play to-night? And, now I think of it," he added, hastily, as the thought struck him, "she asked me this evening to induce you to think kindly of her, if you could. Poor Child! she lacked courage to inflict the blow directly, and yet it seems to me that it would have hurt her—"

"Ay, that it would," Roy said hoarsely; "I loved her too well not to have forgiven her anything but such treachery. Come and of this room, Dick, I cannot bear it—it was here—"

He paused abruptly, and, howing his head on his friend's shoulder, cried like a child over his lost hopes. At four-and-twenty one feels keenly, gentle reader, and though Captain Brinley was almost ten years his senior, his own eyes were moist as he witnessed Roy's grief; and he set his teeth together in anger when he thought of Annette de Vitry.

"Roy, don't give way, old fellow," he said, huskily. "No woman in the world is worth such grief as this, and Miss de Vitry's conduct evidently proves her to have been utterly worthless. Who the man can have been is the mystery."

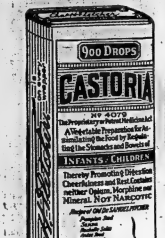

"But a mystery which I shall solve," Roy said, starting up with sudden passion. "I will be revenged on them both. The scoundrel to steal my darling from me!"

"She was willing to go," said Captain Brinley, gently.

"You do not even know that he was cognizant of any engagement to you."

"Then she alone is to blame, and I will make her suffer for what she has made me endure! As if I could—as if I could," he cried, suddenly, and throwing himself face downward on the couch, the great choking sobs burst forth again, evidences of his grief as intense as his love for Annette de Vitry.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet ready to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Fletcher's Castoria safely relieves

'THERE WON'T BE ANY KING GOVERNMENT' -- PREMIER MEIGHEN AT KINCARDINE

LIBERALS ADMIT CHANCES DECLINE

In Great Areas Not One Straight Liberal is a Candidate

ALBERTA TO MEIGHEN

Sentiment There Seems to be Crystalizing Against King

Ottawa, September 9.—Study of the electoral map of the Dominion following the nominations reveals one of the principal reasons why Liberals are making no claims about carrying the country and are concentrating final efforts on a hope of keeping down the Conservative majority. The Liberal party is going to the polls without candidates in great sections of the Dominion from the Ottawa river to the Rocky Mountains. The constituencies in which the party has no candidates of its own in that part of the country cover the bulk of the total area in Ontario Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Liberals have admitted in advance their inability to win by placing Mr. Mackenzie King's banner in the hands of allies of the party in scores of ridings. Whatever following Mr. King has of the next Parliament will probably be composed of Progressives, Laborites, Progressive-Liberals, Labor-Liberals and others who refuse to call themselves straight Liberals.

Conservatives maintain that the number of these "fusion" candidates will not greatly affect the result, because of the strength of the tide of sentiment in favor of the Government and against minority rule.

Conservative headquarters claim that in Ontario the Government will make a net gain of at least six seats, taking seventy-four or seventy-five of the eighty-two constituencies. The claim is based on a survey of the situation in the constituencies during the first half of the week.

Another interesting claim made in behalf of the Government is that it may almost sweep Alberta. The strength of both Liberal and Progressive parties in that province, according to reports here, has been rapidly lowering. In Saskatchewan, the claim is that the Government will carry five seats.

COL. COCKSHUTT RETIRES MONDAY

Delivers Final Address at Ceremony at Ontario Building

Toronto, September 9.—Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt, of Ontario, whose term of office expires next Monday, declared that he may prove his valedictory speech at the formal ceremony, when the new Ontario Government Building, at the Canadian National Exhibition, was given over to the exhibition officials.

The Lieutenant-Governor's address was short, but in it he thanked the people of Ontario and Premier Howard Ferguson, who was also present at the ceremony, for the kindness and courtesy shown him during his term of office.

SHENDING A CRUISER

London, September 9.—Fighting in the River Yangtse seems certain to result in Britain taking a stronger line in Chinese affairs. This is evidenced by the ordering of the flagship of the China station, the cruiser Hawkins, carrying seven 7.5-inch guns to proceed up the Yangtse, 1,200 miles from the coast, to Hankow, which has been captured by the Red army from Canton.

THE WEATHER

DEMOCRACY'S DAUGHTER NOT UP ON HISTORY

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Writing in the Canadian Motorist, Lorraine Gould tells of a visit to St. Paul's Church in this city which, she says, recreates early Canadian history, and with its Royal pew and Royal gifts, brings before us our parentage. "We joined the verger and the party of United Staters to whom he was telling stories of precious relics; finally we were with the verger to see the museum collection in a room off the church. Before we had quite completed the round of three, a nasal voice announced, 'We are coming to sign our names in that book too.' The verger courteously went through his little speech, 'You may sit in this chair where sat the Prince of Wales, use the pen he used, and sign your name in the book bearing his signature.' 'Wa'll,' drawled Democracy's daughter, 'he doesn't write a very good hand, and you can tell him that from me the next time he visits here.' The Aunt and I bolted, unable to control our mirth. I have never seen so shocked a visage as the loyal verger's."

BANDIT TRIO FAST WORKERS

Bound Diamond Merchants Stepped Off Train and Entered Taxi

OVER HOUR'S START

Quiet and Methodical Work Netted Them $500,000 in Gems

Champaign, Ills., Sept. 9.—Three dapper Chicago bandits who robbed three diamond merchants of half a million dollars worth of jewelry on an Illinois Central train near here last night were captured in a cornfield near Buckley, Illinois, this morning.

The three men told the officers they had hidden the jewelry between Loda and Buckley. Search is being conducted for the jewels. Two hundred farmers assisted in the capture and surrounded the men in a corn field, finally compelling their surrender. The men had taken refuge in a barn in the field.

They fell victims to the rain and mud and the straight shooting of Central Illinois.

Buckley is 35 miles north of Champaign. The robbers, when surrounded in a corn field, had floundered about six miles through the mud from Loda where they had been forced to abandon an over heated car which contained all they jumped from the train.

Champaign, Ills., Sept. 9.—Three bandits who timed their movements by railroad schedule, last night bound, gagged and locked up three diamond merchants just before the Illinois Central's crack Chicago-New Orleans limited arrived here from Chicago and stepped to the station platform with gems valued at half a million dollars.

Without hurry, they hailed a taxicab and were driven to adjacent Urbana where they engaged a driver and another car, waited while he persuaded a friend to go along for company and started on their flight toward Chicago, 135 miles away.

So quiet and methodical was their work that others on the pullman were unaware of the robbery until the train had left Champaign, bound for the south. Then William Davidson, San Francisco, freed himself, Josh Riskin, New York, and Sam Hinsky also of San Francisco, and the alarm was given.

The bandits entered the drawing room of the three men about twenty minutes out of Champaign and before the train arrived had bound the trio.

They rifled the stock cases and boiled the compartment door. They did not make a thorough search of all the baggage and missed $50,000 in uncut diamonds in Riskin's satchel.

TORONTO HARBOR BD. SHOWING A DEFICIT

Toronto, September 9.—An audit of the accounts of the Toronto Harbor Commission for the year ending December 31st, 1925, presented showed a deficit of $14,376 in the operation of Sunnyside, Toronto's largest pleasure resort, which is under the control of the Harbor Commission. The deficit in 1924 was $41,297. In 1923 $30,387, in 1922 $5,412. It was stated that the Harbor Board has no overdraft at the bank on the general account. The deficit of the Board now stands at $7,570,000.

TORONTO'S POPULATION SAID TO TOTAL 556,691

Toronto-Ont., Sept. 9.—Population of the city of Toronto now stands at 556,691, which shows an increase over figures for the last fiscal year of 7,253 according to statistics made public today by the chief assessor, George Farley. The city's total assessment is $913,067,240 which included an increase over last returns of $32,227,432. The rate of increase in the population is stated to compare favourably with that of other years.

MOVE TO INVITE THEIR MAJESTIES

Canadian Clubs Meeting in Ottawa Pass on Suggestion

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 9.—Invitations to their Majesties King George and Queen Mary to visit Canada next year in connection with the projected Diamond Jubilee Celebration of Canadian Confederation throughout the Dominion will be extended, if the suggestion made at the morning session of the 14th annual meeting of the Association of Canadian Clubs, here, is adopted by the Dominion Government.

ENDS LIFE IN LAKE CLOSE TO PORT HOPE

Traveller Suffered From Shell Shock and War Wounds

Port Hope, Sept. 9.—The body of A. D. Bordell, aged 32 was found floating in Lake Ontario off Brand's beach, two and one-half miles west of here.

Borden recently came to Port Hope from Providence, R. I., as traveler for the Nickelson Company here.

Mrs. William Smith, hunting along the lake shore at Brand's beach, found the man's hat and coat, and later perceived the body floating in the lake about 25 yards from shore. An alarm was given and the corpse was taken to a local morgue. Coroner A. G. Aldrich stated tonight that no inquest would be necessary, as it was clearly suicide. Borden served overseas and was shell-shocked and suffered from the effects of war wounds.

BAD FEELING SHOWN AMONG LABOR GROUPS

Bournemouth, Eng., Sept. 9.—The Trades Union Council had a riotous quarter of an hour today when J. Bromley of the Associated Society of Locomotive Men and Firemen was asked to second an emergency resolution pledging support for the striking coal miners.

Pandemonium broke out. Bromley tried to speak but the delegates howled him down and shouted him down. Unable to procure order the chairman adjourned the conference.

The incident was interpreted as an indication that the miners hold the railway men responsible for the collapse of the recent general strike.

RUSSIAN PEEVED SENDS HOT WIRE

British Trades Union Congress Gets Opinion of Soviet

Bournemouth, Eng., Sept. 9.—The copy of a lengthy and abusive telegram, purportedly signed in behalf of the Russian Central Council of Trade Unions by M. Tomsky, Moscow fraternal delegate whom the government forbade to land in England, was circulated today among the delegates to the British Trade Union Congress in session here.

The Tomsky telegram attacked the British Conservative Government which it said "willingly admits representatives from Amsterdam and the American Federation of Labor who are either black leg miners, or shameful tatty talk of loans at interest," but refused to admit representatives of Soviet Workers who were "giving their last penny to help their class brothers in this great fight."

The telegram embodied an attack on Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas and "other Trades Union leaders like him," whom it accused of being too loyal to capital.

WHEAT SWINGS HIGHER BUT REACTION FOLLOWS

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 9.—Wheat today took an early swing upward, due more or less to an unexpected upturn in the Liverpool market. Buying however, soon ran its course and a reaction set in. After starting 1.3c to 7.3c higher, with September delivery showing the most strength wheat values here quickly broke to below yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were firm at the start, corn opening 1.3c to 2.5c up, on reports of cool weather over the belt and unfavorable conditions down state. Coarse grains later showed sympathy with wheat.

ACCUSED IDENTIFIED AS BUYING REVOLVER

Montreal, Que., Sept. 9.—Standing quietly in the dock, U. R. Bertrand today heard witness tell Judge Perreault in Arraignment Court, of events leading to his arrest and the charge against him of the murder of J. A. Beaudry, Editor and Publisher, in the Prix Courant Building, on August 14. Proceedings largely followed lines of those before the coroner's jury last week, only one new witness being heard. Esther Maxwell, aged 13, who admitted Bertrand on his visit to Mulhollin, a blind violinist, for the purpose of purchasing a revolver and identified the accused both in court today and at detective headquarters previously.

STRANGE SUICIDE MEANS

Prisoner Drew Barber's Hands Across Own Throat

Prince Albert, September 3.—James Alfred Murray, of Edmonton, serving a two-year sentence in the penitentiary here for burglary, committed suicide this morning in a unique manner. While being shaved by another prisoner, he seized the barber's hand and drew the razor across his own throat. Before he expired he absolved the barber prisoner from any blame.

Foster Addresses League Assembly

Sir George Says Canada Supports its Work — So Do Many in U. S. A.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 9.—Millions of citizens of the United States have "sympathetic hearts and minds which approve of the great work the League of Nations is carrying on," Sir George Foster of Canada, declared in an address before the League Assembly today.

Sir George said the League's first great disappointment had been despite, the active sympathies of the United States. Many skeptics had thought the absence of the United States spelled the end of the League and "that without the United States it would be impossible for the League to do effective and continuous work."

"Despite that," he remarked, "we have continued and have made our way forward step by step. We have done that without opposition from the United States."

Emphasizing that Canada was heart and soul in sympathy with the League, Sir George criticized those who thought the United States was representing the entire American Continent. There were people there who did not "have the happiest to live under the flag of the United States" and north of the Gulf of Mexico there were 130,000,000 people who believed in the purposes of the League.

In conclusion, he asserted that the League must never bend to cajolery or the menace of outside powers, and said that if outside parties laid down unreasonable conditions as the price of their collaboration, they should be refused.

SEES NO CHANCE OF ANY LIBERAL BEING MINISTER

Heavy Day Begun By Premier in Good Voice and Heart

200 MILES BY MOTOR

Ridicules Alleged Hopes of Opponent of Col. Hugh Clark

Kincardine, Ont., Sept. 9.—Premier Meighen opened another hard day at Kincardine this morning. Half a dozen meetings and about a couple of hundred miles of motoring over wet roads lie ahead of him. He opened in fairly good voice. He spoke highly in support of the Conservative candidature in North Bruce of Col. Hugh Clark. "No constituency in the history of Canada ever sent a man more universally popular," said Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Meighen added that he had heard that James Malcolm, the Liberal Candidate in North Bruce was representing himself as a man to be in King Government if Mr. King became Premier. "That contingency is so remote," Mr. Meighen pursued, "that it's not very much worth talking about."

"There won't be any King Government," Mr. Meighen said further.

KING IS SUING TORONTO 'TELY'

Ex-Premier and Two Former Ministers Asking $250,000

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 9.—Senator the Hon. Peter Murphy and the Hon. John C. Elliott, former minister of Labor, were named as two other plaintiffs in the $250,000 action for alleged libel which has been taken on behalf of the Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King et al, against the trustees of the estate of the late John Ross Robertson, publishers of the Toronto Evening Telegram.

The writ which has been filed in the office of the local master at the Court House, shows that in addition to the amount of damages asked for by three plaintiffs, they also seek to secure an injunction and an interim injunction.

Statements in the Evening Telegram of which complaint is made, were in relation to the present federal political campaign.

MED. ASSOCIATION MET AT STIRLING

Dr. Tew, of London, Ont., was the speaker at the meeting of the Hastings County Medical Association at Stirling last evening and his interesting paper on Obstetrics was heard, by the largest gathering that has attended a meeting of the Association this year which gathering included several of the medical profession in Belleville, Miss Tait, superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital and several of the nurses of the General Hospital.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the Association were entertained at the home of Dr. Algar.

Dr. J. J. Robertson has been asked to read a paper on surgery at the meeting of the Central District MedicalAssociation, to be held in Port Hope on October 7th.

RE-ENACT THE BATTLE OF HANNIBAL'S TIME

Rome, Sept. 9.—Using tanks instead of elephants, 50,000 Italian troops are re-enacting near Alba Tyrolinese, after nearly 22 centuries, the combat between Hannibal and the Roman legions in the second Punic war, after the Carthaginians had crushed the legions near Rome.

Premier Mussolini and 40 aides-de-camp left today for the Castle Gandolfo, a romantic medieval stronghold near Rome, which has been selected as military headquarters for the manoeuvres.

NO INTERVENTION IN CHINA NOW

British Government Will Wait and See What Happens Next

PIRATES ARE BLAMED

No Responsible Parties With Which to Deal in the Orient

London, September 9.—The fight in the Yangtze River in southern China, in which seven British naval officers and men were killed and many others wounded, will not bring British intervention for the present. Neither will the capture of the treaty port of Hankow and the great arsenal of Hanyang by the Chinese "reds." These two strategical wins made by a British colonial may be taken to reflect the official British attitude for the time being.

Nevertheless it is admitted that the Chinese situation is most unsatisfactory and fraught with all sorts of dangers to the international status quo. But it is considered at the same time that even a serious happening like the river fight, which entailed so many British casualties, does not constitute a valid reason for intervention since China is in a hopeless state of chaos and without a government which can be held responsible for such lawless acts. A further complication in the situation, moreover, is the fact that the Chinese engaged in the fight against British naval units belong to a faction favored by the British, since it is a fighting the Cantonese "red" government to which Britain is ostensibly.

It has been recognized all along that the bulk of the fighting in China must be considered as mere brawls between rival generals, without special political significance, "reds" or other political colorings or specifically anti-British characteristics. The river pirates with whom British merchant shippers got into a struggle a few days ago, thus precipitating the fight where in the navy suffered casualties, are considered here as no better than ordinary pirates.

FLORAL TRIBUTES

The floral tributes for the late Mrs. Jonathan Wilson of Sidney Township, were many and beautiful in effect. They were as follows:

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Domision so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally; and I take this opportunity of most respectful ly soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,
ROSCOE VANDERWATER.

GOAL OF WEST IS FREE TRADE

Hyphenated Liberals Have Same Object, Says Meighen

PREMIER IN N. GREY

Promises Only Such Protection as Will Enable Industry to Live

Owen Sound, Ont., September 9.—Only a few hours ahead of Mr. Mackenzie King, Premier Meighen addressed the electors of North Grey. Welcoming streamers ran across the streets of Owen Sound. "Keep both hands on the Union Jack," one motto ran, and along the sidewalks Union Jacks hung on standards.

Mr. Meighen spoke at a picnic at Harrison's Park, facing one of the largest crowds of his Ontario tour. Before he had been on his feet many minutes, rain drizzled down, but there was little lessening of the crowd.

He pressed his tariff views, declaring his intention to revise the tariff basis of protection. The principle governing every schedule in the tariff would be the principle of protection. "That," he declared, "is the principle we intend to re-establish in our country." But only such protection would be given as would enable Canadian industry to live and grow in Canada. Except in respect of farm products, there would be no brick for brick policy with the United States. He asserted that there was no difference between Liberal-Progressive or Progressive-Liberal of the prairie provinces. "All of them," he exclaimed, "everyone of them is running on precisely the same plank, namely, the eventual downward revision of the tariff of Canada to the goal of free trade.

"Don't believe for a moment," Mr. Meighen proceeded; "that there is any difference between the Saskatchewan Liberal and the Manitoba Progressive. Not a particle. No man in the last House could see the least.

"Mr. King, if by any miracle he should come back, will depend for every breath of his political life for every line of his legislation, upon the support of those men from those three provinces, and for every budget they will exact their price. I ask the people here to think of that."

Touching on the Robb budget, Mr. Meighen asserted that no man had got a cay a dollar less at the expense of the manufacturer.

"He is getting his new dollar less at the expense of the treasury," Mr. Meighen added, "and he has got to make it up somewhere else; either that, or it is added to the public debt."

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow wish to thank their many friends for their kindness shown them during their recent and bereavement, also for floral tributes received.

Pontiac Six Has Created Its Own Field!

INTO a market already apparently divided into "classes" and "price-ranges" came Pontiac Six—a new car, a new value that swept away all barriers of "class" and "price". Pontiac Six brought quality into the "low-priced six" field. It brought low price into the "quality six" field. And, to the multitude of Pontiac buyers, it brought a new combination of quality and economy that has established for Pontiac a field and a market all its own.

Search as you will the range of low-priced sixes and you will find no other car, at Pontiac price, which provides a spacious Fisher closed body finished in dashing permanent Duco colors, a large engine of 186.5 cubic inches displacement, a 46 lb. crankshaft, automatic spark control, honed cylinders and the rugged construction which has already won for the Pontiac Six its reputation for unrivalled stamina.

Pontiac's low prices are made still lower by the removal of the Canadian Excise Tax—Pontiac Six now being Canadian-built.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Mainly About People You Know

THREE MEETINGS TONIGHT

Mr. W. E. Tummon the Conservative candidate for South Hastings has a busy time before him this evening when he has to address three meetings in different parts of the riding. The meetings are at Sidney Town Hall, Hamilton Town Hall and Orange Hall in Foxboro. He will be assisted by Mr. J. F. Hill, M.P.P. and others.

COMMITTEES TONIGHT

The first public meeting of the various civic committees since the holiday season will be held this evening. There are several matters to be attended to but none of great importance.

TUMMON AT DESERONTO

Mr. Tummon was in Deseronto last night and with him as speaker was Mrs. Merriam, wife of one of Premier Meighen's secretaries. The meeting was most successful in every way.

MISSIONARY A SPEAKER

TO HEAR MRS. MERRIAM

Despite inclement weather this afternoon a large number of ladies in the city who are supporting Mr. W. E. Tummon, gathered at the Conservative rooms for the purpose of listening to an address. The speaker was Mrs. Merriam, of Ottawa, whose husband is private Secretary to the Rt. Hon. A. Meighen. Mrs. Isobel Kinnear, President of the ladies organization presided.

TEMPERATURES

At an early hour yesterday morning, the temperature was rather low the minimum being 44. The maximum yesterday was 77 as compared with 76 for the same date last year. The rainfall up to noon today was almost one-half inch.

THE FRUIT PROSPECTS

Returning this week from the Niagara Peninsula, having spent some time in St. Catharines, Mr. E. A. Ridley has summed up the fall fruit situation very concisely. As to peaches he believes this there will be a good yield but the harvesting of the fruit will be late, the ripening having been retarded by the late spring and cool weather. The winter apple crop, including the Northern Spy is comparatively light while the summer apple crop is very heavy. According to fruit growers about the country, the plum crop is about the average and rather late.

AGED 18 MONTHS, FALLS

Willis Clarke, eighteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clarke, while climbing about the balustrade at his home in Tyendinaga, near Shannonville yesterday, fell from the gallery running at the top of the balustrade, fracturing his hip in two places. Dr. J. J. Robertson attended the little fellow who is making satisfactory improvement.

Y. M. C. A. RENOVATED

The interior of the Young Men's Christian Association building has received a thorough renovating and coat of paint during the past two weeks and presents a much more lovely appearance. The autumn activities will commence shortly and the officials are preparing for large attendances at the gymnasium classes and bowling alleys. The alleys have been levelled and repaired and are now in tip-top shape. The dressing rooms have also been fixed up and the members will be given more accommodation than ever.

CURATE OF ST. GEORGES

Rev. Clarence Gray Eakins M.A., son of the late Dr. A. E. Eakins who formerly practiced medicine in the city and resided in the home now occupied pointed curate of St. George Cathedral, by Dr. R. W. Tennent, has been appointed curate of St. George Cathedral, Kingston. Mr. Eakins who assumes his duties in November is at present incumbent at Haliburton.

PRICE TREND STILL UPWARD

Rails and Motors Are Buoyant — Chain Stores Prosper

Rails again came to the forefront of the advance. Chesapeake and Ohio was individual feature in that group depositing its second high price for all time. Revival of activity and strength in sugar shares was one of the features of the industrial section. Some low priced motors turned heavy but General Motors again headed upward on strong buying support. Oils were sluggish and some of specialties were rather backward.

Chain store issues made a belated response to reports of steadily expanding sales and earnings, and good buying also developed in a number of silk, food, amusement and merchandising shares. Special strength of Radio Corporation was characterized as the usual "window dressing" preparatory to the opening of the radio convention here next week.

Vote For W. E. Tummon In South Hastings And Good Stable Government

On Tuesday, September 14th, the electors of South Hastings, in common interest with Canadians in all constituencies in Canada, will have the opportunity to vote into power a good stable government, which Canada has needed so badly during the past five years.

As candidate in South Hastings of the Liberal-Conservative party, and a supporter of its Leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, may I ask my fellow electors in this great and historic riding, with its fine British traditions, to record their votes in behalf of the cause I represent, so that Canada may be governed by a Canada-first policy, and enter upon the era of prosperity which will follow.

Time will not permit me, as much as I would like to do so, to personally meet as many of the electors before election day, as a longer period would make possible, since it was not definitely known earlier that there would be a contest in this riding. I must therefore reach as many as possible by this medium, and I wish to sincerely solicit the votes of all men and women electors who desire to do their bit in the establishment of good government and thereby bring about a better condition in the administration of the affairs of Canada.

Great issues are at stake in the present election, and citizens in all walks of life are called upon to express their condemnation of the discredited government of former Premier King.

I wish to state that I stand solidly behind the Conservative Leader and Prime Minister and the policies he has enunciated in Parliament and during the present campaign. Especially do I want to say that I endorse his policy in regard to the Canadian National Railway, believing that its existence is necessary in the development of Canada, which if given proper stimulus will show marked progress.

Before the close of the campaign I shall discuss the more important issues at a series of fifteen meetings in this riding, and I hope to receive such support as will enable me to return to a seat in Parliament and there aid in the great work Canada likely to be carried on by the Conservative party.

In conclusion now may I quote from my speech at the Conservative convention when I was chosen as standard-bearer of the party, and when I said:

"What does the Conservative Party offer. We offer a strong, stable Government of men, sincerely believing our policy will promote general prosperity and contentment, a policy that will lead the Dominion on the road to its true place in the family of nations. We believe in a 'Canada First Policy', a policy that will keep for the farmer of Canada his natural market in Canadian towns and cities to give to the business men of Canada protection against the cheap labour of other countries and to give to the Canadian workman decent standards of living and a surety and diversity of employment in his own land.

"We believe that the Canadian farmer and the Canadian business man should have the same hold upon the markets of Canada, that the United States farmers and business man have upon the markets of the United States. That the workman should have the same chance for employment, for the support and education of his family in his own country as the United States workman has in his country.

"These and more, we declare for honesty and efficiency in the country's business. We believe that fraud, dishonesty, corruption, inefficiency and maladministratoin should be condemned.

Yours faithfully,
W. E. TUMMON.

CANADA'S FARMERS ARE THE JURY

No class of people have a greater abhorrence for scandal than have farmers. Living close to nature they develop a sense of honesty and uprightness which causes them to loathe anything crooked. And they rarely fail to castigate by their votes public men who are afraid to take action when the laws of decency are violated.

Few of us have forgotten the story of the famous "last night party" in the Ontario House. As Premier, it was Mr. Drury's duty to clean up the mess, regardless of who might be involved. But he feared to make enemies of Northern friends, thinking that he needed all the support he could get. What was the result? At the next election he and his following were practically obliterated.

For at least two years Mr. Mackenzie King and his Cabinet had knowledge that a great deal of smuggling was going on. They were told of actual conditions, and were shown that they had on the payroll of the Government men who had perjured themselves and were in direct league with the smugglers. As early as August, 1924, a deputation of business men, most of whom were actual sufferers by the conditions, waited on Mr. King and six members of his Cabinet and gave them evidence which established beyond the shadow of a doubt the following facts:—

that the Customs service in Canada had broken down;

that the Treasury was being defrauded of millions of dollars;

that the Customs Preventive Service was in the hands of a gang of crooks and thieves;

that legitimate businesses were being driven into bankruptcy by competition from smugglers;

that the Minister of Customs, Hon. Jacques Bureau, was disregarding all rules and regulations governing the collection of public revenue.

Yet with all this evidence before him, Mr. King did nothing. In letters and interviews Mr. Sparks, Chairman of the Commercial Protective Association, continued to pile up evidence upon evidence against the customs service as it was then being operated. There was an insistent and persistent demand for the dismissal of the crook Bisaillon. There was an urgent appeal for a strengthening of the Customs staff and a housecleaning of the personnel of the Department. The members of the cabinet, including Mr. King, all knew about it. But Mr. King lacked the courage to discipline wrong-doing among his following, so the crooked work was allowed to go on.

He rewarded Jacques Bureau by elevating him to the Senate; he allowed Bisaillon to continue his dastardly work of debauching the service by methods that enabled him to fatten his purse; he sanctioned the withdrawal of special police from the border in order that smugglers, friendly to the Party, might grow rich at the country's expense. Yet when the House of Commons threatened him with a vote of censure, he fled to His Majesty's representative for protection! Such a performance has never before been known in British Parliamentary history!

CONTRASTED TYPES

Two British Labor politicians were Labor Day guests at the Toronto National Exhibition and delivered addresses. One was the Right Hon. F. O. Roberts, who was a member of the Ramsay MacDonald cabinet and the other was Walter Newbolt, former M. P. for Motherwell, England. Mr. Roberts spoke not only with force and intelligence, but what he said was in good taste. That cannot be said of the remarks made by Mr. Newbolt. His speech could hardly have been in worse taste. Although he had been warned that political speeches were not in order at the exhibition, his speech was entirely political. He ridiculed both the Conservative and Liberal parties, and urged his hearers to elect Jimmy Simpson in Toronto because Mr. Simpson is a Labor representative. He sought to prejudice Canadian workers against their employers, telling them that as soon as cheap goods from Europe began to come into Canada in great quantities Canadian employers would compel their workers to submit to reductions in their pay. And he sneered at Lord Byng. "He's over you all," said Mr. Newbolt, "but he's in the mess now. He is governor-general because he was wise enough to marry the granddaughter of a great grain merchant."

Somebody should have told Mr. Newbolt that Canada has—or may have—a tariff which can be made to serve as a protection to Canadian workers against a flood of cheap goods from Europe. As for the governor-general, the British Labor man's sneer will hurt himself rather than Lord Byng. It is not true that that great soldier owes his position as governor-general to any thing except his own merits and services. Anyone familiar with the record of Byng of Vimy in Egypt and the Sudan, in South Africa and in the great war must have unusual effrontery to attempt to belittle him before a Canadian audience.

MR. MEIGHEN AT TORONTO

A spirit of hope in the future of Canada, and in the confidence that brighter days are to dawn, under a Conservative Government, was strongly marked at a monster rally of Conservatives at Massey Hall, Toronto on the occasion of the visit of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, who received a remarkably fine reception from many thousands of citizens and who, in dealing with the election issues in a masterly way, indicated that the only hope of Canada gaining the measure of prosperity which is her due lies in a firm adherence to the Conservative cause on September 14. During the past few weeks there have been many Liberal critics of Mr. Meighen, but, in a ringing address, he faced them all squarely, he dealt with his critics one by one, and demonstrated to his thousands of admirers that he has a masterly grasp of Canadian affairs, and that in fighting for the welfare of the Dominion he is at the same time, insisting that the ties of Empire shall not be severed, and that no amount of Liberal oratory must be permitted to weaken the sentiments of the citizens towards a close adherence to the symbol of the British Empire.

Saluting their King

In order that the whole Dominion might understand his sentiments, Mr. Meighen made it perfectly clear that he had not swerved in the slightest degree from his convictions that Canada's prosperity can be built up only through the application of a sound protective policy. He made it equally plain that the Canadian National Railways cannot possibly suffer in the hands of the Conservatives, who were the first to rise to their assistance and to attempt to rescue them from the condition of failure in which their own great genius had been left by the former Liberal regime. He handled the Hobbs budget in a clear and forceful manner, showing that its purpose was not to relieve the taxation of the people who could most afford to pay, while at the same time the Liberals have placed higher taxes upon the shoulders of the poor than were placed by the former Conservative Government. At the same time, he laid bare some of the blacker chapters of the story of the Customs scandal; and he showed how the Liberal speakers, in their talk of the constitutional issues, have been attempting to divert public attention from other issues which they dare not face.

An "Estimate" Of the Voting

An English estimate, published in Canada, is quoted in the Financial Post by one who has in the past made remarkably correct forecasts, and in the publication of whose prediction Canada says:

"Without in any way committing ourselves to the following expression of opinion on the election possibilities in Canada, we publish the following prognostication by a Canadian who has an intimate knowledge of political conditions in the Dominion. He was one of the few who calculated at the general election of 1911 that the Liberal majority at the dissolution in that year would on election day, be transformed into a Conservative majority of over 40, and he prophesied that the general election of 1925 would end in stale-mate.

	Liberal	Pro. Conservative
Prince Edward Island	2	2
New Brunswick	1	11
Nova Scotia	3	11
Quebec	52	12
Ontario	72	73
Manitoba	10	7
Saskatchewan	13	3
Alberta	12	5
British Columbia	4	10
Yukon	1	1

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

—When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because they could not possibly, be more completely natural looking, though, at home is messy and trouble some. For 75 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just moisten a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair dis appears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

PREDICTS DRUGS TO ABOLISH SLEEP MAKE SUPERMEN

Research in Organic Chemistry May Lead to Great Changes

Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—The possibility that research in organic chemistry, now under way, discovering drug-like may lead to astounding changes in human life, even elimination of the necessity for sleep and attainment of genius and reform of character by use of drugs, was expounded today before the jubilee convention of the American Chemical Society by Irenee du Pont, former president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co.

"We know that some adults sleep more hours per night than others," said Mr. du Pont. "It seems likely that this is due to some slight difference either in the nature of accumulated poisons which necessitate sleep for their removal or in less rapid elimination of the poisons by those who sleep less efficiently.

"Would it not seem likely that the reactions may be hastened by some catalytic agent or even that the antidote itself may be prepared and administered, thereby either decreasing the amount of sleep required or doing away with the necessity of sleep entirely.

Such a discovery, he pointed out, would increase the time of production and leisure 60 per cent.

Taking up the matter of mental stimulants, Mr. du Pont suggested to the 4,000 delegates a prospect of synthetic supermen.

"Certain drugs tend to stupify and prevent humans from thinking clearly," he said. "Other drugs such as caffein, taken in tea and coffee, to some extent stimulate the mind. Is it not possible that there exist still other compounds which might stimulate the mind to a greater extent so that mentally all the users would become supermen or geniuses?"

The So-Called "Robb" Budget

WHEN the so-called Robb Budget was being written, the King Government was in a minority of forty-three members in the House of Commons. The Progressives were masters of the situation and dictated their terms to Mackenzie King, who had no power to refuse the Progressive demands, and therefore bartered and compromised with them on the terms of the new Budget.

The only hold Mackenzie King had over the Progressives was the constant threat of a much-dreaded second general election. The Robb Budget was in reality a Forke-Robb budget. Forke got what he could, and Mackenzie King promised to avoid a general election.

Mackenzie King, however, was under other and stronger pressure to provide a popular budget, for he knew—what Forke did not—that a general election was inevitable owing to the Customs Scandal, which was shortly due to break wide open.

Forke saw no reason why, with a popular budget, Mackenzie King should not carry on for four years with Forke as virtual dictator, but Mackenzie King had known of the Customs situation from the year 1923, and in 1924, and again in 1925, he came to know so much that he secured Jacques Bureau's resignation, and appointed him to the Senate with a salary of $4,000 per year for life. He knew that his government was doomed if there were any honest votes among the Progressive members in the House.

Under this intolerable pressure Mackenzie King created two artificial and dishonest issues:—first, the misnamed "Robb" Budget, and second, the so-called "Constitutional Issue," against the general election, which at the time he foresaw was inevitable.

And so the Robb Budget, born of fear of an election on a proven Scandal Issue, and of compromise with Robert Forke, was duly produced in the House, its main appeal being based originally upon a reduction of the customs duties on automobiles coming into Canada.

Mackenzie King, time and again, in the campaign of 1925, announced that he would not further meddle with the Customs tariff until he had consulted the new Tariff Commission, but he broke his pledged word, for he never made even a pretence of consulting the Tariff Board on the automobile tariff, but he took a leap in the dark and he landed in trouble.

Arthur Meighen, leading the Conservative party, at once announced his determined opposition to the tariff cut, which meant the extinction of the Canadian automobile industry, affording a livelihood to a population of one hundred thousand Canadians.

This was the Robb Budget—A TARIFF CUT—CHEAPER AUTOMOBILES—THE DESTRUCTION OF CANADA'S GREATEST INDUSTRY—and though it failed, this is the only and true "Robb" budget before the electorate today.

Most of the automobile manufacturers were not vitally concerned, as their Canadian plants were originally forced to this side of the border because of the tariff imposed upon imports from the United States, and it made very little difference to their profits whether the automobiles sold Canadians were manufactured there or here, or whether their Canadian plants closed or operated.

But the one hundred thousand people whose livelihood depended upon a continuance of the Canadian industry, were heard from immediately, and deputations of workers proceeded to Ottawa, made grave protests to Mackenzie King and his Finance Minister, and after a display of petulant bad temper, Messrs. King and Robb finally gave way, and the "Robb" budget as originally conceived with respect to automobiles disappeared under a screen of smoke.

A rapid shift was made. The tariff cut was allowed for appearance sake to stand, but the difference to the Canadian manufacturing plant was made up by shifts and changes, the most important of which was that the luxury tax was remitted to the manufacturer on automobiles produced in Canada, while it was still collected on imported machines, and also remitted customs duties on raw materials, parts, etc.

The Robb Budget originally provided cheaper automobiles by destroying the greatest of Canadian industrial undertakings, but cheaper automobiles were actually and finally provided not by the tariff cut but by the remission of the luxury and other taxes, and thanks to the Conservative party the automobile industry was saved. The Luxury Taxes were changed into a protective duty.

The people of this country today have cheaper automobiles, and the automobile industry is at the same time carrying on not by reason of the Robb Budget but in spite of his amateur interference with the tariff, originally based upon:

1. Fear of the Progressives.
2. The necessity of providing something to offset the Customs Scandal.
3. The satisfying of Mackenzie King's revenge against large manufacturing constituencies which had rejected his candidates in the election of 1925.

To call the budget of 1926, as finally passed, the "Robb" budget, is a joke. So far as the automobile situation is concerned, it was finally a budget forced upon Mr. Robb after he had created a situation which was a menace to the life of industrial Canada.

Furthermore, the "Robb" budget was scrapped, together with all other legislation of the 1926 session, when Mackenzie King, in his last and unsuccessful clutch at the control of the election machinery of the country, refused to follow British precedent and co-operate with the new Meighen Government, and combined with the Progressives to defeat the Meighen Government, and the electors of Canada will remember that after the Meighen Government was defeated, and after dissolution was granted, the budget of 1926 was saved and put into effect, in spite of Mr. King's refusal to co-operate, only by Orders-in-Council issued by the Meighen Government under the Audit Act.

The other changes in the Robb budget, such as the rearrangement of income taxes, the reduction of the postal rate, etc., can be disposed of in a few words.

Under the five years of the King Government Canada was one of the most onerously taxed countries in the world, and it was high time that some reductions were made. Four good crops, with the savings of the Canadian people, had provided a basis for reduction. It is difficult to understand why credit should be taken by Mackenzie King for a reduction of taxes to the Canadian people because of expanding revenues provided by the Canadian people themselves, chiefly by a sales tax on clothing, etc., 60% higher today than it ever was under the Conservatives.

The Conservative party promises a gradual reduction, and the eventual extinction, of all nuisance taxes, such as stamp taxes on cheques, sales tax, etc.

For four years thirty five million dollars per year were stolen under the King Government by bootleggers, dopesters and smugglers, with the connivance of officials and with the proven collusion of more than one of Mackenzie King's Ministers and ex-Ministers.

There is no reason why the readjustment of the luxury and other taxes on automobiles should not have been initiated three years ago, if the government revenues had not been diverted into the pockets of the bootleggers and smugglers. There is no other reason why all the nuisance taxes should not now be in process of reduction.

If from now on there is honest administration in the revenue-producing departments, and especially in the Customs and Excise Department, and if a firm hand is exercised in regulating the spending departments, Canada can look forward to a steady reduction in taxation. The record of the Borden-Meighen Governments from 1911 to 1921 is before the people. Billions of money were spent during the war, and not one word of proof has ever been offered to show that any Minister in the Borden-Meighen governments was ever derelict in his duty.

The Conservative Party, under Arthur Meighen, stands on its record, and promises the people of Canada HONEST GOVERNMENT, HONEST COLLECTION OF REVENUES, AND HONEST BUDGETS, which will reduce taxation, and at the same time build up industrial Canada, preserve Canadian markets for the Canadian farmer, and produce such a season of prosperity as will yield increased revenues, which will be applied in decreasing taxation.

ALEMITE PICNIC IS LIVELY AFFAIR

Drive to Twelve O'Clock Point to Start Athletics

GIRLS ARE VICTORS

Then to Trenton Where Charleston Experts Did Their Stuff

The second annual picnic of the Alemite Products Co., was held at 12 o'clock Point yesterday afternoon. It was an unqualified success, some sixty employees of the plant and their friends having enjoyed a choice programme of ball games races and dancing. The officials in charge of the affair kept things moving and there wasn't a dull moment from the time the picnickers arrived on the grounds. The credit for the success of the outing is due largely to W. E. Rowsome general manager of the concern. "Ernie" has been planning the affair for some weeks past and nothing was overlooked in providing entertainment for the guests. The Alemite Co. is one of Belleville's growing industries and the employees are given all privileges in promoting sports and social functions and as a result they take a keener interest in their work and are solidly behind the officers of the Company, Mr. Rowsome declares.

SOFTBALL

The vanguard of the party arrived at the summer resort at 3 o'clock and immediately a softball game opened the proceedings. The teams were mixed made up of ladies and gentlemen and after five or six innings had been played with nobody apparently aware of the score a new game was organized. This for the championship of the Alemite plant between the boys and girls. Each team were allowed no less than fifteen players on the field at one time and when they had assembled it looked like a battalion lined up for a route march and the player managing to get a hit through the mob was lucky indeed. Of course a handicap was placed on the boys, they having to catch the ball, and also bat with one hand, and a fine of ten cents was levied on all violating the rule. "Heap Big Chief" Rowsome was appointed official treasurer and reserved the right to collect the fines. "Duke" Smith was the heaviest contributor and threatened several times to pick up his toys and leave his playmates if they didn't stop calling on him for dimes. The boys began a fusilade of uncomplimentary remarks as to the umpiring and the athletes were subjected to rather a rough passage but emerged safely.

THIS WAS WHY

As to the score it was 7-6 in favor of the females. "Duke" Smith with some of his superhuman plays stood head and shoulders above everyone else on the field. Mourn. Carmichael and Fairbairn demonstrated to some of the younger blood the finer arts of the pastime. Pat Jennings was umpire behind the plate and had rather a hard time trying to pacify both sides of the question.

Following the game the girls repaired to the ice-cream hall where they proceeded to recklessly spend the money collected from their gentlemen friends.

RACES

The sports committee then took charge of the race programme and the first event on the card was the free-for-all, otherwise known as the fat man's race. Only three contestants went to the banner, namely "Duke" Smith, Ernie Rowsome and Jack Carmichael, after two or three unsuccessful starts.

"Duke" Smith, resembling Paavo Nurmi and Charlie Paddock combined, came down in front. In the married ladies race Mrs. W. Page carried off the honors.

Married men's—C. Ridgy.

In the single ladies race, Bonnie Baker and Maisie Ray went into the finals with the former emerging the winner.

In the single men's race C. Ray pushed over the line a foot ahead of the fleet-footed John Kerr who had a handicap of a few yards to overcome.

After the races a few of the attendants went in the canal for a dip, however, the cold water soon drove them to shelter.

TO TRENTON

At 8.30 the caravan left for Trenton where a fine spread awaited them at the Boston cafe. During the course of the dinner the guests were entertained with songs and selections from various members of the staff led by Mr. Smith with the ukelele. Mr. Rowsome, Harry Pringle and others made short speeches. Following the lunch a snake dance was formed on the main street and some of the "fair ones" exhibited the "Charleston" to an interested crowd.

Arriving back at the pavilion at the Point the dance program was commenced with the regular orchestra providing the music. The Charleston contestants drew considerable applause and Miss Bernice Baker was given the decision of the judges in the ladies section while Mr. Filion, of Trenton, was the pick of the gentlemen. Mrs. Andrews, Miss Davidson and Mr. B. Curry acted as judges.

OTHER DANCES

Several other feature dances were included, spot dances and elimination contests with the lady winners each receiving a box of chocolates. Cecil Post and Miss N. Carter, Mr. Riley and Maisie Ray and Florence Shelcher and partner captured the prizes. The dance broke up at midnight and sleighers arrived home a tired but happy lot and declared it to be a fine outing and willingly look forward to next year's event.

Frank Rayfield, Jack Allen, Arthur Young, Miss Brown and others were kept busy arranging details and all helped in making it a red-letter day in Alemite history.

TORONTO'S WON 100TH VICTORY

Leafs Crushed Buffalo's Last Hopes By 16-0 Score at Toronto

PIRATES NOT YET OUT

St. Louis Considers Itself Almost Sure Winners of Pennant

The Leafs registered their hundredth win of the season at Toronto defeating Buffalo, 16 to 0. The defeat knocked Buffalo's last hopes of the pennant. The Leafs hit freely while Sorrell held the Bisons to three hits.

Baltimore made a clean sweep of the series at Reading taking the final game, 9 to 2. It was the Keys' seventeenth straight defeat.

Jersey City and Newark divided their double-header at the latter city, the Skeeters copping the first, 5-0, and dropping the nightcap, 3 to 1.

Buffalo	000	000	000	0	3	2
Toronto	603	103	03x	16	18	0

ST. LOUIS SEE YANKS

The Boston Red Sox clinched their losing streak of 17 straight at New York defeating New York in the second game lowed but five hits and when the Yankees of the series, 5 to 2. Harold Wiltse allowed but five hits and when the Yankees filled the bases with none out in the third inning, he struck out Paschal and Meusel and retired Babe Ruth on an infield tap. Wiltse fanned Ruth twice.

Manager Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals; Catcher Bob O'Farrell and the regular members of the St. Louis National pitching staff, Alexander, Haines, Sherdil, Rhem, Keen and Bethorn, attended the game and got pointers on the Yankees.

The Pirates abandoned caution at Pittsburgh and put themselves back into the National League pennant race by taking both games of a double-header from the Reds, 6 to 1, and 11 to 0.

Starting this double-header four and one half games behind the league-leading Cardinals and two and one half games behind the second placed Reds, the Pirates were counted, even by their own supporters as out of the championship race. It was no time then for caution, but for a reckless attack which might put them again within reach of the pennant. Two victories would put them within a half game of the second place held by the Reds and within three and one half games of the Cardinals who were idle. The Reds would then be three games behind the leaders.

And that is the way it all worked out, the Pirates attacked recklessly, savagely, slashingly, for they had nothing to lose and everything to gain.

rubber heels for the McLaughlin-Buick engine

Here is an engine completely insulated and isolated from all metallic contact with its chassis. Thick rubber cushions, fore and aft, absorb noise, and save the engine from road shocks and strains.

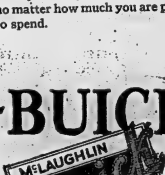

Never, in all its successful years of motor car manufacture, has McLaughlin-Buick ever produced a car so far ahead of its field in performance and value as the 1927 McLaughlin-Buick.

Money can buy no finer performance, no matter how much you are prepared to spend.

GEORGE WHITE "SCANDALS"
SIXTH ANNUAL EDITION

With jazz and color and plenty of diversion the sixth annual edition of George White's "Scandals" will be one of the season's attractions at Griffins on September 20th. This latest revue of Mr. White to be seen in Belleville is the same that saw unprecedented success in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Boston and it will be given here exactly as it was presented in those cities in every detail of production. The revue is staged with an effective background of lighting. The use of drapes and of varying shades lend a distinctive atmosphere to the production and serve to produce a series of pictures which are further enhanced by lovely costumes and beautiful girls. One of the special features is the Original White Beauty Chorus, approximately sixty in number. Their grace, youthfulness and beauty have brought them unstinted praise.

Thirty unique and attractive scenes are employed in the staging of the Sixth Edition of Mr. White's series of revues.

ALL STAR NINE PICKED TO PLAY

B. H. S. Champs. Will Get Good Workout Friday Night

Arrangements have been completed for the all-star softball games in the armouries tomorrow, (Friday) night, at 7.45 when a hand-picked team selected from the Deseronto, Napanee, and Belleville Bearers team will face the fast High School aggregation. This game is being put on mainly for the purpose of keeping the students in trim for their crucial series with the intermediate champions of Toronto. It was thought advisable to play the games inside the armouries as the days are growing short and the full size inields cannot be completed in an outdoor diamond unless played in the afternoon. Jean Ramsay is slated to pitch the first game for the High School with Margaret Fairbairn taking the slab in the night cap affair. Miss Mossman, a likely-looking prospect in the city league has also been mentioned and may pitch part of the game.

James Whitton, manager of the Deseronto team, runners-up in the play-off Quinte League, will select the all-star outfit with Allan Meagher assisting.

The regular High School line-up will be injected into the fray. It is not definitely known who will compose the all-star team. Several selections have been handed in to the sporting editor by the "umps." This will be definitely decided today. It will probably be something like this: Pitchers—L. Wagar, Deseronto, and Helen Lee, Bearers.

Catchers—M. Grass, Napanee, and M. Harvey, Deseronto.

1st Base—A. Ganlin, Deseronto.

2nd Base—L. Melchior, Bearers.

3rd Base—L. Curry, Bearers.

Short Stop—Y. Whitton, Deseronto.

Outfield—Twila Warham, Bearers; K. Ungar, Napanee; L. Topping, Napanee; M. Lynch, Bearers.

Kingston Ponies Defeated Goodyear

Kingston, Sept. 9.—Inability to hit the offerings of Bruce Fairns, King ston twirler, kept the Goodyear team down to two hits, and cost them the first O.B.A.A. game by the score of 5 to 0.

The visitors showed no life with the bat, but in the field they played great ball, especially Albright, in centre field, who made one of the most sensational catches seen here this season when he ran from deep centre in to second base to take a high hit ball with one hand.

The visitors used two pitchers. Plummer starting and being relieved by Chambers in the seventh.

The second game of the series between these teams for the right to go into the semi round of the senior O.B.A.A. series will be played in Toronto on Saturday.

The teams:

Summary—Errors—Purvis, Tepell 2, Mills 1. Home-runs—Cherry. Two-base hits—Batstone, Britton, Purvis, Ansiel. Struck out—By Cairns, 9; by Plummer 3; by Chambers 1. Double plays—McCallum to Mills to Lamonte. First base on balls—Of Cairns, 1; off Plummer 2. Left on bases—Kingston 7, Goodyears 5. Wild pitch—Plummer. First base on errors—Kingston 1, Goodyears 3. Hits—Of Plummer in 4 2.3 innings 6; of Chambers in 2 1.3 innings 3. Sacrifice hit—Halbert. Time of game—1 hour, 35 minutes. Umpires—Hall and Smith.

DELORO SUPERIOR LOT PORT HOPE SHUT-OUT

Peterboro, Sept. 9.—Deloro Smelters, champions of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League, shut out Port Hope, winners of the Durham and Ontario League, 8 to 0 in the sudden-death game here to decide who should represent Eastern Ontario in the O.B.A.A. intermediate finals. The winners were much better than Port Hope's collection of veterans and young players, and were not extended to win.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Surrounded by an excellent cast and supplied with one of the most thrilling stories of the West ever brought to the silverscreen, Tom Mix, as Jeff Royden, gives a remarkable performance in "Lizard Bolder," Fox Film's version of Rhannon Fife's romantic tale of a dash ranch, which comes to the Belle Theatre tomorrow for a two day run.

In this, his latest release, the great Western ace finds, upon leaving his comfortable home in Chicago, that crooks are crooks—no matter where they are encountered.

In this particular case, the bad men are New York gun artists, headed by one Diamond Sadie, and they are bent upon mischief in the Far West.

In the course of the action, Tom encountered them planning a little bank robbery. A successful bridge to their strong boxes some of the most desirable jewels in the safe at the famous Bolling Springs, where Abi. Corey plays sales with an iron hand.

Just how Tom and Tony, working with "Spec" O'Donnell and a homely little dog, enlist the interest of a beautiful Marjorie Gregg, engineer's startling rescue, and land the culprits behind bars, develop into a Western release of rare beauty and dramatic action.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Charles Ray in the bubblements of an American millionaire's son—and no trace of the country about him; Joan Crawford, glittering beauty in the dark costume and character of an Apache dancing girl in the Paris underworld; Douglas Gilmore, dalliator of sentimental romance, as the "Cat," sinister ruler of the Apache gangsters of Paris—these are some of the surprises in store for devotees of fun in "Paris," Edmund Goulding's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production at Griffin's Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It is a vivid, exotic tale of Paris—not the glittering Paris of tourists, the gay cafes and the brilliant street life—but the other side of Paris—among the Apaches and desperadoes who form a part of their own, in a subterranean kingdom. It is a gripping mystery drama in which the actors themselves, in the diversity of their roles, create an atmosphere of suspense that is carried out through every moment of the tense drama. And there are laughs galore, too. Goulding has provided what is undoubtedly as great a piece of entertainment as has ever graced the screen menu.

Martha Ostenso's New Story

Martha Ostenso, whose "Wild Geese" was for her father and fortune, is going to give the literary roulette wheel another whirl. This fall her second story, "The Dark Dawn," and other descendant of Western farm life, will be put on the book counters, says a writer in The Winnipeg Tribune. In "Wild Geese," Miss Ostenso never mentioned the word Canada and her American readers got the impression that the tales an scene was in North Dakota, in answer to an inquiry from the editor of "The Step Ladder," organ of the Order of Bookfellows, the author of "Wild Geese" sent this illuminating note: "The actual scene of 'Wild Geese' is a bit of backward farming country some 200 miles north of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. I wish, however, that you would do what you can to dissolve the minds of your readers of the idea that the story was written with one eye on the movies as suggested by your contributor in the study outline. When the story was written I had no knowledge of the competition which it finally won, nor did I think of it ever being used for picture production. I am not at all sure, indeed, that it will ever be used in pictures. Of one thing, I am sure, and that is that I know absolutely nothing about the requirements of picture productions."

Ostenso, hitherto known as an author of travel books, has published his first novel, "Sepia," which treats of British outposts in Borneo and the moral and physical breakdown of the lonely lives of jungle officials. Before the war Owen Rutter served in Borneo as a government officer, and now owns a coconut estate there. He was for four years with the British army in France and Macedonia. His troubles are over. He is married to the daughter of a Scottish peer, lives at Wargrave, on the Thames near Henley, and "Sepia" has already jumped through 11 editions.

But there are other forms of happiness. Bertrand Sinclair, author of "Poor Man's Rock," a story of the B.C. salmon fisheries, spends a good deal of his time every summer up along the coast. I am informed that when literary friends visit him, say Peter B. Kyne or Stewart Edward White, he takes them out to his golf course on Pender Bay. There is only one hole. The players drive from a big float. When the ball is propelled out to sea it is retrieved by Indian boys, aquatic caddies who have great fun in seeing who can secure it first. Needless to say the balls used have cork centres.

One of the most hazardous of recent voyages was made last month by the "Leif Eriksson," a little 42-foot replica of the Viking ship in which Leif the Lucky first discovered the coast of North America in the year 1000 A.D. During the more than 900 years since the last voyage of Leif on the arrival of this side of the Atlantic of this modern Viking ship under Captain Pulgrem, of Norway, no other ship so small has made the story journey Leif the Lucky, after whom the boat is named, also had a stormy passage. His crew made sacrifices and cried for aid to the old Scandinavian Gods, Wotan and Thor. This discoverer of America is the hero of an historical romance, "Lord of the Silver Dragon," which has just been completed by Mrs. Laura G. Salverson, of Calgary, whose novel of the Icelandic settlement of Manitoba, "The Viking Heart," was so well received two years ago. Mrs. Salverson's new story will be published this fall by McClelland and Stewart.

A few months ago, when he was lying very seriously ill at his country home at Burwash, Sussex, it did not look as if the present season would see the publication of a new book by Mr. Rudyard Kipling. It is several years now since Mr. Kipling gave us a new book, and his latest, "Debits and Credits," will be hailed on that account with even greatest enthusiasm. It will consist of poems and short stories, introduced by a poem which Mr. Kipling has written especially for the occasion.

PAINTED THE DOG RED

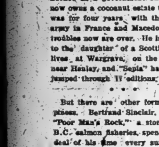

Mrs Fined For Cruelty to Animal Owned by Sir C. Higham

London, Sept. 9.—Missing for a night, a dog belonging to Sir Charles Higham, of Mansfield House, Ivery Heath, returned home painted red from the back of his head to it tail and suffering from injuries. When Edward Proven, of Mansfield Farm, and George Moody, laborer, were charged with cruelty to animals, Sir Charles Higham, said he could have sold the dog for 75 guineas. When he saw its condition he advertised a reward of 5 guineas, and received a communication. Proven was fined £5 and Moody £1, with costs.

The Old Love Or New?

Dr. Chase's OINTMENT
Relieves Chafing and All Skin Irritations

"I must follow them," said Roy, at last, lifting his face, flushed and blistered with tears, and speaking calmly again. "They had such a short start that I cannot but follow them in time. I must see her, again; Dick, she shall explain her conduct. But it is being what my uncle said—that she cared for me because I should be rich? Or are all women false and despicable as she is? However, I will never trust another."

Captain Brinley thought it was early days for Roy to make such an assertion, but the poor lad was smarting under his wound, and was hardly conscious of what he said or did. Neither of the young men slept that night, although both made a pretence of retiring to rest; but Captain Brinley, whose room adjoined his friend's heard Roy pacing up and down his room the long, desolate night—over and again a great choking sob, which made his own heart bleed as he heard it.

CHAPTER X.

CAPTAIN BRINLEY'S OPINION

"I have used every possible argument, Miss Fitzroy, but I have failed completely to dissuade Roy from his purpose and I think it will be better for him to go, and satisfy himself."

It was the morning after the amateur theatricals at Gosport Hall. Roy and Captain Brinley had driven over from the Grange on their way to the station, and while the former was upstairs with his uncle, Constance had come down to see his friend.

Miss Fitzroy was looking very pale and anxious in her pretty morning dress, with the shining dark hair gathered into a thick coil on the nape of her neck, and her eyes looking a little heavy, the natural consequences of her exertions the night before; but Captain Brinley thought he had never seen her so attractive as now, and her sisterly anxiety quite touched him.

"I don't think you have any idea how hard it has gone with Roy," he went on, after a pause. "I did not imagine for a moment that his affection for Miss de Vitry was so deep. He is too young, fortunately, for her treachery to leave any lasting impression."

"You think so?" said Constance, eagerly. "You think he will get over it, Captain Brinley?"

"Of course he will," the captain said, cheerily. "One gets over everything, you know; but it will go hard with Roy for a few months."

"I wish he would give up going," said Constance, her eyes full of tears, which she went over to the window to hide. "It can do no good, and will only give him great pain."

"There is just a chance that we may find them at all," said Captain Brinley. "We have no idea what direction they have taken."

"I hope you will not," said Constance, rather tremulously. "How can we thank you, Captain Brinley, for your friendship to Roy?" she added, turning her face to him for a moment.

"I may be in the same predicament myself," said the young man, smiling; "and Roy will stand by me."

"I hope there will be no need," said Miss Fitzroy, coloring slightly under his glance.

"I hope not, indeed," he answered lightly. "I am an older man, you see, and when my hair comes, I will be a very serious one. I see Roy coming out," he added. "I hope he has pacified your uncle, Goodby, Miss Fitzroy. Shall you be glad to see us back?"

"Yes," said Constance, raising her eyes to his for a moment, with such a pitiful entreaty in their tearful depths that Captain Brinley felt sorely tempted to kiss the tears away.

"Don't be down-hearted," he said, taking her hand in his. "It will be all right by and by, and Roy may be thankful for his escape."

"Do you think so?" she said, eagerly; then checked herself with a sigh. "Good-by, Captain Brinley."

"Are you not coming down to say good-by to Roy?" he asked in surprise.

"No," she said, hesitatingly, colouring to her brow—"no; give him my best love, please."

He looked at her in some surprise, but made no remark, and went down to join Roy, thinking that Constance Fitzroy was a very charming girl, and wishing he had a sister something like her.

"Have you got over with your uncle?" said Captain Brinley, as they drove to the station.

"He has given me carte blanche," said Roy, carelessly. "But I believe he is glad, Dick."

Captain Brinley quite believed it too, but said nothing, and they drove on in silence.

At Medlarham Station, in answer to Roy's inquiries, the station master said that a lady and gentleman had left by the night mail for London; and though Captain Brinley represented to Roy that it was almost hopeless to find them in the great metropolis, he insisted on following them.

Fortunately the train was an express, and the journey rapid; for Roy's impatience knew no bounds, although, when they arrived at Paddington Station, they could obtain no information.

"We have such numbers of passengers," the inspector said, "I could make every inquiry for you, sir," he added, taking pity on Roy's haggard looks and evident distress, "but I fear it will be useless. The night mail from Medlarham, I think you said?"

While he went away to inquire, Roy questioned the porters, but with no success; and an hour elapsed by before the inspector returned with one of the guards.

"I believe I have got you the information you require," he said. "You must excuse my keeping you waiting, but I was detained on other matters. This is the guard who had charge of the train in which your friends came."

"Indeed?" Roy turned to him eagerly. "Do you remember a lady and gentleman getting in at Medlarham Station?"

"Yes, sir, perfectly; they were the only first-class passengers who got in between this and the Junction. A fine, handsome, dark gentleman."

"With a lady?"

"Yes, sir; a little lady, quite young. They were foreigners, I think."

"Where did they go from here?" said young Fitzroy, eagerly.

"Ah! that I can't tell you, sir. I called one of the porters, and told him to get a cab for the gentleman."

"Can't you remember which porter?" asked Captain Brinley.

"Oh! yes, sir; I'll send for him."

The porter came. He had got a cab for the gentleman, he said, and they had driven to Charing Cross Station.

"Charing Cross Hotel more likely," said the guard. "The lady seemed very tired."

"No; it was to the station," the porter affirmed, decidedly. "The gentleman told the coachman to drive there."

"Thank you, my man," Roy said, slipping half-a-crown into his hand; and having enumerated the guard, they hailed a hansom, and drove to Charing Cross Station.

These matters became more complicated. Either the travelers in question had never appeared at the station, or no one could or would give any information about them. Guards, porters, inspectors, were all questioned in vain.

"A lady and gentleman?—dozens of ladies and gentlemen. A little lady and a tall gentleman?—dozens of little ladies and tall gentlemen," said one of the latter, in utter impatience. "They may have come—very likely they did; or they may not—very likely they did not. But I can give you no information on the subject."

"They took the night mail to Folkstone, and the night boat to Boulogne," said Captain Brinley. "Will you give it up, Roy? Believe me, the game is not worth the candle."

"Give it up now? Of course not!" said his friend, passionately. "Of course they took the Folkstone night boat. Passengers by it must be rare at this time of the year, and they will be sure to have been noticed."

"What time does the tidal train start?" he added, eagerly turning to the inspector.

"In five minutes, sir."

"Just in time to get tickets," said Roy, hurriedly. "Take them, Dick, will you, while I telegraphed to my uncle."

CARRIED WIFE TO BED.

Suffered So She Could Not Walk. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minesing, Ontario.—"I am a practical nurse and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women. For three months I was almost helpless and could not sit at the table long enough to drink a cup of tea. Many a time my husband carried me to bed, I would be so weak. Then he read in the paper of a woman suffering as I did who got better after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so he went and got it for me. When I had taken three bottles I was just like a new woman and have had splendid health ever since. When I feel any bearing-down pains I always take it; sometimes a half a bottle or whatever I need. It is, my only medicine and have told many a one about it. Any one wanting to know more about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I will gladly write to her. I do all I can to recommend it for I feel I owe my life and strength to it."—Mrs. Neal Bowzer, R.R. 1, Minesing, Ontario.

If you feel broken-down, nervous, and weak sometimes? Do you have this horrid feeling of fear which some time or other comes to women when they are not well? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently will relieve this condition.

FRENCH CHAMBER ARMY AS GERMANY OUTLAWS WAR

FOUR SPEAKERS AT FINAL RALLY

MRS. NUGENT TO TALK

Major Lewis and T. P. Learie of Toronto, Here to Speak

Speakers were announced today for Mr. Tummon's big final rally on Monday night in Griffin's Theatre here. Three speakers in addition to the Candidate are Mrs. W. H. (Nurse) — Belleville; Major Alec C. Lewis, M.P.P., and Mr. T. P. Learie, of Toronto.

There will be a musical programme and a most interesting meeting is assured for the popular Conservative Standard-bearer.

MEETINGS LAST NIGHT

Meetings in the interest of Mr. Tummon, were held last evening at Wallbridge town hall, Canifton town hall and the Orange Hall at Plainfield. All were largely attended and the popular candidate was accorded a hearty reception at all three meetings.

The speakers at Wallbridge in addition to Mr. Tummon were Major R. D. Purdy, Mayor R. J. E. Graham, Mrs. Merrian and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson. At Canifton the speakers were the candidate, Major Ponton, J. P. Hill, M.P.P., for East Hastings, Mayor Graham and Mr. J. Mabany, M.P.P., for South Wentworth. At Plainfield Messrs. E. G. Porter, ex-M.P., J. P. Hill, M. P. P., J. E. Sexsmith, ex-M. P., and Mr. Tummon were the speakers.

AT FRANKFORD

At Frankford this evening a meeting in the interest of Mr. Tummon will be held and the speakers in addition to the candidate will be R. J. E. Graham and R. D. Ponton. Mr. S. R. Burrows will lead in community singing and the Bon Ton orchestra will be present to render selections.

TO REMAIN AMATEUR

Philadelphia, Pa., September 10.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory might turn professional if offered $100,000 she said today. Otherwise the national women's tennis champion is next interested in forsaking the ranks to follow the footsteps of Suzanne Lenglen or Mary K. Brown.

FACTS AS TO TARIFFS HOW KING FAVORS U.S.

Quotation from an official Bulletin of the United States Department of Commerce issued by officials and placed in the hands of the president of the United States.

"Economically and socially Canada may be considered as a northern extension of the United States, our trade with Canada being in many respects, being more like domestic trade, than our foreign trade with other countries. The movement of Industrial raw material from Canada into the United States, and the return flow of a miscellaneous assortment of manufactured goods is not unlike a similar flow between the west and the south and the more industrialised eastern part of the United States."

That of an official document of the United States. How has it come about that such a statement can be possible? It has been made possible by the insane fiscal policy, which the King Government have followed during the past four years. Let us read how from the same report of the United States, of the same date. They seem to understand our situation better than the members of the King Government are and what they are getting out of it. This is what the document says:

"Since the return to power of the Liberal Party under Mr. Mackenzie King, the administrative efforts have been directed in a discriminating downward revision of the tariff, in which the Government appears to have had the support of the progressives element. The Canadian Tariff is subject to revision each spring when the Minister of Finance goes to Parliament the budget embodying the general financial programme, of the administration for the year ahead. Each of the three budgets presented by the present government have carried changes in the Canadian import duties, and almost invariably downward.

United States manufacturers have been the principal suppliers to Canada of most of the classes of goods on which the duties into Canada have been reduced during the past three years."

QUOTATION FROM MR. MEIGHEN

"The schedule which is the most unjust of the whole tariff schedules of Canada, is the one relating to farm products. The first tariff schedule that should be raised is the farm products schedule. The farmer in the country today is competing with his fellow farmers in other countries, under conditions of absolute unfairness. Goods similar to the goods he produces are brought into this country under a relatively low tariff, or none at all, while he is forbidden access to other countries, save over a tariff wall that is simply cannot escape."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

"Two very important policies have been adopted by this country which while extending their basis, this also, in other directions, have been of utmost importance to the whole country. One of these is the Protective Tariff, which enables our people to live according to a better standard, and receive a better rate of compensation than the people, at any time, anywhere on earth, ever enjoyed. This saves the American market for the products of the American Workmen."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

"We have built agriculture squarely into the structure of our protective system and the American Farmer must not be undersold at home by New Zealand Mutton, Argentine beef, Canadian wheat, Danish butter, Bulgarian tobacco, Chinese eggs, or Cuban sugar."

Second Woman to Swim English Channel Given Welcome

PRAISE FOR TRUDY

Delighted on Being Told Big Money is Now in Sight

New York, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Clemington Corson, (Millie Gade), of this city, who recently swam the English Channel, returned home today and received a great welcome. She was received at the city hall by Mayor Walker, following triumphant march from the Battery through Lower Broadway.

She told reporters she made the second attempt to swim the channel always with her two children in mind, because she knew that if she made the swim their lives would be filled with comfort and not hardships which had faced most of her life.

She was delighted when told by the associate of Arch Selwyn, that more than 2,000 offers had been received for her services and that contracts amounting to $250,000 were in sight.

Mrs. Corson refused to consider any comparison with Trudy Edrele. In speaking of Miss Edrele's achievement she said: "It was marvelous that a girl of twenty years should be able to do a thing like this. I did not believe that she could do it, but she did."

YANOVER TRIED ON 2ND CHARGE

Judgment in Initial Case Reserved Until 20th September

MR. PORTER DEFENDS

Officer Hitchcock There When Man Came Out of House

The trial of Harry Yanover charged with keeping liquor for sale was not completed last Thursday night and was continued before Magistrate Jarman of Bancroft in police court this morning.

E. Gus Porter, K.C., assisted by C. A. Payne, defended the accused. Mr. R. C. Donnan for the Crown.

Last Thursday most of the evidence was taken. The party who purchased the alleged liquor, testified that he went in, Yanover's home on August 16th, not having previously known him and was successful in procuring a bottle.

As he got into his car an officer stepped out from the right curb to prevent him from starting down the street, that officer was Provincial Police headquarters where the bottle was given to Inspector Naphin.

Officer T. W. Hitchcock of the Provincial Police testified that Yanover told him that he went to South John Street on the night of August 16th and saw the first witness coming out of Yanover's house with a parcel and he promptly got in the car and they went to police headquarters.

Several witnesses on both sides were examined and after a lengthy trial it was decided to continue it this morning.

Inspector C. E. Gurnett was called and said he took the bottle to Toronto to be analysed.

Samuel Green swore he saw officer Hitchcock standing around South John Street on the night in question. He also saw him stop a car, "get in it and he got him away."

To Mr. Donnan he said he'd been a tenant in Yanover's house for eight years. He admitted that a bottle had been found in his house on the evening of Wednesday, September 1st, but said he would demand it back.

Jas. Thompson, the photographer, identified a number of pictures taken of Yanover's home and vicinity, on instructions by the authorities.

Mrs. Porter gave evidence regarding appeal for acquittal dealing with the evidence as furnished by the witnesses for both sides, Mr. Donnan also delivered a clever address pointing out the circumstances surrounding the case.

Judgment was reserved until the 20th of September.

Yanover was this afternoon tried on a second charge of keeping liquor for sale.

Harry Yanover appeared this afternoon before Magistrate Jarman and was charged that he did on the 1st day of September keep liquor for sale.

Inspector Naphin identified that he and Sergt. Clarke found a bottle partially filled in an oven in the wall which was erected by the wainscoting.

Esther Abrams, a housekeeper, said that she had purchased the liquor by a prescription last year for medicinal purposes and had put it in the oven when advised by physicians to abstain from liquor as it would undoubtedly prove detrimental when the anaesthetic was administered in an operation which she was forced to undergo. She was present at the time the search took place but had not mentioned the fact that the bottle was hidden.

Judgment was reserved until the 20th

Some Cucumber!

Mr. Ernest Collins, superintendent of the Intelligencer building brought to the editorial office this morning a large cucumber measuring twenty-three inches in length and eight inches in circumference, which was grown in Mr. Collins' garden on Cedar Street. This eclipses the record held by Homer Lavole who claims to have grown "some" in his garden, 22 inches long. Mr. Collins takes special pride each year in the results obtained from raising this species of vegetable.

ADMIT GERMANS AS FOSTER LED HEARTY CHEERS

Canadian at Geneva Again in Limelight on Historic Day

ARE PUT UPON HONOR

Former Foes Solemnly Engage Not to Go to War

Paris, Sept. 10.—Almost at the same time that Germany was being welcomed into the League of Nations at Geneva by Premier Briand and other allied statesmen, plans were announced in Paris today for economies which will bring about a reduction in the size of the French army.

The ministerial council, meeting at the Elysee Palace with plenary show, pro decided to reduce the number of army officers by 2,700, to cut the number of cadres (skeleton regiments) from 35,000, the 1914 figure, to 28,800 the 1924 figure, and immediately to reduce the cavalry by 7,000 horses and ultimately by 10,000 not counting 2,000 Gendarmerie steeds. Other military economies decided upon include a gradual return to the organization of pre-war days rather than reaching the age of twenty-one.

Geneva, September 10.—Germany was received into the League of Nations today amid scenes of European reconciliation which in their fire of enthusiasm have been unexampled since the armistice.

Germany and France through foreign ministers Stresseman and Briand committed themselves to perpetual peace and solemnly engaged the honor of their nations henceforth never to draw the sword but to settle disputes by arbitration or compromise.

Three things stood out dramatically on this historic day,

NO MORE WAR.

The first was Dr. Stresseman's picture of present day Germany as gripped only by lofty ideals, determined to devote her energies henceforth to international co-operation based on a high intellectual and moral plan.' This spirit, he said, had entered into the very conscience of the German people.

The second feature was the remarkable speech of M. Briand whose declaration that Germany and France have had enough glory in the past and need no further demonstration of her, and whose acknowledgment that the guns had been silenced drew tumultuous applause.

FOSTER LED CHEERS

The third outstanding incident was a scene of almost delirious jubilation throughout the vast auditorium when Dr. George Foster, Canada's envoy, and M. Briand was resuming his speech and waving high the Union Jack, called three cheers for Germany's eminent leader. Instantly every man and woman in the hall stood and joined in the uproar of applause which lasted several minutes, and which seemed a spontaneous expression of joy that the two principal protagonists from Great War had sworn henceforth to abandon the use of arms and seek a solution of all their difficulties in the peaceful atmosphere of the League of Nations.

ERA OF PEACE

"Faith will move mountains," M. Briand affirmed during his address. Both he and Dr. Stresseman admitted that many problems still awaited solution but voiced the conviction that by an exercise of good will and by realizing that the world has had enough war, solutions could always be found.

FRENCHMAN BEST IN CHANNEL TRY

Beat German's Record By 98 Minutes — Swam at Night

ATTACKED BY CRAMPS

Forced Himself to Keep Going But Could Not Eat Much

London, Sept. 10.—A Frenchman, Georges Michel, today swam the English Channel from Cape Gris-Nez, France, to England, in 11 hours and 5 minutes.

The constitutes a new record.

Michel, according to his companions started from Cape Gris-Nez at 8.7 o'clock last evening and arrived in St. Margaret's Bay at 7.31 o'clock this morning. The old record was 12 hours and 43 minutes, and was made by Ernest Vierkoetter, a German swimmer, on August 30.

Michel this afternoon felt none the worse for his exertion except for the remaining touch of cramps. During much of the swim he suffered from seasickness and he was unable to take any food except a few pieces of sugar and some coffee and cognac. About 150 English people gave the plucky Frenchman a warm welcome when he landed. One girl swam out some distance and accompanied him to shore.

Michel is the ninth person and the seventh man to swim the Channel.

"Swimming conditions are certainly good," said Michel as he vigorously attacked a breakfast of bacon and eggs. "When I left Gris-Nez there was hardly a wave and the sea was calm. I made up my mind I would win this time. I used over the arm stroke alternately but had a nasty jar about three o'clock in the morning when I was seized with a cramp. The pain was excruciating and I wondered whether I would have to give up, but I kept my limbs moving vigorously and the attack gradually passed. I did not feel very tired when I landed. I am glad to have finished the course so handsomely."

WOMAN IS DEAD PILL POISONOUS

Husband Entertains Theory That Foul Play Caused Sudden Demise

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Meta Roediger, aged 50, formerly of Kitchener but who has been living with her husband on a farm in Grantham Township on the Port Weller Highway died suddenly here this morning.

Mrs. Roediger on Wednesday took what she believed to have been a headache pill, became violently ill from apparent poisoning, death following in less than 48 hours.

Sir Henry Thornton and Dr. Black Pleased at Prospects

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 10.—Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, was a guest at the Canadian National exhibition on inspection day. Sir Henry, after making a tour of inspection of the exhibition grounds and buildings, paid a high tribute to the work of the C.N.R. mentioned particularly the new Ontario Government building, which was opened Thursday, and which is the finest exhibition building he had ever seen. At the directors luncheon Dr. W. J. Black director of Colonization for the Canadian National Railways, was the chief speaker. He emphasized the possibilities for the placement of new settlers on the land in the Dominion and stated that the opportunities in an Agricultural development are almost unlimited. He estimated that there is at least 200 million acres of land in Canada suitable for farming purposes. "To be continued," and of this amount only about 60 million acres are occupied—one acre in five— and less than 50 million acres are under cultivation. Our rural population is now approximately 40 per cent of our total and the number of farmers in Canada are less than 800,000. The Canadian National Railway has at present adjacent to its own lines land of good quality sufficient to settle 200,000 farmers.

PRINCE GEORGE IN CHINESE ROW

London, September 10.—Prince George, youngest son of the king, is one of the officers of the cruiser Hawkins now moving up the Yangtsze Riv. in order to be aware of the anti-British outbreak by Chinese soldiery. The Hawkins is the flagship of the commander-in-chief of British naval forces in Chinese waters.

Prince George has been serving on the Hawkins since last spring, and since then has won promotion to his present rank of lieutenant.

HAWKINS' THERE SUNDAY

London, Sept. 10.—Further developments in the Chinese situation from the British viewpoint, await the arrival at Hankow, about Sunday of H. M. S. Hawkins, flagship of the Far Eastern Fleet, it was stated at the foreign office today. Upon the arrival the commander-in-chief will confer with the British Consul regarding the Kiawo incident in which several British Naval Officers and men were killed or wounded. The general situation will also be discussed.

BELGIAN PRIEST SLAIN IN CHINA

National Army Soldiers Get Out of Control—Plunder Missions

Shanghai, China, Sept. 10.—Advices to the Belgian Mission here say retreating Kuomintchen (National Army) soldiers in Northwestern Chekiang province killed Father Laurens a Belgian priest, burned three mission stations and plundered seven others in the apostolic vicarate of Biwanne northeast of Kulgan.

CUT OUT THE TONGUE OF TALKATIVE WOMAN

Nice, France, Sept. 10.—Mme. Jacquin, a Belgian, recently released from jail after serving a sentence for talking about her neighbors, staggered into a police station this morning, bleeding from the mouth.

Her tongue had been cut out.

Investigation of the crime promises to be difficult as the victim neither reads nor writes, and the police say she has made numerous able enemies.

THE WEATHER

Fine today.

Saturday—Moderate westerly winds, fair, not much change in temperature.

ALD. WILMOT'S COUPE IS MISSING

Ald. C. E. Wilmot had his Ford coupe stolen from McAnaney Street last evening between eight and nine o'clock. The matter was immediately reported to the police who are assisting to recover the motor. The car bore dealer's license 668 and the body was grey in colour. No trace of the thieves was uncovered today.

The Ford car owned by Thomas Irwin which was stolen last Saturday night was recovered on West Bridge Street last night. The car was in good shape but the police have not yet been able to apprehend the thieves.

Coming Events

A Grand Conservative Meeting will be held in Griffin's Opera House on Monday, September 13th, 8 p.m. His Worship Mayor Graham will be in the chair. Two prominent speakers from Toronto, Major A. C. ADVANCE POLL TONIGHT

The advance poll for railway employees, commercial travellers and sailors who will be absent from the city on election day, will open this evening in the Judges Chamber, Court House building. This poll will be open from 7 to 10 o'clock this evening, also tomorrow and Monday evenings.

TO PRINT VOTERS LIST

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last evening the season was by no means a prolonged one. Many accounts were passed and one recommendation was approved of and passed on to the council meeting next Monday for final adoption. It was as follows: That the chairmen of Printing and Stationery be authorized to secure price and arrange to have the voters list printed as per specifications and instructions from the county judge.

NO TRACE OF MAN

No trace of Charles Gunn who disappeared from Trenton several weeks ago has as yet been found though the river has been thoroughly dragged. Although it is generally thought that he had gone west, a strict watch is being may have joined a harvesters excursion maintained for him by the Chief of Police.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mrs. Arthur Doran, of Bay Street, Trenton was seriously injured yesterday morning when in attempting to cross the street near her home she was run over by a car driven by T.J. Johnson, of Trenton. Mr. Johnson was driving very carefully but Mrs. Doran suddenly ran in front of his car and in attempting to dodge it was run down. Dr. Farley and Dr. Johnson of Trenton who were called found her to be suffering from severe cuts and bruises about her head and limbs.

HURT AT NAPANEE

Mr. Rogers, Bellecville Road, met with a painful accident when at his work in shingling a roof on the barn of Mr. Wm. Holmes, Adelpha St., Napanee. The ladder slipped and he fell, in which he suffered a compound fracture of the leg.

MR. TEBWORTH IMPROVES

Charles Tebworth, C.N.R. brakeman, is reported to be making progress at the General Hospital, Kingston. He was seriously injured several weeks ago.

AT THE CITY HALL

Supporters of Col. Vandervoort in this city are evidently not enthusiastic in securing his election, judging by the attendance at a public meeting held in the city hall last evening. At no time during the meeting was the hall more than half full and not much enthusiasm was displayed. The candidate spoke briefly owing to the fact that he had to attend another meeting at Trenton. Other speakers were Mr. M. Wright and Col. R. Carman.

CASE ENLARGED

Edward Belsey who was charged with keeping liquor for sale some time ago, came up this morning and the case was enlarged until Monday, 20th of September.

ONE YEAR IN MERCER

A fifteen year-old girl from the northern part of the County was in police court this morning charged with attempted suicide. She pleaded guilty and was given one year in the Mercer Reformatory. It is said that the girl had altercations with her father which caused her to attempt to take her life by swallowing a dose of strychnine. This is her second offence on a similar charge and Mr. Donnan asked that she be committed to the reformatory in an effort to prevent further actions of the kind.

TEMPERATURES

There were only two degrees difference between the maximum temperature yesterday and that of a year ago that date. Yesterday it was 66 as against 70 last year. The minimum temperature was 57.

KINGSTON MAY CELEBRATE

Kingston, Sept. 10.—Next year will mark the 60th anniversary of Confederation and in view of the fact that Kingston is one of the oldest places in Canada, Mayor Thomas Angrove believes that some steps should be taken in due time by the city to hold a celebration to mark the diamond jubilee of this most important event. Mayor Angrove states that he intends to bring the matter before the City Council.

LIBERALS TO BLAME

"More help" is the cry ringing from coast to coast in Canada today. The harvest is ripe and ready to garner but the laborers are few, —too few to gather the crop without waste.

Recent despatches to our daily papers tell of the scarcity of harvest help in the West. But not for years has Canada done anything to make harvest help available for the West. We have not, for at least five years, made any intelligent effort to encourage immigration—rather we have discouraged it. We have not even made any efforts to hold our own population. And now when we need workers they are gone,—and new ones have not come to take their place.

They are gone because the King Government neglected its duty in assisting the farmers with their co-operative marketing problems because the King Government neglected the problem of providing cheaper and more efficient transportation for farm produce; because the King Government failed to protect the farmers of Canada in their own home market. And new ones have not come for the same reasons. Now when we need them we call in vain, for they are not here. Yet Mr. King has the audacity to ask farmers to support him!

To add insult to injury, as it were, Mr. King forms an alliance with the Progressives of the West. That alliance is clearly aimed against the U. F. O., the only real economic organization the farmers of Ontario have. He asks the organized farmers of Ontario to support him, knowing full well that if they agree, and become a mere appendage of Liberalism, their status as an economic organization will be gone!

During the present campaign the is the best he has had to offer the farmers of Ontario. In other words, if the farmers of Ontario re-elect him, he will continue the same system of misgovernment for farmers that he has carried on in the past!

How different with the Conservative party under Mr. Meighen. They are up with the times, and have promised definite assistance with the co-operative marketing problem; which is the one most needed prompt and intelligent care. They have committed themselves to such an adjustment of our railway rate situation as will permit of cheaper transportation for our basic commodities. They promise to inaugurate a real system of immigration so that we will have assistance in Canada for the proper development of our country and for the growing and saving of our valuable crops. It is a policy of real progress which is being advanced by Mr. Meighen, and our farmers are not so short-sighted that they will cast this opportunity aside on September 14th.

LAUGHING IT OFF

Unable to explain away his record as head of the Government of Canada Mr. King seeks to laugh it off. It's a difficult and dangerous process, but the only recourse, so it is turned to in desperation. And Mr. Dunning is chosen for the job of doing the laughing. Mr. King realizes that he cannot answer the charges based upon the Customs disclosure. On that issue he is beaten. And it is the important moral issue of the campaign. So he said to Mr. Dunning, our only hope is to make a joke of the Customs scandal; go down to Ontario and see what you can do.

So Mr. Dunning comes down to do the laughing off. At a meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, he talks glibly about the big harvest which is seemingly assured—in some way we assume the good crop is purely a result of Mr. King's administrative efforts—and about other rather irrevelant matters. Then someone asks him about the Customs scandal and the clowning begins. "What are you whining about," he replies in effect, "aren't you pretty nearly all smugglers anyway? How many of you never smuggled a package of cigarettes or a pair of silk stockings across the line?" That is supposed to constitute a reply to the Customs investigation revelations, which disclosed one of the worst scandals in our history! And a moment later someone asks Mr. Dunning about Baldy Robb, notorious jailbird who was given his freedom to help the King-Dunning forces in the last campaign. What has Mr. Dunning to say about Baldy Robb? This: "Ask the Tories about him. They trained him for twenty years."

Of course that statement is challenged, for the Tories never had anything to do with Baldy Robb. How does Mr. Dunning explain? Simple: "I just said that in fun."!

What further evidence of the utter irresponsibility of Mr. King and his lieutenants can be required? What further evidence of how bad a case they have? What further evidence does the elector going to the polls require to determine his vote?

COLLECTIVE WISDOM

It would be difficult for the closest friend of W. L. M. King to define his precise views on any practical question of domestic policy. His views on general matters are fairly clear, as for instance, (1) a conviction that Conservatives are unfit for the task of Government under any circumstances whatever; (2) Canada must be safeguarded against British influence; (3) Nothing should be done that would disturb relations with the United States. But on the immediate problems of Canada, fiscal and otherwise, he is at all times vague.

The Quebec Conservative leader, Mr. Patenaude, put the matter very aptly in a recent speech at Lachine when he said of the Liberals: "King is their supposed leader, credited with leading the country and steering the ship of state. Put, ask him where the ship is heading and he cannot tell you. He will refer you to the pilot. But who is the pilot? Forke perhaps, again Woodsworth, then again Heaps, or maybe Miss MacPhail ..... The captain has no authority or influence over his crew. The compass has been tossed overboard while the captain is touring the country with a different policy to suit the exigencies of each place."

The political tactics which Mr. King employs used to be known as "opportunism," but five years ago the Liberal leader invented a new verbal disguise for it. He calls it "collective wisdom." In the campaign to the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to state whether he was going to abide by the Liberal anti-protection platform of the 1919 convention. At Ravina Park, Toronto, on September 20th, 1921, Mr. King made a reply in which he did not definitely accept the platform but said that he regarded it as "a chart upon which was plotted the direction of the course it was desired the party should take". Continuing he said "In seeking to discharge the duties of my office in the manner in which I believe the party would wish them to be performed, I would rely upon the counsel and advice of those who were outstanding in the ranks of the party, and at any given period or moment I would find in their collective wisdom the compass which would point the direction as we traverse then unknown seas of the future."

This system of leaving to the collective wisdom of the crew the direction of the ship was to some extent practised in the days of piracy on the Spanish Main; and the analogy is not inappropriate in the case of the deceased King administration. Apparently powerful influences headed by Hon. Jacques Bureau and officered by Biasillon stogered the ship of state into the quagmire of the Customs scandal, and on other matters either the chart got lost, or was so mussed up in the process of being passed around to secure the verdict of "collective wisdom," that it became undecipherable. Anyway, the result is that the captain of the ship has lost all prestage in the country, and so has the party.

WOMEN HEARD FINE ADDRESSES

Mrs. Merriam, of Ottawa, Spoke to Crowded Meeting Here

WICKEDNESS EXPOSED

Mr. Anderson of High Park Toronto, Welcomed to Belleville

They carried in more chairs until the supply was exhausted and the room filled, at the meeting of the Women's Conservative Club yesterday when Mrs Merrian, wife of one of the Hon. Arthur Meighen's private secretaries, addressed the gathering. Long before the speaker commenced her address the people present began to wonder how they could place their chairs in order to make room for those coming in later on and the meeting was, as Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, who occupied the chair observed, one of the best the Club has ever had.

MR. TUMMON SPOKE

Ushered to the front of the room amidst enthusiastic hand clapping, Mr. W. R. Tummon spoke very briefly stressing the fact that in all his election literature and canvass his opponent, Col. Vandervater has not once mentioned his intention of supporting Hon. Mr. King.

Continuing, Mr. Tummon very clearly explained the remunerant of the automobile tariff which was mainly aimed at deceiving the people.

MRS. MERRIAN'S ADDRESS

After impressing her audience with the great responsibility which rests upon the women of Canada to use the franchise which they obtained underneath Conservative rights, she referred to the exodus of the finest of Canada manhood to the United States to seek jobs which were denied them in Canada, due to instability of business conditions under the King Government. "After the fourteenth," she said, "I feel confident that they will feel that a stable government has been returned, and return to take up the jobs assured under such a condition."

THE RICHMOND HILL SPEECH

She derided Mr. King for the course he took after the Richmond Hill speech when, after complaining that he could not carry on with a majority of one, he carried on with almost fewer seats than he had at that time, dictated to by Bourassa, Forke, Woodsworth and Heaps. Mr. Garland of Bow River himself admitted that for two days a week King was in caucus with the Progressives to decide on how legislation could be carried on. Miss McPhail admitted that an agreement between the Liberal and Progressive parties existed.

THE CUSTOMS SCANDAL

Mrs. Merrian next traced the history of the Customs scandal from the complete exposure of the infamous conditions existing in the Customs department on February 2nd. His accusations were denied at the time by ministers but it was later proved beyond a doubt that the conditions exposed were known to at least six min-

GETTING SKINNIER EVERY DAY

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Tens of thousands of thin, run down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take an look and look for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets luckily and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now which any druggist will tell you all about are putting flesh on bents of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, gained 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that the livers of Cod Fish are full of vitalizing flesh producing vitamines and these same vitamines of the highest class are found in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—sugar coated and as easy to take as candy.

And this shows what faith the makers have in McCoy's for they say; if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 48 tablets. Ask Doiey's Drug Store, McKeown's Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store or any pharmacist anywhere in North or South America.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothe and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. You can obtain a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist.

being operated to the degradation of his parishioners, to leave those responsible alone in the interests of the party. The dope peddling episode was thoroughly gone into by the speaker who told of how the officer of the police was told by Jacques Bureau to say nothing as he wanted to enjoy the prosperity he (Bureau) was enjoying in a magnificent establishment lavishly kept up. She concluded by expressing her complete confidence in the country's returning the Hon. Arthur Meighen's administration which stood for stable government and prosperity.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Mrs. W. H. Nugent gave a very brilliant address inspiring the ladies to work for the administration of the Conservative Government. Mr. Anderson of High Park, the man who "put away" Hon. James Murdock, stressed the urgent need of eliminating other parties than the straight Conservative and Liberal.

NILES CORNERS

Mrs. Chand McCartney, of Rose Hall, spent Monday of last week with her mother, Mrs. Joe Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Ellis were greatly surprised on the 27th when about 30 friends and neighbours came marching in with well filled baskets and spent a very enjoyable evening with them, it being Mr. Ellis' 74th birthday.

Mrs. George Howard, of Wellington, spent last week with relatives at the Corners.

Miss Mable McCartney, of Rose Hall, visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ellis on Wednesday.

School re-opened on the first with Mr. Nelson Lavender and Mr. Mallory again running the vans from the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Ellis were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cruickshanks and family at Melville on Tuesday.

Mrs. Davison and two children from Manners spent last week with Mrs. Davison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Lavender.

Mrs. B. Moore and children will be leaving soon to join Mr. Moore in the States.

Mrs. Dorland, of Wellington, spent a recent Monday with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Tenley and family.

Mrs. Robert Watt spent the afternoon with Mrs. Ryan on Friday.

Miss D. Benham and daughter, Mrs. Minoltz, of Swamp College, spent the afternoon with Mrs. Joe Ellis and called on Mrs. C. Ryan on Tuesday.

Recent rains are said to have rendered much of Ontario's small fruit insipid and tasteless.

Stable Government Canada's One Great Need

At the 1925 election—

1. The Conservative members increased from 51 to 116.
2. The Liberal members dropped from 117 to 101.
3. The Progressive members dwindled from 65 to 24.
4. The Conservatives gained in 8 out of the 9 provinces.
5. The Progressives lost in every Province where they had any members to lose.

The total Conservative vote rose from 945,671 in 1921 to 1,484,318 in 1925, the Conservative vote in the Province of Quebec alone increasing by 123,311.

There is no chance of a Liberal majority. The choice is between—

1. A Conservative Government with a good working majority, now almost attained;

OR

2. A temporary combination of Liberals, Progressives, Independents, Socialists, etc., such as we had in the last two Parliaments.

The Conservatives need only 7 more to give them a majority over all.

PARTIES	1921	1925
Conservatives	51	116	Gain 65
Liberals	117	101	Loss 16
Progressives	65	24	Loss 41
Independent, Socialists, etc.	3	4	Gain 1

ST. LOUIS COUNTS ON CHAMPIONSHIP

Already Talking Enlarged Seating Capacity Tho' Not Yet Sure

TORONTO LOST 5 TO 3

Pirates and Cubs Divided and Each Got a Set Back

St. Louis, Mo., September 10.—With the Cardinals holding a comfortable three-game lead, President Sam Breadon has announced tentative plans for enlarging Sportman's Park to seat 40,000 persons if the world series is played here.

This park, which was enlarged last spring, now has a seating capacity of 33,863.

Under an agreement reached by the major league officials last season, the first two games of the 1926 world series will be played in the American League championship city, probably New York, and the next three in the National League pennant city.

PIRATES SET BACK

Pittsburgh and Chicago dividing a double-header both received slight setbacks in the efforts to catch up with the National League leaders, St. Louis and Cincinnati, who were idle. The Pirates won the first game, 2 to 1, but made a poor showing in the second contest, which they dropped to the visitors, 10 to 1.

BOTH LEADERS LOST

The Toronto Leafs lost a home game to Rochester yesterday, 5 to 3. Karpp had the better of Stewart in a pitching duel, yielding seven hits against the Leaf mound man's eleven. The first of two scheduled games was postponed because of rain.

Rain played havoc with the rest of the International schedule, causing postponement of one game at Baltimore and the Newark-Reading contest. Jersey City won the first scheduled game from Baltimore, 6 to 4.

Glasses When Everything Else Fails

Some folks through pride neglect their eyes. They are aware of the fact that they need glasses, but imagine they do not look well in them. Of course it is a foolish attitude to maintain and too many adhere to it. No one should wait until he is compelled to get glasses, but should rather anticipate their need. I am promising my patients all that their errors of vision require.

The Eight School will face a tough proposition to-night in the game with the all-stars at the armouries at 8.15.

The all-stars are the best players of the other three teams in the league, and the clan, managed by Cleo Coleling and Walter Gerow will have a battle on their hands. "Twig" Woodley and Vern Weir will umpire.

The Ponies are expected to take two straight after their easy victory of Wednesday in Kingston. Oalers of Toronto and Walkerville shape up as the two leading contenders for the title and the Ponies will have to play gilt-edged ball to beat either of them, although the Kingstonians downed Freddy Hamilton and his smart crew last year.

Queen's University will be represented by another fast gridiron team if reports from the Limestone city are correct. Dave Britton is back and counted upon to hold down one of the most responsible positions in the backfield.

Jack Dempsey may earn the fabulous sum of $850,000, nearly twice the amount of money he ever received for any two previous ring engagements when he raises his gloved fists in defense of his heavyweight championship against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia Sept. 23.

The world's heavyweight champion it was revealed today, has been guaranteed the staggering sum of $425,000 with a privilege of fifty per cent. of the gate receipts above $1,000,000 for the Tunney engagement.

Promoter Tex Rickard has assured Dempsey that the gate will undoubtedly reach $1,700,000. In that event, Dempsey will get $375,000 plus the $475,000 guarantee, for a fight that may go thirty seconds or the limit of ten rounds. Dempsey received around $625,000 for his cyclonic engagement with Luis Angel Firpo three years ago. His previous record gate was $300,000 for defeating Georges Carpentier in their famous battle at Jersey City in 1921. When Dempsey won the title from Jess Willard in 1919 he got $27,500 compared with $100,000 that went to the Kansas giant.

Assuming that the Yankees will play in the world series, professional bettors are making them 3 to 5 favorite whether they meet the Cardinals Reds or Pirates. These odds indicate the gamblers' belief that the Yankees will outclass the National league pennant winners, no matter who they may happen to be.

American league partizans not only agree with the above contention, but also consider the teams in the junior circuit, with one exception, stronger than those in the National. Excepting the Yankees, who are rated the best of all major league teams, American league partizans believe that the Indians, Athletics and Senators outclass at least three of the teams in the National league's first division.

Getting into the second division of both leagues, these partizans rate the Detroit Tigers, White Sox and Browns on a higher plane than the Giants, Dodgers and Phillies, the Red Sox being placed below their Boston rivals, the Braves. This, of course, is a matter of opinion and probably will not please the supporters of the National league. But if the Yankees should win the world championship, American leaguers then would say that the Hugmen could have won the National league pennant with a dozen games to spare.

• • •

Records have played a prominent part in the two major league races this year. Some of these players have passed from one league to the other, while the rest have merely shifted their team affiliation, writes Billy Evans.

In the sensational showing of the Cincinnati Reds, no two players have helped more than Wally Pipp and Val Picinich.

Pipp's fine play at first steadied the Cincinnati infield, gave it balance. Picinich's work back of the bat has been more than satisfactory in those days when good catchers are mighty scarce.

Why these two players were allowed to drift out of the American league is difficult of explanation. There are inferior catchers and first suckers still doing business in the organization.

A third player to help the Reds has been Shortstop Ford. He was brought back from the minors. Brooklyn sent him to Minneapolis in a trade that made Johnny Butler a Dodger.

Ford, never a great hitter has supplied the needed stability at short stop to the Cincinnati infield.

Incidentally, he is a pretty good ball player to have been allowed to pass on to the minors.

HORNSBY AGAIN THERE

New York, September 10.—The New York Yankees ended their home stay in the championship series by blanking the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 0. The veteran, Bob Shawkey, let the ballsiders of the league down with four hits. Manager Rogers Hornsby and big Cardinal pitching staff again looked over the style of the home club.

GEO. LYON WON BUT TEAM LOST

Rye, N.Y., September 10.—Although they made a determined fight in the early stages of the contest the Canadian golf seniors were defeated 13 to 8 by their United States rivals in the annual team match for the Duke of Devonshire Cup at the Apawamis Club today.

George Lyon, the redoubtable Canadian captain did his part by winning his match from Frederick Snare, the United States senior champion, it was a close-title to the turn, each going out in 42 and being all square, though a stymie which Snare laid his man on the second green may have made a difference there. Coming back, Lyon practically won the match with a birdie four at the long seventh hole. His second shot to the green was the more remarkable because of the fact that he played the shot from the rough. Snare had a chance to square the match on the home green after Lyon's second shot had fallen short of the bunker, but the Garden City man missed a yard put for a four. Lyon man made the round in 81.

FRENCH PLAYERS LOST AT TENNIS

Tilden Beat Borotra, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, Johnston Led Lacoste

9,000 IN ATTENDANCE

Only For Brief Period Did France Have Ghost of Chance

Philadelphia, September 10.— The hold of the United States on the Davis Cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy, seems secure for at least another year in the hands of her famous veterans, "Big Bill" Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston. Holding the ramparts against the challenge of France, on the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club, the two "Bills" beat back the invaders decisive the challenge round.

Tilden, in one of his rampant moods overwhelmed the "bounding Basque," Jean Borotra, ace of the French forces, in straight sets 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, in the concluding match after Johnston, overcoming more spirited resistance, had taken the measure of the methodical stroking Rene Lacoste at 6-3, 6-4, 0-6, 6-0.

These two convincing triumphs witnessed by a crowd of 9,000 spectators, save the United States a commanding view in the championship series. With only one victory out, the three remaining matches needed to clinch possession of the cup for the seventh year in a row, the nimble States will pin its faith in the doubles today upon the team captain, Richard N. Williams, and Vincent Richards. Their opponents will be Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, holders of the Wimbledon, doubles title.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

"San Francisco" thrice cooch, used in "Hard Boiled," Fox Film's version of Shannon Fife's thrilling story starring Tom Mix. Western ace, said to be at the Belle Theatre, has wrangled some lively storms in California according to Mix.

"Trial" coach, of Mix told Helene Chadwick, leading woman in the Fife story, "one one of four they used in the good old days between Sacramento and San Francisco. That was long before the coming of the railroads.

"You will notice, in the rear, four small holes and a larger one. Also, in front near the seat, there are two holes. Those are bullet holes and others, I am told, have been plugged up by former owners of the coach.

"Up in the Redwood country, where this coach was sent after it was too badly damaged to continue the San Francisco run, they had some tough citizens who lived by their wits. When they were not robbing stage coaches they were stealing sheep or horses. The bullet holes are proof of their villainous sincerity.

AT GRIFFIN'S

"Purple girls for pale vamps."

This is the formula by which Edmund Goulding produced pallid Parisian charmers for his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Paris," the vivid underworld mystery drama now playing at Griffin's Theatre. Under the arc lights in the strange Apache haunts of the picture they appear sinister—sometimes, it must be confessed—to the eye they appeared—purple.

The strange trick in makeup was invented by John Arnold, Goulding's cameraman, to intensify the paleness of the women who dwell in the Paris cellars. Behind it lies a scientific law of the camera. Red photographs as black, and blue as white. This is the basis of the trick.

On Tuesday, September 14th, the electors of South Hastings, in common interest with Canadians in all constituencies in Canada, will have the opportunity to vote into power a good stable government, which Canada has needed so badly during the past five years.

As candidate in South Hastings of the Liberal-Conservative party and a supporter of its Leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, may I ask my fellow electors in this great and historic riding, with its fine British traditions, to record their votes in behalf of the cause I represent, so that Canada may be governed by a Canada-first policy, and enter upon the era of prosperity which will follow.

Time will not permit me, as much as I would like to do so, to personally meet as many of the electors before election day, as a longer period would make possible, since it was not definitely known earlier that there would be a contest in this riding. I must therefore reach as many as possible by this medium, and I wish to sincerely solicit the votes of all men and women electors who desire to do their bit in the establishment of good government and thereby bring about a better condition in the administration of the affairs of Canada.

Great issues are at stake in the present election, and citizens in all walks of life are called upon to express their condemnation of the discredited government of former Premier King.

I wish to state that I stand solidly behind the Conservative Leader and Prime Minister and the policies he has enunciated in Parliament and during the present campaign. Especially do I want to say that I endorse his policy in regard to the Canadian National Railway, believing that its existence is necessary in the development of Canada, which if given proper stimulus will show marked progress.

Before the close of the campaign I shall discuss the more important issues at a series of fifteen meetings in this riding, and I hope to receive such support as will enable me to return to a seat in Parliament and there aid in the great work for Canada likely to be carried on by the Conservative party.

In conclusion now may I quote from my speech at the Conservative convention when I was chosen as standard-bearer of the party, and when I said:

"What does the Conservative Party offer. We offer a strong, stable Government of peace, sincerely believing our policy will promote general prosperity and contentment, a policy that will lead the Dominion on the road to its true place in the family of nations. We believe in a 'Canada First Policy', a policy that will keep for the farmer of Canada his natural market in Canadian towns and cities to a fair business men of Canada protection against the cheap labour of other countries and to give to the Canadian workman decent standards of living and a surety and diversity of employment in his own land.

"We believe that the Canadian farmer and the Canadian business man should have the same hold upon the markets of Canada, that the United States farmers and business man have upon the markets of the United States. That the workman should have the same chance for employment, for the support and education of his family in his own country as the United States workman has in his country.

"These and more, we declare for honesty and efficiency in the country's business. We believe that fraud, dishonesty, corruption, inefficiency and maladministration should be condemned.

Yours faithfully,
W. E. TUMMON.

Mayor Confesses To 'Plugging' Box

P. D. Hamel, Justice of Peace Lac Labiche Gives Evidence at Enquiry

Fort Saskatchewan, Sask., September 10.—That he had "plugged" the ballot box at the Lac Labiche rural poll at the October, 1925 general election and that he had done so on the suggestion of the late Isaac Gagnon, returning officer for the Athabasca riding and on that of W. A. Day, one of Gagnon's assistants and a worker for C. W. Cross in the election, was the confession of Philippe D. Hamel, justice of the peace, mayor and postmaster of La Labiche, given at Fort Saskatchewan before Mr. Justice Clarke.

Hamel's confession came following an admission by J. A. Simonnau who was deputy returning officer at the poll, that his earlier denial of any wrong doing by Hamel was a willful perjury, put through in order to shield Hamel from any possible consequences.

Brother's-Family and Teresa Werner Will Share

Los Angeles, September 10.—The Examiner says that Teresa Werner, sister of Rudolph Valentino's former wife, Natascha Rambova, will share equally with Alberto and Maria Guglielmi, brother and sister of the dead actor, in his estate.

The estate is valued at $500,000, exclusive of the actor's interests in his last pictures. In addition to $50,000 his insurance policy, the will lists "Falcon's Lair," Valentino's $175,000 home in Beverly Hills, his collection of armour and antiques, valued at $75,000, his motor cars, his horses and dogs, and a private yacht among the properties of the estate.

THE MAGIC OF THE MEDICINE MAN

In the pioneer days of this country the Indian Medicine Man knew a remedy in the roots and herbs of the field for the alleviation of almost every ailment of mankind. So potent did it prove, that the relief from suffering seemed like magic. More than 50 years ago Lydia. E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., compounded her new famous Vegetable Compound from the roots and herbs of the field, and in all these years, noth ing has ever been found to equal it in overcoming ailments of women.

GILLETT'S LYE

Be Sure You Get The Genuine GILLETT'S FLAKE LYE

The Old Love Or New?

Captain Brinley acquiesced. His time was his own; and though he was sorry to lose his hunting, he was too much attached to Roy to thwart him in his trouble. However, not being in love, he bethought himself that it would be as well to provide himself with some amusement on the way to Folkstone, so he invested in Truth, The World, and The Man About Town, and secured two comfortable seats in a first-class carriage for himself and Roy.

"I cannot see your object in this pursuit," he said, as they neared Folkstone. "There is nothing to be gained by it, old fellow."

"Do you think not?" said the other, turning his haggard face toward him his blue eyes gleaming with feverish light, and marked beneath with dark livid circles. "There is vengeance to be gained, Dick."

"But, my dear fellow, what do you propose to do?"

"Kill him!" answered Roy, in a hoarse, broken voice; and Dick Brinley, as he heard the words, shuddered a little at their tone of deadly vengeance, and, thanked Heaven he had not left Roy to himself in this terrible trial, in which he was scarce master of himself.

"Dueling is allowed over there," the yelping man went on, with a harsh laugh which jarred on Dick's ear. "If I can kill him, I shall be revenged; if he kills me—Dick, do you think I would rather have lain dead in the old Grange than suffer as I suffer now?"

"Roy, old friend," Captain Brinley said, gently, after a pause, and taking Roy's fingers in his clasp, "you are not quite yourself, and you must let me act in this for you. There are lots of things to be considered in it."

"First, this," was the quiet answer—"whether the loss of such a worthless affection be worth fighting for; and, secondly, whether this man with whom she left had not some prior claim upon her. If he loved her first, old fellow—if he suffered as you are suffering—what then?"

"I cannot think of that," Roy said, indifferently. "He stole her from me, he must atone for his theft. Here we ed the station, spinning out recklessly are, Dick," he added, as the train entered before it stopped; and when Captain Brinley followed, he found him eagerly inquiring after the fugitives.

Here they had no difficulty, passengers by the night boat, rare at all times, were particularly rare in the winter season, and Annette de Vitry and her companion were well remembered.

"The gentleman had wished to go by the Dover and Calais line," said the inspector, and finding his mistake, was exceedingly annoyed; but then he had at 4 A. M., and they were on board, at once. The young lady was perfectly calm herself," he added, "and I fear they had a very rough crossing."

"Then they have probably stayed in Boulogne," said Roy, trying to speak calmly.

"It is very likely, sir. I don't think lady would be fit to go on board."

"We have them," said Roy, excitedly, as they went on board. "Now, was I not right to come, Dick?"

"You are not right, if you mean murder, for dueling is but another name for murder," said Captain Brinley, grave by but the next minute he was sorry for his words, as he saw the glitter of incipient madness in Roy's eyes, and the feverish impatience of his manner, and Dick registered a mental vow to send a note to a medical man immediately on arrival in Boulogne.

"He wants a strong fright," he thought to himself, as they entered the Boulogne harbor. "In my opinion he's trembling on the verge of brain fever."

CHAPTER XI.
JUST TOO LATE

Roy's first inquiry on landing at Boulogne was whether and passengers had arrived that morning from Folkstone, and a custom house officer, standing on the quay, answered him immediately:

"Yes, monsieur; two voyageurs had arrived, a lady and gentleman, une chamante petite dame, who seemed, forte they could get any one to show monsieur, very souffrante."

"Did they go on anywhere, or did they remain in the town?" Roy eagerly inquired, eagerly. "Can you tell me, monsieur?"

"I cannot, monsieur; but in all probability they stayed in the town. Madame was too much fatigued to proceed on her journey, and monsieur seemed too careful of her to allow it to do so."

"How can we ascertain?" asked Captain Brinley, addressing him to take his attention off Roy's haggard appearance

"I have no doubt that some of those men could inform monsieur," said the douanier, indicating the boat touters and porters who clustered round the ladder, and turning to these the polite Frenchman made the inquiry for Roy.

"A gentleman and lady left the monsieur's boat," said one of them immediately. "Oh; yes; they are; chez nous, monsieur. Hotel des les Britannique, "Hotel of British Islands,' sare," he added, for Roy's edification. "The lady she was ill; ah! but the travrence—what you call the crossing, sare—was rough —the sea was so wicked. Shall I get a voiture for these gentleman, or will you walk, sare?"

"We will have a cab," said Roy, imperatively. "Come, Dick, at once."

"Just wait one moment,I must just send this fellow with a telegram," said his friend, scribbling a note on a leaf of his pocketbook, and giving it to a commissionaire, who stood by, whispered to him to take it to a physician and bring him to the Hotel des les Britanniques," and having dispatched the man, he entered the carriage and they drove rapidly to the hotel.

Roy's excitement seemed to be dying out fast now; the prospect of a meeting with Annette appeared to have unnerved him, and the fatigue and intense agitation of the past twenty-four hours were telling upon him. He looked ghastly pale as he threw himself back in the carriage and when he spoke it seemed only with an effort.

The "Hotel des les Britanniques" was not far from the landing place, and when the carriage pulled up, and they alighted, it was evident that it was just the hour of the table d'hote dinner, for all the waiters and servants were busy waiting at table, and it was some minutes before they could get any one to show them into the private sitting room Captain Brinley asked for, and they had been there quite a quarter of an hour before a waiter appeared.

Roy had thrown himself on a sofa and bent his head on the cushions in an attitude of extreme lassitude and fatigue, and his friend found himself obliged to make the necessary inquiries without any reference to him.

"A lady and gentleman?" the waiter repeated, rubbing his hands. "Oh! yes, they had several ladies and gentlemen looking there."

"They would arrive this morning," Roy interjected.

"This morning. Oh! yes, monsieur had reason. Several ladies and gentlemen had come that morning. There was a fete at Calais, and they were stopping at Boulogne for a night enroute."

"The lady and gentleman of whom I ask arrived by the Folkstone packet," said Captain Brinley, rather impatiently "Are they still at the hotel?"

"Arrived, by the Folkstone packet? I do not know, monsieur; I will inquire," said the man. "Will monsieur like to see the cute?"

"No; send up what you like," he answered, indifferently. "Exhausted nature can't hold out any longer, Roy," he added, trying to laugh. "We must have something to eat; I am starving."

"Ah, all right," said Fanny, carelessly, as he arose from the sofa and began pacing up and down the gaudy flowered carpet, wondering vaguely if Annette were there, and what this burning, throbbing pain in his temples meant.

About a quarter of an hour had elapsed when the waiter entered again, and Roy turned, with a question which he could hardly force his lips to utter:

"Are they here?" he said, hoarsely.

"A thousand pardons, monsieur; I have not yet been able to ascertain. There is a gentleman downstairs inquiring for Captain Brinley."

Dick held out his hand quickly for the card, and exclaimed, with forced surprise and pleasure:

Porcelain Surfaces

BATHROOM fixtures of enamel, which are gradually replacing the older metal variety, are attractive only when kept spotlessly white and shining.

This can be accomplished most easily by routine care, which means simply washing the fixtures every morning with warm water, using Ivory soap and a soft cloth. Rinsing with clear water and wiping off all excess moisture should follow the washing.

If for any reason this daily care has to be neglected, it is better to use a mixture of turpentine and water (half and half) to remove the accumulation of soil, than to resort to abrasive powders which may be damaging to the surface.

To cover up the unpleasant odor of the turpentine, a little oil of lavender can be added to the mixture. When not in use it should be kept in a well-stoppered bottle.

Apply the turpentine mixture with a soft cloth, rubbing the surface until clean. Follow this treatment with the regular washing with Ivory soap and lukewarm water. Rinse and dry the fixtures, and they will be gleaming white and fresh as new.

"THE BEST IN DRUGS"

Women Find

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent. Ends deodorizer—ends ALL fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves full why as an unnecessary risk.

Box plaits and envelope pockets hand in couples on a two-piece frock which illustrates the use of large plaids and long sleeves.

The Phi Beta Kappa of collegiate smartness in dress finds expression in the tailored versions of the sports frock. The woman front with its shirtlike tab and turndown collar, the new pockets, neat sleeves and the box plaits of the skirt, give the 1926 touch to the two-piece dress. Frocks of this type are always in order and in heavy crepe de Chine and light weight plaids and flannels are practically indestructible. Shantung in its natural honey color as well as in pastel shades is very smart for this model.

WOMAN KILLED AS CAR HIT TREE NEAR TRENTON

KING WEARIED NAPANEE FOLK

Many Left When Fire Alarm Sounded or Gossiped as He Talked

SPARKLING LIB.-WIT!

Mr. Horsey Given Ovation But Cheers Were Sub-dued For Leader

In utter contradiction to the mass who assembled in the Armories at Napanee last evening, the reporters assembled to Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King when he entered the building through the side door, preceded by Mr. H. H. Horsey the Liberal candidate for the riding and Mr. W. B. Herrington K.C., was very luke-warm.

There undoubtedly was a flutter of excitement as the man who had stood at the head of his party entered, but the mild bandclap plainly indicated the answer Canada will give the party of which he stands at the head, on Tuesday next.

Previous to the premier's entry the crowd had been entertained by some sparkling Liberal wit, one example of which was "Ladies and gentlemen, after Monday next comes Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday."

This brought down the house amazingly to the clever sally of ex-Premier King when he turned the audience's laugh on his pet province, Quebec, when in referring to the income tax he conferred to the huge families the patriotic province produces. His witticism was undoubtedly appreciated, it undoubtedly pleased his audience but Quebec was made the goat.

WARM APPLAUSE

When Mr. Herrington rose the house shook with applause and in a most gentlemanly manner he outlined the Liberal policy and more than pleased the Conservatives present, who by the way consumed by curiosity to see the Liberal leader formed a large portion of the audience, when he begged all to be present at the Conservative meeting tonight. It was followed by Mr. H. H. Horsey who received an ovation. He is undoubtedly popular in the riding he is running in. His speech, like Mr. Herrington's, was most sentimental, his political views and reviews straightforwardly put to the audience and he won the hearts (but not the political hearts) of the audience.

Then the ex-Premier rose and before he had spoken very long on the constitutional issue of which the audience had plainly grown weary the fire bell rang. The counter attraction proved too much for those standing near the door and there was a general exodus. As he spoke during up all the reasons or could find of for holding up to office, the mass grew restless and little groups commenced to visit amongst one another.

"Can you beat it meeting you here" one person said to another, as King attempted to explain away the Customs scandal and why he finished the job he felt satisfied, not evidently with King's policy, as laid down, but that they'd heard him once—even if it should prove his swan song. A number of other speakers had a few words to say and Mr. King was presented with a big bouquet of roses.

An over flow meeting held in the moving picture theatre heard the same line as those in the Armouries, which building incidentally was much in use during Mr. King's absence in the United States during the war.

GENERAL BOOTH COMING

London, Sept. 11.—Gen. W. Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, will sail for Canada on the Empress of France on September 18. The General will travel through the Dominion to Vancouver where he will sail for Japan and China. He will be accompanied on the tour by his son, Brig. Gen. Bernard Booth.

TO REMAIN AMATEUR

Philadelphia, Pa., September 10.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory might turn professional if offered $400,000 she said today. Otherwise the national woman's tennis champion is not interested in forsaking amateur ranks to follow the footsteps of Suzanne Lenglen or Mary K. Brown.

WHAT MEIGHEN SAYS OF OLD AGE PENSIONS

MR. MEIGHEN AT STRATFORD

Mr. Meighen touched upon the Old Age Pensions Bill which was passed in the House of Commons and was defeated in the Senate, and condemned which the Liberals were attempting to make so much capital. With regard to the bill, the Premier remarked that it could not provide any possible relief to the aged unless the respective provinces contributed amounts equal to the amounts contributed by the Dominion.

"And then was not a single province which came in," Hon. Mr. Meighen pointed out, "though we, the Conservatives, knew the bill was a sham and a farce, we did not oppose it. The bill was defeated, but that was in the Senate. The Liberals are saying it was defeated by a Conservative Senate and that if there were a Liberal Senate the measure would have been passed. Let me tell you, there were Liberals in the Senate rejected the bill. Because and that one whole block of Liberals walked out of the House rather than vote. Why did the Senate reject this bill. Because they knew it was a sham and a farce. When we go back to power, there will be an old age pensions bill which will not be a sham. It will be our purpose to call a provincial conference in order to work out a plan upon which the various provinces can agree, and under which the aged will be able to get the relief which they could never have gotten under the bill which was cast out by the Senate. The Old Age Pensions Bill was as great a sham as the Wheat Board Bill of 1922, as the Great Lakes Contract Bill of 1923, or the Paterson contract of 1925, but sham is the word which is written across all the legislation of the King Government."

MUFFLED DRUMS FOR LIB.-PROG.

Wilson McCue Says Lanark and Leeds Sure For Conservatives

Mr. Wilson McCue, barrister of Smith's Falls, who spoke here for Mr. Tummon during the last campaign was a welcome visitor at the Conservative committee rooms Friday evening. He says in Lanark County the Liberal-Progressives are practising faithfully with "muffled drums" for the funeral of their candidates and Mackenzie King. He says Lanark will return Dr. Preston, Conservative, with an increased majority. In Leeds County, he says, Stewart, Conservative, is a sure winner, and that the Liberal placards on every tree are just having the opposite effect desired.

He congratulated Mr. G. A. Reid on his organization here, and hopes to see every Conservative get out and vote, taking "no chances", as he worded them when he was here before. While in Belleville, Mr. McCue is the guest of Mr. J. R. Cummings, local manager of the Prudential Life Insurance Co.

MOTOR, STOLEN FOUND WRECKED

Mr. B. L. Hyman's Car Taken From Near Theatre

The epidemic of stolen cars is increasing and the thieves are growing bolder.

No less than four automobiles have been taken without leave this week in this city and vicinity, three of them having been recovered.

The police are putting forth every effort to trace the thieves and it is believed to be the same gang that has perpetrated all of the robberies. The latest victim to be added to the list is B. L. Hyman, Bridge Street, Mr. Hyman while attending Griffin's theatre last night left his new McLaughlin sedan parked near the building. On leaving the theatre he discovered his loss and the police were notified. The car was found this morning somewhere badly smashed up and lying on its side in the ditch. The body was jammed, windows broken and fenders partly demolished and was towed to the city for repairs.

The occupants were evidently travelling west and in trying to make the sharp control of the car and drove into the ditch.

To avoid arrest they left the motor in its position and made for the city, but were apprehended.

NEAR BLOOMFIELD

The Provincial Police recovered a Ford touring car near Bloomfield yesterday which proved to be the one stolen from Mr. Reynolds of Frankford, early in the week. It had evidently been used by the same thieves and was not damaged to any extent.

Kiwanis Preparing For Karnival Week

Next week will be a busy week for local Kiwanians when they will get busy preparing the armouries to accommodate the 1926 edition of their annual Carnival and Style Show.

This year, stated Chairman Harry Greenleaf today, it is planned to make the Carnival at least 100% bigger and better in every way than last year. To begin with, he said, there was to be more seating accommodation for those who wished to view the Style Show in comfort. Then again each night will have some distinctive and special line of amusement so that the public will really not want to miss a night.

The Galt Boys' Band of forty-five pieces will be here for the opening two nights. They are to be billeted at the homes of Kiwanians and are said to be a real high class organization of classic dances immediately following the Style Show, and on Thursday night a dance is planned to the Charleston contest with a liberal prize for the winner.

A Hope Chest valued at a $100.00 will also be given away free to a lucky number.

Chairman Greenleaf stated that other feature attractions were now being arranged for and when the official opening takes place a week from Monday evening, that will be the beginning of one of the biggest weeks of fun, education and entertainment that Belleville has witnessed for many years.

THE WEATHER

Light to moderate winds, fine.

Sunday—Moderate to fresh winds, fair at first, probably followed by local showers before night.

FINAL TUMMON RALLY MONDAY EVE

The final rally in this city in the interest of Mr. W. E. Tummon will be held on Monday evening at Griffin's Opera House. An interesting array of speakers have been secured namely Major A. C. Lewis and Mr. T. P. Learie of Toronto, Mrs. W. H. Nugent of this city, and the Candidate. Mayor R. J. E. Graham will preside. There will be community singing while an orchestra will furnish music.

BOMB THROWN AT MUSSOLINI

Third Attempt on Life of Italy's Premier in Past Year

Rome, Sept. 11.—Benito Mussolini, Italy's picturesque premier and Fascist leader, today escaped the third attempt made upon his life within a year.

Ernesto Giovannini, a young Italian stone cutter, threw a bomb against his automobile shortly after ten o'clock this morning as the Premier was being driven from his residence, the Villa Torlonia, in the outskirts of the city to the Chigi Palace where his office is situated.

The missile struck a side window of the limousine but did not explode until after it had fallen to the ground.

Four passers by, however, were wounded by fragments of the glass from the car.

Giovannini, who arrived in Rome from abroad only this morning, entering the country without passport, was immediately seized by agents escorting the Premier's car.

Mussolini maintained his customary calm and continued to Chigi Palace. At his order the Fascist directorate issued a manifesto to all Blackshirts, exploiting and directing that there be no attempts at reprisal.

DRIVER OF WRECKED CAR HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER TWO OTHERS ARE INJURED

One woman is lying dead in her home in Trenton, a returned soldier is in Belleville General Hospital with very severe injuries, a woman had various pieces of glass taken from her arms and breast, a boy of five and the driver of the car escaped unscathed, in a motor tragedy a mile west of Trenton shortly after five o'clock last evening.

The driver of the car, Major B. C. Armstrong, head of the Customs office at Trenton, spent the night in the cells at Trenton and appeared before Magistrate O'Rourke this morning on a charge of manslaughter.

KILLED

Mrs. Oscar Spinks, aged 40, leaving husband but no family.

INJURED

James Coote, 46, married, nightwatchman at the Government Motion Picture plant at Trenton, a veteran of the Great War, and very badly wounded. Now in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Onion, of Colborne, cut by splinterred glass from windshield and plate glass windows of Chrysler sedan which was wrecked.

UNINJURED

Major B. C. Armstrong, the driver, and Teddy Onion, aged 5.

The accident occurred on a narrow roadway, just inside the Murray Township boundary on the road to Wooler. The party had turned out to pass a horse and buggy. The right front wheel ran off and the car a moment later was in a ditch about three feet deep. It did not upset but sideswiped two fence posts breaking them off and then hit a tree. It was the three last wrecked the car, breaking the top and the glass to smithereens.

Mrs. Spinks who was almost instantly killed, was sitting in the back seat and beside her was Coote. The little lad Teddy Onion was also in the back seat, but never got a scratch.

Mrs. Onion was in the front seat with Major Armstrong and suffered numerous wounds from splinters. She was able later to proceed to her home in Colborne.

Provincial police and Chief of Police Bain in Trenton were informed of the tragedy and arrested Armstrong on the manslaughter charge of manslaughter. He was held for the night in the lockup at Trenton.

Inspector Gorrell, head of the Belleville district, told The Intelligencer this morning, that a searching inquiry had already begun. Sergeant Clarke and Policeman Macfachan have the case in hand.

Chief of Police Bain of Trenton said his investigations led him to believe that Major Armstrong, not an experienced driver of gear shift cars, had put his foot on the accelerator instead of the brake. The car had run along the ditch for some considerable distance. It had, according to tracks, the police say, zig-zagged across from the road again and then hit the ditch and the tree.

The tragedy has thrown Trenton into gloom. Mrs. Spinks was well known. Major Armstrong is one of the prominent men of the town and is largely interested in affairs of the Trenton Golf Club. He had a brilliant record overseas and commands a Company in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

It was anticipated that after today's police hearing Major Armstrong would be released from custody on bail pending completion of the investigation.

Dr. George Stobie was to conduct an X-ray examination on Mrs. Spinks' husband, to determine the extent of his injuries.

Mr. James Coote has a broken shoulder, it was determined by the X-ray today, and other bruises and cuts. He will recover.

ARMSTRONG TO COBOURG

Major Armstrong of Trenton, who is held on a nominal charge of manslaughter, will have his preliminary hearing before Magistrate Floyd, of Cobourg this afternoon. His appearance before Mr. O'Rourke at Trenton was to effect his transfer to County of Northumberland police officials.

He will, it is expected, be released on bail this afternoon.

LATE MRS. SPINKS ONCE LIVED HERE HAD MANY FRIENDS

Mrs. Spinks, the victim of the most unfortunate accident is known to many in Belleville as she with her husband were residents of this city for some time.

Previous to removing to Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Spinks resided in apartments of Dundas Terrace, located on the north side of Colborne street. While here Mr. Spinks, as at present, was the representative of the Fuller Brush Company in this locality. Mrs. Spinks had many friends here who will greatly regret her sudden and unexpected demise. The tragic manner it occurred, Deceased had no family.

WOMAN KILLED NEAR COLBORNE

Mrs. Cochrane Victim of Accident — Walked From Behind Car

A second fatal accident occurred late Friday afternoon, this time near Colborne on the county lines. A woman named Mrs. Cochrane walked from behind a standing car and was struck by a car in which Mr. James Detlor and family of Sidney Township were riding. Mrs. Cochrane lived about an hour. The Provincial Police are investigating.

DELORO ABUSES BARRIE

Barrie, Sept. 11.—Barrie team received a severe beating here at the hands of Deloro, eastern champions of the intermediate O.B.A.A. in the first of home and home games in the semi-final round. The score was 15 and Deloro deserved their win as they were distinctly superior.

SIR HENRY THORNTON MARRIED SECOND TIME

Jamestown, N.Y., Sept. 11.—Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman of the Board of Directors and President of the Canadian National Railways, and Miss Matilda Warrick, daughter of Mrs. Charles D. Westmore of New York, were married at Long Point, the Wetmore summer home on Chautauqua Lake, today.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred E. Von Rittl, minister of the Unitarian Church of Jamestown in the presence of the members of the two families and a small company of intimate friends.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE REGENT.

Metalorama which rolls to a powerful climax, states that only Dick Talmadge could do or would be daring enough to undertake, and a thorough knowing of rattling good comedy are the ingredients which go to make up "The Wall Street Whiz," latest starring vehicle for this renowned "King of Stunts." A highly amusing story, which deals with the adventures of Richard Butler (a very appropriate name) a "wealthy" youth who takes the job of butler in a wealthy family, carries the star, and an excellent supporting cast along amongst fun and speed. Marcelline Day, Belle Bennett, Lillian Langdon, Dan Mason and Carl Miller take the most prominent roles, and all of them acquit themselves with great credit. "The Wall Street Whiz" will have its opening performance here on Monday when it begins a three day run at the Regent Theatre.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS" 6TH ANNUAL EDITION

The famous George White's 'Scandals', the sixth annual edition of which opened at Ziegfeld's on September 20th was first produced in Washington, D.C. in June 1919. The New York premiere was at the Liberty theatre one week later. The sixth edition, the one to be shown here, was given in New York for the first time at the Apollo theatre now owned and controlled by Mr. White. All the half dozen revues enjoyed long and unusually prosperous engagements in the metropolis of the nation.

The current sixth annual edition of George White's "Scandals" surpasses any of Mr. White's former successes. It can be truthfully described as the best revue presented anywhere at any time! It is in two acts and thirty scenes and they are all most elaborate.

Courageously brushing aside evidence which would save him from the death penalty, branding as false the confession of his daughter, because that confession would farm her good name, and with head erect, he enters the death chamber to suffer punishment for a crime of which he was innocent.

This is one of the tense dramatic situations of "Silence," a Robert Julian production—a situation which caps the climax of father love with which the production rings—the beautiful sacrifice of a father for his little girl.

H. B. Warner is seen as Jim Warren in Beulah Marie Dix's screen version of "Silence," which will be on view at the Belle Theatre, Monday. It is a role which he created on the stage and in which he played to enthusiastic Broadway audiences for almost a year. Petite Vera Reynolds plays the featured feminine role, while the featured supporting cast includes Raymond Hatton, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Jack Mulhall and Virginia Pearson.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Mainly About People You Know

AS TO HOUSES

Numerous requests for houses are received daily by the real estate dealers in the city but the supply of up-to-date dwellings is inadequate just at present. Real estate dealers are doing a fairly brisk business at present in persons buying and selling homes. This week Mr. A. Wilson of Latta purchased the residence of Mr. H. Doherty, corner of Front and College streets. The deal was put through by Belleville Locators.

MR. GUTHRIE AT NAPANEE

Numerous Bellevillians are motoring to Napanee this evening where Hon. Hugh Guthrie will give an address in the Armories this evening.

"BILL" WAS RESPONSIBLE

The floral decorations at the meeting of the Women's Conservative Club on Thursday evening were the work of Mr. W. Ralls and Miss G. Colden, and the flowers themselves incidentally, were contributed by a family which at the last election supported the Liberal candidate.

WILMOT CAR RECOVERED

The Ford car owned by Ald. Eardley Wilmot which was stolen from Mc-Annany Street on Thursday night, has been recovered on West Moira Street. A resident discovered the car and reported to the police who had it impounded in Mr. Wilmot. The car and accessories were intact, but it had one flat tire.

COLLAPSED ON MARKET

Cyrus Gibbs, 84, of Centre Church, Ameliasburg Township, collapsed on the market this morning shortly after 10.30. He was immediately taken to Belleville General Hospital in the ambulance and Dr. G. H. Stobbs was called and rendered medical attention. He was reported to be resting easily at the time of going to press. Mr. Gibbs who was taking with friends lunch in the building, was suddenly seized with the attack and was carried into the open air where ice was applied and he soon showed signs of restoration. Mr. Gibbs was quite heavily clad and together with the warmer air in the building may possibly have resulted in the attack.

FAIR BOARD MET

A meeting of the officers of the Belleville Fair Association was held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce building. The object of the meeting was to wind up some matters in reference to the recent fair, also to make preparation for the payment of prizes.

Saturday Markets

The attendance upon the market today was exceptionally large in fact it was one of the largest attended for some weeks. There were changes to note in prices especially in eggs which were readily disposed of at 40c a dozen and in a few cases 42c a dozen was obtained for specials.

Dressed poultry commanded a good price. Chickens sold at $1.00 and $1.25 each. broilers $1.00 a pair and ducks at $1.25 each.

In the fruit line, huckleberries sold at 20c a quart and green gages at 10c a quart and 40c a peck were quite plentiful. Large plums sold at 30c and 75c a basket. The raling price for apples was 25c a peck. Large blackberries were sold at 30c a basket.

Water and musk melons made their appearance and there was a wide range of prices. The former sold at 15c to 50c each and musk melons at 15c to 40c each. All offered for sale were disposed of.

Vegetables were plentiful and disposed of in considerable quantities. Prices were also reasonable. Potatoes 40c a peck, corn 15c a dozen, tomatoes 90c to $1.00 a bushel, beets, onions and carrots 5c a bunch, cucumbers 5c each and 10c a peck for pickling, cauliflowers ranged in price from 15c to 40c each; cabbage 5c and 10c and pumpkins 10c each.

Fish vendors did a fairly good business, prices being as follows: Small salmon, like salmon and white fish 25c a pound, pickerel and halibut 30c haddock 18c and fillets 22c.

Social and Personals

Bishop Bidwell sailed for England on Thursday on the S. S. Melita.

Miss Clare Buchanan, Kingston, is spending a few days in Belleville.

Rev. Mr. Dixon, Redeswille, was guest in the city today.

Mr. A. L. Bellwell, Foster Ave., is confined to his home through illness.

Mrs. J. F. Dolan and Mrs. D. M. Waters were hostesses at the weekly tea given at the bowling green Friday afternoon. The affair was one of the season's greatest successes, a profusion of vari-colored gladioli made the tea room very charming and Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn presided at the pretty tea table. The rink which Miss Eileen McEwan snipped won the prize for the afternoon and others members of the rink being Mrs. R. G. Stewart, Mrs. Deroche and Miss Jessie Hay, vice-skip.

A farewell party in honor of Miss Margery Lynch who is leaving potterily to resume her duties as probationer in the Mercy Hospital at Watertown, N. Y., was held at the home of Miss Margaret Goyer, Front St., last evening. TiTe guests enjoyed a pleasant time which was taken up with games and dancing after which a lunch was served at midnight and the party broke up in the early hours of the morning. Miss Lynch has a wide circle of friends who will regret her departure for the United States but their best wishes go with her in her new field of endeavour. She has been prominent in golf, ball circles during the past summer having played with the Belleville Deavers and was selected on an all-star team from the league. She was very popular in many young people's societies and organizations in the city. Mr. Charles Goyer and Miss Margaret Goyer each rendered several piano selections which were enjoyed. At the close of the evening Miss Lynch was presented with a box of writing paper and a beautiful pair of bath towels. She made a suitable reply and said she would not soon forget the pleasant times spent with friends in Belleville.

CHANNEL SWIM TAME TO WALK UNDER WATER

Norfolk Va., Sept. 11.—Considering English Channel, swimming feats now too passie, K. Everts, a deep sea diver has announced his plane to walking across the bottom of Hampton Roads, Va., seven miles, in his 200 pound diving suit and challenges any other diver to out-walk him.

"People are going crazy the diver said, "about this swimming the English Channel. If they really want a thrill I'll give them one."

ARE YOU AFRAID OF YOUR MEALS?

Proof That the Stomach is Weak and Needs Toning Up.

Are you one of the many sufferers who dread meal time? Hungry, and yet afraid to eat, because of the pains and discomforts that follow. When the stomach is out of order the whole system suffers, and as the blood becomes thin and watery it becomes increasingly difficult to correct the digestive disorder. There is no tonic for the stomach that is not a tonic for the whole body; thus a blood-building tonic such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, not only relieves indigestion, but adds to the general strength. Mr. D. J. Shaw, Salmon Road, P.E.I., has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a severe case of indigestion and relates his experience, for the benefit of other sufferers. He says:—"I suffered from indigestion for a number of years. My case was so bad the words fail to describe it. My appetite was gone, constipation was present, and my nerves were all on edge. I could not sleep well at night, and the world was a dark spot for me. I tried a number of remedies, but without any benefit. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended, but without much faith, after so many failures, I decided to try them. After taking three boxes I noticed a change for the better. Then I got three boxes more and found I had a genuine remedy. I continued the treatment, took moderate exercise, could take plain food without suffering as formerly, and proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only drive the blood, but make the stomach and nerves. Anyone suffering from stomach or nerve troubles will make no mistake in giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Write to-day for a copy of the free booklet "What to Eat and How to Eat."

AT THE CAPITOL

In "Fine Manners," her latest Paramount starring production, Gloria Swanson adds still another characterization to her large gallery of interesting screen portraits. It comes to the Capitol on Monday.

Gloria ventures into a field entirely foreign to anything she's ever before attempted.—"Fine Manners," finds the star enacting the part of a little burlesque chorus girl.

Vivacious, happy, and full of the joy of living she attracts the attention of a wealthy young society man. He falls in love with her because of the girl's naturalness, an conspicuously absent in the debutantes he knows.

What happens when she is induced to take a course in "Fine Manners," provides the audience with a series of thrill ing climaxes.

FRANKFORD AND FOXBORO CHEER FOR MR. TUMMON

Two Rousing Meetings Held at Both of Which the Conservative Candidate Speaks and is Given Ovation.

AT FOXBORO

"Roscoe Vanderwater is a good soldier and a good citizen—much too good to mix with that gang of so-called Liberals at Ottawa—let us save him from himself and make him lose his desire to teach them a lesson," said Col. Ponton in a real fighting speech at Foxboro last night, and the crowd laughed and cheered.

The hall was crowded when Mr. W. E. Tummon opened his address promptly at eight o'clock and the crowd stayed right through to the end. The candidate spoke first as he had to go on to Frankford and while he cut his talk short he received a wonderful reception as his telling arraignment of the late King Government.

Mr. Tummon told the story of the last hectic days of the late session at Ottawa, and of Mr. King's desperate efforts to dodge disgrace and defeat, this audience responded as his appeal to vote and work for the truly Canadian Policy of the Conservative party under the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and cheered him when he asked for their support and approval.

THE REAL ISSUE

Col. W. N. Ponton ridiculed the so-called constitutional issue raised by Mr. King and stressed the real issue of strong stable Government for Canada. He urged that the Meighen Administration be empowered to put into force a policy of Canada First—to bring back our boys and girls from the United States and provide living wages for them in their own country.

Speaking to the farmers, he asked if it would not be better to have the hundred and thirty millions which Canada sends to the United States each year for farm products, spent with Canadian farmers.

Col. Ponton raised much laughter by reading the account of Vandervater's Belleville rally as given in the local Liberal paper, where one of the speakers spoke of the many empty seats. It was a fine speech of the candidate's and when he started to tell a half hour after the announced closing hour, the crowd insisted on his continuing.

Mr. J. C. Smith, ex-M.P., and Mr. J. J. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings, were the other speakers. They covered different phases of the election issues—Mr. Hill dealing with the questions which touched the farmer and Mr. Sexsmith spoke mainly on the Customs scandal and protection.

Mr. Henderson of Foxboro kept the meeting moving as chairman, and led the cheers for "Bright" Tummon and Mr. Meighen at the close.

AT FRANKFORD

Mr. Tummon and his assisting speakers held a most rousing and encouraging meeting at Frankford last night when the very fine theatre there was packed to the doors and at the conclusion gave three hearty cheer and a tiger for Mr. Tummon and then three and a tiger for Mr. Meighen.

The meeting was again largely attended by women and their families, the two front rows of the theatre being occupied by boys and girls of school age who enjoyed the jazzy music play by the Bon Ton orchestra and the singing and the anecdotes.

Mr. Tummon spoke last having appeared earlier at the Foxboro meeting. He was preceded at Frankford by Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., by Mayor Graham of Belleville and later by Major Richard Greenwood, Sandy Barrows was on hand to lead community singing and one must put on record the fact that the Frankford boys and girls and men and women certainly can sing. They sang half a dozen of the old favorites and then wanted more.

Mr. Ireland predicted that there would not be a Liberal elected from Toronto to Kingston and said he expected to see the Government have a majority outside of Quebec and any seats gained there by the Conservatives would be all to the good. He said the campaign in South Hastings by the Liberals was undoubtedly not because they thought they could win but because Tories would therefore be prevented from going in greater numbers into Northumberland to the assistance of Mr. Mayhee.

Mr. Ireland said they expected in Trenton to give Mr. Tummon a majority of seven hundred and called upon Frankford to give Tummon an increased majority.

Mayor Graham devoted a greater portion of his speech to an exposure of the doings of Mackenzie King and his lack of policy. In 1914 said Mayor Graham, King was of military age and apparently fit but the excuse was made that he had to stay to look after his family. But did he stay in Canada? No.

He dashed off to the States and worked for the Rockefeller Foundation at an enormous salary. Ever since he has been catering to the United States. "We are not going to stand for that sort of thing any longer," declared the speaker. "We do not have to stand for it."

Mackenzie King also catered to the wheat growers in the West, a body of men, who care for nothing but their own interests, who care nothing for the farmers of the East or the industrial sections of the country.

Mayor Graham spoke also upon the Tariff question—showing that all sections of the country are boune to benefit by the Conservative tariff policy.

Major Ponton paid his respects to W. A. Fraser, of Trenton, who is running as a Liberal in Northumberland. Mr. Fraser was classed by the speaker as a "foreigner who hadn't the nerve to run in his own riding of South Hastings."

Regarding Col. Vandervater the speaker said that he was a fine citizen and a good soldier but he was now mixed up with the wrong sort of people, and Major Ponton was surprised that a man of Col. Vandervater's calibre would associate himself with the Mackenzie King crowd.

Major Ponton's last words were a warning not to take the election for granted but to get out in force and roll up a record majority for Mr. Tummon and for the policies of the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Mr. Tummon spoke for about twenty five minutes thanking all his friends for their wonderful support a year ago and then reviewing the Customs affair, the Old Age Pension ball and the Soldiers Revaluing, Bill, the latter being ready for the Royal Assent when the Liberals were defeated and denied sanction because Mackenzie King refused to confer with Mr. Meighen.

At the close he was cheered to the echo.

The meeting ended shortly after ten with the National Anthem after which scores of friends pressed forward to greet the Candidate and shake his hand.

A QUIET ELECTION

It has been noted that there seems to be more apathy than usual in the present campaign and we are seeing less excitement than in the last two elections. The reason probably is that most people have already made up their minds how to vote. They had enough of excitement in the short life of the last Parliament, and particularly in the sensational incidents of the closing days. The customs revelations were a vivid enough sensation for any election campaign, but they are no longer regarded as thrilling news but as historic facts whose significance has been grasped. The election campaign is not being decided by the speeches of the rival politicians on the hustings. Nothing much is being added to what was then established under oath.

The only real excitement seems to be personal with Mr. King. He feels or pretends to feel that he was the victim of outrageous conduct on the part of Lord Byng who steadfastly refused to help him escape a vote of censure in the House, and who, when Mr. King threw up his job, called upon Mr. Meighen to carry on. This excitement is not shared by the general public. The average man is unable to see that anything particularly horrible happened to Mr. King except that at last he came to the end of the tortuous path which he had been treading since the last election. He lost control of Parliament which better men have lost before. He now has his chance to convince the voters that he has a better claim upon their confidence than Mr. Meighen, a rather difficult task. Perhaps it is because the people as a whole show no sign of being stampeded anywhere in particular that Mr. King makes the welkin ring with the piteous tale of his woes.

LIBERAL SPORTSMAN'S PROTEST

Few of those Canadians who have followed the history of collegiate sports, and the game of Rugby football in particular, are unacquainted with the name of Dr. Smirle Lawson of Toronto. Some years ago when he was a member of the Rugby team of the University of Toronto he was internationally known as one of the greatest of "half-backs," a man who always "played the game" and a good sportsman generally. It is a feature in the cap of the Liberal party that it has been able to secure Dr. Lawson as its candidate in the riding of Centre-East Toronto; although it is known that he is a sacrifice candidate with little immediate chance of sitting in the house of Commons.

While standing as a Liberal candidate, Dr. Lawson made it clear to his nominating convention that he does not see eye to eye with some of the leaders of his party. As a good sportsman his gorge cannot stand the tactics of "straing the umpire" which have been adopted in connection with Lord Byng. He risked being denounced as a bad party man, by frankly telling his sponsors that they would not get many votes on the constitutional issue and would be well advised to drop it from their platform.

"Lord Byng," said Dr. Lawson, "was a great soldier and a good sport. Ever since this constitutional question was raised, he has not said 'yes, yes or no' and that proves what a good sport he is. It seems to me that one of the finest things for Canada is to be held to the British Empire by such threads as are represented by the presence of a Governor-General in Canada. There is no use talking the constitutional issue, for there are greater issues than that."

Mr. King still insists on making the constitutional issue paramount, and has refused to take the counsel of many Liberals who are less outspoken than Dr. Lawson, but hold similar views. Nevertheless it is a view which any sportsman, whatever his politics, must hold. It is unfortunate for Mr. King that he did not listen to the counsel of men like Dr. Lawson before he launched an issue which is meaningless in Canada and misinterpreted in other countries.

30 YEARS AGO

Members of the Board of Education present at the regular meeting last night were S. A. Moore, chairman, Messrs. J. L. Biggar, R. Bogle, W. W. Chown, J. Diamond, William Johnson, S. S. Moore, H. Pringle, J. Richards, Wm. Tennent, Thos. Wills and Dr. Eakins. It was decided to invite Sir Mackenzie Bowell to be present at the opening of school on Monday. Mayor Walmsley, Mr. Corby, M.P., and J. M. Hurley, M. P., will be the speakers.

Mr. Hurley, M.P., arrived in the city yesterday from Ottawa.

The game warden has been advised of merciless slaughter of deer in the north country last season. The hunters killed 140 and left two-thirds of them to rot.

Mrs. John Lake gave a fishing party on the Annie Lake yesterday afternoon. The guests included Mrs. Thos. Ritchie, Miss Ritchie, Mrs. John Lance, Mrs. Ices, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baird, Miss Thompson and others.

At a meeting of the directors of the Belleville Institute and Library Association it was decided that on account of lack of interest on the part of the public, the library should be closed.

Letters to the Editor

MEIGHEN

KING, BUREAU AND SIBAILLON

Speaking as a life long Laurier Liberal I am forced to say that with the present Liberal leadership, the only hope for honest, stable government and prosperity in Canada at the present crisis, is through the election of a Conservative government, and as a plain Canadian citizen, not seeking any office and having nothing at stake except love of country I earnestly urge all loyal Canadians to forget party and party differences and vote for a Conservative government in this election. Not only would Canada be disgraced in the eyes of the whole world by a return of the King, Bureau and Sibaillon regime to power but it would be absolutely fatal to the prosperity of the country.

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1. Further reduction in taxation.
2. A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3. A living wage to the laboring man.
4. Old Age Pensions.
5. Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6. Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7. A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectfully soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

Your humble servant,
ROSCOE VANDERWATER.

ONTARIOS BEAT ALL-STARS 14-13

Former B. H. S. Team Renamed, Proves its Superiority Here

The High School, or "Ontarios", as they are now known, traversed every team in the Bay of Quinte League and came down the stretch four lengths ahead. Last night they trimmed to pick of the three teams before a vast and wildly excited crowd at the Armouries by the close score of 14-13. The All-Stars gave them a very close race, but one or two boots at the wrong minute coupled with the fact that many men were left on bases spelled defeat for them.

Jean Ramsay, who was on the ground for the Ontarios, was in but pitcher continually but generally managed to close the lid down when the bases were partially or fully populated.

The crowd jammed the upper balcony and ground floor and was one of the largest to ever witness a soft ball game, in the confines of the Armories.

The All-Stars were at a disadvantage owing to the fact that they have played together before and some of them were a little bewildered at times. Laura Melchior, who was regarded as one of the best second suckers in the league, was in rather poor form last night. Besides not playing her usual good game in the field, she fell a victim to Miss Ramsay's strike-out route no less than with her one hand.

"Peg" Holloway made the best catch of the evening when she speared a hot liner off the bat of Helen Lee with her one hand.

Miss Hopping of Deseronto made the longest and, probably, longest hit of the evening when she lashed the ball high and dry through a window near the first base line, a feat that probably could not be duplicated. The ball did not touch the window but sailed through the aperture far into the night. She was given a home run.

Lillian Wagar went the full route and was accorded rather ragged support by her team-mates at times.

The Ontarios got nearly all their runs in the third and sixth when they scored five in each and most of these came after two men were down.

Vern Weir, Jas. Napbon and "Twig" Woodley umpired, each alternating three innings behind the plate. Jas. Whitton of Deseronto, and Allan Meagher of the Beavers and President of the League, handled the All-Stars. Little Baby Whitton, mascot of the Deseronto Ponies was also on deck.

All-Stars

V. Whitton, Deseronto—3rd base.
H. Curry, Beavers—1st base.
Hopping, Deseronto, left field.
M. Grass, Napanee—catcher.
P. Warham, Beavers—center field.
M. Stinson, Napanee—short stop.
J. Embury, Napanee—right field.
L. Wagar, Deseronto— pitcher.
Helen Lee, Beavers—2nd base.
L. Melchior, Beavers—2nd base.

Softball fans will get an eyeful if they slip over to the Alemite grounds at 4 p.m. this afternoon when the Leaside team, ex-champions of Toronto, will clash with the Canadian National Machinists of this city. The locals are confidently expecting to take the North Toronto nine into camp and will fling their best bets into action.

* * *

The Labor Day sports program which was postponed on account of rain will be held on Wednesday afternoon. The officers have worked hard to arrange a fine list of races and sports and if the weatherman doesn't intervene, it's bound to be a big day. The troupes of the Lasalla race are causing great interest and this race will no doubt see a large number of entries. One of the chief attractions will be the softball tournament between the Bay of Quinte League teams. Some spirited contests were seen in the series for the Labor Council Cup at the armouries. The Bay of Quinte teams play fast ball and this series promises to eclipse the other.

Delore Intermediates after being crowned Eastern Ontario champs, are now favored to cop the Provincial title. Bob Elliot's bunch have not met with any competition to speak of, as yet, and fans in this section of the country are pulling hard for them to bring home the bacon.

The "Ontarios", as the High School are now known, expect to meet the Toronto Intermediate champions here next week. The Nationals are rated as the king pins of the softballers in their class in the Queen City and are expected to grab the title. But make no mistake about it, these local girls won't take a back seat in any of them. Fans who have watched the Toronto teams in action say they aren't a great deal better than Belleville teams.

The Walkerville team, which eliminated St. Thomas, Intercounty league champions, in the O.B.A.A. senior series, will meet Niagara Falls in the semi-finals, the first game being carded for today at the Falls. The O.B.A.A. is investigating a rumor to the effect that Gerrard and Jordan, of the Walkerville team, have been playing Sunday ball in Detroit, and if there is any foundation for the story, the pair will not be eligible to play in the remaining games.

Guelph Mercury: With its representatives eliminated from the Ontario senior play-offs at such an early date in the last two campaigns, we're beginning to feel rather dubious over that boast that Inter-County League is about the fastest senior loop in the Province.

There's no guilty away from the fact that the league was the class of all Ontario circuits the years the Leafs and the Terriers made it a habit of going through to the finals, but since Guelph and Galt faltered, London and St. Thomas, the only other clubs to ever win the league honors, failed to get very far in the provincial pennant fight.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Glasses When Everything Else Fails

Some folks through pride neglect their eyes. They are aware of the fact that they need glasses, but imagine they do not look well in them. Of course it is a foolish attitude to maintain and too many adhere to it. No one should wait until he is compelled to get glasses, but should rather anticipate their need. I am promising my patients all that their errors of vision require.

YANKS DEFEATED TORONTO 8 TO 2

A barrage of extra base clouts in the eighth and ninth innings, which netted them seven runs for the final two frames, enabled the New York Americans to defeat the Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders of the International League, by 8 to 2, in an exhibition game played here before over 3,000 fans. Hubbell, star southpaw of the locals, held the heavy Yankee sluggers well in check until the eighth inning, when a deluge of hits, coupled with his own wildness, gave the American League representatives the lead. Beale pitched steadily throughout for the Yankees.

The Baltimore Orioles, playing at home, defeated Jersey City 3 to 1. Ogden allowed the Skeeters only one hit.

Staging a terrific tenth inning rally, in which long home runs by Layne and Huse, a triple by Rettger and a couple of errors figured, the Syracuse Stars tallied six runs and vanquished the Bisons 8 to 4, in the opening of the series at Buffalo. Harry Layne twin brother of the Leaf star, made his first appearance with the Stars, contributing a single behind his homer.

Reading equalled the International League record for losses in a season when the Keys lost to Newark, 4 to 2, for a 110th defeat.

The championship hopes of the Cardinals received a slight boost in Boston where they were defeated 11 to 3. The Braves made 18 hits off Alexander and Reinhart and three errors by Thevenow also aided in the visitors' downfall. Ed Brown, of the Braves, hit safely four times in five trips to the plate.

Sinical Sadie Sees

Robots sounds rally!

Sinical Sadie says so much rain looks as if they need more plumbers in heaven

Col. Vanderwater is not like Thomas Jefferson who said—"If I could not go to Heaven, but with a party, I would not go there at all."

On Tuesday in the local papers the Liberals advertised for women and lady workers.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A Liberal with any other name would have as sweet a chance to defeat Tummon.

Mackenzie King—"Come one, come all! This rock shall fly
From its firm base as soon as I."

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

And almost too late a Liberal cause,
Quite a nice man with quite a nice name!
A man you all know by sight very well,
He wants to send Tory voters to h——.

Sinical Sadie says she wishes the Liberals had chosen a man with an "easier" name, like Touchstone, she says, "Truly, I would the gods had made me poetical."

THE COLONEL'S SOLILOQUY.

To run, or not to run,—that is the question:—
Whether 'tis wise to play safe and
Thus to keep my purse intact,
Or to be daring and oppose
With my small company of Grits
A big army of Conservative Crusaders,
And by opposing them, date them to Do their worst?
Their worst!—ay, there's the rub.

NO IMITATIONS

A Scottish gentleman, on the threshold of a good old Highland club, and loving his clan colours, happened to notice a handsome display of tartan "four-in-hand" neck ties in the show window of a prominent haberdasher in New Orleans. A salesman standing in the vestibule was asked: "Have you any of these in the Stewart plaid?" "No," said he. "we have them only in the Scotch plaids."

Col. Carman at the Liberal meeting Thursday night said, "As I look upon the empty seats, etc."

Sinical Sadie says "Never mind Reeve, the Conservatives may not fill your seats, but they WILL fill the ballot boxes on Tuesday."

Poems Old and New

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

Give love, and love to your life will flow.
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind,
And honor with honor meet;
And a smile that is sweet will surely find
A smile that is just as sweet.

Give sorrow and pity to those who mourn
You will gather in flowers again.
The scattered seeds of your thought outborne,
Though the sowing seemed in vain.

For life is the mirror of king and slave
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

TWO JOYS OF THE ROAD

A crimson touch of the hard wood trees;

A vagrant's morning wide and blue,
In early fall, when the wind walks, too

A shadowy highway cool and brown,
Alluring up and enticing down.

From rippled waters to dappled swamp
From purple glory to scarlet pomp;

The outward eye, the quiet will,
And the striding heart from hill to hill

The tempter apple over the fence,
The cobweb bloom on the yellow quince;

The polish asters along the wood—
A lyric touch of the solitude;
An open hand, an easy shoe,
Find a hope to make the day go through—

Another to sleep with and a third
To wake me up at the voice of a bird;

The reremnant fat-listening morn,
And the coarse whisper of the corn;

These are the joys of the open road—
For him who travels without a load.

Bliss Carman.

THE FEAR OF LIGHTNING

CHANCE OF DEATH ONE IN MILLION

Lightning is a fascinating subject of study, as well as one of the most awful manifestations of rafftul energy.

Nevertheless, the widespread fear of it, and of all proportion of the grounds for it, judging by the outcome of a five years' survey conducted by Dr. Gilbert H. Grosvenor, of the Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts, New England.

The survey showed that the chance of death by lightning in less than one in a million. Only nineteen persons were killed by a bolt from the clouds in five years, an average of 3.8 persons annually, or about one ten-thousandth of one per cent. of the State's population.

The man on the farm, judging by the survey, is ten and a half time as likely to be struck by lightning as the man in the city, because of the comparative lack of rural communities of steel-framed buildings, true wires, and other metal structures which in the city are like electrical tents during a thunder storm.

Lightning rods, however, in Dr. Gilbert's opinion offer the maximum much the same thunderstorm advantages as his town brother, the farmer, as it is, being 30,000 times safer from harm than a man dodging motor traffic in a big city.

Dr. Gilbert's survey was made primarily to determine the extent of the damage done to crops by thunderstorms He declares that while these storms at times cause thousands of pounds, worth of damage to the crops, they really assist agriculture much more than harm it, because the rainfall they bring saves many acres from a blighting drought.

According to another American authority, Mr. Robert S. Walker, who has been a keen observer of lightning for over a quarter of a century, there are plausible theories for many phenomena that at first seem erratic.

In most cases, he says, it is not difficult to account for certain trees being hit by lightning. When a tree has its roots anchored in water or very damp soil, although its crown may not tower as high as its neighbour trees, it is the best conductor in the lot, and the lightning will choose it.

Mr. Walker says that on Lookout Mountain there's an acre of land, where almost half a hundred trees have been hit by lightning. From the outward evidence, "these trees do not have wet feet; hence there must be some mineral deposit which their roots penetrate."

Another spot, east of Chattanooga, show almost a dozen trees struck by lightning, all in a line. Doubtless, says M. Walker, their roots reach into a subterranean stream, and the lightning in its work has marked out the course of the hidden stream.

In one place the lightning tore up a tree, and a neighbour tree standing some fifty feet away, apparently through pure sympathy, died at the time of its neighbour's demise. What was the trouble? Simply a natural root graft between the two trees! Such cases, adds Mr. Walker, are rare, but they are intensely interesting.

According to other scientific experts a place of special danger when a thunderstorm is raging, is directly beneath a hanging lamp or globe suspended from the ceiling by a chain.

Lightning may follow the chain to its end and then jump off.

WHERE DOES THREE PENNY PIECES GO?

London, Sept. 11—The silver "three-penny piece, which came into existence about the time of Queen Elizabeth, may be withdraw from circulation in favor of a larger coin of nickel of the value of one-hundredth part of the pound sterling

Three-penny silver pieces are very small and often get lost. but there is sentimental value about them and in many countries they form the bulk of the coin in collection plates.

THE WINDS OF FATE

One ship drives East and another drives West
With the selfsame winds that blow.
'Tis the set of the sails
And not the gales,
Which tell us the way to go.

Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate;
As we journey along through life,
'Tis the set of the soul
That decides its goal
And not the calm or the strife.

WEDDINGS

During September our attention is often turned to weddings. The papers are full of them, almost as many as in June, and cars with flying ribbons dash gaily by nearly every day—every day except Friday. I wonder if anyone ever had corsage enough to "do the deed" on a Friday?

Ye editor of this Page once set a date for a wedding—her own—on Friday. But it was Friday the 13th and as the year was 1913, the powers that ruled the household promptly forbade such temptings of Fate. I did want to try it, but in the face of such opposition was forced to desist.

There are many superstitions for the bride. We are all familiar with the saying, "Happy is the bride the sun shines on." Of course she has no control over the weather on her wedding day, but a bride is only human if she tries to ward off misfortune by wearing something old and something new, Something borrowed and something blue."

A shoe is thrown after the bride for good luck and the majority of girls choose Wednesday as the lucky day, each day having a significance of its own.

"Monday for wealth.
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday, best day of all.
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses.
Saturday, no luck at all."

ABOUT JULIA MARLOWE

It may be interesting to some of my readers to learn that Julia Marlowe is not by birth American. She was born in England. Both her father and mother came of farm stock, they were no theatre within miles and there was no theatrical tradition in the family. Her name was not Marlowe but Sarah Frances Frost. When she was about six years of age, Sarah came to America with her family and settled in Kansas. The father was under some delusion that he had injured a neighbor in England and changed his name to Brough and it was as Fanny Brough that she went through the first part of her three thin side. Her father soon wandered out of their life and her mother kept a small hotel. (Subsequently she got a divorce and married again). But when she was twelve one Colonel Miles conceived the idea of putting "Pinafore" on the road with juveniles and Fanny was chosen to play the part of Sir Joseph Porter at $7 a week. It was not until 1887 she was launched to the real stage with the name we all know so well, Julia Marlowe. She married one Taberry, secured a divorce and later married E. H. Sothern, another name known to all Shakspeare lovers.

In the story of her life which has just been published and from which we gleamed these facts, the author states that Julia Marlowe has acted a greater number of times in Shakspearean drama than any other actress of her own period or of any other, and had drawn to that drama a larger total audience than any other player had ever attracted in it.' Julia Marlowe's name is a tradition now, just as is the name of Maude Adams.

FOR A CLEAR SKIN

The skin is one of the three chief organs of elimination, the other two being the bowels and the kidneys. If any one of these is not working properly waste products accumulate and these extra work on the other two. Thus, if the bowels are sluggish the skin suffers.

Here we get a clue our first question hint. You cannot have a clear, healthy skin when the bowels do not act regularly. These two organs act and react on one another.

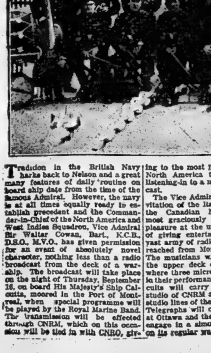

The condition of the stomach also reflects itself in the state of the skin. If rich, improper or indigestible food is taken, the skin will become unhealthy in appearance and particularly liable to the development of pimples, blackheads and acne.

Many persons neglect to include certain substances in their daily diet that are essential if they wish to maintain a clear, healthy skin. These are the mineral salts, and they are most conveniently taken in the form of fruit and green vegetables. I believe in the modern American custom of taking fruit with your breakfast, and also in the old English custom of a little at night.

These are all important matters, but it is the skin itself that demands our special care. The skin gets rid of waste material by means of perspiration, which issues from the orifices of numberless little ducts. It is obvious that if the skin is coated in any way—with dirt and dust, let us say—some of these ducts will become clogged. From this arises the first golden rule about the skin, viz., that it needs regular cleansing to keep all the pores open and allow it to "breathe." Neglect this, and pimples and acne will arise. People who take a regular daily bath and use plenty of soap and water and employ friction in the skin hardly ever develop pimples and acne. The skin not only needs cleansing to purify it... it needs rubbing and friction to stimulate it and keep it active. Daily massage of the skin is one of the best ways of keeping the skin clear. There is nothing difficult about it; you can do it yourself by just rubbing and kneading the skin with the fingers. If you wash the face and neck with soap and water three times a day, and give them a good brisk rub afterwards you need never bother much about acne.

Sweat is not the only material exuded from the skin. It is lubricated by a greasy substance manufactured by the sebaceous glands. You can see the openings of these on the forehead, and some cases reduce rather too much of this material. Their skins are too greasy. When that is the case additional care must be taken, for those people are very liable to develop pimples, etc. A speck of dust or dirt falls on this greasy substance and in this oily material, a germ or two attacks the spot, and that is how the trouble begins. Daily thorough toilette of the skin is the only way to avoid this.

Broadcast From War Ship Is Novel C.N.R.M. Feature

Tradition in the British Navy has its back to Nelson and a great many features of daily routine on board ship date from the time of the famous Admiral. However, the navy is at all times equally ready to establish precedent and the Commander-in-Chief of the North America and West Indies Squadron, Vice Admiral Sir Walter Cowan, Bart., K.C.B., D.S.O., M.V.O., has given permission for an event of absolutely novel character, nothing less than a radio broadcast from the deck of a warship. The broadcast will take place on the night of Thursday, September 16, on board His Majesty's Ship Calcutta, moored in the Port of Montreal, when special programmes will be played by the Royal Marine Band. The transmission will be effected through CNRM, which on this occasion will be tied in with CNRO, giving to the most populous section of North America the opportunity of listening-in to a most unusual broadcast.

The Vice Admiral accepted the invitation of the Radio Department of the Canadian National Railways most graciously and expressed his pleasure at the unusual opportunity of giving entertainment to such a vast army of radio enthusiasts as is reached from Montreal and Ottawa. The musicians will be stationed on the upper deck of H.M.S. Calcutta where three microphones will gather in their performances. Telephone circuits will carry the music to the studio of CNRM and from the latter studio lines of the Canadian National Telegraphs will connect with CNRO at Ottawa and the latter station will engage in a simultaneous broadcast on its regular wave length.

The band, under the direction of Bandmaster Herbert Wright, I.S.M., will commence at 9 o'clock with the march past of the Royal Marines, and after a programme of light and serious music, will conclude with a medley, "See Songs of Old England." An added feature of this programme will be the rendition of the bugle calls of the British Navy with an explanation of each call.

An address will be delivered by Lieut.-Commander W. V. Hoarpeard, R.N.R., entitled, "Our First Line of Defence."

A year ago CNRM broadcast the band of H.M.S. Calcutta in a studio programme, the first broadcast of such a character, while the coming broadcast is said to be the first ever transmitted from the deck of a British warship.

"A FIRE ALARM IN ONE"

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11—Numerous efforts have made a hole in one, but an unidentified player on the links of the Philadelphia Country Club, Fairmont Park, established a new record today when he got a "fire alarm in one." The ball struck a fire alarm box, broke the little glass window and rolled against the lever. Several fire companies responded to the alarm, but found no fire. The golfer apologized to the firm, the address of which was not learned, and went on his way.

NEW EVIDENCE IN HALL KILLING

Man and Woman Were Near Spot and Heard Voices and Screams

Somerville, N.J., Sept. 10.—Ralph V. Gorsline and Miss Katherine Rastall, both of New Brunswick, N.J., have admitted after a grilling of 11½ hours, that they were within 300 yards of the spot at which the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were killed four years ago. Detectives announced today they had confessed hearing shots, voices and a woman's screams.

Through their confessions the State is expected to secure important corroboration of the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the woman pig raiser, as to what she saw on the night of the murder. Mrs. Gibson recently testified that Mrs. Hall, widow of the pastor, Willie Stevens, her brother, and Henry Carpender, their cousin, all charged with murders, were at the scene of the murder.

The trio have not yet been indicted by the Grand Jury.

UNION JACK FLOWN FOR EVENT AT DUBLIN

Dublin, Sept. 11—The Royal Dublin Society's 1926 Horse Show broke all records of attendance, even that marked by the visit of King George, then Duke of York, in 1897. The chief attraction was the international military jumping competitions.

On the grand stands the national flags were flown, the Union Jack getting a show with the rest. The tricolor of the Saorstat was for the first time officially display over the Governor-General's box. The distinguished foreign visitors included the Maharajah of Alwar, and the Jam Sahib of Nawanagur.

HEAVY ROBBERY NEAR CHICAGO

Mail Thieves Said to Have Seized $500,000 on G. T. R. Line

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 10.—Mail loot estimated at about $500,000 was seized aboard the eastbound Grand Trunk train No. 6 today by three of a band of four robbers who escaped at the southwestern suburb of Evergreen Park without firing a shot.

Later estimates placed the value of loot secured by robbers at from $150,000 to $500,000. One pouch was taken by bandits containing consignments of currency from Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and Union Trust Co., also Chicago Bank. Robbery was executed swiftly and quietly before passengers know what had happened. Mail bags were thrown over heads of mail clerks and tied while robbers carried out the theft.

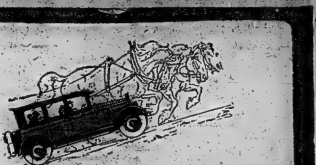

NOW GRANTED HOLIDAY DUE 30 YEARS AGO

London, Sept. 11—The ways of His Majesty's postoffice department are slow but sure. A number of postmen at Bromley, in Kent, have just received notice of holidays due them from ten to thirty years ago.

The men who already have had annual fortnight vacation are trying to get an extra two weeks' pay instead of more holidays. Postmaster Holloway, however, has gone on holidays due him in 1896.

ADDED POWER

FROM THE ENLARGED ENGINE OF THE NEW OLDSMOBILE SIX

THE Oldsmobile Six laughs at hills. It purrs complacently over the rough roads—speeds in swift, silent flight along the open highway. And in traffic you can scarcely think faster than Oldsmobile will act.

In the NEW, improved Oldsmobile Six Engine, with its larger bore, there is power to spare. But, in addition, Oldsmobile offers you an economy and security never before achieved in a car at Oldsmobile prices.

Crankcase dilution, with its attendant loss of efficiency, has been reduced in Oldsmobile Six by the system of Crankcase Ventilation.

By this system, the air from the crankcase is being constantly drawn off through the carburetor, taking with it the vapor and unburned fuel which cause dilution. Before entering the carburetor this air is cleaned, as is the air entering the carburetor from without—two air cleaners are used on the Oldsmobile Six.

An oil filter, improved combustion chamber, two-way cooling system, double valve springs, are but a few of the features that place Oldsmobile Six far in advance of its field.

Standardized Quality

Assures Chrysler Superiority of Performance and Value in the Lighter Six

CHRYSLER 60

CHRYSLER Standardized Quality is a fixed and inflexible quality standard which enforces the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler Cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

It is because of this standardization of quality that the Chrysler "60" gives its sixty miles, and more, per hour; unprecedented get-away; gas economy of 26 miles and more per gallon; the smartness of Chrysler beauty; astonishing gliding ease and roadability; the safety of Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes; oil-filter and air-cleaner; full pressure lubrication; screw-bearing crankshaft; impulse neutralizer; road levellers front and rear; roomy, luxurious bodies.

Never before has the motoring public been offered such supreme quality and value—in the field of the lower-priced six. For no other manufacturer has been able to match Quality Standardization with its inescapable advantages which enable even the inexperienced motorist to buy the higher-priced or lowest-priced Chrysler with the assurance that the value in each is unquestionable.

See the lighter six, Chrysler "60". Drive it. Convince yourself that nowhere will you find a six in the lower-priced field that can begin to compare with this great Chrysler achievement.

CONGRESS SEES WET V. DRY FIGHT

To Introduce Stricter Dry Legislation — Several Controversies

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11. (By John Sauer, Canadian Press Correspondent)—All signs point to a bitter battle in Congress the coming session over the wet and dry issues. The feeling on this subject was intense enough in Congress in the last session but it promises to grow worse instead of better.

One reason is that the wet and dry question is at the front in the present campaign in a number of states. New York is an illustration. There, the controversy over a referendum on liquor is hot; also the drys are out to try to beat Senator Wadsworth.

Similar illustrations might be given as to a number of other states, as well as various congressional districts. The Ohio fight between Senator Willis dry, and Former Senator Allen Pomerene, wet, is conspicuous.

Whether the wets or the drys will gain in the elections in the different states in November is anybody's guess. Probabilities are both sides will claim gains, just as they did two years ago.

In any event, the feeling over the prohibition question will not be assuaged by the controversies of the campaign but will be accentuated.

Moreover, Senator Lincoln C. Andrews has given notice he will remain at the head of the prohibition organization for the present instead of resigning, as expected. Politicians say this is because the Republican chiefs do not want him to embarrass the administration and the party by quitting in the midst of the campaign. General Andrews is going to urge stricter dry legislation next session. He will ask the passage of the Golf bill and other legislation.

King: "Gosh! I wish I hadn't sat down so hard on that lid!"

DRYS FORECAST ARID CONGRESS

Predictions Based on Primary — Assail State Referenda

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11. (By John Sauer, Canadian Press Correspondent)—The drys are already claiming the next Congress. Not only that, but they predict the next Congress will have substantially the same number of drys as the present Congress. In other words, they expect it to be strongly against the wets.

Predictions of this nature have been made by Anti-Saloon League chiefs and other dry leaders. They base them largely on results of the primaries thus far. Their analysis of the primary results, both in making nominations for the House and the Senate, tends to indicate the nomination of so many drys that it is quite clear the wets will be unable to gain control of either branch of Congress. As a matter of fact, no well-informed observer of the situation has had any notion the wets would gain control of either House of Senate at this time, although some of the enthusiastic wets have made predictions of a great upheaval in this year's elections.

The real question which is yet unanswered is whether the wets substantial gains in the November elections. It will be impossible to tell this until the ballots are counted and an analysis of the membership of the new Congress made. While the drys insist they will control the new Congress in the same degree as they control the present one, the wet leaders by no means concede it.

Gains by the wets will quite evidently not be such as to enable them to control either branch of Congress but on the other hand if the wets should make considerable gains the moral and political effects as well as legislative effects would be far from negligible. Gains in strength in Congress would unquestionably increase the militancy of the wets and would lead them to enter att once on a campaign to make still further head way in 1928. If the drys gain in strength in the face of all the efforts of the wets this year, the result can hardly fail to be a backset to the wets, while highly encouraging to the drys.

LIVES OVER STORE NOW BUT EXPECTS TO INHERIT WEALTH

Kewanee, Ill., Sept. 9.—John Cooper, an Iron Worker, expects to come into a fortune and greater happiness for his wife and four children when he attains his 33rd birthday on Sept. 13. On that day, he says, he will inherit a huge Virginian estate, reported by Wilmington, Del., attorneys as consisting of $5,200,000 in cash and securities, and 1,600 acres in the Shenandoah Valley.

The family now lives above a grocery store. The fortune, Cooper says, is the Bradford estate, left him by his grandmother Mrs. Mary Bradford.

CANADA GOOD MARKET FOR U.S. AUTO PARTS

Dominion Imports $23,000,000 in Six Months—Argentina, Japan, Belgium Next Best Customers

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11. (By John Sauer, Canadian Press Correspondent)—Canada is the leading market for the export of automobile parts from the United States. This is shown by a Department of Commerce report on automotive products which has just been issued.

The value of parts and accessories of automotive vehicles, exclusive of engines and tires, exported from the United States in the first six months of the year was $50,300,383, or 37.5 per cent. of the total automotive exports for the period amounting to $183,966,573. This is a marked increase over the first half of 1925.

Of six items considered in a statistical study by the Department of Commerce, Canada was the leading market in the first six months of 1926 for four of the items, including the major ones in point of export valuation, namely: parts for passenger cars, parts for assembly, parts for replacement, and accessories.

The figures show this country in the first six months of 1926 exported to Canada 45,344 automobile engines for passenger use valued at $4,990,148 and 3,300 engines for trucks and buses valued at $176,810. In that time, parts for assembly exported to Canada were valued at $18,332,366, and parts for replacement at $1,576,782, while accessories and service appliances were valued at $1,418,944. This totals in round numbers $22,000,000.

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Eaton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the stores. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. VICTOR RICHARDSON, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Back

Better than Ever—

Following their traditional policy of constant improvement with no yearly models, Dodge Brothers, during the past eight months, have vastly bettered their motor cars in many vital respects.

Indeed, there has never been an equal period in Dodge Brothers history when so many refinements of a popular and fundamental nature have been made.

The public is registering its appreciation of this progressive industrial service by purchasing every motor car Dodge Brothers can build—in spite of the fact that Dodge Brothers production, during these months, has broken all previous records by an impressive margin.

Ask your Chevrolet dealer about the GMAC Plan of buying a car on time.

Value Means More than Price Alone!

THE price of a car is what you pay—the value is what you get. Value is the combination of Quality and Price.

Notwithstanding the recent remarkable reductions in Chevrolet prices, Chevrolet does not aim to be the cheapest car in its class. It does aim —and is justly considered—the greatest value in its class.

The smooth Chevrolet is outstanding value, not only because it costs you less—but because it gives you more —more smoothness of performance —more power and speed—more instant acceleration—more striking beauty of line and finish—more richness of upholstery—more completeness of appointments.

To pay less than the price of the smooth Chevrolet is to sacrifice quality. To pay more, for a car in the Chevrolet class, is needless extravagance.

The Smoothest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history is selling at the Lowest Price for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.

The Old Love Or New?

He hurried downstairs to the doctor, who had come at once in answer to his call, and hurriedly explained matters to him; and Dr. Deroches swallowed his pride, and consented to pass for an old friend, who, hearing of Captain Brinley's arrival, had dropped in, and they went upstairs together.

Roy received the doctor with indifference. His presence in no way interfered with his restless perambulations; and when the physician attempted to converse with him, he answered shortly, cheerily, and at random.

"Why can't that fellow tell us what we want?" he exclaimed, impatiently, as the waiter did not return, and pulling the bell furiously, he again summoned him to the room.

"Have you found out the information I required?" he said, sagely, as the man appeared.

"But yes, monsieur," was the reply. "A lady and gentleman arrived here this morning from the boat."

"Well?"

"They remained the day here, monsieur, and left by the five o'clock train for Calais."

"Baffled again," said Roy, with something very like an oath. "We must follow at once. When is the next train for Calais?"

"There is none before the mail at nine, monsieur; but that is a fast train, and will take you in forty-five minutes."

"We must wait for that," said Captain Brinley, quietly. "Meanwhile haste the dinner; we are famished."

Dr. Deroches dined with them, and watched Roy narrowly during the meal. He ate nothing, did not even make a pretense of joining them; but sat drumming with his wineglass on the table, and answered at random whenever they addressed him, while ever and again he looked at his watch and impatiently compared it with the large gilt three-piece decorating a console in the room.

After dinner, Dr. Deroches arose to take leave, and Captain Brinley followed him downstairs.

"You are quite right," the doctor said, gravely. "Your friend is, I fear, in for an attack of brain fever, which threatens to be serious. The only chance for him, monsieur, is the exhaustion which seems to be overcoming him. I do not think you had better thwart him, and his strength won't hold out much past Calais. Induce him to stay there tonight, and I will give you a prescription for an opiate. There's just a chance of his escaping the fever. I would go with you if I could spare the time," he added, as Dick thanked him. "But I cannot."

"I am very much obliged to you, doctor," said Captain Brinley, warmly.

"Not at all—not at all. I am truly sorry for the poor fellow. His youth is in his favor; for he's only a gaby, yet. These women are at the bottomof every thing," grumbled Dr. Deroches. "There is one thing more I can do for you," he went on, pausing at the door. "I will telegraph to a colleague of mine to meet you at the station, and he will do everything in his power for you."

"A thousand thanks," said Captain Brinley; and as the doctor took his leave, he ordered a carriage and paid the bill.

It is time to start, Roy," he said, returning to his friend, and Roy arose to go, with a feverish impatience which contrasted with the unsteadiness of his movements, which were feeble in the extreme.

The train for Calais was tolerably full, and it was with some difficulty that Dick secured a couple for himself and his friend. They were celebrating some historical anniversary in the old French town—in fact, the town was held each year possession of—and people were pouring in from the adjoining departments, so that on arrival at the Calais station it proceeded, late as it was, an almost bustling appearance.

Springing out of the carriage, Captain Brinley was accosted by a pleasant-mannered young Frenchman, who introduced himself as Dr. Maurin, the friend of Dr. Deroches, and Dick, who was growing more and more anxious about Roy every moment, was rejoiced to see him, and, enlisting his services, told him their business at Calais.

Dr. Maurin, with a compassionately shrug of his shoulders, and a look of pity at Roy, went to the chef de gare, whom he knew, to beg him to make inquiries, while, mingling with the travelers, Captain Brinley and Roy endeavored to obtain some tidings. It was no easy matter, for the confusion and noise were very great. An express for Belgium was about to leave the station, and porters were rushing hither and thither, calling out and gesticulating, giving directions to one, admonishing another to get out of the way, and shouting amicable speeches in that shrill voice, and with that volubility which generally produces a stranger to think Frenchmen are quarrelling.

At last in the refreshment-room they got a clew; a lady and gentleman arriving from Boulogne; had remained there for some hours; the lady being very ill, apparently suffering from extreme fatigue—so ill indeed that a doctor—M. le Docteur Marsaun, had been called.

"Here is M. de docteur," the waiter exclaimed, at this juncture; and the doctor entered in much haste.

"Come this way, monsieurs," he exclaimed; "they are here, but they leave almost at once by the Belgian express."

They followed rapidly. Captain Brinley watching Roy closely, while the grasp of the latter on his arm grew almost painful. A porter running along the platform was closing the doors, and Maurin pointed to a group of three persons—a gentleman, a lady and a guard—who were standing by an open door hesitating.

"Les voilà! they are there!" he exclaimed, excitedly; and Roy dashed forward.

At this moment another official utterod an imperative, "Take your seats, ladies and gentlemen—take your seats!" and Annett's companion hurriedly assisted her into the carriage, sprang in himself, and the guard, slamming the door, rushed to his own compartment, and the train was off.

Dr. Maurin uttered an exclamation of disappointment. Captain Brinley almost swore, although he felt some relief at the encounter being temporarily avoided. The feeling was, however, but momentary, for at this moment his attention was claimed by Roy, who stood still, turning as white as death as the train disappeared. Then a hoarse, inarticulate cry broke from his lips; he staggered a few steps forward, striking his hand to his head with an expression of acute pain, and fell backward senseless into Dick's outstretched arms.

CHAPTER XII.

AT LAVAL

I dare say that many of my readers are familiar with the quaint old city of Laval, the capital of a prosperous little German state noted for its love of the fine arts and its encouragement of them. It is one of the cleanest and most prosperous cities in the whole of Europe, and a newcomer cannot fail to be struck by the solidity and stateliness, not only of its public buildings, but of its private houses, and the air of wealth which pervades it. The city itself is divided into two parts, the Old Town and the New; the latter is, of course, the most beautiful and most fashionable of the two divisions, but the former is infinitely the most artistic and interesting, besides being far cheaper in every respect, which is the reason perhaps that it is so much frequented by the artistic and musical class of both sexes who throng to Laval on account of its Academy of Music or Conservatoire, as the Lavallois call it.

Most of the public buildings of any eminence are in the New Town, the opera, the fashionable theatres and music-halls, the boulevards and promenades; but in the Old Town, if you miss all these as well as the gay madonna of all kinds, you cannot fail to be struck with the quiet, almost solemn, aspect of the fine old houses, the wide squares, and broad streets. It seems to be too respectable and solemn to be the resort of artists, actors, and musicians, but nevertheless it is so, and most of the houses in the Old Town are inhabited by these Bohemians and the professors who instruct them in their arts.

In the Interest of the Liberal Party Itself It Is Time for a Change

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier had led the Liberal Party from 1921 to 1926

1. Would he have played the coward, afraid during a period of two years to act upon the friendly warnings of gross corruption in the Customs Department of his Government?
2. Would he have tolerated the retention of the Department's arch-corruptor as Chief Preventive Officer at Montreal, after that man's shameless record had been definitely placed before him by an association of business men?
3. Would he have appointed the Minister whom he knew had by connivance and collusion been a party to an intolerable scandal to the Senate at a salary of $4,000 a year for life?
4. Would he have refused even a hearing to a Conservative candidate who presented to the House of Commons the judgment of a judge of the Supreme Court of Alberta, reporting that his seat had been stolen? Would he have clung to power by a majority of one and by virtue of a stolen seat, while the malefactor who did the trick was an inmate of an Alberta penitentiary?
5. Would he have demeaned the high traditions of his office by asking for dissolution solely to escape a vote of censure thereby arrogating to himself the right to muzzle Parliament?

Not one word of criticism has been heard from the Investigation Committee on the Customs Administration of the Laurier Government, nor of the Borden Government, nor of the Meighen Government. All the Customs Department's records were before the Committee during their five months of sittings when the Liberal-Progressive majority delved and sweated, and failed to find even one charge against the Borden-Meighen Administrations of 1911 to 1921.

Crop Reports Awaited By Chicago Dealers Before They Plunge

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Clearing of rain clouds from the Canadian Northwest offset the strength in the Liverpool market here. Many farmers were said to be holding back their grain until after the issuance of the American and Canadian Government crop reports. One prediction was that the Canadian Government report would show a yield of not less than 350,000,000 bushels for the three prairie provinces and that the report of the Winnipeg Free Press would be about 20,000,000 bushels over that total.

EXPORTS TO BRITAIN INCREASE 107 MILLIONS IN PAST 12 MONTHS

Great Britain, Sept. 10.—An increase of $107,554,885 in the value of Canadian domestic goods exported to Great Britain during the twelve months ending July 31st last, as compared with the preceding twelve month period, is shown in trade summaries issued through the Dominion bureau of statistics. Exports of Canadian produce to Great Britain during the twelve months ended July 31 last reached a total valuation of $342,864,822, while for the corresponding period ended July 31, 1925, they amounted to $235,309,937. Imports from the United Kingdom during twelve months under review were valued at $162,349,513 as against $154,467,625 in twelve months ended July 31, 1925.

To the Electors of South Hastings.

On Tuesday, September 14th, the electors of South Hastings, in common interest with Canadians in all constituencies in Canada, will have the opportunity to vote into power a good stable government, which Canada has needed so badly during the past five years.

As candidate in South Hastings of the Liberal-Conservative party and a supporter of its Leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, may I ask my fellow electors in this great and historic riding, with its fine British traditions, to record their votes in behalf of the cause I represent, so that Canada may be governed by a Canada-first policy, and enter upon the era of prosperity which will follow.

Time will not permit me, as much as I would like to do so, to personally meet as many of the electors before election day, as a longer period would make possible, since it was not definitely known earlier that there would be a contest in this riding. I must therefore reach as many as possible by this medium, and I wish to sincerely solicit the votes of all men and women electors who desire to do their bit in the establishment of good government and thereby bring about a better condition in the administration of the affairs of Canada.

Great issues are at stake in the present election, and citizens in all walks of life are called upon to express their condemnation of the discredited government of former Premier King.

I wish to state that I stand solidly behind the Conservative Leader and Prime Minister and the policies he has enunciated in Parliament and during the present campaign. Especially do I want to say that I endorse his policy in regard to the Canadian National Railway, believing that its existence is necessary in the development of Canada, which if given proper stimulus will show marked progress.

Before the close of the campaign I shall discuss the more important issues at a series of fifteen meetings in this riding, and I hope to receive such support as will enable me to return to a seat in Parliament and there aid in the great work for Canada likely to be carried on by the Conservative party.

In conclusion now may I quote from my speech at the Conservative convention when I was chosen as standard-bearer of the party, and when I said:

"What does the Conservative Party offer. We offer a strong, stable Government of men, sincerely believing our policy will promote general prosperity and contentment, a policy that will lead the Dominion on the road to its true place in the family of nations. We believe in a 'Canada First' policy, a policy that will keep for the farmer of Canada his natural market in Canadian towns and cities to give to the business men of Canada protection against the cheap labour of other countries and to give to the Canadian workman decent standards of living and a surety and diversity of employment in his own land.

"We believe that the Canadian farmer and the Canadian business man should have the same hold upon the markets of Canada, that the United States farmers and business man have upon the markets of the United States. That the workman should have the same chance for employment, for the support and education of his family in his own country as the United States workman has in his country.

"These and more, we declare for honesty and efficiency in the country's business. We believe that fraud, dishonesty, corruption, inefficiency and maladministratoin should be condemned.

Yours faithfully,
W. E. TUMMON.

PETER MOORES ENLARGES STORE DEMAND GROWS

Finest Ice Cream and Candy Made on The Premises!

Nine years ago this month Peter Moore opened his Ice Cream and Candy business in the Anglo-American Building on Front Street; during those years the people of Belleville and district have shown a constant and ever growing appreciation of the efforts of "Moores" to manufacture Ice Cream that was "just a little richer and better" and Home-made candies that were purer and cheaper.

That the efforts of this firm have met with gratifying success has been apparent, just alone, in the development of the business over those nine years, but more so in the announcement of the firm of its intended expansion, for Moores' are next Wednesday to commence extensive alterations on their store which will enlarge and beautify it into one of the most attractive and up-to-date Ice Cream and Candy stores in this part of the country.

In the first place the store will be widened; in place of the one display window it now has, the store will have sufficient additional width to permit of having two large windows in the front with a centre entrance. Inside, the server all feet additional width will allow a better display of the famous Homemade and boxed candy stock of this firm. On one side will be located the candy cases and on the other the soda fountain. New wall cases finished in mahogany will add to the attractiveness of the interior, which will be beautifully decorated throughout, resulting in one of the most up-to-date establishments of its kind in the city.

The alteration and expansion work will take a week or ten days to complete during which the store will be closed.

In the rear of the building—the candy making department—renovation has been in progress for some time, and improvements added which will help Moores' maintain and improve the well-known quality of their homemade candies. A new gas candy furnace has been installed and the most sanitary and up-to-date equipment is used throughout. In connection with this, it is interesting to note that the Provincial Sanitary Inspector, after looking over the premises recently, gave Moores a first class report, and stated that in the matter of sanitation and cleanliness, Moores Candy Kitchen was the equal of any he had seen.

The new store will thus be a distinct acquisition to Belleville's Business Houses and one the citizens may be proud of. The result of an honest endeavour to combine quality with service and lowest prices over a period of years, on the part of this firm.Moores new and bigger store will be, better than ever before, be in a position to offer people of Belleville and District the finest of Homemade Candies and Ice Cream and real service, the combination which has made possible the present expansion.

Entire Fingal community turned out on day recently to clean and beautify the cemetery.

The grain crops in the west made a good start, but as summer advanced deficient rainfall and high temperatures inflicted some damage in parts of Saskatchewan

MAKING CLOTHES FOR SAME MAN OVER 20 YEARS

Crown Tailoring Co. Gives Satisfactory Service as This Proves

Do you know of any man, who, for as long a period of twenty years, has had his clothes tailored for him by the same firm? And if you do know such a man, you'll surely agree that he was satisfied, he was assuring just about his ideal in the clothes line. Well we do know of such a man, and more than that one; in this district, men who for twenty years, have been wearing clothes made for them by the Crown Tailoring Company.

Twenty-six years ago, in the city of Toronto, Wm. J. Broadham, along with a few business associates, conceived the idea of selling direct from manufacturer to wearer, through exclusive representatives, garments being made-to-measure clothes. (In Belleville at the present time, Mr. F. Fitzgerald is the representative for Crown Clothes).

This new method of merchandising eliminating all the usual middlemen's profits gave the men of Canada, regardless of where they lived, stylish, quality clothing, hand tailored to their individual measurements, at prices that made a new standard of value giving—and thus the Crown Tailoring Company Limited was founded.

And today, the value giving idea on which the company was based, has brought about its expansion, until today, with several hundred exclusive representatives serving thousands of customers from coast to coast, the company is now one of the largest and best known custom tailoring houses in Canada.

Mr. Fitzgerald local representative is displaying the new Fall and Winter Samples which have just arrived, and includes a most attractive line in colors and materials both in suitings and over coatings. It should be borne in mind by prospective buyers that every Crown garment is hand tailored by experienced needlemen—there is no driving through whirling machines at so much a dozen. Carefully, each suit or coat is fashioned to the exact measurement of its owner, thus insuring a perfect fitting garment, and long life.

Moreover, it has always been the policy of the Crown Tailoring Company to design the widest variety of new styles—but they must always be of good taste—sensible styles and patterns, whether for young men or older men.

Combining as they do these features it is small wonder that in Belleville and District, as elsewhere, "Crown" Clothes are a favorite and constantly becoming more popular.

QUINTE PEOPLE DID FOUNTAIN

Visitors at the Belleville Fair last week were struck particularly with the lighting arrangements on the new fountain and on the Exhibition Gates. A varied dislay of colored lights made the new fountain one of the prettiest sights of the Fair.

The wiring and arrangement of the fountain and gates were the work of the Quinte Electricians, experts in this line of work. The firm did a rush job on this work and made a real effort to have it completed before the Fair began.

U. S. TOURISTS LIKE DOUGHNUTS AT TARLINGTON'S

Delicious and Delightful They Bear International Repute

To be selling something which representatives from practically every State in the Union to the south of us relish, and for which they stop again and again on their way through Belleville, tab the distinction of Tarlington's Doughnut Shop on Front Street. During the past few tourist seasons, Tarlington's doughnuts have gained increasing favour with American visitors to Belleville.

And it is an actual fact that summer after summer these customers drop in to Tarlington's seeking to taste again the delicious doughnuts they had obtained here on a previous trip. All this, not without reason, either, for local citizens, regular users of these delicious cakes, can readily understand the reason of their popularity among visitors.

Purity of ingredients and absolute cleanliness in the making produce ideal results and Tarlington's strive these points. And best of all, you can see for yourself how they're made—just look in the window next time you're passing. Even then a few seconds on an electrically heated stove—you may buy them hot—right off the stove and deliciously browned. These are the doughnuts that are giving Tarlington's an International reputation.

CHRYSLER'S "50" ON DISPLAY HERE WELL BUILT CAR

Combines Features New to Machine at the Price

Description of the new Chrysler "50" on display at Riggs' Garage, reveals a combination of features, new to the field of low cost motor cars, which are calculated by the Chrysler Corporation to place it rapidly in the forefront among automobiles selling at its price.

Those features the company points out, were made possible largely through its recently announced policy of Quality Standardization for all Chrysler cars—an ideal that Walter P. Chrysler has been working toward since the announcement of the first Chrysler Product nearly three years ago.

They include unusual body roominess and comfort, remarkably high gasoline mileage and other economy advantages, unusually smooth engine power and ruggedness, easy handling and speed with comfort up to the car's maximum. They indicate scientific engineering and research work with respect to space engineering, body dimensions, dynamic symmetry of design and appearance of the bodies, and the same study with regard to valve size, location, timing shape of combustion chamber and other engine developments that go to make up a highly efficient, economical power plant, yielding unusual performance.

The L-head type engine is extremely smooth in operation, besides retaining all the characteristic traditional four cylinder advantages. Transmission of its power to the rear wheels with minimum loss has been accomplished by hanging the engine low in the frame to give straight-line drive to the driving mechanism.

The engine has a 3 5-8 inch bore and 4 1-4 inch stroke. Its rated horse power is 21.03, with an actual of 38. Piston displacement is 170.3 cubic inches. In line with Chrysler practice of suspending the engine free from the frame to prevent the transmission of road shocks to it, its front end is cradled on a semi-elliptic steel spring. This is bolted to the gear case cover, with the spring ends resting on the frame cross member, thus liberally floating the engine front end in the frame. This arrangement also absorbs the torque impulses. Rear suspension is by steel brackets riveted to the arms on the flywheel housing.

Lubrication is exceptionally through. Reciprocating parts are actually floated with oil at all speeds. Full force fabrication is provided to all crankshaft and connecting rod bearings from the pump. Spray from a small hole in each connecting rod bearing, lubricated each cylinder wall, piston pin, camshaft bearing and entire valve operating mechanism. All other reciprocating engine parts are lubricated by positive spray from the same source, or from the front crankshaft bearing.

SPECIAL PISTONS USED

Cylinders are cast on bloc, integral with crankcase, with heavy cross web construction for the rotate main bearing support. Walls are both reamed and honed for glassy, long wearing qualities. Cylinder head and oil pan are removable to permit easy access to all moving parts.

FINDS BUSINESS IS SATISFACTORY

General Conditions Sound With Reports From All Sources Good

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 11 (Financial)—The monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada for September says:—

"The general course of business so far this year has been very satisfactory in practically all branches and gives much assurance as to the substantial soundness of its foundations. The tangible figures of trade and transportation which they have come in have shown general gain as over the previous year. Freight car loadings between the first of January and the 14th of August, the latest available date, total 1,940,721 against 1,-698,81 for the same period in 1925, increase over last year being in grain, coal, forest products, merchandise and miscellaneous freight. Bank debits to individual accounts, which constitute a good index to the volume of current business, are running well above the totals of 1925, and for the first six months of the year show a gain of more than 13 per cent.

"The major manufacturing industries have been generally on a more satisfactory level of operations. The iron and steel industry is holding up much better than last year, as the result of a renewal of railroad equipment buying and the greater activities of the agricultural implement and automobile manufacturers. The cotton textile industry has been well sustained with orders, although the volume of placing business has been affected by unsettled price conditions.

"The influence of the better agricultural purchasing power which has been felt throughout the industries has been augmented by the heavy expenditures that have been made in building and construction work, especially industrial and hydro electric developments.

"The most important factor in the business outlook at this time of the year is, of course, the agricultural situation.

GREAT TUMMON RALLY AT GRIFFINS TONIGHT

NAPANEE HEARS HUGH GUTHRIE

Just as Big an Audience There as For Ex-Premier King

MR. HUBBS POPULAR

Conservative Candidate is Given Ovation as He Speaks

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, speaking at Napanee on Saturday night, packed the Armories with as large an assembly as that which assembled the previous evening to hear the leader of the opposition party, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, and, those arriving a little late were unable to gain entrance and had to content themselves with seats at the open windows of the building from which Mr. Guthrie spoke.

CHEERS FOR HUBBS.

Mr. John Hubbs, the Conservative candidate for the riding, was given an ovation when he arose, and on mention that no one was left in the slightest doubt as to the way things are going in Napanee. Mr. Hersey, the previous evening, had been given a hearty welcome as "a splendid speaker" and a man respected and admired. Mr. Hubbs' appearance plainly indicated that the electorate added to those attributes their confidence in his ability.

A FEW FACTS

With deadly earnestness, Mr. Guthrie exposed every angle of the customs scandal and justified the fact that he stuck to that inasmuch as it was the customs scandal and only the customs scandal which had brought this present election to a head. The people might have been forced to accept the maladministration of the King Government if the scandal had not occurred. He showed that Mr. King had been cognizant of the way affairs were being run but had refrained from interfering in the deadly favor of losing support. Mr. King, the speaker said, carried the Duncan report, waved it melodramatically from the platform and inferred it cleared the situation but not once opened the pamphlet with the damning evidence.

MRS. FALLIS

Mrs. Horace Fallis who followed Mr. Guthrie, tore the Robb budget to pieces, ridiculed King's sales tax "amendments" which were all directed at blinding the people and reminded the audience that while the Robb drove cars, and the removal of the tax was acceptable to them, every mortal in the electorate has to wear clothes—including King's brigade—in removing the tax from the luxury of the few and leaving the sales tax on the necessity of the many, was class legislation.

STEVENS DENIES THE SIGNATURE

Writing at Bottom of Chicago Oil Letter a Forgery

Vancouver, B. C., September 12.—"The whole statement is a tissue of unmitigated lies," declared the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, last night when his attention was drawn to a statement of the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in Ottawa Saturday night, when the Liberal leader was reported as having stated that Hon. Mr. Stevens had been "read out of the party" by the Province, "the newspaper which is supporting Mr. Stevens in Vancouver."

"The whole thing is unutterably false," declared the Minister of Customs. "The Province in most critical editorials has supported me and has advised people for serious reasons to vote for me."

"The whole statement," Mr. Stevens concluded, in reference to Liberal Leader's remarks, "is a tissue of unmitigated lies."

Ottawa, September 12.—The photographic copies of the letter alleged to have been written by Hon. H. H. Stevens, on House of Commons paper in Chicago to the Canadian U. S. Oil & Refining Company, in 1922, which copies are being placed before the public by Mackenzie King, and his supporters in their campaign against Mr. Stevens, are not authentic, according to telegrams from Mr. Stevens received here. The Minister of Customs declares that the alleged signature of the letter is not his signature and that he has no recollection of ever having used House of Commons notepaper in Chicago.

KING IS HECKLED AT OTTAWA MEET

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Sustaining its reputation for impartiality in its treatment of political leaders, this city accorded Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King a good reception on his return Saturday night from his campaign tour o ithe country. One of the large est audiences that ever attended a political meeting in his honor in the Auditorium, it was considerably larger than the meeting which Right Hon. Arthur Meighen addressed in the the same hall a week earlier, but one reason for this fact was that that the Prime Minister spoke on the Saturday evening before the Labor Day holiday when thousands of people had left the city.

Although the King meeting was larger than that for Mr. Meighen, the Liberal leader's reception was not in all respects as encouraging as that of the Premier the previous Saturday. While Mr. Meighen held his entire audience throughout his address, and received an attentive hearing as many as fifteen hundred or two thousand people left the auditorium in the middle of Mr. King's speech, and he was subjected to considerable heckling throughout the two hours he spoke. At times unsympathetic elements combined to prevent his being heard. However, he was loudly acclaimed when he entered the hall at ten o'clock, and when he concluded his speech on the stroke of midnight.

SANDBANKS BRICK IS SEEN IN BELLEVILLE

Some beautiful specimens of the sand and lime brick being manufactured by the Wellington Sand and Lime Brick Company were brought to the city today and after a revelation of the products of this newly founded industry. The sand, used in the manufacture of the brick is taken from the famous Sandbanks and is converted into the finished brick by a totally different process from that employed in ordinary brick. Instead of being finished by the customary oven baking, it is steam-cooked, and as a direct out, blenches to an ever whitening color. It is expected that the new brick will be used in several buildings in Belleville soon.

A RECORD AT "EX."

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Total attendance at the Exhibition was 1,573,000 creating a new record.

NEW PRINCIPAL OF ALBERT BIDS HIS CONGREGATION FAREWELL

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Rev. Chas. W. Bishop, M.A., minister of Sherbourne Street United Church, who recently accepted the principalship of Albert College, Belleville, returned to Toronto on Sunday and preached his farewell sermon to his former congregation. At the morning service he took for his subject the same text upon which he preached when he started his ministry at Sherbourne Street Church three years ago last July. The subject was: "Christian fellowship," and the text: "And truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son, Jesus Christ." 1st John, 1: 3.

"Tracing the history of Christian fellowship, beginning with the life of Christ, Mr. Bishop emphasized what an important part it played in the life of the early church, and pointed out the possibilities in the life of the church of today. These possibilities, he said, had relation to Christian worship, the fellowship of worship and the working out of the problems of truth. The view taken by Mr. Bishop was that Christian fellowship was more important than the religious opinions of people. He believed that Christian fellowship was the only way to reconcile the divisions in the church today between fundamentalists and modernists. The only way they could find out what was the truth was to meet together in the spirit of Christian fellowship.

MEIGHEN QUICK TO TURN LAUGH UPON HECKLERS

Many Interruptions at Windsor Ont., Saturday Night

Windsor, Ont., September 13.—In his opening moments, Premier Meighen's meeting at Windsor Saturday night gave promise of a lively evening. Introductory speakers were greeted with heckling following by rounds of applause. But for the most part, the Prime Minister made his speech with comparatively little interruption. Yet there were hecklers in evidence.

"What about Stevens' conduct?" sharply questioned one, in reference to Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of customs.

"Mr. Stevens' conduct is as honorable as that of any man in the city of Windsor or anywhere in Canada," retorted Mr. Meighen. "I want to discuss real matters affecting the public. I am going to do it and I won't be stopped by any blatant noise."

COLD-BLOODED FALSEHOOD

Mr. Meighen touched on the reported statement by Hon. R. B. Bennett, Minister of Finance, that he did not propose to float the Hudson Bay Railway. He touched too on the telegram from ex-Premier Drury of Ontario asking if it was true that Right Meighen had stated he "despised" Progressives.

"I have now traversed the whole of the nine provinces," Mr. Meighen began, and most of the 240 counties in those provinces and I think you will do me the credit of saying that I am not in the habit of "despising" anybody. Therefore, I take the responsibility of saying this—every word of which I mean—the swing of victory is with the Conservative party in this Dominion."

(Applause interrupted Mr. Meighen's statement.)

H. H. STEVENS SUES THE STAR

Alleged Libel Claimed By Publication of Chicago Letter

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12.—On behalf of the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs in the government of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, and Conservative candidate in Vancouver Centre in the action was issued by J.R.L. Starr, K.C., acting for Mr. Stevens.

TOURISTS HATED BY EUROPEANS IF FROM U.S.A.

Belleville Man Abroad Sees Evidence of This and Reason

Mr. H. W. Ackerman while on a recent trip through Northwestern Europe, met several evidences of the reason tourists, and particularly American tourists, are regarded with extreme disfavor, as he told the Rotary Club today in a brief address, outlining his journey.

This time he was not in France but while in Germany and Belgium he could not help but see that a feeling existed. Once he and members of his party were identified as Canadians it made all the difference in the world. Americans flaunted all the rules of etiquette and substituted social customs of their own in France and elsewhere and thus were quite openly and sincerely hated, he said.

With Mrs. Ackerman and lodge and Mrs. Deroche, he did the trip to the North Cape, extreme point of Norway, and saw the midnight sun. On the way home they visited Stockholm, Copenhagen, Berlin, Dresden, Maynence, Cologne, Brussels, Bruges and Ostend, crossing by air to London.

GALT BOYS BAND KIWANIS FEATURE

Famous Musical Organization Secured For Karnival

The visit of the Galt Kiwanis Boys' Band to Belleville on the first two days of next week will be a real event and should prove two purposeful. It will help the Kiwanis Carnival off to a real start and at the same time show the musical-loving boys of Belleville just what can be done in the way of organizing a band. Not one of those boys is over 18 years of age, but under the tutoring of their talented bandmaster they have developed into one of the best organization of its kind on the continent. They are attending the opening of the Kiwanis Convention in Toronto on Monday morning and will arrive in Belleville in time to give a band concert on the armouries lawn previous to the official opening of the Carnival. They will also render band concerts in the armouries immediately following the style show on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

THREE WERE KILLED IN BLAST ON VESSEL

Yokohama, Sept. 13.—Three persons were killed, fourteen seriously injured and twenty-four slightly injured in an explosion on the steamer Koyo Maru in harbor here today.

The ship had docked for repairs, it was sunk following the explosion to prevent fire spreading to other ships. The Koyo Maru was a vessel of 5,471 gross tons.

AT POST OFFICE

The Post Office will close tomorrow at 1 o'clock, as Election Day is an official half-holiday. There will be only one delivery of mail. Box holders may get their mail by calling for it, but the general delivery will be closed in the afternoon as will the money order, stamp and registry wickets.

SEES TOO MANY BOOKS; PUBLIC IS READING LESS SIR GILBERT GIVES VIEWS

New York, September 13. — Before sailing yesterday for England on the Leviathan, of the United States Lines Sir Gilbert Parker, British novelist, and a native of Belleville, Ont., said that too many books were written and published both here and in England.

"I think it is dreadful," he continued. "I suppose there are three times as many new books and magazines published today as there were thirty years ago. I think the multiplicity of books and magazines is injurious to thinking. The public are selecting their books less carefully this thirty years and they are assimilating less from what they read. There are too many authors overwriting."

Sir Gilbert asserted that the average new book does not have as large a sale as the average book published thirty years ago, a condition he attributed to automobiles, radio and the films. He recalled that his book: "The Right of Way," published in 1901, had a sale of one million copies in the United States alone."

ELECTION NEWS SERVICE

The Intelligencer Election News Service will as in 1925 be as complete as it is possible to make it. City returns will be gathered by a corps of messengers. Country returns will be by special arrangements over the telephone. Dominion returns will be supplied by Canadian Press over a special leased wire.

The Intelligencer will bulletin returns as they come by lantern slides on Front street while phones 36 and 1248 will answer inquiries. Returns are expected to commence a few minutes after six o'clock, Standard Time. The office will remain open until midnight to answer phone queries.

Extra editions of the Intelligencer will be published giving returns up to within five minutes of publication.

LODGE ITALIANS IN HALIFAX PIER

108 Men Dumped Ashore By Italian Boat All Arrested

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 13.—The party of one hundred and two Italians from the island of Sicily rounded up during the night and early this morning by immigration authorities and officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who brought to Halifax this morning by train and lodged in the immigration premises at Pier two, there to remain under guard pending instructions from Ottawa.

Shortly before the arrival of the train at the Immigration shed, six other Italians who had been picked up on St. Margarets Bay road while enroute to the city, were brought to Pier two by police officers, making a total of 108.

The story told by the bewildered men was to the effect that they had paid between two and six thousand lira apiece for the passage from Marseilles to New York and that when the steamer cast anchor in St. Margarets Bay, the Captain told them to "draw up steady," as they were only three miles from Halifax which they understood was a United States port. One of the Italians acted as the interpreter that he and his comrades had left their homes in Sicily to seek employment in the United States. They had, he declared, sold practically all their belongings to raise their passage.

NEW SENSATION IN TEMPLE CASE

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 13.—The Examiner, in a copyrighted story today says Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, MacPherson, 2,318 a week seamstress, has confessed that her story of having shared the seaside cottage at Carmel, with the latter, the announcement by Mrs. and Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Aimee Semple McPherson, the Evangelist.

Sometime after Mrs. McPherson reappeared, witnesses were found at Carmel, California, who said Ormiston had occupied a cottage at Carmel, a part of the time that, the evangelist was missing, with a woman who looked like Mrs. McPherson."

The admission was made in a sworn statement.

FOUR SPEAKERS BEST OF MUSIC ON PROGRAMME

Candidate to be Assisted By Major Lewis, of Toronto

MRS. NUGENT SPEAKS

Premier Meighen Will Be at Cobourg For This Evening

Mayor R. J. E. Graham will preside at the final rally held in Griffin's Opera House this evening in support of Mr. W. E. Tummon, the Conservative candidate for South Hastings. The meeting will no doubt be one of great interest to all who attend. In addition to a fine array of speakers an orchestra will furnish music and community singing will be indulged in. Ladies are especially invited to attend. Mr. Tummon will speak and others to give addresses are Mrs. W. H. Nugent of the city; Major A. C. Lewis and Mr. T. P. Learie, of, Toronto. The meeting in the city hall a few evenings ago and is both a pleasing and forcible speaker.

CAMPAIGN REVIEWED

Interest in the Dominion election, the result of which will be determined tomorrow, has not been keen in this city and vicinity owing to the fact that it is conceded even by many Liberals that Mr. W. E. Tummon the Liberal-Conservative candidate will be returned for South Hastings by a substantial majority.

This lack of interest has however not been noticed in other constituencies in this part of Eastern Ontario.

The contests in Northumberland and Prince Edward-Lennox ridings have been exceptionally brisk with many meetings held by the candidates. The Premier King has spoken in both ridings and the Conservatives have not been behind in arranging for speakers.

It is confidently expected that John Hubbs Conservative will be elected for Prince Edward-Lennox. His majority in the election last October was 726.

In Northumberland M. E. Maybee is the Conservative candidate and is opposed by Major W. A. Fraser, of Trenton. At the last election Mr. Maybee's majority was 1120.

While the Liberals are making claims that they will win in these ridings the Conservatives are equally confident that they will retain them.

There were also spirited fights in Oshawa and in the Kingston City riding.

There is keen interest in what the Prairie provinces do and in the result in Quebec.

MEIGHEN AT COBOURG

Owing to a change made yesterday in the campaign program of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the latter will not close his tour in Montreal, as was planned at first, but will deliver his closing address in Ontario. Cobourg has been selected as the place, and a big rally has been planned, to get underway at 8.15, standard time. Mr. Meighen will be the final appeal to the electors of Canada, and it is understood that he will deal with some of the last minute attacks of the Liberals.

IN CANADA

In order that the Premier's closing address may have the widest possible circulation, arrangements have been made to have, a broadcast. Station CKNC will do the broadcasting, and has the air from eight until ten, standard time, so all those interested in the Premier's address will have a fine opportunity of listening in.

KINGSTON DEFEATED

McCormicks, Playground champions of Toronto, defeated the Kingston Victorias in the latter city on Saturday by a 12-4 score. The Kingston team have had tough luck of late. Jamieson, their first-string pitcher, having been thrown out for playing ball in U.S. and their other shortstop was seized with an attack of appendicitis on Friday and underwent an operation. McCormicks are picked to win the Junior O.B.A.A. title. Walter Gerow of this city and George Sullivan of Kingston umpired.

Announcing
IMPERIAL ETHYL GASOLINE
A new Motor Fuel

IN keeping with that policy which has always guided this Company toward an ever-alert seeking for the latest and best, we will place on the market, on September 18th, a new and revolutionizing motor fuel.

Leading automotive scientists—after 7 years of research—have developed in the laboratories of the General Motors Corporation, a product called Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound.

This great discovery is now offered to the motorists of Canada in Imperial Ethyl Gasoline; which is a special grade of Gasoline--with the new and wonderful Ethyl ingredient added.

This Ethyl ingredient endows gasoline with miracle-working qualities. You will notice these qualities immediately you try your first tank-full of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline.

You'll feel the difference in your motor on the first hill or when you try a quick get-away in traffic, for this new motor fuel is more powerful than any you have ever used--powerful with a smooth, sure rhythm that gives a new thrill to driving. And no matter how badly your motor has "knocked" before--either on hills or when you tried a fast "pick-up"--Imperial Ethyl Gasoline makes it absolutely knockless.

The Ethyl ingredient brings about these amazing results by maintaining the rate of combustion. Every time the spark flashes, a powerful, sustained explosion results. Power waste --as indicated by engine "knocks"--is eliminated.

No other gasoline ingredient compares with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound. Manufactured by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, this remarkable product cannot be successfully imitated. It cannot be duplicated. It is absolutely unique and it stands alone as a new discovery.

The introduction of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline at this season is particularly timely. Nights are getting cool--Winter will soon be here. Imperial Ethyl gives the motorist entire freedom from those troubles which he has formerly encountered with the approach of cold weather.

To those who want "knockless" engine performance, coupled with a new wealth of engine power and quick starting we recommend a trial of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline--truly the most important and amazing motor fuel discovery of the past twenty years.

The price of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline is 4 cents per gallon above the regular Premier price—and well worth it.

CAUTION!

Do not confuse this wonderful new fuel with the many so-called "Anti-Knock" Gasolines on the market. And do not be misled by other gasolines purposely colored red to resemble Ethyl.

Our well-known Premier Gasoline has as much "Anti-Knock" quality as any gasoline made or sold in Canada with the sole exception of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline. The latter is more than a gasoline—it's a motor fuel of super-efficient qualities.

For your protection, no dealer or service station will be permitted to sell Imperial Ethyl Gasoline through any pump that does not conspicuously display the official Imperial Ethyl Trade-Mark as reproduced in this advertisement.

for Sale Sept. 18th only at Pumps displaying this Sign →

MOTORISTS BEWARE

The first conviction for driving on a one-way street was registered this morning. A young man was fined $1 on a charge of driving west on Campbell Street on September 4th. Judge Wills said motorists must not disregard the recent bylaw passed by the City Council in regard to this matter.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Driving over the speed limit on West Bridge Street cost a young man the usual penalty of five-and costs in police court this morning. The bench gave the young man a reprimand and said the offence was specially serious owing to the extreme traffic at the time and an accident might easily have resulted.

REMANDED TILL FRIDAY

The case against Edward Chinchiluk and Joseph Frasco of Point Anne, of driving a car while under the influence of liquor was enlarged until Friday, September 17th. The accused men snatched up two cars near the Salvation Army Citadel on the morning of September 5th.

BROKEN BUMPER

Mathew Quinn, R.R. No. 4, stalled his car as he was turning around at the corner of Dundas and Front Street yesterday. C. A. Glenberg of Toronto who was following south on the thoroughfare, ran into the first vehicle damaging the bumpers. Luckily he was travelling slowly at the time or a more serious accident might have resulted.

TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED

The flowers on the altar at Christ Church yesterday were in memory of James and Archibald Lambert and William and Bert Post.

SPEAKS AT C. OF E.

Speaking on behalf of the Bible Society, Rev. J. S. Harrington, of Toronto will preach at St. Thomas Church next Sunday morning and at Christ Church in the evening.

KLAN GATHERING

The Ku Klux Klan held a mammoth demonstration at Picton yesterday afternoon and evening when members from Hastings, Prince Edward, Frontenac and other neighbouring Counties gathered to listen to addresses of prominent members of the organization. A special boat from Kingston was headed by cavalry with members of both sexes. At night three fiery crosses were burned and sixteen candidates initiated into the order. The procedure was much the same as that which was witnessed here some time ago. Many local people journeyed to Picton in cars to view the demonstration.

WILL PLAY NATIONALS

The Goodenham-Worth softball team of Toronto was defeated by the National girls on Saturday by a 14-3 score. The local ballists of the Women's Ontario Softball Association as published in today's Toronto papers says the Nationals will play here against the "Ontario" on Wednesday. However, Allan Meagher President of the Day of Quinte League has put forward no any official notice from the W.O.S.A. Secretary.

CORRECTIONS

Polling sub-division No. 5, Sammon Ward A to 2 and E to Z, is located at Bertram Young's house, 179 Foster Avenue, not 179 Ann street, and No. 22 Murray Ward at 1 1-2 Bridge street west, instead of 22 1-2.

THE ADVANCE POLL

From the hours of 7 to 10 o'clock this evening will be the last opportunity to vote at the Advance Poll located in the Judges' Chamber at the Court House. The poll was open on Friday and Saturday evenings and when closed on Saturday night 63 had recorded their votes. This poll is for railway employees, sailors and commercial travellers who will not be able to vote here on election day owing to absence from the city. Those who have not voted and will be away tomorrow will have an opportunity of voting tonight.

MIKEL SHOWS PROTECTION PAYS

In Speech at Millbrook, Durham County, He Reviews Facts

Millbrook in the County of Durham on Saturday night was the scene of an enthusiastic meeting on behalf of the Conservative candidate, Fred Hoare, ex-M.P., a well known farmer who last year defeated Vincent Massey.

This year he is opposed by an independent with Grit and U.F.O. leanings. Durham County has become famous for exciting election contests and this one promises to be no exception. Hon. Edward Bloke and Sir Alex Aylesworth.

Ex-Mayor W. C. Mikel K.C., of Belleville addressed the meeting on behalf of Mr. Bowen. He said Durham like most of Eastern Canada being purely rural and partly urban was therefore interested in the policy of protection for the farm and for the manufacturer and the farmer. Sir John A. Macdonald introduced Protection about 36 per cent of the population of Canada was in the rural sections of the Dominion and about 14 percent in the urban districts. This occasioned excessive competition in the urban centres with the result that eggs were sold at 8 and 8 cents a dozen, butter 10 and 12 cents a pound and all farm products were equally low.

PROTECTION

With the policy of protection the cities and towns of Canada began to grow and now about fifty percent of the population of Canada is in the urban centres with the result that there is less competition among the producers of farm products and the prices of the products of the farm have advanced No protection benefited cities as well a farmers. Canada. On account of the attacks of the Progressives on protection and the division among the Liberals on that policy Canada has failed to give the protection which the farming and manufacturing industries of the country require, with the result that every resident of Canada has some relative or friend who has gone to the United States to enjoy the benefits of a protective tariff. There it costs at least $100 a year to bring up a child for food clothing, schooling, medicine and medical services which amounts to $2,000 by the time he child has completed its 20th year. If one multiplies that $2000, by the number who have left Canada and enjoy the Protective Policy of the United States you will find that it will exceed the public debt of the Dominion Government. In addition to that the person leaving Canada for the U. S. has to pay the U. S. Consul $8, and also travelling expenses. Canada is suffering these great economic losses by reason of lack of protective policy.

PACIFIC COAST VACATIONS IN SEPTEMBER

Nature designed the Canadian Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Coast in such a way that their inimitable scenery will ever hold a thrill for the tourist no matter how often it is viewed.

The Alpine grandeur of Jasper Park with its hundreds of giant snow-capped peaks standing sentinel-like over the 4,400 square miles of lakes, rivers, valleys and forests, lures hundreds every year, and is even more beautiful and attractive in September than in the earlier months of the tourist season. Jasper Park Lodge offers luxurious accomodation and golf, tennis, climbing, campine, motoring, dancing and water sports offer recreation.

The famous Triangle Tour, by train from Jasper National Park along the Mystic Skeena to Prince Rupert, by boat to Vancouver and then by rail through the roaring gorges of the Thompson and Fraser rivers, offers views of majestic mountains and awe-inspiring spots that cannot be seen any other way.

The Canadian National low tourist fares in these wonder resorts are still in effect and permit stop-overs all along the route. The National, the radio-equipped luxury train from Toronto to the West gives daily and direct service to Winnipeg, where connection is made for Edmonton, Jasper Park, Prince Rupert, Vancouver and all western points.

Any Canadian National Ticket Agent will supply booklet and information or make reservations.

TOMORROW'S VOTE

The campaign ends with today. Tomorrow brings the vote. And upon the result of that vote, to secret ballot, a privilege Canadians enjoy but which was won by their ancestors after many hard fought battles, rests for Canada the hope of stable, responsible Government. Locally the campaign has been unexciting but not uninteresting. Its brevity, due to the delay by the opponent of Mr. Tummon in making up his mind to contest the riding, made for a short sharp drive by both parties. Mr. Tummon's organization which had been fully equipped marking time as it were, swung into action smoothly and effectively and the constituency was well covered by himself and his speakers in the ten days which have since elapsed. It has meant strenuous work for Mr. Tummon personally, but he has accomplished a great deal in that time.

Across the Dominion there have been many far more exciting struggles and the news from day to day has told of some of these. Estimates of the vote would be little short of foolhardy on the day before the election with the actual result so close but Mr. Meighen at Windsor on Saturday night declared before a great audience that the Conservative party was about to win a great victory at the polls tomorrow. That is his confident statement based on the outlook and should at least be enough for all wobbly voters if there are such and who like to be on the winning side.

Vote tomorrow for Tummon, and for Meighen, and for good honest Government. Vote to bring normal prosperity to Canada. Vote to avoid another election for four years if any rate. Vote for Canada, for Canadians, for the British connection.

WHERE EXPERIENCE COUNTS

The former Prime Minister, Hon. W. L. M. King, has many ingratiating qualities as a public speaker, and no doubt many old acquaintances are rather sorry for him in the difficulties he finds himself up against, some of the chief of which is inability to find popular candidates to run on his behalf.

When he was a young man luck seemed to be all with Mr. King; but since he achieved high eminence it has been very erratic, though he managed to get along for four and a half years without an actual working majority. Mr. King must have felt rather chagrined at the fact that never since he became Liberal leader has he been able to command anything approaching a majority in the English-speaking provinces of Canada. In the general elections of December 1921 Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was defeated not merely on the conscription issue which affected only one province, but because he was regarded as too rigid an economist in communities which had become accustomed to the compulsory lavish expenditures of the war period. Yet even then Mr. King's actual party following numbered only 117 in a House of 235 members, including all the 65 Quebec seats. In all the other eight provinces he could only muster 52 members pledged to himself out of a total of 170. Before the elections of last year the membership of the House had been increased to 245 seats. Mr. King then obtained 101 seats, or nine according to the Conservative, was elected in Peace River and "stuffed" out. Sixty-one were in Quebec, which left him with a showing of but 39 seats for the eight English-speaking provinces.

It must require a man so ambitious as Mr. King has been from boyhood that voters or his own racial and language affiliations will seldom appreciatively to his speeches but shun him at the polls, and this his chief support is from elections who do not know him, for unlike Mr. Meighen he cannot speak fluently in French. The fact is that English-speaking electors are wary of Mr. King because they do not know his actual views on any subject, and suspect him of using language to conceal his thoughts. Moreover, they attribute the looseness with which his government has been run, and his pledges ignored, to a lack of experience and administrative capacity. Mr. King never had to submit to the grinding labor of administering several great departments, as did Mr. Meighen during the war; and he never formed, like Sir Robert Borden, a statement which is Mr. Meighen's chief characteristic, the habit the business man must learn if he is going to make any headway with affairs at all.

PARTY WRANGLES

The two leading parties in this campaign seem to be suffering from diverse forms of trouble, especially in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces. The Liberal party, or rather the section of that party which is led by Hon. W. L. M. King, is embarrassed by the diffidence of proposed candidates about running. In many constituencies highly reputable citizens have been offered Liberal nominations, and have asked time for consideration which in the end resulted in polite refusals. The number of "second choices" in the field in behalf of Mr. King is unprecedentedly large. The "first choice" usually accepts the formal belief that Mr. King will carry the country, but somehow or other they do not wish to share in his victory.

On the other hand the Conservative party is suffering from the undue eagerness of party men to become candidates. In half the Toronto constituencies as well as in many other ridings, the party conventions have been disturbed to acute bitterness, and in some, defeated candidates for the honor of being the party's choice have declined to accept the verdict of the delegates, and have declared themselves in the field. Such occurrences cause unlimited worry and annoyance to party organizations but they are far from being a sign of pary weakness. On the contrary they indicate a widespread belief that Mr. Meighen will be returned with a substantial majority. Few individuals are anxious to run for Parliament if they think themselves destined to sit in the cold shades of opposition. Still fewer would be anxious to run if they thought Parliament was once more to be plunged into the political chaos that prevailed last session. These politicians who are jostling for position in the Conservative conventions evidently believe that the prize will be worth having when the race is won.

THE POSITION OF THE PRESS

Several newspapers in various parts of Canada have drawn attention to a singular feature of the election,—that the periodicals, that is to say the weeklies ad bi-weeklies and monthlies with no party affiliations, are almost a unit in supporting the Meighen administration and arguing that the Prime Minister should be given a chance to provide stable government for Canada. This is true of be lighter vehicles of comment, the financial press, the trade journals, and the agricultural press; and even some religious weeklies have been accused of a pro-Meighen slant. There is something unusual in this, because with publications rests no benefit from a selection campaign.

Candidates spend no money on advertising with them and the older established periodicals of all stripes are known to be unpurchasable in their views else they would not have survived in a country where the publishing business has so many hazards as in Canada. Yet even publications which ordinarily pay but casual attention to politics are emphatic in asserting the necessity for giving Mr. Meighen a sound working majority.

Letters to the Editor

AS TO LEVEL CROSSINGS
To the Editor of The Intelligencer:
Sir,—Reading about quite a favourable opinion about doing away with level crossings of railways and putting the country, and railways at large expense, I can see no reason for doing so. Why people will run straight in danger without look or thought is something that I cannot solve by arithmetic or any other way. The railways companies surely do all they can to reduce all danger of accidents, of which all danger on their part is reduced to a minimum. A long time ago when railway mileage was of a small limit, there were large signboards extended all the way across the highways supported at each end, which read Railway Crossing. Look Out For the Cars. Now, Sir, if there were such signs erected now, do you think that a few more people would look out for the cars. Now, I will say, that if anyone thinks anybody else to blame for level crossing accidents, except those who drive across, just let such person stand at a crossing and watch, say a couple of dozen drivers, and see how many look for cars coming. I think I know whereof I speak as I live close to such a crossing. It has been suggested by some writers that a by-law be passed for automobiles to come to a stop before crossing the railways. Well why stop unless the tracks are not clear. If drivers would drive slowly and look along the rails before crossing, such accidents would be reduced to a minimum.

Official statistics show that 2274 persons have already been killed this year in 46 United States cities, as the result of motor accidents.

MANY KILLED IN ATHENS ROW

Arrests Follow Mob Scenes — Republic Still in Saddle

Athens, Sept. 10,—Premier Kondylis today declared that mob scenes in Athens following yesterday's mutiny by republican guards were caused by Communists and a few Royalists wishing to take advantage of the situation and cause the overthrow of the Republic. The Government has arrested ten Royalist leaders and participants. The number of dead is placed at 14, and wounded at 170. Some of the newspapers, however, state that the casualties list may be much higher and many wounded, but say casualties among regular troops and citizens are not known.

DIWAN MAKES PROPHESY

Winnipeg, September 13.—India will be a nation with Dominion status within the British Empire inside of ten years in the opinion of Diwan Bahadur Sir T. Vijayaraghavachariar, K.B.E., who arrived in Winnipeg yesterday, en route to the Pacific Coast.

Today India was quiet politically, and the British continue to follow the principle of developing the people whom they rule for self-government, he said, adding that the object of his visit to Canada was to make India better known to the Canadian people and to foster the spirit of Empire unity.

To the Electors of South Hastings

Upon the Solicitation of a large number of Electors from all parts of the Riding, I beg to announce that I am a Candidate in the approaching Federal Elections.

If Elected, it shall be my privilege and duty to do all in my power to bring about at the earliest possible moment

1 Further reduction in taxation.
2 A revaluation of Soldiers' lands.
3 A living wage to the laboring man.
4 Old Age Pensions.
5 Strict economy in the Administration of Public Affairs.
6 Unity and Solidarity and a mutual understanding between all the people of the Dominion so that there may flow therefrom Peace, Happiness and Prosperity.
7 A closer bond of Union between the Mother Country and ourselves.

And such other legislation as may be in the best interest of the great masses of the common people of our fair Dominion and particularly the people of South Hastings.

I believe in the retention of the Canadian National Railway for the Canadian People.

Ladies and Gentlemen—It will, in the short space of time at my disposal, be quite impossible to see you all personally, and I take this opportunity of most respectful ly soliciting the vote and influence of all those who are opposed to autocratic rule to join me and support me by your votes and your influence, for which I hereby thank you.

SCHOOLS MEET AT LEAF STADIUM

Track and Field Titles to be Settled on Friday, October 1st

DISTRICT WINNERS GO

This Area to Decide Winners at Kingston on Sept. 18

The Ontario Track and Field championship for the Public, Separate and High Schools of the Province will be held under the auspices of the Ontario Athletic Commission on Friday, Oct. 1st, at the Maple Leaf Stadium, Toronto. The Commission, as in the past, is providing the medals—first and second only—as prizes for the ten district meets in the several centres, and first, second and third for the final meet of the district winners in Toronto, Oct. 1st.

In addition, the Commission will pay the railroad fares and the hotel bills of all the boys who win in their District meets, provided they make the standard set for the several events, to the final meet in Toronto.

Boys who win at their district meet but who do not make the standards will be eligible to enter the Finals at Toronto but must pay their own way. The same applies to boys scoring second places at the District meets.

Entries must be in the hands of the Convenors of the several Districts five days before the date of the meets which will be held as follows:—

No. 3—At Hamilton, Sept. 25, M. M. Robinson. The Spectator, Hamilton; No. 3—At St. Catharines, Sept. 18, W. J. Salter, Collegiate Inst. St. Catharines; No. 4—At Barrie, Sept. 25, A. R. Hodgson, Collegiate Inst., Sault Ste. Marie; No. 10—At Ft. William, Sept. 29, F. W. Edwards, Times-Journal, Ft. William.

Boys will produce the birth certificate attended in July last, and will date their ages at June 1st of this year. Every boy will be in possession of a birth certificate, or if that is not available, of an affidavit as to age from parents or guardian. No boy under 14 will be allowed to compete, and no boy will be permitted to enter two classes. Relay teams must be from single schools.

FORTY-EIGHT Constituencies Are Without Liberal Candidates

in the coming Election

In these forty-eight constituencies Liberals are asked to support candidates nominated by Progressives, Independents, Socialists, etc., and in one constituency the Liberal candidate is an open secessionist.

In forty-seven of these forty-eight constituencies Conservative Candidates are running, consequently the plan is—any combination of parties to beat the Conservatives.

1.—The Liberal strategy anticipates that MacKenzie King may be able to form a weak temporary government out of Liberal, Progressive, Independent, Socialist, Secessionist, etc. members—without candidates in forty-eight constituencies the Liberals can have no hope of securing a majority—then the tail will wag the dog again.

2.—As now seems certain, the Conservatives will have a good working majority and will be in a position to give Canada stable, constructive government.

In 1925, specially appealing to the country for a working majority, the King Government again FAILED, this time securing only 101 seats out of 245.

Then, finally, after floundering at Ottawa for six months by bartering, the King Government again FAILED, and went down to defeat followed by a vote of censure by the House of Commons for maladministration.

Three Chances - - - - - Three Failures

THREE TIMES AND OUT!

Keep Them Out - - Make it a Landslide

No Liberal candidate in constituencies shaded on map.

Deaths & Funerals

CHARLES R. SMITH

There passed away in Frankford on Monday morning last, after a short illness, one of the villages most respected residents, Mr. Charles R. Smith in his seventieth year. The subject of this memoir was born in the 6th Concession of Sidney and spent the most of his life on the farm now removed from the place of his birth having lived in Crookston for a number of years, and latterly for almost fifteen years in Frankford where he was a trusted employee of Canada Paper Company. He was greatly loved for his many excelling qualities of mind and heart. He had been a faithful member of former Methodist Church for many years and entered into the larger union with heartiness and gave of his best service to the church in the capacity of class leader Sunday School teacher. He was a regular attendant at the House of God and was recognized as a man of sterling character whose daily conversation was upright and beneficial. The writer voices the mind of the community when he says Mr. Smith was a townsman, craftsman and churchman, a man whom it was a delight to know. The funeral service which was very largely attended was held on Thursday afternoon, in United Church, Frankford, conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. R. Butler who spoke on highest appreciation of our deceased brother. The Frankford Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 302 and Rebekah Lodge No. 230 attended the service in a body and jointly rendered a very impressive service at the grave.

The deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved loved ones in mourn the loss of a loving father three children, Mrs. Vance Rose, Belleville; Hedley, Frankford; Miss Jessie who resided with her father. Their large number of beautiful flowers spoke of a wide circle of sympathetic friends and were as follows:

Pillow—The family.

Letter R.—Glenford Rebekah Lodge No. 230.

Wreaths—United Church S. S., Frankford; Canada Paper Board Co., Sprays—W. M. S. Frankford; Mrs. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Hazard, Mrs. J. Diamond, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tummon, Tweed; Reeve and Mrs. H. Miller, Frankford; Mrs. Wm. Hill, Mrs. M. Smith and Everett, Mr. and Mrs. R. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Murney Smith, all of Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Scenes, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Court Smith, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Smith, Mrs. Wm. Broad, Whitby.

Heart—Mrs. W. Tripp, Frankford.

Shell—Friends in Frankford.

Spray—Cecil Tripp.

Pillow—Mrs. F. Bell, Frankford.

And a great many bouquets from numerous friends. The tender sympathy of The Intelligencer is extended to the remaining members of the family.—Con.

LEAFS CLINCHED LEAGUE PENNANT

Double Win at Buffalo Brought Club International Title

CLOSE IN NATIONAL

Cincy Reds Close in on St. Louis — Pirates Chase Reds

Playing at Buffalo, the Toronto Leafs clinched the pennant beyond question by squelching the Bisons in both sections of a twin bill, 9 to 5 and 4 to 0. Clarence Fisher, former Bison kalsomined his former team-mates in the second contest and set them down with a single hit in six innings before darkness halted proceedings. The first game was featured by Billy Kelly's second home run in as many days and his forty-third of the season.

Newark advanced Baltimore in second place in the league by taking a doubleheader from the Orioles, 16 to 5 and 9 to 3.

Baltimore paraded an army of pitchers, all of whom were ineffective, Catcher Schulte of Newark, dropped two homers over Baltimore's right field fence.

Jersey City won two home games from Reading, the first a bitter 15-inning battle, 2 to 1, and the nightcap, 9 to 8.

Syracuse and Rochester divided their twin bill in the latter's garden. Syracuse took the first fracas, 4 to 2, and dropped the second, 4 to 5.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh entered upon its invasion of the east with a double victory over the New York Giants by 5 to 1 and 7 to 1, thereby advancing the Pirates to within two and one-half games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Pete Donohue, ace of the Cincinnati right handers, was in superb form in the first game of a double-header at Brooklyn and the Cincinnati Reds won their eastern inaugural by a score of 5 to 0. Aided by airtight fielding behind him, Donohue blanketed Brooklyn with three hits. Cincinnati won the second, 4 to 3.

The Reds reached Dazzy Vance for 13 safe drives. Roush, with four hits in four times up, was the leading offensive figure.

ADA MACKENZIE WON CANADIAN CLOSED TITLE

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—Miss Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, added the Canadian ladies' closed golf championship to her string of victories, defeating the defending champion, Miss Helen Paget, of Ottawa, in the final here seven up and six to play.

Miss Mackenzie, who now holds both the open and closed Canadian titles, played a flawless game throughout. She was driving a long ball her approach was deadly while on the greens she invariably was down in two.

In contrast, Miss Paget was badly off her short game, usually her strongest department. Repeatedly she found the bunkers with her irons and required several extra putts, which proved her downfall.

THEY WERE NOT NUNS

St. Albans, Vt., Sept. 11.—Three women dressed as nuns, were taken from a Canadian Pacific train in Richford this morning when a customs inspector found that they had yards of valuable French lace concealed beneath their clothing.

PUFF BALLS DEADLY

London, Ont., Sept. 13.—Six persons have been poisoned by eating fungi. Five are in a serious condition.

SUNDAY SOCCER NOW PERMITTED

Amndment to D. F. A. Rules Allows Play on Sabbath —First Match Sunday

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Soccer may now be played in Canada on Sundays where provincial or municipal legislation permits, according to an amendment made to the rules of the Dominion Football Association at their meeting held in Toronto last week. The alteration to this effect, which was sponsored by the P.Q. F.A., passed unanimously, according to statements made by F. R. Davies, president P.Q.F.A., and J. Somerville, council member, who represented the local soccer body at the Dominion Association convention. Whether or not this provision is cited, it is generally understood that Quebec will be the only association under which soccer will be played on the seventh day.

Issuing of the permits rests entirely with the provincial association, and each of the clubs must have sanction from its respective association. For instance, if an Ontario club comes here for a Sunday match, they must have a permit from the O.F.A. In all probability the first match under the new rule will be played here next Sunday when Carling will meet Ulster United of Toronto.

NINE HURT IN TORONTO

Runaway Freight Cars Crash Into Two Autos

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Nine people were injured, some seriously, when three freight cars became detached from a train, and, running down an incline, crashed into a street car at a level crossing in the east end of thecity. The impact knocked the street car across the street, and, sideswiping an automobile in passing, it toppled over on to a second auto. Of the injured, four were in the street car and two in each of the automobiles.

WORLD'S SERIES STARTS OCT. 2ND

First Two Games in American League City—Next Three in National

Pittsburgh, September 12.—The first two games of baseball's 1932 blue ribbon event, the world's series, will be fought in the city capturing the American League pennant, on Saturday and Sunday, October 1 and 2. This decision was reached here at a conference of Commissioner K. M. Landis and representatives of the four contending clubs in the American and National leagues. The third, fourth and fifth contests will be played in the city that wins the National League bunting.

The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be played in the American League city. All games will start at 1:30 o'clock standard time, Eastern or Central.

Should the classic be between New York, Cleveland or Philadelphia in the American League, and St. Louis, Cincinnati or Pittsburgh in the National, a day will elapse between the second and third and the fifth and sixth battles to permit the contending teams to travel.

Box seats, $4.40; reserved seats, $5.50; general admission, $3.30, and bleachers $1.10, all including tax.

PLAY-OFFS ARRANGED IN TENNIS LEAGUE FOR TUMMON TROPHY

The officials of the Bay of Quinte League met after the game Friday to wind up the business of the season and lay preliminary plans for next year's campaign. General consensus of opinion was, that the league has been a most successful venture and girls baseball has been introduced and received the endorsation of the sporting populace and that in a short space of time the game as played in this league will compare favorably with any other in the Province. Two Kingston teams are anxious to be included next year but the delegates felt that the league as it exists now is a compact organization with little travelling expenses and to expand at present might eventually result in disaster.

The Bay of Quinte trophy will be presented to the High School at a banquet and general get-together later on. It is expected that each of the members of the team will receive individual prizes.

TO ALEXANDRA HOME

The fifteen-year-old girl who was committed to the Mercer Reformatory yesterday on a charge of attempted suicide by Magistrate Jarman was later sent to the Alexandra Home for wayward girls in Toronto. It was decided that this course would be much more beneficial owing to the extreme youth of the girl.

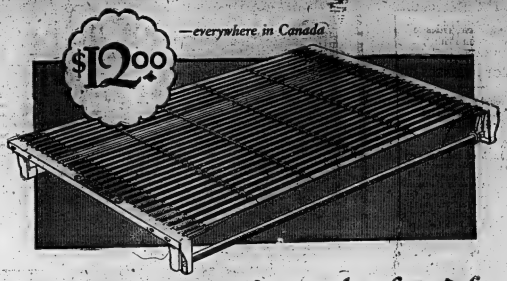

Eye Negligence

Some people hold to the hope that their eyes, if abnormal, will some time improve. There is no justification for that belief in Optometry. And the reason it should never be entertained is that much harm is likely to be done the eyes by the neglect. An abnormal eye never becomes normal, though the abnormality can be overcome by the services of the Optometrist. I am waiting to help you to eyes comfort.

The biggest money's worth of comfort

You benefit from the economies of the world's largest production of beds and bedding when you buy a Slumber King. That is why you can get Canada's finest steel fabric spring for only $12.

Consider what value it represents. The frame is of stoutly riveted pressed steel for lifetime strength; built as high as a box spring for finest appearance. 26 ribbon strips of steel are suspended between extra-long coils and joined by four rows of continuous spirals. They conform to your body without sagging. Extra wide border strips and cables keep the edges trim and taut.

Make your dollars go farthest by insisting on a genuine Slumber King at any furniture store. Even such a spring, however, can provide only half of complete sleeping comfort. The other half depends on the mattress. Get the Ostermoor, Canada's finest in luxury and value for more than 30 years, now $25. Look for the Ostermoor label.

GEO. WHITE'S SCANDALS SIXTH ANNUAL EDITION

George White, the producer of the celebrated George White's "Scandals," is the world's youngest successful producer of massive revues. Despite the fact that Mr. White is only thirty-two years old, he bears the distinction of having presented many successful revues.

It was in 1919 that White made his bow as a producer. His initial offering was "George White's Scandals of 1919" which was first shown in the nation's capital at Washington, D.C. The revue was so highly successful that Mr. White has been presenting a new revue annually ever since. In the musical comedy world George White's Scandals is looked upon as being of the highest standard, and the sixth annual edition, which comes to the Griffin theatre on September 20th is said to overshadow any revue ever produced anywhere.

AT THE REGENT

Monday starring as a butler in a millionaire's mansion and saving his wealthy friend from the clutches of financial ruin is Wall Street, Richard Talmadge, hero of the new Universal-Jewel picture "The Wall Street Whiz," his latest comedy-melodrama now on view at the Regent Theatre.

AT THE BELLE

Seldom is a stage player privileged to portray in a film production a character similar to that which he is celebrated in the realm of spoken drama. H. B. Warner, however, enjoys the good fortune of the privilege of playing "Silence," for he plays the same role in Beulah Marie Dix's screen version of Maj. Sarvin's crook melodrama that won him acclaim in the sensational run of eight months in the play enjoyed on Broadway. Rupert Julian directed the picture which will be shown at the Belle Theatre today and Tuesday.

Mr. Warner is featured as Jim Warren in the picture and he has for his crooked pal, Raymond Hatton, who plays the role of Harry Silvers. Hatton is famed for his portrayal of hillbilly comic parts, and those who watched his work in "Silence" say he "fills the bill a million" in the production. Charming Vera Reynolds is seen in the feminine dual-lead opposite Warner.

AT THE CAPITOL

Do "fine manners" make "fine ladies"?

That's the question asked in Gloria Swanson's latest film, "Fine Manners" which arrives at the Capitol today. Gloria is seen as a dancer in a burlesque mid-town hall. With a brother, who jealously tries to guard her from the world's tawdry influences, she lives in a tiny basement apartment.

Then—Fate—or call it what you will, has her meet a young, socially bored, society scion. He immediately falls in love with this veritable child of nature. Thinking to improve, and make her well-night perfect, the youth tells his sweetheart that a course in "fine manners" will make her a "fine lady."

What happens! Certainly, this is a situation to bring forth lots of laughs and many perplexities.

Those who have already seen "Fine Manners," say that Gloria has never been better. Eugene O'Brien plays the part of the dance.

Vote For W. E. Tummon
In South Hastings And Good Stable Government

To the Electors of South Hastings.

On Tuesday, September 14th, the electors of South Hastings, in common interest with Canadians in all constituencies in Canada, will have the opportunity to vote into power a good stable government, which Canada has needed so badly during the past five years.

As candidate in South Hastings of the Liberal-Conservative party and a supporter of its Leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, may I ask my fellow electors in this great and historic riding, with its fine British traditions, to record their votes in behalf of the cause I represent, so that Canada may be governed by a Canada-first policy, and enter upon the era of prosperity which will follow.

Time will not permit me, as much as I would like to do so, to personally meet as many of the electors before election day, as a longer period would make possible, since it was not definitely known earlier that there would be a contest in this riding. I must therefore reach as many as possible by this medium, and I wish to sincerely solicit the votes of all men and women electors who desire to do their bit in the establishmen of good government and therby bring about a better condition in the administration of the affairs of Canada.

Great issues are at stake in the present election, and citizens in all walks of life are called upon to express their condemnation of the discredited government of former Premier King.

I wish to state that I stand solidly behind the Conservative Leader and Prime Minister and the policies he has enunciated in Parliament and during the present campaign. Especially do I want to say that I endorse his policy in regard to the Canadian National Railway, believing that its existence is necessary in the development of Canada, which if given proper stimulus will show marked progress.

Before the close of the campaign I shall discuss the more important issues at a series of fifteen meetings in this riding, and I hope to receive such support as will enable me to return to a seat in Parliament and there aid in the great work for Canada likely to be carried on by the Conservative party.

In conclusion now may I quote from my speech at the Conservative convention when I was chosen as standard-bearer of the party, and when I said:

"What does the Conservative Party offer. We offer a strong, stable Government of men, sincerely believing our policy will promote general prosperity and contentment, a policy that will lead the Dominion on the road to its true place in the family of nations. We believe in a 'Canada First Policy', a policy that will keep for the farmer of Canada his natural market in Canadian towns and cities to give to the business men of Canada protection against the cheap labour of other countries and to give to the Canadian workman decent standards of living and a surety and diversity of employment in his own land.

"We believe that the Canadian farmer and the Canadian business man should have the same hold upon the markets of Canada, that the United States farmers and business man have upon the markets of the United States. That the workman should have the same chance for employment, for the support and education of his family in his own country as the United States workman has in his country.

Yours faithfully,
W. E. TUMMON.

SPAIN LEAVES NATIONS LEAGUE

Will Drop Out in 2 Years' Time — Refused Permanent Seat

Geneva, September 11.—Spain today resigned from the League of Nations. The resignation follows the rejection of Spain's demand for a permanent seat on the League Council.

With Germany finally in full membership in the League and confirmation of Spain's withdrawal from the International body officially announced at the midsummer commissions of the assembly on which Germany sat for the first time in a brief session yesterday evening, have begun their work.

The official commissique announcing the withdrawal of Spain said the Secretary-General of the League had received through the Spanish Consul at Geneva, a note from the Spanish Government giving formal notice according to Article One of the League Covenant that Spain will withdraw from the League on the expiration of two years from the date of receipt of the note by Secretary-General."

The document has been circulated to all members of the League. The Spanish note is said to be couched in the most friendly tone and it wishes all success to the League.

Ottawa, September 11.—The total production of wheat in the three prairie provinces, as estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is now 375,697,000 bushels as compared with the final estimated production of 382,959,000 last year.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," for only 75 cents. This is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 600 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any druggist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys a clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no your kidney trouble and backache.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles Nor do surgical operations.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at J. S. McCown's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

The Old Love Or New?

One of the finest squares in the old part of Laval is the Place Ducale. It is about double the size of Russell Square, thickly planted with fine old elms, and set around with large stately-looking houses, and on the west side there is a fine old church which strangers seldom fail to visit, but which the residents never dream of attending. All the houses in the Place Ducale have stately entrances, courts with pillars on either side, handsome stained glass doors admitting you into the vestibule, and broad, oak staircases dangerous with excessive polish, but guiltless of any carpet.

On the doors of several of these houses might be seen brass plates, the greater number of which bore the names of various professors of instrumental and vocal music or languages, and on one of these a very handsome plate kept regat beautifully bright—was to be read the name of

"ADOLPHE CHABERT."

And anybody in Laval would have told you that Monsieur Chabert was one of the most successful professors of singing in Laval, and that if he took a young beginner in the musical career under his wing, he or she was pretty sure of succeeding in the profession.

He had several young ladies under his roof—his male pupils did not live at No. 14, Place Ducale—and all those were destined either for the operatic stage, or, if their talents did not allow them to aspire so high, for concert singing. Madam Chabert herself had been a professional singer, and had abandoned her laurels for the matrimonial noose; but she was wont to speak of a public career with enthusiasm, even now when her time was taken up superintending her household and assisting her husband.

It is the month of December Monsieur Chabert's pupils had some days' holidays, and their professor had taken advantage of their absence to make a journey to England, and on the night of the seventeenth of December, his wife was waiting for him in some anxiety, while the table in the dining-room was laid for dinner, with covers for three.

Madam Chabert, or Lizzie, as her husband calls her—she was an Englishwoman, and christened Elizabeth—is a tall, handsome woman, blonde, and portly, fond of rich, effective toilets and bright colors, but possessed of the kindest heart in the whole of Laval. She was a rich and beautiful contralto, is still magnificent, and whenever she sings in public, in aid of some charity or institution, she receives deserved applause; but she never regrets her retirement into private life, for, fond of society as she was, she is of rather an indolent, lymphatic temperament, and the hard work required to maintain her position on the stage, were rather repugnant to the grain." Since her marriage she has grown very stout, and as she sits in her great armchair before the fire, she looks more like a prosperous English matron than a retired prima donna.

The room is a large and lofty one, handsomely furnished; but, like the stairs, carpetless, and possessing a polished oak floor; a few handsome pictures decorate the walls; a stately bronze clock and candelabra adorn the marble mantelpieces, and the whole room wears the same air of prosperity which characterizes Lizzie Chabert herself.

"Six o'clock," she says, glancing at the pendule. "They will be soon here now; that poor child will be very tired. She won't care for dinner; I'll order some tea."

She goes to the bell; her rich, plum-colored silk rustling as she moves, and just as she has given the order to the servant who answers it, the rumbling of a carriage over the stone-paved streets meets her ears, and she exclaims:

"There they are!" and runs out of the great portecochere, opening it with her own hands.

"Here we are, Lizzie," says a cheery man's voice outside, "half frozen; and poor Annette more dead than alive."

"I should think so, the poor child," says Madam Chabert, "after such a journey. It was cruel to make her travel so fast."

"It was her own wish, my dear," says the professor, as he assists a young lady out of the carriage, and in another moment Annette de Vitry is clasped in Madame Chabert's motherly arms, and is sobbing passionately on her ample shoulders.

"There, there, my dear, all the trouble is over now," that good lady says, soothingly, as she leads Annette into the dining-room, and, setting her in a comfortable armchair, takes off her hat and cloak, and smooths back the pretty ruffled hair with tender hands. "Did you love them then so much over there, my child?" she adds, a trifle wistfully, and the kind eyes meet Annette's so tenderly, that the girl clings to her, and kisses the gentle hands.

"Oh! auntie," she says, brokenly, "I am glad—I am glad to be with you again!"

"That is well," answers Madam Chabert, smiling. "You are over-tired now, and when you have had some dinner you shall go up to your room—your old room, Annette, where you slept when you used to come to us in the vacations. And so, dear," she goes on, as she stoops over the fire, poking it into a cheery blaze, "you are going to be sensible, and use your beautiful voice. I am charmed, to hear it. What a pity, though—what a pity you have lost so much time!"

"We shall make up for it," says the professor, coming in cheerfully rubbing his hands. "Look at her, Lizzie; just think what a charming Daughter of the Regiment she will make. She shall make her debut as Marie."

M. Adolphe Chabert is a tall, hand some man, some years younger than his wife, to whom, he is intensely devoted. He looks what he is, kind-hearted and amiable; but too enthusiastic, a musician to be anything but a strict master. Still his pupils like him, and a kind word of praise from M. Adolphe is treasured more highly than any amount of compliments from some of his brother professors. He is a good musician too, and, although his voice is too weak for a public career, he sings charmingly.

Dinner is served, but Annette can eat nothing, and Madam Chabert orders some tea, which the girl touches to her lips, but cannot drink.

"I think bed will be the best thing for you, poor child," says her hostess, kindly, and very gladly Annette goes upstairs with her to a pretty bedroom on the second floor, and there Madam Chabert leaves her with a kiss, and a kindly "good-night;" and while the girl sobs herself to sleep—a sleep of complete exhaustion and fatigue—she goes down to her husband and her interrupted dinner.

"She looks awfully ill, poor child," she observes, as she sits down. "I suppose she was very fond of him."

"Oh! yes, I think so," replies the professor, mixing the salad. "But she will get over it, she is young."

"I hardly think it prudent to have separated them like this."

THE GOVERNMENT OF MACKENZIE KING

William Lyon Mackenzie King
For five long years has had his fling;
Helping smugglers to have their way
What the revenue lacks the people can pay.

Ministers of Customs are no use
Their powers of office they abuse,
Let bootleggers and smugglers have their fling
And pile up votes for Mackenzie King.
Annexation, and reciprosi
What's one point in the people's loss.
Who cares if the County all goes to pan
We'll go over to Uncle Sam.

Minister Bureau have a talk
See that you serve your party there,
Make false officers more discreet,
Don't let them tramp on the bootlegger's feet.

Let special officers go to grass,
Smugglers all must have a free pass;
If a probe is started and trouble is rife
Resign and a senator be for life.

Now Mackenzie King has lost his job
He could not stand the Customs probe
Next time they'll be a different scene

FIRE EQUIPMENT ALL MOTORIZED CHIEF IS HAPPY

Council Has Put Through Legislation to Do Away With Horses

A NEW FIRE ENGINE

Many Other Items of Interest Came Up For Solution

Fire Chief Brown is at last getting his new fire truck. The council last night approved of the equipment and the Chief is happy. Many other important matters were attended to at this first fall meeting.

Owing to the absence of Mayor R. J. E. Graham, Ald. E. Wilmot was voted to the chair.

Ald. Hyde was chairman on committee of the whole on reports and communications. Many accounts were passed and the following recommendations were adopted.

CHEQUE FOR $250

That the treasurer be authorized to forward to Messrs. Wynne, Roberts, Son and McLean a cheque for $250 to pay inspection salary to Sept. 10th, the said amount to be charged to special gas account.

TO CITY SOLICITOR

That the application of the Quinte Vulcanizing Co., to erect a canopy on Front Street be referred to the city solicitor for a report as to the right of the City Council to grant or refuse such a permit for this work on public streets or any similar work within the city limits.

NEW FIRE TRUCK

Whereas the Belleville Fire Department deem it expedient to dispose of horses and also deem it necessary to dispense with old defective and inefficient ladders and obsolete horse drawn hook and ladder equipment, and whereas the Bickle motor driven hook and ladder equipment with Chemical tanks apparatus which this Council did already choose to purchase is considered a most wise choice, we therefore recommend that the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized to sign at once the contract with the Bickle Fire Engine Company, Limited to purchase said equipment and also that the Chairman of Fire Department be authorized to purchase a one and a half ton Model S. L. International six cylinder truck chassis as recommended by the Special Committees appointed to choose Chassis, delivered in Woodstock Ont., on which the Bickle Company may mount the aforesaid equipment and deliver same to Belleville as per agreement.

We also recommend that the City Solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw to authorize the issue of necessary

OWNERS REJECT CONFERENCE ON MINING STRIKE

Churchill Request for Joint Meeting is Defeated

RETURN OF BALDWIN

Premier Expected to Indicate More Drastic Action at End of Week

London, Sept. 14.—Executive of miners' union has requested striking men in all districts to stand pat and await further instructions, pending Government's decision on owner's refusal to attend a joint conference.

London, September 14.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill's endeavor to bring prompt peace in the great coal strike by persuading the mine owners to participate in a three-cornered conference with the Government and representatives of the strikers was definitely defeated when the mine owners officially refused to accede to his request. The refusal was no surprise. Scarcely anybody believed they would agree to such a conference after the extremely hostile attitude toward it adopted by their representatives when Churchill first suggested it.

The official refusal of the owners is based on the practically unanimous stand of their district associations against termination of the strike by national agreement. What they have wanted all along, and still want, is a series of district agreements—not the one anathema to the strikers. The owners think the strikers are beaten to their knees and that, therefore, concessions are quite unnecessary, since the vanquished in the coal war must eventually accept the terms of the victors.

Thus Premier Baldwin, who is expected back from his vacation at Aix-Les-Bains Wednesday, will find the coal crisis as bad as ever. Churchill's heroic attempt to solve it in his chief's absence has come to nothing.

MUSEUM AND SIDESHOWS WILL FEATURE CARNIVAL

In spite of the fact the Kiwanis Carnival is to be featured by many novelty attractions that have already been advertised—it was announced by the committee last night that there would be large rooms devoted to a Museum wherein will be shown a stupendous collection of relics that date far back into the past. This will include war trophies and old coins, documents, pictures and various other articles and mementos that will be exteremely interesting to the public.

Word was also received in the city today that the Galt Kiwanis Boys Band will come 50 strong instead of 40 as first announced.

The surrounding towns have been flooded with posters advertising the Kafnival and there will no doubt be a big influx of visitors during the coming week to view the magnificent assemblage of style to be displayed and in many ways be entertained by the Kiwanians as only they know how to entertain.

ELECTION NEWS SERVICE

The Intelligencer Election News Service will as in 1925 be as complete as it is possible to make it. City returns will be gathered by a corps of newsgrams. Country returns will be by special arrangements over the telephone. Dominion returns will be supplied by Canadian Press over a special leased wire.

The Intelligencer will bulletin returns as they come by lantern slides on Front street while phones 36 and 1245 will answer inquiries. Returns are expected to commence a few minutes after six o'clock, Standard Time. The office will remain open until midnight to answer phone queries.

Extra editions of the Intelligencer will be published giving returns up to within five minutes of publication.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Action was instituted by the Dominion Government Distilleries this afternoon to recover the sum of $830,355.62, alleged to be due the Government as a result of alleged deals in denatured alcohol. The information was laid in the Exchequer Court by the Solicitor-General of Canada, on behalf of the Government.

The suit is an outcome of the parliamentary customs probe last session. It is claimed that this sum was shown to be due as a result of evidence produced before the parliamentary enquiry committee.

R. L. Calder, K.C., counsel for the Government in the matter, left Ottawa for Montreal shortly after the information was laid. Mr. Calder had a brief interview with W. Stuart Edwards, deputy Minister of Justice, but Mr. Edwards said he had no statement to make in the matter.

GOOD WEATHER MEANS BIG VOTE IN CENTRAL AREA

Ontario Expected to Increase Number of Electors at Polls

PREMIER AT COBOURG

King at at Arnprior and Ottawa Valley—Big Advance Poll

Toronto, Sept. 14.— Prospects are bright for the polling of a heavy vote throughout Ontario today. Interest in the Federal election campaign has reached fever heat in many constituencies. Weather conditions here fair and cool throughout the provinces and should enhance the possibility of a large and representative expression of opinion at the polling booths. If the number voting at the advance polls which were open Friday, Saturday and Monday, is any indication more electors should go to the polls today than in 1925.

A decided increase in the number of commercial travellers, railwaymen and sailors casting their ballots in advance, was noticed.

The degree of apathy which was evident in the early stages of the campaign has developed during the last week into keen enthusiasm.

Liberals and Conservatives are both confident that their representation from Ontario in the next house of Commons will be increased. The former hold 12 seats in the last house while the latter held 8. The Conservatives, who held two seats from this province as compared with 24 in 1921, expect to gain at the expense of the two old parties.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, spent the final day of the election campaign in Ontario. The Prime Minister addressed meetings at Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa, while the Liberal leader was at Peterboro, Arnprior and other Ottawa Valley points. Ontario has returned a larger number of Conservative members to the House of Commons since 1878 than any other party. In this campaign the efforts of Liberals have been concentrated on returning anti-Conservative candidates in several constituencies with the result that there are very few contests which Conservatives are not in the running, as all in field. Seven members of the Meighen cabinet are candidates in Ontario.

PREMIER'S CLOSING

Oshawa, Sept. 14.—Premier Meighen's last evening of his campaign tour yesterday. There was a large meeting in Cobourg, a thirty mile automobile drive and another meeting at Oshawa with a midnight run to Port Hope on the way. Mr. Meighen read a telegram from Hon. R. B. Bennett, Minister of Customs, stating that on October 1st, the Dominion would pay off the whole outstanding loan of $35,000,000 then due. This, the telegram stated, would relieve the taxpayers of an annual charge of $10,000,000. "This has been accomplished," said Mr. Bennett in the telegram, "by practice of the most rigid economy in public expenditures during the last three months and the enforcing of customs and excise laws although in some tax collections are $6,000,000 less than last year."

KING AT ARNPRIOR

Arnprior, Sept. 14.—Closing his campaign here at midnight last night, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, announced that if the Liberal party was returned to power, his government should institute a judicial inquiry into the whole stock selling scheme. He was referring to charges which have been levelled against the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs in the Meighen Government. He added that such an inquiry "will give Mr. Stevens a chance to account for his actions."

The Liberals leader declared that when the circular letter written on Commons paper over last month by Mr. Stevens had defended it. It took from Tuesday until Sunday for Mr. Stevens to decide to call the letter a forgery. That letter, said Mr. King, came from a shareholders in the Oil Company who was prepared to come forward and give his name if required. Today some shareholders had come forward and told of Mr. Stevens' activities including his speaking over shareholders' meetings.

SOUTH HASTINGS' FRIEND

SAY VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN MEANT LARGE VOTE TODAY OTTAWA MIXED ON RESULT

Ottawa, Sept., 14.—The election campaign which had been carried on with exceptional vigor over Canada, particularly during the past few weeks, closed last night with leaders of both political parties prophesying victory. Today the election officials say. From Ontario east weather conditions are excellent for a big vote. The sun is shining and the air is quite cool. In Winnipeg it rained most of the night and was continuing early this morning. Farther west the weather was cloudy but with no rain.

Ottawa awaits the result with a great deal of expectancy and uncertainty. Will the Conservatives be able to hold the Maritimes? Will Quebec remain almost solidly Liberal? Will the Liberals be able to make inroads into the Conservative hold in Ontario? How will the fusion of Liberal and Progressive candidates in Manitoba affect the result in that province? Will the Conservatives be able to break into Saskatchewan, the only province in which they failed to elect a member last election? How will Alberta, whose Progressive representation played such a big part in the last parliament, do on this occasion? Will British Columbia remain as Conservative as in the last election and how will the Hon. H. H. Stevens fare in Vancouver Centre?

These are some of the questions that today's voting will decide and which are most frequently heard among those in the Capital who seeks to forecast the vote.

At dissolution the parties stood:—
Conservatives 116.
Liberals 102.
Progressives 3.
Labor 2.
Independents 2.

Reports to Ottawa indicate that the vote started briskly when the polls opened with the party machines working smoothly in checking up and getting out the vote.

SMALL GIRL DIES OF BURNS

Imperial, Sask., Sept. 14.—Burns which resulted in her death four hours later, were received Saturday by Helen Eakit, aged 5. With her five brothers and a little girl, Helen was playing among some haystacks. In some unknown way, two stacks caught fire. In fright, the children all ran from the stacks, but Helen stumbled and fell into the flames.

THE WEATHER

Moderate easterly winds; fair and cool. Wednesday—Southeast winds, partly cloudy, followed by showers.

STORMY SCENES IN MONTREAL

Eggs and Tomatoes Hurled and Patenaud and Speeches Prevented

Montreal, Que., Sept. 14.—The election campaign in Montreal closed last night in a burst of fireworks in a number of city constituencies, during which a stormy week-end meeting in St. Mary's Division where barrages of eggs and other missiles featured clashes between rival factions attending a meeting of Hon. E. L. Patenaud, ran into another storm at Lachine last night. Yelling and singing crowds surrounded the hall and fierce encounters took place between the supporters and opponents of the Minister. Tomatoes were thrown and one of these hit Mr. Patenaud.

In Hochelaga there was another scene where five policemen had difficulty in keeping order in a crowd which prevented the Conservative candidate, J. T. U. Simard from speaking.

A JAPANESE TRAGEDY

Yokahama, Sept. 14.—Eight members of the crew of the tanker Yoko Maru were killed in the explosion aboard the vessel in harbor here yesterday. Four members of the crew are missing. All were Japanese.

MEETINGS HERE WIND UP FIGHT IN THE RIDINGS

Liberals Are in Slim Array, While Griffin's is Packed

WIRE FROM MEIGHEN

Stevens Brands Story as False—We Win Says Premier

Political elections held in Belleville last evening were about as widely different as it is possible to have three meetings. Col. Vandervaet's meeting in the City hall was so slimly attended that at one time not more than 200, hardly more than 150 on an average were there. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn was chairman. The Colonel and Mr. Robert Macaulay and Mr. Hanna came rather late and were heard in speeches. The meeting was over by ten.

Mrs. Grant Needham of Toronto, spoke.

The Tummon meeting on the contrary was the greatest seen in Hastings during this campaign and practically equalled the greatest meetings of last year's fight. The theatre was packed to the roof, the platform held twenty-five or more and there were that many in the wings. Twelve hundred people were there.

Mayor Graham was chairman. Mr. Baldwin and Dr. Hafner sang and the Bon Ton orchestra played. Mr. Simpson, of Napanee, Major Alex Lewis M. P. P., of Toronto, the Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, and the Candidate Mr. Tummon all spoke each and getting a great hearing, and at times receiving tumultuous applause. Mrs. Nugent was well received.

Mr. Tummon did not speak at length He however read a telegram from the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen who spoke at Cobourg last night, the text of which follows:

"The Liberals have made no attempt to answer the definite charges because they cannot. Their supporters are deserting. The Liberal Campaign managers are now resorting last minute rootbacks. All are false. Hon. H. H. Stevens has not resigned as is so widely circulated. The letter imputed to him he brands as a forgery. The Vancouver Province newspaper has not as the Mackenzie King press reported, read him out of the party but on the contrary wired him as follows.

"Absolutely no foundation for story. Story labelled as forgery. Stevens will spoil win by majority Stevens has instructed libel proceedings. All reports "flood"—are win by a substantial majority—ever all.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

THE COBOURG MEETING

Hon. R. D. Fonton of this city, who was to have spoken in Trenton last night in the interests of W. E. Tummon of South Hastings, was sent for from Cobourg, and requested to speak at the great mass meeting held in the skating rink at Cobourg with the Right Honourable Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada.

In conversation with Major Ponton today he stated that it was a wonderful sight, four thousand people jammed in the auditorium, and the final address of the Premier to the people of Canada was a masterpiece of eloquence and oratory.

The Prime Minister spoke for two hours and five minutes, and throughout the whole address one could have heard a pin drop, with the exception of the many occasions when the audience broke out in great applause.

The telegram was then read by radio. Lieutenant Colonel E. B. Borgo, K.C., was the Chairman, the speakers were the Prime Minister, Sir James Woods, Hon. Mr. Foston, and the Candidate in Northumberland, Mr. Milton E. Mayhee,

MAINE SOLIDLY REPUBLICAN

Portland, Maine, Sept. 14.—Maine was solidly Republican today. In the State election yesterday Gov. Ralph O. Brewster was re-elected by a majority of upwards of 30,000 over his Democratic opponent, Ernest L. McLean. Mayor of Augusta and the State's four Congressmen, all Republicans, were chosen for another term.

IRISH SUPPORT CANADA

Geneva, Swis., Sept. 14.—The Irish Free State delegation to the League of Nations Assembly let it be known today that the Free State would be a candidate for a non-permanent seat in the reorganization of League Council, if Canada was also a candidate, however, Irish delegates said,—the Free State would withdraw its candidacy, and support her.

FOUR NUNS PAID FINE OF $24,000

Represented 90 Per Cent. of Value of Lace Seized—All Released

St. Albans, Vt., September 14.—Four nuns, detained here by Customs officials since Saturday, when they were found to be crossing the border with rare Breton lace sewed in their clothing, were released early this evening on payment of a $24,000 fine by Collector of Customs Harry C. Whitehill.

Payment of the fine, which represented 90 per cent. of the assessed value of the lace, automatically relieved the nuns of the necessity of facing court arrangement, and they immediately retired to their hotel here, where they prepared to board a night train for Boston.

The nuns, who are members of the Order of Franciscan Sisters, have been detained in their hotel under guard since Customs officers took them off a Canadian Pacific train at Richford.

A bit of lace protruding from the garments of one led to the discovery of the goods sewed in their petticoats. The nuns maintained they had obtained the garments at a Montreal convent, without knowledge of their contents. Collector of Customs Whitehill last night established the fact that the contraband was part of a shipment seized from two Belgians at Quebec last month.

NO PROHIBITION YET

Toronto, September 13.—That there is but little prospect of prohibition in England, was the statement made by Rev. F. W. Norwood, pastor of the City Temple, London, England, who arrived in Toronto today. "Our way is to have the custom first and the law added," he said, in explanation. "Moral effort, in this regard, will precede legislation. We will have local option opportunities first. We are moving in the right direction."

"... Do you remember Red McCutcheon?"

Two college grads. had adjourned to the locker-room to discuss old friends.

"Old Red? You bet I do! He's with Bywater Electric up at Sandison? I only see him about three times a year, but we're in touch all the time. He's as careless about letter-writing as he always was, but I telephone him one week and he telephones me the next. A lot of the other fellows are up there too—it seems as if we have a long distance class reunion every Thursday night."

CLASSY FIELDS FOR WOODBINE

O. J. C. Fall Meet Will Attract Turf's Best Stars

STARTS ON WEDNESDAY

Racing Keen in Long Established Features as Indicated

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 14 (C.P.)—Packed with rich and long-established feature races is the programme for the autumn meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine Park, Toronto, from September 15 to 22 next. The Toronto Autumn Cup, $10,000 added; Hendrie Steeplechase, $5,000 added, and the Grey Stakes for two-year-olds will provide exceptionally keen fields to attract thoroughbred horsemen from all parts of the eastern half of the continent.

THE GREY STAKES

The Grey Stakes is one of the most attractive races on the card. The field will comprise the best juveniles of the Eastern Turf among them being Rose Leaf, winner of the 1927 King's Plate. The race is a mile, with $6,000 added. The victor will generally be acclaimed the juvenile champion of 1926; Commander J. K. L. Ross, who has won the race the last five years, has only one entry this fall—Lucille Maid, a brown colt by Output-Milkmaid. Mrs. Livingstone will start Ever More, who has performed well this season. The Seagram Stables' colt Sir Harry and filly pestle; and the Tetrarch colt, Tetra Class, are likely to be contenders. Other notables among the 37 nominated are O. F. Barkhart's Heart Ache and J. P. White's speedy Listerine.

TORONTO CUP

A high class field is assured in the Toronto Autumn Cup, topped by Princess Doreen, "queen of the American turf," who is entered by the Audley Farm stable. The race is a mile and a quarter. Single Foot and Caution, from J. L. Griffith; Display, Tweakness winner; Harrovian, Sewickley Stable; and R. L. Gerry's Evasonia are among the 31 entrants. E. P. Whitney's Joy Smoke, with a fine record this season, and Commander Ross' Wheatstick are also entered.

STEEPLECHASE

The 29 entrants in the Hendrie Steeplechase, which will feature the last day of the meeting, include three former winners—Thorndale, 1925; Duke's Storm, 1924, and Minats, 1923. Herriard, Jolly Roger and Rip are other good "leapers" among the entry list, which shows much quality. The race is three miles.

OTHER FEATURES

The Woodbine Autumn Steeplechase, $5,000 added, two miles, is on the opens day car along with the Toronto Autumn Cup. The Maple Leaf Stakes, $3,000 added, a mile and a sixteenth, is one of the features on September 16. This race is for three and four year old fillies foaled in Canada and includes such well known racers as Jean Crest from the Cedar Crest stable; Brookdale stable's Hereits, and J. C. Fletcher's Fairbank. The favorite will likely be Commander Ross' great filly Tailing.

COCKSHUTT'S SUCCESSOR

Choice to Be Determined by Tuesday's Election

Toronto, September 13.— Upon the result of the Dominion election Tuesday will depend a good deal who will be the new Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario to succeed Colonel Henry Cockshutt, whose term expires on Monday. The new Government, whether it be headed by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King or Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, will have the appointment, and the election will determine whether the choice will fall on a Liberal or, a Conservative. It is not expected that the appointment will be long delayed after Tuesday. Until such appointment is made, an administrator will be named, probably the Chief Justice of Ontario, Sir William Mulock, or some other justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

GENERAL PANET TO BE G.O.C.

Quebec, September 13. — Reports reaching here say that Major-General Panet, C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C., of the General Staff, Ottawa, has been, or will be appointed in the course of a few days, general officer commanding District No. 5. He will succeed the late General J. P. Landry. The district at present is temporarily administered by General Armstrong C.O.C., M.D. No. 4.

ONTARIO CROPS FOUND SPOTTY

Some Sections Good and Some Poor With Potatoes Not So Heavy

AS EXPECTED

According to Bank of Montreal crop reports, early threshing returns are favorable, both as to yield and grade, over large areas in the Prairie Provinces, but harvesting operations have been held up by heavy rains for the greater part of the past week. Some uprooting in alsoke has taken place, and several days of clear, cool weather, are necessary before threshing can be resumed generally. In Quebec crops in general are satisfactory, with average yields. In the Maritime Provinces, weather conditions generally have been good and crops are making satisfactory progress. In British Columbia, favourable weather continues and grain and apple crops are averaging up well.

In Ontario threshing of barley and oats is fairly general. The yield and quality of barley is good, but the oat crop is very spotty, in some districts being almost a total failure, while other sections report good yield and sample. Generally the yield will be below average and the quality poor. Corn is late but has picked up well, and while some districts report damage by borer, the crop will be average. Roots and vegetables, excepting turnips, have made excellent progress and are good crops. Potatoes will not now be as heavy as expected owing to excessive moisture. Cutting tobacco is under way and a splendid crop is promised. Pastures are unusually good.

THREE LADS FROM MOIRA VILLAGE OFF ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE

The three lads from Moira village who were taken into custody by Provincial officers last week for stealing honey, were given a suspended sentence by Judge Wills this morning. F. L. Brickman who preferred the charges, said the value of the honey taken exceeded $25.00. It is understood that the complainants attempted to make a settlement with the boys and on this account Mr. Donnan asked for dismissal on the first charge which read to the effect that the stolen goods exceeded $25.00. However an amendment was added to the effect that they did steal and carry away a quantity of honey to which they all pleaded guilty.

Mr. Brickman said that he had found three or four racks of honey in the yard which had been partially destroyed and some of the bees were also lost.

The judge warned the boys that they must learn to keep out of mischief and report to Inspector Huston who was present on their behalf each month.

The boys are fine appearing youngsters and well thought of in the community where they reside.

They paid the court costs of $12.70 each.

Newmarket, Ont., Sept. 12.—Bert Taylor was killed, Adam Ballroy and Ethel Pate, were injured, and three other members of a party of six received a shaking up yesterday when a radial car travelling north on Yonge Street near Aurora, struck them while walking on the radial tracks.

CANADA IS PROUD TO BE BRITISH NATION

London, September 14.— "Do not take any notice of all the talk about Canadian feeling being in favor of secession by America. It is nothing but humbug, so far as the great majority of the population are concerned," declared J. H. Thomas, the famous British labor leader, when interviewed today on his return from a journey to Canada. "I am certain from evidence I observed," continued Thomas, "that whatever their domestic difficulties may be, Canadians are tremendously proud to be an integral part of the British Empire, and nothing that America can do or say is going to move them from that."

Today Canadians may purchase cars built by General Motors of Canada at lower prices, which are largely the result of an ever increasing export trade.

Totalling over $65,000,000 for the past five years, these exports absorb a substantial proportion of General Motors of Canada production.

They swell that production to a point far beyond the possible demands of our home market alone.

They justify large-scale methods that could otherwise not be employed.

They allow efficiency economies that could otherwise not be practiced.

They have reduced the cost of the luxurious Cadillac, which stands the unchallenged leader of all fine motor cars.

They have reduced the cost of Canada's standard car, the prized McLaughlin-Buick, a worthy memorial to the great Canadian industrial pioneer whose name it bears.

They have reduced the cost of the Canadian Oakland ... winning and holding good will.

They have reduced the cost of the Oldsmobile built in Canada ... the car that asks no favors—fears no road.

They have reduced the cost of the Pontiac, Chief of the Sixes.

They have reduced the cost of the astonishing Canadian-built Chevrolet ... so smooth, so powerful.

A dollar here, a dollar there ... hundreds from this, hundreds from that ... thousands saved in materials, thousands in operating costs ... millions and millions in all—millions gained by exports ... millions saved for You!

THORNTON TO WED FOR SECOND TIME

Philadelphia, September 14—Sir Henry W. Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, and Martha Watriss, took out a marriage license here today, although they were married at Chautauqua, N.Y., last Saturday. The application for the license did not refer to last Saturday's ceremony.

Sir Henry said he planned to be married by Judge Willis Martin, of the Common Pleas Court, of Philadelphia. Judge Martin later declined to say whether he had performed the marriage. After attending a polo match at the Philadelphia Country Club, Sir Henry and Lady Thornton left for New York.

Sir Henry was recently divorced in this city by Virginia Blair Thornton, his former wife.

WHAT INJURES CANADA

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Sir Alfred Mond, prominent British capitalist says lack of Canadian publicity in British is injuring Canada.

ANOTHER CAR STOLEN

Another car was stolen in the city last night when thieves made off with the machine owned by Ernest Pigden, Dufferin Ave. The automobile was recovered on John Street by the police last night and had been evidently left there by the culprits when they had finished their joy-ride. It was in G.K. condition The police have not as yet gained any trace of the thieves.

LONGEST TUBE OPEN CUTS ACROSS LONDON

London, Sept. 14.—The longest tube in the world running sixteen and one-half miles from north to south London and serving a population of more than 2,500,000. was opened on Monday.

The underground company drifted superstition by opening the new line on the thirteenth of the month, and at a luncheon served to six hundred guests at the Morden terminus of the tube, the Government representative occupied the thirteenth seat at the table. After lunch the guests rode in the first train through the long tunnel and some members of Parliament were noted among the straphangers.

For the opening, 2,000 free return tickets had been given to people residing near the stations of the new line. If the line is to pay, at least twelve million people must use it yearly.

IT COST $15,000,000.

At Morden, the southern terminus, the company has erected a huge garage, where for a small fee, owners of automobiles may leave their cars and continue the journey into the city by tube, thereby avoiding a motor trip through congested centres.

Social and Personals

Miss Dawn Lazier spent the week end in Toronto.

Mr. W. J. Redford has returned home after visiting friends in Toronto, Hamilton and Chatham.

The Election returns will be given at the conclusion of the performance at the Belle Theatre tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shand of Boston, Mass., are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Mackie, Church street.

Mrs. Grant of Montreal, has arrived in the city to be the guest of her sister Mrs. Kelso, 161 George St.

The first fine Saturday for several weeks was enjoyed by nearly one hundred members of the Belleville Golf Club. A delightful tea was on from four to six o'clock in the Club house which was pretty with Autumn flowers. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lorne Green and Miss E. Panter, assisting them to look after the members in a most efficient way were Mrs. (Dr.) Edwards and Miss Ivy Dickens. Mrs. Eric Keeler poured tea.

In honor of Mr. Wilfred Franks who has resigned from the local police force to join the Provincial Police, a very successful social evening was held last week at the home of Mr. J. Fox, Dunbar street. Games and dancing were enjoyed and during the evening Mr. Franks was presented with a handsome set of military brushes by Mr. Wilbur Fox on behalf of the guests while Mr. Kenneth Meahne read the following address, to which Mr. Franks made a fitting reply:

Dear Wilfred—

We have learned of your intended departure from our midst with sincere regret, and we have gathered here tonight on this, one of our last evenings together to express to you, in a slight form, our appreciation of your friendship during your stay in Belleville.

We are very glad to hear that you have something ahead of you which means advancement in your work, and this is an opportunity not to be disregarded; nevertheless, we are very sorry that you must leave us, and, on behalf of the friends present, we ask you to accept, this small token of remembrance, accompanied by our best wishes for your success.

Signed on behalf of your friends.

STILL USE SCYTHES IN OLD NEW HAMPSHIRE

Durham, N.H., Sept. 14—(C. P.)—New Hampshire discovered a Gertrude Ederle of the scythe when at a recent handmowing contest the 60-year-old Helen Bernsby won the prize and easily proved herself a better mower than the twelve other contestants. Miss Bernsby, the only woman in the contest, cut a swath 28½ feet long and 10½ rows wide in the five minutes' time, easily a longer row than those mowed by any of the men, some of whom had swung a scythe in more than two score harvests. She framed the art by herself on her father's farm, she explained, having watched the men at work and beginning to try her hand at it when she was about 10 years old. She had put in no special training for the event. She arose at 4.30 a.m. did the morning chores, came to Durham in the morning contest and won it. That was all. The prize was $15.00.

Here and There

Whaling operations off the coast of British Columbia this year have been very successful, and to the end of July the fleet had caught 183 whales. There are only six steamers operating this year, while last year the number was eight. The weather has been good to date and very little fog has been encountered.

Five clubs representing the stations in Montreal and various nearby centres left over the Canadian Pacific lines about twenty strong for Windsor recently to attend the annual convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, which was held August 24th to 27th. The Association is made up of over 350 chiefs from all parts of the Dominion.

Nearly 2,000 racing pigeons, owned by pigeon racing devotees in Montreal, were shipped through the Canadian Pacific Express yards at Montreal recently to various points in Quebec and Ontario where they were released by the agents at the points to which they were shipped to fly back to their home roosts in Montreal. Practice races of this nature have been carried on through the summer months.

Thomas Meighan arrived in Winnipeg recently from Chicago prior to beginning work on his next picture, "The Canadian". The wheat fields of the Canadian West will be the background for this picture. The location man and other members of the troupe passed through Montreal earlier on their way to the west where they were joined by Thomas Meighan, and they are looking over the Calgary district for a suitable location.

Announcement was made at the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Toronto recently that, effective September 1st, Edward Brown, theatrical and special business clerk in the passenger department of the Company at Montreal, has been appointed assistant district passenger agent at Toronto. Mr. Niven is well known to the theatrical fraternity passing through Montreal with whom he came in contact in his business.

"I am convinced that Canada offers unlimited possibilities to immigrants from the Old Country," said the Marquis of Salisbury, Chairman of the Empire's Parliamentary Association and leader of the Conservatives in the British House of Lords, when interviewed at Vancouver recently.

His Lordship sailed recently from Vancouver to Australia to attend the Empire Parliamentary Association Conference in that Dominion this fall.

The first automatic or "remote" control power plant on the North American continent is to be built at the Slave Lake side of the tunnel connecting that body of water with Lesserte Lake. The contract has been let by the British Columbia Electric Railway to a Vancouver construction company at a price of $600,000. The total cost of connecting a dam across the Nazeta River, building a tunnel connecting the lake with Slave Lake and erecting a power house will be approximately $2,800,000.

Over 50,000 railway cars which if placed end to end would stretch more than 400 miles are now available on the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway to handle the fall traffic in grain and live stock. The combined capacity of the 41,316 box cars for the grain crop which will be transported to the head of the lakes, is 670,040 tons.

THANKS

On Wednesday evening of this week the doors of the E. J. Neate &Co.,will close for good, after 23 years of Business Connection in Belleville.

Two of these years have been in our premises about to be vacated.

During these years we have strived to serve the needs of the feminine community as faithfully and well as we knew how—and the result has been that the public have always been most liberal with their patronage.

We feel that in severing our connection with the business section that we would be very amiss in our duty if we did not take this opportunity of thanking our host of friends and customers for their very loyal and unfailing support during our business experience.

Truly accept our thanks—and at the same time our regrets that we will be unable in the future to serve your needs.

Mrs E. J. Neate

IT'S VOTING DAY

The tumult and the shouting dies wrote Mr. Kipling about another thing altogether but his remark is entirely applicable to the election campaign closed last night in Belleville. Not that there was so much tumult nor for that matter shouting. What there was of it has faded out of the picture and today the business was the casting of votes.

Last night's rival demonstration here were perhaps significant. Col. Vandervoort's meeting in the City Hall was so amply attended that for the most part there were not more than one hundred and fifty and to be exceedingly liberal there were at one time certainly not more than two hundred people there. At the same time the Griffin Theatre which seats over eleven hundred was filled to capacity with twenty five or more on the platform and more than that many standing in the wings at the sides and rear.

More than six to one, is that ratio by any chance related to the vote as it will be illustrated in the returns tonight?

And for those who were at the Tunnson rally the 150 to 200 who were in the City Hall come under the category of those to whom it might be said: "Get a brush."

CANADA AND NAVY

The Round Table for September contains an interesting discussion of the rather delicate subject of Canada's contribution to imperial naval defense. The article is written by a Canadian contributor and attempts to express, frankly and clearly, the point of view of the average Canadian citizen. Public opinion in Great Britain is inclined, perhaps at unnaturally, to criticize what it regards as the somewhat selfish and niggardly attitude of this Dominion to the problems of naval defense as compared with some of the other Empire states. Australia, for instance, contributes about twenty times as much to the imperial navy as Canada does. But it is pointed out that the menace against which the navy protects that commonwealth is very much greater than any menace from which Canada needs to be protected. The service rendered by the British navy is as unquestioned as Canadian shipping is gratefully acknowledged, but the navy protects the shipping also of foreign countries which are not called upon to contribute anything to the cost. "It protects them all because it gives reform a high international function in policing the seas, a function assumed because of its vital importance to the people of Great Britain, and admirably discharged."

Canada, as ap art of the Empire, realizes that it has certain obligations in the matter of imperial defense, but feels that any danger from successful attack from the sea is remote, the Round Table commentator says. The protection afforded to Canada by the British navy cannot be compared with the protection accorded to Great Britain or to Australia or to the tropical dependencies. Canada has to be possibly the safest state, in a strategic sense, on the face of the globe. A naval service sufficient to prevent smuggling, perhaps a miniaying squadron to block hostile vessels and the St. Lawrence channel, and possibly a few small craft for coastal defense—what more would Canada need as an independant state? But the respondent comes, how, then, can Canada justify its demand for an independent voice in determining the policy of using the British navy in an agent? The answer to which is that when Canada is of war the Empire is at war, and it is not fair to leave the issues of peace and war in the hands of the British government without giving the dominions an opportunity to express their opinions. And so the argument goes on in a never-ending circle. "Canadians feel that their refusal to support the navy is the logical result of the idea of responsible government," concludes the Round Table writer, "and that those who are hurt or annoyed by their attitude are living in the past and do not understand the realities of to-day. It might be remarked, however, that there are quite a number of Canadian citizens who are not so sure of the "logical result" and who are not entirely convinced that all has been done that should be done in the matter of studying the burden of imperial defense.

TREATMENT OF HARVESTERS

Edmonton Journal:

The Western Producer makes a plea for the according of better treatment to those young men who are brought into the West each year to help the farmers with their harvesting operations. "In many instances it says, the impression of Westerners which they have taken home with them has not been good. Too much of a disposition has been shown to regard them as "an unavoidable nuisance, something to be, got rid of with the least possible delay, an unpleasant incident in the life of the farm." The Saskatoon weekly finds that on the whole they have been a very decent lot, and that more of an effort should be made to induce them to stay or to come back at a later date. As a purely agricultural journal it is in an exceptionally favorable position to give this advice, which should be heeded carefully.

TRAFFIC INCREASES

Kingston Standard:

The bulletin published by the Bureau of Statistics shows an increase in the railway traffic of the Canadian railways. This is eminently satisfactory. It applies to both passenger and freight. The increase is not large, but it is there, and it can be relied upon to go on increasing in view of the harvest which can now be counted upon. The deduction can be made, that the competition of the motor traffic cannot be as great as was anticipated by a great many people.

LAW IS ENFORCED

Petrolia Advertiser-Topic:

A complaint is a new law that has just been enacted in England, the penalty for being drunk while driving a motor car for four months in prison and a fine of $250. In addition to this the license of the driver is automatically revoked for one year. And when a law is passed in England it is enforced. They do not put as many laws on their statute books as we do but there is no playing with the law when once enacted.

WELDING METHOD BANS RIVETTERS

Anti-Noise Discovery Result of Fifteen Years' Study

NON - METALLIC AGE

Scientist Throws Upon Metals Hottest Flame Ever Developed

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Science today promised sufferers from city clocks a surcease from torture hour, far as building operations are concerned, and told of a time soon when the hammering of the riveter would be a thing of the past. This was hailed as a great economic discovery and correlated with it are the opening of a new non-metallic age and the conservation of the world's fast vanishing supply of iron ore.

The anti-noise discovery is a method of welding devised after fifteen years of study by Dr. Irving Langmuir, assistant director of the General Electric Company's research laboratories at Schenectady. He announced it before a distinguished gathering of scientists at a general session of the American Chemical Society's Convention this afternoon in the Academy of Music.

He pictured a transformation from the steel xaxe to a new alloy age, as the world has previously passed from the copper to the iron, and from the iron to the steel ages.

He envisioned erection of skyscrapers and construction of great ships with girders and plates made of alloy metals bound together by silent welding.

He saw in the general adoption of the new method of welding practical use for the first time of many years in big building projects and a consequent saving of the iron ore supplies, which chemists at the society's profession sessions have warned are seriously threatened with exhaustion.

The new welding process accomplishes its work by throwing the hottest flame ever developed by man upon metals, Dr. Langmuir explained. It develops a heat of between 6,000 and 9,000 degrees of fahrenheit, and it is known as the atomic hydrogen flame.

TORCH DEVELOPED

A torch embodying the principles of his discovery has been developed by Dr. Langmuir. Large and small torches can be made, he said, to produce minute flames capable of welding sheets of metal as thin as five thousandths of an inch, a feat impossible with the electric welding now used in commerce, or to weld plates two inch thick.

"Two metals of different composition may be satisfactorily welded," Dr. Langmuir said, "as, for example, chromium steel with a low carbon steel, or silicon copper alloy with a soft steel or silicon copper with nickel steel.

"The atomic hydrogen welder is, for the first time, the possibility of enamelling metals joined by a weld. The present generally used process of welding leaves a scale which makes this impossible, but this scale does not appear on metals joined by the new process."

SHED VALENTINO GARB

Biarritz "Sheiks" Do So in Respect For Memory

Biarritz, France, September 13.—"Sheiks" along the Basque coast have shed their Arab costumes out of respect to the memory of Rudolph Valentino. For several seasons gay-colored turbans and Arab tunics have been popular with the men fashion sphere at the fashionable beaches.

After Valentino's death however, the crowds on the Biarritz Esplanade were considered attempts to ape the film hero and would-be sheiks now find themselves more comfortable in the ordinary bathing cape and bathrobes.

Traylor engine, owned by George Pallmaterer, of Norristown, Pa., crashed through the bridge over there and dropped 12 feet into steam.

MILITARISTIC FILMS FLOODING GERMANY

Thirty-four Productions in Year Glorify Reich's Past Greatness

Berlin, September 13.—The German cinema industry which, while waging an underground warfare on American pictures, is desperately trying to break into American markets, released within this past year, or is now producing, no less than thirty-four films glorifying the Reich's monarchistic and militaristic past, according to data published today by the Berliner Tageblatt. This article ensuingly observes:—"Princes, royal sons and the old parade ground, is the watchword of the new movie season."

The Tageblatt takes President von Hindenburg to task for permitting the use of his name as patron of a picture called "Bismarck," which is frankly anti-Republican in tendency, and the producer of which, when he recently was short of funds, appealed for financial backing on the ground that his film was nationalistic propaganda. Palatial another "worthy example of loyalty to Prussian kings" is cited by the Tageblatt as "German romance: George's fidelity," in which the late Empress Augusta Victoria is a leading character, by special permission of the ex-Kaiser himself.

The Tageblatt remarks that whereas the German movie censor ruthlessly suppresses Radicali screen production like the much-discussed Russian film, "The Cruiser Potemkin," he approves cinematographic attacks on the Republic from its Royalist Right.

Name Famous in Business History Is Merged With That of Great Railway

W. S. Stuart President of Canadian Pacific Express Co.

There is much of Canadian business history bound up behind the recently announced fact that the Dominion Express Company has changed its name to "Canadian Pacific Express Co."

During almost half a century it has come to be a household word across the country, and it would be a regrettable fact that this old name should go if it not for the fact that the institution it represents assumes a new even more vital identified with Canadian history and more widely representative aboard of the varied activities of Canadian life.

When forty-four years ago W. C. Van Horne, later Sir William, then vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, desired to place the express service on the company's lines in the hands of a regular express company, the Dominion Express Company which had been incorporated in 1873, was formed with W. S. Stuart, a young Scottish expressman as Superintendent. His job was to give service over the Canadian Pacific lines, extending from New Kenora in the west of Oak Lake in the west, a distance of 445 miles and he was able to carry on with a horse and accompanied hand wagon and seven agencies.

When the same Mr. Stuart, who has for many years been president, announced the change of name, a few days ago, that one horse and wagon and seven agencies had increased to over 7000 agencies scattered all over Canada and to the far corners of the earth while feats of motor vehicles bearing the name of the company pass the streets of all the principal cities of the world, and the Dominion Express has established a name in financial and transportation circles that was commanding respect. The change was made, Mr. Stout said, in the hope that in other countries the name and service of the Canadian Pacific are better known and more extensively advertised and where, to a very large extent, the Pacific Line is one with the Pacific the parent transportation system, the good-will and help of the rail and steamship company will reflect to the advantage of the express company.

Mr. Stuart and his assistants had a hard up-hill fight in the early days. It is interesting to know that the Dominion Express Company in the United States turned down an opportunity to take over the service on the Canadian Pacific Railway, as they felt the venture would shortly go under the auction-eer's hammer.

The new express company had not only to move traffic but to help create it. In those days the transportation was a free agent in naming rates. At that time, it was possible to and the company did make low rates to encourage the farmer, the fruit grower and the fisherman without great regard for the exact the profit of the moment. It was also free from the necessity of extending unprofitable rates to others not requiring them, and had power to withdraw unprofitable rates when they had served the purpose for which they were made.

First general offices of the Dominion Express Company in Winnipeg, 1882.

In 1884 operations were extended from Rat Portage to Port Arthur and a traffic route formed more attractive between Owen Sound and Prince Arthur's Landing as Port Arthur was then called. This arrangement continued until the eastern and western lines of the company were joined on the north shore of Lake Superior.

To develop traffic in advance of the laying of Canadian Pacific rails, the express company established many means of wagon stage-coach service of which served the public for a number of years. Shippers will recall the Ayer, Paris and Brantford route, which was opened in 1892 and continued as a stage route until 1903. Other stage routes in the east were continued for twenty-five years and the same thing took place in the west where very frequently lake and river steamers took the place of the stage. It was in 1880 that the company first engaged in the money order business which has developed into a large part of its activities.

The present general offices of the company at Toronto.

'MIKADO' IN OXFORD BAGS

Male Chorus Members to Wear Modern Garb

London, Sept. 13.—Encouraged, perhaps, by the success of a modern-dress "Hamlet," London proposes to do "The Mikado" in Oxford bags!

The scenery and costumes, which include a species of Oriental sandal bags to be worn by the male members of the chorus, have been designed by Charles Ricketts, who did the decorations and dress for "St. Joan" and "Henry VIII." recently produced by Sybil Thorndike.

B.H.S. VS. TORONTO NATIONALS HERE WED.

FIRST CONTEST WITH TORONTO IS PLAYED HERE

"Ontarios" All Primed For Fixture With Queen City Champs

Word was officially received last night that the "Ontarios", otherwise known as the High School girls, will meet the Nationals, intermediate champions of Toronto at the Fair Ground tomorrow afternoon at 6 o'clock. The Labor Council had arranged to hold their sports to-morrow and it was at first thought impossible to play, but negotiations were completed with the committee, and both the ball game and sports will be held. The Labor Council, are paying $150.00 to have the game at the picnic, and strong support is needed to put the project across, and when the little girls come round selling tickets don't forget to give them a boost.

The Nationals are a fast nine who have disposed of all the teams in their class around Toronto, having downed the Goodyear-Worts Club on Saturday.

The High School after winning the Hastings County girls' league, stepped out and copped the pennant in the Bay of Quinte League and then trimmed an all-star team last Friday night. The team is going great guns and Walter Gerow looks for a victory tomorrow afternoon.

The competition for the Labor Day Cup among the Bay of Quinte teams has been called off until a later date. Allan Meagher, President of the B. of Q. League will act as convenor and Miss M. B. Merry, Secretary, has been busy arranging the details.

The return game will be played by Toronto on Saturday at 3.00 p.m., the winners to meet Owen Sound next Wednesday.

The High School have brought a great honour to the city in their first season on the diamond and fans are counted upon to turn out in large numbers tomorrow.

KELLY COLLECTS 44TH HOME RUN

Torontos Piling Up Lead After Title is Certain

The Toronto Leafs coasted to a third straight victory at Buffalo by a score of 19 to 4. The Canadians jolted Stryker from the mound in the second inning and piled up such a big lead the Bisons never got within striking distance. Kelly collected his forty-fourth homer.

Syracuse and Rochester divided a double-header at the latter's ballwick. The visitors lost the first, 6 to 3, and captured the second, 9 to 5. Boyd shutting down on Rochester and allowing only five hits.

Newark and Baltimore evened another twin-bill, the Orioles grabbing the first session, 7 to 2, but lost out badly in the nightcap when they scored a single run against Newark's 10.

Jersey City and Reading broke even also. The Braves took the final game of the Boston series from St. Louis, 5 to 4, in 14 innings, and further cluttered up the pennant chances of the Cardinals. Cincinnati, winning while St. Louis was loosing, went into a tie with the Cardinals for first place.

A hit by Cooney, with two out and Taylor on second base, blasted the hopes of St. Louis in the 14th inning. Twice while the teams were tied at 4-4, from the eighth inning on, St. Louis had filled the bases with none out. Each time the team, with Horansky at bat, was unable to score. The game was bitterly contested throughout, and Thevenow's fielding was a feature.

Doubtful's home run in the fourth was the longest drive seen at Braves Field this season. Sherdel and Alexander pitched for the Cardinals, and Wertz and Benton for Boston.

Brooklyn was blanked, 4 to 0, by the slumping Cincinnati Reds, under the direction of Eppa Rixey's left pitching arm. The Red moundsman allowed only six hits. Two Brooklyn players reached third base.

Burglars blew open safe of McCuaig-lee and Sons, Strathroy, also safe in Ferg Geddes store, and took several hundred dollars. Garage was also entered and how McLaughlin coupe taken.

Eye Negligence

Some people hold to the hope that their eyes, if abnormal, will some time improve. There is no justification for that belief in Optometry. And the reason it should never be entertained is that much harm is likely to be done the eyes by the neglect. An abnormal eye never becomes normal, though the abnormality can be overcome by the services of the Optometrist. I am waiting to help you to eyes comfort.

CHANTLER, VOSS ARE WITH QUEEN'S

Many Players at First Limbering Up of Championship College Squad

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 14.—Queen's rugby players had a light workout and felt keen training in earnest tomorrow. Among some of the players out were Carl Voss and "Peewee" Chantler, their appearance definitely settling the report that they might play elsewhere this season. Others out were Shaw, who played inside wing for Argos last year, and who is billed for a regular place on the senior team; Inkester, of Dundas, Lis Walker, Gib McKelvey, Fred Baldwin, Dave Britton, Mike Godwin, Jimmy Wright, Chick Mundell and Gwynne Baldwin.

READY FOR THE ROAD

"2361," the second large engine of the order of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., to be completed at the Canadian Locomotive plant in Kingston, is ready for the road, and was shipped last evening, after the arrival of the crew, who came from Smith's Falls to take the latest of the "Leco" monsters to Smith's Falls for its first load.

NEWEST DINGHY IS OWNED HERE BY SYNDICATE

Four Girls, Junior Members at Country Club, to Sail

The impetus of the Intelligencer Trophy is being felt in dinghy sailing, Belleville now having a smart little fleet with several more in prospects. The latest development is the formation of a syndicate which has purchased a dinghy and they are busily engaged in getting her ready for the Harry Hungerford Cup races. The syndicate hope to have her repainted and ready early this week.

The new owners are four girl members of the Bay of Quinte Club, the Misses Ann Sebuster, Grace cook, Mary Roberts and Jean Wardlaw and they will sail their own dinghy, which they have named "Fair-Weather". Willie is modest about the delicate compliment paid him, but he taught all four girls their golf he is a strong rooter for the new syndicate to win on the water.

JONES WITH 70 LEADS AMATEURS

Ross Somerville and Don Garrick Do Well in U. S. Title Match

Shorthills N.J., Sept. 14.—Bobby Jones, Georgia's marvellous shot maker, led a field of 144 players in the first round of the 36-hole qualifying match for the National amateur golf championship on the links of the Baltusrol Club. Jones breezed over the 18-hole round in 70, two strokes better than par.

Four strokes back of Bobby came George Dawson, of Chicago, Illinois State title-holder, who furnished one of the day's biggest surprises by bringing in a card of 74 late in the afternoon. Tied for third place were Jesse Guilford, of Englewood, N.J., and Paul Haviland, Yale University captain, at 75. Those who broke back of this pair came Dexter Cummings, of Chicago; Ellsworth H. Augustus and Rudy Knepper, of Sioux City.

C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario, Dominion amateur titleholder, led the Canadian contingent with an 80. Norman Scott, of Royal Montreal, had 81, while Don Carrick, of Toronto, who was two strokes ahead of J. B. Mickles, of Royal Montreal, w ith an 85.

Eustace F. Storey, British amateur, scored an 81.

BIG FIGHT WILL SHATTE RRECORD

Dempsey and Tunney Will Draw Biggest Crowd in History of Game

New York, Sept. 14.—All boxing records for attendance and gate receipts appear certain to be shattered when Jack Dempsey crawls through the ropes in the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium at Philadelphia to defend his title against the ex-Marine, Gene Tunney.

The expectations of Tex Rickard and Sesqui officials are that more than 130,000 spectators will pay approximately $2,000,000 to see the first heavyweight championship match in over three years with the gigantic concrete structure, centered in the historic Revolution grounds witnessing an unprecedented spectacle in sports.

SET PREVIOUS RECORD

Rickard reached astonishing promotion heights in 1921 when he attracted a throng of 90,000 fans who paid $1,600,000 to see Dempsey knockout the spectacular Frenchman, Georges Carpentier, four rounds in the wooden saucer at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City. Those records are the high marks of boxing now but they promise to be substantially bettered in Philadelphia.

It has been only in recent years that boxing, especially in the heavyweight class, has reached such planes of financial finance. The era of big bowls and stadiums, plus great popular interest, has made million-dollar affairs of these big title bouts, with Dempsey the central drawing card.

The present champion has fought only six times in seven years, including the bout in which he took the title away from Jess Willard in 1919, but these half dozen appearances have attracted gate receipts approximating $1,000,000, with Dempsey's share running around $1,000,000.

SportOgramS

By The "Observer"

We have still one team left in the running—the "Ontarios" or Belleville High School girls who will meet the Nationals of Toronto in the first round for the Women's Ontario Softball Championship. The locals are a smart aggregation and great credit reflects on Walter Gerow for the manner in which he has handled the team in their first season on the diamond. With a reliable batting corps and eight tober capable players they will make the Queen City champs step to win. Those who have seen the Intermediate teams in Toronto in action concede the students a good against them. The all-star game put the team in tip top shape for the big series which starts tomorrow.

* * *

The sports programme at the Fair Grounds tomorrow should attract a big crowd. The softball game will provide one of the main features and the free-for-all event and numerous other races round out a fine card. All needed now is good weather to make the affair a success.

* * *

It is reported about town that Jack Ouellet has left Toronto for parts. If the rumor is correct the pitching staff of the Canadian Nationals is sadly weakened with only one hurler, "Ollie" Gerow, left to carry the burden. The locals have a hard proposition trying to keep shamrock here. Each year the same situation arises after the season is finished. Freddy Gover went to Guelph in 1921; then Jack Williams signed a "pro" contract, and now dame rumor has it that Ouellet has flown the coop. Jack pitched some fine games during the present season and had he performed in the same style in the early months the result might have been different. Question mark 1339. Who'll take his place next season?

* * *

"Getting something for nothing" has been the method of action among a great many teams in the past. Now baseball has become a highly specialized business. Lawyers are almost as necessary as managers and coaches. Half the club apparently with the best lawyers stands the best chance of picking off the plums. Rule 10 tends to solidify the game. It is a protection to players as well as clubs. The old N.I.L. wouldn't know itself nowadays. Its constitution is judgment proof, its methods are the specialized methods that local men put into their every profession. It is hedged with convention and buttressed with authority. No matter what fly by night promoters may claim, no matter how loudly proponents of new major leagues may brag; and no matter how valuable they pretend they have in the National League an institution that can hold its end up in a hockey conflict with every assurance of eventual success. This league has the rinks, it has the players, it has every legal safeguard to protect its assets, and it has many business men in its organization who will attend to its survival in the case of conflict.

* * *

It appears to be all over but the shouting in the American and International leagues, but in the National the race has tightened, and is far from being decided.

* * *

In addition to being the National league's champion batsman for six consecutive years and one of the best secondbasemen in fast company, Hornsby is a born leader. When he took hold of the dejected Cardinals in the summer of 1925 he first showed the players that he was a square dealer. Then he told each man to play ball for all he was worth. The pitchers were permitted to use their own judgment or that of their catchers.

* * *

Hornsby also worked his best pitchers in rotation and put together a batting order that was intended to be a fixture. As soon as Hornsby discovered that a certain position needed strengthening he made experiment until he found the remedy. He won the confidence of all the players by treating them fairly, and his own splendid batting and fielding made them respect him.

Furthermore, Hornsby received no interference from his employer, Sam Breadon, who not only refused an offer of $250,000 for his release several years ago, but also gave him the chance to become a pennant-winning manager.

* * *

Gene Tunney's boxing program was ordered reduced to four rounds Saturday, the plan for reducing the work of the challenger to guard against the possibility of too fine an edge being drawn thus early in the game of conditioning. He has been going six rounds each afternoon and much of the time in Speculator, N.Y., he boxed eight rounds.

The best equipment Tunney boasts now is his mental condition. He is absolutely confident that he will win the world heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia, September 23. Satisfied that he will be at his best the night of the fight, his announced conclusions are that if such is the case he will win. Tunney does not believe that Dempsey's sledge hammer blows can hurt him for he has convinced himself that, in the parlance of the game, he can "take it." He also believes that he can hit hard enough to knock Dempsey out. The challenger expects to win and by a knockout.

TENNIS RESULTS

Campbellford and Tweed each won on Sat. in the Tummo, Tennis League and will come together next Saturday in the finals at Point Anne and the winner of this play-off will hold the Tummon Cup for this season. The winner will be the champion club of this league.

Every club in this league is playing 100% better Tennis than they were a few days ago. The courts all over the circuit have been improved and the players have improved accordingly. This last feature is the result of the main forum in Belleville's defeat on Saturday. Good players cannot be developed unless they can play on good courts. In most cases the best players that have improved are the ones that have had a chance to play on outside courts.

Son Driving With Mother Crashes Into a Standing Car

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 12.—When the small automobile driven by her son crashed into another automobile which was parked by the side of the road, Mrs. Alice Drury, 55, was fatally injured, dying 25 minutes later in the Western Hospital here today. The glare of the sun in his eyes is given by the son Robert Drury, aged 18 years, as the cause of the tragedy. The boy is being held by the local police on a charge of manslaughter.

NOTED SAXON ABBEY UNDER RAILWAY DEPOT

London, September 12.—Beneath a railway station and a factory yard of Merton, a suburb of London, has been discovered the long lost site of the Augustinian Priory of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which existed in Saxon times and was the scene of many great moments in English history.

If the wishes of the finder, Colonel H. F. Bidder, are carried out, the site of the famous old abbey will be made into a park so that its long buried ruins may be revealed and protected.

PILL-SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought natural relief in a few weeks

A remarkable, convincing tribut. is paid Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Ambrose:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every week but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it's pretty near the last I'll be without it. I was so terribly sick of taking pills, purgatives, etc., that I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN weeks so naturally and it pleased me to take."

F. C. AMBROSE

You can get permanent relief from constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN if eaten regularly. Two tablespoonfuls daily—or in chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it because it is ALL BRAN. It does a job only ALL-BRAN can do. Part-bran products may not do any good at all.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream. Use it in cooking. Try the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in London, Canada. Served by the leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by grocers.

She comes as a boon to the housekeeping sex—The bright little maid that we call Jane Gillex."

The Old Love Or New?

"And why not? The young man will think her unfaithful and forget her, which is just what his uncle wished; while she knows it was for his good, and will content herself with that thought.

"You are, my dear Estelle," he goes on, when coffee is brought in, and he is sitting by the fire opposite his wife, "you are so proud—you Engflah. Mr. Bennett could not hear that his nephew should marry Annette because her father was on the stage, 'if he marries her,' says the uncle, 'I will disinherit him.' Bon. The nephew will not hear reason; he is in love with Annette's joli minois, and cares for nothing else; but, like all young men, he is fickle and likes to flirt, and Mr. Bennett thinks if Annette is taken away, he will forget her. So he writes to me and offers to pay handsomely for Annette's musical education if I will remove her out of his nephew's path.

"Never mind," answers the professor, who, notwithstanding his fair-going journey, evidently in a talkative humor; "I consent, of course, for I have long thought what a pity it was that such a voice Annette did not choose a public career, and then the difficulty is to persuade the child to give up her lover. Mr. Bennett, who has a great deal of savoir faire, my dear Lizzie, takes Mademoiselle Fitzroy into his confidence, and she, by using such arguments as her brother's fickleness of character his apparent liking for another lady, the dreadful injury his love for Annette will be to his future prospects, succeeds in making the girl anxious to leave. I write then, and she comes to us. Ma foi! my dear Lizzie, here is quite the material for a romance, is there not?"

"Poor little Annette!" sighs his wife, sorrowfully, two large tears standing in her eyes. "He, too, poor fellow! will feel it."

"Tres English are ses cold," remarks M. Adolphe sententiously.

"We love well, though, when we love," says Madam Chabert, warmly.

"Ah! well, it will be better for Annette to be a great prima donna even than to be his wife."

Hesitated Estelle, whose husband, with enthusiasm—"better, I should think so. She has a brilliant career before her. She is pretty—very pretty. Her voice is superb, and her histrionic powers are of the finest. Besides as my half-brother's daughter, as my niece, she has some claim on the sympathy of the public. I predict her a brilliant and complete success."

CHAPTER

AFTER TWO YEARS AND A HALF

It is a lovely midsummer day, and this watering place on the coast of Devon, which we will call Littleport-on-Sea, is looking its brightest and best, although, as it is not the height of the season it is not yet crowded with visitors; still there is a goodly number of bathers standing on the firm, white sands, some of whom have already enjoyed their morning dip, while others less fortunate are still waiting their turn for a bathing machine.

It is a fair sight which meet a one's gaze as one stands on the sands at Littleport, and rarely could the beautiful scenery be seen to greater advantage than on this particular morning.

Overhead, the deep sky is serene and cloudless, smiling down on a glassy sea, almost without a ripple. In the background arise the cliffs, erect and stately, covered mostly with green sward, and cultivated almost to their very edges; while on the summit stand some stately mansions, and here and there a little villa nestling in their shelter. The sands stretch far and wide, and in the gorge formed by a chasm in the long line of cliffs lies Littleport itself, and originally a fishing village, now in its early childhood as a fashionable watering place.

On the sands the scene is a lively and animated one; children are playing about, erecting sand castles and moats, which the rising waveless are to fill, or paddling in the shallow water with their little bare legs and feet, shouting and laughing in glee; young girls, with messes of shining wet tresses streaming over their shoulders, are sitting in the sunshine reading or working, or doing nothing as the case may be; young mothers and nurses are either watching their little charges, and a group of lads of various ages are climbing a cluster of rocks on which the sea breaks softly, and which are green and slippery with seaweed, while on the cliffs another group, with hammers and chisels, are hunting for fossils. Add to this the bathing machines, painted white, and shing in the sunlight—the bathers disporting themselves in the tranquil waters; and the bathing women, less picturesque, but most useful; and the little wooden pier, with the quaint tollhouse at its entrance, and the quaint lighthouse at its end, and you have pretty accurate picture of Littleport-on-Sea.

Among the groups on the sands, if we look pretty closely, we will see some old acquaintances, and, although we met them last, they are but little nearly three years have passed since changed. Surely that tall, distinguished-looking woman is Mrs. Fitzroy, and that portly, ruddened little man by her side is Mr. Gosport, of Gosport Hall; while in that stately-looking dark-haired girl, in a pretty, fashionably-made dress of rose-colored gingham, we recognize Constance Fitzroy.

At a little distance, from them a group of young people are chatting gayly, settling plans for the afternoon It consists of five people — three young men and two girls. One of these, a pretty, yellow-haired damsel with a glittering mass of golden curls falling over her fair pale blue dress, is Minnie Gosport; the other, a tall, graceful girl, quite grown up, with a "long dress," and thick, fair hair gathered into a close, rich knot on the nape of her neck, is Amy Fitzroy grown out of all knowledge. Of the young men, one is handsome bronzed and yellow-haired with dark blue eyes and a sudden gleaming smile—Roy Fitzroy. He stands beside Minnie, and is playing idly with her parasol, while opposite stands his brother Robert, now practicing in London as junior partner of one of the most eminent physicians, and on Amy's left stands Captain Bridge, handsome and debonair as ever, and still an eligible bachelor.

"Well, girls," says Constance, gayly, rising and joining the group, "have you decided on what you are going to do?"

"No; we are going to put it to the vote, Connie," Amy answers, lazily. "It is too hot for any one to get up enough energy to decide. There is a choice of three evils—donkeys, horses, or boats. Minnie, what say you?"

"Boats," Minnie Gosport answers, promptly, thinking of a pretty sailor costume in her wardrobe, which has not yet seen the light of day.

"And you, Connie?"

"Boats, of course."

"And Amy?"

"Boats."

"All unanimous," remarks Captain Bridge. "Boats let it be, then. Now the next point for consideration is where shall we go in the boats?"

"Oh, please don't let us make another effort just yet, Captain Bridge," says Amy, gayly. "We must have some luncheon first to recruit our exhausted energies. Isn't it almost time, Bob?"

"Almost, you hungry maiden," answers her brother, glancing at his watch. "And I see the matter and Mr. Gosport preparing" to make a move. Shall we follow?"

They go up the sands two and two, Roy and Minnie ahead, then Bob and Amy, while Constance and Captain Brialey bring up the rear.

Roy and Miss Gosport are chatting and laughing merrily, and more than one person turns to have another look at the tall, broad-shouldered, handsome man, and the golden-haired maiden at his side. Minnie looks uncommonly pretty in her pale-blue linen dress. She has taken off her hat to dry her hair, and is swinging it in her hand, and the tiny feet, peeping out from under her dress, are cased in dainty, high-heeled shoes and black silk stockings, at which—Roy glances approvingly as they clamber up the steep hill leading to the town.

Amy and her brother are less merry The girl chatters away, but the young doctor answers absently, and a close observer might discover a shadow of deep pain in his dark eyes as he watches his brother and Minnie while Constance and Captain Brialey have drifted into a desultory, detached conversation, and talk, or are silent as the spirit moves them.

The Fitzroys and Mr. Bennett have been at Littleport about three weeks, in order to give Blanche a change of air; and, at Mr. Bennett's invitation, Mr. Gosport and his daughter have joined them here.

The two old gentlemen have breathed no word to each other of a certain wish which is in the mind of both; but they are equally desirous that it should be carried out.

Mr. Bennett has a great desire that his nephew should be an aspirant to the hand of the young heiress of Gosport Hall, and Mr. Gosport has evidently no objection to the tacitly proposed mesalliance, for he gives the young people every opportunity of falling in love, and they seem to be falling very kindly into his wishes.

Two years and a half have passed since Annette de Vitry left Gosport Hall so suddenly and secretly, and during that time not one line from her has been received at Royston Grange, and to all appearance she is completely forgotten.

For many days after that flight, Roy had lain seriously ill at Calais, exiling for her unworthy jo his delirium, and weeping bitter tears for her during his convalescence, when he lay weak and arose from that couch, strong and well, enfeebled he his couch. But when he he sensed naively to forget her, for her name never crossed his lips, nor did he make any more search for the woman who had apparently betrayed him so cruelly.

He had gone abroad, and for eighteen months remained absent from England, returning at the end of that time bronzed and travel-worn; but apparently quite as ready to flirt, and make pretty speeches, and whisper soft nothings into a girl's ear, as he had ever been.

Even Constance, who watched him closely, could see no difference in him, except that now there was never any depth of feeling in Roy's fancies—his flirtations were all on the surface; but she accounted for that by the fact that he was older and wiser.

The flowers are made in contrasting ribbon and the shoulder knots of velvet or metallic ribbon.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. — "I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was laid most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She wrote me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters from anyone asking about it."—Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 408, Melfort, Saskatchewan.

MEIGHEN BEATEN WITH FIVE AIDES 3 FROM QUEBEC

On Other Hand Mr. King and All Ex-Ministers Won

MURDOCK, DUFF, LOSE Doucet Who Spoke of Margaret Cruises, Was Not Elected

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—The Conservative Government of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen met with defeat at the polls yesterday.

The Prime Minister himself failed to secure election in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, and five of his Ministers, three of them from the Province of Quebec were defeated.

On the other hand, the Liberal party headed by the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, constitutes the largest group in the new parliament of Canada. Mr. King and all the members of his former Government, who contested ridings, were were returned by the electorate. Mr. King was elected in Prince Albert, Sask.

Liberals—118.
Conservatives—90.
Progressives—7.
Liberal-Progressives—11.
United Farmers Alberta—11.
Labor—3.
Independents—2.
Doubtful—4.
Total—245.

The party standing after election, October, 1925, was as follows: Conservatives 116; Liberals 102; Progressives 23; Labor 2; Independents 2, Total 246.

MINISTERS DEFEATED

Members of the Government in addition to Premier Meighen who were defeated yesterday are: Hon. E. J. Tobin, Minister of Justice. Hon. Andre Fauteux, Solicitor General. Hon. Eugene Paquet Minister of Health and Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment and two Ministers without portfolio, the Hon. Donald Sutherland and the Hon. Raymond Morand.

Former Ministers in the King Government is addition to the Liberal leader who were re-elected are: Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. P. J. Cardin, Hon. Lucien Cannon, Hon. J. A. Robb, Hon. J. C. Elliott, Hon. W. H. Motherwell, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Hon. J. King and Hon. Charles Stewart.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, speaker of the last two parliaments, was re-elected in his constituency of Gaspe, Quebec, in Queens, P.E.I., the Hon. J. E. Sinclair formerly Minister without portfolio in the King Government who was defeated in the general election last October, was successful yesterday.

MURDOCK, DUFF, DOUCET

Mr. Duff was deputy speaker during the life of the last parliament, An. (Continued on Page Three)

WEST ONTARIO AGAIN LIBERAL CENTRE IS TORY

Twenty-five Liberals Now More Than For Many Years

13 LIBERAL GAINS

Progs. and Lib.-Progs. Also Defeat Conservative Candidates

Toronto, By Canadian Press.

With victory crowned by small majority of M. N. Taylor, Liberal, in the riding of Norfolk-Elgin hitherto placed in the doubtful column the representation from Ontario in the next house of commons will be as follows:—

Liberals	25
Conservatives	23
Progressives	2
Liberal-Progs.	3

These figures indicate 13 Liberal gains from Conservatives, one Progressive gain from the Conservatives and one Liberal Progressive gain from the Conservatives.

The feature of the election contest in Ontario was the swing to Liberalism in several Western Ontario Constituencies evidenced by the return to the Liberal column of seats which, in former days were considered as Liberal strongholds. This was particularly true in Oxford, Grey, Bruce, Huron, Perth, Lambton and Kent Counties while Elgin formerly considered a Conservative stronghold, returned two Liberals. Liberal gains were also made in the Northern, and Eastern parts of the province while Central and Southern Sections remained solidly Conservative.

Ontario has never had so many Liberal members as in the new house since the reciprocity election of 1911, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was swept from power and his Ontario representation diminished from 36 to 13. In the war time election of 1917 his following was practically wiped out. In 1921 the contest was featured by the entry of Progressives as a political force in the province and in that election the new party captured 24 seats as compared with the Liberals 31, while the Conservatives carried 27 seats.

In the election last October the Liberals took only 12 seats out of the 82.

DRAYTON COMMENT ON ELECTION RESULT

Toronto, Sept. 15.—"I congratulate the King party on its return to power," said Sir Henry Drayton, M.P., for West York and acting premier at Ottawa during the absence of Mr. Meighen. "May I say that you give sporting with it for Canada."

Sir Henry said the personal defeat of Mr. Meighen was particularly regrettable. His courage in sticking to his constituency had been characteristic, though not appreciated. Quebec had remained solid, he said, and that again was a regretable feature. He thought the vote did not record the thought of Quebec on real economic and fiscal questions before the country.

FOUND GAS LEAK WITH CANDLE GEEN STORE PARTLY SCORCHED

A gasworks employee came up to Geen's Drug store on Tuesday afternoon, uncapped one or more gas pipes in the cellar, one of which was leaking gas.

The man, who shall be nameless, wanted evidently to find out which one leaked.

He looked for it with a candle.

He found it.

And according to store attaches the last they saw of him he was running for their life down the street.

Meanwhile a fire which at one time looked dangerous began quickly to eat its way up the wall from the cellar, emerging in the northeast corner of the store, to the right of the Front street door of the store. The hardwood trim of the store wall and shelves containing ivory goods were today blackened and scorched showing where the fire crept up to the ceiling which still bears several square feet of scorched woodwork.

The loss will be considerable in stock while the inner core of resume cleaned up was for a while a litter of debris.

King To Form Government With Help From Friends Among "Ind." And "Progs."

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—Rival political leaders are reviewing the field for the next move.

Neither so far has made any public announcement. Premier Meighen was at his office this morning but declined to make any statement, but expectations in political circles are that he will summon his cabinet and make preparations for placing his resignation in the hands of the Governor-General. This would be followed by the summoning of Mr. Mackenzie King to form a Government.

There is already talk in the air of a Liberal-Progressive coalition government. During his previous term as Premier, Mr. King made a number of endeavors to secure the administration of Progressives to his cabinet. In the early part of last session, the admission of Robert Forke at that time Progressive leader, and a couple of other Progressives, was mooted, but the proposal failed to materialize. It is now thought that Mr. King, when he is called to form an administration, will endeavor to secure Progressive members of his cabinet. When in the West during the recent campaign, both Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Forke, spoke on the same platform.

Uncomplete returns give Tummon 330 majority.

MAYBEE IN BY 519

M. E. Maybee, defeated W. A. Fraser by 519 in Northumberland, according to figures supplied this afternoon from Brighton after today's check-up.

NO CLEAR MAJORITY

As the results, stood at noon today, Mr. Mackenzie King falls short of clear Liberal majority. To secure a majority of one, 124 members are needed when the appointment of speaker is considered. At noon today, Mr. King had 118 straight Liberal seats, but in the normal course of things a Liberal-Progressive Cabinet would carry with it 18 Progressive and Liberal-Progressive candidates elected yesterday or a total of 136. This after the election of the speaker would give such government a technical majority of 25, apart from the 11 U. F. A. members elected in Alberta.

U. F. A. members while in the Progressive group last session have asserted an independent attitude.

One of the surprises in the campaign was the decline in Conservative strength in Ontario and the prairie provinces.

In Ontario the Conservative representation dropped from 53 to 53.

When he again forms a government, all members of it accepting paid office including Mr. King himself, will have to seek re-election.

TO LONDON CONFERENCE

On October 9, Mr. King is due in London for Imperial Conference. Some months ago the Canadian Government accepted the invitation But recent developments have left the situation much in the air. Important questions are likely to arise at the Conference and there is a feeling that the Prime Minister should be there in person, at the same time there is a questioning whether he will be able to form, his government and transact the necessary public business by that date.

In all probability, parliament will be summoned to meet in November.

LAST MINTE CHANGES

Late this afternoon the Canadian Press sent the following:

Please correct election summary to read as follows:—

Saskatchewan — Progressive 2, doubtful 1. Make total number of Progresive 8 and total doubtful 2. Last. Mountain is now moved to Progressive and the two doubtful are Kindersley, Saskatchewan, and Sirena, B.C. Otherwise summary is unchanged.

DR. EMBURY BY —

Dr. A. T. Embury, Conservative, was elected in North Hastings with a majority of 3450 over Jos. Marshall, Liberal. Dr. Embury increased his majority from last year by over 100 votes.

KING RETURNED WITH MAJORITY OVER MEIGHEN

Conservatives Did Not Elect One Hundred Members Yesterday

LIBERALS TOTAL 118

With Others Will Have Enormous Majority Over Opposition

Toronto (By Canadian Press), Sept. 15.—After six week's campaigning from coast to coast, culminating in yesterday's battle of the polls, the political tide set strongly back today to the capital, to Parliament Hill, and perhaps to Sir Thomas Hall itself.

The most definite thing that emerges from the smoke of the conflict is that Premier Meighen has failed in his bid for popular support and has lost the solid foothold he had in the last parliament of the leader of the largest group with 116 supporters, just seven short of the clear majority.

With all returns in his following will be less than the round hundred the Liberals returned in October of last year. On the other hand Mr. Mackenzie King early today had already passed Mr. Meighen's following of 116 of the last session.

He can count assuredly on the support of Mr. Bourassa, Independent member for Labelle, but who has not during the late campaign lent an opportunity of attacking Mr. Meighen. He can also count with some certainty on the support of three Labor members, A. A. Heaps, of Winnipeg North, and Rev. J. S. Woodsworth, of Winnipeg North Centre, who gave him pretty considerable support last session, as well as a new recruit to Labor ranks, H. B. Adshead of Calgary East. In addition there is the whole Progressive body, increased from a couple of dozen to about thirty members, lacking indeed the cohesion with which it emerged from the 1925 election, but offering Mr. King the presumably consistent support of Liberal-Progressives, whose candidature was fervently endorsed by separate Progressive and Liberal nominations and successful yesterday in number of places.

They include in their number Mr. Forke recognized last session as Progressive leader, whose influence with the party as a whole is apt to be thrown in support of Mr. King.

MAJ. OF AT LEAST 15

It is not a secret that a year ago Mr. Forke was willing to enter the Liberal-Progressive Coalition himself taking the portfolio of Agriculture. Even therefore if Mr. King cannot rally as his support any of the seven "straight" Progressives, among whom Miss Agnes MacPhail gave him uniform support almost throughout last session or the eleven U.F.A. members from Alberta, he yet has in sight Liberals, Labor Independent and Liberal Progressives, a voting strength of about 130, giving him quite a respectable majority of 15 on division.

Immediate interest, of course, centres on the course Mr. Meighen may elect to pursue.

CENTRAL PUT IN A BUSY NIGHT

Regular 29 Operators Were Reinforced For The Election

"LONG DIST." ACTIVE

Fine Service Rendered Public By Bell Telephone Company

Number please; Hello Peterboro, Hello Toronto, Hello Montreal, and Hello every town and village in the County of Hastings.

Hot news was pouring over scores of wires but the busy "Central" at the Belleville central phone office last night passed not a moment to catch the news she undoubtedly wanted to hear. News from North, South, East, West; news of whether or not the party she had been brought up to deem the purest in politics would hold its power at Ottawa; whether or not Tummon had got in. Though she was thus means of transmitting the news, she knew the least of what was really developing in the country.

LIKE A WIND MILL

To the casual stranger the switch board last night during the busiest time of election returns, presented a really mysterious spectacle. Arms moved with the swiftness and precision of a windmill during a high breeze as one office was connected with another, as one town was brought into touch with another. They never seemed to cease the endless stretching this way and that and yet during the considerable time the visitor watched there was no one single mistake made. As fast as one number was put in touch with another the signal light burned its warning that another party was ready to carry on a conversation. It was a revelation to find that the operators had not one minute of time's moments a trifles of a minute to pause between calls. As fast as one call was connected another rang in.

ON THE LONG DISTANCE

Long distance operators connected farthest points in Ontario with the city, rang through to Niagara Falls, to Chicago, to Montreal, registered the Code "D.Y.," when the line they wished to procure was in use by the far off city, placed the checking card swiftly under the clock which automatically registers just how long two parties talk, by the click and flash, cut up the durados of the conversation, some lasting only a fraction of a minute. In fact, while the visitor watched, Picton was connected with 1868. The Intelligencer, and the conversation lasted only 45 seconds, some talks registered fifteen minutes.

The supervisor was on the job every second of the evening, watching for any omissions, any hint of slackening of service, and her job is a busier one than one usually realizes in the fact that locally from fourteen to fifteen thousand calls are put through while from three to four hundred long distance calls are registered.

LAST NIGHT'S SERVICE

Last night's service was attended to with typical efficiency. Extra operators had been engaged and the usual twenty-nine were all on duty. Lines to the two newspapers and to the Conservative and Liberal rooms, naturally, were busiest of all, the city lines.

FOR Acid Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Insist upon "Phillips"

AN ANTIQUARIAN'S PARADISE

I can conceive of few cities in Europe where an antiquarian might dream that he was in Paradise, compared to ancient Toledo in Spain. Walk through its precipitous and crooked streets where you will, its chaos of granite and bricks, beams and iron, and the expert eye will glisten at the treasures to be seen. The homes you pass have housed Goth and Moor, Jew and Spaniard, who probably never knew the value of their secrets. Arcades, vaults, ogives, windows, colonnades often incredibly covered with coats of whitewash, which when scratched reveal sculptures, arabesques, tracery, foliage and fantastic animals. On the doors of many will be found ancient coats of arms and bearings. Balconies of ancient wrought iron, massive old doors, studded with metal bars and decorated with strange knockers of forgotten symbols. When you fill in the back-ground of its streets with its history going back two hundred years before the Christian era, surely this is where the lover of old things would desire to roam!

THANKS

On Wednesday evening of this week the doors of the E. J. Neate &Co.,will close for good, after 23 years of Business Connection in Belleville.

Twenty-one of these years have been in our premises about to be vacated.

During these years we have strived to serve the needs of the feminine community as faithfully and well as we knew how—and the result has been that the public have always been most liberal with their patronage.

We feel that in severing our connection with the business section that we would be very amiss in our duty if we did not take this opportunity of thanking our host of friends and customers for their very loyal and unfailing support during our business experience.

Truly accept our thanks—and at the same time our regrets that we will be unable in the future to serve your needs.

MOTOR CRASH

Damage sustained to a motor truck owned by Mr. E. Ridley and a small sedan owned by John Adams, both of this city, was the result of a collision which occurred last evening at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge street east. As a result of the impact the sedan broke a window in the C.P.R. express office. The force of the collision was such that the crash was heard for some distance.

CAR STOLEN; FOUND

Car thieves are evidently operating quite extensively in this city. Last week three were stolen two of which were recovered. Last night a Ford coupe the property of Douglas Marshall of this city was taken off Pinnacle street where it was parked. It was recovered this morning on Bleecker Avenue.

FINED ONE DOLLAR

Daniel Stapley was fined $1.00 and costs by Judge Wills on a charge that he did on Sept. 7th ill-beat a horse. The evidence showed that on the day in question the animal was lying out in a lot off Hamilton road and was in a frightfully poor condition. In fact its condition was such that Dr. Wolfbankle was called in the afternoon and destroyed the animal. Stapley in his evidence said he paid $40 for the horse and that he had feed it and looked after it, but it was ill for two days. The evidence was such as to warrant His Honor in finding against the accused.

LABOR PROGRAM AGAIN CANCELLED

For Second Time Rain Interfered With Attractive Events

The Labor Council of this city prepared an excellent programme of sports to be carried out on Labor Day, but owing to rain was postponed until this afternoon. Another downpour this afternoon caused a second indefinite postponement. Members of the committee and a few spectators were at the fair grounds this afternoon when rain interfered with the carrying out of the programme.

Immigration to Canada for the first two months of the fiscal year amounted to 36,113, according to an official statement issued by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. This is an increase of 11,791 over the same two months a year ago. Immigration for May, which is the latest month included in the statement, was 19,630 this year, as compared with 13,338 last year. British immigration has increased from 6,559 in May, 1925, to 7,986 in May, 1926. For the same months immigration from the United States has increased from 1,757 to 2,062 and from other countries 5,022 to 8,571.

Announcement was made from the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Montreal recently of the retirement of W. B. Lanigan, general freight traffic manager from the services of the Company which he has served for forty-two continuous years. Mr. Lanigan is regarded as one of the outstanding authorities on rail rates, although relieved from active official duties at his own request, he will be retained in the company's service in order that his special knowledge and long experience in traffic matters may be available in connection with enquiries before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

THURLOW SCHOOL FAIR A SUCCESS ENTRIES EXCELS

Prince of Wales School Basement Scene of Interest Today

Held independent of the Department of Agriculture this morning so great was the Thurlow School Fair which was on today was the best the children have yet held.

Many classes which have never before been competed in were shown and all classes were showed better entries both for a standpoint of quality and quantity, than ever before. The children had it all to themselves, no adults showing this time.

One class which has been especially well entered is vegetables and the long tables in the centre of the school hall was laden with some remarkably fine specimens of potatoes, corn, beets, cabbages—in fact every known vegetable. As the fair is held independent of the Department the children have been able to develop originality and have brought their own needs—preserved some of what ever breed they wished to show. The splendid home cooking display is a tribute to Miss Ida Young who is Domestic Science teacher. The judges for the school work is Mr. S. L. Joss, B.S.A., manager United Dairyman Co-operative; for flowers and Vegetables, Mr. J. Weddon; for poultry and soo, Chas. Dolan.

LOST DEPOSITS IN TORONTO VOTE

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Nine candidates in Toronto and York lost their deposits in the voting yesterday, according to returns compiled last night. There will be other additions to the total figures to-day, but it is not expected that the result will be materially affected. Liberal candidates in Toronto and the Yorks losing their deposits were:—Shipway, in Toronto South; Murdock, in Toronto High Park; Tipping, in Parkdale; Hunter, in West York; Boyd in Toronto North west; Dr. Walker, in Toronto Centre; and Miss Bennett, in Toronto east. Both labor candidates: —Simpson, in Toronto Northwest, and MacDonald, in West Centre— also lost their deposits.

DRANK POISON ONE MAN DEAD FOUR VERY ILL

Charles McDonald Did Not Recover From Methyled Spirits

One man is dead, another was seriously ill for a time but he was admitted to Belleville General Hospital, and three others were made temporarily violently ill, all from drinking of methylated spirits which they drank in a "party" in a box car near Trenton, among men who are working in extra shifts there.

The dead man is Charles McDonald, a married man with children aged 13 and 14, coming from Maitawa, Ont., and the man who was here in hospital is Percy C. Mackay, recently out from Scotland, a graduate of a university in Scotia, and former British officer. The others who were ill for a time are Abram and Albert Thorne, brothers, and George Plain, all being held as material witnesses for the inquest to be held on Friday.

The dead man had, it is said by the police of Trenton, had methylated spirits as a beverage several times before and "got away with it." The others were more experienced methylated drinkers and their tummy's would not contain the stuff. So they recovered.

The six fives bought at a drug store had was labelled poison, but that did not mean anything to these thirsty souls.

BLAST KILLS 8 IN KANSAS CITY

Two Cases of Dynamite Detonate in Under Water Tunnel

Kansas City Kans., Sept. 15.—An exploding early today in a water tunnel being constructed under the Missouri River here is believed to have resulted in the death of eight workmen who were in the tunnel at the time. Charles H. Foreman, engineer in charge of construction penetrated a bounard five feet from the mouth of the tunnel, through debris and smoke and reported that he could hear no sounds from the point of the explosion. The crew of eight men went to work at 11 o'clock last night. They had two cases of dynamite, both of which are believed to have exploded.

The tunnel is a unit of Kansas city's new water system, and will be used to bring water to the city from the plant located in north Kansas City.

other candidate who was much in the public eye and who went down to defeat was A. J. Doucet, in the constituency of Kent, N.B.

On the stump, Mr. Doucet who was a member of the parliamentary committee which investigated the department of customs and excise during the last session made statements in regard to the alleged "joy-ride" on the steamer Margaret by members of the former Liberal Government.

STEVENS ELECTED

The election of Henri Bourassa, Independent, in Labelle, Quebec, was early conceded. One of the most prominent members of the Conservative party to suffer defeat in Manitoba was the Hon. Robert Rogers, this province returned no Conservatives in the last house Conservatives had six seats. Manitoba seats. In British Columbia Hon. H. H. Stevens who made charges which precipitated the famous investigation and one of the most bitter debates in the annals of Canadian parliament was elected. Mr. Stevens is Minister of Customs.

Of the two women who contested ridings, one was elected. Miss Agnes MacPhail, a Progressive, who has represented South East Grey for five years in the House of Commons, was returned once more by the electors of that constituency. In East Toronto Miss Kathleen McNaught, Liberal, was defeated by Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of Public Works, in Algoma East U. B. Nicholson, prominent member of the Conservative party and one of the most active parliamentary debaters during the last session met with defeat at the hands of Beniah Bowman, formerly Minister of Ontario legislature.

THE RESULT

Tuesday's voting without doubt brought a most sensational result. To people in this district it is still unexplained and rather unexplainable. Here Mr. Tummon's majority was increased. And in every constituency in the district from Toronto and York to Brockville, Conservatives were elected as usual, with some pre-election uncertainty indicated but as the result now shows no uneasiness of the sort necessary.

Election in Ontario of more than two dozen Liberals was one of the surprising things. What contributed to this still is obscure from the Conservative viewpoint. Was the so-called Robb budget—a purely election budget—chiefly responsible? Certainly to some extent.

Almost equally certain is the fact that the "moral" issue was not effective. It went over people's heads. The voters seemingly were more concerned over what they seemed to regard as a financial saving than they were over the doings of people of the sort of Bisaillon and Monet.

The future of the Conservative Party and more particularly of Mr. Meighen is now one of the interesting questions. The cold fact today is that Mr. Meighen failed to carry the country with him. In his statement on the eve of election that his party would win over all, he was clearly basing his remarks on misinformation supplied him by his assistants.

Mackenzie King—and Conservatives as a party would not mind a Liberal victory so much if their victors were led by someone whom they felt to be more Anglo-Canadian and less separationist than he—will have a clear working majority over all the strength that the Conservatives and any who may possibly vote with them, can muster.

"Avoid another election!" We may have and then under certain circumstances we may not have for so very long after all. Political history is being made. Yesterday's vote did not make for unity. Very ugly consequences may ensue. But there is little to be gained from speculations of this sort. The morning-after fact is that Mr. Meighen's Government has been soundly defeated.

The scene again shifts to Ottawa—to Parliament Hill, with Rideau Hall a focus point.

GIVING THE PEOPLE ELECTION NEWS

The election news service provided by this paper again last evening as was the case last October, was complete and reliable and fast. The city returns were in promptly and brought great satisfaction—if Dominion returns did not—to workers for Mr. Tummon. The crowd numbered at least 2000 and completely blocked Front Street and above Victoria to nearly Campbell Street. Wheel-traffic was diverted by the police. The Intelligencer bulletins kept the crowd informed with up-to-minute news as it came in bulletin form over the special leased wire, sent from Canadian Press Headquarters, Toronto.

News of Mr. Tummon's great majority and of the success of Mr. Maybee in Northumberland and Mr. Hobbs in Prince Edward-Lennox was cheered by the crowd and there were more cheers as Eastern Ontario seats from Toronto to Brockville were shown to be unchanged, all solidly Conservative. The news from the Maritimes was a bit mixed but Nova Scotia was seen to be holding well, while the Liberal gains in New Brunswick which were indicated early were a bit of a shock to Conservatives and were really the straw which indicated the way the wind was blowing but early in the evening people refused to believe that this was really the case.

Liberal gains from Conservatives in the Province of Ontario, however, shown between eight and nine o'clock began to indicate to the watching people that the tide was swinging behind Mackenzie Kingism and while in this loyal city it was hard to believe, yet there it was.

As the evening wore on the number of Liberals in the crowd began to make their presence felt by cheering the returns bulletined, favorable to their side. The size of the crowd did not diminish greatly until after eleven o'clock. And the nature of the returns after that time did not change in any particular but continued to show gains for the Liberals or else the seat unchanged. The defeat of Mr. Meighen was perhaps unexpected even though the tide was running Liberal. That was a blow for Conservatives. Mr. Rogers' defeat in Winnipeg was not expected. And some who thought Mr. Stevens would be beaten in Vancouver were surprised because he was a victor there.

The Toronto seats were all as of yore, and all the Yorks including the great battle ground of Herb Lennox in North York were all staunchly Conservative. But the defeat of Nicholson in Algoma, of Hon. Donald Sutherland and the reverses in various other Ontario ridings were "bad medicine" for the crowd all excepting the Liberals who, were perhaps naturally growing a bit bolder in their enthusiasm as the evening progressed.

THANK YOU!

The Intelligencer desires to thank all who so kindly assisted the staff of this paper to provide the news but off the wire to the crowd. To those who so kindly loaned the lantern and operated it; to Mr. William Thompson who generously allowed this paper to hang the sheet over the front of his furniture store; to the men and women who assisted in tabulating and who wrote slides and who answered telephones; to the Bell Telephone Co., who provided a one hundred per cent. service; to the telegraph companies and all and every of them.

The Intelligencer was concerned first to give the news as it came and it has been assured that the service provided was unexcelled. Two extra editions were published. And hundreds of people used the list of nominations in Tuesday's regular editions to check the results by.

The Intelligencer fought a clean campaign on behalf of Mr. Tummon. It said nothing reflecting on Col. Vanderwater and as was forecast editorially some ten days ago none of Mr. Tummon's speakers did either.

MR. TUMMON

This paper congratulates Mr. Tummon on his magnificent majority and sympathisees with Col. Vanderwater who, as was inevitable, was snowed under. Col. Vanderwater was badly advised to contest the seat at all. He made a clean honorable appeal and it was too bad that a gentleman of his splendid character and accomplishements had to be so poorly supported. He would have been well advised had he stayed out of this contest here, for it has been stated that the result may affect his fortunes in other directions. However that is beside the issue now.

South Hastings Conservatives pledged their candidate handsomely and there must be no hard feelings over the result. We in this riding were not responsible for the whole of Canada.

Certainly to say the least of it the whole of Canada does not think and vote as this part of Ontario thinks and votes.

The fight is over for the time being.

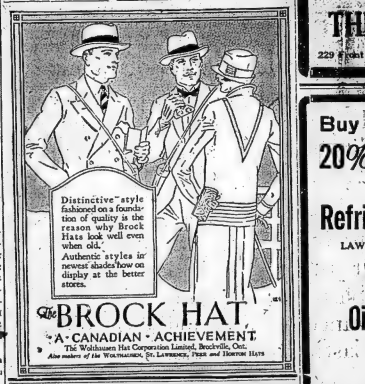

We shall see what we shall see.

DISPLAY SIGNAL IN ENGINE CAB

Pennsylvania Railroad Adopting New System at Cost of $8,000,000

New York, September 14 — The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that it would spend more than $8,000,000 in the extension of automatic signals and the installation of train control devices to make operation of the road free from accident. This is the largest expenditure undertaken on any railroad at one time for signal protection.

New principles to guard against failure in the observance of signals by engineers are being worked out by the company in connection with this programme. A new device has been designed which consists of an electrically-operated mechanism by which the indications given by the "wayside" signals; that is, the actual display on masts at the side of the track is duplicated in miniature within the engine cab, keeping the indications continuously before engineers.

In addition to the engineman and fireman having continuously before them signals in the cab, each unfavorable indication is called to their attention by a shrill whistle. There are two sets of signals in the cab, one on the engineer's and one on the fireman's side, each of which will receive a separate warning.

A train control system involving these cab signals, known as a "stop and forestaller" device, has been completed on the Pennsylvania main tracks between Harrisburg and Baltimore. This involved the equipping of approximately 150 locomotives with the necessary electrical and mechanical apparatus of this system, which is actuated by electrical circuits in the track.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to rest relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Our Trip to the Prairies

Being the account of the trip of Mr. Murray Hall and his friends to the West and return.

Our entire journey from Belleville, Ontario, to Forget, Saskatchewan covered sixty-seven hours, five hours from Belleville to Toronto, fifty-two hours from Toronto to Winnipeg and ten hours from Winnipeg to Forget. After leaving North Toronto C.P.R. station, about midnight, we immediately went to sleep. When we awoke next morning and looked out of our window all you could see was wasteland covered with huge rocks and devastated forests. Many parts of the road here were cut through the rocks, which would reach up a hundred feet high. The forests are a mass of ruins. Lone banks now standing were once a beautiful forest, had stood served to remind one of the devastations caused yearly by the carelessness of travellers, campers, etc., throwing lighted cigarettes and such like out the window or by some careless camper leaving his camp fire burning.

This is what is robbing one of Canada's greatest industries, namely the lumber industry. Mile after mile we travelled and still the sight was the same. Now and then a clearing was seen to mark where the arm of civilization had reached out and planted a few houses and stores. One of these clearings pictured a typical trading post of the past—a small river flowing through. A small group of rudely built buildings, an Indian barque which these Indians had used to carry their furs down to the post and the Indians standing outside, the trading house rooms watching the train as it rolled past. As Wednesday night drew on it grew quite cooler. We were nearing the north of Lake Superior near White River (where I believe it is as cold on a summer night as it is in Belleville in the winter) something Wednesday night when we awoke. We did not take our overcoats with us thinking we would not need them. About 2.45 Thursday morning on account of the cold we were forced to get up and build a fire in the stove in our coach and sit around it with an overcoat on. (Anybody's we found would do.) Thursday morning the real scenery began as we were rounding Lake Superior On one side of the coach sheer walls of precipitous rock rose towering into some two hundred and fifty or three hundred feet while on the other side, the beautiful Lake Superior (King of the Great Lakes) stretched out far beyond the human sight of eye. Many small islands covered with evergreen trees in the bays formed a beautiful picture to gaze upon.

The building of a railroad through that kind of country is surely a wonderful achievement. Elbow bends, half circle curves, horse-shoe curves, cutting through huge rocks, tunnels, steep embankments, marvelous bridges all afford one a beautiful sight, even more so if you have your window up when going through a tunnel and have your coach filled with smoke when you again come into daylight.

Thursday afternoon we reached Fort William with its huge elevators and docks from which much of our western grain is shipped. We went to sleep early Thursday night and were rudely awakened about 3.30 a. m. Friday by the trainman coming through the coach shouting "Winnipeg in half an hour." We arrived in the grand C.P.R. station in Winnipeg at 4 o'clock, Friday morning. We immediately purchased our tickets to carry us to our destination. Long files of men lined up to wait their turn to get tickets, on to the golden west. The government have men at the station from each of the three prairie provinces who know the condition of the crops in all sections and willingly give their information to inquiring harvesters. These men are easily picked out as they have a band around their hats bearing the name of the province they represent.

While in Winnipeg we stayed at the Y.M.C.A. on Vaughan Street. It is a fine structure of seven or eight stories, having a cafeteria, barber shop, pool room, and all other equipment of an up-to-date "Y". Winnipeg itself is a beautiful city. The buildings are much more artistic in appearance than those in Toronto. One new building of one of the oldest companies in Canada is now under construction—that of the Hudson Bay Company.

It covers an entire block and has a very impressive appearance. Per usual we found time to see a couple of shows and go to a dance. We left Winnipeg at 8.30 Saturday morning and at last the beautiful golden prairies were sighted. This was our most impressive sights on our trip was to see a field of wheat stooked and ready to thresh. This was our continual sight till we hit Carlyle where we saw another real old time typical sight. An old Indian, shabbily clothed, with long hair hanging down over his coat collar and red handkerchief pictured unto to one the settlers of this country. We arrived in Forget at 6.30 p.m. mountain daylight saving time from where we were conveyed to our working places in the modern means of transportation of the Canadian Northwest "Ford."

MURRAY HALL.

Quality That Endures

THE fruits of twenty-one years of experience in building motor cars are evident in the world-wide public acceptance of Ford quality as an enduring characteristic.

Enduring quality has enabled the public to buy these products just as it buys other products of established reputation—with the assurance of receiving good value and lasting satisfaction.

Only enduring quality could instill such confidence in the public mind. More than twelve million owners testify that this confidence is well founded.

Reds Went to Front With Win Over Brooklyn Cards Were Idle

Cincinnati defeated the Robins 5 to 1 at Brooklyn and moved into the National league leadership, while St. Louis was idle. Carl Mays was his nineteenth game of the season, after volunteering his services to Manager Headley. The Reds seated into first place with a half game margin over the Cardinals.

Twelve hits off McGraw, the Robins' reliance, gave the Reds their tallies. Brooklyn could do little against the undershing delivery of Mays, hitting for but five scattered safeties.

The world's champions played championship ball at the Polo Grounds, shutting out New York 5 to 0. Ray Kremer made it his eighteenth win of the season, allowing no hits until the seventh inning, when Frisch beat out a slow one to Grantham.

No American league games were played.

The Baltimore Orioles handed Newark a goose egg and plastered Newark's harlers for 17 hits and as many runs.

Reading and Jersey City divided a doubleheader, the Jerseyites taking the first, 2 to 0, and the Keys the second, 3 to 2.

The Syracuse Stars were at Rochester and pounded out an 8 to 4 victory, getting to Kropp in the ninth for five runs.

PIMPLES ENDED BY THIS SULPHUR

BRANCH RICKEY WILL MANAGE SYRACUSE STARS

Syracuse N. Y., Sept. 11.— Branch Rickey, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, will manage the Syracuse Stars next season, according to reports here. Some being relieved of the management of the Cards by Rogers Hornsby, Rickey has acted as scout for that team, and also general director of the four minor league teams the Cardinals operate, one of which is Syracuse. Burt Shotten, present manager of the Stars, acted as lieutenant to Rickey when the latter managed the National league team.

The Stars have a pretty good ball club now and plan to make next season a brilliant one, with Rickey as manager and developer of players for the Cardinal owners. Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis club, is supposed to be favoring Rickey's appointment here. Rickey has always been referred to as baseball's greatest thigetit and has a great eye for discovering young players.

TWO DEAD IN HINDU RIOT

Allahabad, India, Sept. 11.—Two persons were killed and 21 injured today in the rioting as a Hindu procession approached the Mohammedan mosque. Most of the casualties were Hindus. The police stopped the rioting and restored order.

Keen search is being conducted around Woodstock during a dog which is valued at $1.000, and which jumped from passing train.

TENNIS TOURNEY GOING SLOWLY

Mrs. Hanna Defeated Miss Sinclair—Men in 4 Games

The tournament at the Argyll Club has advanced very slowly owing to the bad weather during the last week or more.

To date only one ladies match has been played while four men's matches are all that have been completed. In the ladies Mrs. Hanna and Miss Sinclair (last years champion) had two great sets to see who would stay in the game for the next round. Mrs. Hanna finally won by the close scores of 10-8, 6-4 and according to the spectators who saw this match the games were just as close as the scores indicate. Mrs. Hanna will be hard to defeat for the Championship.

In the men's singles A. Black eliminated D. MacFarlane, G. Donahue eliminated Ed. Buchanan, W. Pinkerton defeated Harry Hurley and A. Armstrong won from Ned. Crow. They all won in straight sets and all are expected to go quite a distance before they will be put out.

MISS GARDINER'S SISTER DIES IN CALIFORNIA

On August 20th there passed away in El Monte, Calif., at the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. M. Goold, Matilda Loretta Anderson, widow of J. Wilburn Anderson, formerly of Napanee and of Brandon, Man. Mrs. Anderson was the second daughter of the Rev. Dr. Gardiner, and was a graduate of Albert College. Mrs. Anderson had resided in Southern California for thirty-five years. Mr. Anderson died in December 1912. Four daughters and one son survive, and twelve grandchildren, all living in either Los Angeles or El Monte; also two sisters, Mrs. Edith A. Shaw of Minot, N.D., and Miss Ella Gardiner of Albert College. The funeral was held on September 1, in the M. E. Church of El Monte and in the congregation were a large number of former Canadian friends. Mrs. Anderson was buried in the Inglewood cemetery in Los Angeles.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE REGENT

One of the best and most refreshing western pictures seen in years comes to the Regent, since Thursday, Friday and Saturday when Bob Custer appears in his ..ost F.I.D.O. flaming vehicle, "Man Rustlin." The story fairly teems with originality, and is productive of more lively comedy than any previous Custer production William Branch gets credit for the unique tale of a cowboy who turns reporter on a little cow town paper to please the ambitions of the girl he loves.

AT GRIFFIN'S

If Buster Keaton ever decided to become a rancher he will not lack experience, in making his latest laughmanpole, "Go West" coming to Griffin's Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the frozen-faced comedian portrays the role of a tenderfoot cowboy, but his adventures with 5,000 steers were more real than reel.

Buster has encountered thrills galore as an "animal trainer" during his screen career. Never before, however, had he tried conclusions with thousands of half-wild steers, assembled from various Texas ranches and shipped my special train to location in Arizona and then brought to Hollywood for the final studio sequences.

AT THE BELLE

"Watch Your Wife," Universal-Jewel co-starring Virginia Valli and Pat O'Malley, now showing at the Belle theatre, is a stinging domestic comedy drama that is certain to win favor everywhere its leading characters are a husband and wife whose petty quarrels eventually lead them to the brink of court. The title that has served, the couple only begin to real ize the happiness that had been theirs.

With the wife gone, home is no longer home to the husband and he who never had an ytime for his wife, Even a doting old housekeeper fails to take her place. Then it is he who seeks another companion, and from a social service bureau "rents" a "wife." The contract, however, bars love-making. The wife, alone in her hotel, falls into the clutches of a foreign fortune hunter a former admirer. Working in and out of the story is a lawyer who is continually doing the wrong thing in his efforts to bring about a reconciliation. It is an unusual story wit hcomedy and drama sharing the honors.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS"

Freddie Lightner, singing comedian with George White's 1927 annual edition of "Scandals" which comes to Griffin's September 20th, comes from the old Bowery family. He received his first education in singing and dancing from his father who was the interlocutor with the Drew Brothers Minstrels.

Freddie is holding up the family reputation with the "Scandals" stilth edition. He played in "Cocoanut Grove" on the Century Roof's under Shubert Management and made a ninety-eight weeks tour in Vaudeville. He is a very versatile comedian and has been classed with Al Johnson.

The Old Love Or New?

Littleport House is the sounding title of the pretension-looking stuccoed mansion which Mrs. Fitzroy has hired for the summer months, and, though its advertisements it was described as possessing all modern improvements, it embraced with Royston Grange, greatly to the latter's advantage. But the gay party assembled at luncheon are too happy and too hungry to find fault either with the accommodation or the cooking (she cook went with the house), and conversation is both general and very merry.

Mr. Bennett, seated by Minnie's side, is talking to her without a trace of his usual sarcasm or satire, and it is pretty to see the girl's gentle courtesy and timid respect. Roy, sitting opposite, is telling geology with Jack, who had been one of the cragsmen, and has apparently forgotten even Minnie's existence; while Bob Fitzroy glances at one and the other with rather troubled eyes, as though he is not quite satisfied with what he sees.

But after luncheon, when the girls come down in their dainty walk-one tumes and Coquettish, sunny, shining hats, Roy resumes his old place at Minnie's side, and they saunter down to the landing place together, and stand there waiting for the others to join them, and Mr. Bennett and Mr. Gosport, standing at one of the windows of Littleport House, are the only watching side by side, and smile, well satisfied to think their scheme is progressing.

"And you have never heard of or from her since?" asks Mr. Gosport, continuing a conversation which has been momentarily interrupted by Minnie's entrance to say good-by to her father.

"Not a word," is the prompt reply.

"Well, poor Roy had a lucky escape," says Mr. Gosport, meditatively. "I've got a very pretty to look at, and clever, but she could not have been much good to treat Roy so heartlessly."

Mr. Bennett gives a grunt which may mean either assent or dissent to this assertion; then he says, rather as if he were arguing a point:

"Roy would have been wretched by now if he had married her. He was too young to know his own mind at the time, and was caught by her pretty looks. He ought to be grateful to—to whoever took the girl off his hands," concludes Mr. Bennett, rather confusedly.

"No doubt—no doubt," assents Mr. Gosport, cheerfully; "it was but a youth ful infatuation, and Mr. Roy will do better."

And with that Mr. Gosport thinks of his pretty Minnie and her handsome portion, and thinks decidedly that Roy will do infinitely better if he supposes to her than if he had married Annette de Vitry; and Uncle Godfrey, thinking of a half promise he has extorted from

The Princess Cut Smart for the Easter Coat

BUTTERICK 6671

Sponsing for the up-and-coming generation means a new outfit. Last year's clothes have usually left the knees too far below them to serve a second term. The princess coat is smart and very becoming to slim, young figures. The new materials are cashmere, duvetyn, kasha, camel's-hair twill, worsted or broadcloth, with the new metallic touch in the inlay of silver or gold kid in the collar. Plain and fancy frills, wools and rayon and novelty weaves are trimmed with self-colored velvet or satin. The new Spring colors are rose, wine color, French or navy blue, bois de rose, almond green and kash.

Roy, goes off serenely to his dressing-room to have his afternoon nap.

CHAPTER XIV.

ON THE BRINK OF AN OFFER

Meanje Miss Gosport and her companion have reached the little wooden pier, and descended the narrow steps to the primitive landing place, where half a dozen pleasure boats are waiting to be hired, and they have seated themselves on a bench, to await the arrival of the rest of the boating party.

Both are rather silent and preoccupied; Minnie is apparently absorbed in the contemplation of her pretty little shoes, and Roy is thinking of his promise to his uncle, and wondering if it will be fair to ask this young girl to marry him, when he knows quite well that he has got a spark of love for her in his heart.

"We have not decided where we are going, Minnie," he says, at last. "Shall we go around to Shark's Head, and visit the caves? or are you afraid to venture, Minnie hesitates.

"I don't like the caves," she says, smiling a little; "it is so dark and weird, and it makes one feel so small. Besides, I am a little frightened."

"Foolish child! as if I would not take care of you," he says, tenderly, glancing down at her with a look in his blue eyes which brings the color into her face; and as he notes the pretty pink flush, Roy sighs a little, and pulls a trifle impatiently at his heavy silken mustache. "Here are the rest," he exclaims, in rather a relieved voice, as Captain Brinley, Amy and Robert Fitzroy come troop ing gayly down the little slippery steps.

"One boat will hold us all," Amy says, dubiously.

"No, we will chater two; it's much more fun," says Roy, hastily. "I will row Minnie—that is, if she will trust herself to me—and we'll race the rest of you."

"Or, better still," Robert Fitzroy says, quickly, "if you take Minnie, and Brinley takes Amy, I'll scull myself in a third boat."

"A capital idea," says Captain Brinley, with more alacrity than Constance might have cared to see. "I second the motion."

"Dare I trust you with my sister, Master Richard?" asks Roy, laughing. "Doctor, you are responsible if he upsets her."

"You are not afraid, Miss Amy?" Captain Brinley asks. "I will take very great care of you."

"And Amy can swim like a fish," Minnie says, laughingly; "and if Captain Brinley upsets her we'll go to the rescue, and leave him to drown."

"Would you agree to that?" asks Captain Brinley, in a low voice, as he hands Amy into the boat, and looks earnestly into the young girl's sweet, shy face; and her blush and glance are sufficient answer.

"Shall we have this one, Minnie?" asks Roy, as he indicates a gayly-painted boat, comfortably cushioned. "It looks about the best. Step in child," he adds, gayly. "I'll guarantee you shall come to no harm."

"I can trust you," Minnie answers, as she steps lightly into the boat. "I don't believe you would hurt me."

"I'm glad you have some faith in me," Roy answers, flushing a little, but looking at her steadily, while her blue eyes which seek his half merrily, half gravely, for Miss Minnie is a born coquette, "It is a great satisfaction when people believe in one," he goes on as he rows out of the little harbor, while Dr. Fitzroy sends his boat along with swift powerful strokes.

"Poor Dr. Fitzroy," says Minnie, softly; "all by himself."

Roy looks up at her sharply; the blue eyes are watching Bob rather wistfully, he thinks; and Bob's brother feels for a moment as if he were not so sure of his ground as he was a few minutes before.

"What an afternoon it is," he says after a few minutes' silence, "it makes one feel happy to live, does it not? Merely to exist is enough to-day."

"Yes, is it not?"

It is a most glorious afternoon, and Roy lets the boat drift slowly along the shore, giving a few strokes now and then, while Minnie sits gazing dreamily "into space," with her head resting on her hand.

Glancing at her she lounges back on the cushions, Roy thinks how pretty she is—what a dainty little bit of real life she looks. She has thrown aside her hat, and the sun, shining on her fair hair, turns it into, almost, golden; while the pretty little rounded figure is shown to great advantage by the white sailor costume she wears.

Roy's heart throbs a little faster as he gazes; he has some reason to believe that if he keeps that half flattering smile on his uncle, he will not be unfavorably received; but he hesitates. He is very fond of Minnie—fond of her in a frank, friendly fashion which precludes the idea that he will ever fall in love with her; but he sees no reason why a man need be madly in love with his wife. Many happy unions take place without that violent passion about which some people are so eloquent.

It will please his uncle if he marries her, and it will make Minnie happy, he thinks; besides, it will be pleasant to have the companionship of such a bright, sweet-tempered girl. Why should he not marry her He will never care for any other girl as much as he cares for Minnie; all that is over for him.

"Listen, Amy is singing," Minnie says, suddenly. "What a sweet voice she has!"

Amy's song comes back to them as they follow in the rear, and the words she sings are heard by both:

Women's Lives

are relieved of a great hygienic handicap in this way. Positive protection—discards like tissue

THERE is now a new way in woman's hygiene. A way scientific and exquisite that ends the unpleasant of old-time "sanitary pads."

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

You wear sheer frocks and gowns without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day, every business or social demand unhandicapped.

NO LAUNDRY

Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

You obtain it at drug or department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." Women thus ask for it without hesitancy. Costs only a few cents for a package of 12.

Renewed Talk in Queen's Park of Provincial Election in November - Ottawa Cabinet Changes

PROV. ELECTION THIS NOVEMBER A TORONTO VIEW

"There Will Be An Election of Some Sort", But Date is Uncertain

NINE VACANT SEATS

Queen's Park Says Result in Federal Vote Means Little

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16.—"There will be an election of some kind," stated the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, today when asked to amplify his declaration of yesterday that he would not face the legislature again with nine vacant seats in the Assembly.

Political observers at the parliament buildings are of the opinion that this ultimate decision will resort in the holding of a general election early in November, rather than by-elections to fill vacancies in the House.

One member of the cabinet remarked today that the return of the Liberal party in Federal elections on Tuesday had no bearing on the provincial situation, and that the Government was looking towards an appeal to the province with confidence.

RAIN HALTS HARVESTING

Alberta Also Has Snow; Ten Inches at Banff.

Calgary, September 16.—Snow and rain have again ended a halt in harvesting operations practically all over Alberta with the exception of the western portion of the province from Maple Creek district to the Saskatchewan boundary, where threshing still continues general.

The snow was particularly heavy in the north and in some instances considerable fell in the whole of Tuesday. Early today rain and snow were general from Edmonton to Red Deer.

The present storm has followed more or less the course of the recent rains, extending from Edmonton south to Vulcan and east to Bassano. There is about ten inches of snow at Banff.

FARMS ARE FLOODED AS LEVEE BREAKS

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 16.—Continued floods in the middle west, which have caused more than a million dollars' damage, were marked by the breaking of a levee on the Skunk River near Wever, Iowa, today. Much farm land soon was under water as farmers and the prisoners from Fort Madison Penitentiary worked feverishly to check the flow. A four-foot gap widened to seven feet within an hour.

THIS HELPS

London, September 16. — The British Treasury today received payments of war debts amounting to £4,000,000. The Italian Government paid £2,000,000, being the second instalment payable under the debt funding agreement of January 27 last, and France paid £2,000,000 as the first instalment on account of the French war debt.

FAMOUS CASTLE PREY TO FLAMES

Palatial House in North of Scotland Sustains Loss of $340,000

FLUE WAS DEFECTIVE

Lady Cathcart and House Party Saved Most of Valuables

Aberdeen, Scotland, Sept. 16.—Cluny Castle, belonging to Lady Emily Ellis Cathcart, and one of the largest and most palatial mansions in the north of Scotland, was destroyed by a disastrous fire last night. The Aberdeen fire brigade succeeded in saving the main portion of the structure, but two wings and the beautiful chapel were blackened ruins this morning. The loss is estimated at $340,000.

When the fire broke out, supposedly from a defective flue, Lady Cathcartand member of a house party at which she was hostess and the servants hurriedly carried the family treasures to the lawn.

Lady Cathcart is the widow of Capt. Reginald Cathcart, the sixth baronet, with whose death the title became extinct.

TRENTON MAN HIT BY TRAIN

View Was Obscured By Rain On Car Window, "Tis Said

Trenton, Sept. 16.—A fatal accident occurred about the same spot at Lonsdale Wednesday when a C.N.R. east bound train struck a car being driven by Charles Gossen, Trenton, on a level crossing, killing him instantly. The train was travelling at the rate of forty miles an hour at the time, and completely demolished the automobile.

Mr. Gossen was returning to town from the ruins of his canning factory, which was destroyed by fire recently, and, as a clear view of the crossing can be had at the spot where the accident occurred, particularly if a car is driven by the windows of his car were clouded by the heavy rain. His remains were removed by McAuley Brintell, undertaker, to Trenton.

ITALIANS CROSS FRENCH BORDER TO RAID FARM

Soldiers Ill-Treated Aged Couple and Stole Produce

WILFUL PROVOCATION

Only Great Self-Control Prevents Relations Becoming Strained

Paris, Sept. 16.—Between France and Italy the situation would be strained if the French had not for once kept a most complete control of their feelings and their arguments. At Rome three separate protests have been made against the insulting and dictatorial tone of the Fascist press, and here Prince Poinsere has had an interview with the Italian ambassador, but neither has the Italian press moderated its tone nor has the Italian Government shown the least indication that it intends to change the attitude adopted by Mussolini in his speech from the balcony of the Chigi Palace.

DELIBERATE

The situation has all the appearance from this side of the Alps of a deliberate intention of the Fascist Government to provoke offering on the one hand and of all grounds, of its right to dictate to France how she should treat political exiles who seek her hospitality. Such an attempt at dictation from Mussolini has, in the Frenchman's eyes, as much of the ludicrous that it has helped to give measure to prevent the quarrel being taken altogether seriously in this country. During the whole period of Austrian rule of north Italy and Bourbon rule of the southern half, France was the home of thousands of the most exiles she have ever within her borders, and she is not going to change her habits of hospitality, whether to Italian refugees from Fascism, Spanish republicans or Russian emigres, at the bidding of a man who himself not only accepted but several times abused the hospitality of Switzerland when he was an exile in violent Socialist revolutionary and has now come within the jurisdiction of the Swiss Government and King.

A RAID

Just how far this patience of the French has gone in contrast with what would have been the case in Italy, is shown in the press today, which in a few brief lines record how four Italian soldiers crossed the frontier yesterday at Cuneo, killing him instantly. The train was travelling at the rate of forty miles an hour at the time, and completely demolished the automobile.

Mr. Gossen was returning to town from the ruins of his canning factory, which was destroyed by fire recently, and, as a clear view of the crossing can be had at the spot where the accident occurred particularly if a car is driven by the windows of his car were clouded by the heavy rain. His remains were removed by McAuley Brintell, undertaker, to Trenton.

FRANKFORD FAIR WAS POSTPONED

Due to the inclement weather and soggy condition of the grounds the annual Fall Fair at Frankford, scheduled to open today has been postponed until September 30th. A number of prospective exhibitors and those wishing to attend the fair assembled in the town this morning and returned to their homes disappointed.

HARVEST SAFE ALL OVER WEST

Bumper Crop Will Be Threshed—Men Enough To Do

Montreal, Que., Sept. 16—Assurance that despite the shortage of harvesters in the West, all the harvest would be gathered in, was forthcoming today from Major L. F. Edwards, Winnipeg, Western Superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada, under the Department of Labour, who is in Montreal attending the fourteenth annual convention of Employment Services of the United States and Canada now in session here.

As to the actual extent of the shortage Major Edwards declared he would "be very much surprised if it exceeded 10,000 men or was as bad."

The railroads however, he added, had, by giving a cut rate on trains coming from the South, enabled five thousand more men to come across the border from the United States. By releasing thousands of their employees public utility services in the west had also contributed largely to the success of threshing operations in the prairie provinces. He expected a bumper crop this year.

FRENCH ALLIES VOTED 4 SEATS

Paris Influence Shown in Elections to Non-Permanent Positions

Geneva, Sept. 16.—France's politicial influence in continental Europe, coupled with general popularity of foreign Minister Benes of Czcho Slovakia showed today in election of four countries who are practically France's Allies to non-permanent seats in Council of League of Nations. Those states are—Poland, Rumania, Czchoslovakia and Belgium.

Other states chosen were Columbia, Chile, Salvador, Holland and China. Uruguay, Persia and Spain failed to secure British Dominions in Council, receiving only 10 votes. Colombia, highest winner, received 46 out of total of 49.

Not only will France have four allies in Council, but Poland whose dramatic fight against Russian forces at the head of chief causes of League's failure to submit Germany to membership, last March, declared eligible for re-election at end of three year period given her today.

CANADA NOT AMONG 'EM

Geneva, Swis., Sept. 16.—Nine non-permanent members of the League of Nations Council were elected by Assembly, today. They are:—Poland Belgium, Rumania, Holland, Chile Columbia, Salvador, China and Czecho-Slavakia;

DOWNTOWN FIRE CAUSED FLURRY JUST AFTER NOON

Blaze in Hallway Leading To Law Offices and to O. B. C.

A fire originating in a hallway leading to the offices of Cameron and Cameron, solicitors in the Dominion Bank building, caused some excitement about 1.30 this afternoon.

The blaze was discovered by F. W. Field, agent for the Manufacturers Life insurance Co., which adjoins the hallway. A few minutes after the alarm was rung in the fire-fighters were on the scene and a line of hose was quickly attached and struck up the stairs and the blaze was soon extinguished.

Smoke filled the offices and hall and made it difficult for firemen to get at the centre of the fire.

Evidently some one had started a fire in the furnace and some of the pipes fell on a large box affair used for storing wood and the flames ignited it. Windows and doors were open and the smoke allowed an exit. Water leaked through the ceiling of the Pharmacy drug store which is directly beneath, but no great damage was done.

Students at the Ontario Business College have not been a little bothered since the smoke which spread throughout the second and third stories made it impossible for them to remain. Had the fire department not responded so quickly it is uncertain what might have happened as the blaze would have undoubtedly spread very rapidly. The street below was lined with spectators awaiting the outcome.

A number of girls at the O.B.C. who were in the class-rooms were unable to descend by the main stairs, gained an exit by a rear entrance.

KIWANIANS BUSY BUILDING BOOTHS

Carnival and Style Show of Next Week Likely to Be Best Yet

The hammer and saw gang of the Kiwanis Club are really busy these evenings in the Armouries, making preparations for their Big Carnival and Style Show next week.

The club has been divided into sections and they will each take its turn in building booths and exhibits. The plan to place the vast amount of framework necessary to accommodate the "Big Show" under the authority of a Dominion Fire Underwriters Association and is already a large part of the work is accomplished. This work is done almost exclusively by Kiwanians in order that the net profits may be conserved as far as possible for the Kiwanis Charity Fund.

Kiwanian Chairman Meredith and his committee expect to have completed their work by Saturday at the latest, then the merchants can have ample time to arrange their displays.

BRITISH LIBERALS MAKE COMMENT

No Thought of Change in Date of Imperial Conference

"GUARDIAN" PLEASED

Says Customs Scandal Was Overplayed By Conservatives

London, Sept. 16 (Canadian Press Cable).—There is no anticipation here at present that a request will be made by Ottawa for a change in the date of the opening of the Imperial Conference arranged for October 19.

The Daily News, Liberal, says that in circles in Canada not altogether friendly to Mackenzie King it was remarked in the early days of the Dominion election campaign, when the Liberal leader was still asserting under Lord Byng's refusal of dissolution, that if Mr. King were returned to power he would not attend the Imperial Conference.

"This report has gained some currency in England," adds the News, "but the stability of Mr. King's statesmanship makes it difficult to lend it credence. It would be a misfortune if he decided not to cross the Atlantic."

BRITISH LIBERAL OPINION

London, Sept. 16 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, describes the Liberal triumph in the Guardian, "it was remarked that courageous, all the more because its declaive character was unexpected.

"During the election campaign," says the Guardian, "it was remarked that this election was not interested in the constitutional question raised by Lord Byng's refusal of dissolution to Mr. King, but the Liberal victory would be almost unintelligible if it were not assumed that the national feeling of the Dominions was aroused seriously as the result of Governor General's use of his prerogative."

The Customs scandal", the paper continues, "was recklessly exploited by the Conservatives and evidently was overplayed."

Mr. King will attend the Imperial conference not only secure in knowledge of his own power, but carrying the added prestige and authority of a Dominion Premier tried and confirmed by an electoral contest in which dominant issue, framed by himself, was directly concerned with the problem of Dominion status and the nature of the Imperial connection."

The Guardian thinks that the Dominion shows that hostility to the United States which has been running strongly in Canada since the war, is being reflected.

THE WEATHER

Moderate winds, unsettled with local showers.

Friday—Moderate winds and mostly cloudy, not much change in temperature.

FORMER PREMIER WAITING NOTICE TO TAKE CHARGE

Cabinet to Contain Several New Faces is Tale From Ottawa

QLD MINISTERS SAFE

Mostly All Will Be Given Former Positions—Conjectures

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—Premier Meighen declined to make any statement at the conclusion of the conference with Ministers of his cabinet. The PrimeMinister intimated that there might be some announcement later in the day.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 16.—Resignation of the Meighen Administration and formation of another government by Mr. Mackenzie King is expected with a brief delay. Premier Meighen has made no public pronouncement, but there is every likelihood that this will be the course of events.

In the formation of his government, Mr. King's task should not be a difficult one. It has been considerably facilitated by the fact that all his old ministers who stood for re-election were returned. With the possible exception of one or two changes they will in all probability be found again in new government.

From Nova Scotia, Prui Hatfield and Col. Ralston are mentioned in political circles as possibilities although the seat would have to be found for Col. Ralston. James Malcolm, of North Perth, Ontario, is suggested as Minister of Trade and Commerce. Hon. P. J. Veniot is mentioned from New Brunswick and Robert Forke, former progressive leader from Manitoba. These names, additions to those in the last King Government are merely suggested however as possibilities.

BYE-ELECTIONS TO COME B

Under the proclamation issued announcing general elections parliament is to meet again on November 17. Usually, the date of proclamation is merely a technicality. Rarely do members resign on the day proclaimed. But, in official circles, calculations are that the actual date of the meeting may not be far removed from the date of the proclamation.

The date when writs are to be returned and members be gazetted as the government factor, after the election, were on October 29 and the writs, with the exception of very few, were all in about November 15. The party standing was so close that a few members either way were sufficient to turn the scale. In the present House, the standing is not so close, but by-elections, following the formation of new government, may added difficulty.

LIBERALS SILENT

Liberal headquarters here are maintaining a strict silence. There has not been any official announcement since the election night and it is quite apparent that some intimated is expected almost hourly from the Conservative side. The rumor persists that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen has written to Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King offering to surrender office at the latter's convenience but from the Liberal organization nothing can be learned.

ROYAL 22ND CELEBRATES

Quebec, September 16.—On the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the Battle of Courcelette, the Royal Twenty second Battalion attended a special church service this morning at the Basilica. Mass was chanted by Rev. Major Desgardins chrjplain of the unit. A luncheon took place at the Citadel today, at which all the officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the unit were present.

NEW LICENSE INSPECTOR IN ACTION THE FIRST DAY

Officer David Sylvester, the new license inspector who replaced P. J. Naphin in this district, arrived in the city from Sault Ste. Marie yesterday afternoon.

The new officer is a fine type of manhood and is regarded as being highly efficient in Provincial circles. He has had considerable experience in the work of license inspector and a week demonstrated the fact firmly when he was successful in securing two bottles of Scotch in a raid at the Stewart House of Deseronto last night. He was accompanied by Officer Hitchcock. The liquor was found behind the bar. The proprietor, Mr. Cairns, will face his trial this afternoon when it is expected he will be remanded for

FIRE AT DRUG STORE PUT OUT BY GAS DEPARTMENT EMPLOYE

He fought the fire in the cellar and was the last man in the store. He broke today show scars where he was burned in quenching the flames.

SCHOOL FAIR FINE SUCCESS

Baby Show, Zoo and Other Added Features Make For Interest

THE PRIZE WINNERS

Long List of Successful Entries Are Given

Thronged with parents and friends of the proud exhibitors, the basement of Prince of Wales School, Thursday, was filled to capacity yesterday afternoon when the exhibits were finally judged and it was a happy scholar who drew his mother's or father's attention to his exhibit which had won one of the prizes. The parents and friends took a sincere interest in the products exhibited and each resolved to give in the coming year every encouragement to the children in making the next fair an even greater success.

THE BABY SHOW

One of the principal attractions of the day was the baby show and it took the judge, Dr. G. S. Crunk, M.H.O., a long time to deliberate over the lovely youngsters' handiwork. One was the prettiest baby, another the fattest baby, another laughed and crowed its way into the hearts of every one's heart. But the final choice went to Baby Foster, while Baby Pomeroy proudly exhibited by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pomeroy came in a close second.

THE ZOO

One of the chief interests at the fair was the zoo where dogs, cats, guinea pigs, and hens were exhibited. The hens were the product of eggs which, brought by the children, were hatched at the school's incubators, one of these having been donated by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn. The plasticine models, most of which represented a little dog sitting in a basket, or an apple, were clever; also the manual training included several very fine specimens of work.

SAYS BENNETT BEST AS LEADER

London "Standard" Picks R. B. Bennett to Displace Meighen

LORD BYNG BLAMED

Injured Own Reputation and Hurt Cause of Premier Meighen

London, September 16.—The Evening Standard, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, regards the results of the Canadian general election as a sharp censure of Lord Byng, the Governor-General of the Dominion. It recalls that it pointed out at the time of the occurrence that Lord Byng had made a great constitutional mistake in refusing Premier Mackenzie King dissolution and a short time later granting the same to the new Premier, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

"By taking such action, Lord Byng not only did an injury to his own reputation," the Standard says, "but an injury to Premier Meighen's elects at prospects following the dissolution. The fallibity of such an error is inevitable when a soldier is sent to fill a politician's place.

"During the war we heard much indignation expressed with regard to politicians filling soldiers' jobs. The reverse process, of which we have an example here, is at least as dangerous."

The Standard thinks that although a seat in Parliament should be speedily found for Mr. Meighen, the strongest figure, by far, for the Conservative leadership is Hon. R. B. Bennett, M.P., elect for West, Calgary. The paper lauds Mr. Bennett for his lucidity and great verbal felicity, and says he is worth at least $5,000,000.

The Star, the evening edition of the Daily News, Liberal, says Lord Byng's action in refusing dissolution to Mr. King and granting it to Mr. Meighen created a bad impression, "though doubtless he acted for the best."

The Star says the result of the election is a verdict against unfair political tactics. It deprecates the course of Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Minister of Justice, through the election campaign, also the "insincerity" of the Conservatives on tariff matters. With regard to the latter the Star adds that it was typical of the protectionist policy, "which the Star is glad Canada has found out."

THREE MAIDENS GO TO SEA

Decorating the fighting suits of three such maids besides as wants-to-be tank as painting the lily, which is not classed by any date either Doris Hill, or Myrna Loy or Jane Winton, all Warner screen players, from adding a few stitches to their acquatic costumes.

Pete, a somewhat pie-eyed pussy, sits demurely on the white jersey of Doris Hill, the statement to the screen who had the good fortune to be chosen as Syd Chaplin's leading lady in "The Better 'Ole" leading lady in "The Better 'Ole" right crack off the bat. Never been in the movies before, declares Doris, but anyone can see why she's there now.

It would be somewhat presumptuous to attempt to explain what that flying, iron-muscled he-man is in such a hurry about on Myrna Loy's seat. Mighty mysterious, one might say, particularly above the aristocratic emblem, but Miss Loy explains she needs just that touch for her role in "So This is Paris," so that's that.

Without insinuating a thing, it seems as if Jane Winton's preference for that tough, pre-eyed pirate might mean most anything, not mentioning the brilliant bandana tied around her hips. Incidentally, Miss Winton's suit is red and she is working in "The Passionate Quest," a forthcoming Warner picture. Decide the rest for yourself.

THE CASTLE OF JUNKER GEORG

Many German readers in the United States will probably be the only ones who will know who was Junker Georg and where stands his castle. I visited it recently while at Eisenach. The castle is on the Wartburg Forest and called the Castle of the Wartburg. It was at this castle that Frederick, Elector of Saxony, concerned for safe keeping a certain refounding monk who had little liking for, allowed his beard to grow, passed for a young nobleman and were the dress of one. While in this friendly prison he was known as Junker Georg and here he translated the New Testament into German and by this work which he said to have made this anefest castle the cradle of German literature. Now you know that I am writing of Martin Luther. The remnants of his furniture, which have been left by souvenir hunters, can be seen.

OCEAN FLIGHT ANY TIME NOW

Capt. Fonck Took Up Big Plane For Try-out—Was Satisfied

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The New York to Paris flight of Captain Rene Fonck, the French ace, and three companions, has been postponed until tomorrow and perhaps indefinitely because of a gasoline leak discovered at the last minute.

New York, September 16.—Captain Rene Fonck took up the Sikorsky plane in which he will try to fly from Westbury to Paris for an hour and twenty minutes yesterday so that Lieut. L. W. Curtin, the new navigator, might have an opportunity to familiarize himself with the plane and test the navigation instruments. The plane flew down to Montauk Point and returned to Roosevelt Field.

She flies beautifully, said Lieut. Curtain, when he returned. "Anyone could handle such a ship. I never knew one that responded more easily and promptly to the controls."

The big plane was again fussed over by mechanics all day, looking for some slight defect or adjusting motors and examining all structural connections. New brakes will be fitted around the steering compass because it vibrated too much. The oil pressure on the right motor also needs a slight adjustment.

Everyone connected with the flight seemed confident that the big moment was at hand, and was waiting anxiously for the hour when the plane will slide along the long runway and life her heavy load into the air.

It is expected that she will taxi for about 2,200 feet, or 48 seconds, before taking the air. This is double the time she took to get into the air with 20,000 pounds gross weight. The gross weight to be lifted, however, has been increased to 28,000 pounds, or 36 pounds per square foot of wing surface, the best feet load per square foot ever lifted of a plane.

F. E. O'FLYNN ADDRESSES KIWANIS

Local Kiwanians were privileged yesterday to listen to as interesting and instructive a travelogue as they have heard in a long time when Mr. F. E. O'flynn took his listeners with him in imagination over a 1600 mile motor trip which he recently completed through the New England States, including the journey through the Adirondacks, the Green and the White Mountains. The surpassing scenic beauties of the entire route covered on the trip were vividly portrayed by Mr. O.Flynn. An interesting point in connection with this trip was the courtesy extended Canadian tourists all along the line on the part of citizens and officials, all tending to make the trip most enjoyable in every respect.

Dominion Statistician Announces Increase in Electoral Districts

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—The Dominion statistician announces the population of an additional number of electoral districts and cities to that contained in the final report on August 16th for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The figures are subject to correction in certain cases, however, as "blood hounds" may be necessary in some districts before the census is finally completed as well as certain Indian reserves which have to be made.

ONE DOLLAR EACH

Three parties were fined one dollar each for driving on city streets with one or both headlights not in working order. Judge Wills warned the offenders that the penalty would be more severe if apprehended again.

PAID $10 AND COSTS

A young man paid ten and costs in police court this morning after pleading guilty to a public charge of intoxication on Tuesday night.

TEMPERATURES

A year ago yesterday the maximum temperature was 67 as compared to 64 yesterday. The minimum temperature was the same. Up to midnight the rainfall was decimal 29, slightly over a quarter of an inch.

THURSDAY'S MARKET

Despite the inclement weather there were a number of market gardeners upon the market this morning with vegetables, chief of which were potatoes and tomatoes. The latter sold at 50c a bushel and potatoes at 40c a peck. Musk melons were retailed from 15c to 20c each.

AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 16.—Wheat prices took sharp upturns here today soon after the start. Higher quotations at Winnipeg and reports of continued unfavorable weather in the Canadian Northwest, which will delay threshing and the movement of grain, brought about a scramble among wheat traders to buy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Sept. 1.35, Dec. 1.37 3-8. Corn, Sept. 77¼, Dec. 82 5-8. Oats, Sept. unquoted, Dec. 42 3-8.

Social and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott, Shannonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurieon Ketcheson, Tweed, attended the funeral of their niece, Miss Ethel Carter, Consecon.

Mrs. James Thompson and children left today for their home in Capreol, Ardeau, after spending the summer at Twelve O'Clock Point and a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gorn.

Mrs. George Thompson, 259 Charles Street, left today for Cape Girardeau, Missouri, where she will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Greene, of Hollywood, Cal., spent several days in Kingston, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Fralick, Princess Street. Mr. and Mrs. Greene's beautiful home in Hollywood adjoins that of the residence occupied by the late Rudolph Valentino. Mr. J. Barret Fralick, of the Regent Theatre staff is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Fralick.

The Belleville Golf Club was one of the attractive places on Wednesday afternoon despite the unfavorable weather. A grate-fire and autumn bloom made the club house a comfy place for one of the nicest tea given this fall. The hostesses for the afternoon were Miss Ethel Barrett and Miss Helen Hurley while Miss Ann Hurley poured tea.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wells, the former, the President of the American Optical Co., of Southbridge, Mass., spent a day or two in the city and left for their home last night. Mr. Wells looks upon the prospects of the local branch most favorably and incidentally thinks Belleville is a fine and up-to-date city. It was their first visit to Canada and commented on the fine system of transportation here and on the excellent accommodations provided for travellers.

DEER AND BEARS PLENTIFUL

Campers who have returned from northern points report seeing many deer during the past few weeks, and the indications are that those who take up the chase in the hunting season will have plenty of sport. Bears have been quite plentiful at different points in north Frontenac and the adjoining counties, and these will also afford the marksmen some shooting later on in the autumn.

SCHOOL CONTEST ENDS IN CONCERT

Prize Winners Last Evening Are Named — Details

The fair at the Prince of Wales School last night wound up with a splendid concert at which Dorothy Osborne, G. Osborne and Dyay Trow won the prizes for recitations; Helen Weese, Tom Pedder and Robert Simpson for the national costume contest; Bernice Bamford and Beatrice Garrison prizes for the best recitation of girls over 12 years of age; Annie Sligh for the best solo, Violet Grant standing second; Fred Adams for the best recitation of boys over 12. B. Bamford, T. Peddler and B. Murray for the best recitation. In the physical training Girls KGOs Minnie Kaiser and Bernice Bamford took the girls' prizes while Fred Miles, T. Peddler and McGill Vanderwater took the boys' prizes. Perhaps the most interesting section of the programme was the public speaking contest which Helen Weese and Joe Miles were judged best.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frost received the congratulations of all on the success of their baby on being first in the baby show.

NEW TREATMENT FOR SMUTTY WHEAT

Ontario farmers have for years been taking heavy losses on account of growing smutty wheat. These losses in the aggregate each season will run well over one million dollars, and individual farmers have taken discounts of from 8 cents to 15 cents per bushel on from 500 bushels to 3000 bushels. If this loss were not easily preventable it would not be so hard, but the treatment given below is the latest information, on this subject from the Ontario Agricultural College.

DIRECTIONS FOR COPPER DUST TREATMENT

The dust should be applied at the rate of two or three ounces per bushel of wheat. Place the grain to be treated in a barrel or churn, about a bushel at a time. Add the required amount of Copper Carbonate Dust and then revolve the barrel or churn until the dust is thoroughly mixed with the grain. After this treatment the grain may be bagged and sown at once. Machines are now on the market for applying dust rapidly to large quantities of seed.

Copper Carbonate may be secured at 25c per pound delivered, although in some places as high as $1.25 a pound is being charged.

Deaths & Funerals

ETHEL CARTER

Miss Ethel Carter, a well known young lady residing in Ameliasburg Township, passed away recently from an attack of pneumonia. Deceased was born on Consecon on September 22nd, 1907, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter, and although less than 19 years of age was exceptionally clever and popular and her life was rich in goodness. Miss Carter spent two years at Picton Collegiate and three years at the Trenton Collegiate and had just completed a very successful year at the Peterborough Normal School, obtaining a second-class teacher's certificate. With the writing of two more subjects, which she had planned to take this year, Ethel would have held her first-class certificate. She had been engaged to teach at the Pleasant Bay School, and plans had already been laid for the achievement of the B.A. degree, before eventually training for the nursing profession, but it was otherwise willed. The funeral which was largely attended, was conducted by Rev. H. C. Wolfrain who preached an appropriate discourse. The numerous floral tributes bore testimony to the esteem in which deceased was held. In addition to the parents, two sisters, Evelyn and Marjorie, survive.

RAIN 'IS COSTLY TO FARMER HERE'

Moisture Not Needed Grain Still Out Will Be of Poor Quality

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16—Rain which fell in Ontario yesterday and today will not help the farmers back at all, in their harvesting operations in the opinion of the Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, who stated today that this downpour was not needed and was most discouraging to the farmers of the province.

"Ontario will lose heavily this year from bad weather," he said. "At the present time there is still plenty of grain in the fields. Soaked as it is, it will prove of poor quality. Threshing has been delayed, all over the country and practically no fall seeding has been done yet. This time last year a good half of it was in," the Minister declared.

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

GEN. MOTORS IN AGAIN SOARS

New York, N.Y., Sept. 16.—Lowering of the call money rate from to 4½ percent, early this afternoon checked the reactionary price tendency in the stock market and signalled the beginning of new forward movement in many issues.

General Motors regained leadership of the market by advancing above 153 which, if allowance is made for the recent fifty percent. stock dividend, is a new record high price for the stock. Dupont, which has large General Motors holdings touched a new high record at 315. Buying of these issues was based on expectation of another liberal cash disbursement on motor stock this fall.

Packing shares also gave good demonstration of group strength.

BAD WEATHER SENDS WHEAT UP

Sleet in Manitoba; Snow in Alberta a Foot Deep

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 16.—Reports of snow, hail and rain in many western districts brought a sharp advance in grain prices at the opening of the market this morning.

After opening 7-8c to 2 1-8c higher, wheat advanced rapidly, October touching a high mark of 31.40 1-2 or 3 3-8c above yesterday's close. Trading during the first hour was exceptionally active.

Opening prices:—Wheat, Oct. 7-8c to 2 1-8c higher at 1.33 to 1.39 1-4. Number two, 5-8c higher at 1.39. December 2 1-8 to 1 5-8c higher at 1.36 to 1.35-1-2. May 7-8c to 1 5-8c higher at 1.39 to 1.33 3-4. Oats, Oct. 1-8c to 1-4c higher at 31 1-4 to 3-8.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16.—Live stock. Receipts 55. Trade steady. Heavy beef steers 7 to 7.75. Butcher steers, good to choice, 6.25 to 7. Butcher cows, medium 2.50 to 4.50. Calves, good to choice 11 to 13. Hogs select 13.85 to 14. Good ewe lambs 12.50 to 13.

GREAT SUFFERING TOUCH OF WINTER

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 16.—Predictions of an early winter—which according to old timers and famed weather prophets is to be a "severe" one—may come true if present conditions prevailing in the provinces of Western Canada can be taken for correct indication.

Cold winds sweep the prairies today. Snow and rain prevail in Alberta. A slight hail storm occurred in Manitoba and prospects are for cold and rainy weather in Saskatchewan.

The snowfall is the earliest in years in Alberta, and today in Northern sections of that province, the white blanket covers the ground to a depth of from six inches to a foot. Snowfall was heaviest in the Edmonton district, but Lethbridge, in the southern portion of the province, felt the first blast of winter Wednesday. The fall, however, was very light.

U. S. COMMENT VARIES LOW TARIFF SIDE HAPPY

Washington, D.C., Sept. 16.—Comment on the outcome of the Canadian elections among Democrats and among those western Republicans who want United States tariff revised, and the rates lowered, is that the prospective return of former Premier Mackenzie King to power, and the failure of the high tariff advocates in Canada to win, are favorable to the cause of lower tariffs in this country.

They take the view that victory of the high tariff advocates in Canada, and the imposition of higher duties in Canada, would have been reinforcement to the policy of the high tariff supporters in this country, and would have furnished them arguments to increase the rates here, for at least not to lower them.

The Washington Post, which is pro-administration and a high tariff advocate, says editorially the tariff issue will again appear in Canada and the "battle will set and until one side or the other obtains a decisive triumph.

WEST SUFFERING TOUCH OF WINTER

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 16.—Predictions of an early winter—which according to old timers and famed weather prophets is to be a "severe" one—may come true if present conditions prevailing in the provinces of Western Canada can be taken for correct indication.

Stresemann Says European Frontiers Guaranteed By Locarno

ALLAYS BRITISH FEAR

Franco-German Cartel Not Aimed at the Iron Industry

Geneva, Sept. 18—Formal exchange and deposit of ratifications making Locarno agreements officially in force was brought from German Foreign Minister Stresemann the first authoritative revelation of what is behind the minds of the Will delegations.

"If Locarno has any meaning at all it should be that the existing frontiers of western Europe are guaranteed against forceful change. Consequently such guarantees, such as occupied areas, are no longer necessary," Dr. Stresemann told the correspondent.

He took advantage of the exchange of ratifications in which M. Briand, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Signor Scialoja, Foreign Minister Zaleweki of Poland, M Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, and M. De Brouckere of Belgium, participated at the office of Secretary-General Sir Eric Drummond, to give the press an extensive statement in which he warned that certain people in Germany would be inclined for boundary revision." He emphasized, however, that the importance of the past week's developments was the spirit rather than the letter of the speeche and events.

Dr. Stresemann also revealed that Russia had done her utmost to prevent Germany from entering the League of Nations, and when he was asked if Berlin would serve as a Soviet and if the Russians were more favorable toward Geneva, he declared:

"And Tchitcherin. When I asked him if Moscow would ever enter the League of Nations he replied that it was inconceivable, and the Bolshevists would never even consider the proposition and then he added, "never is a word that statesmen should not use, ever."

The German Foreign Minister manifested impatience over even discussing the affairs of Germany and the Soviets, concluding:

"It is not likely that a country which has done its utmost to keep Germany out of the League of Nations would seek membership itself."

COMMITTEED TO COURT PROTOCOL

In reply to a question as to whether Germany would affiliate with the Hague Court at once, he expressed the opinion that by joining the League Berlin had committed itself to the court protocol, but suggested that the correspondents ask Dr. Gaum the German legal expert. He indicated that Germany generally is convinced that Germany's adhesion is necessary and vital to the carrying out of the Locarno pacts under the League.

He declared he shares the deep-expressed British view with regard to the meaning of the events at Locarno, that continued occupation of the Rhine territories would be an anomaly in that Germany is entitled to be trusted in the future. He said there are Germans who will want to see results too quickly, not realizing the difficulties that still remain. With their formal conclusion, he added, it must be noted that the League packs bring to an end a special group of Locarno nations, as there can be no special Locarno group within the League.

TAKES FOR HIS HERO A CABINET MINISTER

Arnold Bennett Blamed For Taking the Character From Life

London, Sept. 16—Arnold Bennett's new novel, "Lord Raingo," will be a revelation of the love life of one of the Great War, according tonsunusual announcement by the Evening Standard which will publish the story in abentai form.

The Standard says:

"Lord Raingo" has for its principal the love story of a Minister of the Crown, who in the most anxious days of the war finds his duty to hisecurity submerged by his passion for a woman. At a time when all his thought and energies should be devoted to the service of the nation, he finds himself the victim of personal emotions, enslaving him.

"It is stated in some quarters that Bennett has taken for lord Raingo a character easily recognized from life and for the woman who exercises such a dire effect on Lord Raingo he has similarly gone to real life in war time. The propriety of Mr. Bennett's doing this has been severely criticized."

HON. MR. FERGUSON ON POLITICAL SITUATION

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 16—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, stated today that he would not face the Ontario Legislature again with nine seats vacant in the province, but he would not state whether a provincial election would be held before the next session of Legislature or whether a by-election would be conducted to fill the nine vacant seats in the House.

Previous to the federal election campaign there were seven vacant seats caused by resignations and two were added when Beniah Bowman, Progressive member from Manitoulin and J. W. Freeborn Progressive member for Middlesex East, resigned to run for Federal honors yesterday.

Commenting on the results of the Dominion election, Premier Ferguson attributed the Conservative reverses in Ontario to three causes. He said that the Liberals had a larger and better organization than the Conservatives; that the Conservatives were overconfident, and that the affair concerning the Hon. H. H. Stevens, arising at the last minute left no opportunity for explanation.

THE COD PORT OF EUROPE

Nearly a quarter of a century ago my travels were mostly in the east, and many a week I have spent with the Newfoundland fishers off the Grand Banks, and mixing with the French colonists of St. Pierre and Miquelon. This spring it all came back again, for I was at St. Malo in Brittany once the stronghold of a great fleet and today the home port of most of the French fleet which operates the fisheries off the coast of Newfoundland, to which they go between March and October of every year. This year 93 vessels left with 3000 Breton sailors on board. It was an impressive ceremony watching Cardinal Charost blessing them before departure. Brittany is the place to see quaint costume, for there Celts came here from England fifteen hundred years ago, and if you will stay over a week-end among them, you will see them in their Sunday best, though I have seen them display their ancient finery on Feast Days also, or at the "Pardons," as they say. Their language is not unlike Welsh and they are very simple in their nature and manner. It is a rugged coast line and at low tide it is possible to walk to the Grand Bay, an inlet where Chateaubriand is entombed.

MAN ANCESTOR OF THE MONKEY

Novel Theory Put Forward By Professor at Berlin University

CHIMPANZEE BABIES

Nearer Human Beings Than Parents — From Reptilian Form

Berlin, Sept. 16—That the monkey is descended from man and not man from the monkey is the declaration of Dr. Max Westenhofer, professor of pathalogical anatomy at Berlin University, in a long-reasoned speech at the Anthropological congress at Salzburg yesterday. He also declared that man is developed from a remote animal that itself developed from a reptilian form of life.

Dr. Westenhofer explained how his investigations showed the ancestors of mankind once lived in the water. He even declared that monkeys must be regarded as a further or later development than man. Discussing the question of origin, he said:

"It is a matter of fact that chimpanzee babies are much nearer human beings than their parents," and, referring to Haeckel's fundamental biogenetical law that the ancestors of monkeys came from a human-like animal, he added:

"For this reason the sentence, "Human beings originated from monkeys" must be changed to 'Monkeys originated from human beings.'"

Dr. Westenhofer concluded by declaring definitely that human beings have come in a direct line from the oldest mammals—the ankle-joint animals from which all other groups of mammals took their different jaw, foot formation have branched.

He began by declarating that in addition to numerous known primitive characteristics of mankind, primitive conditions in the formation of some of their organs are preserved in the different races of mankind to-day. Among such primitive survivals he mentioned the functionless appendix, with its worm-like appendage, the lobulation of the kidneys and the indentation of the spleen and formation of additional spleens.

In explaining the last two, Dr. Westenhofer said they are only found in water-mammals, and that it could be taken for granted that the ancestors of mankind must have had a period of water-life.

HUMAN LIFE AND FOOT

He pointed out as of special importance that not a single monkey type, not even the man-like ape, shows a lobulation of the kidneys and no conclusion that monkeys must be regarded as a further development beyond human kind. He explained that these observations led him to search for the origin of the human chin and foot, as they are of special formation, and if he could prove their origin it would be possible to show from what place in the line of vertebrate animals humanity developed.

The human chin, he said, developed from the peculiar position and function of human teeth. For this reason, he said, that this point of human development could be located in connection with certain reptiles. The chin has kept its primitive characteristics in man; while it has deviated in other animals through strong development, and specialization of their teeth. He pointed out that the strong development of the teeth, jaws, chewing muscles and nonsense of mammals stand in inverse proportion to the development of their brains, while with the human being, exactly the opposite is true.

Dealing with the human foot, Dr. Westenhofer said its characteristics are the heel, instep and ankle-joint, pointing out that only mammals have developed the ankle-joint and a real heel. He declared that the skeletons of amphibiums and reptiles show how terrestrial form of living has affected their hind extremities and how the development of the heel and instep must be explained.

NOT OLDEST MAMMAL FOOT

The development of the ankle-joint he said, arose from the raising of a balancing reptile, whose tarsal was still curved, and could react to every move of the muscles. He declared, the presensile foot is not the oldest mammal foot, as generally believed, but the real walking-foot standing of the primitive form and function of the teeth and jaws and therefore, the prevension of formation of an animals mouth and the prevention of a standing foot were the main reasons for the brain development of the ankle-joint animals, so fast from this creature the brain animal, the human being could develop.

MICHAEL CURTIZ

Michael Curtiz, the famous European director who has been signed to a long-term contract by Warner Bros. is a Hungarian by birth. When he was twenty-two, he went to Denmark, imbued with the desire to play in motion pictures.

Instead of playing, however, he directed, and then went to Paris for Pathe. After the war, he went back to Hungary, and on the strength of his success with "The Waltz Dream" he was engaged by a Viennese film company to make seventeen pictures. His best known pictures are "Moon of Israel," "Sodom and Gemorah," "Memoirs of Satha," "The Golden Butterfly" and "Red Heels."

"The Third Degree," based on the famous melodrama by Charles Khan, and starring Dolores Costello, will be Curtiz's first Warner directorial assignment.

BAD FIRE FAR SOUTH

Homer, La., Sept. 16.—Damage estimated at almost three quarters of a million dollars was caused by a fire which devastated two blocks of buildings in the business section of Homer last night. The combined efforts of the fire department of Homer, Haynesville, Arcadia and Gibsland and several hundred volunteers were required to gain control of the blaze early today.

The Old Love Or New?

"Oh! the new wine—the new wine,
It tasteth like the old;
The heart is all satisfied again;
The drops are all of gold.
We thought the cup was broken,
We thought the tale was told,
But the new wine—the new wine,
It tasteth like the old."

"Does the new wine ever taste like the old?" wonders Roy to himself, as they drift along. "Will my regard for Minnie ever give me one glimpse of that happiness? Well, it it does not it will not give me the misery of—"

Here Roy's thoughts drift away, and then comes into his shut eyes a look Minnie has never seen in them before.

"What are you thinking of, monsieur?" she says, with a pretty little moue. "You are not very entertaining."

"I beg your pardon," he answers, coming back with a start to the present. "I was thinking of a question I want to ask you."

"Oh, Roy!"

"Shall I ask it now, Minnie?" he goes on, skipping his oars, and speaking quietly and gravely.

Minnie flushes and falters for a moment.

"Shall I, Minnie?"

"No. Please not now," she says confusedly. "Dr. Fitzroy," she calls out, in her silver clear voice, "what is the name of your boat? Ours is the Ariadne."

"Mine is the Annelie," answers Bob, "promptly, as he rounds a jutting rock.

And Minnie lifts her eyes to Roy's face and sees that he grows white as death.

"Mr. Fitzroy," she says gravely, "would it be right to ask me that question?"

Before Roy could answer, there 's sudden grating sound on the bottom of the boat, and in less time than it takes to write it, the gay skiff is in two, and Roy and his companion are in the water.

Fortunately Roy can swim well—more fortunately still he has a cool head and plenty of presence of mind. He rises to the surface in a moment, looks anxiously around for Minnie, and half a dozen strokes take him to her side of the boat to which the girl is clinging.

"Don't be frightened," he cries, as he passes his arm around her. "You're quite safe. I can take care of you."

She makes no answer; she is too unnerved to speak, and in a moment consciousness deserts her, and she lies on his arm a dead weight.

Unfortunately Bob, who is ahead, has rounded a point and is out of sight; but Roy hallous lustily, and in a few minutes his brother reappears and rows swiftly to them, while Roy devotes himself merely to keeping himself and Minnie afloat.

"What has happened?" Bob says, hoarsely, as he lifts Minnie into his boat, which fortunately is broad and flat-bottomed, and Roy scrambles in after her, looking a trifle white and exhausted.

"My confounded carelessness!" he mutters, savagely. "Never looked where we were going, and came upon the rocks. The child is not hurt, Bob; don't look so terrified. She fainted from frieght; row us ashore there's a good fellow; there is a cottage not far off. Here, give me the oars."

For Bob seems capable of nothing but bending over Minnie, and as he raises her head on his arm. Roy glances at his face, sees a story of love and anxiety written there, which is plainly stamped that "he who runs may read."

"Cheer up, old fellow," Roy says, cheerily, as they run the boat up to the shingle, "there's no harm done; nay, I think there is some good, for he has lifted Minnie out, and, carrying her up the bank, deposits her gently on the sand, cushioning her head on his arm, and watching her face with very tender eyes.

"Bob," his brother asks suddenly then, "why did you not tell me that I was poaching on your manors?"

"Of what use, old fellow, if she loves you?" the young man answers, sorrowfully.

"But she does not," Roy rejoins, busying himself with the boat; "and, my I consider it rather an insult that she does not, it is rather a relief to my personal feelings; this accounts for everything."

"But, Roy, what makes you imagine—"

The soft pink tinge is coming slowly back to the beautiful face resting on Bob's arm, and the white eyelids flicker over the blue eyes, then Minnie lifts them languidly and looks around her. Both young men wait breathlessly, but the lids close as have found Bob's face, and linger there.

"You are better," he says, softly, and the blue eyes read in his dark ones the secret he no longer cares to conceal, and Minnie raises herself with a little sob.

"Oh, Bob," she says, with a caught breath, and the next moment the golden head is on his breast, and Bob's cheek is resting on the streaming wet hair, while Roy shows a proper consideration, and "makes himself scarce," although, as he climbs up the little path on the cliffs to look out for a cottage where Minnie's clothes can be dried, he has a little ache at his heart which he does not attempt to define.

CHAPTER XV.
MADE HAPPY

"You see, my dear uncle, it was not to be. I am quite happy as Minnie should wish me to remain alone!"

"I am sincerely sorry, Roy; I wanted you to win her."

"She has been won some time, if I have given Bob some heart-burnings which he need not have suffered."

And Roy walks over to the window and looks out at Minnie and Bob, who are sauntering up and down the garden walks, Minnie's arm encircling Miss Gregort's waist, rather too openly for Roy's fastidious notions.

The explanation has been made; Minnie has sobbed out her confession on her father's shoulder; has owned that she has cured for Bob as long as she can remember; that she has only flirted with Roy to tease his brother (a) which communication Mr. Gregort raises his eyebrows); and had father has scolded and then kissed her, and put her hand in Robert Fitzroy's, and given his consent. The misdarting in the young doctor's family is almost unanimous every one except Uncle Godfrey rejoicing in Bob's happiness, and none more sincerely than Roy, although he is conscious still of that pain at his heart—a kind of yearning for something which he does not possess—which makes one doubt the truth of his assertion to his uncle as they sit over their wine.

"I am quite happy as I am; I would it not be as well to let wellalone."

"Why not let me follow my own wishes and your example, Uncle Godfrey?" he says in a minute, with a smile. "I think bachelorhood infinitely preferable to the cares of married life."

"It is not the life I had planned for you, Roy," he answered, sadly; "and though you are young still, I hardly think I shall live to see my plans realized. I had set my heart at first on 'The Lees,' with a bonny young wife at your side, a yellow-haired little son with your eyes, Roy, upon her knee; I have seen you happy in her love, and in your children, and I have hoped that you would taste that most perfect of all joys—a happy married life now."

"My dear uncle," Roy answers, much moved at the old man's earnestness, "it may all come yet. It is early days at seven-and-twenty to despair."

"True, true," assents Uncle Godfrey; "but I see something in you which tells me you will not be easily won.' Surely," he adds, rather irritably, "that child is pretty enough to touch any one."

"Pretty enough to win Bob, at any rate," laughs Roy, as he kindles his cigar and resumes his place at the table, on which the dessert still lingers.

"Roy," says Mr. Bennet, after a pause, "it is not any memory of—of Miss de Vitry which—"

"She!—no!" answers his nephew, interrupting him, with a contemptuous laugh. Mr. Bennet gives a little sigh of relief, while Roy smokes rather fiercely, and stares moodily at the carpet on the same subject of his uncle.

Meanwhile the two young people, pacing up and down the alleys of the garden (which the adventuresses of Ettleport House dignified by the name of grounds) are much more pleasantly employed. Dr. Fitzroy proves himself quite an adept in the art of love-making and Minnie, as she pores up by his side in her pretty evening dress, with her blue eyes lifted to the thoughtful but happy face, far above hers, looks as happy and charming as any girl need look.

"And so you have loved me all this time, Bob?" she says, longing to hear again the assurance which cannot be repeated too often to please her.

"For years you have been my first thought, darling; and do you know, Minnie, I never quite despaired until this summer?"

"And so you did despair this summer?" says Minnie, arche pauses. "What made you, Bob?"

"You little coquette, as if you did not know," he answers, smiling tenderly into the loving eyes. "You were a very naughty child to encourage Roy as you did."

"It was only to make you jealous Bob. I wanted you to love me, and you never made and sign. I am so glad—oh! so glad—that we were upset to-day, or you would, never have spoken, and I should have married Roy, if he asked me, out of 'pique.'"

"Poor Roy," said Bob, remorsefully, "I hope he will not be unhappy."

"About what?"

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION FOR MRS. PENN

She Escaped It by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Windsor, Ont.—"After the birth of my first baby I was very much run down in health and the doctor said I must have an operation as I was suffering from a displacement. A friend wanted me to try your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and I took it steadily for a year. During this time I was carrying my second baby and I felt real well all the time and did not have a hard confinement. I feel sure the Vegetable Compound did me a lot of good, and all my people do, too. One sister in Leamington, Ontario, takes it, and both sisters praise it as a great medicine. I am more than pleased with the result."—Mrs. W. Penn, Windsor, Ontario.

Mrs. Corbin Relieved from Pain

Shewicka, N. S.—"I had pains across my back and in my side for two years after my first baby was born. My mother had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I read about it in the papers, so I tried it and the pains all left me. I have a family of three children now, and the medicine helped me during the months before they were born. I recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. Clay W. Corbin, Main Street, Shewicka, Nova Scotia.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the tea, Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. Nobody's guess. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, faded hair is not sinful we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Paris Gives a Straight Cut to the New Jumper Frock

The two-piece mode is considered twice as chic as most unofficial fashions. There are new ways of cutting it with sleeves and straight edges that allow one to make use of the gay Spring borders. The one-edged border is usually placed in the blouse for it is considered a bit smarter to have it on the hip than at the hem. Some of the new bordered broadcloths, crepes de Chine and flannels have a wide border at one edge and a narrower one at the other. Paris places the narrower border in the skirt and uses the wider one for the blouse.

No More Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, its because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEMROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, McKeown's Drug Store and all druggists are authorized to sell HEMROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID to-day.

Cleveland Lost First Opportunity to Cut Yanks' Lead

New York breathed an icy blast on Cleveland's hopes of winning six straight from the Yankees, and going into first place, by taking the first of the series at Cleveland, 6 to 4.

The Yankees drove Uhle, Cleveland pitching ace, from the mound in the seventh. Uhle personally had beaten New York five straight this year. Until that inning Uhle had held New York to three hits and had struck out seven men, including Ruth once. Uhle, however, lacked his usual control, and in the seventh New York bunched four hits got a pass and Pinch-hitter Ruther was hit by the pitched-ball. It was a single to centre by pinch-hitter Pascal that put across the tying and winning runs.

Cleveland drove Jones from the box in the fifth but Shawkey who replaced him was a puzzle.

IN THE NATIONAL

The Reds retained their half-game lead over the Cardinals in the National League pennant race by defeating the Robins at Ebbets Field by the score of 7 to 2 while the Cardinals werewinning from the Phillies.

The Reds' victory which swept the series of five games into the win column of the current league leaders and helped them to climb above the Cardinals, was attained without much trouble, against hardly respectable opposition and amidst the jeers of the home fans for the home club.

Pittsburgh saw her pennant chances grow more dim as her traditional rivals, the New York Giants, took a 8 to 5 game from her. Though the Pirates won the series, three games to two, the loss played them three and a half games behind Cincinnati, leading the league, and three games below St. Louis.

TORONTO NICKED

Syracuse won a double-header from the Leafs. Not that it matters a hoot.

PONIES LEADING 7 TO 0 IN DRIZZLE

Game Was Called in Second With Oslers Almost Helpless

It was a lucky break for Toronto Oslers that the ball game at Kingston was called after one and five-sixth of an inning had been played. The Ponies scored five runs in the first frame and had chalked up two more in the second and had three men on bases when the "Umps" called the game.

"Del" Cherry had just slammed one down the third base line and "Lonny" Purvis was at bat when hostilities were ceased.

Joe Spring was on the hillock for Oslers and was in poor form, walking several men and allowing quite a number of hits. He certainly proved no puzzle to the Ponies. On the other hand Roger Cairns had commenced in lovely form and Freddy Hamilton's boys could do nothing with his offerings. A steady drizzle was falling when the teams took to the diamond in the mammoth stadium and hopes were entertained that it might stop but a steady downpour continued. The stands were practically filled with spectators, many of whom were from Toronto, Belleville, Brockville and other outside points.

The Ponies will play in Toronto on Saturday with the return game in Kingston next week.

SILVER QUILTY UMPS. JOE O'BRIEN REFEREE

Montreal, Sept. 16.—Joe O'Brien will be the senior referee in the Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union this season, according to a statement issued yesterday, the Montrealer taking the position left vacant through the retirement of Bob Bibister, of Hamilton, who has officiated in the senior role for the past four years, during which time Joe O'Brien acted as umpire in the intercollegiate. It is practically certain that Silver, Quilty, of Ottawa, will fill the umpire's berth this season in the college series, though official notification to this effect has not been made. It is understood, however, that all three universities have agreed to Quilty as umpire. The head linesman for the autumn series of games has not yet been named.

McGill University rugby players were called for the first drill of the season yesterday afternoon. Coach Frank Shaughnessy returned to the city yesterday morning and was at the stadium in the afternoon, but he had a comparatively light session ahead with a mere handful of players out.

"KING OF THE FAIRIES" HAS BEEN DETHRONED

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16—"King of the Fairies," champion bull of the United states, was dethroned to-day at the International Live Stock Show at the sesqui-centennial stadium.

The former champion, which was bred by the Prince of Wales, and owned by the Baker Shorthorn Farms, Hickman Mills, Missouri, lost his crown to "His Star Laura Segis," the property of the Minnesota Holstein Company. Both bulls are Holsteins.

Belleville Girls Will Play in Toronto on Saturday

The Toronto "Nationals" came down yesterday with a full array to do battle with the local High School girls, but "Jap Plus" transformed the diamond in the Fair Grounds into a regular "Flanders" and made play impossible. It was at first thought that the game would be played in the armouries but operations have already commenced towards getting the booths arranged for the Kiwanis Carnival next week. The Toronto girls are anxious to play a double-header in Toronto but the locals are not in favor of this arrangement and the game will be played here next week. The W. O. S. A. are waiting for a winner to be declared as soon as possible. The team will leave for Toronto early Saturday morning.

TENNIS

The Tennis tournament is advancing slowly. In the ladies' events Miss S. Rose defeated Mrs. Martin 6-0 and 6-1. Miss Rose now meets Miss H. Drouse in the semi-finals to see who plays Mrs. Hanna for the Championship.

Bob. Brown eliminated Harry Foote 6-4 and 6-1. Bill Coulby put out Johnie O'Gorman 6-1, 6-2. C. Byrant gained the right to go into the next round when M. Ecill defaulted. If weather conditions should improve this tournament would soon advance to an interesting stage.

A LONG HARD WINTER?

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Sept. 16.—It is predicted here that this winter is to start early and end late next spring. 1927 is to be summerless. The winter is to be one of the severest ever known on the continent, says a weather expert.

THE OUTLOOK

On Tuesday the Dominion of Canada voted to give Mr. Mackenzie King the Premiership of the country and provided him with what looks like a comfortable working majority.

With so many pressing problems facing the Dominion he has been given his supreme opportunity. Will he take it or pass it by?

There are problems of finance and of immigration and of administrative policy generally on which leadership of the highest kind is absolutely essential. Untrammelled and unhampered by Progressives—without need of their support—Mr. King will be expected to attack these problems vigorously.

As for the Conservatives who will compose an array of ninety on the Opposition benches, they include many experienced Parliamentarians who will watch with trained eye the legislation as it is presented and will be able to check executive matter before the House. Their duty lies in safeguarding for Canada its great heritage.

It is expected that the Government of Mr. Meighen will have time to handing its resignation in His Excellency Lord Byng. There have been enough delays in the past five years without further loss of time now.

The Imperial Conference next month will call for a strong delegation from Canada. Mr. King's constitutional question will be doubtless brought up there. Immigration is also a certain topic and better means of letting the people of the Motherland know of the geography and resources of the Dominion. Sir Alfred Mond recently has been widely quoted as having stated definitely that Canada is losing trade to the Motherland because of faulty publicity. There is probably something in what he said; he is not the kind of person to speak unadvisedly.

Mr. Robb will be now in a position to attempt measures of finance without having to watch his step lest he annoy the Progressives.

All of which shows what a chance but at the same time what a responsibility Mr. Mackenzie King faces. The people have voted him into power. They will vote him out again the moment he is false to his trust.

GENEVA AND LOCARNO

While Canada has been electioneering the world has been moving on. The League of Nations for one thing has found itself happy in its reception of Germany and yesterday the Locarno treaties came into effect.

The final paragraph of the treaties made at Locarno said they came into effect after the entry of Germany, and after exchange of ratifications and their deposit at Geneva. The latter of these two steps have been taken and the former when Germany entered the League last week, the Rhineland Treaty and other compacts made last October are now in vigor.

There are five Locarno treaties.

First, and most important, is the Rhineland Guarantee Treaty between France and Belgium on the one hand, and Germany on the other, which is guaranteed by Great Britain and Italy; second, the Arbitration Convention between France and Germany; third, the Arbitration Convention between Belgium and Germany; fourth, the Arbitration Treaty between Germany and Poland, and fifth, the Arbitration Treaty between Germany and Czechoslovaki.

The Rhineland Treaty is characterized as the base of the new European policy, by the premise of France and Germany that they will in no case resort to war against each other. It establishes the sanctity of the neutral zone along the Rhine, which neither France nor Germany may cross militarily except in the execution of a mission of the League of Nations. Germany and France, as well as Belgium, agree to arbitrate all differences arising between them. The League is made the judge of all allegations of violation of the treaty.

The current Italian pastime of attempting to annoy France by speech, by sneers, by armed raids, as happened only yesterday, may yet prove another League test.

AWARD ISSUED ON CONCILIATION

Conditions in Dispute Between C. N. Express Co. and Employes

Ottawa, Sept. 16—The Department of Labor gave out the report of the conciliation board which investigated a dispute between the Canadian National Express Company and certain of its employes, arising out of appointment made to the company's agencies at Timmins and Cobalt, Ont., and Saint John, N.B. The employes involved in the dispute were members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes.

The conciliation board reports that agreement on the points in dispute was reached by the representatives of the company and of the employes. Under this agreement, the three positions in Timmins, Cobalt, and Saint John will be bulletined in the manner as if they were now vacant, and the appointments to them shall be selected from the applicants made for each vacancy. It is also provided that the applications and date bearing upon each will be made available to a representative of the general committee before appointments are made in case he should desire to co-operate with the company's officer to the appointments to be made.

The agreement reached between the disputing parties provides the method to be followed generally in making appointments. Vacancies shall be advertised, and from the applications received the company shall make its selection "based on ability, merit and seniority." Senior employes are allowed five days to submit any grievance which they may have because of the appointment, but if none are received, the appointment is confirmed. If a grievance or grievances should be received, the superintendent must place these before the appointing general committee. If, in the opinion of the committee's investigation, there are no merits in the grievance, the company's position will retain its position. But if, on the other hand, the grievance is well founded, the aggrieved applicant first be given a trial in the position, and if he qualifies properly within thirty days, he must be appointed.

The board of conciliation was made up of Hr. Mck. Gibbs, chairman; H. E. Gilkes, and David Campbell, K.C.

TO ASK FOR SEAT IN LEAGUE BODY

Probable Candidacy of Irish Free State Topic of Discussion

WANT EQUAL TERMS

No Definite Decision On Point Has Yet Been Made

Geneva, Sept. 16—The probable candidacy of the Irish Free State for a non-permanent seat in the re-organized League Council proved a topic of considerable discussion in League circles tonight.

It is learned that the British Dominions have virtually reached a decision that Great Britain should no longer be recognized as fully representing Dominion interests in the League, and that the Dominions as members of the League have the same right as a group to be represented in the Council as have the Scandinavian, Little Entente, Asiatic and Latin American groups.

Among the delegates representing India and the Dominion, it is felt that no regional arrangement should be arrived at which might preclude one or other countries getting as full a seat on the Council of the League to be an Independent candidate for a seat in the Council.

The Irish Free State bet is believed to-day that it was in the field for non-permanent seat, although a definite decision has not yet been made.

In a statement to-night, Prof. John MacNeill, former Minister of Education and member of the Irish delegation, said that the delegation was considering putting forward the Free State's candidacy.

"We find some evidence," he explained, "of an impression that because we belong to a group of states associated with Great Britain politically that that affords some reason why we should not be on terms of equality with the other members of the League of Nation from the point of view of eligibility to the Council.

"We naturally object to being put even in the manner of an impression, it would seem to us. Our objection would extend to any other members of the same group being a candidate, we feel that we ought to some forward."

Asked his opinion concerning the criticism levied against that any election as a Dominion would give England two votes in the Council, Prof. MacNeill replied:

"We are not bound in any way to vote except as we ourselves decide. Our vote is quite independent of the sovereign and would be equally independent in the Council."

BRITISH COMMISSION WILL TOUR DOMINION

Board of Seven to Make Study of Industrial Questions

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 16—With the object of investigating industrial conditions in Canada and the United States first hand, members of a delegation appointed by the British Government have arrived in Ottawa. The delegation comprises seven members in all, but it is understood that the secretary have arrived in the Dominion capital. Later, when the delegation meets in Washington, the other four members will be present. The complete delegation will then embark on an exhaustive tour of industries in Canada and the United States. It is headed by Sir William MacKenzie, who has had a long experience of industrial conditions in Great Britain and who has been a chairman of a number of British Government committees on arbitration and on enquiry into industrial questions.

Made General Agent

William A. Hare, who has been appointed general agent of the Dominion Express Company with offices in Toronto. Mr. Hare was born and educated in Toronto and joined the service of the Dominion Express Company in 1909, since which time his work with the organization has received recognition by periodic promotion. He acted as agent in Toronto since 1921 and through his work has made a large number of friends all over Canada. He is a member of the Toronto Board of Trade and is a Kiwanian. Still a young man, his ability is recognized by transportation men all over the continent. He is much interested in the development of traffic with the Orient.

"THE DEVIL'S HIGHWAY"

In almost any other country the little English town which I saw yesterday would be a shrine. Knott with entrance fees. "The best example of a Roman city" in England, Silchester or Calleva Atrebatum, is a retiring village easily missed along the leafy roads of the Berkshire-Hampshire border country. Here are ancient Roman roads as straight as a needle. Over one of them I wandered, the one from Calleva toward London. It is a road no longer, but a broad green lane, grass-grown and choked with nettles between high hedges where honey-suckle clambers and along which great English oaks make a darkened tree-cloister. The folk here about call it "the Devil's Highway," but no devil ever loved a pastoral lane as innocent as this; the fairies, or as delightful a demon as Robin Hood, perhaps, for Sherwood or the Forest of Arden alone could offer a friendlier retreat, flower-beaset and scented. Perhaps the fancy of sixty generations may have seen some ghostly Roman centurion fore drilling his men.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE — New Mexico is the picturesque background of "Rustling for Ouyid" the Fox Films production which opens tomorrow at the Belle Theatre for a two day engagement. The film which is an adaptation of a Peter B. Kyne story is chockful of action and ends up with a punch.

Most of the story takes place on a ranch and in a typically Western village, where the interest is centered on a feud between the Cattlemen's Protective Association and Hank Blatchford, cattle baron who is suspected of rustling. To this town comes a pretty school teacher who has left the comparative security of Boston to make a living in the wild and woolly west. On the train she meets and falls in love with the cattle baron's son who does not even suspect his father's bad reputation. He joins in the general pursuit of a rustler and finds out that it is his own father. This stops the romance on the level but feels that the girl would not care to associate with the son of a cattle thief. But in the character of New Mexico, "Alfa O.K." that ends John and the girl herself helps to bring him back and puts an end to the old feud.

It seems that California is too far West to be "West"—that is the "West" of cattle-ranches, cowboys and "tenderfeet."

The aforementioned outdoor scenes were taken on the G. T. Dawson 1,500,000 acre ranch in Arizona, one of the largest ranches in the world, where Keaton and a company of 60 spent a month amongst bucking bronchos, canyons and a great project for shade as well as the spectacular "shots" for the new Joseph P. Schenck production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

AT THE REGENT — The thrilling story of a cowboy who turns reporter and breaks "scoop" instead of cowboy told with a plot, written all action and a rollicking sense of humor that is as rare as it is delightful is "Man Rustlin" Bob Custer's most recent picture for F.B.O., which will be seen at the Regent Theatre tonight when it begins a three day engagement. The role of Bob Hayden not only gives this popular young western star the best part he has ever played, but it breaks away with delightful carelessness from the conventional type of western picture and forms the most refreshing production that any company has turned out within recent memory.

GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS — Few have attained such prominence as two boys from Columbus, Charlie Ross and Jack Kimm, noted eccentric dancers with the sixth annual edition of George White's "Scandals" at Griffin's, Colosseum Bath. These lads were the idols of their youthful compandionsand both rowed when school days were over to stick together and form a professional career.

In doing so they did not reckon on the attitude of their stern and religious parents toward the stage. On the other hand their parents did not reckon on the attitude of their determination, for one fine morning two years were minus one son each, age 17 and 18 years, who were huddled in a freight car, heading East with New York as their destination, and they got there—but penniless.

Spurred on by ambition and belief in themselves, they showed their steps in a tryout in Keith's theatre. Their "Chain Dance" in which their legs and arms were handcuffed and which they originated as youngsters back home in Columbus, was a hit with Pat Casey who booked them over the Orpheum Circuit where these schoolboys became headliners within a year.

This Huge Taxi Fleet
Rolls up 5,000,000 Miles on Marvelube
MOTOR OIL

Drawn from a photograph of part of the Diamond Taxicab Fleet.

THE Diamond Taxicab Association's fleet represents a huge investment. Their choice of "the best oil obtainable". is, therefore, a matter of imperative importance.

The average daily mileage of each of their 424 taxicabs is 100 miles—or 42,400 miles per day. In the four months they have been using Marvelube the fleet has travelled approximately 5,000,000 miles—with "the very best results." They find Marvelube "entirely free from carbon" and that it gives "smoother operation."

Taxicab service puts unusually severe demands on any lubricating oil. No individual motorist can put Marvelube to such a gruelling test. But any motorist can get the same degree of satisfaction and economy from Marvelube as the Diamond Taxicab Association.

You can safely follow the motor oil selection of this organization, which is so fully qualified to judge lubricating oils and so vitally concerned in using the best as a matter of cold business practice.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

Good Engineering Practice

All automotive engineers agree that it is important to always have the oil system flushed out with a light grade of oil (not coal oil) before refilling your engine with fresh oil—and also to avoid speeding up your engine for the first few minutes after the new oil is put in.

Another important point is to always secure the exact grade of Marvelube that is specially recommended for your particular car. Our Chart of Recommendations should be your guide. There are six grades, one for every make and model of automobile.

STEWART MASSON MAGISTRATE, DIES WIDELY MOURNED

Passed in 70th Year After Illness of Long Duration

ON BENCH 20 YEARS

Had Been Active in Life of City For Nearly Half Century

Belleville and the County of Hastings today lost a valued official and the entire district one of its most prominent citizens in the death early today of Mr. Stewart Masson, K.C., at his home, No. 4 Alexander Street.

He was in his 70th year and succumbed after an illness lasting some months. Flags on city and county buildings were at half mast today out of respect to his memory.

Mr. Masson was Police Magistrate, City Solicitor, a County Magistrate and County Solicitor. Owing to ill health, Mr. Masson was compelled some three months ago to relinquish his duties as Police Magistrate and His Honor Judge Wills had since been performing this duty.

Mr. Masson was born in Seymour, being the youngest son of the late Mr. Thomas Wigglesworth Sherrat Masson. In early life he proved to be a clever student and after obtaining a public and high school education, studied for the law and graduated with honors. His abilities in the legal profession were recognized when he was made a King's Counsellor.

For some time previous to being appointed Police Magistrate in 1906, Mr. Masson conducted a successful law practice in the city. He was especially well versed in municipal law and when in 1896 Mr. G. H. Henderson, City Solicitor, passed away, Mr. Masson was appointed as City Solicitor which position he still filled at the time of his demise. He was also for some years County Solicitor following in the footsteps of the late Mr. John Bell, K.C.

24-YEAR-OLD MEMBER

It is claimed Louis Auger, of Hawkesbury, Ontario, who was elected to Parliament for the constituency of Prescott, will be the youngest member of the new House. He is in his 24th year. He was a Professor in Ottawa University before he severed connection with that institution a year ago to enter politics. He ran as an Independent-Liberal, defeating Gustave Evanturel, former Liberal member, and two other opponents.

THE WEATHER

Light winds, cloudy. Saturday—Moderate easterly to southerly winds, partly cloudy, probably showers towards night.

(By Canadian Press.)

FRANCE AND GERMANY HAVE LUNCH TOGETHER

Geneva, Sept. 17.—M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann, French and German Foreign Ministers, motored together outside of Geneva today for lunch, after which a conversation was due to begin covering all the outstanding problems between the two countries. The place of meeting was kept secret.

BRITISH READY TO USE FORCE TO RE-CAPTURE SHIPS IN CHINA

London, Sept. 17.—The British Government is prepared to take steps to recover by force, the two merchant vessels held by General Yang Sen' Men on th Yangtze river, unless they are immediately surrendered, it is intimated in official quarters. News is still lacking regarding parleys between Yang Sen's delegates and Rear Admiral Cameron at Ichang, but it is understood the British commander was instructed to insist that the ships be surrendered before he entered negotiations.

FRENCH WAR MINISTER DENIES TROOP CONCENTRATION

Paris, Sept. 17.—Formal denial of reports published in Berlin that France was concentrating troops on the Italian frontier, was issued by War Minister Painleve today. "It is regrettable that such news should be disseminated by Germany on the day after her entry into the League of Nations," M. Painleve said.

"JANE DARWIN" FAILS AGAIN IN SECOND CHANNEL ATTEMPT

Dover, Sept. 17.—"Jane Darwin", the mystery girl of England, has again failed to swim the English Channel. She started from Cape Cris-Nez, France, at 2.30 yesterday afternoon and abandoned the attempt at 3.30 this morning owing to bad weather. She was about four and a half miles from the English coast.

TWO MEN LOST IN NORTH WOODS BOAT IS FOUND

Missing Since Monday When One Started Out To Be a Scrutineer

Sudbury, Sept. 17.—Between Killarney and Fraser Bay on the north shore of the Georgian Bay, an organized search party is today endeavoring to locate two men, John Simms and a Mr. Masson, who on Monday afternoon set out in a 45-foot motor boat for Bay Finn, where Masson was to act as scrutineer at the polls.

Simms is 65 years of age and has a daughter living at Sault Ste Marie. Masson, a man of about 45 years, has been bookkeeper at various lumber camps in this vicinity.

MUTINY GROWING ARMY ON VERGE OF GREAT REVOLT

Trouble in Spain Expected Within Month to Break Out Again

London, Sept. 17.—A special reporter for the Daily Express who has been in Spain investigating the situation and the recent crisis due to the mutiny of the artillery officers, telegraphs from Hendaye a lurid picture of events.

He asserts that the mutiny is growing in the army and that a fresh upheaval is expected.

The correspondent gives what purports to be the truth concerning the recent trouble. Among other things he says that a delegation of artillery officers intercepted the car of King Alfonso at Del Leon in the mountains between Madrid and Seville while King was on his way to the Capital. They paralyed with the King who after listening to their impassioned demands, promised to support them.

Arriving at the Palace King Alfonso received Premier Gen Primo De Rivera to whom he related the conversation at Del Leon.

"If your Majesty yields to the officers I will proclaim a republic with myself as President, "the Premier-Dictator is said to have replied.

It is said that the dictator's hold on power depends upon the army.

Sullen mutiny is declared to be spread ing in the artillery, civilian industry and air force, while ethe army in Morocco is wavering in its allegiance.

"If revolution comes," the correspondent continues, "it will be through the army and not the people, who are not allowed to know what is happening." He quotes an unnamed intellectual as stating that the only chance for the salvation of country lies in the abdication of Alfonso in favor of his third son (Prince Juan, aged 13) with Queen Victoria as Regent until the Prince attains his majority. The writer asserts that civil justice and liberty are a mere mockery in Spain today. Business is becoming stagnant since Primo De Rivera is pressing hard for money and imposing fines right and left.

TORONTO GLOBE PICKS FERGUSON AS TORY CHIEF

Liberal Paper Finds Him Likeable and Without Enemies Anywhere

MEIGHEN'S SUPERIOR!

Defeated Premier is "In Wrong" in Quebec and Ontario

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Will Tories behead Arthur and make Howard King? asks The Globe today and appends under this query the following entertaining story:

Premier Ferguson has probably other than Dominion and Provincial general elections. For instance, he may go to Ottawa to lead the Federal Conservative party. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the defeated Conservative leader has not retired as yet but his abandonment of the Federal leadership is freely being forecast in Conservative journals.

Premier Ferguson has not officially been asked if he would accept the Federal Conservative leadership, but he has been sounded out. Would he accept it? He probably would his friends say. The "Fergie's" form, they say is popularity. Whatever other shortcomings may be ascribed to him, lack of sociability has never been charged.

Premier Ferguson's only response to The Globe when an effort was made to question his views upon the subject of Federal leadership was: "Well, one usually has to wait until one is asked in such circumstances."

THREE OUTSTANDING FIGURES

There are three outstanding features of the present Conservative leadership situation which tend to interesting speculation upon the likelihood of Ontario's Premier accepting promotion or demotion—to Ottawa. The first is that the Conservatives are pretty much convinced that they need a "pinch-hitter" at the Federal Capital, and Mr. Ferguson hit a home run in the Provincial elections of 1923 when the Conservatives seemed to need a lot to win. The second is that Premier Ferguson has the Conservative crowd reveals no giant statesman with leadership qualities. The third is that Mr. Ferguson's admitted possession of a remarkable degree that very election factor which is said to be seriously lacking in the present Leader—personal popularity.

MIGHT PLEASE QUEBEC

Mr. Meighen, apparently, is hopelessly in wrong with Quebec. Two wartime measures, for which he is primarily held responsible, seem to have combined against him. Quebec has nothing against Mr. Ferguson, and may even like him for his recent conciliatory utterances on the language question and on Quebec-Ontario relations in general.

Mr. Meighen is said be in wrong with Ontario over his Hamilton-Bagot speech Mr. Ferguson has never said anything like that.

Weighing up the two men, it is said sometimes that Mr. Ferguson has not the platform brilliance of Mr. Meighen. But Mr. Meighen's "brilliance" is usually in satire, in a vein in which Mr. Ferguson, it is true, is not well gifted. The Ontario Premier, however, has platform humor, and exudes likability. And in other respects he is Mr. Meighen's equal in the art of platform performance.

Mr. Ferguson has not been invited to Ottawa yet. But there is a strong possibility that he will be before long.

CHANNEL SWIM UNDER 14 HOURS BY ENGLISHMAN

Norman Leslie Dereham, Father of 2 Children, Latest to do it

WINS £1,000 PRIZE

Succeeded in Third Attempt and is First Briton to Conquer

Dover, End., Sept. 17. — Norman Leslie Dereham, of South End, England, today finished the swim across the English Channel from Cape Gris Nez at 9 o'clock last night and landed in St. Margar et's Bay this morning at 10.56 o'clock. The record for the swim is 13 hours, 5 minutes, made by the fat French baker, Georges Michel, on September 10.

By his performance Dereham wins the prize of one thousand pounds offered by the News of the World for the first British-born subject to beat Gertrude Ederle's time of 14 hours, 36 minutes.

Dereham used the breast stroke most of the way but changed to a back stroke near the end.

He was given a rousing reception by the crowd which watched his approach to the shore.

After walking up the beach he sat down and smoked a cigarette, later going to a hotel for a rest.

It was Dereham's third attempt this season. He is the fifth person to swim the channel during the season. At his hotel he said he was aged 26 years and had a wife and two children, whom he was thinking of most during his swim.

HOLD FISHERMEN'S RACE LIKELY IN OCTOBER

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 17.—The Halifax Herald, sponsors of the International Fishermen's Race, carried the following today:—"It is now practically certain that the Nova Scotia fishing fleet race for the Halifax Herald trophy will be held this fall, likely early in October. "Word from Lunenburg County is to the effect that the desire for a renewal of the Nova Scotia fleet race is strong there and it is confidently expected that satisfactory arrangements will be made to hold the contest."

MARRIED TO LADY FISHER

Geoffrey Shakespeare, Well-known London

London, September 17.—Geoffrey Shakespeare, former private secretary to Lloyd George, was married here today to Lady Fisher, widow of Sir Thomas Fisher, once an official at the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A pathetic witness of the ceremony was the bridegroom's father, Dr. J. H. Shakespeare, the famous Nonconformist divine, who now is a complete invalid and quite speechless. He was wheeled into St. Columba's, Pont street, where the marriage took place, in a hospital chair.

A. J. Sylvester represented Lloyd George, who sent the bride a bouquet of white heather from his country estate, while Sir Harry Britain represented the House of Commons, of which the bridegroom once was a member.

BRITISH PUBLIC ALMOST DESPAIRS OF COAL PEACE

Fuel in London Selling at $20.00 a Ton — Parleys Useless

London, Sept. 17.—Premier Baldwin today began another attempt to end the deadlock growing out of the coal miner's strike. He had an hour's interview with Evan Williams, President of the mining Association after which he called in A. J. Cook, General Secretary of the Miners' Federation and other union officials.

London, September 17.—With the retail price of coal in London approximately $20 a ton and coke about $15, the public is watching, although somewhat dispairingly, for some result of the cabinet meeting which discussed the deadlock between the miners and the mine owners. Premier Baldwin, who had just returned from a holiday on the continent, presided.

Hope of a settlement of the dispute between the miners and mine owners, which has now lasted 20 weeks, had been so long deferred that few persons even to have confidence in predictions made in some quarters of early Government action to force the two sides to the controversy to solve the problem. No one apparently expects important developments this week.

Meantime the newspapers are printing alarming figures showing the tragic effect of the stoppage on national industries. It is contended that the loss in public revenue is likely to involve an increase in the already burdensome taxation early in 1927.

SUGGEST ROWELL AS CUSTOMS HEAD IN KING CABINET

Former Minister in Union Cabinet May Be Choice

CHANGE ON MONDAY

Conservatives Calling a Convention—May Change Leaders

Toronto, Sept. 17.—John R. MacNichol, President of the Dominion Conservative Association intimates that a National convention of the Conservative party will be called shortly to discuss the political situation.

Ottawa, Sept. 17. — The prime minister's office officially announces that a formal meeting of the Meighen cabinet will be held on Monday, at which the resignation of the Government will of course, immediately tender its resignation.

ROWELL FOR CUSTOMS?

TEXT OF STATEMENT

"As soon as the final returns were received, Mr. Meighen despatched a telegram to each of the ministers, asking him to come to Ottawa. A Cabinet meeting will be held on Monday, the earliest date upon which the members of the Government will of course, immediately tender its resignation.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—One of the most important cabinet posts to be filled by the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King when he receives the Premiership next week will be that Minister of Customs.

Re-organization of this department is now under way. The Liberal Government of Mr. King as well as the Government of Premier Meighen, stand pledged to a thorough clean up of the Customs service, and Mr. King will probably want an outstanding man to under take the work. The name of Hon. N. W. Rowell, who was a member of the Union Government, is mentioned as a possibility for the Customs port folio. Others from Ontario who may be selected for appointment, with or without portfolio are W. D. Euler, Jas. Malcolm and the Hon. Vincent Massey.

Date of the opening of Parliament is still a matter of conjecture, but gossip favors the latter part of November.

Ministers of the last Liberal Government have been summoned to Ottawa by Mr. King. Several are already in the capital and it is expected that by Monday all will be present. Formation of the new cabinet will involve several change. Cabinet representation from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia will probably be settled. In addition to the departments of Customs and National Defence, the departments of trade and Commerce and Immigration probably will be under new Ministers after Mr. King takes office.

C. P. R. TRUST BONDS OFFERED AT 96 1-2

New York, Sept. 17.—The Canadian Pacific Railway through the National City Company, the Guaranty Company and the Bank of Montreal, today offered $40,000,000 twenty-year four and a half percent. collateral Trust bonds at 96½ and accrued interest, to yield 4.77 percent. The proceeds will be used in payment of the principle of steamships now under construction, the building of branch lines and other corporate improvements. The issue will have priority over the $100,148,537 preference stock and $260,000,000 of common shares according to the Morning World.

BLACKBIRDS GO SOUTH WINTER'S ON THE WAY

Blackbirds, screaming and croaking as the day was made horrible, in such numbers that they blackened the trees in which they met, assembled late yesterday afternoon at the corner of Charles and Victoria avenue in preparation for the annual migration.

So winter's coming.

It was a really remarkable sight to witness the instinct which appar- ently prompted the birds to assemble. First about twenty chatterings were arrived, then a flock of about one hundred, then subsequent flocks of varying number until with a common impulse the birds took to wing and commenced their Southern flight, leaving in a triangular formation.

The caucus lasted for about an hour and a half while the flight from vision took much less time.

STEWART MASSON MAGISTRATE DIES

It was as Police Magistrate of this city that his world was recognized, as he was, without doubt, one of the most outstanding men who have filled that position and was most conscientious in the discharge of the duties. All cases brought before him for adjudication were well weighted before judgment was rendered. Although firm, Magistrate Masson was kind and paternal in that kind of heart, and whenever a doubt existed in his mind the accused was always given the benefit of the doubt.

The late Mr. Masson was in religion a Presbyterian. He was a member of St. Andrew's Church from whence the funeral will take place on Monday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. Deceased was prominent in Masonic circles, being a member of the Belleville Lodge No. 153 and King Baldwin Preceptory No. 5.

Mrs. Masson who survives was Miss Emily Lavis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lavis of this city. A daughter, Miss Helen Stewart Masson, also survives. To the bereaved will be extended the sincere sympathy of citizens generally. A brother, Norman resides in Seymour, and a sister, Mrs. Donald, lives at Campbellford.

Chief John Newton who was chief of police for many years and for a time acted in the position of the late police magistrate, when he stated that he was one of the best magistrates that ever sat upon the bench in this city.

A glowing tribute was paid to the late Police Magistrate Stewart Masson by Judge Wills. His Honor referred to the late Mr. Masson as one of the great links between the olden and present times. He was a most honourable man and had resided in this community for upwards of 50 years. The city has suffered a great loss in his demise. The officers were all attached to him and when these met held him in the highest estimation, that is the greatest honour that could possibly have been bestowed upon him.

FROM COL. PONTON

Colonel W. N. Ponton, Mississauga, Ont., writes: "Please remember me with affectionate regard to Judges, Lawyers, Officials and friends. His stalwart frame, his rugged stature, his quiet deliberate speech, his dry humour enlivened by the twinkle in his kindly eyes, his good citizenship and impartial administration of justice in the Court over which he presided with such satisfying firmness in the aforetime, will last and endure in this community,—all combined to make him an outstanding figure and personality among men. Many of his most intimate associates and boon companions have passed away during the last few years. They will welcome him as he rejoins their circle—and those of us who are left realize that it will be hard to fill the place of one who had both individuality and character, mind and intellect, good comradeship and heart.—The good grey head that all men knew", has been gathered to the quiet west. He has passed through the valley, and the Brethren of the Long Robe have in this tribute of regard and esteem

"Life's race well run,
Life's work well done
Life's victory won,
Then cometh rest"

FROM MRS. MIKEL

Mr. W. C. Mikel said:

The late Stuart Mason, K. C. practiced his profession for a short time in Owen Sound with his late brother Judge Mason but with that exception his whole professional career of over forty years was spent in Belleville where he practiced part of the time alone and part of the time in partnership with different members of the profession including the late N. B. Fellsner, the late P. J. M. Anderson, and Mr. R. A. Carman. Consequently was for a number of years a Trustee of the County Law Library Association. His kind nature and agreeable manner made him a useful official. Following the resignation of J. J. B. Flint some twenty years ago he was appointed Police Magistrate.

EL DUCE ORDERS FLIGHT

Nobile to Prepare for 1928 "Hop" to Argentina

Rome, Sept. 17.—Premier Mussolini has ordered General Nobile, one of the members of the expedition which crossed the North Pole in the dirigible Norge, to prepare for a flight from Rome to Buenos Aires, Argentina. The time of the flight has been set for the end of 1927. It will be made in a dirigible, the construction of which already has been begun in a Rome aeronautical plant.

General Nobile will go to Japan at the end of October to supervise the assembling and first flight of a dirigible built in Italy for the Japanese navy. He will return to Italy next spring and prepare for the flight across the Atlantic to Argentina.

DIED

MASSON—On Friday, September 17th, 1926, at his late residence, 4 Alexander Street, Stewart Masson, beloved husband of Emily Lavis and youngest son of the late Thomas Wriggleworth Sherrat Masson, of Seymour, in his seventieth year.

Funeral from St. Andrew's Church, Monday, September 20th at 2.30 p.m. Interment, Belleville Cemetery.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Hell-Bent for Heaven" which began a 3 day run at the Capitol last night, is a picture of feudish families in the Canadian mountains; a stirring drama of backwoods people, with their abiding hatreds, generosity, loves and loyalties. As a stage play, it won the Pulitzer Prize in 1923. As a photoplay it ought to win whatever prizes are awarded for this season. It stands out "one other picture is its fidelity to a section of the American scene as honestly and fearlessly as do the sterling qualities of rugged native contrast sharply with the weaknesses of their more sophisticated countrymen.

Even in the character of Rafe, the young religious fanatic, there is a pathos and sincerity that compels a sympathy. Rafe is the boy who is "hell-bent for heaven"; seeing in himself as the instrument of the Lord in bringing woe upon scoffers. It is Rafe who revives a fifty-year-old feud between the Hunt and Lowry families, and who dynamites the dam that the sinners may perish.

The character of Jude Lowry dominates the picture. Jude is the girl who decides to go "ruin her own folks" for the sake of the boy she loves. As played by Patsy Ruth Miller, she lives in her loveliness and mournful beauty as the embodiment of the charm of natural simplicity and directness.

A thoroughly interesting picture climaxing with as thrilling a flood scene as we have seen screened.

A high class novelty musical and dancing vaudeville act took well with the large crowd present, and excellent music provided by the Capitol Symphony Orchestra, with Mr. Burton directing, rounded out an enjoyable evening's entertainment, well up to the Capitol's high standard.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS"

She is an enthusiastic automobilist and there are few of the magnificent roads of Nassau or Sussex counties, New York, that she is not thoroughly familiar with. Speaking of automobiling she said: "Some of the claims for damages that I have been guilty of would be funny if they were not so ridiculously unfair. If I run over a pig, that animal is sure to be the Blue Ribbon Pig winner of that county. It is a very common occurrence for a yellow mut canine, subsequent to a sudden contact with my auto, to undergo a post-mortem metamorphosis to a prize pup of aristocratic descent.

"To be absolutely frank," said Nita Bowles, "the crossing of any species of live stock with an automobile is the surest way in the world to im-

MINERVA CHAPTER'S TEA

Indicating a wide popularity for teas this winter, the first of the season given this afternoon by Minerva Chapter O.E.S. 134 in the T.M.C.A. was a complete success and attended by a very large number of persons. In the pretty tea room with its striking decorations of yellow daisies in silver baskets, Mrs. R. A. Backus was convenor and Mrs. Wm. Boyes co-convenor, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Mrs. Clement French, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Mrs. G. H. French, Mrs. S. J. Fisher and Mrs. Harold Hare. The home-cooking table was presided over by the convenor, Mrs. Doctor, assisted by Mrs. E. A. Thomas, Mrs. Clifford Clarke and Mrs. John D. White. Mrs. W. C. Morgan was convenor of the candy table and Mrs. Bruce Botsum, co-convenor, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Gurnett, Mrs. S. Maguire, Mrs. Leon Walmsley and Mrs. Harold Bateman. A happy feature of the tea was the orange tree presided over by Mrs. Norman Kerr, assisted by Mrs. Trevorton, Mrs. Donnan and Mrs. Walsh. There the children, and a lot of the grown children too, had a delightful time procuring the gift boxes from the pretty tree which like the stand was donated by Mr. Don Bleecker. During the afternoon under the supervision of the musical committee, Mrs. Karl McQueen, Mrs. F. Reid and Mrs. Stanley Fisher, a very delightful musical programme was given, which added greatly to the afternoon's enjoyment. Selections on an Apeo Orthophonic loaned by Mr. Don Bleecker, were very much appreciated. The replenishing committee consisted of Mrs. E. J. Fulwell, Mrs. Geo. Gulliver Sr., Mrs. Ralshird, and Mrs. H. Hillier. Miss Ella Bleecker, secretary of the Chapter, acted as secretary for the afternoon, and Mrs. Melville Clarke, treasurer.

A DANDY TARGET

Complaints from parties at the carling rik on George Street were to the effect that electric light bulbs in the place were being broken. Investigation showed that a youngster was using the bulbs as a target in practicing with his catapult.

AT TRENTON

The sanctorum of St. Peter's Separate School at Trenton was crowded for the first of the euchre and dances which are to be held this coming season. The "Nighthawk" of Trenton furnished the dance music and everyone pronounced them first class.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McNabb were winners in the bridge contest and Mr. Doyle captured first prize in the euchre. There were many people from Belleville and other outside places present.

OLDHAM FARM SOLD

Port Hope.—Major H. H. Charles, announced that his poultry ranch "Oldham Farms" had been sold to George B. Moore and Roland H. Carter, of Pendoo. Major Charles who purchased Oldham Farm" two years ago for $18,000 and is since made $3,000 worth of improvements on the ranch, is retiring owing to ill health. The new owners will take possession on October 1st.

CASE ENLARGED

Edward Chynaleon was charged in police court this morning, that he was in control of a car while in an intoxicated condition on September 6th. It will be remembered that on that date the accused who is a resident of Point Anne, while driving on Pinnacle street, collided with another motor owned by R. W. Brown which was parked at the curb. Mr. Payne, defending, obtained an enlargement until Monday when further evidence will be taken.

ROBBED THE TILL

Two young lads were brought to the police station yesterday afternoon for stealing an amount of money from a local store. They were of tender years and were given a severe reprimand. From reports, one of the lads wanted the money to purchase explosives for his bicycle. The amount of the theft was in the neighborhood of $7.00.

FAILED TO PAY WAGES

A citizen was fined ten dollars and costs of $2.50 for refusal to pay wages which amounted to $60. The case arose out of an advertisement in the Toronto papers for help. The applicant upon arrival was found incapable of holding the job and therefore his services were dispensed with. The chicanist said he was given no notice and consequently asked for two weeks pay. R. D. Ponton acted for the defendant and C. A. Cameron on behalf of the complainant.

EASTERN STAR DANCE

The Minerva Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star at a meeting on Wednesday evening, decided that the annual dance will be held in Johnstone's Academy on October 4th. The Bon Ton Orchestra will furnish the music. This will be an invitation affair only, and it is expected that several hundreds will be in attendance. This dance is one of the social features of the season.

THE TALE OF A DOG

The little Irish Terrier dog owned by W. E. Burrows, Victoria Ave., returned to his domicile in the wee small hours of this morning after an extended absence from home of nearly 24 hours. The little fellow was found on Front Street yesterday morning in the cold drizzling rain by a kindly gentleman noting the situation promptly united him from his parking place and led him to the police station. The fact that he bore no license tag made it impossible to establish the little fellow's identity. The ever-present scribe who was present threw himself in defense of the shivering canine and offered to provide a temporary address. A good meal and a warm bed soon had the soothing effects and the dog which answered to the name of "Zip" seemed quite satisfied. But the allowing of the homeless to roam proved the scribe's undoing and on returning found his majesty had effected his escape, only the lone chain remaining to bear out this fact. Evidently he wended his weary way homeward to the place where all good dogs should be at the bewitching hour of 4 a.m. Mr. Burrows family discovered him on arising this morning. Now he is once more back in the good graces of the Burrows family.

Social and Personals

Miss Eileen Tracey, of Detroit, Mich., is spending her holidays at her home here.

Mrs. George Weller who has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. J. O. Herity left today for her home in Essex, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Legate are in Toronto for the week end.

Mrs. McCarthy, 199 William Street, is in Peterboro, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Tully.

Mrs. Harold Barrett and son, Jack, are returning to their home in Belleville after 10 days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. T. Fleury, Picton.

Miss Barbara Gillen has entered her second year at McDonald Hall, Guelph, while Miss Carol McArthur and Miss Helen Lattimer have gone to begin their studies there.

Mrs. E. Osme and son, Billy, have returned to England on the S. S. Montrose, after spending the past two months visiting Mrs. Orme's brother, Mr. T. Hallam. Mr. and Mrs. Hallam and Miss Irene accompanied them to Montreal.

At the residence of Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Wight, Holloway Street Parsonage, today, Mrs. Thomas Emmons, of Shannonville, Mrs. Wight's mother, is celebrating her eighty-third birthday in her honor, friends and relatives of the family including several from the United States are being entertained at a birthday party given by Mrs. Wight. Mrs. Emmons, formerly Margaret Benedict, has resided in Tyendinaga all her life and is most popular amongst the people of her vicinity, all of whom have joined in heartily congratulating her upon her birthday and wishing her many more years of happiness in their midst. Guests included Mr. Alec Jones, of Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Bartlett have returned to their home in Ann Arbor, Mich., after a two months visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Johnson, 36 Victoria Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Bartlett, Foxboro, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Conners entertained the W. W. Club on Wednesday evening at their home on John Street, about 25 members and visitors being present. After the usual business of the club was over the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music. Prizes were won by Mr. J. Thrasher, Mrs. E. B. Ashley and Mr. Geo. Kerr. Mr. E. Fenn and Mrs. Geo. Todd were awarded the consolation prize. A very dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Conners which was thoroughly enjoyed and the happy evening was brought to a close about the midnight hour.

ABRAMS—ROBINSON

A quiet wedding took place in St. John's Church, Smith's Falls, Saturday morning, when Robina Belinda, daughter of Mrs. William Robinson and the late Mr. Robinson, was united in marriage to Capt. John Reginald Abrams, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Abrams, Gananoque.

They will reside in Belleville.

BETS FAVOR DEMPSEY FREAK WAGERS PLACED

New York, Sept. 17.—With the Dempsey-Tunney championship bout only a week off, bettors today were inclined to go in for freak wagers, and a number of such commissions were executed through a local firm.

However, betting on the final result was extremely active and wagers aggregating $35,000, were placed by the firm at odds ranging from 11 to 5, to 2½ to 1 that Dempsey will be the victor. Among the freak wagers was one of $10,000 at even money that Dempsey stops Tunney before the eighth round. Odd of six to five are offered that the champion knocks out Gene. Previous betting on this phase of the fight was at even.

FALL INTO WATER FATAL TO BABY

Peterboro, Sept. 17.—Gerald Fraser, 18 months old, was drowned last night in a tub of water, at his parents' home. The little lad's sister, aged 6, pulled him out almost immediately after he fell into the tub, but life was extinct.

TEMPERATURES

The maximum temperature yesterday was 63 being four degrees lower than on the same date last year. The minimum temperature was slightly higher than a year ago. On Wednesday and Thursday the rainfall amounted to 0rvinal .22, equal to one third of an inch.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

So far as the cables have informed us there appears no likehood of the Imperial Conference being postponed. Mr. Mackenzie King evidently will be there. It is most important that Canada's voice be heard in the debates which will then take place.

Premier Hertog, of South Africa, is sailing for England and the premiers of Australia and New Zealand will also be in attendance.

Canada's position should be clarified at the forthcoming conference.

Australia is not in sympathy with any action which might tend to weaken the imperial connection.

The frank declarations of General Hertog, premier of South Africa, regarding what he intends to say at the conference have had a strong effect in the commonwealth. As a consequence, it is felt that Australia may have to define its attitude "more explicitly than it has yet done" on the general question of the status of the dominions in international relations. "Certainly Australia would not ally herself with any movement which placed her outside the British commonwealth. If South Africa, or any other dominion, desired to go so far, Australia at present will not follow." Canada, most recently, does not desire to go so far; but it would be very regrettable indeed if an authoritative spokesman for this Dominion were not present at the London conference to take part in these weighty discussions and to clear up any misunderstandings which may exist as to the real sentiments of this Dominion on these highly important matters.

Mr. King during the election campaign declared himself for British connection. His statements at London will be of supreme interest.

REASSURING CROP FIGURES

Highly comforting and reassuring to Canada as a whole and the West in particular is the last government crop report. From 316,000,000 bushels of wheat, the estimate on August 10, to 375,000,000, the estimate on September 10, is a long jump, but the figures represent both the improvement in crop prospects and possibly the elimination of a little of the pessimism that tinged the earlier report.

The final estimate for this year shows the crop as good as last year, with about the same prices prevailing That means another good year on Western farms and renewed confidence in business circles.

COLORS FOR MEN?

If the preliminary announcements or warnings or threats made by the tailors and the hatters of London have their desired effect, the strange specimens in the male menagerie are certainly going to be a gay, not to say dazzling-looking lot. The London tailors say it is the correct season "of colors for men's clothes. No longer will men be confine himself to grays and browns and blues and blacks. The list of shades fit proper for him to wear, if he really wants to be up-to-the-minute mannequin, is: Red, plumbloome, mahogany, cedarwood, dusted blues, beige boise de rose and wine. The red, it seems, is not to be sprung on our eyes in the raw, but, to make use of a trade term, will be "developed." It will be disguised or toned down. The plumbloome will be, of course, the various shades of purples, and the new blues are intended to get customers away from the old navy standby. These are the things the seven tailors of Tooley street are going to attempt, but it doesn't necessarily follow that they will succeed The average man isn't comfortable when his garb is conspicuous. The college boys and the dance-hall sheiks may vie with the butterflies, but the run-of-mine variety of he-man may be expected to continue as is, indefinitely and likewise, ad infinitum. The girls are coming along nicely in their concerted attempts to be boys, but we can get along fine without an epidemic of "sissies".

BAD NEWS

Mike was working diligently on his potato patch when he saw the postman coming up the road, bearing for him a black-edged envelope.

Mike became uneasy, and showed it.

"Hope it's not bad news," said the postman.

"It is that," said Mike, glancing at the address. "It's upset Oi am entirely. Me brother Pat's dead. Oi can tell by his handwriting!"

SULPHUR HEALS SKIN ERUPTIONS
Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.
The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops, and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.
A jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. Harmless! Any drug store.

A NEW AND ENTIRELY DIFFERENT TYPE OF GASOLINE

IMPERIAL Ethyl Gasoline—on sale now for the first time—is science's latest and greatest contribution to the comfort and satisfaction of car owners.

It is the answer of the combined resources of the petroleum and automotive industries to the fifteen-year old problem of producing a motor fuel that will bring out the true power and efficiency of the modern automobile engine.

Imperial Ethyl Gasoline is an epochal achievement—fully as important to the motoring world as such notable discoveries as the balloon tire and four wheel brake.

You do not need to be an expert or a scientist to measure the miracle of power and improved engine performance revealed in your car when you drive it on Imperial Ethyl Gasoline.

You feel the difference immediately, because this wonderful new fuel is better than the best gasoline you have ever used.

Imperial Ethyl Gasoline unleashes all the latent power of your car—enables it to streak up the stiff hills "on high"—gives your engine a quiet rhythm and instant response—makes your motor absolutely knockless—gives you quicker starting than you've ever experienced.

Imperial Ethyl Gasoline is a unique and wonderful product—obtained by combining "Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound" with a very special grade of gasoline. The Ethyl ingredient is a product developed by seven years of research in the laboratory of the General Motors Corporation.

No other gasoline ingredient compares with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound. Manufactured by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, this remarkable product cannot be successfully imitated. It cannot be duplicated. It is absolutely unique and stands alone as a new discovery.

Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound increases the efficiency of gasoline because it controls the rate of combustion. Every time the spark jumps a powerful sustained explosion results. Power waste—as indicated by knocks—is eliminated.

The introduction of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline at this season is particularly timely. Nights are getting cool—Winter will soon be here. Imperial Ethyl gives the motorist entire freedom from those troubles which he has formerly encountered with the approach of cold weather.

It's well worth the 4c. per gallon more we charge for it.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

CAUTION!

Do not confuse this wonderful new fuel with the many so-called "Anti-Knock" Gasolines on the market. And do not be misled by other gasolines purposely colored red to resemble Ethyl.

Our well-known Premier Gasoline has as much "Anti-Knock" quality as any gasoline made or sold in Canada with the sole exception of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline. The latter is more than a gasoline—it's a motor fuel of super-efficient qualities.

For your protection, no dealer or service station will be permitted to sell Imperial Ethyl Gasoline through any pump that does not conspicuously display the official Imperial Ethyl Trade-Mark as reproduced in this advertisement.

CINCINNATI AND ST LOUIS SHARE FIRST POSITION

Clubs Tied in National Pennant Race With 9 Each Remaining Games

New York, Sept. 17.—Although the Cincinnati Reds stretched their winning streak to eight in a row and scored the Giants 2 to 0 the St. Louis Cardinals went into a tie with the Reds in the pennant race by taking two games from the Phillies at Philadelphia.

The New York game was a brilliant pitching duel in which Pete Donohue, Red hurler conceded only four hits while his mates picked Virgil Barnes for six scattered ones.

Hendricks' men performed in impeccable style, committing no errors. Two Giant mistakes, one in the first and another in the fourth innings, accounted for the Cincinnati scores.

The Cards smothered the Phillies in the first Philadelphia game 23 to 3, and took the second game in easy fashion by the score of 10 to 2. St. Louis' 26 runs is the season's record in the senior league. The previous record for the year was made by Cincinnati—21 runs, also against the Philadelphia team, on August 11.

REAL SCOTCH

"Mac, would you like a little of something Scotch—the real thing?"

"Well, now—I never—"

"Of course you would. Mary, bring out that pot of Dundee marmalade."

EVANS DEFEATED BY BOBBY JONES

Shorthills, N.J., Sept. 17.—Chick Evans, one of the few really great golfers of modern times who has not bowed at one time or another to Bobby Jones in an amateur championship, did so today, but it took the Athenian a long time to force the old master to pay his respects to the new. Not until the thirty-fourth hole of a match that bristled with thrills did the man who won two amateur and one open championship in the not too dim past give up the fight and acknowledge Jones as his superior.

THRILLS

The tremendous battle Chick put up against Jones, and the defeat of Eddie Held, trans-Mississippi champion by the heretofore unknown George Dawson of Wheaton, Ills., were features in the playing of the third round of the thirtieth national amateur championship at the Belmont Golf Club today. Bobby's fellow-townsman, Watts Gunn, was defeated, but the defeat was not unexpected for his conqueror was George van Elm of Los Angeles, one of the first three amateurs in the country. Completing the quartet of matches that held the interest of a tremendous gallery Francis Ouimet defeated Fred J. Wright, jr. of Boston.

SEMI-FINALS

The result of today's matches leaves Jones, the present champion, who is seeking his third successive victory, Ouimet, former amateur and open champion, von Elm and the unheralded Dawson in the running for the championship and assures at least one match of vital importance for today.

TORONTO TO-MOROW.

The Belleville High School girls leave for Toronto early in the morning where they will face the big test of the season at Sunnyside Park when they will cross bats with the Nationals who have been all their opposition in the Intermediate class. The local girls are confident of victory, and will take along their strongest team. Jean Ramsay is ready to toss the slab against the Toronto team with Aileen Wilkins on the receiving end. Walter Gerow will be in charge of the squad assisted by Cleo Colling and Miss N. P. Merry. It is expected that they will be accompanied by several parties of rooters who will journey to Toronto by motor.

LOOKS LIKE KINGSTON

Kingston Frosh are favorites to trim Colers rishi in Toronto tomorrow after Wednesday's shoot exhibition which stood 7-0 at the end of the second. Joe Spring who was at one time regarded as the premier clubman in Toronto has fallen away and the Frosh sadly lacked his offerings to all corners of the lot. To make things worse the Colers fielded miserably behind him.

WHY NOT HERE?

Toronto Leafs commence an extended barnstorming tour next week, the itinerary which includes St. Thomas, London, Galt, Oshawa and other Ontario cities. The opposing team will be an all-star aggregation of International League Stars led by Kelly the great home run cloister of the Buffalo team. Now that Belleville has one of the finest parks in Ontario and a fine diamond why not have the Leafs include this city in their trip. The International League champs would undoubtedly draw a big crowd as it's very seldom that local people have such a good chance of seeing such a galaxy of stars in action. The Leafs will use their regular line-up in all of the games. The trip is for the purpose of filling in the week between the completion of the International League and the "little world's series" with Louisville which starts here the end of the month.

THE TALE OF A JOCK

Tales of horses and men they tell
Over the outside rail,
As early suns a first warmth flings
And out of the mists, on fairy wings,
A flying form tattooing swings
By like a lusty gale!

Now Chatterin' Joe was a wonder,
And listen,' I swear it's true!
The reason he won, that son-of-a-gun,
Was talkin' 'em heedless through!
Cronnin' low at the quarter,
Beggin' 'em not to fail;
But a screamin' fool,
With dough in the pool,
Squeezin' through on the rail!

Say! But 'at boy could boost 'em;
He'd be bootin' 'em yet, but then
He went on a bust in' quit in disgust
From makin' a hundred an' ten!
A hundred an' ten by post-time!
Say, mebbe you think that's fun,
But it's makin' the weight,
Not kickin' a slaop,
That tells when a jockey's done!

An' I found Joe swearin' one morin'
An' sheddin' tears as he cussed:
"I'm t'rou! I'm done with a pill and a bun,
I'm goin' t' eat till I bust!"
An' he told me why in the hash house.
Now this is the Gospel truth!
His morin' feed
A cutroway steak,
Got stuck in his new gold tooth!

TILDEN BEATEN BY FRENCHMAN

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 17.—William Tatem Tilden, king of American tennis for six straight years, was toppled from his throne today by a stripling from France in as sensational a struggle as any national championship tournament has ever witnessed.

Henry Cochet 24 years old, French star, who was not considered formidable enough to play for his country in the Davis Cup singles, accomplished the downfall of the famous titleholder in five sets, a spectacular, a pulse-stirring battle that was in doubt until its closing moments. The scores were: 6-3, 4-6, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4.

A crowd of more than 10,000 spectators in the big West Side club's stadium had hardly recovered from the shock of Tilden's defeat when another flashing French racquet stepped to the fore to eliminate William M. Johnston, the veteran little Californian, who has been the champion's foremost rival and the partner in Davis Cup triumphs over seven straight seasons.

AT THE REGENT

Those who contend that there is no originality of treatment in western stories will find the contention atticking in their throats when they go to the regent Theatre where "Man Bustlin'" Bob Custer's most recent F.B.O. production is delighting crowded houses at every showing. Here is originality to the nth degree, and the production has all the speed and thrills of any western ever turned out.

AT GRIFFIN'S

A lone convent girl in a desert ranch house!

Hundreds of cowboys—many of them fair from beautiful bombres—and thousands of wild cattle!

Kathleen Myers is the girl, and she recently spent several weeks amidst those surroundings. As leading lady in Buster Keaton's newest comedy, "Go West," at Griffin's Theatre last night, Miss Myers had some thrilling experiences while the movie company was on location in Arizona.

"When I was a student in a California convent I read stories of West. Little, but never dreamt I'd live on a ranch—especially as an actress, and in a comedy at that. Also, my idea of ranch was a long, rambling building, surrounded by trees grass and rolling hills. M; that Arizona place was different. Just desert and heat, and many miles from a railroad.

"The Indians were very considerate of me at all times. They were real cowboys, too, not the motion picture kind. One of them shot a rattlesnake that coiled right at my feet one day while we were filming a scene. Good thing he did, for the nearest doctor was sixty miles away."

J. M. T. Cook, of San Francisco, was elected president of the Old-Time Photographers' and Historical Association at the meeting in Montreal.

The Old Love Or New?

"About your bad taste, Minnie. How could you, prefer a musty doctor like myself to such a handsome fellow as Roy."

"Simply because I felt that the musty doctor—how dare you abuse my property, self—loved me. You need not be anxious about Roy on that account, Bob, for he does not care one button about me in that way."

"I hope you are right," says Bob, doubtfully; but he does not appear convinced, and Minnie goes on:

"Bob, did you ever think that Roy cared for that young lady who was at the Grange for a short time as governess?"

"Who? Miss Schaffer?"

"Oh, no; Miss de Vitry."

"What makes you ask, dearest?" Bob asks, curiously.

"I will tell you," Minnie answers. "Do you remember how she went away so suddenly and secretly, and how ill poor Roy was a Celsia just after, and how actually miserable he was before he went abroad?"

"Yes, I remember all that; but I never associated it with Annette de Vitry."

"But I did," Minnie says, sagely, "and I believe not only that he loved her, but that he loves her still."

"That is a notion which would only emanate from your romantic little brain, my darling," says Bob, fondly. "If he loved her he suffered enough during those few weeks to kill his love."

"But his love is not dead, Bob," Miss Gosport answers, decidedly. "Do you remember this afternoon, just before the snack, I asked you the name of your best?"

"Of course, dear."

"Do you remember what name you answered?"

Bob answers in the negative.

"You said the Annette," his little ladylove rejoins, with a touch of triumph in her sweet voice, "and Roy went as white as death."

Bob gives a little whistle, which is very expressive.

"I can only hope you are mistaken, love," he says, after a pause. "Poor Roy! it would be terrible, for him if he loves her still. How could she—how could she betray him so cruelly?"

"I do not know, indeed," says Minnie. "I did not think she could be so wicked."

"We won't condemn her without sufficient grounds for a judgment," Bob says then. "And now let us talk of pleasanter things, Minnie. When am I to have my wife?"

It was quite evident that Dr. Fitzroy would be no laggard wooer, for, though his own holiday expired before their stay at Littleport was over, he was so frequent in his visits, and so persistent in his demands for leave of absence from his partner, that the latter, making a shrewd guess as to how matters were, wrote and advised no further delay, and begged Mrs. Fitzroy to use her influence for a prompt marriage.

"I can spare him for five or six weeks this autumn," he wrote, "which must suffice for the honeymoon; but as I can get no good work out of my absent partner just now, I shall be heartily glad when he has paid a visit to Medlatham parish church. Make my best compliments and congratulations to Miss Gosport. I am afraid of saying what I think of her future, and shall not fail to repeat my complimentary remarks, but you may say that I think she has a very good chance of this world's happiness."

So the trousseau was begun sur le champ. A very costly and expensive outfit it was to be, for Miss Gosport was a rich heiress, and if Dr. Fitzroy were not a wealthy man he had a very fair chance of becoming one, and Minnie would be able to receive her friends in very good style in the pretty house in Savile Row, which was taken for her and furnished by Uncle Godfry as his wedding gift.

And in the end of August there was a gay wedding at Medlarham, with a very pretty bride in white satin, duchesse and old point lace, and a stately-looking bridegroom; while Constance Fitzroy, as first bridesmaid, was rather disappointed at being taken by her brother Roy as best man, while Captain Brimley fell to the lot of her sister Amy, who looked very pretty in her dress of lilac cuit cashmere with pale blue facings.

After the wedding the happy pair started for the Continent, and, having given them a month to get accustomed to their own happiness, Roy and Constance joined them with Amy, and, by a strange coincidence, Captain Brimley found himself going the same route.

"I verily believe Amy has made a conquest, and has a 'young man,'" Roy said, laughing, to Miss Fitzroy when they were alone; and poor Connie had her own pain to suffer at the thought that she had given her heart away and received none in return, and in her pain was moulded a strange feeling of remorse for suffering in which she had been instrumental, and, for which it was too late to atone—too late and perhaps not advisable.

Constance could not see the end from the beginning; but through that suffering, and through that remorse, there came to her the happiness of her life.

CHAPTER XVI.

ATTHEOPERA

"I have taken a box for the opera tonight," said Roy Fitzroy, entering the sitting-room which they occupied in the Hotel de Bellevue, the principal hotel at Laval, and seating himself at the luncheon table. "They are playing 'Faust,' and some celebrated prima donna has come for this night only," the bills say."

"Oh! how charming," cried Amy. "I have been so longing to see it."

"There is one satisfaction in these German towns," Roy went on, discussing soup, "good opera and fine orchestra to be heard in the open without dressing; but to-night is a gala night. Mesdames the Grand Duke and Duchess are to appear in their state box, and you will be expected to go in your best 'bibs and tuckers.'"

"I am very glad of it," said Minnie, gayly. "I hate seeing all the women in bonnets and the men in shooting-jackets. It makes the house look wretched, in my opinion."

"Minnie wants to exhibit one of those ravishing creations of Madame Rudolphine's," laughed Constance's brother-in-law. "They have none of them had an airing yet, have they?"

"Then we may hope to be favored to-night," Bob said, laughing. "They must be something extra startling, to judge from the size of the traveling dress-bask et which Turner looks after with so much solicitude. We shall prepare ourselves!"

"For what?" asked Minnie.

"For your wonderful get-up," said her husband. "It is to be hoped that countenance, but I doubt it. Never Constance and Amy can keep you in mind, wife," he added, in a lower tone, as he saw the little disappointed pout his raillery had called up. "You can't help looking pretty whatever you wear"

And very pretty Minnie did look as she came down-stairs before dinner; so pretty, that a gentleman going up turned to have a second glance at the charming little lady as she received cloak and lace, and went downstairs again to inquire her name.

"You will see it in the travelers' book monsieur," one of the waiters told him, and looking over it, Monsieur Chabert read the names of Mr. and Mrs. R. Fitzroy, and brought his lips together in a soft little whisper:

"He has married himself, then," he said softly, as he made a fresh start upstairs "a bad taste, for the girl is charming, prettier even than Annette is now. I must tell her of her lover's inconstancy;; I will wait, however, until after the performance, in case it should make any impression."

* * * * *

Laval possess a very handsome opera house; it stands alone in a fine square, is decorated by several handsome stone columns, and, small as the German State of Letzwasserburg (of which Laval is the chief city) is, it would stand a comparison with many a more pretending opera house.

The singers to be heard there, too, are artists of the first standing, artists who are received enthusiastically at Covent Garden, the Italian or the Grand Opera in Paris, and the Grand Duke and Duchess of Letzwasserburg are well known for the generous patronage they extend to all true merit.

Hoy had secured a large and commodious box on the first tier, and the English party, as they took possession of it, created no small sensation among the crowd of Laval elite who thronged the boxes and dress circle. The men were almost demonstrative in their attention for the beautiful English girls for all three were exquisitely dressed and look ing their best, while the women glanced approvingly at the distinguished-looking men with them, at Roy's handsome face and rather melancholy blue eyes, at the handsome but almost equally striking face of his brother, and at Captain Brimley's smart, military tournure.

Monsieur Chabert, from the manager's private box, where he was seated beside his wife, saw again the beautiful English girl who had excited his admiration, and pointed her out to his wife, who examined her with the keenest interest.

THREE GENERATIONS OF WOMEN

More than 50 years ago there originated in Lynn, Mass., from a recipe of roots and herbs a medicine for the alleviation of women's ills, now known the world over as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The young women of this generation their mothers and grandmothers, have found it to be the most dependable remedy for such ailments as indicated by backache, headaches and nervous tgubles. If you are suffering from anything of this nature, it will pay you to try it.

Fulness Leaves the Hip Alone in the New Frocks

The fact that fulness keeps its place below the hip accounts for the slim effect of the new frocks in spite of their increased width at the hem. Godets, flares, plaits and inserted fulness are arranged in such a manner that the dresses in most cases fit closely at the hipline. A model designed for satin crepe and heavy crepe de Chine uses fulness in the soft sleeve and inserts it in the front. Its simplicity of cut makes it an excellent style for the new athletic and modernistic prints with their up-dated designs and geometrical patterns.

A New Shipment of

Smart Felts

In Shapes Suitable To Many Types

It's surprising how adaptable the shapes are this Fall—in this assortment you'll find types to suit women of various faces and figures—and many that become the High School girl perfectly. Brims are cut in such flattering styles, and there is no doubt that the new fuller crowns, folded and draped, give a most fascinating "air" to the profile. Colors are: Chanel red, burnt almond, buff, rosewood, pearl grey, forest green and black.

Each evening the mannequins will wear the latest of the New Autumn Mode in Hats and Furs. They will be from local shops and a card on the stage will designate what particular Store has the showing that evening — many new surprise features are promised.

EIGHT PRETTY BELLEVILLE GIRLS WILL DEMONSTRATE THE NEWEST APPAREL GATHERED FROM BELLEVILLE'S STYLE SHOPS

When the curtain rises for the First Showing of the Fall 1926 Fashions on Monday Evening at the Armouries—Belleville will again have entered upon a week when Fashions Reign Supreme. This year a host of 8 pretty Belleville Girls have been selected to act as mannequins—and they will start to perform their duties at 8.15 each evening. The Grace and Charm of the new mode revealed in Fashions For Fall will make this year's "Revue" one of outstanding interest to everyone, and when the curtain is drawn for the last time on Friday Evening, we predict it will close the most successful event of its kind ever held.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

Each Evening during the Style Display—the old-time period costumes from 1785 to 1900 will be worn on the stage and contrasted with Miss 1926—ones uchshowingwill take place at every performance. This should be interesting.

BEAUTIFUL NEW STAGE SETTINGS -- AND NOVEL LIGHTING EFFECTS FOR THIS YEAR'S STYLE SHOW

An entire new setting has been arranged by a local artist—as a background for the stage that will accommodate the Fashion Display. This, with many new and attractive lighting effects will give this year's show a distinctive touch that will undoubtedly add to the distinctiveness of the 1926 "Revue".

Greetings From Local Officials of The Kiwanis Club

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT CHARLIE

The Kiwanis Club typifies the spirit of a Better and Greater Belleville. It is a service Club, composed of business men, who are banded together to build a better citizenship. It has no political nor religious ideas for membership. Its members are sworn to make many personal sacrifices for community progress. Each member having a little better than whatever benefits Belleville as a whole is a benefit to every citizen, whether he be a wage earner, manufacturer, banker, merchant or professional man. Every man who calls Belleville his home should have a vital concern in the welfare of our city and in various service clubs. The Kiwanis Club have done much for the welfare of our city.

We are about to open our second Kiwanis Karnival. Last year's Karnival was a huge success, due to the patronage of our people and provided us with a fund of fifteen hundred dollars to spend on charity. I now commend to you this year's Karnival, which I am sure will supply you plenty of good clean entertainment. We earnestly solicit your patronage that our work of charity may be continued on a still greater scale.

Signed C. H. HANNA.

By J. T. DELANEY
Chairman Fashion Show Committee

We are ready and the merchants are ready to outpose any former efforts made in this city to stage a Fashion Show—not excluding our fine effort of last year. Many of the smartest gowns and coats have been held in reserve just to have their first showing in this initial Fall Revue of Fashions for 1926 and when the night of Belleville pretty girls step onto the stage on Monday evening to act as mannequines for the five nights, that will just be the beginning of a Fashion Fest that will last for five nights.

This year the stage will have an entirely new setting. It will be beautifully arranged and the lighting effects will be altogether different and novel. The seating accomodation has been greatly increased—thus allowing more people to view the style parade in comfort.

The nights arranged are as follows:
Monday—Wotten's Ltd.
Tuesday—The J. A. McNabb Co.
Wednesday—The Bickle Co.
Thursday—Sinclair's.
Friday—Earle & Cook Co.

The latest in Fur Coats and Fur pieces as well as fashions latest dictates in ladies headwear will be worn each evening. These exhibitors will be announced from day to day.

Might we suggest that you come early and be seated by 8.15 as the style show will commence sharp at that hour each evening.

JOSEPH DELANEY,
Chairman Fashion Show Committee.

HARRY GREENLEAF
Chairman

The Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show this year HAD to be real knock—in fact it had to be better than last year's success in order to show the public that this is to be an annual event of real importance in the community life of Belleville and will be improved year after year as we find it possible to so.

This year we have arranged some real features for every night that are bound to make the public at least have a desire to attend every night and this fact was certainly made clear when we set the admission at 15c, with 800 reserved seats available each evening at a similar price.

To be perfectly frank this Carnival and Style Show must be larger and better in every respect to warrant the increased expense we have entailed in arranging our extensive programme. But we feel that the charitable causes to which the profits are going to and the liberal response that we had last year, combined with the additional attractions for next weeks show, I say we feel that history will be made in an entertainment way in Belleville, and when the curtain closes on the 1926 Kiwanis Karnival it will be voted the best week of fun and entertainment and election ever staged in this city.

Let's start Monday night and make it a "Habit" until the last one.

See you Monday night.

HARRY GREENLEAF.

(By Russ Wotten—Chairman of Programme and Music)

As Chairman of the Programme Committee for the Kiwanis Karnival, it was our duty to live up the slogan of the Publicity Man—"We Guarantee You More Than Your Money's Worth"—and we are thoroughly convinced now on looking over the extensive programme just assembled, that we didn't make that another half already counts.

We consider that the bringing to Belleville on Monday and Tuesday of the Galt Boys' Band of fifty pieces is a feature well worth coming miles to hear. They are going to give liberal band concerts on the streets of those days, but will render an extensive programme on the platform in the auditorium immediately following the Style Show. It is interesting to note that not one boy is over 15 years of age and they are rated the finest organization of its kind on the continent.

On Wednesday evening and Friday evening the dancing class of Miss Audrey Mikel will make their 1926 debut to the public in a programme of classic interpretation and national dancing—this will follow the display of fashions on the stage. Miss Mikel is arranging many new and novel effects never before seen in Belleville.

The Regimental Band has been engaged for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

On Thursday evening a Charleston Contest is on the bill and this should create keen competition among those who step this lively dance.

On two evenings during the week we have arranged for the famous beauty "Miss Toronto" to be with us. On one evening she will assist in the modelling of the garments from a local store, and on the other evening will be seen the costumes she won on her Atlantic City trip. These are valued at $1500.00. She will also be a guest of the dance committee both evenings in the ball room.

The exact dates of Miss Toronto's appearance are not available at this time.

A contrast of the various costumes and styles worn since 1796 to 1900 will be a feature attraction on the stage each evening during the style show. This will take the form of a tableau in which that particular per-

POISONING CASE AIRED AT TRENTON; SIDNEY DRIVER FREED

PARTY IMBIBED WOOD ALCOHOL

Inquest at Trenton Following One Death From Illnesses

BOUGHT ON SUNDAY

Evidence of Survivor and of Doctor Given to Jury

(By a Staff Reporter)

We, the undersigned jurors duly sworn to inquire of the death of Charles McDonald of Ottawa came to the death on Sept. 14th 1926 in a boarding car on the Canadian Railways in the town of Trenton, County of Hastings from drinking Methyl Hydrate.

The above is the verdict brought in by the jury impaneled to inquire into the death of Chas. McDonald at Trenton last Tuesday. The inquest was held at the police court room in Trenton last night before Coroner Dr. M. B. Crowe, Mr. B. C. Donnan of this city appearing on behalf of the crown.

THE EVIDENCE

Roderick Stephney a timekeeper in the employ of the Canadian National National Railway of Ottawa, who viewed the body as was that of Charles McDonald of Ottawa a laborer on the railroad.

Were you present when he died?

-No but I looked at his dead in the car on Tuesday morning. Sept. 14th. I saw him at-2.30 in the morning and monday. He was taken sick at 6 on that time and I understood he had been drinking. Examined medical attention at 9.30 the previous night. The witness said McDonald had been ill the day before.

Dr. J. W. Farley (Jr.), the physician who attended McDonald on Monday night was next called. The victim he said had apparently been drinking wood alcohol on Sunday the day previous. On Monday he felt a lack of energy and did not work.

On Monday afternoon he said he felt pains across his back and sickened. At

REV. MR. BEAMISH TO PREACH IN IRELAND AND ENGLAND

Fulfilling a year's contract with the Social Service and Evangelism Department of the Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Beamish will leave Toronto on Sept. 25th for Belfast, Ireland, where he will preach in each of which places he will remain a week.

Archdeacon Beamish preached the Harvest Thanksgiving Service at St. James' Church, Tweed, last evening and the choir of St. Thomas' who also went out to Tweed rendered an anthem. A solo, "How Amiable Are Thy Dwellings" by Mrs. Wilford, the choir leader, was appreciated. The clergy in the sanctuary were Rev. L. H. Webster, rector of the church, Rural Dean Creegan and Rev. Mr. Beamish.

At the conclusion of the service St. Thomas' choir was entertained by St. James' choir in the guild room and a very happy hour was spent by the forty members of the combined choirs.

RANEY DECIDES TO STAY OUT

Not to Contest Seat Now Held in Wellington, He Says

Toronto, September 18.—Hon. W. E. Raney, former Ontario attorney-general will not contest the election in the provincial constituency he represents in the Legislature, Wellington East, which is redistributed and now named Wellington South. Mr. Raney has made this announcement in a letter to his constituents declining to accept the nomination proffered him by a Progressive convention a few days ago. Mr. Raney states the election will probably be inside of two months."

"There is already a resident Liberal in the field," he explains. "There will be, I have no doubt a resident Conservative candidate. Pro-bably my constituents are personally strangers to me. If I were in a position to stay in the riding from now until election day it might be different. I am not in a position to do that."

CUBAN PLANTERS ASK 41 MILLIONS

Want Action Against U. S. to Recover Last War Profits

Montreal, Sept. 18. —Cable advices from Havana to leading sugar interests here state that an influential group of Cuban planters and sugar mill owners are petitioning the Government of the Republic to take action against the United States treasury for the recovery of $41,000,000 which they allege was profit made by the sale of sugar to allied nations during the latter years of the war. Questioned on the matter, Dr. Sains De La Pena. Cuban consul in Montreal, said the information was correct. He did not know what would be the attitude of his Government but he stated reliable information had reached him to the effect that the planters and mill owners were pressing the claim if the Government refused to act.

In explanation of the proceedings Dr. Sains said: "Cuba handed over its entire sugar crop during 1918 and 1919 to the United States Government. This was done at the most unscrupulous speculation by private concerns.

"The United States Government," continued Dr. Sains, "used this sugar to the Allies through the equalization board. That board was recently dissolved and after all expenses including big salaries to commissioners were paid there was handed over to the treasury the sum of $41,000,000.

"In view o fthis fact the planters and mill owners through their association have asked the Cuban Government to make a claim on the United States Government for a refund of this $41,000,000."

WEATHER BAD FOR ALL CROPS

Almost 50% of Grain Still in Water-Soaked Fields

Toronto September 18.—The weather has been very unsatisfactory for most farm operations. In some of the Central Ontario Counties almost 50% of the grain and small seed crop is still in the water soaked fields. There have been considerables sprouting and shelling but the loss from these causes is more serious in alsalfa and other seed crops than in coarse grains.

Many soils have been too wet for Fall wheat preparation and this in addition to shortage of labor and poor implements of delay the laborious harvest will prevent an increase and in many districts cut down the seeding of wheat. Beans have been harvested in commercial South Western Ontario but as the ground is very wet, farmers are delaying digging as much as possible till they will be different. I am not in a position to do that.

NEW SCHOOL NURSE HIGHLY QUALIFIED

Miss Mary Fraser Ross who has been appointed to the position formerly held by Miss A. M. Sinclair as Belleville school nurse, comes to the city with highest qualifications. Born in Owen Sound she received her training as a nurse in what is considered a hospital of the highest standing in America, the John Hopkins Hospital of Baltimore, Md. In this hospital during the special training given to children, Miss Ross' interest in the youngsters prompted her to specialize in children's diseases and after successfully completing the summer term required for the school nurse, accepted a position in the Scothampton School Unit. There she was very valuable in the community and it was only with the greatest reluctance the people accepted her resignation.

Since coming to Belleville, though but three weeks ago, Miss Ross has made her presence felt in the thorough examination she has made of the little ones in her care and the helpful advice and treatment she has given.

Miss Ross is residing with Mrs. McPherson, Alexander street.

MORE ARRESTS IN ITALY

Six Hundred Houses Searched For Anarchists in Rome

Rome, Sept. 18. — The Giornale D'Italia says the police made 350 additional arrests last night in continuing their investigation of the attempt to assassinate Premier Mussolini by means of a bomb last Saturday. Six hundred houses were searched, mostly in the poorer section, as possible refugees for subversive elements.

Many of those previously detained for questioning have been released. Among those still held is the noted anarchist, Enrico Malatesta.

KNIFE THROWN TO PAY $5,000 AT A PRINCESS FOR THIS HOME

Embassy Luncheon in Japanese Capital Has "Incident"

MAN WAS TOO QUICK

Leaped Into Danger and Cigarette Case Saved His Heart

(Tokio, September 18.—A knife was hurled towards Princess Louise of Sweden, Sir John Tilley, British ambassador and Albert de Bassompierre, Belgian ambassador, yesterday, while a luncheon was in progress at the British Embassy. The weapon struck Roger Tilley, son of the ambassador, near the heart, but was deflected by a gold cigarette case. Young Tilley was unhjured. The would-be assassin escaped.

ARE RESTICENT

Both British and Japanese officials are reticent concerning the incident.

Government officials are giving out scanty information, but it is learned that the following is authentic:

The Brazilian knife of Sir John Tilley pierced Wednesday from the drawing room of the British Embassy. Yesterday Sir John and the Belgian Ambassador were seated on either side of Princess Louise at a luncheon at the British Embassy in honor of the Princess and Crown Princess consort. Their backs were toward a window. Roger Tilley was seated near the end of the table, partly facing the window, when suddenly the knife with an intruder's fash cautiously peering in.

The intruder then drew a knife, whereupon young Tilley sprang toward the window. The knife, hurled towards the Princess and the ambassadors, struck young Tilley directly over the heart, a gold cigarette case saving his life.

The luncheon immediately was in confusion, men hurrying out after the would-be assassin. Although the Embassy was surrounded by police, the man escaped. The Princess remained and insisted that the luncheon continue.

It is not known whether Sir John, Ambassador de Bassompierre, or the Princess was his intended victim.

Police are combing Tokio for the intruder. The exact nationality of the man is not protected, young Tilley apparently being the only guest who saw him. He said the man was dressed in Western attire and spoke no word. He has been Japanese, Police and vernacular newspapers are inclined to believe the assailant is Chinese.

NORTHRUP HOME TO BOSTON MAN

Has Lease and Also an Option to Buy if He Cares to

The beautiful residence of the late W. B. Northrup, K.C., has been leased to Mr. A. H. Martin, of Boston, Mass., who has adopted Belleville and Hastings county as his new abode. Mr. Martin has obtained from the Northrup Estate an option to purchase same during the currency of his lease. Mr. Martin intends to make large improvements to the property. He believes that Belleville is one of the prettiest places in which to live, and will be welcomed to Belleville by its citizens. Mr. Martin is interested in the affairs of Hastings County. Lease and option obtained by Mr. Martin were arranged through Messrs. Ponton and Ponton of this city.

APPLE CROP SMALLER

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—A bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture, fruit branch, states that the Canadian commercial apple crop shows a 2 per cent. drop over the August estimate and indications now point for a yield of 2,771,000 barrels, as compared with 2,833,000 barrels in 1925.

Ontario accounts for the decrease in the general estimate owing to so many varieties failing to come up to the early expectations.

Reports From Miss Ross, New School Nurse, Are Received

At the opening of the Board of Education held last evening, Mr. Elliott chairman, welcomed the members and hoped that all had had a pleasant and profitable holiday. There was considerable to be done at the coming meeting of the Board especially in regard to the construction of the new collegiate. He welcomed all new members on the teaching staff also Miss Ross, the school nurse, who takes the place of Miss Sinclair.

Members present were Messrs J. Elliott, chairman; J. Boos; W. Harvey; Geo. Sprackett; F. S. Anderson; F. J. Smith; A. McGie; E. J. Butler; R. Geen A. Jones; Mrs. Agnes McFee and Mrs. Florence Boyes.

Miss Ross school nurse presented a brief report of her work since coming to the city. Dr. Wilson dentist had made an examination of many children and it was ascertained that a number would have to be treated dentally.

Miss Ross gave a number of safety first pamphlets to be distributed.

Chairman Elliott, stated that it would cost $50 to secure 50 copies of the safety first pamphlets.

Mr. J. Fone considered the pamphlets were of considerable value to children learning things about safety first.

Mr. P. C. McLaurin, Principal of the High School presented a brief report to the opening of the school and the new entry there was to provide some extra seating.

A report from Mr. H. J. Clarke school inspector relative to the entrance examination to the High School held in June was ordered to be filed.

A communication was received from ex-Ald. A. Robinson relative to procuring property from him for the erection of the new collegiate.

Mr. Elliott said that plans were too

BORDEN, CURRIE, FALCONER NAMED

Beatty Also Among Men Suggested to Succeed Sir Esme Howard

London, September 18.—The Spectator, Conservative weekly paper, warmly supports views expressed by its monetary correspondent, that it will be a well known Canadian, who thinks Canada must have a greater hand in Empire affairs than it has at present.

The Spectator correspondent suggests that when the present British Ambassador at Washington, Sir Esme Howard retires, a Canadian like Sir Robert Borden, former Premier of the Dominion, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, Montreal, Sir Robert Falconer, President of University of Toronto, or E. R. Wood, former President of Canadian Pacific Railway Company, should be appointed his successor. The Spectator correspondent declares that the Imperial Conference is not worth its cents "with its junketing and its platitudinous talk."

FRANCE AND GERMANY AS LOVING PARTNERS NEW 'HOPE' AT GENEVA

Geneva, Sept. 18. — That the Franco-German accord planned by foreign Ministers Briand and Stresemann will be fundamentally of an economic nature was confirmed today by a German spokesman. Both France and Germany, he said desire to transform the existing system of pledges, growing out of the treaty of Versailles, into a friendly partnership whereby they would combine their interests.

HOLE IN ONE MADE BY ALFRED LEGAULT

Alfred Legault, men's captain of the Belleville Golf Club, made the fourth hole of the course in one stroke from the tee Friday afternoon.

The hole is 152 yards distant from the tee. Mr. Legault played the stroke with an iron. He was playing in a foursome and several players in the vicinity also witnessed the stroke.

TRAINMEN DIE IN C. P. RY. CRASH

Two Freights Met Head On Not Far From London

London, Ont., Sept. 18.—Three trainmen were killed and two seriously injured in a head-on collision between two freight trains on the Canadian Pacific Railway near Kent Bridge this morning. The dead are: David Brown, 50, London; G. B. Stewart, -30, London; E. S. Willsie, 44, London, Brown and Stewart were engineer and fireman respectively of the west-bound train. Willsie was fireman of the east-bound freight.

MAN'S MOTHER DEMANDS TRUTH

McPherson Case Must Be Exposed By Radio Operator's Statement

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 18.—In an interview in the Examiner, Mrs. W. C. Ormiston, mother of Kenneth G. Ormiston, declared she was "tired of all this deception" and called upon her son to tell the authorities the truth concerning his part in the Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance. "With this great mass of evidence showing that Mrs. McPherson was not kidnapped, with warrants issued for her arrest, there is no use for even a mother to try to persuade herself that the story told by my son is true," Mrs Ormiston said.

"We tried to bring him up as a God-fearing, righteous man and until he met Mrs. McPherson there was nothing to mar our joy and our pride in him. Since then there has been nothing but trouble. When Kenneth went to Mexico to the district attorney we were hurt, for in them our son confessed a wrong, but we believed them. Now we cannot. We must come forward and tell the truth."

EMBROIDERED HATS AMONG NEW FASHIONS

Hollywood, September 18. — Tight skirts, bloused waists, hat sleeves, tunic dresses, velvet, rabbit-skin slippers, button earrings, embroidered hose and chin straps with small hats, are just a few of the fads and fashion that will be featured in the fall styles to be worn by feminine members of the motion picture colony.

Norma Shearer apparently believes in taking no phases of losing her headgear, for the number of small hats she sets ready for autumn wear, and each has a chin strap of leather or heavy ribbon. The remainder of her wardrobe shows short skirts and a wide variety of sport suits. These latter are distinguished by an almost total absence of pleats. All of them are either swagged or straight-lined with box coats that come to the hips.

FUNERAL OF MR. MASSON TO BE FROM ST. ANDREW'S

The funeral of the late Mr. Masson, K. C., Police Magistrate, which will take place on Monday afternoon, will be of a semi-public nature and will be held at 2.30 at St. Andrew's church, when Rev. R. B. Stewart, B. A., minister, will conduct the service. At this service the legal fraternity of the city and county will be represented, also city and county officials. Interment will take place at Belleville cemetery. Six members of the police force in uniform, will act as pall bearers.

That the deceased had many friends is evidenced by numerous messages of sympathy which have been received by Mrs. Masson.

DETLOR IS FREED OF ANY BLAME

Mrs. Elizabeth Cochrane Hesitated Crossing the Highway

HAD BEEN WARNED

Eleven Witnesses Gave Evidence at Inquest at Colborne

The inquest into the death of Elizabeth Jane Cochrane, who was killed on the Provincial Highway east of Colborne near Salem on September 10th was held at the Community Hall in the village of Colborne last night before Coroner J. Archer Brown, M.D. and a jury.

Eleven witnesses in all were called and examined by counsel. The evidence showed that Mr. James Detlor, wife and three children, were proceeding easterly from Toronto to Belleville at a very moderate rate of speed, and when east of Colborne, a Mrs. Bradford driving a car westerly, had stopped her car on the north side of the pavement to let Mrs. Cochrane out, in order that she might then at the house of a Mrs. Weeks on the south side of the highway.

Mrs. Bradford warned Mrs. Cochrane that cars were coming from the west. Mrs. Cochrane ran around the back of Mrs. Bradford's car and ran hurriedly across the pavement immediately in front of Mr. Detlor's car, and then apparently stopped and hesitated, and then Detlor's car struck her. Nearly all the witnesses who saw the unfortunate accident were of the opinion that had Mrs. Cochrane continued to run instead of hesitating, she would no doubt have cleared Detlor's car. After hearing the evidence and the address of the Crown Attorney, and the Coroner, the jury retired and brought in the following verdict:

"That Elizabeth Jane Cochrane came to her death on the 10th day of September, 1926, in the Township of Cramahe on the Provincial highway by being struck by a motor car driven by Mr. J. A. Detlor, and no blame is attached to Mr. Detlor."

W. F. Kerr, K.C. of Cobourg appeared on behalf of the Crown and Major R. D. Ponton of this city attended in the interests of Mr. Detlor.

CRAZED FARMER IS FOUND DEAD

Started Out to Kill Seven "On His List", Yet Shot Self

Winnipeg, September 18.—Ross Little, a farmer of the Roblin district, who, crazed by financial worries, started to avenge wrongs he thought neighbors perpetrated upon him, is dead—a suicide.

After preparing a "death list," naming seven neighboring farmers whom he was prepared to kill as the men who had "wronged him," Little left his home Sunday night, armed with a shotgun.

Late in the evening he visited the home of James Munroe, 10, whom he featured in the fall styles to be worn by feminine members of the motion picture colony.

Norma Shearer apparently believes in taking no phases of losing her headgear, for the number of small hats she sets ready for autumn wear, and each has a chin strap of leather or heavy ribbon. The remainder of her wardrobe shows short skirts and a wide variety of sport suits. These latter are distinguished by an almost total absence of pleats. All of them are either swagged or straight-lined with box coats that come to the hips.

NERVOUS TENSION IN 1912 SHOWN

First Volume of Poincare's Memoirs Deals With Pre-War Years

FRANCE CONCILIATORY

Evidence Given Concessions Would Not Appease German Ambition

New York, September 18.—The nervousness and tension of Europe in 1912, and the fears, ambitions and intrigues that led to the Great War, are the themes of the first volume of the memoirs of Raymond Poincare being issued by Double-day, Page and Company. The first volume deals almost wholly with the year 1912. The date of publication of the volume is Sept. 24. The volume was translated and adapted by Sir George Arthur, and has a preface by the Duke of Northumberland.

Discussing the troubles which faced the French Government which he headed in 1912, M. Poincare says:

"The troubles which sprang from Agadir and the Italian-Turkish campaign, flared our eyes outward, and especially on Germany, whose attitude, despite the recent understanding was, to say the least of it, puzzling. France really wished to tread a conciliatory and loyal line as regards her neighbors, but every day brought fresh proof that French concessions had done nothing to appease German nationalism. The Emperor himself had on the 7th of February, made a speech from the throne which, if not quite so aggressive as the famous 'dry powder' oration, was anything but suggestive of an entente with France.

"In announcing an increase to his naval and military forces, William II. trumpeted forth that his empire must be strong enough to defend at any moment its national honor, prosperity and interests.

There was of course a line of policy which France might follow. If she wished to make Germany contented, she might cut herself off from her friends and allies, submit over and over again to something not unlike blackmail, cringe to every threat of force and count only on right, without might, to make good her wrongs. Of course such a policy would at once have put France at the mercy of the Hohenzollerns; it would have been to repudiate everything we had tried to do since 1871, and to renounce openly any idea of eventual reparation for a great historic injustice; it would have meant the definite and final subordination of France, her moral and economic servitude, and her inevitable decline.

"We honestly tried to deal dispassionately with a passionate people; we did everything we knew to avoid offence to a personage who was capable of making the misery of the world."

The strengthening of the entente cordiale, the Chinese consortium, the first Balkan war, and every development of political importance to Europe in 1912 are treated in the volume. The Duke of Northumberland in his preface, says:

PARTY IMBIBED

It o'clock at night the witness said he was called again and found the pulse showing little action and the victim was writhing in pain. The next morning he was informed that McDonald had died.

You are familiar with Methyh-Hydrate or rubbing alcohol?

I would call it wood-alcohol.

Would the symptoms show that McDonald had been drinking this?

"Yes."

An empty Bottle was produced by the Crown.

What would you say was the cause of his death?

Drinking this liquid, I would say.

Percy C. McKay, a laborer on the Canadian National Railway, whose original home was in Scotland was next called. McKay is very well educated having passed his matriculation and obtained other scholastic honours.

He said he came to Trenton a few days previously.

You were with McDonald on Sunday the 12th?

"Yes."

You purchased something to drink at a Trenton drug store in the afternoon?

Yes, 50c worth of Methylated spirits, McDonald paying for it.

Who suggested getting it?

McDonald.

Were you familiar with this liquid?

Yes, I have drunk it before.

Any ill effects?

"No."

The witness said two purchases were made on Sunday. Two other men who he did not know also consumed some the liquor.

Did you have any ill effect?

Only slightly on Monday.

Nothing else was drunk besides this liquor.

Did McDonald see this label "poison" on the outside of the bottle?

"Yes."

Witness said he himself had drunk none that day, the deceased.

Ezrl Tully apprentice at Simmon's Drug Store said he had sold the poison liquor to McKay on Sunday.

The purchaser made no explanation of what he wanted the spirits for.

On coming back for more Methylhydrate McKay had said he wanted it for a spirit lamp.

Is this what it is ordinarily used "Yes."

A. Thorne, of Ottawa, a laborer on the gang said, McKay had given him a drink last Sunday, in a bush opposite the boarding car.

Were you sick

"Yes."

The drink was mixed with water and sugar, witness said.

Albert Thorne brother of the last witness stated he had been given a drink at the same time on Sunday afternoon.

You saw the label on the bottle?

"Yes."

George Plane a laborer said McKay had also given him a drink. I had a drink previously and then invited the Thorne Bros. He admitted having taken four drinks and became sick. He had seen McDonald take one or two drinks.

This concluded the evidence and the Jury retired to bring in a verdict.

The Lesson-Sermon is composed of selections from the Bible relative to the subject with correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. First and Second Readers read the selections in sections alternately.

A citation from the Bible: "So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin." (Rom. 7: 25).

Citations from the Christian Science textbook: "A material body only expresses a material and mortal mind." "Mind, supreme over all its formations and governing them all, is the central sun of its own systems of ideas, the life and light of all its own vast creation; and man is tributary to divine Mind, The material and mortal body or mind is not the man" (pp. 205, 293).

BRUIN DIDN'T RELISH BRAND NEW GOLF BALL

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 13.—"Wee" Davie Black, famous pro of the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, Vancouver, is a Scotsman, but not as Scotch as Scotsmen are supposed to be. At he were, there would have been no best ball match in the Jasper Park Lodge tournament yesterday.

According to a despatch from Jasper "Wee" Davie has been evincing a keen interest in the bears which are found in the vicinity of the Jasper Park course, and when one of them sauntered on to the fairway from a copse yesterday, Davie pitched a nice new ball along the turf to see what would happen.

Now he knows.

Mr. Bruin pushed it up in his teeth, bit it in two, and discovering it was not the expected sugar, let go and at cost Davie a handful of sugar hunting to recover one seriously damaged and utterly useless piece of Gutta Percha.

T. R. MEIGHEN LAW STUDENT

Quebec, September 18.—T. R. Meighen, son of Premier Meighen, was officially admitted to the study of the law by Laval University, when he was registered as a student of that institution. He will read law with the firm of Fitzpatrick, Dupre, Gagnon and Parent. This legal firm has among its members Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, former chief justice of the Supreme Court, and Mr. Charles Parent, son of the late Premier Parent, Mr. Maurice Dupre, a prominent young Conservative and Mr. Onesime Gagnon, a well-known K.C.

LAD WAS IN DANGER

Too great concentration on the fate of a box which had fallen from a passing car, almost cost Master Elliott, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Elliott, 297 Front street, his life yesterday afternoon. The little fellow who had been sent on a message to Bridge street, was crossing at Campbell street when tee box episode occurred and he deliberately, though unintentionally ran in the path of a car driven by Mr. Bowman of Picton, and was run over. A crowd immediately gathered, and the lad was taken home little the worse for the accident and is out today. No blame whatever was attached to the driver of the Picton car as the collision was undoubtedly unavoidable.

TORONTO CONDUCTOR SOLD BOGUS TICKETS

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Following an investigation made by city detectives during the past few weeks in connection with bogus street car tickets which were being found in Toronto transportation commission fare boxes, police last night arrested Paul Frederics, a conductor, after searching him while he was in charge of a street car. In one of the man's pockets officers claim to have found a small tin box containing a number of strips of the bogus tickets.

Later detectives searched his home and stated they found bogus tickets which, if genuine, would have been worth $100, dies for stamping the front and back of the tickets, ink pads and a quantity of paper on which the tickets were printed. Detectives stated the bogus tickets could hardly be distinguished from the genuine, except that the paper was a little lighter in color. Frederics, who has been employed on city street cars since 1916, was held without bail.

CHOIR FOUNDER IS DEAD

Dr. A. S. Vogt, Was One of Dominion's Leading Musicians

Toronto, September 18.—Dr. Augustus Stephen Vogt, founder of the Mendelssohn Choir, died here yesterday afternoon. He was 69 years of age and was born in Washington, Oxford County, Ontario. He conducted the famous choir from 1894 to 1917, and was one of Canada's outstanding musicians.

Intestinal influenza was stated to be the cause of Dr. Vogt's death. He had been ill for some days.

Besides Hamilton and Elgin, Ont., Dr. Vogt was educated at Leipsic, Germany, and the New England Unitarian, Boston.

LIBERAL "RALLY" WAS UNEXPECTED

Col. Vanderwater and Mr. Hanna Admit They're Surprised

Defeated Candidates in Two Ridings Talk From Stump

The Liberals of South Hastings held two rallies, one in Trenton and another in Belleville last night. A parade, headed by the Argyll Light Infantry Band, followed by several prominent members of the party, namely Roscoe Vanderwater, Robt. Macaulay, Chas. Hanna and Mayor Fraser. Quite a number of people on foot followed and automobiles paraded up Front street and back to the Market Square where short speeches were heard.

Roscoe Vanderwater, the dearfaced candidate in South Hastings, attended the platform. He said it was quite unexpected that the Liberals of Trenton should organize the rally without intimating it to Belleville supporters. "I can see by the faces before me that Liberalism in South Hastings is not dead and I have no intention of waiting four or five years to organize for the next campaign. It will be done next year." He read a telegram received from William Lyon Mackenzie King.

Mayor Fraser of Trenton, who was beaten in Northumberland, was then next speaker. He said he was pleased to be in Belleville and to speak here. Colonel Vanderwater had carried on a clean campaign and deserved credit. Someone shouted, "what about the scum of Hastings County politics?" This was one of Mr. Fraser's alleged utterances in a speech made during the last campaign. "Arthur Meighen came to Cobourg to sacrifice his seat for Mayhew, now I wonder if the latter will do the same for Meighen. I lathered them in the last election and I'll shave them in the next" said Mayor Fraser.

Chas. Hanna was the last speaker "We were told of the 'blue rain' cry broadcasted throughout the country last year and now the Liberals are in for another four years." He said he really was unexpected to the Liberals of Belleville.

Saturdays Markets

Despite the fact that the "world's" fair was in progress at Shannonville today the market was the largest attended for a number of weeks. While sellers were numerous buyers were also well represented. The market square was more than filled with vehicles containing farm and garden produce and a number had to park their vehicles on Pinnacle street. Whilst much produce was offered for sale the greater portion of same was disposed of. There were but few changes to note in prices.

Eggs showed a slight increase in price 6c for specials was obtained for some. The ruling price was 42c per dozen. Strictly fresh 46c per dozen.

Fresh dairy butter retailed at 45c per pound. In a few cases a slightly lower figure. Cream sold at 30c a pound.

Dressed chickens while plentiful commanded a good price. Broilers sold at $1.00 and $1.10 per pair and chickens from $1.50 to $2.20 a pair. A few ducks offered for sale sold at $1.25 each.

In the fruit line green gages, blue plums and imperial plums, melons and apples were much in evidence. Apples sold at 25c a peck, melons ranged in prices from 10c to 40c each, grapes 50c a peck and large plums 60 and 75c a peck.

There were no changes to note in prices of vegetables which were in abundance. Potatoes sold at 45c and 50c a peck, tomatoes 30c a peck, beets, onions and carrots sold at 5c a bunch.

Two fish vendors disposed of a considerable quantity of fish at prices that were reasonable.

CONCERT BAND DISBANDS

Toronto, Sept. 18.—The Anglo-Canadian concert band of Orangeville, Ontario, prominent in musical circles throughout Canada and the United States, was disbanded when recorded to Charles O. Shaw, founder and patron of the organization. In a statement issued today Mr. Shaw said: "I have not come to this decision on account of any dissatisfaction, but solely for the reason that I do not feel that I can any longer devote the time, energy and patience to the undertaking that is necessary I should devote to it in order to keep it up to its present standard. My other business, I feel, requires all my energy and strength."

JOHN S. THOM AGROUND

Coal-Laden Vessel Fast Near Port Colborne

Port Colborne, Ont., Sept. 18.—Tugs are standing by to assist the steamer John S. Thom, owned by the Quebec and Levis Ferry Company, Quebec, which ran aground in a dense fog off Richfield Point, Lake Erie, four miles west of here. The vessel carried a cargo of coal, and was en route for Montreal.

The steamer is aground on solid rock within 100 yards of the shore. Considerable damage is feared.

LOST MEN DISCOVERED

Slams and Masson Were Without Food For Three Days

Sudbury, Ont., September 18.—Word was received here late Thursday afternoon by long distance telephone from Little Current to the effect that John G. Simms and W. E. Masson, lost on the north shore of Georgian Bay between Fraser Bay and Bay Finn, since Monday night, had been located by a search party.

The men were discovered huddled beside a bonfire on the beach and had been without food for three days. Mistaking Fraser Bay for Bay Finn, they had landed their boat, and in doing so had stranded the craft. Although not aware of the fact, they were only five miles distant from Killarney when located.

far advanced to make any change.

The communication was ordered to be filed.

A motion prevailed that Mrs. Niblock be offered $300 for her property which adjoins the present High School building.

Applications for positions on the teaching staff were referred to the school management committee.

Mr. A. McGie, desired the members of the Board to put their shoulder to the wheel in regard to the new collegiate. He desired to see the foundation laid this fall. We will lose a lot of valuable time if we do not commence soon. He would suggest that the Bogart house be offered at the most favorable price it could be utilized as a residence for the caretaker. It could be placed on the south corner and it would not interfere with the school grounds.

Mr. Elliott. We cannot do much until the plans are completed and then call for tenders and go to the city council to get the necessary money to construct same. He moved in favor of placing of the Bogart house over near the St. Andrews Church.

Mr. McGie. That will interfere with the school grounds.

Mr. Thomson, we could advertise for tenders just as soon as the completed plans are approved of. They will be accepted in a few days. Tenders could possibly be asked for in two weeks' time

Mr. E. J. Butler, moved seconded by Mr. Bone that a resolution of condolence be forwarded to Mrs. S. Mason and daughter owing to the death of the late Polly Magistrate Mason.

CARDS REGAIN TOP POSITION

Cardinals Scored Fourth Straight Win, Smothering Philadelphia 10-1

CINCINNATI IS BEATEN

Yanks Remain in Bad Batting Slump — Only 3 1-2 Ahead

The St. Louis Cardinals, pennant-bound, recovered their lead in the National League by smothering the Philadelphia 10 to 1, while New York helped them along by defeating Cincinnati, 5 to 4, in ten innings.

It was the Cardinals' fourth straight victory in the present series here. They gained the game away in the opening inning by a four-run drive which knocked Willoughby out of the box and sent Knight to his rescue. The latter fared little better before the Mannion attack, however, who touched him for a dozen hits in eight innings. The Cardinals ran wild on the bases and paid little attention to the Philadelphia opposition as Sherdel held them safely all the way by keeping their eight hits scattered.

The St. Louis scoring spree was made on a freakish home-run which resulted when Leach, chasing Thevenow's fly crashed into a bleacher wall and collapsed, allowing the runner to circle the bases.

Frank Frisch, Giant captain, knocked the Cincinnati Reds out of first place in the National League by whacking a homer into the righfield stands of the Polo Grounds in the tenth inning, which gave New York a 5 to 4 win.

INTERNATIONAL

Toronto divided a double-header at Syracuse, today; the Stars taking the opener, 9 to 1, after Glenn Carroll had defeated them, 4 to 3 in the first game. Each team won by piling up a four-run lead in the first inning. Carroll was hard hit, but was saved by splendid fielding in the outer garden where nine put outs were handled.

Baltimore took both games at Jersey City, the Skeeters succumbing 4 to 3 and 5 to 3. Earnshaw assisted Carlton to get the first frame and Ogden worked on the mounds for the winners in the second.

The Buffalo split a double-header with Rochester at Buffalo. The visitors took the opener, 9 to 8 and lost out, 6 to 2. Bissonnette knocked two homers during the day.

Reading played at Newark and lost both ends, 8 to 1 and 4 to 3.

YANKEES LEAD CUT

Cleveland made it three straight from New York today winning 6 to 1 and cutting the Yankees' lead to three and one-half games. New York remained in its batting slump and gathered but five hits of Shaute, making two of the five in the ninth inning.

PREMIER HERTZOG SAILS

(Canadian Press Cable)

Capetown, September 18.—(via Reuters)—General J. B. M. Hertzog, premier of the Union of South Africa, and other members of the South African delegation to the Imperial Conference sailed for home today. They were accompanied by a number of ex-service men, who will be present at the unveiling of a South African war memorial at Delville Wood, France.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS LEAVE FOR TORONTO

The High School girls accompanied by a loyal band of rooters left for Toronto at 6.50 this morning where they meet the last National team at Sunnyside diamond at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The local ladies are confident of their ability that they can trim the Queen City favorites. Jean Ramsay will do the pitching with the midget Aileen Wilkins behind the plate. The remaining positions will be seldom cared of with Peg Pringle at first base, Audrey Kelleher at second, Mary Adams at third and Lorna Ridley in short field.

The outfield will be taken care of by "Pre" Jarrett, Jennie Adams and Aubrey Wilkins.

The Kingston Ponies went along on the same train. They hope to take a fall out of Freddy Hamilton's Oriles at Kingston Park. Here's hoping both victories come to the eastern teams.

"Lefty" Charlie McKay will be on the mound for Oakes and he will have to be one hundred per cent. better than Joe Spring was in Kingston the other day when rain caused a halt to the game with Kingston leading 7-0 at the end of the second inning. Bruce Cairns will do the heaving for Joe Daley and company.

By The "Observer"

HE MUST BE A SCOTCHMAN — In Jack Dempsey's mail yesterday was a letter from a Miss Mary Clemons, who said she was 58 years old and deaf, asking for information as to how she could place a bet on the champion.

"I have $300 which I saved in the past two years and I would like to bet it on you," she said, "if only I could find out how to place a bet. So I have appealed to you for the information."

The letter got no further than Miss Trust, the champion's bodyguard. He replied:

"Put it in the bank."

Queen's Rugby squad reported for duty on Tuesday and—Coach Hughes was well pleased with the number for the first day. Included in that fourteen were Carl Vous and Percy Chandler. It had been stated that there was a possibility of Chandler and Vous not coming here but the two boys were out in their Queen's togs yesterday afternoon. Others who were at the rendezvous were: Captain "Lis" Walker, Godwin and Inketter, who were busily engaged at work and Ed. Handford, Hall, Erwin, H. Young, D. H. Young, Parsons, Reynolds, Inman, Hodd and Shaw. It was expected that Hamilton would be here today and several other players.

THE FINAL WEEK

Those two amiable antagonists, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, are getting ready for the last week of their grind. Both have been throwing big, mote and mush notes at each other. One day Jack sends a message that he trusts the erudite Gene will be in condition. To this violent assault Gene retorts that no matter what happens he will hold Jack in great esteem and that they will live happily ever afterwards, following the split of the big million.

This is a peculiar fight. There is something insincere about the whole proceeding. The betting pendulum swings undeviably to Dempsey. It is the barometer that usually tells the tale in this instance. Tunney, too, is egging heroic, a new burden. Jim Corbett has picked him to win the fight. Corbett holds the long distance undisputed title of the world's worst gutsser in pugilistic contests. Once Jim gave a prediction his scorns to blast forever whatever chance his cause has.

Tunney seems fairly one day with a great indulgence of 18-karat words that he will "subdue Dempsey in about a rotund and a half." Later he announces that "after due consideration I perceive I was in error, and believe that the contest of skill and endurance will not go beyond several rounds." He adds a rider to this expressing the hope that his adversary and his followers will not think this a display of vulgar braggadocio.

Dempsey, who is extremely solicitous regarding the condition of his sandwich dancing partner, makes the savage retort: "I don't believe Tunney ever said any such thing. It is silly to predict anything but I will slap him down, as quickly as possible." These amenities having been observed, and Tunney having distinguished and disdainful none upward remarks on the seeming brutality of Dempsey in jostling his little playmate, the workouts. Such practices, he states, are to be deplored. They show an inherent brutality which in his opinion must be disgusting to all true followers of matters fistic.

Mollified by this unexpected attack Dempsey sniffs through his new beak a disdainful sniff. Angered beyond endurance by the affront, he runs eight miles in the morning to show his contempt of such opinions. Diplomatic notes are again exchanged and strained relations are maintained till Tex Rickard announces assurance of a two-million-dollar gate. Then Tunney lets his usual ferocity long enough to go fishing and feverishly recites that great fighting ballad of the Marines' "Fist to hand and fast to leave at the most table."

DOPE ON COMING FIGHT TUNNEY HAS MANY FRIENDS

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 18.—Gene Tunney returned to boxing today with more benefit from his duty's rest yesterday that has been the case after any single period of inactivity since he started his preparation for the big chance in his professional life. The challenger needed rest and got it in plenty. He returned to the ring with vigor and declared that he was "real, real fine." Manager Kearns admitted that he had but one worry and that has been disposed of. The director of the challenger's destinies outside the ring was afraid that his boxer might get "too fine." This he has found Tunney knows how to prevent. The boxer is a great judge of his own condition and is taking no chances.

The frequent periods for rest and recreation are taking care of Tunney's private workouts, intends to perfect some new mysterious punch before Dempsey himself said he merely desired to go through his paces unhampered by prying eyes. Dempsey knows how to fight only after he has put in rip and tear in the same style that he has characterized in all his championship fights. Tunney for days he intends to start against Tunney.

NOT NEW TO DEMPSEY

Dempsey gave Kearns leave to chew golf yesterday and his day of rest was not disturbed by the news from Indianapolis that as Dempsey's foe he was granted restraining order from fighting Tunney before he fought Harry Wills, the negro challenger, under the auspices of the Coliseum Club of Chicago.

In fact, Dempsey, was inclined to pay no attention to the situation. A few more arrangements to be said, mean nothing in his young life as he has been served with injunctions or attachments along with his three squares every day.

Hamilton's share of the rest of provincial roads—$96,000—was recommended to be paid by City Council.

NEWS OF MOVIES

BELLE

Although known by the theatrical world as the greatest gag-provoker and genie-tickler of the time, "The Bat" in picture form will also be one of the most outstanding laugh features.

This is the parlous promised by Rinehart and Hopwood, independent producer at the United Studios in Hollywood, who brings the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood stage success to the screen.

"All gags and no laughs" makes a dull picture, is the contention of West, who has earned the title of "Master of Mystery Melodies." His screen story, "The Bat," he instructed big to follow the general plot, add new complications to baffle the hundreds of thousands who saw the play—and provide plenty of comedy.

West made the picture with an all-star cast, including Jewel Carmen, Jack Pickford, Louise Fazenda, Emily Fitzroy, Eddie Gribbon, Tullio Carminati, Arthur de Beranger, Robert McKim, Sojin, Lorraine Oriental actor; Arthur Housman. Lee Shumway, Charles Hersinger and others. Every property and member of the technical staff was required to take a pledge not to divulge any details of the huge production.

In addition to barring all visitors from the sets, most of the exacts work was done at night, in order to maintain the secrecy. No one, except West and his trusted lieutenants knew the identity of "The Bat" during production.

At the Belle Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday. Don't miss it.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS"

George White pulled a novelty stunt at the opening performance of the stage annual edition of "Scandals" (appearing at Griffin's Monday, September 20th), on Broadway by initiating the audience into the realm of stagecraft by giving them a 'close-up' of how a show was 'hung' just to prove that his friend and rival promoter Flo Ziegfeld had no 'corner' on the publicity market, and New Yorkers fell for it to the tune of $56 a throw for one seat.

You really couldn't blame Flo for being peeved but he has a real grudge against George after he—The Do Toregos—whom he once offered a princely salary while on a visit to Spain to join his Follies of Boof Garden of the Amsterdam theatre, but George White beat him to it with "Scandals".

The De Toregos are a most devoted couple—brother and sister—born in Madrid, Spain. Their father was Count De Toregos of the diplomatic service and while on a delicate mission, just prior to the Spanish American war, contracted a cold, which developed into pneumonia and he died on board Admiral Cavera's battleship of the Spanish fleet.

AT THE REGENT

A picture which introduces to Mr. and Mrs. Movie Fan and the little Fans an all-wool, non-shrinkable, yard-wide, ten-gallon western hero, hitherto unknown, is accomplishing something! Add this "Iris Go, Gallegher" does with a flourish at the Regent Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday where Tom Tyler, F. B. O.'s new star, is now being featured in a swift, sensational story of the open ranges. Mr. Tyler, equipped with a wonderful physique, a flashing smile and a patriotic personality, to say nothing of as fine a collection of classic features as could well be collected together on the same face, is tearing right through to the hearts of the amusement public in his very first starring vehicle.

King's in for Premier again and
All's wrong in Canada!
(with apologies to Browning).

ONE OF THE BRIGHT SPOTS
We've still got Tunnon.

As the results of the election came in from the West, a lady remarked "well, for once I'm not proud of being a Westerner."

SO DOES BELLEVILLE!
"My, lad," said one Yorkshireman to another, "we're gettin a mayor, and we're given him a collar and a chain to fit him up like." "Hev ye really?" exclaimed the other. "Why, we let pot's run loose!"

LET ME TELL YOU!
Bananas are delicious eaten with black currant jam.

After washing a silver teapot, which is to be stored, dry very carefully and put away with a lump of sugar inside; this will prevent a fusty taste.

To clean glassware wash in warm soapy water and use a brush for cut and ornamental parts. Add a few drops of vinegar to the rinsing water.

Stains on leather chairs can be removed by using a mixture of linseed oil and vinegar. A few drops of this and afterwards polished with a soft duster.

It is quite necessary to keep food in a dry pantry as it is always in a cool one. Damp weather sets very quickly on food, and care is necessary to prevent waste. By placing a two-pound jar of lime in a small pantry or larder the air can be kept sweet and dry.

Darn new socks and stockings lightly at toes, heels and knees, then wash before they are worn. This will save much darning for a considerable time.

THE YELLOW PRINCE

Down the highway past the fallows
Down the field path to the shallows,
Rides Coldenrod, his cuirass all agleam,
Calling to the round-eyed aster,
"Follow—faster, follow faster,"
As she lifts her purple gown to cross the stream.

Prince of wild flowers is this fellow,
With his waving plume of yellow,
And every road is his that leaves the town;
Poets sing his golden graces,
Lovers, lingering in quiet places,
Approve him, while he ventures hill and down.

Yet in spirit we are saddened.
Though our seeing eyes are gladdened
(Grave the imprint when a prince comes riding by)
When his camp fires light the hollows
And the purple aster follows,
Alas, the god of summer draweth nigh.
—Andrew Thryne, in Canadian Home Journal.

THE LONDON LIBRARY

The London Library, at the northwest corner of St. James Square, a few doors west of the house once occupied by Lord Chatham, Lady Blessington—the friend of Byron and Count d'Orsay—Lord Derby, and Gladstone, is feeling the pinch of all kinds of increased costs for books, book-binding, wages, and rent. A circular signed "Dalfour, president," and "Edmund Gosse, chairman of committee," intimates the raising of the annual subscription, from three guineas to four for new members, and invites present members to pay the increase "if they can afford it; and adopts those changes have been paid the subscriber who needs books as the tools of his trade is said to get good value indeed. The London Library ranks next to that of the British Museum—with the difference, of course, that it is a lending library. Thomas Carlyle was one of its chief founders. He realized the distinct vantage of working with books chained to the British Museum, compared with books taken home. Strictly a town member can have only ten books out at once, but this is a greatly elastic rule. There are over 4,000 members; and it is said that on any day in the year there are more than 30,000 books out.

MUSIC.

I have known music,
A wind swept pine
Upon a singing hill,
A million elfin voices
In the night,
The chant of frogs in pools
A moonlit music.

I have known music,
The thrumming of the rain
Upon the leaves,
When all the birds were still,
And liquid drops fell softly
To the grass
And sliding gayly
Down each bending blade,
Slipped silently
Into the earth's dark breast.
To muted music.

And now within the city's Surging roar
I still hear music,
And as some great organ
Filling all the sky,
A mighty diapason,
Fretted by the strident call
Of lesser sounds,
Urgent, challenging,
Triumphant music.

JUST IN PASSING

ADVICE

Eyes turn away and clinging hands must part,
It matters not, for we are friends for aye,
Distance may darken, but not crush the heart.

We serve them out of eager love, not duty,
And none so safe as he whom love defends;
The leader words of Christ assume new beauty—
Henceforth not servants, I have called you "Friends."

MONEY AND MARRIAGE

"Observe the expression upon the face of any noble mute handing out the week's housekeeping allowance!" says Olive Salter in the English Good Housekeeping. "He is parting with his heart's blood, and knows it, and is not quite sure at the moment whether he does not regret his bargain. The few bills he gives his wife have been bought in their turn by his leisure, his health very likely, and many of his personal inclinations. They represent long hours at the office desk; uncomfortable quarters in the tube; distasteful mixing with people's toes in the tube; dreadful monotony of hour standing on or under ments when his employer has a look of dismissal in his eye, or when the bank looks coldly on his cheque and refers him to drawer. In exchange he gets what he calculated to get; a house, a wife, children, a wireless set, and a corner in the window, or value in kind. These are the real elements of life's system of barter; money is, after all, merely the voucher of the deal, having as much value in itself as the paper upon which we write our cheques.

"Women mostly pay for their blessings in currency of a rather different character. They draw large bills upon their health, their nerves, their peace of mind. The typical housewife buys her Sunday joint with a sigh, her new hat with much misgiving; her doctor's bills are paid with sleepless nights and a wrinkle or two. Unused to reckoning such intangible accounts, however, we are still apt to buy to our imperfect soult that age-old delicious fantasy—the fantasy of something for nothing.

"It is well known that the feminine temperament cannot resist this allurement. The most disillusioned among us will still pause at the resonant counter; and there are few womanly spirits whom it consistently strikes as ridiculously to spend time and hard labour in reaching a cheaper shopping centre. But in no part of fate's market do women so persistently and light-heartedly expect to get the best of the bargain as in the market of husbands."

"How splendid," she sings!" said Minnie, timidly.

"Her acting is perfection," Captain Brisley remarked. "I do not at all wonder at the eminence she has attained in her profession."

"Not I," said Roy, in the same harsh tone. "Her acting is what it always was, perfection—there can be no two opinions on that point."

The second act—surely scene of the most exquisite and touching music ever composed is contained therein—was heard in almost complete silence. Annette seemed to have lost all her timidity, and to throw herself heart and soul into her part; while in the next scenes her terror in the church, her anguish at her brother's curse, were rendered with intense pathos and feeling.

(To be Continued.)

The Old Love Or New?

"And that, doubtless, is her husband!" she asked, indicating Roy, who occupied the seat behind Minnie, and was talking to her with that air of consequential which is so natural to some men, where women are concerned. "He is very handsome, Adolphe. I hope our poor Annette has forgotten him," she added, with tears filling her kind eyes. "But I wonder why Lord Elford, who is so devoted, cannot please her?"

"Perhaps she wants a prince." M. Chabert said, gayly. "She is a queen in our world, is our Annette, and will not want to abdicate. But the curtain rises, Lizzie."

Admirably rendered as the opening scene of this opera was, it was evident that the interest of the audience was centered on the prima donna, who was, of course, to play Marguerite, and the attention began to increase as the glimpse of Marguerite, spinning at her wheel, showed that she was young and pretty and they were evidently on the full vive when she appeared.

She came forward slowly, and stood for a moment while the applause with which she was greeted continued, and the eager spectators had leisure to examine her.

She was young and slenderly formed, and as she stood facing the audience in the quaint, graceful dress of Marguerite, people could see she was very fair to look upon. Her "make-up" was of the slightest, her hair hanging down in thick plaits, looked as if it were her own; her cheeks, slightly red and hollowed, were guiltless of paint, and there was a slight timidity and hesitation about her manner which was, if affected, admirably in character with the part she had to play, and her large eyes were downcast.

Soft eyes were turned upon the stage, and every opera glass was raised. The young actress inclined her head in recognition of their warm reception; bent it lower toward the royal box, faced the audience again, and then a voice of wonderful richness, sweetness, and power rose in the first notes of Marguerite's answer to Faust.

At this moment Minnie, who had been looking through her glass fixedly, turned to her husband with a piercing glance in her blue eyes, and both glanced at Roy. He was sitting still and motionless, outwardly quite calm; but his deadly pallor, the fixed expression of his features, the sudden gleam of fury in his eyes, showed Bob that he had recognized her. The prima donna was Annette de Vitry.

No one spoke for some minutes. Minie had slipped her hand into her husband's in her agitation, while Captain Brisley noticed that Constance Pitzroy was pale and trembling. Roy and Amy were the most calm for the young girl had not recognized Annette; when she did so, she exclaimed:

"Oh! Connie, it is Annette—don't you remember her? Fancy her becoming such a wonderful singer."

"Yes, I remember. Hush, dear!" whispered Constance; "you must not talk."

When the curtain fell there was only confusion in the box, broken at last by Roy, who said, in a bitter, jarring tone:

"Well done, Mademoiselle de Vitry. You have turned your voice to some purpose."

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mrs. A. C. Nelson, the well-known and popular wife of Nelson, Nelson & Co., of Boston, who resides at 1 Bay Road, Boston, Mass., writes:

"I suffered from headaches from childhood and when we found Zutoo Tablets I stopped them, kept them in a few minutes and left no bad effect. We began recommending them to his family and friends. Mr. Norton says he thinks Zutoo Tablets are the best medicine on the market. My family use them when ever needed and I always keep Zutoo Tablets in the house. I have also recommended them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

ALFONSO MADE 300 MILE DASH

Raced Across Country From San Sebastian to Madrid

FACE MUTINY THREAT

King of Spain Drove Own Car When De Rivera Sent Summons

Buenos Aires, September 7.—King Alfonso's own story of his 300-mile auto dash from San Sebastian to Madrid the first Sunday in September to face a threatened mutiny of his army, is graphically told by Don Jorge Mitre, publisher of La Nacion in a despatch from Le Hendaye, France.

Don Jorge was received in special audience by the King in Miramar Palace, San Sebastian, and in reply to congratulations, the monarch exclaimed:

"Not I! All was accomplished by General Primo de Rivera."

In describing the 300-mile dash to Madrid covered by night in little more than six hours, King Alfonso became again the gallant sportsman, writes Don Jorge, who says:

"In his recital he seemed to live all over again the exciting events of the night and he told with enthusiasm all the details of that fantastic race through darkness and rain, and how his car went like a thoroughbred and never faltered until the race was won."

It was after midnight on Saturday, September 4, as Don Jorge writes the story in La Nacion, that King Alfonso, enjoying a quiet game of bridge in the palace, was called to the telephone by an urgent summons from the Premier of Spain, Primo de Rivera, who explained that twelve regiments of artillery were in mutiny, and that the King's immediate presence in Madrid was imperative.

There was no hesitation. The fastest royal automobile was ordered out with the greatest secrecy and about 2 o'clock, when all but a few in the palace were asleep, the car rolled out of the palace courtyard with the King himself at the wheel, accompanied by the Duke of Miranda and a chauffeur.

There have been many royal rides famed in verse and story, but never one to compare with this mad dash through the darkness. Three hundred miles over hill and dale, over muddy country roads and terrible cobbled pavements the King drove. Frequently he drove faster than 70 miles an hour to make up for time lost on the worst stretches. From the frontier the King first reached Tolosa, where he entered upon the mountain passes, a nerve-racking drive in full daylight. But there was not even daylight for the royal driver for heavy clouds obscured the sky and, at Burgos, across the mountains, very heavy rains greeted him.

The King's only anxiety was that the motor should not fail, but "it responded as though, made human by the necessity." And he never lost a tire on the way.

GRANDMOTHER IS ONLY 37

Halifax, September 11.—The claim of being "the youngest grandmother" made by a Ship Harbor woman, of 33, is disputed by someone writing to the local press from North Sydney: "I can do one better than this. I was married at 18 and at 19, my first child was born. She married and her first child was born while in her eighteenth year which made me a grandmother at the age of 37. My youngest child who is uncle to my grandchild is five years."

The Prince of Wales and Premier Stanley Baldwin returned to England from their vacations in France.

STUDEBAKER'S New Custom Sedans

Mechanically up-to-the-minute
—artistically ahead-of-the-times
—economically the cars of the hour

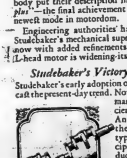

IT is great to be a pioneer and still retain your youth —to sponsor new style at no sacrifice of traditional standards—to set the pace in appearance and maintain it by performance.

This is what Studebaker has done in these new Custom Sedans which are sweeping the country. Sober-body put their description in a phrase, "Studebaker plus,"—the final achievement of performance plus the newest mode in motordom.

Engineering authorities have long acknowledged Studebaker's mechanical supremacy in its field. And now with added refinements the mighty Studebaker L-head motor is widening its margin of leadership.

Studebaker's Victory Over Vibration

Studebaker spends $600,000 annually to fully counterbalance every surface of its big crank shafts—a feature found only in the costliest cars.

And, more significantly, the largest builders of other types have come to this principle for all the worst cars introduced in recent years.

To insure a smooth, vibrationless flow of power, Studebaker spends over $600,000 annually building balance into its big crank shafts—fully machining and dynamically balancing each and every one.

Only seven other American cars have a power rating greater than the Big Six and these all cost from $2500 to $6000 more. The Standard Six is the most powerful car of its size and weight, according to the ratings of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Studebaker's Transcontinental Triumph

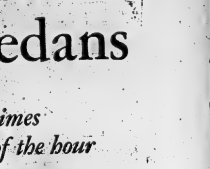

Recently the Studebaker Big Six Sheriff—a certified stock car—dashed from New York to San Francisco in 86 hours and 10 minutes, through the worst storm in 50 years.

It cut 16 hours and 15 minutes off the best previous automobile record and beat the best time of the crack Limiteds by over 8 hours!

It added another victory to the long list already held by Studebaker—Hundreds of Miracle Records—Records of Reliability—Records of Economy—Records of Endurance.

Studebaker's Advanced Engineering Practice

For the past two years, Studebaker has been balancing wheels and casings to insure smoother riding. Moreover, the semi-elliptic springs fostered by Studebaker are now used by 98% of American car manufacturers. Studebaker cars have a long springbase, and spring leaves of the finest chrome vanadium steel. Replacements of springs on Studebaker cars are less than 1% per year of cars in service.

There are many other betterments in Studebaker design—an oil filter and air purifier effectually seal the engine against foreign matter. A waterproof ignition system insures trouble-free operation in rain-storms. Even the spark plugs wear rubber caps. And a force feed lubrication system gives perfect lubrication under all conditions.

Over $100 Worth of Extra Equipment At No Extra Cost

To its in-built qualities of performance, Studebaker has added the charm of custom treatment and the luxury of custom equipment. Low-swung, full-vision fleet bodies in lustrous and durable duotone lacquers; interiors richly finished and appointed, with broadcloth or Chase mohair upholstery, broadloom trim and Butler finish hardware; and extra equipment worth more than $100.

Four-wheel brakes, disc wheels, nickle-plated bumpers, front and rear—and a patented ventilating windshield which insures perfect ventilation at all times but prevents direct drafts or a drop of rain from entering the car.

Studebaker's Greatest One-Profit Achievement

These Custom Sedans are the crowning triumph of Studebaker's One-Profit facilities—possible only because Studebaker builds them complete in its own mammoth plants.

No wonder demand today is far outstripping supply for these attractive cars. See them for yourself —make your own comparison—then decide whether you should any longer deny yourself custom luxury, when you can enjoy it without custom cost.

The success of the Chrysler "70" Coach is one of the most outstanding instances of the public acceptance of the unique advantages resulting from the Chrysler plan of Standardized Quality.

Chrysler Standardized Quality of superb engineering and precise and enduring manufacturing produced results in speed, acceleration, dependability, comfort, handling ease and long life never before achieved by a motor car of such price.

Standardized Quality also developed a smart and graceful coach body as distinctive as the chassis—with quality, luxury and refinement far beyond ordinary practice in cars of this type.

Generous room; upholstery of beautiful and durable fabric; doors of unusual width, to afford unusual convenience in getting in and out; artistic grouping of instruments and controls; electric fumer and a manifold heat control, for better motor operation; and a host of other conveniences which Chrysler pioneered and which are still exclusive with Chrysler.

Come in. We are eager to have you see and appreciate these incomparable qualities. Then and only then can you appreciate what an amazing value the Chrysler "70" Coach is at its price of $2030.

Chrysler Standardized Quality is a fixed and unalterable standard which embraces the entire manufacturing process. It means rigid rule of manufacturing economies to the most exacting standards of precision and workmanship; of thorough and searching inspection; the application of the minimum factor of safety to every part; pressing and proving of every part, and the use of the finest materials in every part—"70" and all cars of "70" size.

'CONTEMPTIBLES' AGAIN RETREAT BUT FOR SCREEN

War Film Showing Scenes From Mons Battle Given Premiere

London, Sept. 17.—The "Old Contemptibles" retreated again today. But it was on the silver screen, in a picture entitled "The Retreat from Mons," which was given its premiere here, today. General Sir Horace Smith Dorrin, the famous commander of the Second Corps of Britain's First Hundred Thousand, was one of the actors. This is the first time it is believed, that any famous British general has acted in a film.

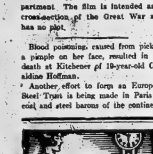

So realistically did the phantom hosts, greatly pressed by the avalanche of Germans, sweep by, that members of the audience felt transported back a dozen years to the early, anxious days of the war.

Smith Dorrien acted his part in the film yesterday a few miles from London. He was unable to appear in person at today's premiere because of an appointment in Ireland.

British regulars, carefully selected to represent the old British army types, took part in the film and many incidents of individual and collective heroism of the famous retreat were enacted. "The Retreat from Mons" has been approved by the War Department. The film is intended as a cross-section of the Great War and has no plot.

Another effort to form an European Steel Trust is being made in Paris by coal and steel barons of the continent.

HAS LONG HAIR; SEEKING EMPLOYER WHO DOESN'T SMOKE

Winnipeg, Man. Sept. 16.—(By C. P.)—Ivor Autumn, proud wearer of the longest moustache grown in modern times, and who has already ridden the rails and tramped a distance of 13,643 miles on the American continent in quest of an employer who doesn't smoke, drink or chew tobacco, stopped recently in Winnipeg. His prize moustache measures twenty-two inches from tip to tip.

In winter time, Autumn, says he uses the curly growth as earmuffs, during his long hikes across country. It is long enough to draw around and tie the ends together at the back of the head.

Being interviewed by reporters is not in Ivar's line, as he is deaf and speaks very broken English. He carries a letter explaining all about himself,

In addition to seeking an employer having all the virtues of abstinence in regard to alcoholic beverages and tobacco, he wants to find a wife. He admits, however, that it would be necessary for him to obtain steady employment before taking the matrimonial plunge.

When jobs are scarce, Autumn makes the odd dollar exhibiting the largest crop of moustaches in the world" as his letter of introduction claims. He also gets a small income from utilizing the growth fro producing wierd music similar to that of an organ.

In his broken English the Finlander declared:

"Smoker is many times more dangerous than drunkard. He burn forest and houses; he make explosion, kill too much men and poison body."

NEW STYLES FOR FLYING

Mrs. Elliott Lynn Wore Street Costume in Plane

Paris, Sept. 17.—The young English flyer, Mrs. Elliott Lynn, who made such a good showing at the "economic test plane" international meeting at Orly, outside Paris, astonished the public by flying each day in a tailor made costume, navy blue, with cloche-shaped helea felt hat and the fashionable flesh-colored silk stockings, instead of the usual aviation combinations, leathe rhelmet and heavy goggles.

She was the only woman competitor, and was first in three of the seven trials, but lost points during the speed trial by the cracking of a cylinder.

RUN-DOWN AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Ottawa Woman Made Strong by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottawa, Ontario.—"I was terribly run-down after the birth of my little baby. I had awful bearing-down pains and was afraid I had some serious trouble. I was tired all the time and had no appetite. My sister-in-law is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it too highly and asked me to try it. I have a splendid results and feel fine all the time now, and any one who needs a thorough pick-me-up soon learns from me what to take."—Mrs. Rena Paquin, 320 Cumberland Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ont.—"After my baby was born I had terrible backaches and headaches. I could not do my work and I felt tired from the first minute I got up. But worst of all were the pains in my sides when I moved about. I had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep my home in order, but many things had to go undone at the time, because of my ailments. I was told by a neighbor to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she said it would help me up. I have proved before I had taken the first two bottles and have not had any trouble like it since."—Mrs. T. Hall, 82 Ferguson Avenue South, Hamilton, Ontario.

WORK WORN PEOPLE

Find New Health by Improving Their Blood.

If you feel run down, it means that your blood is thin and watery, that your vitality is low. You do not sleep well and are tired when you rise in the morning. You find no pleasure in your meals and are listless and disturbed at your work. You have no energy to enjoy yourself.

Thousands of men are run down by anxieties of work. Thousands of women are broken down by their household toil, with tired limbs and aching backs, thousands of girls are pale, listless and without attraction, it all means the same thing—thin and watery blood, vitality run down, anaemia, poor appetite, palpitating heart, short breath.

Do not submit to this. Get new blood and with it new vitality. There is no difficulty in doing this. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up and enrich the blood which brings with it new health and vitality. The man, woman or girl who takes Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is never run down. Their friends notice how energetic they are, what a fine appetite they have and how much they enjoy life.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COW'S FEAR OF MAN SOON DISAPPEARS IF YOUNG MENACED

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 16 (By C. P.)—An infuriated cow moose in attacking a trapper of the Entrance district near here recently, proved that the animal's fear of man is superficial and disappears when its young are endangered.

Thomas Elliott, the trapper who was charge, almost lost his life by the vicious attack of the moose.

Mr. Elliott had set out from his cabin on a trip of inspection along his trap lines. He was preceding along the banks of the Athabasca River when he was attracted by the plaintive bawling of a moose calf. Investigation revealed the fact that the calf had been caught in a bear trap.

The trapper had just released the calf, whose front leg was broken, when he heard a menacing bellow behind him. He wheeled to face the infuriated mother, rushing toward him through the bushes.

Mr. Elliott took to his heels, closely pursued by the cow moose. He succeeded in reaching his horse and mounting just as the animal reached him. The mother followed the racing trapper for some distance but eventually gave up the chase and returned to its offspring.

The calf had disappeared when Mr. Elliott returned to the scene on the following day.

While repairing a tire on his own car, Robert Kelly, 50, of London, Ont., was struck by another automobile and fatally injured.

Car in which he was a passenger skidded into a telegraph pole and Ralph Schaefer, of Kingsbury, may lose the sight of his right eye.

MAGISTRATE MASSON

The death of Mr. Stewart Masson removes a well known figure from the city. No man can be Magistrate of a community of this size for two decades and not be known in some fashion or other to most of its people. In all that long time Mr. Masson served his community faithfully and administered justice with even hand. He was deliberate and fair in his decisions and even in those last few years when elements formerly not dreamed of have entered the realms of administration of justice he was of unquestioned sincerity in all his judgements. As Solicitor of the City and for the County his advice was well considered before given and his opinions were always weighted with fact and authority and seldom questioned.

Socially he was the soul of hospitality and enjoyed a wide acquaintanceship among the leading men of the country, among whom his passing is genuinely mourned.

LOCARNO AND GENEVA

The good seed sown at Locarno has borne a sturdy plant at Geneva. France and Germany are fully reconciled. The dismemberment of France's military establishment has begun. Those who have sneered at the Locarno pact have been rebuked.

Those who would have declared that Canada had no interest in the Locarno agreement judged wrongly. The Washington opponents of the entry of the United States into the League have been given cause to reconsider that attitude. The sore spot of Europe has been relieved of malignancy other than by the process of cautaution.

The persevering statesmanship of the British government has taken on a triumphal aspect that marks another historic milestone, in consonance with Fallodon's vision and Chamberlain's efforts to prevent world chaos. The League of Nations step by step has demonstrated its moral force.

PLAY CRICKET

Sir Alfred Mond, British parliamentarian, who is now visiting this country, regrets that there is so much apparent bitterness in Canadian politics. He remarks that the personalities indulged in here would find no favor by the people in Great Britain.

Perhaps that is because the British play cricket. There is something about the game that inspires respect for one's opponents.

Last month, after two drawn games, the All-England cricket eleven managed to beat the visiting Australians. It is of interest to observe how the English sports writers commented on the victory. Said one writer:

"The Oval is traditionally a fortunate ground for English sides, and by the luck of the toss the Australians had to play their last innings on a wicket that had been badly worn during the first three days and was certainly not improved by the rain of last night. When the game was over the first wave of natural exultation was quickly followed in London and other parts of the country by a feeling of genuine sympathy with the losers. The most patriotic of Englishmen were ready to admit that the luck of the game had gone against the visitors."

But of this aspect of the game the Australian captain, in congratulating the English team on their victory, made no mention. He said them the tribute of saying the Australians were 'tremendously impressed' by the spirit in which the Englishmen had fought the game, and that they had been beaten fairly and squarely by a magnificent team.

The Times' cricket correspondent wrote in similar strain. At the end of his game he said, "We shouted for the winners. We shouted even more loudly for Mr. Collins and the members of his team. We wanted them to know that we appreciated the high standard of keenness and honorable conduct which they have set up and maintained in this and all their other matches. They taught us much about sportsmanship."

For centuries we have been referring to golf as "The ancient and royal game." Someone should be able to find an equally impressive name for cricket. It seems to bring out fine qualities of sportsmanship whatever else many be said about it.

"SNEAKING IN"

Dayton Daily News:

If you doubt that a hemp in the United States is desirable just take another vacation, run up along the Canadian line or to some little frequented spot along the Atlantic seaboard and note the number of aliens who are trying to "sneak in". So great a magnet has this country become, and so alluring, that the government is now facing a new and serious problem in checking the secret entrance of a foreign element now resorting to every known means of securing admission. Harry E. Holl, commissioner-general of immigration, has but recently returned from an inspection trip along the Canadian border, and he declares that he never before had realized the extent to which alien interests are actually going to obtain entry into this country in disregard of the law. Methods employed and the divers means resorted to are declared to be such as to create alarm. Practically the entire extent of adjacent foreign contiguous territory is filled with aliens, all of whom are merely waiting an opportunity to slip across the border, while smuggling activities, designed to aid many of them in landing on our shores, are rapidly increasing. Once able to land to the north or south of us the alien makes his way to a point along the international boundary and casts about for a means of getting across. To show the extent to which they will go to gain admission, it need only be pointed out that quite a few arrests have been made recently of men crawling over some of the under-girders of the Niagara bridge. Another method is for an alien smuggler to take a European give him a thorough overhauling to make him look as much as possible like a resident of this continent, giving him a garb that will serve to identify him with the usual mass of our population, and then putting him in a crowd at some busy crossing, trusting thus to get him by the inspector.

A Timely Request for Co-operation Avoid Overloads—Don't Speed

FALL rains soften the subgrade and decrease its resisting power. Exercise judgment in loading and use extreme care in operating your trucks.

Overloaded trucks—especially when driven fast—tear the very heart out of even hard-surfaced roads. Foundations are weakened. Disintegration follows, and then comes the road repair force, who of necessity make your transportation more difficult, while you have created an unnecessarily large repair bill.

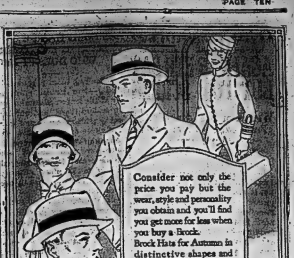

While the Provincial Highway Department and the municipal authorities make these repairs, don't forget that you and your neighbors will foot the bill eventually, through taxes. It is to your interest to be public-spirited in this matter—to co-operate sincerely.

The Government believes that the majority of truck owners and drivers will avoid overloading and will refrain from speeding. Others will be given an opportunity to explain as the law will be rigorously enforced.

THE HON. GEO. S. HENRY, Minister of Highways
S. L. SQUIRE, Deputy Minister

Issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck operators, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

JIM JEFFRIES PICKS DEMPSEY

Says Jack Has More Ring Experience and Will Win Easily.

Chicago, September 18.—As becomes an elder statesman, Jim Jeffries now is living a ringside life, with Tom Sharkey, the latter a minor ring statesman himself each upon a time, makes a long-range forecast on the outcome of what will happen at the second grunabout this coming September 23rd.

Jim, still as big and husky as ever, and once wearer of the same crown that Dempsey and Gene Tunney will mix it to retain or possess, says no great chairvoyant power is needed to see what's going to happen on the aforesaid date mentioned.

"Dempsey's going to win and win easily," so Jim opines.

Why?

"Because Jack has fought more rounds than then Tunney. The only great fighter Tunney licked was Tommy Gibbons. Had he licked or even met more men like Firpo I might give him a better chance," says Jim. "I don't know very much about Tunney as a fighter. He is a nice boy and all that, but somehow, way down deep inside me, my fighting sense tells me that Dempsey is going to plaster him.

"I would like to say whether the fight will end in a knockout for Jack or just how many rounds it will go.

"I look for quick, fast action, however. And all this talk about Dempsey having been out of the ring too long is applesauce. He may have slowed up a little bit.

"But he has kept himself in good condition and I look for him to win."

Jim, looking back in retrospect on his own career and into the future on the coming careers of those who have taken his place and are vying for succession, says he never once has regretted having fought in the ring.

"I look upon my ring days as as accomplishment," he says. "Fighting does not hurt anyone physically or mentally. In fact, it develops both muscles and brain. And makes your body and intellect keen and alive.

"I'm a better man for having been a fighter.

HUNTING IN IRELAND

The Irish have a "crack" to the effect that "the English love to hunt in Ireland", but in these happier days, it has lost its tragic reference. Sportsmen however still cross the little channel to follow the hounds and jaded hair by the number I saw there in the spring, they evidently come with enthusiasm and are welcomed heartily. This year the American navy also is evidence. Destive House, near Navan, once the residence of Mr. John Watson, who for many years before his death, was Master of the Meath hounds, has been recently purchased by a group of Americans, who will hunt with the Meath hounds, and fine bloodstock is being secured to make first class seasons. It is a lovely view, that I obtained, from the House, its gardens overlooking the River Boyne. I should imagine that there are scores of houses in Ireland that could be similarly devoted to American club purposes, for the hunter in this little country is unusually good.

THOUSANDS OF THANKFUL MOTHERS

Strongly Recommend Baby's Own Tablets to Their Friends.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she would one nothing else. The Tablets give such results that the mother has nothing but words of praise for them. Among the thousands of mothers throughout Canada who praise the Tablets is Mrs. David A. Anderson, New Glasgow, N.S., who writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children, and from my experience I would not be without them. I would urge every other mother of young children to keep a box of the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

tells me that Dempsey is going to plaster him.

ELECTRIC EXHIBIT OF STAMPINGS CO. AN EYE OPENER

For five days next week, the big annual Kiwanis Karnival will be with us again, presenting features, and novelties galore, which should interest every man, woman and child in the city. It will be remembered that last Fall the Kiwanis Club made an effort to make the Karnival an event not alone entertaining to a high degree, but more than this, informative and educational. To accomplish this, more than fifty exhibits of local merchants and manufacturers were arranged in the Armouries, permitting our citizens to gain first hand knowledge, both from what they saw and from experts in charge, of the class of goods in every line sold, and an insight into the products of our various manufacturing concerns.

The second annual Karnival next week will again find assembled a unique display of the products of local industries. Among the more recently organized companies exhibiting at the Karnival will be found the Belleville Electric and Stampings Limited, manufacturers of high grade electric appliances of all kinds. Established some five years ago, this progressive firm has made the name "REDI-HEAT" Electric Appliances known throughout Canada from coast to coast. Grouped in their booth at the Karnival may be seen the various products turned out by the Belleville Electric and Stampings, Limited.

First comes the Redi-Heat Toaster, with a specially planned heating unit which distributes just the right amount of heat, evenly, and will accommodate bread slices of any size. It is beautifully finished throughout in highly polished nickel, and guaranteed for one year. This toaster, has aided by local dealers and leading dealers throughout the country, has met with a ready sale and proven that it possesses real merit.

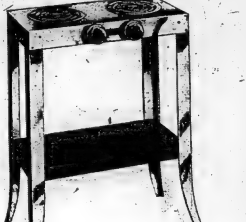

Like the toaster, the Redi-Heat Iron has been a big seller and possesses features which make it a favorite. Attractively finished, and strongly made, it is perfectly balanced and has an extra wide ironing surface. Incidentally, this company turns out a three pound iron, embodying the same qualities as its larger companion and makes an ideal iron for travellers.

Single and double plate burners, requiring no special wiring, will be exhibited as well, together with the popular Redi-Heat Electric Heater, one of the best selling electrical appliances on the market.

The firm's newest product, to be shown for the first time at the Karnival, is the Redi-Heat Rangette (as in illustration on this page). It is a two burner range equipped with two 550-watt elements with a cord and plug cap, suitable for use on a base or wall receptacle.

Altogether this will constitute a display which shall prove an eye opener to citizens generally and a further indication of the extent and diversity of Belleville's manufacturers.

"Redi-Heat" Rangette, Newest Product of Belleville Electric & Stampings Limited, Manufacturers of the Well-known "Redi-Heat" Electric Appliances. The above Range will be on Display at the Kiwanis Karnival Next Week

SHIPPING GOODS BY MOTOR TRUCK GROWS MONTHLY

That transportation of goods by motor truck is increasing monthly by month, with a greater volume of business constantly being done is the experience of the Toronto-Belleville Transport.

Mr. Frank High, proprietor, states that the condition of the highway between Belleville and Toronto at the present time is anything but conducive to rapid motor truck service; yet none the less, the Company has maintained a regular and dependable service between the two cities and intermediate points. With a resulting in better business month by month, with the satisfactory one day service and express rates finding increasing favour as offered by this firm. Phone 883-W for prompt service.

FINEST ENGLISH CLOTH AT M'GIE'S STYLE ATTRACTS

Here are a few pointers for you, who are interested in what the well-dressed man will wear this Fall—and what man, isn't interested in this all-important question.

That Canadians do follow London's lead in the matter of wearing apparel is a fact, and Canadian Tailors who are up-to-the-minute are ever ready to satisfy the wants of the men who feel the urge to copy English styles. In Belleville, Mr. Arthur McGie specializes in imported English cloths, and is in a position to provide any man with London's latest styles in suitings and overcoatings.

So here's what London is wearing. And you can get them right here in Belleville. Where lounge suit patterns are concerned, the very latest idea is not one to be commended from all catchelse viewpoint. Stripes arranged horizontally instead of vertically predominate, and the natural result is a distinct barrel effect. Another equally unhappy novelty is to have large checks of two colors almost alike in shade, making the garment look like a patchwork.

Of course, it need scarcely be said that these, and other extremes, are avoided by men with any pretensions to be regarded as well dressed. After all, the distinguishing mark of the well dressed man is that his clothes are quiet in pattern and color. Hence they never attract public attention. If they do, he has failed.

Very broad lapels are a feature of this season's double-breasted waistcoats. The old question as to whether trousers should have permanent turnups or be finished off plain has been simply settled. It depends entirely on the material of which they are made. If the trousers are of worsteds, the tweeds or fine clothes plain bottoms are correct wear. If, however, the material is a cheviot, rough tweed, or flannel, then turnups are distinctly the mode.

NEW SPORT CAR MADE BY DODGE A SURE WINNER

The new sport roadster with rumble seat which is now being displayed in the showrooms of Parkdale Motor Sales (Buckley & Lange), Dodge Brothers dealers of Belleville, offers an unusual combination of beauty and service.

The dashing appearance and smart stylish lines on this new addition to Dodge Brothers' line will win the instant admiration of everyone who takes pride in a touch of individuality in the appearance of the car he drives.

There is a striking contrast between the two colors used, the brilliant blue lacquer of the body and hood and the lustrous black of the fenders and shields. The highly polished nickel of the bumpers, lamp rims, radiator shell; windshield stanchions and top bow trimming adds a distinctive touch.

The cushion and back of the rumble seat, like the front upholstery, are of hand buffed blue Spanish genuine leather, constructed over spring frames to insure maximum riding ease. The back is high and well pitched. The seat is so constructed that when the seat is folded the rear compartment is absolutely waterproof, even in the rainiest weather.

Exception space, easily accessible through a large co-ired opening behind the driver's seats, is provided for carrying golf clubs, tennis rackets, parcels or luggage.

LEAVES FOR ENGLAND

Mr. G. W. Lockyer of the Bloomfield Road, Prince Edward County has been appointed to the Salvation Army Immigration Department and will leave next week for England to commence work. Only such men as will in Mr. Lockyer's opinion be suitable for land operations in this country will be induced to come.

RADIO SHOP HERE HAS THE LATEST IN 6-TUBE SETS

The advances which radio has made during the past year are well demonstrated in the Hanscom Super-Unit, the new advanced 6 tube Receiver being demonstrated at the Radio Shop, 225 Front St.

A single dial, simply operated, powerful and economical receiver, the Hanscom Super Unit Receiver was designed by Allan T. Hanscom, a recognized authority on radio. The circuit is the constructed 6 tubes do the work of 8, without overloading them. Also the assembly is very compact, making for improved efficiency over others.

The single dial capacity element is a precision instrument which is truly a work of art. This is a combination of two condensers of Remlu design, a small knob makes an independent variation of one condenser while the main tuning dials controls both.

Cabinet is of solid walnut finished to harmonize with the grained bakelite panel. All metal parts are panel and gold plated with Hoyt Volt Meter for showing Filament volts, battery switch and lock combined, also but audio jack being automatic filament control.

The received is very selective, two powerful stations may be separated by varying the dial one degree or less, yet tuning is extremely simple and can be operated by a person who is totally blind.

The design of the receiver is such that you get maximum results with minimum battery drain, making for economy. Any good battery eliminator will operate this set if desired to have a battery-less received.

The advanced set is priced at a new low figure of $150.

NEW ZEALANDER HERE TO APPEAL FOR MORE TRADE

But He Admits His Country is Best in the World

HE NEVER SAW SNOW

Has Eight-room House — Buns One Ton of Coal Yearly

Mr. John Collins, of New Zealand, was the speaker at the Rotary club today and give Belleville members who were out in full force a brilliant word picture of that wonderful Dominion where they eat home grown strawberries on Christmas Day where Mr. Collins who lives in an eight-room house burns a ton of coal a year; where Mr. Collins who is a native New Zealander has never seen snow fall, and he confessed he had yet to see it spread its white blanket.

Mr. Collins was in charge of the splendid exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto where much interest was taken in all the 270 tons of exhibits brought over land and ocean for a distance of 10,000 miles.

He appealed for closer trade with the sister Dominion and said that the reason New Zealand sent its exhibit was simply as a gesture of friendship for Canada. On which he was roundly applauded. His country has many products which could be obtained with little trouble and on a basis of cost just as reasonable as from foreign countries and he asked that Canada buy from within the Empire, if at all possible.

His speech was most interesting and Mr. Freeman Ketchcon made it a vote of thanks. Mr. and Mrs. Collins while in the city were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson.

LOCAL PEOPLE ARE ALL SAFE

Leo Orr, Mrs. Weese, Wire Relatives—No Word of Wilbur Brothers

Many families in Belleville are extremely anxious for the safety of relatives and friends living in the hurricane stricken area of Florida but happily good tidings have already commenced to percolate into the city with reassuring messages. Mr. Leo Orr, of Grove street, who has been in the West Florida coast for some time has wired his people in the city that he escaped uninjured. Miss Lottie Van Luven re-Weese, stating that all Bellevillians in evicted a telegram from her sister, Mrs. Fort Lauderdale Florida, were well and safe. Mr. E. B. Wilbur whose brothers, Victor and Sidney are in Miami has as yet heard nothing from either and his mother who is visiting him at the present with intentions of returning to her home in Miami this month, is extremely anxious.

BLOOD WILL TELL!

Vienna, Sept. 20. — Similarity in the blood of an alleged father and a child has been accepted here as sufficient proof of paternity in awarding an order that alimony should be paid by the man to the mother of the child. The judgment was rendered after a test of the blood of the man and the child had been made.

MINIMUM FINE ENDS THE CASE

Husband Handled Revolver So as to Frighten Wife

Albert L. Johnston, Canadian National employee, was assessed the minimum fine of $10 this morning before Judge Wills when charged that he did on September 6th point a weapon at his wife.

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge and evidence was submitted. Johnston was arrested some two weeks ago on complaint of his wife and was allowed out on bail.

Mrs. Johnston, was the first witness. She said they had been married for 12 years but their voyage had been a stormy one. Her husband, she stated, ran up stairs and secured the weapon from her mother, Mrs. Van Meer and came down. As the ball where the alleged affair took place. Johnston disconnected the telephone and threatened to "shoot the bunch" witness said.

Mr. Butler—"Do you want to withdraw the charge."

"I want protection."

"When did this trouble start?"

"We have never got along very well for 7 years."

"Your father and mother are supported by the accused?"

"Partly."

"Didn't it all start because you took a trip to Toronto, naming another man."

"I never took a trip to Toronto with him". Not on the 27th day of August.

"No."

"Did you put the usual sign in the window to warn him that your husband was home the morning of the 6th".

"No".

"Your relationship with the man has been going on for some two years?"

"There was no relationship."

She said the sign which was produced in court had been brought from overseas. She girl's know that the gun had been emptied of the bullets some time previously.

Mrs. Isabella VanMeer, her mother, was called. She said she gave the gun to her daughter to be cleaned and that did not see him point it at Mrs. Johnston. She knew nothing of her daughter having the gun.

Fred Wilson, the next witness, said Johnston had given him the gun to keep temporarily.

Douglas Bower, a hardware employee, stated that Johnston had come in the store for the purpose of purchasing ammunition but was told the stock of the kind required was exhausted.

Albert Johnston, the accused stated that he had not pointed the gun at his wife. He merely brought it downstairs in an attempt to frighten his wife. He said he saw his wife with a man at Toronto Exhibition grounds on September 27th.

This completed the evidence.

DAYS GROWING LONGER? NOT NOTICEABLY SO

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 20.—The cause is getting away from us and the days are growing longer because the world is slowing down, according to Shapley, a new book by Professor Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory. However, nobody is going to notice the difference right away.

"The tides raised by the moon on the earth," writes Professor Shapley, "are very slowly decreasing the earth's rotational speed, and thus lengthening the day—but less than a thousandth of a second a century. At the same time the moon is receding from the earth. Its mean distance increasing, however, only about seven feet in a century."

VAST WEALTH IN U.S. SHOWN

Seventy-four Individuals "Make" Over Million Each Year

11,000 MILLIONAIRES

War-time Fortunes Have Dwindled in Number of Cases

New York, September 20 (By Canadian Press).—There are 11,000 millionaires in the United States today, it is estimated by Joseph S. McCoy, Government actuary, United States Treasury, in an article in the current American Bankers Association Journal, which points out that this means that one person out of every 10,450 Americans has accumulated a fortune of a million dollars. Mr. McCoy declares that the nation now has the first billionaire. The article says:

INCOME OF MILLIONS

"Latest preliminary figures by the Bureau of Internal Revenue indicate that for 1924 seventy-four individuals made returns for income tax whose net income was acknowledged to be in excess of $1,000,000. This means their entire income, less all allowable deductions. The total net income of these seventy-four was returned at $102,702,739, an average of somethings over $2,000,000 each. Thirty-six had incomes not in excess of $1,500,000, fourteen in excess of this amount, but not in excess of 2,000,000, seventeen thirteen, incomes over $2,000,000, but not over $3,000,000, were fifteen. There were four incomes between $3,000,000 and $4,000 000, three with between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 while three individuals returned incomes in excess of $5,000,000. These three returned a net income of $27,253,000, an average of over $9,318,000.

MILLIONAIRE DEFINED

"In addition to those with annual incomes in excess of a million dollars are the people who are actually worth a million dollars or more although their income may be much less than a million. An American with one million dollars capital invested in government bonds at par paying the Liberty Loan rate of interest of 4½ per cent. would have an income of only $45,000. The individual who receives an annual net income of $50,000 exclusive of personal services is certainly seen safe to say, is a millionaire.

11,000 OF THEM.

"The Internal Revenue report for 1922 shows that, of 7,698,321 returns, 5,876 were made by individuals whose wealth was probably in excess of $1,000,000. In 1914 there were probably about 4500 millionaires in the United States. This number increased to about 6500 in 1915, to about 10,900 in in 1916 and to about 11,500 in 1917, the maximum number of American millionaires at any one time, due probably to war conditions. At the present time there are probably 11,000 American millionaires.

WAR FORTUNES GONE

"The statistics show the squeezing out of many of our war-made millionaires. By 1923 some 2800 of these were no longer in the millionaire class, many had even totally disappeared from the list making income. Some returns, while showing made returns of comparatively small income. In 1914 the number of American millionaires was about 45.44 per 1,000,000 of population. In 1923 it was about 77.30 while today it is about 95.32."

GALT BOYS BAND WILL ARRIVE AT 4.30 TODAY

The Galt Boys Band, 50 strong are billed to land in the city at 4.30 this afternoon, to open the Kiwanis Karnival, being met at the station by members of the club and at the upper bridge by the school children of the city and escorted to the Armouries. They will play selections coming down Front street. No doubt everybody will want to hear the Galt Boys Band tonight.

HIGHEST PRAISE FOR LOCAL TEAM AND MANAGER

Provincial Softball Secretary Makes Sugestions and Comment

MAHILL RAY WRITES

President Meagher Gets Letter From Toronto Details.

Toronto, Sept. 19, 1926.

Mr. A. G. Meagher,
Pres. Bay of Quinte League,
Belleville, Ontario,
Dear Mr. Meagher:

On behalf of the Women's Ontario Softball Association may I offer our congratulations for the very splendid organization you have put on the Bay of Quinte Softball League, proving to us that in organizing the Women's Ontario Softball Association our work has not been in vain.

Judging from what your League has accomplished the past season, Mr. Meagher, you seem to be the right man in the right place and Miss Merry, your Secretary, has been untiring all season in her work as well as you other officers.

Your winners, the High School Girls from Belleville, are a credit to the organization and to the City of Belleville. Their game here Saturday was a revelation to the Toronto fans, we were all surprised at the great game they played and it would not surprise us in the least, to see them turn the tables on the Nationals in Belleville next Wednesday.

The Manager of this team is a gentleman and a true sportsman, his splendid action in meeting the National's half way in the matter of suspension, and also in the case of Quinte League has accomplished the past summer. We feel your League should extend their activities another season, Mr. Meagher, with a view to surrounding territory for twenty-five miles calling yourselves the Bay of Quinte Softball Association.

Personally, I think your officers quite capable of handling such an organization. May I offer a little advice and request the girls now in office be given another term of office as the experience gained the past season will serve them in good stead for another season.

In closing, kindly accept our heartiest congratulations and appreciation of your operation the past summer, which has been the first year of organization for the Ontario Association and it has not been altogether an easy one, the first year of organization always proving a difficult one.

Wishing your organization and your girls every success, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,
MABEL RAY,
Secretary W.O.S.A.

LATE MAGISTRATE BORNE TO GRAVE

Funeral Services at Home and at St. Andrew's Church

In Belleville cemetery this afternoon the remains of the late Stewart Masson, K.C., Police Magistrate of the city were laid at rest in the family plot, six members of the police force, Chief A. Kidd, Sergts. D. Boyd and A. Harman, Officers W. Evans, Morris, and A. Booth, acting as pall bearers.

Previous to interment a family service was held at the home of deceased, following which a public service attended by men and women throughout every walk of life was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The flower laden bier was borne to the altar of the choir loft, followed by members of the Bar Association, the City Council and city officials and a large congregation.

During the impressive funeral service of the Church of Scotland, Rev. Mr. Stewart preached an appropriate sermon in which he emphasized Mr. Masson's fine characteristics and the inestimable loss the community has suffered in the death of so worthy a citizen.

"An honest man is the noblest work of God," the minister quoted, and referring to Mr. Masson, Mr. Stewart's tribute to Mr Masson made through the press. Mr. Stewart emphasized the justice of with any man brought before Mr. Masson was assured.

SALT A SOCIAL POISON!
Paris, Sept. 20.—Danger both to the mind and the body lurks in the salt cellar, so says Dr Jean Bouchon, an eminent French surgeon.

In an article in the Nouvelle Revieu, Dr. Bouchon says salt is one of the worst of modern social poisons. Because of it surgeons constantly are operating for appendicitis, gastric ulcer, and liver and gall calculus. It athrophies, dries up or hardens muscular tissues and causes persons with tendencies to arthritis to become stout and those of lymphatic temperment to become thin.

According to Dr. Bouchon, salt also has a deleterious effect on the intelligence.

THOUSANDS REPORTED HURT SEVERAL CITIES WRECKED: MIAMI FOUND HARDEST HIT

Miami, Fla., Sept. 20.—Estimates ranging from 600 to 1,500 dead prevailed in the Miami disaster area this morning as the first contact with the outside world was established by aeroplane, automobile and relief trains. Damage was estimated at $160,000,000. At least 360 persons are actually known to have perished and the toll of dead will certainly exceed this figure. In the Miami storm area are included Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Redlands, Moorehaven and Clewiston. Little communication has been established with these places as the causeways were flooded and wreckage and highwater barred traffic. Because of continued severe winds aeroplane pilots were reported as wary of attempting to enter the area.

NO C.G.M.M. BOATS THERE

NO CANADIANS HURT

New York, Sept. 20.—Up to 11.15 this morning no Canadians had been reported killed or injured in the meagre casualty lists of the Florida hurricane, available here.

PENSACOLA STRICKEN

Jacksonville Fla., Sept. 20.—A hurricane riding 100 miles an hour swept into Pensacola shortly after 11 o'clock today, telephone advices here state.

First news despatches received direct from the storm shattered city of Miami since the disaster estimated the dead at between 600 and 1,000. These figures do not include the casualties at Fort Lauderdale, where 100 were reported dead, or at Moorhaven, 75 miles northwest of Miami, where huge waves from Lake Okeechobee took heavy human toll. Unbuild thousands were homeless and the injured were estimated at 25,000 to 50,000. Continuing its path of devastation, the hurricane, which struck the Florida East coast Friday night, crossed the Everglades and reached with its fury the Gulf of Mexico, today was striking at Pensacola, according to meagre advices received just before that city was isolated from communication. Two staff correspondents of the Associated Press were in the air service plane, estimated the damage there at $150,000,000, making a probable total $200,000,000.

MARTIAL LAW IN FORCE

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 20.—East Florida, lashed by a violent hurricane for nine hours from midnight and Saturday, early today had estimated the death list of more than 1,000 and property damages in excess of $150,000,000 with indications that the toll would mount still higher when daylight made a more complete check up possible.

The "Playground of America" was metamorphosed into a scene of desolation over a wide area. Pleasure resorts were transformed into shambles, cottages and hospitals and trains bearing physicians and nurses were arriving from the storm torn section from many directions.

CROWDS OF REFUGEES

House and office buildings were crowded with refugees. Injured from the ravaged district were placed at 2,000 with 25,000 homeless persons seeking relief. Tales of severe suffering and hardships were recounted by messages arriving here. Many persons searched the ruins of their homes for lost members of their families while others anxiously sought relatives and friends in hospitals and morgues.

Water was knee deep in the streets of Miami and Miami Beach, all public utilities were disabled and restaurants were closed.

Drinking water was served in half portions. Urgent appeals for food, water and clothing were answered by special relief trains that were dispatched to the storm area.

ESTIMATES OF DEAD

The death toll in Miami vicinity was placed at 804 by Jerry H. Owen, General Superintendent of the Florida East Coast Railway, of which 500 were in Miami, 150 in Hollywood, 100 in Hialeah. Other estimates listed 100 dead at Fort Lauderdale, similar number at Moorehaven, 5 miles northwest of Miami where waters of Lake Okeechobee were whipped over dykes, flooding the city to a depth of 15 feet. Forty dead were reported drowned, when women and children and unconfirmed reports said the road leading to Clewiston was strewn with bodies. Clewiston was believed washed away. The hurricane was reported to be centered 50 or 60 miles south of Pensacola where it was expected it will now spend its energy. All precautions have been taken.

LOOTING BY NEGROES

Looting broke out in the negro section of Miami last night and seven men were arrested, three hundred special policemen were sworn in for voluntary duty and martial law was ordered.

At Hollywood 200 specials were added to the patrol force.

Cutting a path from Miami north to Fort Lauderdale, the hurricane attained a velocity of 120 miles per hour, leaving wreckage in its wake. It reared across the Everglades and passed into the Gulf of Mexico with only a slightly diminished intensity. Pensacola on the west coast was declared safe today, Fort Myers beatign the brunt of the storm there. It is estimated 100 persons were drowned in the hurricane. Ships reported enormous waves against the little city of Moorehaven. Residents were forced to the top of buildings and 75 persons were drowned when one two-story structure collapsed.

Every effort is being made to keep the communications of the stricken area and Governor John T. Martin has dispatched several companies and hospital units of National Guardsmen to Miami. The Pullman Company has made its entire resources of equipment available and the American Red Cross and chapters in large Southern cities were rushing supplies to the scene.

WOODEN BUILDINGS GONE

Most of the wooden structures in Miami have been blown down or unroofed, it is reported. Large concrete and steel buildings have been twisted like wire but have practically every piece of glass in the city was broken. Many of the dead and injured were hit by flying pieces of glass and roofing. Heavy galvanized iron sheetings of roofing were flying about the city like scraps of paper and were wrapped around trees. A small house boat anchored at Coconut Grove with a man and his small son aboard was blown from its moorings and drifted helplessly out to the open sea. No trace of it has been seen. A large dredge was wrecked with 14 men aboard. Every effort to show where others were lost. Efforts were being made in Miami to locate relatives of those children who were wandering about what remains of the city.

KIWANIS SECRETARY WRITES WHY, HOW AND WHEREFORE; CARNIVAL STARTING TODAY

THE SECRETARY'S DESK

Hello! Yes, this is George speaking, Who? Bill. Well how in the world are you? Where are you heading for? Can't you stop over? Sorry. Well I'm certainly glad to hear from you again Bill.

And so the telephone rings. Bill was a Kiwanian just passing through our city bid had to hop off the train to have a word with the secretary, for they had met before at an International Convention in the Western states.

Hello—that you George?—Did you hear that Fred is sick and George is sorry to hear it indeed because Fred is a real worker in the Club and will be missed until he returns which we hope will be soon, and so it goes in the Secretary's office. Telephone, mail and telegraph convey the doings of the Clubs and individuals. The equipping of summer camps for boys, the helping of cripple children, of some poor man who is sick and down and out.

"Real happiness is always found in passing a little happiness around."

That is Kiwanis service.

Kiwanians respect each other always as honest, upright friends and true friendship is always craved and appreciated,

Kiwanis is the moulding shop for true citizenhood making the realm that life does not measured in dollars and cents but by the cubic feet and inches of real manhood. As individual man's opinion may and always be high but from lack of ability but from possible lack of facts gained in such clubs as Kiwanis and Rotary. Lions and Kinsmen are able to do greater things for their city, their country and the world.

The International relation being to the various clubs is different countries just precisely what is the local club is to the individual member. Thus the great need for Internationalism in service clubs.

The secretary above all others, I believe, has the real opportunity of serving the true heart of Kiwanis. To him, then, is given the greater responsibility to keep and be in as real confidence of all members and to be impartial in all his dealings.

The technical duties of a secretary are about the same possibly as in any other such organization, or industry, with accounts, attendance records, monthly and semi-annual reports to District and International, offices and greatest of all the old thing of a weekly letter which calls for attention fifty-two times a year and it would sometimes seem that there were one hundred and fifty-two weeks in some years, when material is scarce. How we sympathize with the Editors of Daily's when there is no news and Electric was to give news "That IS news."

The secretary's position in a service club would be the most coveted position of all if one is imbibed with the true spirit of Kiwania, since he, above all others has an opportunity of acting as a "hub" round about which the wheel of Kiwania turns merrily and is there we always on the inside of everything which happens in the Club, and if he i s functioning on behalf of fifty to one hu ndred real men he can count himself pr ivileged to hear that famous slogan. "Well—Let George do it."

Kiwania, Rotary and other Club will live just as long as busy men can unite and fi nd to give time to the "Heart" of life, to as gr eat an extent as to the "Head" of life which is commonly called "Business" wh en we learn to sustain the body to house the heart and as long as such service cl ubs live and function properly, the pu blous can expect this world to become a safer and better place in which to l ive. The efforts of service clubs is but practical religion.

Sincerely,
George H. Griffin,
Secretary.

Deaths & Funerals

SYLVESTER E. LANE

Sylvester Edgar Lane, beloved husband of Sarah R. Massey, died at the family residence 13 Dunbar street, on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Deceased was the youngest son of Barnabus Wartman and Susanne Lane and was born on the fourth concession of Sidney on August 12th, 1851 where he resided all his life until coming to Belleville to reside eight years ago. He was married in 1880 to Sarah R., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Levi Massey. Mr. Lane was a faithful and consistent member of Holloway United Church. There are left of the immediate family besides his wife, one son, Edgar Wartman at the homestead and one daughter, Mrs. Oscar, of Laver, of Warkworth, also seven grand children, Helen, Claus and Edna Lane and Douglas, Edgar, Dorothy and Elmer Laver.

MRS. LOTTIE WALSH

Mrs. Lottie Walsh died yesterday morning at Point Anne. Deceased was a member of the United Church. She leaves of the immediate family, two daughters, Miss May and Mary Ellen, her mother, six sisters, Mrs. A. Akey and Mrs. P. Akey, Point Anne; Mrs. A. Mitchell of Thurlow; and Mrs. H. Levy. Deline, of Point Anne; also four brothers, William and Mayne, of Albert; and Robert and Fred, of Point Anne.

HANNAH LESLIE

At a late hour on Sunday night Mrs. Hannah Leslie, widow of the late Mr. Thomas Leslie, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Millcy, 4th concession of Thurlow Township. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. James Gay and has resided in this locality all her life. Mrs. Leslie was a member of the Presbyterian Church. Her husband predeceased her some time ago. A son Earle, of Vancouver and three daughters, Mrs. Donald Nicholson, of Winnipeg; Mrs. Charles Miller of Thurlow; and Miss Mary, of Fort Frances, survive, also two brothers, Geo. Gay, of Madoc Junction, and Isaac Gay, of Foxboro, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Jose, of Kirkston.

DIED

LANE—In Belleville on Sunday morning, September 19th, 1926, Sylvester Edgar Lane, aged 75 years.

Funeral from his late residence, 13 Dunbar street, on Tuesday, September 21st, at 2 30 Service at Holloway St. Church. Interment at Belleville cemetery.

Thousands Are Reported Hurt

West Palm Beach, Fla., September 19.—A 56-mile stretch of the Florida east coast, stretching from Pompano, on the north, to Miami on the south, was devastated Saturday morning by the tropical hurricane that swept in from the Atlantic Ocean at a velocity of 130 miles an hour.

The dead probably will number 500, with 2,000 to 5,000 injured, from the latest information. Estimates of dead by cities are: Miami Beach, 150; Miami and suburbs, 250; Hollywood, 50; Fort Lauderdale, 50. A conservative estimate of the property damage is $25,000,000.

In the belt were Miami, Miami Beach, Homestead, Little River, Lemon City, Hialeah, Miami Shores, Coral Gables Opa, Hallandale, Hollywood, Dania, Fort Lauderdale, Prompano, Pompano and Deerfield. There was lesser damage north to Palm Beach, including Delray, Lake Worth and Boynton.

BUSINESS IS DONE

Business in these cities and towns does not exist. Banks and stores are closed. The greater percentage of them, if not almost completely destroyed, are mere hulks.

Thousands of great plate glass windows were smashed like egg shells by the force of the hurricane. In many, the stocks of goods were tossed about like bits of paper and lie in crumpled heaps, wet and soggy mass, as as a result of the rain that accompanied the wind.

A few restaurants were able to serve meals in Miami Saturday afternoon, but the available supply of meat, bread and other food soon was exhausted.

SHIPPING, WIPED OUT

Shipping along the coast was wiped out. Scores of tugs, freighters, yachts, pleasure boats and dredges were dashed against the docks at Miami and sunk or lifted by the tidal wave, which was driven up Biscayne Boulevard, recently become one of the most costly avenues in the world. More than a score of yachts, speedboats and tugs were counted diagonally across from the MacAlister Hotel at the edge of Royal Palm Park.

One big freighter with every sail and piece of rigging gone was counted among them. Other craft were not so lucky, for they were dashed against the three-story structures lining Miami and Miami Beach, and were crushed and sunk after they had torn great jagged holes in the causway at numerous points.

The Nohab, $100,000 yacht of former Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, was broken in two and sunk in the bay off the Miami water front.

Altogether there are fewer than a half dozen vessels of all kinds left in the water front. One of these is a large United States engineers' cutter, while the only other of any size is a freighter which has all of every vestige of sail and rigging has been stripped from it.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Miami, Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood, the three larger towns in the path of the hurricane, are under martial law. Water, food and surgical supplies are sadly needed. There is no gas or electricity in any of them. What cooking is being done is by camp fires torches and small fires kindled by wood from wreckage.

Appeal has been made to Governor Martin, at Tallahassee to send troops Red Cross nurses, doctors, medical supplies, food and water from the other cities of the state as they are direly needed.

A special train of supplies, doctors, and nurses was made up here this afternoon and dispatched to the stricken cities after two newspapermen who left Miami by truck Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock rode and walked through the devastated area until 1 o'clock this morning to Fort Lauderdale, 20 miles north, slept two or three hours with homeless refugees in a school house, and then started through the remaining forty miles to Palm Beach in a borrowed car. They arrived here this morning at 11 o'clock with the first news from the devastated section, which had been without communication with the outside world since anticipated Friday.

The hurricane reached Miami between 2 and 3 a.m., Saturday, following by only a few hours a hurricane warning by the Washington weather bureau.

130 MILES AN HOUR

The barometer reading then stood about 29.25 inches. It dropped rapidly until it reached a minimum of 27.75 inches at 5.30 a.m., when all weather observation apparatus was blown from the top of the post office, where it was located, by the hurricane that Richard W. Grey, Government meteorologist at Miami, declared was blowing 130 miles an hour. Normal standing of the barometer is 29.92; Galveston Texas during the disastrous hurricane and tidal wave in 1900, registered only 28.40 inches or .65 inches higher than at Miami.

After the first hurricane there came a lull of about one hour and a half during which thousands dug themselves out of wrecked homes, and succor for the dead and wounded began. At 7.30 a.m., however, a second hurricane whipping up the coast from the southeast, struck the ruined district with a fury almost equal to that of the first. The damage it wrought was even greater, for thousands of homes, stores, garages and other business buildings, weakened by the first hurricane, quickly succumbed to the second attack and toppled over into ruined and twisted masses, burying hundreds under them.

WORST NEAR MIAMI

The greatest loss of life and property is in Miami and its suburbs. The city proper is a mass of broken plate glass, wrecked and twisted business houses. Thousands of residences suffered, many completely destroyed or heavily damaged from loss of roof or walls, with window panes smashed and furnishings drenched by the driving sheets of rain. Thousands of magnificent, stately palms and Australian pines are uprooted, broken off a few feet from the roots or twisted and bent hopelessly. Many of these fell across and broke the roofs of residences. Much shrubbery was wrecked out of the ground and strewn about, a complete loss.

UNBURNABLE TREES

TO ACT AS FIRE BREAKS

Nice, France, Sept. 20.—A new plan to combat forest fires in Southern France is to be started next year. Thousands of the practically unburnable sesorio dreuerou species of the mimosa tree will be planted in the forests to act as fire breaks.

The plan consists of stretching lines of cherry-set trees throughout the forests, with intersecting lines dividing all forest lands into comparatively small squires. Forestry experts contend that when the work is completed the danger from fire will be extremely slight.

STAGE ALL SET FOR KARNIVAL OPENING TONIGHT

Everything is in readiness at the armouries for the official opening of that Great Kreat tonight at 8 o'clock. The entire auditorium has been transposed into a place of beauty—and the sight that will meet the eye when entering it tonight will be pleasing indeed. The stage that will accommodate the Style Show is entirely new and different from last year—and should do much to enhance the beauty, of the many garments to be seen on it during the next five evenings. The question on everyone's lips today is—Who are the eight pretty Belleville girls who will display these gowns and coats—but of course the Club officials are keeping this a secret until the curtain rises tonight.

The Hope Chest valued at over 100.00 will also be on display tonight, and the girls all want to see that.

Eight Pretty Belleville Girls Will Act As Mannequins

When the curtain rises for the first showing of the Fall 1926 Fashions on Monday evening at the Armouries, Belleville will again have entered upon a week when Fashions Reign Supreme. This year, as last, 8 pretty Belleville girls have been selected to act as mannequins, and they will start to perform their duties at 8.15 each evening. The grace and charm of the new mode revealed in Fashions for Fall will make this year's "Revue" one of outstanding interest to every one, and when the curtain is drawn for the last time on Friday evening, we predict it will close the most successful event of its kind ever held.

ACCIDENT SEQUEL FINE IN COURT

Point Anne Man Was Before Judge Wills in Court

Edward Mundik, a foreigner of Point Anne, was given seven days in the County jail on being found guilty of having been in charge of a car while in an intoxicated condition by Judge Wills this morning. The accused figured in a automobile accident on September 5th on Pinnacle Street when he did damage to a Ford sedan owned by B. W. Brown. The bench in delivering judgment said he would only make it a fine if it were in his power but the amendment to the statutes offers no option in the matter.

Mr. Payne, counsel for Mundik asked that judgment be reserved indefinitely until a similar decision which is pending from Justice Kelly be handed down.

Judge Mills said he found is necessary to deliver his judgment immediately since the statute covering the case should not be interfered with.

Mr. Payne then asked that judgment be reserved a week to allow Mundik a chance to get up several family matters preparatory to going to jail. He also paid the costs of $6.50.

Samuel Fresco was fined $15.00 and costs of $7.50 on being found guilty of intoxication on September 5th. Fresco was Mundik's companion in the car which figured in the motor accident.

Sergt. Harmas testified that Fresco staggered into the police station and showed signs of intoxication. The accused said he smelled strongly of liquor and talked in a guttural voice.

Fresco took the stand and denied having drunk any liquor upon that occasion.

HEAVY SEIZURE MADE ON SUNDAY

Two Provincial Officers Took Over 288 Bottles of Fine Whiskies

Officers Thomas Hitchcock of Belleville, and Thompson of Napanee, made a big seizure of 288 bottles of Scotch and Irish whiskies on the Trenton road, near Bayside, yesterday afternoon.

C. B. A. Grauix and Devaux Lasalle, both calming Ottawa as their home, were placed under arrest and will face trial this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The back seat of the car was filled and part of the front seat also. The liquor was taken to the dispensary in Toronto by the officers.

Letters to the Editor

CREDIT TO FIREMEN

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Your item in your issue of 15th inst. referring to fire in my store on the previous day is both amusing and absurd.

The gas man came, I understand, to put a permanent cap on a gas pipe; he certainly made a leak when he opened the pipe with a lighted candle too near and anyone but a gas man can guess what happened. The gas man went upstairs to procure a pail of water, saying, "There is a fire down cellar." At the same moment the flames made their appearance in the corner of the store. The Fire Department was called and the gas official told to shut off the gas main.

The firemen were most prompt and their promptness and good work under Chief Ponton prevented the loss of many thousand dollars worth of property.

The gas man did no more to extinguish the fire than the Editor of The Intelligencer; his part of either had no more effect than a teaspoonful would be credited to the Fire Department and I desire to testify to the promptness and efficiency of our fire brigade.

A. L. GEEN.

THE PASS OF THE THREE CROSSES

About three miles east of Cortina in the Dolomite region of Italy, is the Tre Croci Pass on the summit of which is a hotel, destroyed during the war, but recently rebuilt on a finer plan. There is no village, but so splendid is the scenery that most of the visitors rather rejoice in the absence of houses and streets. The Tre Croci Pass takes its name from three huge wooden crosses on the summit; how they came there, I will not pretend to say. In Cortina I heard at least two stories of their origin and at the Pass Hotel, two other legends were thought authentic tales of their erection. The situation is ideal. Westward I looked down over the Ampezzo Valley to Tofana, the Nuvolau, and further away, the Marmolada. To the north was Cristallo with its peak, Popena. Although so near to popular Cortina, Tre Croci has a remote, unsophisticated way about it, which even the comfort of the modern hotel cannot destroy. Meadowland and magnificent woods are everywhere; it gave me one of the quietest of mountain holidays.

Five Brantford motorists will appear in court for driving with one hand and receiving ladies' wiles with the other.

Official Count 3786 Majority

At the home of Mr. S. T. Vandervoort, Returning officer for South Hastings the ballot boxes were opened today and the official declaration of the election made. Representatives of Mr. Tummon and Col. Vandervoter, the candidates, were present. Mr. Tummon's official majority is 3786. Votes in various municipalities are as follows:

Dr. O. A. Marshall returned on Sunday from his trip to Saskatchewan.

Miss Viola Ashley left on Sunday for Albany Hospital, Albany, N.Y., to resume her duties in nursing.

Mrs. Harold Doolittle and Mrs. Wm. Ketcheson spent the week-end with friends in Kingston.

Mrs. McCarthy and her granddaughter, little Miss Evelyn Johnson, returned from a visit to Peterborough today.

Mr. Samuel Outerbridge returned to the city yesterday to resume his course at O.B.C., after four months' vacation spent at his home, 'Norwood' Bermuda.

President Charles Dolan and Mrs. Dolan, and Secretary O. H. Scott and Mrs. Scott of the Rotary Club are going to Jamesville, N.Y., this week for Rotary conferences.

The usual Saturday afternoon tea was given at the Belleville Golf Club from four to six o'clock. The hostesses, Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Mrs. Martin Dunsford, were assisting in pouring tea for the business and was kept very busy, the beautiful day tempting a large number of the members out to the club.

Mr. R. J. Graham and Mr. Graham and members of their family, are leaving this week for a trip around the world. Mr. Graham today was bid bon voyage by his brother Rotarians. They expect to be away for about eight months and will, he hopes, be at Ostend next June for the International Rotary Convention there to represent the Belleville Club on that occasion.

The tea at the Country Club on Saturday was an unusually bright and delightful affair and was attended by a large number of the Club members and their friends. The tea room was very artistic with its profusion of dahlia and double asters donated by Mrs. Wilmot and the tea table at which Mrs. McKeown presided was lovely with flowers and foliage. The assistants were Mrs. O. A. Pirrit, Miss Helen McKeown, Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, Mrs. E. D. O'Flynn, Miss Edith Moore, Mrs. R. J. Graham and Mrs. W. N. Poulton. The dainty cares attracted a large number of enthusiasts to the club during the afternoon.

GRANT—O'ROURKE

This morning Rev. Father Killeen officiating, the wedding was solemnized of Helena, daughter of Mrs. Edward O'Rourke, Pinnacle Street, to William Grant. The bride was attended by Miss Kathleen O'Rourke, while Mr. Tom Barrett supported the groom.

FOWLIE—WATSON

In the Church of England, Madoc, this afternoon at two thirty, a very pretty wedding was solemnized, Rev. Arthur Strother officiating, when Margaret, daughter of the late Mr. J. Watson and Mrs. Watson of Madoc was united in marriage to Hillis Fowlie, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fowlie, 249 Charles street, Belleville. The bride was very pretty in her wedding gown of white with the customary veil, and was attended by Miss Katie Ross of Brighton, while Mr. Cecil McMullen of Belleville supported the groom.

RETURN GAME HERE WEDNESDAY

High School Girls Team Have Chance of Turning the Tables

The Belleville High School will play the return game with the Toronto Nationals on Wednesday afternoon at the exhibition grounds at 3.30 p.m. The tricolour gave the smart western team a great battle at Sunnyside Beach on Saturday afternoon and should trim them here. The Nationals are easily the best team that the locals have struck. this season. "Marge" Ellerbey, their clever young pitcher, has oodles of speed, and she has a nice battery-mate in Emily Gait. The rest of the team are equally good and Belleville fans will surely get the worth of their money. With the home crowd behind them and three days rest the High School should be in a good position to tie the series. If a third game is necessary it will be played in Cobourg.

LORD BYNG WAS RIGHT

Not an long ago we heard a great deal about something then called the "constitutional issue," and the question: Did it play much or any part in the result of the voting? has been variously discussed. . . .

British opinion as revealed in added excerpts from leading journals there would seem to lead one to believe that in the Motherland at least there are many who consider the voting on Sept. 14th, a "rebuke to Lord Byng," and assume that the verdict means that the Canadian people desire to warn future governors-general that they must accept and act upon the advice of the head of the government on all matters, under any and all circumstances, no matter what the advice may be.

For our part we believe the constitutional issue was among the least of the diversified issues and influences contributing to the outcome last Tuesday; we seriously doubt if the "issue" affected the vote in a single constituency. A sharpe rebuke is handed to British papers respecting comment concerning the present occupant of Rideau Hall as soon as Lord Byng was a subject particularly does the Ottawa Journal train its guns on Lord Beaverbrook and his "Daily Express," when it says:

This country is in receipt again of has no and information from the secure London Express, which is quite evidence in using in the Old Country before the public on the subject of Canadian affairs. This time we are informed that the object of the Dominion general election was to "show" Mackenzie King and the Governor-General how to do business.

It is necessary to suggest that Lord Byng should not feel troubled about such opinions, for he is to firmly established in the good opinion and affection of, we are sure, a great majority of the people of this country to need any champion—but the utterance of the London Express includes not merely cheapness but ignorance.

It is tolerably certain that the so-called constitutional issue did not play any part at all in the general election There was no indication that the vast majority of the electors paid any attention to it.

If the London Express in its somewhat brutal comment, referring as it does to Lord Byng's course as having been suggestive of the temperament of a soldier is expressing Lord Beaverbrook's opinion, we venture to remark that neither Lord Beaverbrook nor his Express is merely assuming to represent English opinion, we doubt if it is very representative to say we imagine moreover that that species of opinion concerning about Canadian affairs is not very welcome in this country.

The Winnipeg Tribune says:

"Clearly the so-called constitutional issue did not play any large part one way or the other. If it had operated at all it would have operated with some uniformity. It would have been expressed as strongly in British Columbia and the Maritimes where the Conservatives made an excellent showing, as in Manitoba and Ontario, where they lost ground."

Mr. Tummon, M.P.-Elect for South Hastings in his campaign here showed the folly of argument over any such "issue" had there existed it. Lord Byng was correct in procedure, and no one now seriously will attempt to say that he wasn't absolutely within his rights.

SOUND ADVICE

"My advice to you is to meet success when it comes to you, like a gentleman, and if, most disaster like a man, as you force your way in the hard struggle which the war has left with Englishmen and Englishwomen. You will never show the pleasant, easy life we knew in this country before the war, when there were hardly any taxes and we had none of the misfortunes through which the Ship of State must be steered today. This is a hard truth, but one which should be learned by the younger among you—that you and your children after you will live a severely competitive life in a hard, competitive world.

"Therefore, while you are young cultivate the habit of industry. I regret that I never did, so I can speak, with knowledge and experience, of the value it would have been to me had I cultivated the habit when I was your age."

The foregoing likewise applies in good by measure to Canada and Canadians. Here we had as England had "hardly any taxes," and assuredly there are problems today not dreamed of in former philosophy.

Meet success like a gentleman—modestly, without affectation or self-consciousness or boasting; meet disaster like a man—without whining.

That's good advice.

"Why, yer ole guvnor, 'e was rid by a jyby in pomp, and 'e got shit of a stiff neck."

A negro took cause into a northern Missouri bank with a check from the lady for whom she worked. As Mandy, the cook, could not write, she always endorsed her checks with a big X. But on this occasion she made a circle on the back of the check.

"What's the big idea, Mandy?" asked the teller. "Why don't you make a cross, as usual?"

"Ah done got married yesterday, boss, and Ise changed mah name."

Man (in barber chair)—Be careful not to cut my hair too short—people will take me for my wife."

Bringing the School to the Scholars
A school on wheels—a school that suddenly appears one day and goes and comes again like a magic castle.
It is doubtful if the news of an approaching circus, heralded by dashing and wonderful entrance posters has ever caused as much excitement as the announcement of the coming of the "Canadian Pacific School Train" into the hinterland of Northern Ontario. This unique experiment of bringing the school house to the scholar in this sparsely settled country is being carried on by the Provincial Government of Ontario in cooperation with the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to providing educational facilities to the children of railway men and residents in the remote stations along the line in the Northern section of the Province between Chapleau and Sudbury. In all, around 400 children will be educated by this means.

FINANCIAL CRASH BUT YEARS AWAY

Babson Report Gloomy as to Events Around 1929-30

GOOD TIMES JUST NOW

Labor Quiet; Money Easy—Installment Plan Bad System

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Sept. 20.—While most things point to several years of prosperity "a distinct recession in business and possibly a panic within the next two or three years would not be surprising," Roger W. Babson, head of the Babson statistical organization, told delegates to the annual national business conference here.

OVER-EXTENSION

Such a decision would be merely temporary, he added, but when it comes it will be the result of the over-extension of the installment business, which today is eating into the vitals of business like a cancer.

Readjustment would bring industrial peace which they, ever he added.

"Business at the present time is good, considering the country as a whole. We are in a period of prosperity and most things point to two or three years of prosperity ahead of us, but most Americans people are living in a fools' paradise and may be rudely awakened any time."

ABOVE NORMAL

The best conditions exist on the Pacific coast and in the Oklahoma section, the poorest in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Florida and the Rocky Mountain states, he said. The Babson chart is composite barometer of all lines and all sections, now stands at 12 per cent. above normal.

"Labor is quiet, money is easy, commodities are stable and most industries are enjoying a good volume of business but there are three flies in the ointment. CONDITIONS THAT DISTURB

"First the foreign situation, which is still very bad, second, the installment business, which is eating the vitals out of the American people; and third, the fact that the manufacturing capacity of almost all industries exceeds the consuming power."

Touching on the stock market, he predicted a decline of eighty points in from one to three years with the added advice that "those who wish to render a real service today can do so by stirring up cash, sending the next panic rather than by buying securities at the present time."

RAH FOR B. C.!

This is a description of British Columbia which the Calgary Herald, gives the Province with larger forests, wetter rains, and more elephants than any other Province in Canada.

SOME GIRL!

Fire Brantford Motorists Summoned for Driving With One Arm Around Girl, says a headline, which you can puzzle over.

RESTORING THE BALANCE!

Before complaining about the wet weather, says the Hamilton Herald, consider that it may be nature's way of raising the level of the lakes and so making up for Chicago's water-theft.

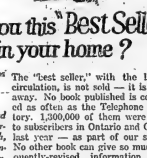

NO DISCRIMINATION

He had been looking over the Christmas cards on the counter for some time when the saleswoman suggested: "Here's a lovely sentiment.

"To the only girl I ever loved."

"That's fine," he said, brightening.

PILES GO QUICK
Without Salves or Cutting
Thousands who have piles have not known that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.
Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.
Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McKeown's drug store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

JUDGE RIDDELL IN EYE OPENER

New York Times Considers His Lordship's Article as Notable

FROM A "NEW PLANET"

Blase New Yorkers Seem a Bit Surprised if Not Irritated

New York, N.Y., September 20.—Mr. Justice Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario is regarded by The New York Times like a visitor from some new and impossible planet, in commenting on the Canadian jurist's description of the administration of Canadian law in a local newspaper.

Mr. Justice Riddell stated in his article that a criminal trial in Canada is "never a game at which the smartest man wins and the newspaper get lots of interesting copy."

"We are a poor and busy people, and have no time or money to waste on frills and sensation," the judge said. "We view a criminal prosecution as a solemn investigation by the state to determine whether the accused has been guilty of a crime against it."

"To a New Yorker Justice Riddell seems like a visitor from some new and impossible planet, whom he says: 'I have never known it to take half an hour to obtain a jury.' The Times editorial says. "From some still more distant and impossible planet he seems to come when he tells us that he has never seen a murder trial that lasted more than a day and a half."

ONE RESTRICTION

"The Canadian judge is not an automaton," the editorial continues. "He comments freely on the evidence, subject only to the restriction that he make the jury understand that it is for them to judge the facts and for him to lay down the law. Appeals on small technical grounds or mistakes are dismissed. They are not granted unless the court is satisfied that 'substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice has occurred.' The prosecuting attorney, though appointed by the party in power, has no hand in politics. He tries to secure justice by collecting the creditable evidence in the case and laying it before the jury fairly and without passion.

"He is not supposed to use his position for purposes of sensation of glory.

"No lawyer acquires a reputation by securing convictions or juries and by failing to do so. We look upon a criminal trial as a solemn inquiry by the State, and any Crown counsel who should, in the heat of advocacy, endeavor to bring about a conviction by an appeal to the sentiment or prejudices of the jury, or by unfair comment on the evidence, would earn the reprobation of his fellows, if not a stern rebuke from the Judge."

NOT MOVIE STUFF

"In the United States many criminal trials may be said to be attended substantially as matter for the motion pictures. Professor Pound has noted the long-drawn criminal trial with its atmosphere of melodrama, its 'clashes' of eminent counsel and so on, as a survival of the 'frontier' which got its theatre and its movels in the court room. A trial was a show, a game, a fight. According to Mr. Justice Riddell, Canadian opinion and habit rule otherwise.

"Why does the 'frontier' linger so long in cities and among a rich and busy people?"

NEW KIPLING BOOK ISSUED IN LONDON

"Debits and Credits" Contains One Poem Not Flattering to the U. S.

London, September 18.—Macmillan's Press today gave birth to Kipling triplets and thereby presented a problem for collectors of first editions. "Debits and Credits," the first new Kipling book published in nine years, was issued simultaneously today in three different formats. Which of the triplets was born first can be revealed only by a searching examination of the types of all three.

The contents of "Debits and Credits" show that Kipling retains his old clairvoyance, and reminds readers, that, despite the fact that he has been famous so long, he is only a year or so older than Wells, Bennett and Galsworthy, who are usually thought to be much younger.

The book contains one poem inspired by the war, entitled "The Vineyard" which, says the Daily Chronicle, is hardly likely to be popular in America. It contains the following verses:

"At the eleventh hour he came
But his wages were the same
As ours, who all day long had trod
The winepress of the wrath of God.
Since his back had felt no load,
Virtue still in him abode,
So he swiftly made his own
These lost spoils we had not won.

We went home, delivered thence;
Grudging him no recompense,
Till he portioned praise or blame
To our work before he came.
Till he showed us for our good—
Deaf to mirth and blind to scorn—
How we might have best withstood

FLAPPER TYPE PASSING

More Feminine Mode is Favored by Paris.

Paris, September 18.—The passing of the flapper is announced. Models for fall and winter now being shown, while not entirely ignoring her, markedly thrust her into the background in favor of a more distinctly feminine type. Few flappers of the original model will be seen the coming season, but it is not likely that the flapper will allow herself to be supplanted without a struggle by a more girlish type, with long curling hair and frills and ruffles, jabots and high necks, and profusely trimmed hats.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate thus helping to relieve bladder disorder.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

OSLERS LUCKY TO WIN FIRST GAME

Three Home Runs Were Total Counts Made By Toronto Men

KINGSTON LOST 3-2.

Limestones Conceded to Have Fine Chance to Even Count

(By Staff Reporter.)

Before 6,000 wildly excited fans the Toronto Oslers, amateur ball champions of the Queen City raised out Joe Daly's fighting Kingston Ponies at Ossington Avenue's band box stadium on Saturday afternoon by the close score of 3-2.

In all truth it must be said that the Central Leaguers deserved a victory, they played sparking ball all through the piece. It is coincident that all of Osler's runs came as a result of four-baggers over the short left-centre field fence. Jimmy Fleming, Osler crack batsman who was the lead-off man in the first inning clashed one of Bruce Culen's book balls over the garden wall. The same boy duplicated the feat in the fifth inning with another clout to practically the same spot which tied the score. Just as fans were beginning to see visions of an overtime struggle, Clarence Hosse who will be remembered by Belleville fans through his connection with the Leaside Club some years ago, broke the silence with a homer which put Freddy Hamilton's crew one to the good. Hosse was given a tremendous ovation. At least two of these would have been outside any other good-sized ball park in the country. Ossington's ballwick is nearly as bad to the old Hampden Park grounds in this respect.

Kingston got both of their runs in the second inning after Del Cherry was hit. Purvis walked and Jimmy Arneil came through with a rousing three-bagger.

The one big feature was Herby Teepell leaping one-hand catch of Joe Breen's terrific drive to the right-field foul line in the eighth inning. Teepell was forced into the crowd to make it, but he managed to cling to the sphere outside of the above mentioned facts it was a real nice ball game with both teams injecting into the fray some classy field-work.

Joe Breen who is regarded as the leading ball player in Toronto, having lead the league in batting this past season, was allowed but one hit by Lefty Bruce Cairns. Breen did however accept seven chances in the field without a slip.

Manager Fred Hamilton handed the pitching assignment to "Lefty" McCay and the latter lived up to advance notices and held the Ponies to six scattered hits and struck out seven of them. Hamilton evidently figured Joe Spring could not stop the slugging Ponies after his ignominious showing last Wednesday at Kingston stadium.

Bruce Cairns bit the Oslers down with seven hits, three of them homers. He had the situation well in hand throughout.

Harry Lee Ratsone the red-thatched guardian of the red-light corner accepted seven chances but kicked in with one unfortunate error. By the way, Harry has cast his lot with the Argonaut football club he having turned out for practise on Friday night. Now all of this so-called "bunk" that has been flying around this past month as to Reid's possible leading place is settled at last. Offerre of the double blue club are set at ease now that the brilliant back field star is again in the fold. Jimmy Arneil was the big noise with the willow, he having pasted out three safe blows and was responsible for both Kingston's runs.

Athel Clow and other officers of the Osler Club were anxious to have the second game played in the Maple Leaf stadium on Wednesday. Should the undoubtedly draw 10,000 people but rain checks have already been issued from last week to Kingston fans and it is expected that the game will be played at Kingston Fair grounds.

Oscar Heitt umpired Saturday's game at the plate while "Babe" Sheppard handled the bases.

B. H. S ATHLETES MAKE CLEAN UP

District Sports Day at Kingston on Saturday and Results

The Belleville High School track and field team practically cleaned up in the athletic meet at Queen's stadium in Kingston on Saturday which was held under the auspices of the Ontario commission.

The boys from the local institution captured no less than ten first prizes and nine seconds. Many fine athletes in this district sent teams with the following being represented,—Belleville, Kingston, Trenton, Deseronto, Brockville, Napanee and several other smaller schools.

The showing made by the local school was only made after constant practice by the athletes taking part.

Mr. Tom McGrigree, of Kingston, Chairman of the committee for this district was in charge of the meet. Mr. Howard and Mr. Thomas of the B. H. S. staff accompanied the local squad.

A public school boy from Marmora did particularly well in the events which he entered.

The following are the events in which B.H.S. entrants captured firsts:—

Intermediate 880 yards—"Bud" Galway who made it in the fast time of 2 mins 14 1-2 seconds.

Senior 880 yds—R. Ross.

Intermediate 440 yds—Galway.

Senior 44o yds—D. Rose.

Intermediate 220—Galway, Belleville, and Cole, Deseronto, a tie.

Senior shot put—F. Follwell—40 ft.

Junior Hurdles—M. Gillen.

Inter. Hurdles—Galway.

Int. High Jump—Angus McFee.

Juniors Relay—Belleville team composed of Burns, Gillen, Cooke and Van Tassel. The tricolor team were behind until the last lap when "Mike" Gillen, the last runner by a great spurt overhauled the lead.

In the following events Belleville secured second.

Inter. 880 yds—Jack Redfern.

Senior Shot Put—Percy Cole.

Inter. Pole Vault—Angus McFee.

Senior 440 yds—F. Follwell.

Inter. Broad Jump—J. Redfern.

Senior Pole Vault—Percy Cole.

Senior Javelin—Percy Cole.

Junior Hurdles—W. VanTassel.

Inter. Javelin—Jack Redfern.

KINGSTON VICTORIAS WIN

The Kingston Victorias raised out the McCormicks at Willowvale Park in Toronto on Saturday by a 5-4 score. "Vanny" Jamieson who was reinstated by the O.B.A.A. last week went to the mound and kept the playgrounds champs well in hand. The Kingston win necessitates a third game being played.

Local Girls Made Formidable Impression at Sunnyside

THE SCORE WAS 8 TO 4

Return Game Will Be Here on Wednesday at 3.30 P. M.

(By a Staff Reporter)

Belleville High School Girls gave the Toronto Nationals a treat run for their money in the first game of the semi-finals for the Women's Ontario Softball Championship at Sunnyside Beach on Saturday afternoon, by the score of 8.4. The locals played fairly good ball but had they played the brand of ball that they have dished up at various times this summer the Toronto team would have went down to defeat. Reports coming out of the camp of Mr. Fox's pupils was to the effect that Belleville were due to receive a severe drubbing but the Sunnyside fans opened their eyes when the tricolour squad swung into action. The winners were held down to five runs until the eighth inning when the former succeeded in scoring three runs which put them five ahead. Walter Grow's aggregation made a noble effort to pull the fat from the fire in the final spasm but they were limited to one run. The Belleville team out hit their opponents 7.5, but eight errors, several of which were injected at critical times helped to mixe matters and made the uphill fight too difficult.

As was expected, Jean Ramsay was sent to the hillock and a jion's share of the credit for the showing of the team is due to the same girl. It was one of her best exhibitions of the summer. She pitched equally well if not better than Miss Ellerbey and was given a hand by the crowd for her supreme efforts in emerging from several bad holes. In the seventh the homesters filled the bases with nobody out but the stellar little mounds-man went to work and shut them off without a run. Five of the Nationals' runs were ultimately scored after errors had been committed behind Miss Ramsay. Probably the strange ground or battle crowd had something to do with it, but next Wednesday should tell a different story.

Margie Ellerby who ascended the hillock for the Nationals is the best slab artist to face the High School this season. She possesses a very fast ball and retains a particularly clever trick of catching the batters unawares at the plate and several of them were not quite ready for the pitch and were caught with their bats hardly off their shoulders.

Miss Ellerbey fanned eight batters and allowed seven hits, but she managed to keep these pretty well scattered.

Little Mary Adams, the midget third baseman, led at the bat with three hits and she accepted six chances in the field but had two costly errors chalked up against her.

Aileen Wilkins distanced the form with the willow, driving out two clean two baggers, and accounted for two of Belleville's runs. Her hit in the ninth was the longest of the day deep down the right field foul line.

Margaret Holway at first base stood head and shoulders over Miss Thain. The Belleville girl scooped bad throws out of the dirt and speared the high ones with ease.

Lorna Ridley pulled the prettiest play of the day when she grabbed a hot line drive from the bat of Marge Ellerbey and thereby robbed her of a two-bagger. Miss Ellerbey received good support and the errors that did come did not hurt.

Belleville deported eight men on the paths while the Nationals left but four.

The Belleville girls are confident that they can turn the tables on the Toronto team here on Wednesday at the exhibition grounds at 3.30 p.m. Toronto supporters turned out in large numbers on Saturday and the management of the local team are confident that the same spirit will be shown here.

Aileen Wilkins opened the scoring in the first inning when she was safe on a fielder's choice and reamed on the catcher's overthrow. Toronto went into the lead in the second after Miss Thain was safe on Mary Adams' bobble and Emily Galt got a life when Audrey Kelleher let one go. Miss Galt stole third and also stole home when Jean Ramsay turned her back on the runner. The Torontos added another in the third. "Tiny" Seymour got a two-bagger and counted on a wild pitch. Belleville made it two in the fifth after Mary Adams, Aileen Wilkins and Lorna Ridley hit safely in succession. The Nationals bagged two more in the sixth. Miss Seymour went to second and third on overthrows and scored when Miss Barr punched out a hit. The latter came home after Mary Adams took Fraser's grounder only to throw the ball past first.

In the eighth Margaret Holway was safe on Barr's error and came home on Jessie Adams' timely bingle. They added one more in the ninth when Aileen Wilkins' two-bagger sent Mary Adams over.

The Nationals run wild in the eighth. Miss Fraser singled, Thain was safe on Lorna Ridley's error, Crawford hit to Ridley who forced Fraser at third. Miss Galt singled to centre, scoring two of them, and she herself scored on a sacrifice fly.

K. K. K. AT SMITH'S FALLS

Between twenty and twenty-five thousand Ku Klux Klansmen gathered at Smith's Falls yesterday afternoon and evening. Many members from Belleville and district were present at the gathering. A number of American K.K.K.'S came from the northern part of New York State for the ceremonies. Over one hundred new members were initiated into the secret rites of the order. A memorial service was held for the three departed members who were killed near London last week in a train wreck. There were also hundreds of spectators who watched the proceedings with interest. Next Sunday will see a big gathering at Campbellford.

United States citizens in Mexico City believe that Jacob Hoscuhal, wealthy retired merchant of Long Island, has been killed by bandits who kidnapped him on Sunday.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

If you would have your hair curled into a permanent wave, if you want to grow off all your flapgraffle, if you want palpitation of the heart, hysteria, generalized conniptions and many high nervous laughs, go to the Belle Theatre today and see the Roland West screen production of "The Bat."

The advice should be taken only by readers for real high-powered entertainment, who are prepared to see what the tremendous resources of the motion picture can do to interpret the fantastic and perennial Mary Roberts Dinehart and Avery Hopwood stage success, which played so long as two years in one theatre with the limited staging of a legitimate show to give it atmosphere. Now in the film, all limits of a physical nature have been swept away, and the story romps along in four dimensions.

Right from outer start things begin to happen—a skyscraper murder mystery, a bank robbery, then the intricate spasm of a murder in the Van Gorder mansion on Long Island.

Sixty days' imprisonment was the sentence meted out to Leut. Dreyer, of the French steamer Lotus as a result of a collision, between his boat and a Turkish cargo boat.

TUNNEY TALLER THAN DEMPSEY

Challenger However is Six Pounds Ligh r and His Waist L ger

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—Physical measurements of Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, taken shortly before they completed their training for the championship battle here, reveal how closely the champion and his challenger are matched.

The figures show that Dempsey had a six-pound advantage when at the height of the conditioning workouts but this difference is likely to be narrowed by the time they step into the ring. Tunney has a half-inch advantage in height and Dempsey the same margin in reach.

The statistics follow:

SEE THE VIKING SHIPS

I suppose it is natural, but every time I bring friends to Norway, they ask "Where can we see the Viking ships?" They seem to be as important a lure as the little Eskimo Boats in Switzerland, or the room in which the little princes were murdered in the Tower of London. And like me? You cannot see Viking or their ships today and they are as full of interest as anything else in this northern Kingdom. Prof. Gustafson says, "The most noteworthy objects in Oslo are beyond all question the remarkable relics from the days of the Vikings. Neither within nor beyond the frontiers of Norway can we find other vessels preserved from the period when the Norwegian Vikings set forth with their fleets and visited the coasts of Europe, Iceland, Greenland and even reached the shores of North America, which constituent glory was the final act of the era." The wreck today are cared for by the University, the Gokstad and the Oseberg ships being the most interesting.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THURSDAY'S FIGHT

Philadelphia Sept. 20.—Salient facts and features in connection with the Dempsey-Tunney battle for the world's heavy weight championship follow:

PLACE —Sesqui-Centennial Stadium, located in grounds of Exposition celebrating 150 years of American Independence.

TIME—Thursday night, September 23; preliminary bouts at 8 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time; title bout, about 10:45 p.m. (in case of rain or bad weather, will be held following night.)

DEMPSEY is 31 and Tunney 28 years old.

PROMOTER—Tex Rickard of New York.

BOUT—Ten rounds to an official decision, rendered by two judges but in case they disagree, rendered solely by the referee.

ESTIMATED ATTENDANCE — 140,000 which would set a record for boxing; current record paid attendance at any sports event in the world.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS — $1,750,000, a figure which, if reached, also would shatter all previous sporting records.

PREVIOUS RECORDS — 93,000 spectators and gate receipts of $1,626,000, established at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, for Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweight title bout, July 2, 1921, also promoted by Tex Rickard.

PURSE—$700,000, of which Dempsey is receiver three-fourths, win, lose or draw, with one-fourth, $150,000, going to Tunney. Dempsey's share may reach $750,000.

"WORLD'S FAIR" AGAIN SUCCESS

Shannonville Annual Had 2000 People — Good Races.

Shannonville Industrial Exhibition, the "World's Fair," this year lived up to its reputation of attracting every one from the vicinity and a large percentage of those living not where near, and the affair was a most encouraging success to the committee in charge. It was indeed fortunate that well over two thousand persons were on the grounds during the afternoon all delighted that every available seat around the ring to cast a favorable eye on the yearly event, holding off the rain for the afternoon.

The entries were larger in many classes than ever before, particularly the horses, in which all records were broken and the animals shown were exceedingly fine. The cattle sheep and swine were all commented upon very favorably by the judges who had never seen a finer aggregation at any previous fair.

THE RACES

The horse races as usual were the head-liner of Fair and "the sport of kings" provided some thrills for the hundreds who watched the different events. In the free-for-all the winners were Vels Bell, owned by C. R. Tupper, of Frankford, first; Si Mack, owned by P. J. Sullivan, of Frankford, second; with Bobe Direct, owned by Dr. Payne of Bloomfield, third.

In the 2.35 class Leo Stewart, owned by M. Coulter, of Thomasburg, was the winner; Barney Kelly, owned by Cyrus Garrison, of Frankford, second; and Black Joe, owned by S. Wheeler, of Belleville, third.

SECRETARY PLEASED

Mr. H. C. Taylor, of Shannonville, secretary of the fair was delighted with the result of the annual attraction.

The Old Love Or New?

Again and again was Annette called before the curtain, and bouquet after bouquet was showered upon the stage, which she acknowledged with her pretty curtacy and slight, sweet smile, while M. Chabert was too much used to his friend's triumphs to be more than pleased when their royal highnesses went for him, and the Grand Duke paid him the highest compliment a host can bestow's grace, beauty and talent.

Meanwhile in that box in the first tier there were very anxious and uneasy hearts. Constance's agitation was almost uncontrollable, and, in very pity to her, Captain Brinley proposed a walk in the foyer, and Rolf and Amy went after them, leaving Minnie and Roy alone.

It was not in Minnie Fitzroy's tender heart to see suffering without attempting to alleviate it, and all her sympathy was written in her blue eyes, which she turned to Roy, and meeting them, his white, stern face softened a little.

"Do I hide my pain so badly?" he said, with a little bitter smile. "It is but momentary, Minnie; don't look so sorry for me!"

"But I am sorry," she said, gently. "Oh! Roy, I wish we could have spared you this."

"It is nothing, my dear," he said, recovering her again so suddenly brought to life memories which I hoped were buried long ago. You need not fear that my love has revived also—that is dead forever!"

And yet when the opera was over and his party had driven home, Roy, on pretense of writing to smoke, lingered about the stage entrance of the opera house until he saw Annette come out. A carriage was waiting for her, and Roy watched her as she passed out on the arm of a handsome young Englishman whom he recognized as a wealthy noble man and rather distinguished member of the House of Lords.

Annette looked pale and tired as she gave her hand to Lord Elford as farewell and entered the carriage where Madam Chabert was waiting, and Roy heard the ring of fatigue in the low, sweet voice in which she thanked him for the "lovely flowers," while Lord Elford stood bareheaded until the carriage rolled away.

Roy had assured Minnie that his love was dead forever; but if it were so it was rather surprising that an immediate wish to knock Lord Elford down possessed him as he turned away from the unoffending young nobleman's neighborhood.

CHAPTER XVII.

"FOR YOUR SAKE."

"And she is here, married and happy, and I am quite forgotten."

Annette de Vitry utters these words aloud as she sits in her sitting-room at the Hotel de Bellevue the morning after she had acted Marguerite in Gounod's beautiful opera, and as she utters them, she throws aside a paper in which M. Chabert has given a paragraph containing an enthusiastic eulogy on her performance, which has been lyingly disregarded on her knee.

"Married and happy," she repeats in a moment. "Well, that is the end for which I suffered. Why cannot I rejoice that it has been compassed?"

The young prima donna looks very pale and wan, in the morning light, the slight hollows in her cheeks are deep, dear scholarism at the Grange and felt his kisses upon my lips. Oh! Roy, if I could hear you say, 'I love you, I think I could die happy!'

"What madness is this!" she exclaims, springing up and beginning to pace the room. "What madness! and help me to bear! I was grateful by winning peace; but now—but now I feel as if I should never find peace again."

A footstep outside, startled her, and quick as thought she resumes her seat and her attitude of languid indifference, and catching up the paper, bends over it in apparently deep interest; nor does she raise her eyes when the door opens and some one enters the room.

"You may take away the coffee, Sophia," he says quietly; "I do not want it."

There is no answer, but the footsteps, slower and heavier than those of the bright-eyed little French maid, come nearer to her, and pause opposite her chair, and when Annette looks up with a little start, she sees standing before her, looking at her with cold meaning blue eyes, the lover of her girlish days, the man whom she loves still with unalterable love and constancy Roy Fitzroy.

The blood rushes into Annette's face in one quick flow, then recedes, leaver her white as marble, and the white lace on her bosom rises and falls quickly. Roy, on the contrary, is perfectly calm and composed, and his voice, when he spoke to her, is cold, and hard, and cutting as steel.

"So we have met again," he says coldly. "After a very long interval of time we meet again, mademoiselle. Ah! no wonder you tremble—no wonder you are afraid. It is not pleasant to be suddenly confronted with one whom you have most treacherously betrayed."

Annette answers nothing; she is too much agitated to speak, and as she struggles for calmness, Roy goes on passionately:

"You see not try to excuse yourself," he says, bitterly. "Excuses true or false, would come easy to your lips doubtless, but you may spare yourself the trouble, for I will have none of them."

A red spot of angry color burns n each cheek, as the girl rises proudly and faces him.

"I have given you no right to insult me," she says, haughtily.

"Have you not?" he answers with the same harsh, bitter laugh. "Have you not? If the blackest treachery, the vilest falsehood, do not give me right to confront you with the truth I retract my words, and apologize."

A shudder runs through the girl's frame as she hears the harsh words, and he lifts her hand as if to ward off a blow, but she says nothing, and looking him in the eyes fixed on the lowery face of the woman he had loved so entirely and so passionately, goes on with increased warmth:

"Do you know that your conduct almost cost me my life?" he says, vehemently. "Last night I found that you had lied to me, I followed you!"

"You followed!" she says, breathlessly.

"Yes, I followed you until—I was in idiot then, and I was mad; but my strength failed me and—But what matters it to you—it is only an additional triumph to you that you made me suffer as few men have suffered, but as every man will suffer who puts his faith in such as you."

"Oh, Roy, you are cruel!" she says her calmness giving way, and tears coming thick and fast.

"Cruel! Does the truth sound cruel in your ears?" he says, huskily. "Ask yourself, then, what the reality was to me—to me who loved you!"

He turns from her with a groan, and, standing by the window, which he faces, by his hands; while Annette, while and trembling, unable to support herself, sinks on her knees by the table, bowing her head upon it.

For quite ten minutes there is silence in the room, a silence broken only by the hoking sobs which rend the slender frame of the young actress as she crouches there. Twice Roy uncovers his face and turns to her with an impulse of tenderness which he cannot repress, then his face becomes stern.

"Why did you so, Annette?" he says, at last. "What made you do this to me so cruelly?"

"I left because I loved you," the young girl says, faintly; and Roy gives a harsh, bitter laugh at the reply.

"Because you loved me!" he wails, mockingly. "You have strange ways of showing your love—to blight a life, and ruin happiness."

"I did it for the best," she says, slowly raising herself, and turning to him. "Oh! Roy, do you know how I suffered in hurting you?" She comes timidly to his side, and lays her hand softly on his arm. "Ah! forgive me," she says, piteously—"forgive me?"

"I cannot," he answers, coldly. Then, with sudden passion, he goes on: "When I think of that time—when I think of your betrayal, Annette, there are moments even now when it seems as if I could strike you

She shrinks away from him, shivering and hiding her face.

"Ah! you need tear nothing," he says "I am not so lost to all self-respect."

There is another silence.

"Of what avail recalling the past?" he says, at length. "It cannot be undone, and it is over. Forgive me if I have hurt or pained you unnecessarily. I ought rather to have congratulated you on the eminent position you have attained, and your brilliant successes."

She looks up at him vaguely, with dim unseeing eyes. This interview, trying as it is to both, is draining away the girl's strength, until she feels that she can no longer restrain the yearning to set herself at his feet and entreat his pardon.

"Your worldly wisdom was not at fault," he goes on, with a sneer. "But I ask why you still call yourself mademoiselle, since you have changed your name de Vitry for Chabert?"

"I do not understand," she says, faintly. "Why will you torture me like this?

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound". You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger.

MACKENZIE KING MAY NOT ATTEND EMPIRE PARLEY

Suggestion King's Presence in Canada Demanded By Public

CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

Conservative Circles Feel Premier-Elct Fears London Critism

Ottawa, September 21.—It now looks as if Mr. King had decided not to attend the Imperial Conference. The statement issued here by Senator A. C. Hardy, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, demanding that Mr. King should not go to London is believed to have been inspired by Liberal headquarters. Its purpose, it is believed, is that of paving the way for an announcement that Mr. King will not attend the conference. It is expected that Mr. King will make use of Senator Hardy's statement as justification for a declaration that the public demands his presence at home.

There would appear to be nothing to prevent the incoming premier from going to London for the conference. His Government will be installed within a few days, and he can proceed at once with the holding of by-elections.

It is anticipated that these will be over and the members of the Cabinet returned in the minimum of time, as the Prime Minister and his followers probably will be given acclamations. Preparations for the session will not entail an unduly heavy task for Mr. King.

Mr. Meighen, whose task would have been heavier than Mr. King's, intended to go to the conference if his powers. meat had been sustained.

The feeling here is that Mr. King is now not anxious to be present at the conference because of the constitutional issues he raised here for the purpose of the election He would have to face this issue in London and defend the stand he took in this country.

The suggestion is also made that the western wing of the party may favor Canada's ignoring the Imperial Conference and the Empire questions to be considered at it.

CORY RE-ARRESTED; TRIAL TO BE AT MADOC

Chas. Cory who was placed under arrest some weeks ago and charged with fraud and later allowed out on bail was rearrested by Acting McCoy and Sergeant of the Provincial police on Saturday last for alleged forgery and will face his trial at Madoc on Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Cory is connected with the Belleville Milling Co and it is through the selling of stock in that concern that the case arose.

KARNIVAL IS MECCA OF HAPPINESS
CROWDS SURGE ALONG SHOW AISLES
BUY DANCE LISTEN TALK AND LAUGH

The Kiwanis Karnival again and all quite new!

This year as last year the parcel aisle in the Armouries that, then, was also the banks of garish show front surges with an effervescent river of happiness. The opening night saw a stream of color of laughter of comedian movements as hundreds sought and found relief from humdrum and nonstory of life. And one thousand persons departed at closing time tired but happy, just two hundred more than attended the first night last year.

THE ARMOURIES

Dotted everywhere with shaded lamps casting a great, shining K which glimmers through the blue cigaret shade, the rafters of blue and white obscuring the somber walls of the buildings, the Armouries has lost the last vestige of a trace of military appearance. Booths which display the very latest of the very best in fashion in the city have on sale are irresistible as the visitors stroll about the building learning a lot about what really is going on in Belleville. Loveliest rugs, beautiful lamps, electrical appliances, cars, shoes, furs, clothes—everything the heart of men or women could desire and by way of diversion lots and lots of side show attractions. Bingo, race horse, wheel of fortune, blankets, aluminum and lamps to be won by the hazard of a single dime. And many returned to their homes last night with the satisfaction that a fellows probably will be given acclamations. Preparations for the session will not entail an unduly heavy task for Mr. King.

Mr. Meighen, whose task would have been heavier than Mr. King's, intended to go to the conference if his powers. meat had been sustained.

The feeling here is that Mr. King is now not anxious to be present at the conference because of the constitutional issues he raised here for the purpose of the election He would have to face this issue in London and defend the stand he took in this country.

The suggestion is also made that the western wing of the party may favor Canada's ignoring the Imperial Conference and the Empire questions to be considered at it.

THE FASHION SHOW

But the biggest thing of all was the Fashion Show. That was the silver embroidery brought down the house. There are but a few of the many lovely costumes each of the lovely models wore and with many of them the very latest coats were displayed. Coats of needle point, of suede, of velveteen, all magnificently set off with fur trimmings, some in the tuxedo style, some featuring dolman sleeves and some the new quaint sleevy, some of claret red, some of brown and others of practically every new shade under the sun.

HATS AND FURS

With Wolsen's Limited, coats and dresses, lovely models in hats from the millinery establishment of Tanners, were worn and each proved that, to be smart this winter, one must wear either a tiny or a large hat—there is no middle course. They were all irresistable and lovely.

Woodley's furs, totalling in value several thousand dollars, were magnificent.

With Wotten's costumes the models wore chokers of softest silver, black, Canadian Cross, Canadian Red, Baby Artic, Platinum Artic and White Fox. Softer than silk the chokers seemed to live on the shoulders of the fair models. The coats of priceless fur—were Persian lamb, Kolinsky squirrel, Hudson seal with semi-taupe and fitch seal with semi-taupe and fare skirt, silver muskrat, with crush collar and cuffs of red fox. The coats and furs made connoisseurs gasp with admiration, and, maybe a little envy) for they were the best that can be procured. Woodley's hats worn with their furs, were very exquisite and would have held their own with any New York establishment and they like the Tanner hats depended for ornament upon their fine simplicity and exquisite texture of cloth used in the manufacture.

MISS TORONTO MADE CONQUEST

Famous "American" Artists Who Were Judges All Admit It.

WAS NOT ELIGIBLE

Several Admitted She Was Their Choice For the Honor

"Miss Toronto," who is to appear in Belleville on two evenings this week, was the outstanding beauty at this year's Atlantic City National Beauty Pageant.

The authorities for this statement are the judges who selected the winning beauties from the United States contestants. In addition to them there were hundreds of Atlantic City hotel guests, including some of the wealthiest and most prominent society people who expressed the same opinion.

Dean Cornwall, one of the best-known artists of the United States, who had four oil paintings on exhibition at this year's Canadian National Exhibition, was asked by "Miss Toronto's" manager what his opinion of the girl was, whether she was merely an outstanding type or whether she was a genuine beauty.

"She is a beauty. I have talked to the girl and observed her closely. There is nothing that the girl lacks to make a charming woman. She has superb beauty of face and figure and her mental poise is far above the average girl's. I noticed her when she arrived in Atlantic City and remarked on her beauty. If she were a contestant with the other girls and failed to win the title of 'Miss America' the only thing that would defeat her would be the fact that she doesn't represent the cosy little type of home girl that we were seeking this year. Personally I am all for her."

R. Fairweather Babcock, another great American artist, stated that he had noticed her as the outstanding beauty of all the girls when he gave his final look at them.

"I was disappointed when I found that she was ineligible for the highest prize as I had her picked" he said.

Mr. Babcock, who was with her husband, remarked that he was infatuated with the gown that the Toronto girl was wearing.

"I lived as a boy in Toronto. Half my blood is Canadian. Nobody here regrets more than I do that she could not compete, for the best prize, admire her as a gorgeous beauty.

Charles Chambers, illustrator of the Palm Office Girl said:

"I think she is wonderful. She is beautiful. Toronto, must be proud to have her represent the city."

McLelland Barclay, who draws the illustrations for the advertisements of the Fisher Body's and the Holeproof Hosiery, as well as illustrations for the works of famous authors, said:

"I am going to vote for "Miss Toronto" in some contest. I don't know when or where I can vote for her but I am determined to do it. I fancied her at the opening ball and my admiration has grown since then. In my opinion if she were to go to Florenz Ziegfield, and I will give her my card as an introduction, he will go mad about her. She is wonderful.

Haskell Coffin, creator of the magazine cover girl, stated that he considered "Miss Toronto" a "superb and statuesque beauty." "What that comes from Canada could be otherwise than beautiful!" was his graceful compliment to her country.

And so all the fifteen artists who were judges, including Robert Aitken, the famous sculptor, expressed opinions that were enthusiastic about the girl from Toronto.

At the Sesqui Centennial celebration in Philadelphia "Miss Toronto" will be met by her husband, who will escort her to Atlantic City.

MEIGHEN DELAYS HIS RESIGNATION

B. C. Members of Cabinet Did Not Arrive in Time

ANOTHER MEET TODAY

Premier May Open Seat for Himself Before Leaving Office

Ottawa, September 21.—Owing to the non-arrival of British Columbia members of the Meighen Cabinet, which made a full meeting of the Cabinet Council impossible, and, consequently, prevented the clearing up of the work of the retiring Government, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen did not place the resignation of his ministry in the hands of the Governor-General as had been expected. As His Excellency left for Toronto and will not return to Ottawa until Wednesday night or Thursday, the resignation of the defeated Government will not take place until then. In a brief statement issued subsequent to a meeting of the Council, Mr. Meighen left the date of resignation open, merely saying that "the resignation of the Government would be sent in this week."

Hon. S. F. Tolmie and Hon. H. H. Stevens had not arrived from British Columbia, but are expected over today. They were not, however, the only absentees. Sir Henry Drayton was not present, being confined to his home through illness. Hon. J. D. Chaplin was also absent.

The Government will have wound up affairs by Wednesday and will be prepared to resign on that day, but the tendering of the resignation will await the return of the Governor-General, who may not get in until Thursday. Meantime another meeting of the Cabinet Council will be held today.

There is now some reason to believe that before leaving office Mr. Meighen may take the necessary steps to open a seat for himself in the House of Commons. To do so, he would have to follow the method he employed after his defeat in 1921, when he opened the riding of Grenville—that of appointing one of the Conservative members-elect to "the Chiltern Hundreds." As there is no Speaker of the Commons, a member cannot resign his seat, and the only way he could vacate it would be that of accepting a position of emolument under the Crown.

When his Government was defeated in 1921 and himself in Portage in Prairie, Mr. Meighen, before his retirement from the premiership, appointed the member for Grenville to a position in the Government service, thereby opening the riding. He was severely criticized for this action by his successor, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP

If Mr. Meighen takes this course it will indicate his intention of continuing in the leadership of the Conservative party. Were he not to provide a seat for himself now, he could not be in the House to lead the Opposition during the forthcoming autumn session, as none of his followers would be able to make way for him until after the House has met and elected a Speaker.

MR. ROGERS' STATEMENT

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—In connection with an Ottawa report to the effect that a meeting is to be called to consider the question of the leadership of the Conservative party, the Hon. Robert Rogers gave out a statement this afternoon. It follows in part: "Consideration of that question and some related questions is imperative; that goes without saying. . . .

"But a proposal to limit the discussion and action to a caucus or a coterie of individuals is altogether too narrow. Conservative voters selected on the broadest kind of representation should have a voice in such vital matters. The Conservative party is my judgment is today seriously situated. If intelligent reconstruction is not speedily undertaken it may not withstanding its splendid traditions, find itself in a position of impotence not unlike the Liberal party in England.

"Fundamentals of the Conservative party should be firmly re-established and placed beyond the power of anyone to meddle with them. . . . Having done that let the party equip itself for public service, shaping its course to meet the problems we have with us and the problems that may arise."

Quickly Relieved by Tanlac

Mother of 7 Children Gets Back Former Vitality and Vigor. Recommends Tanlac to Friends.

Mrs. Henri Scott, 7 Leamington Street, Montreal, recently said: "For three years my condition was such that I had no desire to even do the ordinary household duties. I was troubled with indigestion. Everything I ate formed a lump in my stomach and after I was unable to hold my food down, and would have headaches that lasted for hours. My nerves were bad and noises would nearly drive me out of my head.

"I consulted a doctor who gave me some medicine which afforded only temporary relief until I was advised by a friend about Tanlac.

"I began taking it and after two bottles noticed a great change in my condition. I can now enjoy my meals and work without any ill effects and the pains in my stomach are gone. I am glad to tell again and recommend Tanlac to anyone."

Tanlac, nature's own remedy, made from roots, barks and herbs, is sold by your druggist.

WANTED IN KINGSTON

The Provincial Police are in receipt of a circular from Kingston asking them to be on the look-out for a man known as J. Wilson who is wanted there for forgery. Wilson is described as being dark-complexioned and of slight stature. The man is wanted for alleged dealings in an automobile transaction. He was last seen near Deseronto on September 12th.

IN POLICE COURT

Magistrate Jarman of Bancroft delivered his judgment in several liquor cases which were tried here some time ago at police court yesterday afternoon.

Harry Yanover was dismissed on the charge of keeping for sale on August 20th.

The other charge of keeping for sale on September 2nd was amended to "having" liquor and Yanover was fined $100.00 and costs of $15.00 which were paid.

Frank High was dismissed on a similar charge of "keeping for sale."

The case against the two Ottawa men who were arrested on Sunday night with a load of "booze" on the Trenton road was enlarged for a week.

Herbert Belsey was fined $200.00 and costs of $9.00 and a month in jail, the sentence to start on October 1st.

MOHAWK FAIR

Under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Mohawk Agricultural Society, the 26th annual Mohawk Fair will be held tomorrow at its Consecon House grounds, Trenditeaus Township. In addition to the display of fruit, vegetables, fancy work and live stock, an interesting programme, for the afternoon has been arranged, including three speeding events, namely, a free for all; 2.40 class; and a named race. A ball,mile foot race and other sports will be provided.

GREAT TENSION ON THE RIVIERA

French Not Massing Troops But Are on Anxious Seat

Nice, France, Sept. 21.—Although investigation shows that there has been no bursting of French troops along the France-Italian border, following the recent anti-French demonstrations in Italy, there is tension between Fascist and anti-Fascist forces along the Riviera.

Border French towns are not occupied except by the regular garrisons, but Villefranche and Mentone officials are said to have received orders to prepare for eventualities. The garrisons have been closed to outsiders.

The local tension became apparent yesterday when a young Italian, who recelly fought a duel with a Fascist disappeared. The directions of the newspaper by which the young man was employed said that he had been taken to a safe place on account of threats made against him.

Leading men in the anti-Fascist movement, along the Riviera admit that preparations have been made for a coup, and feeling is running high between the Fascisti and anti-Fascisti. This has been heightened by local cafe news, received unofficially, to the effect that the Fascist Government in Italy is planning to kidnap certain Italians living in France.

Investigation shows that most of the men concerned have fled from the Riviera, and are now located in Northern France.

NEWEST RIFLES CARRY 25 SHOTS

German Inventor Uses Compressed Air to Drive Projectiles

Berlin, September 21.—The next war will be carried on without the proverbial canon's roar and the rattle of musketry and machine guns, if a Berlinlocksmith, Hermhan Plieth, is able to apply his larger calibre weapons and projectiles which have been successful with small calibre rifles. Using compressed air as motive power his new gun drives projectile through three millimetres of steel at a distance of 2,000 metres, and the report scarcely is able to be heard by observers according to the Acht Uhr, which states tests were conducted in the presence of Reichswehr officers.

The new rifle has the additional advantage of carrying 25 shots without reloading, and can be fired automatically.

Plieth maintains the strictest secrecy concerning his method of compressing the air, and how it is possible to control the pressure so that the 25 projectiles are given uniform velocity. He has offered his invention to the German Government for $1,500,000, but says he will destroy it before allowing another country to obtain the secret. The inventor declares the same principles can also be applied successfully to large weapons.

WAR WIDOW WINS CLAIM

Canada to Pay Leicester Chatwomen £1,000 and Pension

Leicester, September 21.—A chatwoman named Mrs. Benson residing here has been notified by the Canadian Government that she will be paid £1,000 (about $4,860) and a weekly pension of £3 in respect to the services of her late husband who died of wounds received while serving with the Canadian expeditionary forces. It is stated that the Canadian Government at first rejected the claim but as a result of representations made by the mayor of Leicester, payment is now to be made.

INFANTRY MOST USEFUL

Experts See Foes Unseat Air Planes at Manoeuvres

Aldershot, September 21.—Predictions that the next war will be almost entirely in the air were not borne out by the recent British army manoeuvres in Hampshire.

The effectiveness of infantry above all other arms was proven to the satisfaction of most military experts.

Rain and fogs upset the plans of the air force in the recent manoeuvres, as they often do in real warfare, and the infantry had to carry on while the fliers waited for conditions which would enable them to destroy the enemy.

Many problems arose which showed the necessity for more effective means of using infantry. Experts are suggesting small tanks which can be operated by two men, to lead larger tanks into action.

Social and Personals

Rev. Dr. MacTavish is in Toronto today.

Major Douglas Laurie of Peterboro is in the city today.

Mac Farrell left today to attend Queen's University, Kingston.

Mrs. Alex Kidd, wife of Chief Kidd, is ill at her home on Bleecker Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Farrell, Stirling, leave today for an extended trip to friends in Vancouver and Seattle.

Mr. W. E. Rowsome, manager of the Alemite Products has left for an extended business trip to the western coast.

Mrs. J. Tough, of Station Street, has returned home after spending a week in Toronto.—Mr. J. Tough also visited the Queen City over the week-end.

Miss Margaret Collins, nurse-in-training at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, is in the city for the McIntyre-Collins wedding today.

Rev. A. L. MacTear and Miss Hilda MacTear of Trenton, were in the city today. Miss MacTear leaves on Saturday for Europe where she will spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Colonel A. Bonisteel and son, Chatham Street, have returned home after having spent a pleasant month holidaying in the Province previnces. The party visited Lake Louise and other beauty spots of Alberta and remained with relatives in Edmonton for some time. Mr. Bonisteel reports that the prospects for a big crop are exceedingly bright despite the fact that the west has experienced a severe wet spell, of late.

McINTYRE—COLLINS

A pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Collins, 124 Chatham street, when Mary Collins was united in matrimony to George Archibald McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McIntyre of Orillia, Rev. D. C. Ramsay officiating.

The lovely bride who was given away by her father, wore a Tuscan hack of sand satin-faced crepe with touches of velvet and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of sunset roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret, nurse-in-training at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, who wore a pretty gown of tan georgette with hat to match and carried pink roses. Mr. Harold Collins supported the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony about twenty guests were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the house, and amid showers of confetti the happy bridal couple later left for a honeymoon to be spent in New York, travelling by way of Montreal. The bride donned a blue travelling costume, and coat with fox collar and cuffs and green velour hat. Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre will reside in Cornwall.

CROWD AT CAPITOL SAW JIMMIE GOODE

An actor who has appeared on theatregoers was with us again last night in the person of Jimmie Good, formerly of the Famous Dunbelly Revue; Mr. Good appeared last night at the Capitol, in a dashing breezy song and dance review—Charles Garners Cabaret Girls in a delightful costume, "One Night in Atlantic City". The Company packed the theatre to the roof, the latest popular dance hits were introduced, and well executed by the smart cast. The company has been booked at considerable expense and trouble, to appear Wednesday, Thursday and will present an entire change of programme.

The feature picture, entitled "The Bride of the Storm" is a notable one, with excellent music supplied by the Capitol Symphony Orchestra.

EXPORT OF POWER TO U. S. IS FEARED

Apprehension in Ottawa as to Course Mackenzie King May Pursue

Ottawa, September 21.—Apprehension is manifest in Ottawa regarding the course the new Mackenzie King Government will take on the question of the export of electric power to the United States.

It is recalled that when in office Mr. King and his colleagues were very noncommittal as to their attitude when ever the matter was raised in Parliament by members of the Conservative Opposition. It was only after a strenuous fight in the House of Commons by the Conservatives that the Government, the session before last, was compelled to accept a resolution in some measure restricting the issue of export permits.

The present concern arises out of influences attending the formation of the new ministry. Friends of the Liberal party who are not being included in the present Cabinet-making are interested in the proposed Carillon development on the Ottawa river. Application was made to the Government by the Carillon interests two sessions ago for permission to export power. Although after the storm raised by the Conservatives, no action was taken on it, it was not rejected by the then Government.

RELIEF ON WAY

Jacksonville was acting as relay city in the work of rushing aid down the state and numerous cities of North Florida were organizing to rush supplies into the region, through Jacksonville.

Many organizations and leading business men and municipalities of the country were preparing to aid Florida.

Messages of condolence from practically every section of the United States were received by Governor Martin and the news indicated that relief funds, amounting to thousands of dollars and much needed supplies would soon be poured into the state.

France and Germany have expressed their sympathy to President Coolidge and the United States.

Efforts were being made to rush tetanus anti-toxin into the region. An aeroplane and its cargo of 464,000 units of antitoxin was manoeuvred at Jacksonville yesterday, due to an accident in landing.

Miami is a shambles and Miami Beach presented a similar picture. In Royal Palm Park, one block from the water's edge, a large steamer on its side, and scattered about the tall royal palms were a number of smaller craft.

Scarcely a building in the city remained undamaged, while every pane of glass in the region is broken. The tower of The Miami Daily News building was blown off, and the Stationery Meyer Kiser Bank building badly damaged.

MOST PITIFUL SCENE —

Hollywood, located 17 miles north of Miami, was said to present the most pitiful scene in the hurricane area. Scantily clad children cried for their parents, while great numbers of homeless searched the wreckage for missing relatives.

Bread lines have been established in Fort Lauderdale, seven thousand persons waiting in line yesterday. Twenty of the 600 injured there were not expected to live. Pompano, a suburb, was reported totally destroyed.

Reports from the farm and citrus growing areas show a similar monumental estimate of the damage to crops. In Nade County the loss will be $2,000,000 while Fort Meyers district on the west coast reports the crop damage there will be $2,000,000.

DAMAGE IN BAHAMAS

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—The Tropical Radio Company has been out of touch with the Bahamas ever since Friday, it was said today. It is feared that the same storm which wrecked Florida cities might have caused damage in Bahamas.

NO DEAD IN MOBILE

New Orleans, La., Sept. 21.—Radio stations here have been unable to get in touch with Mobile or Pensacola during the past twelve hours. A train arrived here this morning from Mobile. It left there after the storm struck the city and the crew said no loss of life had been reported.

"Let there be harmony in things material—Harmony in things not essential—Charity in all."

A CANADIAN AMBASSADOR

Writing to the London Spectator, a Canadian suggests that the next British Ambassador at Washington be a Canadian of proved ability and established reputation, and he mentions as typical Canadians whose appointment would be suitable such men as Sir Robert Borden, Sir Robert Falconer, Sir Arthur Currie and Mr. E. W. Beatty.

It is not the first time that this suggestion has been made. Shortly after the close of the war, when Sir Robert Borden's ability was conspicuously revealed at the Versailles conference, his appointment as British ambassador at Washington was urged in the English press.

There is no good reason why the suggestion should not be accepted and acted on. Nine tenths of the business of the British embassy at the American capital relates to Canada, and could be handled by an able Canadian at least as well as by an able Briton. However, if a Canadian were to represent the whole empire at Washington there would be little reason for having a Canadian minister there, and it is assumed by some quarters that our newly acquired status demands special representation of the Dominion.

WILLING TO PAY

Arrangements for the prize-fight between Rogers Dempsey and Tunney and interesting material for a study in values. There are to be sixteen thousand "ringside" seats, and the minimum price of these seats is to be $27.50. What the maximum price will be depends upon the operation of the law of supply and demand. One might suppose that the spectators sitting outside the magic "ring-side" circle would not be able to command a very good view of the ring and the activities in progress within it; but make no mistake about that; those outer seats have no little value, and it is expected that there will be a tremendous demand for them. Indeed, Mr. Tex Rickard, the great promoter of the affair, takes credit to himself for having circumscribed the number of ringside seats so that the "poor man who can't afford to pay more than ten or fifteen dollars to see the fight will have a fair chance." So there will be plenty of room provided for the proletariat, the little fellows who can afford to pay no more than ten or fifteen dollars besides travelling expenses to witness the mighty battle in the generosity of his heart, Tex Rickard has safeguarded their interests. It does not appear that mere pariahs and paupers who would be unable to pay more than five or six dollars for a seat will have any place within the enclosure.

Well, we suppose it's all right. If some thousands of people are willing to pay as much as a fair housemaid's wage to see a pair of burly gladiators pummel each other for a few minutes, why should not Mr. Rickard exact that toll? Indeed, he has to charge rates, seeing that he is under contract to pay the two fighters half a million dollars besides defraying all other expenses. He cannot be expected to forego his own rake-off of a few hundred thousand dollars.

A lecture on astrophysics or the theory of relativity by an accepted authority on either of those subjects might be considered of more real value than Mr. Rickard's entertainment; but the market value of the lecture would be microscopic in comparison with that of the other. Intrinsic values are in a class so different from market values that, as a rule, they are in inverse ratio the one to the other. The things which are best worth having are priceless because they are free.

SECESSION TALK

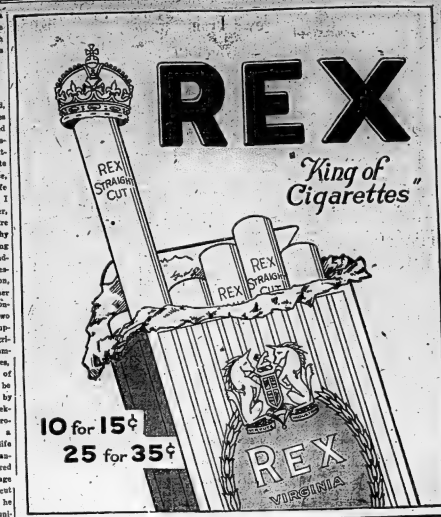

Rev. Canon Allan F. Shatford, rector of the Church of St. James the Apostle, Montreal, has returned to the subject of "the peril of secession in Nova Scotia." Canon Shatford explained that he is still a true payer and a voter in that province, and that thirty-five years of his life have been spent there. "Whilst I am now a temporary exile from her, my love for and interest in her are unabated," he says. "My sympathy is strong for those who are urging her manifest rights, but I am abundantly persuaded that her truest destiny is within the Canadian nation, and that secession would be for her the direct calamity." Yet he is convinced, after a residence of two months, that secession "has more support than is healthy for the integrity of Canada." The legitimate ambitions of Nova Scotia, he declares, are not to be gained by threats of secession, and would certainly not be achieved if threats were followed by action. What Nova Scotia is seeking is a better market for her products, easier railway rates and a larger use of her port. "For the life of me," remarks the canon, "I cannot see how these are to be secured by secession." What advantage would it be for the province to cut itself adrift from Confederation? he asks. It is hard enough for the united Dominion to secure satisfactory terms of trade with the American republic; what chance would an isolated section have? The outcome of secession, as Canon Shatford views it, would be the final absorption of the province by the United States. Since he is thoroughly convinced of the loyalty of Nova Scotians to the British connection, and of their strong imperial sentiment, he can explain the talk of separation only by the supposition that "they have not realized the matter through."

If it be objected that the West Indies and Newfoundland have not been so absorbed, but have been able to get along independently, Canon Shatford replies that the cases are not parallel. These islands, he says, are far removed from the United States, whereas the Maritimes are geographically close. The provinces by the sea are "bound up with Canada," and it is natural for them to seek alliance and co-operation. Moreover, how would secession improve the railway situation in the Maritimes? The splendid harbors of Halifax and St. John are not likely to be used more extensively if secession takes place. And what of the thousands of Nova Scotians who "rejoice to call themselves Canadians"? What of those who, though now living outside the province, love their native soil and hope one day to return there? It is not thinkable that Nova Scotia should lend support to irresponsible people who talk so glibly of Canadian independence, which means the break-up of the British Empire. "Will the Maritimes take the initial step by disrupting Canada?"

It is to be hoped that the good people of Nova Scotia—if there is any real foundation for the canon's fears —will take earnest heed to his warnings. It is certain that no thought exists in the minds of those who are fighting for the satisfaction of their rights of weakening the imperial ties, but no one can deny that the perils to which Canon Shatford refers are not entirely fanciful.

"THE VINEYARD"

There is nothing in Rudyard Kipling's poem "The Vineyard" at which intelligent and fair-minded Americans are likely to take offence. In it he applies to the case of the United States as a belligerent in the world war the parable of the workers in the vineyard who came to work at the eleventh hour and yet who quite had a twenty-five minute battle with this monster muskie before it was finally landed. Twice it leaped clear of the water and threw times it took more than 75 yards of line.

admirable restraint and moderation in his utes language in which the ungracious American post-war criticism and extravagant claims are implied rather than described. The poem is a dignified protest against the injustice of the post-war attitude of the United States toward its late associates in the war.

Kipling has put into poetical form what is in the minds of millions, and has done so better than any other living man, using the English language as a vehicle of expression, is capable of doing it. Not for the first time has he come forward as the spokesman of the nations of the British empire.

HARD TO HOLD

The stationmaster, hearing a crash on the platform, ran out of his room just in time to see the express disappearing around the bend there and the disheveled young man sprawling amid several overturned milk cans and the contents of his traveling bag.

"Was he trying to catch the train?" asked the stationmaster of a small boy who stood by admiring the scene.

"He did catch it," said the boy, "but it got away again."

Record "Muskie" From French River

This record breaking muskellunge of the season, 35 pounds in weight, was taken from the wicked the French River at the Canadian Pacific Bungalow Camps, by E. A. Twice it leaped clear of the water and threw times it took more than 75 yards of line.

ROAD TO WEST NOW IMPROVED DETOURS FEWER

Pavement Clear on as Far West as Brighton

DETOURS ARE "FAIR"

Dirt Road is Good in Most Places — Motoring a Pleasure

Every day in every way the Provincial Highway West of Belleville is improving, making the trip to Toronto at the present time more enjoyable than his best, the case at any time during the past two or three months.

Long stretches of excellent new pavement, saw week by week rapidly replacing those seemingly endless detours of a few weeks ago, gladdening the heart of the motorist and calling forth nothing but praise, where but a short time ago, he might be heard from almost nay driver, words that were decidedly uncomplimentary, as he was bumped and swayed over the loose and "lean" detours.

TRENTON TO BRIGHTON

Paving has been completed on the highway between Trenton and Brighton, and the road is now open, eliminating what was previously the longest detour of the trip to Toronto. At Brighton, paving operations are in progress, and a six mile detour to the south over a fair road brings the motorist back on the Highway and through to Colborne.

Between Colborne and Grafton, there are two short detours, of one, and two miles, respectively, along the old highway track. These are in fair shape and cause little delay. The fourth and last detour, about five miles in length is said is in good shape.

Thus the motorist encounters but fifteen miles of detour roads between Belleville and Toronto, and a total of only about twenty six miles of dirt road in making the entire trip; the remainder is pavement, permitting good time to be made on the Belleville-Toronto run.

VINDICATE DRAKE AFTER 338 YEARS

Fobisher's Charge That He Deserted to Get Loot Disproved

SAW GERMAN SHIPS

Met Trading Vessels, Which He Ordered to Join British Fleet

London, Sept. 20.—After nearly three and a half centuries, evidence has just turned up to refute the serious accusation brought against Sir Francis Drake, one of the most famous sea captains in all history.

IN FIFTEEN-EIGHTY-EIGHT

On the night of July 21, 1588, when the British fleet, under Lord Howard, of which Sir Francis was one of the principal leaders, was pursuing the defeated Spanish Armada, Lord Howard's flagship, the Ark, was following Sir Francis Drake's ship, the Revenge, steering through the darkness by means of a lantern displayed at the stern of the Revenge.

But at dawn Lord Howard found that the Revenge had disappeared and that the English flagship had been following a Spanish ship, thus exposing itself to being captured by the enemy.

Sir Francis Drake was promptly accused of having deserted his post. His explanation to Lord Howard was that in the dim light before dawn he had seen several ships sailing abreast, and that, it being his duty to ascertain what they were Spanish, he had put out his stern lantern in order not to mislead Lord Howard in the Ark, and turned out of his course to investigate.

GERMANS AND SPANISH

The ships he had sighted he then learned were a number of German trading vessels seeking safe convoy up the English Channel. Sir Francis, accordingly to his report, ordered them to join the English fleet, but while they were doing so he sighted a Spanish warship, which he summoned to surrender. It did so, and turned out to be Our Lady of the Rosary, the flagship of the Andalusian squadron of the Spanish Armada. Its capture was taken aboard the Revenge, as well as 50,000 ducats and other valuable loot.

Lord Howard accepted Sir Francis Drake's version of the affair, but other English captains expressed their doubts, and one of them, Frobisher, openly maintained that Drake had deserted his post merely to get the Spanish loot.

The result of this and other accusations, and Drake's version of what he did that night, has aroused the suspicions of historians.

VINDICATED BY GERMAN

But now, 338 years after the defeat of the Spanish Armada, complete vindication of Sir Francis Drake has suddenly turned up. An English investigator has discovered in the "Fugger News Letters," the second volume of which was recently published, a statement of the captain of a German vessel to the effect that on the night of July 21, 1588, he joined the Ark, the fleet by reminders of Sir Francis.

The German then describes how the gallant captain subsequently saw and captured a Spanish ship and took its captain aboard the Revenge.

"So it is proved," says the investigator, in a letter which will be published tomorrow in the London Times, "that Drake's account was absolutely true. He turned out of line, not to capture a prize, but to investigate the presence of unexplained ships. Captain Frobisher's accusations, therefore, and doubts of all subsequent historians are quite unfounded. Sir Francis Drake left his post in the performance of his clear duty."

The "Fugger News Letters" are a collection of communications recently unearthed at Vienna, and are written to a style resembling modern newspaper reporting. They were sent from many parts of Europe to the heads of the great firm of Fugger in Augsburg, Germany, in order that it might be posted on foreign happenings.

WOMAN SWAM 40 MILES

Charlotte Schoenpfli West Around Manhattan Island

New York, September 21.—Miss Charlotte Moore Zhoernell, Red Cross nurse, and the only girl lifeguard in New York city swam the forty miles around Manhattan Island today in 14 hours and 21 minutes. She entered the water at West 240th street and Spuyten Duyvil at 5.30 o'clock this morning and finished near 230th street, where Spuyten Duyvil enters the Hudson River, at 11.11 o'clock tonight.

Her time of 14 hours and 21 minutes betters by an hour and 36 minutes the record of Mrs. Gertrude Ederle who did the feat and recently swam the channel.

FONCK'S LAURELS ARE IN JEOPARDY

Comrades in France May Make Paris-N. Y. Flight Before Him

Paris, September 21.—While people here eagerly are awaiting news of the departure of the national war hero, Captain Rene Fonck, for the transocean flight, it seems possible some of his comrades may steal a march on him to make the Paris-New York hop first. Rumors are circulating in Paris that preparations are proceeding rapidly to make a plane ready for Major Pierre Weiss—who sent Fonck the message urging him to start at all costs—to make the attempt with Lieut. Challe. The two airmen have just returned to Paris after establishing a world's non-stop long distance record from Paris to Dondor Abbas, Persia. While the distance separating these cities is 6,200 kilometres, Weiss and Challe were obliged to make several side detours owing to weather conditions in the mountainous country.

A Wonderful Record of Growth

The romance of the early history of the Dominion Express Company, which started to serve the Canadian public in 1882 with one horse and a second-hand wagon, and the wonderful progress that has been made during the forty-four years of its existence, was recalled last week by the striking parades that were held simultaneously in the four biggest cities of Canada to celebrate the Company's chance of name to the "Canadian Pacific Express Co."

Whole fleets of motor express vehicles of all types, including the new trailer, bearing in shining letters their newly acquired name made their way through the streets of Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, on September first, when the change of name became effective. But the horse-drawn wagons and ancient servants of the Company were not forgotten; in Montreal the parade was led through the principal streets of the city by Samuel Nightingale, who is completing his 50th year in the service, driving "Babe," a remarkable little horse that has served the Company for 19 years and can still take the steeper hills on high. The wagon in which Mr. Nightingale was seated was put into the service in 1890 and is still on daily route.

The Vancouver procession was led by the oldest pensioner of the company in this district, Robert Mason, of North Vancouver, who joined on July 17, 1850, and included the old-fashioned horse and wagon in regular use in the company's business in Canada, driven by Mr. Everett, himself an old-timer of 26 years. Eddie Hand, leader of the parade at Toronto, was personally congratulated by W. S. Stout, President of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, on his 41 years of continuous active service.

Mr. Stout, who has been president for many years, was appointed superintendent of the Dominion Express Company when it was incorporated, almost a half century ago with seven agencies and a territory of 415 miles. To-day the service extends over the breadth of Canada and to all parts of the world with something over 4700 agencies.

In assuming a name that is more closely identified with the parent transportation system, it is thought that the Canadian Pacific Express Co. will reap increased business in both Canada and in other countries.

TRAVEL BY RAIL IS CALLED SAFE

For Each Billion Miles Travelled 1.7 Passengers Killed in 1925

Ottawa, September 21.—For each billion miles travelled by passengers on Canadian railways in 1925- 1.7 passengers were killed, and 135.5 passengers were injured. This statement, illustrative of the safety of travel on Canadian railways, is contained in the summary report on steam railways just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. During the same year, according to this official report, five passengers were killed in train accidents and 374 were injured, out of a total of 41,453,094 passengers carried a distance of 2,910,760,047 miles, or one passenger killed out of each 8 1-4 million carried and one passenger injured out of each 111,020 carried.

Employees killed and injured were 95 and 2,153 respectively, and other persons numbered 168 killed, and 563 injured. Of these, 107 fatalities were of trespassers stealing rides, walking on the tracks, etc., and 81 were persons killed at highway crossings.

Although the number of persons riding in motor vehicles that were killed at highway crossings was less than in 1924, being 66, as against 78, the number injured, 311, was the largest since 1922, when this segregation was first made in the statistics.

ELEPHANT CAPTURED AFTER LONG CHASE

Cranbrook, B.C., Sept. 21.—After weeks of wild escapades travelling over mountain trails and forest pathways, "Charley B." shick of the Irma Elephants who along with four companions escaped from his keepers, has been captured, sons the worst for his mad career, which put fear into the natives of the Cranbrook district, and hundreds of men, including Indian police and animal trainers, on his path. The bark of a little dog, which was watching the proceedings while the circus men are entraining, set the elephants on the wild stampede into the mountain ons country. Two were quickly captured, but the remaining three wandered afar, and, with the cunning of the big beasts, evaded their trainers and hunters.

After a hard and arduous search two of the animals were apprehended, but Charley B., Charley's partner was in a weakened condition and died.

CARDS, YANKEES NOT VERY SAFE BUT FOES LOST

Intersting Races in Both Big Leagues — Yanks Most Wobbly

Leaders in both big leagues maintained their lofty but uncertain positions on Monday because their chief rivals lost. This is how:

At Chicago, the reformation of the Yankees in their final game of the series in Cleveland was not lasting. Falling again upon evil ways, they lost both games of a double-header with the White Sox. The score of the first game was 7 to 3, while that of the second was 4 to 3. The damage done thereby to their lead in the flag-race was not as extensive as it might have been, since the Indians lost to the Red Sox. This reduced the lead to three games which still is a very comfortable lead with less than a week to go. About 20,000 fans saw the two games and gored the Yankees as they were toppled twice.

Small share of the blame for the two defeats may be charged to Herb Pennock, who started the first game, and Sam Jones, who started the second. Each was handicapped by lack of support and a few base hits, and neither finished. Pennock withdrew after the seventh inning of the first game and Jones being taken out under fire in the fourth inning of the second.

At New York, Boston boosted the chances of St. Louis in the National League pennant struggle by defeating Cincinnati in both games of a double-header at Boston, 4 to 3 and 3 to 2, while the Cardinals were idle. St. Louis thus gained a two-game advantage over the Reds.

Bob Smith was the hero of the second game. His single in the fifth drove in the first run after Brown had doubled off Luque. A home run drive by Welsh in the sixth went over Rourke's head. Moore's Texas leagues ingle, a bunt by Burrus and Bob Smith's triple gave Boston its third ad last run in the seventh.

The Braves fielded brilliantly behind their pitcher. The outstanding defensive play was Welsh's catch of Pipp's short drive to right in the sixth and his throw to Burrus at first, which doubled up Roush and ended the inning before Walker who had reached third, could cross the plate.

DEMPSEY HAS KAYOED FORTY-SEVEN OPPONENTS

Philadelphia, Sept. 21—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, has scored forty-seven knockouts in the battles fought since he started to punch his way to a worlds' title. He won thirteen contests on decision, lost two decisions, fought a quartet of draws, and was knocked out ones in his career—the victory Jim Flynn stopping him in a round early in its career.

The champion was born June 24, 1895, in Manassa, Col., and is of Irish-Scotch-American nationality He is 6 feet 1½ inches tall. His complete record follows:

The Human Eye Is No Slacker

It never "lays down on the job." It always does its best, even when the best is only fair or average or worse. An imperfect eye tries to perform a perfect duty. Of course this is impossible, but the attempt is always made. And the attempt means trouble for the owner of the eyes. If you would get the help for your eyes that Optometry has to offer, it would be better for both you and your eyes. Such help is here —positively unexcelled.

All roads lead to the exhibition grounds tomorrow afternoon where Jean Ramsey and her clever High School nine will endeavour to put a kink in the aspirations of Toronto Nationals.

Bellerille girls say they can and will defeat the Toronto champions.

The five mile race which was to have been held in connection with the Labor Day Celebration will be run in conjunction with the base ball game as lovers of both sports will be given the chance to see their favorites in action.

Walter Gerow will start the racing line-up as was used at Sunnyside on Saturday. The R. H. S. diamond stars have done well in their first season and are deserving of real live support.

The Toronto fans yelled themselves hoarse on Saturday and Belleville fans who, have stood solidly behind the teams all summer are urged to do the same. 3:30 p.m. is the starting time.

Kingston Ponies and Toronto Oslers will meet in the second game at Kingston Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon. A number of Belleville fans have signified their intentions of motoring down. Joe Daley and his tribe expect to tie up the series and it is probable that the third and deciding game will be played in Belleville. Let's hope so, as Oshawa got the 'ith' and last game between these two teams last season.

Reports pro and con have emanated from the camps of the pugilistic idols Tunney and Dempsey for the past fortnight.

Newspaper writers who have visited the camps have exploded their opinions. Following are a few remarks which fight followers may relish.

Gene Tunney is in perfect condition for his fight with Jack Dempsey, and reports that the challenger for the heavyweight championship is "over-trained" and like by to get stale are incorrect, many fight experts who have seen Tunney in training here and were asked for their opinion by the United Press said:

Such men as Tommy Gibbons, Benny Leonard, and a scope of others agreed that Tunney is in good form and should be able, to give the champion a good fight. What they did not agree on, however, was whether he has enough punch to knock Dempsey out. Most of them think not.

HAS HARD PUNCH

Tunney has shown speed, good timing and excellent judgment in his Friday workouts, they said. He has also demonstrated a forceful punch, although not necessarily one that can put a man who can take them as Dempsey can. In four furious rounds with Jimmy Delaney and Billy Widabeck Friday he showed good fighting and good condition.

After four rounds Friday afternoon Tunney had his final public workout Saturday. After which the camp was closed and he will rest until time to go to Philadelphia.

Two days from now, when Jack Dempsey enters the ring in Philadelphia to defend his heavyweight title against Gene Tunney, the fans are likely to see some quick action.

From the character of his train ing and comment he has let fall, it is believed Dempsey will go after Tunney hard at the bell and by his head in that round. An early rounds to land one of his crushing blows that few men can withstand.

HUSTLE THE END

It is certain that Dempsey will not risk his title by letting Tunney stay in the ring a second longer than he can help, with every second increasing the chance that the challenger might land one that would put the champion in shape for a beating.

Dempsey had tapered down in his training yesterday, and was taking things easily. He planned a light ring workout Sunday after noon, another one Monday, and he will then end his preparation. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday he will rest for the task in the ring Thursday night.

Dempsey is confident and has told his friends he is sure he can knock Tunney out, the quicker the better.

What a difference between champions! Jack Dempsey, with one fight over a stretch of more than three years, and not more than half an hour's steady work in that time, cannot be compared as a working champion with dozens of others that might be named. Take Bobby Jones, for example. The incomparable golfer, who had is now in the midst of a hard battle for his third golfing crown, and K appears as though he will be knocking at the door when the prizes are being handed out. Jones, working day in and day out to better his game, standing up under the steady sapping of energy that golf demands, playing strange courses and under all conditions with an unflagging spirit that is admirable, wins his way through to the finals. He doesn't receive anything but glory hardest kind of work, and he Gertrude Ederle and several others swam the English channel, a truly tremendous feat, to acquire the honors. Babe Ruth battles day in and day out to, earn his salary and keep his name before the fans. Others work hard to make a tiny part of the income that Dempsey's, and yet the heavyweight champion can risk forty-five minutes of his time, for half a million! Wotta life!

WILMOT DINGHY FIRST

Competing in the Hungerford Cup series on the Bay in front of the Country Club on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Eardley Wilmot brought his dinghy in first after leading practically throughout the course. Dr. A. D. Proctor came in second, Mr. George Graham third, and Mr. Bruce Graham third. The race lacked very great thrills as three was a very light wind blowing.

GREB ONLY BOXER WHO HAS BEATEN TUNNEY

Philadelphia, Sept. 21—Gene Tunney, who began his professional ring career in 1919, the year Jack Dempsey won the heavyweight champion ship, has registered 30 knockouts in 62 battles he has fought over a seven -year period.

Tunney has tasted defeat but once in his career, losing a fifteen-round decision to Harry Greb, at Madison Square Garden in 1922, and with it championship. Gene more than the American light heavyweight championship. He avenged however, by regaining the title from Greb the next year and beating him again with the championship at stake.

Tunney's complete record follows:

1919—Bob Pierce, K.O., two ten rounds; Ted Lesser, decision, ten rounds; Dan O'Dowd, no-decision, eight rounds.

1920—Whitey Allan, K.O., two rounds; Jim Monohan, K.O., one round; Al Roberts, K.O., three rounds; Ed. FIVE MILE RACE
2.30 WED. AFTERNOON

The five-mile race which was a part of the Labor Day Celebration will be run over the Fair Grounds two-mores commencing at 2.30 p.m. from the grand stand. The beautiful silver cup donated by W. E. Tunnicott M.P. and W. H. Ireland M.P., will go to the winner of first and second place respectively. It is expected that over ten entrants will go to the starting post and among them are some of the fastest track men in the city. Belleville was famous some years ago for its marathoners and this race is being put on in an attempt to revive the sport.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP, AND TUMMON CUP—TWEED MADE GOOD SHOWING SATURDAY P. M. ON POINT ANNE COURTS—LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP MEN'S SINGLES AND DOUBLES NEXT SATURDAY.

Although Campbellford won four out of five events on Saturday from Tweed, still the latter Club gave the team from the Power town the best run they have had for the honours since early in the spring. Tweed Club has shown more improvement than any other club in the circuit and made a much better showing in the semi finals and finals than was anticipated by any of the followers of the game in this section. The Campbellford players all played their usual steady game and seemed to be right there when the winning points were needed.

For Tweed Moffat and Minorgan won two sets out of three from Scrid ner and Dr. Longmore to win the first event of the match and right then it looked as if Tweed would bother the Campbellford boys on the silverware until next spring. Dr. Dales of Tweed lost his first set to Bell of Campbellford and then turned around and won the second easily enough to look like a winner. However, Bell seemed to settle down and when Dale developed a streak of wildness Bell made sure of a good lead and won the third and deciding set 6-3. This tied up the score and it stood one event each with Campbellford needing but to come into its own. What was to be the feature event of the afternoon proved to be a victory in straight sets for Weston of Campbellford over Ardenne of Tweed. However, it must be said that Ardenne did not have control through lack of practice and even under the circumstances made it real interesting for Weston although he was not able to take a set. The scores were, Weston 6-4, 6-2. Campbellford did not have any trouble in winning one out of the two mixed double events and thus the finals and the Tummon Cup for the rest of this year. The Tweed A. Mixed Doubles gave their opposition a real run for the first set and after two aces had been played, each winning one and the third set had gone eight all, they finally weakened and Campbellford won another event. The lady players of the two Clubs are very evenly matched and played real good tennis all the way through.

Next Saturday at Point Anne there will be an open tournament for League individual champions in men's singles and men's doubles. All the good players in the League have reported as possible entrants and this insures a real afternoon's tennis. Cups will be presented to the winners.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Robert McKim, one of screendom's perennial villains, has an important role in Roland West's production of "The Bat," but there are so many other potential plotters in the picture that he felt perfectly at home, he declares. In fact, everyone in the big mystery film, which is playing at the Belle Theatre, is under suspicion throughout the story.

Although chiefly noted for his villain portrayals on the screen, McKim is a far different type in real life. Before he entered pictures in 1914, he was on the stage for nine years, and prior to that time, a church soloist and clergyman. McKim laughs at the whim of fate that made a polished screen scoundrel out of a minister.

During his eleven years on the silver-sheet, McKim has worked with practically every star, except Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford and Charles Chaplin. His ambition is to play the villain with each of them before he retires. From 1914 to 1917, McKim played "Chesty" Rolo in William S. Hart's pictures. Among the big productions that McKim appeared in were Douglas Fairbanks' "The Mark of Zorro," the new version of "The Spoilers," and "North 38 None," which was made in Alaska, with McKim as the star.

He is a native of California and was born in Sa. Jacinto 39 years ago.

DUKE OF ORLEANS WAS UNFORGIVING

Died a Fanatical Patriot and Foe of Legal Spouse

NOT ACENT FOR HER

Always Mourned His Exile From His "Beloved France"

London, Sept. 21.—France's "man who would be King," Philip, Duke of Orleans, Pretender to the French throne, died a fanatical patriot and an unforgiving husband.

His will, published here today eight months after his death in exile at Forlenau, Sicily, contains this codicil:

"It is my wish that my mortal remains which cannot be reunmited to earth in France, my beloved France, shall, shall be buried at sea in sight of the coast of France."

The will also contains the following clause concerning his wife:

"I direct that the Archduchess Maria Dourgiches shall get nothing whatever from my estate; I deprive her of all right whatsoever, even of her legal usufruct."

The Duke's will, which was dated Nov. 30, 1922, and the first codicil were made in London. Four months later codicils were inserted in Brussels. At the time of his death he was domiciled in Italy.

The London banking firm of Coutts and Co. are executors and trustees for his sister, ex-Queen Maria Amelia of Portugal.

DUKE BORN IN ENGLAND

The man whose will gives proof of such devoted love of his country and unyielding hostility to his wife was the fourteenth in the history of France to bear the proud title of Duke of Orleans.

He was born at Twickenham, just outside of London, fifty-seven years ago.

A codicil in his will, later superseded by the one already noted, concerning his burial, states:

"I wish to be buried at Dreux (where the French Chapel Royal is) and I trust that the French Government will make no objection to that wish in remembrance of what my family did for France."

But the French Republican Government refused his wish.

PLEADED TO DIE IN FRANCE

Just before his death Philip of Orleans made one last desperate attempt to see France. He wrote a letter to the French Government, which was printed all over the world, pleading in manly, sincere and poignant words to be allowed to die on French soil. Again the French Government refused.

A few months later the heir to the throne of France was lying dead in Sicily, hundreds of miles from the land where his ancestors ruled, his lifeless fingers clutching a little lump of French soil which he had caused to be brought to him.

His wife, the Austrian Archduchess Maria Dorothea, cousin of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary, married him in 1896. They soon quarrelled and the Duchess left him, going to live at the castle of Algesh in Hungary. They had no children.

AT GRIFFIN'S

One of the snappiest and smartest of fashion shows comes to the screen in First National's latest photoplay, "Subway Sadie," booked at Griffin's tonight and Wednesday with Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall and Charles Murray in the featured roles.

Something unusual in the line of settings for this show was designed by Art Director Milton Menasco of First National's Eastern units following suggestions by Director Alfred A. Santell and Producer Al Rockett.

The show is given to what is called "the harbor." This is a set designed and constructed exactly like the interior of a hat box. It was done in black and silver, with a circular stair, way running up through the center, over which the models parade.

Gilbert Clarke of Griffin's fashion, able New York shops, designed the gowns for the show. Then to complete the effect Milgrim's own models were used in the scene. For smartness and sheer beauty this episode is far ahead of anything of its kind seen on the screen, according to Mr. Clarke, the designer. It should have tremendous appeal to women, for all the styles shown are decidedly "advance."

Here and There

More than 500,000 people will have visited the St. Lawrence Seaway this year when the season ends. It is already an increase over last year when 304,228 people visited this famous shrine. During the week beginning August 22nd, 42 - 30 pilgrims visited Ste. Annes.

Halifax—Considerable quantities of sweetbreads are being shipped from Nova Scotia, to the Boston market at the present time. This commodity has found a good market in Boston and shipments to that city average around ten to fifteen thousand pounds a day during the shipping season.

September is becoming a popular month for marriages judging by the number of honeymoon couples leaving from Windsor Street Station, Montreal, recently. On Labor Day no less than 50 couples boarded the Canadian Pacific trains at this depot. The record established for one day, however, was some years ago in June when 70 couples left Windsor Station one morning.

The new North Channel below Quebec will be opened to navigation on June 1 next and continue during the high water season thereafter, on a recent announcement of the Marine Department. The new channel extends in a straight line from St. Jean, Isle of Orleans, to near the north shore. The work has been underway for the past two years. The minimum depth of water at high tide will be 35 feet. When all the work is completed there will be the same minimum at low tide.

"The Little Red Schoolhouse" will be brought on rails to the children living in the remote areas along the Canadian Pacific in Northern Ontario between Sudbury and Chapleau. Fully equipped with desks and blackboards, accommodations the railway cars will visit about six points a month. There are about 400 pupils in that unusually the entire areas will be served by travelling schools.

Immigration to Canada in the first six months of 1926 amounted to 70,-2835, compared with 49,241 in the same period a year ago, an increase of 22 per cent., according to a statement issued by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. In the period under review British immigrants increased from 22,402 to 27,849; immigration from the United States increased from 8,035 to 10,537 and from other countries increased from 14,753 to 32,367. Immigration for the month of June amounted to 12,124, an increase of 50% over June a year ago.

Saint John. —Representatives of Boards of Trade from all over the Dominion will gather here about the middle of September and the middle of October for the first annual meeting of the Canadian Board of Trade. The object is to be discussed to committee work on the larger questions of importance to the country at this time, including cost of government, immigration, taxation problems, preservation of the identity of Canadian rails, industrial research, trade and commerce, domestic and export, and particular attention is to be given to some system of facilitating inter-provincial trade.

Eight Pacific type locomotives, known as the G-3-d class and similar in general design to the well known 2,300 series Pacific class locomotive of the Canadian Pacific Railway, have been built through the Company. They are part of an order of 24 of these locomotives. By a special application of superheaters, greater power is developed. Delivery has also been commenced on an order of 10 Mikado type locomotives of the 5,300 type which have the same improvements. Both class of engine are part of the general equipment for which a provision of $14,784,640 was made in the last annual report of the Company.

PLUCKY ATTEMPT FAILS

Miss MacLaren Had Almost Won After 25 Hours

Dover, Eng., Sept. 21.—Miss Mona MacLaren abandoned her Channel attempt this afternoon.

Miss MacLaren was taken from Cavaux Battalion off the Dover pier at 7.55, o'clock this evening, after swimming for 25 hours and 20 minutes, the longest time that any woman has ever stayed in the Channel.

Horace Carey, who started with Miss MacLaren from Cape Gris-Nez, France, last night quit after five hours swimming as he was unable to keep up the pace set by the woman swimmer.

PARTING GIFT TO LADY BYNG

Diamond and Onyx Wrist Watch is Tribute of Affection

LETTER OF THANKS

Message From Her Excellency Expresses Heartfelt Appreciation

Ottawa, September 21.—A farewell gift has been presented by the women of Canada to Her Excellency, the Lady Byng of Vimy. The gift is a diamond and onyx watch bracelet mounted on platinum in a silver gilt box engraved with maple leaves in enamel. Some time ago an appeal was made to the women of Canada to unite in expressing to Lady Byng on the occasion of the departure of Their Excellencies from Canada, the esteem and affection which the women of this country all feel towards her. The response to the appeal was spontaneous, and came from all parts of the Dominion. The wholehearted way in which from coast to coast their contributions made the task of the committee easer and the beautiful gift possible.

The central committee which sent out the appeal was composed of Madame Ernest Lapointe, Mrs. Meighen, Mrs. Rodolphe Lemieux, and the wives of the Privy Councillors. Mrs. J. H. King was the treasurer and Miss Beatrice Belcourt the secretary. In addition to the central committee, provincial committees were also organized who rendered valuable assistance. Miss Belcourt on receiving the parcel, read the following letter from Her Excellency:

"Government House,
Ottawa, Sept. 19, 1926.

"My dear Miss Belcourt:

"I wish I could find words to express my feelings as deeply myself the recipient of the lovely bracelet and case which you and the other ladies of the committee have presented to me as a parting gift from the women of Canada. No material present was needed to augment my affection for the people of the Dominion, but the gift stands as a wonderful memorial that this affection has been reciprocated and it will be for me an imperishable token and a culminating record of the good-will and kindness which I have received from all my ear during the last five years. It will always remain the cherished possession symbolizing our mutual affection.

"Please convey to all the kind donors my most heartfelt thanks for their kindness and, believe me, very sincerely and gratefully yours,

"Evelyn Byng of Vimy."

CERTAIN PERSONS PRONE TO MISHAP

Human Factor in Accidents Subject of Study by Scientists

(By Associated Press)

London—(By mail).—Recent studies of accidents have led to the view that there are certain persons who are more prone to disaster than others. These people suffer a larger number of casualties than their neighbours and are attended, throughout life, by mishaps of various kinds.

The latest contribution to this study is a report of the Industrial Fatigues Research Board on "The Human Factor in the Causation of Accidents." It is written by E. M. Newbold, B.A., and is of a highly technical character. The main conclusion however, is simple enough: that the observed distribution of accidents among the population must stand in such every case, very different from what would be expected either on the theory of chance incidence or on the theory that liability is affected by the fact that a previous accident has been incurred.

The chances of accident are not the same for each person. There are, as has been said, persons to whom "accidents will happen," but there are also persons to whom, in all probability, accidents will not happen. Thus the elimination of comparatively few specially susceptible workers from "risky occupations" would go far to reduce the number of industrial accidents.

A table is given in the report by the use of which a rough estimate can easily be made from the accident records of a department, "whether the cause of accidents are mainly such as affect all its workers alike or whether special risk is attached to any individuals." It is interesting to note that youth is one of the factors making for special liability to accidents, and so also is ill-health. As the report states: "The people who have the most accidents are, on the whole, those who may most visits to the ambulance room for minor sicknesses."

The Old Love Or New?

As she lies there she hears his steps coming to leave the room, and she stretches out her hands imploringly to detain him; but in vain. She hears the door open and shut softly, and she knows that Roy is gone, and she is alone with her sorrow and despair.

CHAPTER XVIII.

CONSTANCE FITZROY'S CONFESSION.

With hurried and uncertain steps Roy Fitzroy leaves Annette's presence and rushes downstairs, locking himself into his room, angry and wretched.

How bitterly he regrets even already the harshness he has displayed; how his heart yearns over the woman who has lain at is feet in her agony of supplication, which he has disregarded; how he struggles against the deep, passionate love with which his heart beats and his pulses throb. Ant yet he cannot conquer it, he loves her with as much passion as he did in the days when they spent together at the Grange long ago, and though he despises himself for that love, he cannot stop it, it is stronger than himself.

Words are weak to describe that intense agony of suffering through which Roy passes in that solitary hour, and Constance, coming to his door with a telegram, is alarmed at the white face which appears when he open-lit.

"It is a telegram," she says, gently. "All the others are out, Roy."

"I have seen her," he answers, quietly, as he breaks open the telegram and utters an exclamation of pain.

"Uncle Godfrey is very ill," he exclaims. "I must start at once. Find out the trains to Paris for me, Connie, while I throw some things into my valise. Be quick, dear. Now, don't look so sad as her eyes fill with tears, "I cannot bear that, Connie."

He turns from her hastily, and, refusing her tears, Constance goes off to obtain the information he requires, and orders some lunch, which Roy cannot force himself to eat, and in a quarter of an hour he is dashing through the stone-paved streets on his way to the station and Constance, returning to the sitting-room, throws herself on the couch, and bursts into a passion of tears.

"Oh! I am so miserable," she sobs out, with her shining dark head buried in the sofa cushion, when the paroxysm of tears has partially subsided—"I am so miserable!"

"What makes you miserable, Constance,' s'ays a very tender voice; he's de her; and, starting up, Constance sees that she is no longer alone—that Captain Brisley, with a very sympathetic expression in his pleasant dark eyes, is watching her and coily.

Constance lifts herself from the cushions with a vivid blush; but she is too, much in earnest to strive to hide the tear-stained face and blatered eyes.

"Captain Brisley!" she says, confusedly. "When did you return?"

Ten minutes ago," he answers, quietly, "I have been waiting until you were able to speak to me. Now tell me what is the matter? Are you ill?"

"No," she replies, struggling for calmness, for Captain Brisley's tender voice and gentle manner has touched the soft chord again. "Roy had bad news from England," she goes on, attempting an explanation, "Uncle Godfrey is very ill, and he has started off at once."

"I am very sorry to hear it," says the young man, in a tone of sincere sympathy. "Telegrams say so little that we are always inclined to magnify the evil tid'ngs," adds Dick.

BOYTERRE 6625

Wool Jersey has always been smart in Paris where Chanel introduced it for her sports frocks. This season it promises to enjoy a greater vogue than ever, perhaps because it takes so perfectly the new dusty shades of violet, rose, powder blue, canary yellow, willow and almond green, beige and bois de rose. In its lighter weights it is used for children's frocks with soft folums in the sleeve and below the saddle shoulder. The frock illustrated was made in light violet-colored jersey with a deeper, almost purple violet in the shaped through collar and cuffs.

"Let us hope Roy will find Mr. Bennett better."

"I hope so, indeed," Constance answers, glancing up through her tears at the kindly face of the man whom she loves, but who does not love her.

"But that is not the cause of your trouble, Constance," he says, in a moment. "Tell me what it is."

"I do not know," stammers the girl, evasively. "Roy looked so wretchedly ill, and everything seems to be going wrong."

"Everything? That is comprehensive," says Dick, quietly, as he settles himself composedly in an arm chair. "Now tell me what 'everything' is?"

"Why should I trouble you?" asks Miss Fitzroy, in a stifled, husky vo'ce.

"Why should you not?" he rejoins, smiling. "Let me help you if I can. There is a very good reason, why you should tell me, if you only knew it, Constance,"

"Because he is going to be my brother-in-law," th nks the poor girl; and at the thought, the tears break forth afresh, and, again the prickly, dark head buries itself in the cushions.

"Nay," and Captain Brisley rises, and takes possession of a seat on the sofa beside her, and softly takes one of the little hands in his. "But I must know what is distressing you so terribly, Constance."

"Nothing!" sobs Constance.

"Nothing! Look into my face, andi repeat such an untruth if you dare," he says, softly. "Let me see your face, Connie."

Miss Fitzroy makes but a faint resistance, as he gently forces her to face him, and looks into the tearful eyes.

"Well," he says, gently, "are you going to trust me, Connie?"

"There is nothing which you would care to hear," she says, huskily."

"Nothing that touches you, however slightly, is indifferent to me, Constance; surely you know that?"

A faint rose-flush rises in Constance Fitzroy's pale face, and her heart begins to throb rapidly, suffocatingly.

"Surely you know that?" he goes on, very tenderly. "Nothing in the world is so dear to me as your happiness, Constance; and whether you send me from you or not, it must ever be so."

"You are not mocking me?" the girl says, softly and breathlessly. "You are not speaking out of pity for my pain?"

"I am speaking but the truth," he says, gravely. "I love you, Constance."

And then the pretty, head sinks again; but the time it is drawn to a new resting place, and the wearied ar of Constance's Love are shed on Richard Brisley's shoulder.

He'd'er her tenderly within his arms, Dick waits till the sobs subside

Buddy Doyle Might Well Be Hero of "Jazz Singer"

New York City.—Buddy Doyle, jazz singer, well-known along Broadway, has discovered his prototype in the popular play and book, "The Jazz Singer."

If Samson Raphaelson had been trying to picture Doyle's own life, he could scarcely have done it more vividly.

The jazz singer in the play was the son of a cantor. The real jazz singer is also a cantor's son. His father, Joseph Taubenhaus, sings for a congregation on Riverside Drive.

Doyle was educated to follow in his father's footsteps. His whole inheritance was musical. His mother was a famous singer of Moscow. She was educated by Baron Rothschild. Her accompanist was Joseph Lebvina, the famous pianist.

"From the moment I was able to talk, I was taught to sing," says Doyle. "My parents believed that I would inherit the talent of both. They hung over me as I practiced, correcting and explaining, hoping that I would become really great.

"I suppose nobody will ever know the heartbreak it caused them when I departed from tradition and followed the stage as a career.

"I could not have done differently and I'm made no end, too. My parents could not see what I saw clearly—that each generation must take its own path through life.

"There is a popular song I often sing called 'Too Many Parties and Too Many Pals,' which in its queer way seems to me to express the struggle of the new generation. I believe we youngsters will come out all right in the end."

then he says, tenderly:

"And now, my poor darling, tell me all about it?"

"Ah! no, wait one moment," she says, faintly; "let me be happy for a moment. Oh! Dick, when I tell you, you will put me out of your arms; you will not love me any longer—you will hate me!"

"Then I shall no longer be myself," he answers, smiling. "Be'ng myself, I must always love you—"

"Not when you know me for what I am," she moans.

"What dreadful thing have you been guilty of, my Constance?" Dick asks, wonderingly. "You have not made away with Roy during our absence, have you?" he adds, laughingly; then, as she shrinks from h'm with a shudder, "Constance, you are startling me; tell me what it is, dear!"

She bends her face on his shoulder again, and in a cy voice she makes confession.

D'ck's face grows very grave as he li-tens; but he does not put her out of his arms, or she has prophesied; he holds her still tenderly as ever.

"Do I understand you rightly, Connie?" he says, when the sobbing little avowal is over. "Do you mean that Annette de Vitry was never unfaithful to Roy? that she loved him? and yielded to your entreaties to give him up, and went awey secretly as the best means of effecting your purpose?"

"Yes," whispers Constance.

"And do you mean that the man with whom Annette went was her uncle?"

"Yes," with a l'tle sob.

"And you knew all this, and when you saw how bitterly Roy suffered you did not tell him?" Oh! Connie, it was very wrong."

Constance's sole answer is a burst of tears, and a feeble attempt at disengaging herself from h's embrace; but Dick holds her fast.

"It was very wrong, dear," he says quietly; "your reticence,"

"My falsehood," interrupts Constance, vehemently.

"Your reticence," says Dick, hiding a l'tle smile. " has given your brother great sufferi-g; but all that is over now; I do not even know whether it would be wise to re-open the old wound by telling him the truth."

"Saw her—Annette!"

"Yes, saw Annette; and he came down looking so haggard and wretched I think there was a terrible scene," she goes on, sadly. "You know the setting-room she occupies is just over this, and just after Roy had been down a few minutes I heard a sound as if some one had fallen; I knew Roy was alone, and I ran upstairs."

Constance pauses a moment, and Captain Brisley, watching her face, sees how sad and grave it becomes as she continues hers tory.

"I opened the door softly, and saw Annette stretched on the floor in a dead fa'nt; I was almost afraid to wait until consciousness returned to her, as I thought it might hurt Roy to see me; but I did what I could for her, and in a few moments she was able to rise with my assistance; then, in answer to something I said, she said, brok enly:

"You see I have not got over my folly, while he only despises me!"

"Poor child! But, Connie, I don't even know how you succeeded in inducing her to leave the Grange if she loved Roy so passionately as your story implies."

RELIEF SHIPS REACH MIAMI; LIBERAL CABINET IS CHOSEN

BOATS WELCOME IN STORM AREA BROUGHT FOOD

Hospitals and Red Cross Agencies Now Have Needed Supplies

TOTAL IS GROWING

Estimates Now Nearly Exact Truth On Hurricane Damage

Miami, Sept. 22.—Five relief ships came into Miami today and work was at once begun to unload their cargoes of food and medical supplies and distribute them among various relief agencies and hospitals.

Miami, Sept. 22.—As the search for additional victims, and the care for the injured and homeless went on today along Florida's storm-devastated lower east coast latest reports from all sections of the hurricane are showed a death toll of more than 400, a missing list of 1000, more than 5,000 injured and 50,000 homeless. Varying estimates from the 60 mile coastal area in the path of the gale placed property damage between $20,000,000 and $100,000,000. Rescue and relief workers believe a complete search of the mass of tangled wreckage in a score or more stricken towns and cities will swell the death total to more than 700. The list at Miami alone was expected to reach 2500 this morning as additional bodies were given up by the waters of Biscayne Bay. 3000 INJURED

More than 3,000 injured have been given medical attention by hospitals and red cross workers. Twenty-two persons were reported dead at Miami Beach. The missing list of 79 at Hollywood was expected to increase forty-known dead as the back country where many are believed to have fled at the approach of the storm is thoroughly searched for possible casualties. The death list at Fort Lauderdale remains at eleven and the sixty-eighth body has been located at Moorehaven.

The latest report from Pensacola on the west coast, where the hurricane struck with waning force as it passed inland, said house fires were but with property damage estimated at $2,000,000. Many boats are reported beached and the town was cut off from communication owing to severed telphone and telegraph lines.

70 ARRESTED

Seventy-four persons were arrested in Miami for looting stores and other places of business deserted by the storm. Virtually the whole of the devastated area presents a scene of destruction beyond telling. Parts of automobiles, limbs and trunks of huge trees, roofs, telephone poles, glass and wreckage were strewn through the streets by the high winds, while the salt waters of the Gulf stream cast scores of yachts, schooners and steamers and pleasure craft high on the beaches.

THREE CHILDREN LOST

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—Residents of North west Florida and southern portions of Alabama and Mississippi today renewed their efforts to improve communication facilities and make other repairs rendered by the tropical West Indian hurricane which reared inland Monday from the Gulf of Mexico.

Three and several million dollars worth of damage were attributed to the storm in that, territory after it had spent its force many miles from the coast.

Pensacola and Mobile suffered greater losses to property than other cities in the Gulf section. Crops were laid low over a wide area. Three children were drowned in Baldwin county, Alabama.

BIG PROPERTY LOSS

More than $24,000,000 will be required to replace property destroyed in Pensacola by winds which at times attained velocity of 120 miles an hour. Several bridges were washed away, roofs were lifted from buildings and some of the ships anchored in the harbor were sunk. The Naval air station situated near Pensacola by winds which at times attained were literally demolished.

Damage in Mobile was expected to exceed $1,000,000. Many homes and some business buildings there were unroofed and several houses demolished.—

"MISS TORONTO"

Shall Appear in Style This Evening

The secret is out—Miss Toronto is to appear at the Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show tonight in the role of a mannequin and will take her place beside the slight pretty Belleville girls who are acting all week.

Miss Toronto arrived on the 4.23 train today and was greeted at the station by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Wotten, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mahil, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Collins and Dr. and Mrs. Crook on behalf of the Kiwanis Club, and this afternoon Worship Mayor Graham officially welcomed her on behalf of the city.

"Miss Toronto," or Miss Jean Tolmie Ford, was escorted to the Quinte Hotel where she will be registered for her Belleville visit.

Miss Toronto will not only be one of the mannequins tonight but also will mingle in the crowd, sell tickets for the Hope Chest, play at the games and be a visitor at the dance hall during the evening.

In the Style Show she will wear garments and hats from Hinchey and furs by Delaney's. She will also be Miss 1926 in the tableau with Miss 1800.

It looks like a banner night for the Kiwanis Karnival.

INDUCT PASTOR AT AMHERST IS.

Rev. J. V. Laughland Recently From Old Scotia, in Charge

Rev. J. Vint Laughland, recently from Scotland, was inducted into the charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Amherst Island on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. R. Simpson, of Stirling, newly appointed moderator of the Kingston Presbytery presided and inducted the new minister. Rev. R. G. Stewart, of St. Andrew's Belleville, conducted the service and preached. Rev. Mr. Craig, of Demorestville, clerk of Presbytery narrated the steps leading up to the call and addressed the congregation. Rev. Mr. Simpson addressed the people, and also indulged in reminiscences saying that in the past fifty years he had been present at all inductions at St. Andrew's Amherst Island except one.

There was a large congregation present.

It will be remembered that Amherst Is. Church was one of those which came before the Church Commission when it sat here.

SATIN KNEE BREECHES

Gaiters Worn With Daytime Version in Tweed

London September 22.—Gaiters and knee breeches are the somewhat daring fashions into which the English Rosalind has been led this fall. She wears a short flaltered skirt of tweed, with a fold-over front, and, under it, breeches to match fastened below the knees with a buckle. It is deemed a practical walking and rough weather costume. Warm stockings thick shoes and a Norfolk coat worn over a tailored silk blouse complete the outfit. A soft felt hat may be worn.

In another mood the knee breeches are of silk or satin with diamond buckles, and are worn under a very short, satin dress to match. High, fur-trimmed gaiters in cloth to match, the coat in another variation.

CANADA'S FUTURE SURE SAYS BYNG

Governor-General in Farewell Message Urges Nation-wide Viewpoint

Toronto, September 22.—Hearfelt tokens of esteem for Lord and Lady Byng, and sincere regrets because their term in Canada has come to a close, featured a gathering at the King Edward Hotel last night, when Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, and the members of his Cabinet gave a farewell dinner to Their Excellencies, and when a large number of the prominent citizens of Toronto and the Province were present to pay their respects.

As a farewell message to Canada, Lord Byng asked the people of Canada "when they are by themselves, to think of the country as a whole," and he asked them to consider, as well, if there were not tremendous mental and moral possibilities in the Dominion, as well as great ideals which are to be realized in the future. Lord Byng had a great feeling of optimism for the future of Canada, having travelled the Dominion from end to end, and having learned to know the people of Canada, both at home and on the battlefields, he could not help but feel that the possibilities of the Dominion were all but unmeasured.

THANKS FOR KINDNESSES

"I cannot help but express more fully than I have yet had the opportunity of doing, the very deep sense of the extraordinary kindness that my wife and I have received at your hands," he continued.

"The prolonged creation has seldom been extended. I believe, to the head of any executive, and if a proof were wanting of your loyalty to your sovereign it would be found in the succession of graceful courtesies to one whose only claim to your consideration is the fact of his being his representative. For gentlemen, God forbid, that we should mistake for a moment the significance of these glorious demonstrations. Unless intended to demonstrate our devotion to the throne and person of our King, your reverence for the constitution under which you live, they would be empty, mean, hapless and vain.

STIRLING MAN IS BEATEN UP AND THUG FLEES

Had Driven Assailant to Belleville When Attack Was Made

POLICE START HUNT Two Girls May Know Who He is — Will Be Questioned

E. G. Bailey, garage proprietor of Stirling, was badly beaten up by an unknown man near the new exhibition grounds in West Belleville last night about 11.15.

Bailey received severe scalp wounds which were inflicted by a heavy iron instrument, the assailant having struck the victim three times over the head.

James Scott, caretaker of the Park, phoned the police and a few minutes after the occurrence, Detective-Sergeant Truslock and Constable Morris were on the scene, but the belligerent had effected a get-away and has not yet been arrested.

Early in the evening Vinol Emerson, an employee of the Hydro Electric Commission, reported the theft of his Ford coupe, license number, 272-332, to the authorities. The thief evidently chose the stirling road to get out of the city. On reaching the village he found that the gears in the car had been stripped, and it was taken to the Bailey garage for repairs. At this time there were two girls in company with the young man but they left him there.

Finding the repairs could not then be made, [illegible] Mr. Bailey to bring him to Belle[illegible]. On the way to the city he feigned sleepiness while riding in the front seat of the automobile. Mr. Bailey paid no particular attention. On reaching Belleville he directed the driver to take him to the west end, and on reaching a spot near the Fair Grounds the car was stopped to allow him to get out. Then without a word he snatched the iron instrument and belabored Bailey several times on the head and then ran down the road. Mr. Bailey made an effort to follow him but was too weak to do so, but managed to reach Mr. Scott's home where the message was phoned to the police.

Mr. Bailey was taken to Dr. McCreary's office where several stitches were required to close the wounds. Previous to this time Detectives Truslock, in company with Messrs. Chas. Campbell and Chas. Hall, had secured the surrounding country in an effort to secure a trace of the stolen car, but with no results.

BALDWIN'S NEW PLAN NOT ALL SATISFACTORY

London, Sept. 22.—The entire executive committee of the British miners Federation met Premier Stanley Baldwin and the government premier this night and declared that Mr. Baldwin's latest plan to end the coal strike was a complete change of front from the earlier premise on which he met by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer. Although condemning the premier's proposal that the miners yield on the point of National bargaining with the mine owners, the strikers representatives did not definitely reject the compromise, but left a loophole open to allow for further negotiations with the Government.

MISS MIKEL'S DANCE CLASS TONIGHT AT THE KARNIVAL

The patrons of the Kiwanis Karnival tonight are to be treated to a display of the latest interpretations of classical and interpretative and national dancing by the pupils of Miss Audrey Mikel. This programme will commence immediately at the close of the Style Show and those in reserved seats are being asked to remain until this exposition of the latest in classical dancing has been staged. This item on the programme should be interesting and entertaining to all.

Last night's great attendance at the Carnival will no doubt be eclipsed tonight and those who attend will have a real treat in store for them with something doing every minute.

DELANEY FURS, M'CRODAN HATS CAUSE FLURRY

Last Night's Fashion Show Brought Cries of Admiration From Crowd

The priceless furs, lovely wrappy coats of seal, rat and Persian lamb, gorgeous chokers of exquisite fox and all furs worn by the seven lovely models at the Kiwanis Karnival last evening were from the exclusive stock of Mr. J. T. Delaney, Campbell street. As the young ladies walked on the stage the audience gasped at the wonderful lines featuring all the 1927 dictates, and when the models revealed the lovely linings there was more cause for the suppressed sighs of admiration.

The hats which of course, touched the hearts of the feminine audience even more than the men who were consumed with admiration, are from Miss McCrodan's stock and were a revelation of what 1927 has to offer in lovely Belleville. The lines and material sustained Miss McCrodan's reputation of the best of everything combined with the height of fashion.

NOTES OF THE KARNIVAL

Variety is the keynote in the attractive displays greeting the eye of Karnival patrons. Even the kiddies can find things to delight in, for a glance over the exhibit of Stephen Lierse reveals a great array of novelty toys in the multitude of variety to delight the heart of the youngster. Then the boys and girls a little older will find in years gone by one in the same display a line of sporting goods bound to satisfy the most discerning.

FALL FOOTWEAR, TOO

Fall Footwear display of Woodley and Murdoff has created considerable interest at the Karnival. Stroller Tan and Aero Tan seem to be the predominating colors in Women's Footwear for this Fall, and reptile trimmings are prominent. 1927-ier reptile shoes, especially lizard, will be popular, with patent leathers represented and some black kidd. Smart oxfords in tan shades, also trimmed with lizard are much in favour for Fall. An interesting feature of this firm's exhibit is a showing of two pairs of shoes, exact copies of the famous T. Miller shoes. One of those is an all lizard shoe with desert sand trimming and the other a black patent with lizard lizard trim

THE MODERN EXHIBIT

That the Modern Dry Cleaners and Dyers is in a position to satisfactorily clean anything from dresses to lamp shades is demonstrated in the display of the work of this up-to-date firm. Dresses, suits, coats o fall kinds, and expensive lamp shades may be seen which have been treated by the Modern, and these possess all the original freshness of the new garments. Belleville citizens are fortunate in having really Modern cleaning and pressing establishment such as this in the city.

QUINTENA REBEKAMS OUT IN LARGE NUMBERS

Members of Quintena Rebakah Lodge No. 133 of this city were last evening treated to a delightful banquet in the lodge meeting. At the conclusion of the business meeting a social time was indulged in which proved to be an enjoyable affair. Progressive euchre was the programme and prizes were awarded to the successful competitors. Mr. E. C. Rutherford was the ladies first prize and Mrs. W. F. Ashley the consolation prize. Mr. W. Rolls secured the booby prize for euchre and Mrs. W. F. Ashley the consolation prize. Before adjournment took place refreshments were served.

MORE TROUBLE FOR BIG FIGHT

Philadelphia, Penn., Sept. 22.—Another injunction suit was filed in the common pleas court today to stop the Dempsey-Tunney bout here tomorrow night. This time the Seventh Continental Exhibition Company and the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, are defendants in the action brought by R. G. Clements, of the Chicago Coliseum Club.

LOCAL PEOPLE SUFFER POISON ATTACK; BETTER

Three Ladies Taken Suddenly Ill After Eating Salmon

Mrs. George Thomas, of Emily St., was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from a serious case of ptomaine poisoning. Her condition is improved considerably today and she is now reported as being out of the danger zone.

Mrs. Thomas' two sisters, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dellow also took sick but medical attention soon restored them and it was not found necessary to transfer them to the hospital.

It is supposed that the attack was brought about from eating poisonous salmon although it has not yet been thoroughly established. All of the party partook of some canned salmon a few hours previous and they think this was the cause.

Mrs. Thomas' temperature registered 104 yesterday and she was seized with sickness and vomiting but her condition is such that it is expected that she will be able to leave the institution in the course of a day or two.

BYNG OF VIMY PASSED THROUGH THIS CITY TODAY

Requested to Remain in Coach Undisturbed— Few Saw Him

Without the knowledge apparently of anyone in the city outside of representatives of The Intelligencer who were at the station to see him, Lord Byng of Vimy passed through the city today on the C.N.R. His train travelled on the second section of the noon train and in the rear car. This coach was specially decorated with great bunches of vari-colored gladioli and with him were Lady Byng and an aide de camp. Lord Byng has been treated by the Modern, and these possess all the original freshness of the new garments. Belleville citizens are fortunate in having really Modern cleaning and pressing establishment such as this in the city.

BISHOP RESIGNS ILL HEALTH CAUSE

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 22.—It was announced here today that Archbishop Scollard, owing to age and ill health had tendered his resignation as Bishop of Algoma. In event of his resignation being accepted, Dr. J. F. Smith, who yesterday became Bishop Co. adjutor, would take the post of Bishop.

MALCOLM ON TRADE

Forke Likely to Be Given Immigration Post as Now Appears

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 22.—Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is expected to become Prime Minister, tomorrow. Shortly before noon Premier Meighen and his Cabinet met in what may well be their final session before Premier Meighen places his resignation in the hands of the Governor-General, Lord Byng, who is expected to arrive in Ottawa from Toronto tonight.

Mr. King is believed to be putting the finishing touches to his Cabinet slate. From current gossip, the Cabinet slate will probably be along the following lines:

Prime Minister and Secretary for External Affairs—Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

Finance—Hon. J. A. Robb.

Justice—Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Railways—Hon. C. A. Dunning.

Defence—Col. J. L. Ralston.

Marine and Fisheries—Hon. J. P. A. Cardin.

Labor—Hon. J. C. Elliott.

Labor—Hon. J. C. Elliott.

Interior—Hon. Charles Stewart.

Immigration—Robert Forke.

Agriculture—Hon. W. R. Motherwell.

Trade and Commerce—Hon. James Malcolm.

Customs—W. D. Euler.

Postmaster-General—Hon. Lucien Cannon.

CHICAGO MAN FOUND DEAD AT BASS LAKE

Suffered Stroke While Alone in Woods—No Inquest Necessary

Frerrick Bowles, of Chicago Ill., was found dead in the woods near Ball Lake in the northern part of the country at ten o'clock this morning. Bowers, who was subject to strokes, had evidently suffered an attack in the bush. Enjoying a fishing trip alone with several other Chicago men, he had left the camp yesterday morning presumably for a stroll. When he failed to return the news was broadcast throughout the country and a search was instituted. Provincial Officers McCoy and Nugent of Madoc were notified and were preparing to leave this morning when a message informed them that Bowers' body had been found by William Baker.

In view of the nature of his death it is not thought that an inquest will be necessary.

MACKENZIE KING NAMES MINISTERS

Striks Snag in Making Selections for Ontario

Robb, Lapoint, Cardin and Probably Cannon to Be Members

Ottawa, September 22.—Two or three snags are obstructing Mr. Hon. Mackenzie King in the completion of his Cabinet. Apart from these he has his Government selected. The worst of his troubles is in connection with the Ontario representation. Another difficulty has to do with the inclusion of Robert Forke, former Progressive leader, and a third is that of providing suitably for Hon. Peter Veniot, who is to be New Brunswick's representative. Three ministers for Ontario have been selected and their portfolios allotted. They are W. D. Euler, who will be minister of customs and excise; James Malcolm who will be minister of trade and commerce, and Hon. J. C. Elliott, who returns to the portfolio of labor. The completion of the Ontario list provides Mr. King with a major problem. It looks now as though the post of Solicitor-General would go to Ontario, and E.R.E. Chevrier, of Ottawa, has not been eliminated from the contest. It would not be surprising, however, if a man not

BOWLERS FROM BRIGHTON

Three rinks from Brighton Lawn Bowling Club had evening visited Belleville to play a friendly game with similar rinks from the local club. The game was one of interest and was won by the Belleville bowlers. Owing to a notice of the visitors coming to the city being delayed, their arrival at the green last evening was a surprise to a few of the Belleville players who were present. Sufficient number of members were, however, secured to give the visitors a good game.

JACOBEAN PIGEONS.

They are having a good laugh out Corbyville way at a Belleville civil servant. Yesterday he took his family out the river road and near a farm house found a little recently killed pigeon. That didn't mean much to him, except his gratitude that he had not done it; but just as he was congratulating himself on his own escape, to his horror and dismay, across the path of the car strutted a pigeon —headless. He stopped the car and let the phantom pigeon to pass and to add to his dismay a second headless bird passed by. It was too much for him so he cautioned his family to keep strict watch while he notified the farmer of what phenomena was passing, but his kindness was rewarded by a hearty laugh from the owner of the birds who assured him that what he had thought a phantom or monstrosity, was a Jacobean pigeon which barter its head in its ruffle when it goes out for a stroll.

HURRICANE TOLL STILL GROWING

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 22.—The death list in the hurricane which struck the city of Encarnacion Monday night continues to grow, with exact figures still lacking official reports estimate dead at 200 while other sources say it will reach 500. One hundred bodies were buried yesterday and work of extricating victims from debris is still going on. Property damage will exceed $1,000,000.

RECOUNT IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Recount of all ballots cast in St. Antoine division on September 14, as the result of which Lestie Bell, Conservative candidate, was declared elected over Col. J. J. Creesman, K.C., by a majority of 453, will take place Saturday morning in the Practice Division of the Supreme Court.

NEW ORGAN CHIMES

A delightful surprise awaited the congregation of Trinity Church Napanee, on Sunday last when they listened for the first time to a beautiful set of organ chimes. At both services and at the recital following the evening service Professor Baird with exquisite skill brought out the beauty of the chimes in such pieces as "The Angelus," "Silent Night," "Sleigh Vovage." The chimes were installed by Casavant Freres, St. Hyacinthe, Que., who are recognized as the most famous organ builders in the world, and were a gift to the church from Mr. M. C. Boaird, the Clerk of the Session and the Recording Steward of the Church.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS THROUGH PRAIRIES

Alberta Harvesting Further Delayed — Workless Men Flocking to Cities

Winnipeg, September 22.—The prairie provinces, after suffering heavy damage from rain, snow and electrical storms last week, experienced a cold wave which swept from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains, causing a further delay in harvesting operations in Alberta.

In all western districts severe frost was recorded with many sections reporting the coldest night of the autumn. At Edmonton the mercury registered twenty above zero, The thermometer was below the freezing point at Moose Jaw, while Manitoba points experienced heavy frosts.

Unless rain comes, the strong north winds prevailing will be of material aid in drying out the water-soaked grain in many districts of Manitoba, and will make the threshing possible. The roads are drying rapidly and transportation facilities are good for getting the threshed grains to the elevators and loading platforms.

A serious situation exists in Alberta, however, as hundreds of harvest helpers are without work, congregated in the cities, and in need of immediate aid.

SAW MR. NICKLE

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 22.—Requesting enabling legislation that would facilitate the establishment of a pension scheme for electrical employees of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, a deputation from that organization headed by T. J. Hannigan of Guelph, waited on Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, this morning. The deputation requested assistance that would permit them to put into operation a scheme similar to that now enjoyed by Ontario Electric Commission employees, Mr. Nickle promised consideration.

IVANHOE SCHOOL HOLDS ITS FAIR

Successful Event Under Direction of Mr. Ray Atkins

Under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and directed by Mr. Ray Atkins, B.S.A., of Stirling, and A. W. McGuire, School Inspector, for Centre Hastings, the annual rural school fair of Hunting-ton Township was held yesterday at Ivanhoe, under weather conditions that were most favorable. It was a decided success in every branch and the number of spectators on the grounds numbered at least 500.

One of the chief features of the fair was the school parade for prizes. There were four in what was termed as the larger schools and three of the smaller schools. Prizes were awarded as follows:

LARGER SCHOOLS

First Prize—Ivanhoe School, teacher, Miss L. Haggerty.

Second Prize—Moira School, teacher, Miss Pike.

Third Prize—White Lake School, teacher, Mr. McCutcheon and Miss A. Fleming.

Fourth Prize—West Huntingdon School, teacher, Miss L. Dixon.

SMALLER SCHOOLS

First Prize—Findlay School, teacher, Miss B. Blue.

Second Prize—Fuller School, teacher, Miss G. Rollins.

Third Prize—Red School, teacher, Miss Johnston.

There were two entries in the public speaking contest both being boys and Philip Fraser of Ivanhoe, won first prize and Charles Wright, of West Huntingdon, won second prize. Both boys displayed considerable ability in the preparation of the subjects they presented. The children's evidences of great interest in the fair and their work was the admiration of the spectators. Exhibits were fine and varied, consisting of sewing, sewing, writing, art work, manual training, also products of farm and garden, such as vegetables, grain, flowers, poultry, fruit and live stock.

The fair was in many respects one of the best held in Hastings County and reflected much credit alike on the teachers and pupils.

Directors of the fair in the various school sections of the township are as follows: Elmer Murray, Bernard Hurley, Morton English, Roswell Reid, Alex Montgomery, Melville Tanner, Lorne Holland, Billie Kernohan and Murray Reid.

2,100,000 VOLTS LEAP 20-FT. GAP

Man's Nearest Approach to Lightning Attained at Leland Stanford

Palo Alto, Calif., September 22.—Man's nearest approach to the electric power of his lightning has been attained in the new Leland Stanford University laboratory here with the successful testing of six huge transformers generating more than 2,100,000 volts.

In the tests here yesterday, supervised by Professor Harris J. Ryan, marking the opening of the laboratory, a group of scientists from all sections of the country witnessed the weird electrical display in which an arc of unprecedented flame shot across a 20-foot gap between two electrode plates.

The tests began with the laboratory in utter darkness. As hidden generators began their whining roar, faint flickers of light appeared on the electrode plates. These lights and sparks, alternately violet and white in color, expanded as the voltage increased, lancing the darkness with thousands of spasmodic darting flames, which crested a halo of glowing purple kliegs to accrue as the "crowns" added to the mounting power. Suddenly, as the tremendous current of 2,100,000 volts was reached, a ribbon of jagged flame shot between the electrodes.

After making three tests the plates were replaced with electrode points and the even more spectacular demonstration resulted. The "corona" was more pronounced, and when the arc was created a loud explosion followed. Ryan emphasized that the tests did not produce artificial lightning.

The principal object of the tests will be to discover methods of transmitting exceptionally high voltage and to lessen if not entirely eliminate existing losses in power transmission. A large tract, which is part of the laboratory property, will be used in the experiments, including the study of the nature of lightning and other problems known as "electrical phenomena."

The laboratory was built for Professor Ryan by Stanford University, with the financial aid of power companies.

Two years was required to assemble the equipment, including the transformers, which are the largest ever constructed.

WOMEN LOSE THEIR HEADS MORE QUICKLY THAN MEN IF CRY OF "FIRE" RAISED!

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 22. — (By Canadian Press).—"When it comes to a cry of 'Fire', women lose their heads more quickly than men," is the assertion, after much experience, of Chief Dutton, of the City Fire Department. Of course the cigarette smoking male or female, was built to do with the cause of fires, and he gives this tip to both: In the matter of causing trouble, the "ballon-de" cigarette is the worst. It keeps on smouldering until the last particle is consumed. Not so, with the "home-rolled" cigarettes. It is difficult to keep these "home fires" burning at best, and when the butt is thrown aside, it goes out almost instantly.

The electric iron, which causes many small fires when left attached is not overlooked. In places of business where these irons are used extensively, the fire marshal insists upon the installation of the red pilotlight which sends forth a crimson glow when the iron reaches a certain temperature, thus warning the worker that danger is at hand.

Some few homes have the pilot light attachment, but not many, and probably those who have it do not really need it. Persons who are sufficiently thoughtful of this precaution, probably would always remember to disconnect the iron before using it.

The innocent coal-oil stove is abhorred by the chief because of the opportunities it gives to careless workers, with a greasy kettle boiling over. Using gasoline for cleaning, where there is a fire or a lamp is of course known to most women as a dangerous course, but some forget; and some put gloves on their hands and rub them when they invite disaster by ignition by friction.

AS VIEWED FROM OUTSIDE

While many Canadians are puzzled to account for the outcome of the general election last week, it seems much easier for outsiders to explain it. The Chicago News, for instance has no trouble in pointing out the cause of the Conservative failure and the Liberal success at the polls. "The Conservatives lost, it seems, because they manifested an unfriendly spirit towards the United States and were not in sympathy with a policy which would emancipate the country from imperial thraldom, and thus Liberals were successful because they favored closer connection with the United States and a policy of political progress and freedom. The Liberals, according to this authority, promised efforts to establish reciprocity with the United States" and "to reduce import duties, while the Conservatives, favored a tariff more like that of the United States. And the Liberals, realizing that "Canada enjoys less home rule than does Australia and New Zealand," are determined to correct this anomaly, and "stand for political, international and economic progress," while the Conservatives are content to see the country stagnate in an inferior status.

Thus the situation appears to a neighbor. It might be of interest to learn wherein the political status of Canada is inferior to that of any of her sister dominions. This paper doesn't know; but the Chicago paper is so sure of it that it may have sources of information denied to us. And it evidently knows, too, that the new Liberal government will put forth efforts to bring about trade reciprocity with the States. Fifteen years ago such an effort brought disaster to the Liberal party. But that was before the war. Possibly public sentiment on the subject has changed since then. Canadians may have cause to like their neighbors better and trust them more than they did before the war. Well, we shall see; but meanwhile it would not be quite safe to depend upon the Chicago News as an expert exponent of Canadian politics or an authoritative analyst of Canadian public opinion.

STORM-SWEPT FLORIDA

Florida, as a place of winter residence, has been greatly exploited in recent years. It has enjoyed a boom unequalled even in the United States. Investments amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars have been made there; cities and towns have sprung up like mushrooms, especially along the coasts. But Florida has its disadvantages, of which no mention has made in the prospectuses of real estate companies. One of these is its exposure to tropical storms brewed in the West Indies and travelling west. Within a year four of these hurricanes have swept over the state, leaving behind a trail of death and destruction. The worst of them—one of the worst on record—struck for feasy hours on Friday night and Saturday morning, devasting more than sixty miles of coast between Miami City and Palm Beach. The Miami district suffered most. The total number of deaths is believed to reach more than four hundred and injured are numbered by the thousand As for the property loss, it probably exceeds that caused by any previous storm on this continent. It is estimated of more than 50 million dollars. In the hurricane and tidal wave that demolished Galveston 26 years ago 3000 lives were lost but the property loss was much less than that caused by the later Florida storm. So much was lost because there was so much property to lose. Miamiculous clink, the sound of flint on City and adjacent towns having contained many costly buildings and millions having been spent on beautifying improvements.

To those who shrink from frost and sigh for summer weather in winter, the Florida winter will always seem more desirable than the cold though bracing winter climate of Ontario. But, considering the fact that this province has never known such terrible storms as those with which Florida is familiar, most people would be inclined to conclude that the balance is in favor of Ontario even as a place of winter residence.

QUALITIES OF LEADERSHIP

Several Conservative newspapers have committed themselves to the opinion that their party needs a new leader. The St. Catharines Standard not only thinks a new Conservative leader is needed, but it proceeds to say what sort of a man the new leader should be. And it is noticeable that the qualities which he should possess are those in which Mr. Meighen is deficient. Thus, by pointing out where Mr. Meighen is lacking and by stressing the importance of those qualities, the St. Catharines paper delineates the ideal leader.

It also quotes a lady's objection to Mr. Meighen because "he is not a handshaker." The new Conservative leader should be a good handshaker.

Mr. Meighen, says the Standard, does not possess magnetism. The new Conservative leadermust be a magnetic man.

"Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfred Laurier had charm of appearance and manner on the public platform." The inference is that poor Meighen has no such charm. Clearly the new Conservative leader must possess charm of appearance and manner.

Mr. Meighen's want of charm in appearance may be owing to his conspicuous leanness. The new Conservative leader should be a fat man.

"Sir Robert Borden had a dignified personality." The new leader must be dignified.

But not too dignified. For the Standard regards it as a matter of reproach against Mr. Meighen that he probably never studied a joke book in his life wherewith he might have won close contest with the crowd." And so the new leader should have been a close student of Joe Miller's jest book and have committed to memory a goodly store of gems from that storehouse of wit and humor.

"Mr. Meighen's sincerity and earnestness detracted from the force of his appeal," we are told. Therefore "it would be a fatal mistake to choose as leader a man who is sincere and earnest.

Mr. Meighen "has appealed to intelligence and reason, but has never touched the flame of sentiment." His failure suggests, therefore, that it would be well for the new leader not to appeal to intelligence and reason so much as to sentiment.

And the Standard explains that in offering its suggestions and advocating a change of leadership it "only emphasizes the psychology of the mob." That is to say, the new Conservative leader should make it a point to study mob psychology in order that he may be better prepared to cater to the mob.

If a new Conservative leader be chosen, no doubt these few hints will be useful to those in authority who will make the choice.

LESSONS FOR DUFFERS BY A GREAT GOLFER.

Heard, says a writer in the London Spectator, the following incident from a friend in illustration of the good sportsmanship of Mr. Oulmet, one of the American players in the amateur golf championship.

It was during the play at the 18th hole in the match when he was beaten by Mr. Sweetzer, who subsequently won the championship, that Mr. Ouimet's ball was in the face of a bunker; he played it out well, but in doing so the spectators heard a steel. One would have imagined that who will be painfully disappointed at this critical stage of the game his only thought would be of his game.

Not so, however, Mr. Ouimet remained behind the crowd and picked out a large pebble and then smoothed the sand in the bunker. What a different game golf would be if all golfers were as thoughtful.

AIDS TO SWIMMING THE CHANNEL.

New York Times:

"It seems that in order to swim entirely across the English Channel the man or woman in the water must think of someone in the family if the Channel is not conquered. Gertrude Ederle was kept at her stroke by the thought that she mustn't fail her mother. So she was spurred on to the end and waded out a dutiful daughter.

Mrs. Corson made the swim for her two children. When she felt faint or faltered she repeated their names and was nerved to swim on. Meanwhile, her husband was rowing the boat with tremendous fidelity to his wife.

GLOOMY DEAN ADMIRES U.S.A.

St. Paul's Head Says England Might Copy Methods

SEES VIRTUE IN IT

Warns of Danger Britain Faces in More Labor Trouble

London, September 23.—The United States will encounter the dangers of prosperity, but there are worse dangers in the navy, hatred and bitterness between employers and employed which Great Britain is experiencing, warns the "Gloomy Dean," the Very Rev. W. R. Inge, Dean of St. Paul's, writing in the Evening Standard.

TWO OBJECT LESSONS

"We have two object lessons before us," he tells the English. "On one side is America faithful to sound economic traditions, and rolling in prosperity. On the other side is Russia, or Leninia, miserable, paralyzed with terror. May, we not say, look on this picture, and on that?"

Dean Inge agrees with Dr. Johnson that "a man is seldom more harmlessly occupied than when he is making money?" and he subscribes to this as "contradicting nothing in the Gospels."

"The fact is simply that while Europe has been following various will-o'-the-wisps which are usually described collectively as Socialism, America has adhered to the economic creed of the Benthamite Radicals and the Victorian Liberals. The much-abused economists of 50 years ago have now been proved to be right, while every professor of the Socialists has been completely falsified and every one of their schemes as soon as tried has been proved to be unworkable.

"There is, I was assured last year when I visited America, very little socialism there now because every workingman there is himself a capitalist. That is one result. The other is that no country has ever been half so prosperous as the United States is today."

Friendly co-operation between employers and the workers is not the only reason for America's good fortune, he added. America, he declared, is "the man who won by the war." While Europe squandered its resources. Moreover, America is thinly populated while Europe is crowded and is using up its natural resources while England is working all her resources.

"America has Niagara for water-power, we have the Thames," he remarked. "America has oil, gold, silver, copper and other metals. We have had some tin."

"There is a very bad spirit among us which we do not find in America," he continued. "The ambitious workingman in England no longer aims at the head of a department. He wants to be a Labor leader or professional mischief maker like these agregious A. J. Cook.

"All these evils may be summed up in the hatred of a necessary Class War, the most diabolical theory ever devised for the ruin of civilization. The main part of the guilt belongs to certain intellectuals. These enemies of society are supported by muddle-headed sentimentalists. This poison is being steadily and craftily dropped into the minds of the workingmen who are not educated enough to see through the monstrous fallacies on which the whole theory of Marxism is built.

CANADA'S WHEAT POOLED AND SOLD TO MANY MARTS

Largest Farmer's Co-Operative Organization in World Developed

STARTED 6 YEARS AGO

Is Incorporated Under Federal Charter Has Wide Powers

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 22 (By Canadian Press).—Farmers of Western Canada in less than three years, have established the largest co-operative organization of its kind in the world. The Canadian Wheat Pool, with its three units in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, now has a total membership of 125,000 farmers, who control 12,220,000, of the 21,000,000, acres sown to wheat last year in the three prairie provinces. It is handling the sale of the greater part of the wheat production of Canada, and Canada already exports more wheat than any country in the world.

The first of the three wheat Pools commenced business in the Province of Alberta in October, 1923, and at the close of the first pool year on July15, 1924, had handled 34,500,000, bushels of wheat shipped by its members. The price realized by the Pool was $1.01 2-5, per bushel, basis "One Northern" in store Fort William. A comparison of this price with the outside market values shows that the Pool was instrumental in securing to its members at least two million dollars more than would have been the case had the Pool not been in operation.

INTO ONE GIANT

Meanwhile Manitoba and Saskatchewan were organizing Pools. In the fall of 1924, they had perfected Provincial organizations and the three Provinces then merged their selling strength into one giant marketing organization, known as "The Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited," with headquarters in Winnipeg. This agency is incorporated under a Federal Charter, with very wide powers. Its function is to take delivery of the wheat from each of the respective Provincial Pools and to place it on the markets of the world in such a manner as to secure a price commensurate with the natural law of supply and demand. Each of the three Provincial Pools is responsible for fathering the wheat of its own members and placing it at the disposal of the Central Selling Agency, which is controlled by a board of nine directors composed of the president, vice president and one director of each Provincial Pool.

AGENTS IN 31 PORTS

The largest proportion of the wheat is sold by the Selling Agency to importers and buyers in different countries of the world, for the agency has direct selling connections with every wheat importing country and its own representatives in 31 ports of the world. The funds which accrue from the sales are disbursed to the members of the three Pools. This method of handling wheat provides a big volume through one agency and reduces the cost of operation to a minimum. In 1923, this Alberta Pool's operating costs amounted to approximately 2-3 of a cent per bushel. In 1924, the cost to the Alberta members was slightly higher, but that the results were satisfactory in the main is evidenced by the fact that over 3,000, new members have joined the Alberta Pool since the final payment for the 1924-1925 Pool went out.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to estimate in dollars and cents the actual increase in the price of wheat attributable to the operations of the wheat Pool, but the Pool, controlling as it does over 50 per cent. of Canada's exportable surplus, has the opportunity of preventing large volumes of wheat being rushed on to the market and creating a glut which inevitably forces prices down. The strength of the Pool lies in its stabilising power and in its facilities for selling in great quantities and in all countries.

ORGANIZATION IS SIMPLE

In the matter of organization, the Pool is simplicity itself. Each Province is divided into seven main districts, and each of these districts is in turn subdivided into ten sub-districts making seventy sub-districts all told.

Once each year the Board of Office sends to each member a post card ballot and a list of the members in his respective sub district. The member has the privilege of voting for some member in his sub-district as his choice of representative at the annual meeting. The seventy delegates so elected are called together in convention to discuss and lay down policies. The delegates also meet in seven groups of ten each and elect a director, and the seven directors so elected are called together in convention to discuss and lay down policies. These delegates also meet in seven groups of ten each and elect a director, and the seven directors so elected constitute the Provincial Board. The by-laws of the Association provide for a recall of the district delegate or the directors by presentation of a petition signed by 15 per cent. of the members in any district or sub-district. It will therefore be seen that the responsibilities for the government of the Pool are in the hands of the members themselves, which is held to be one of the strongest points in the whole organization.

HANDLED AT COST

This vast cooperative organization of farmers, grew out of the experience of fixed prices for wheat established by the Canadian Government during the war, regulated by an official body known as the Wheat Board. Immediately after the war the farmers of Western Canada urged the Government to maintain the Wheat Board for as it has been brought into being and had functioned under a War Measure Act, the machinery for its maintenance automatically passed out of existence with the signing of the Peace Treaty. The wheat producers of the Canadian West, learning that the Wheat Board could not continue, began to realize the necessity of an organization of their own to handle the market-ing of their wheat in a way that would prevent a too wide fluctuation and secure a better stabilization of prices.

Through the Pool the wheat is handled at cost, and therefore at a saving to the farmer. The Central Selling Agency with its direct connections is able to eliminate some of the handling charges between producers and consumer that are incidental under any other method of marketing. Moreover the Pool relieves the farmer of the necessity of guessing the right time to sell his grain and assures him of the average price for the year on all wheat it sells. This orderly marketing avoids the disastrous effects of the flooding of the market in the fall which prevailed under the old system.

Payment for wheat is made by the Pool to its members at an initial price at the time of delivery, and a final price at the close of the crop year, which is August 1st, or as soon after as possible. But if it is practicable and desirable the directors may make interem payments. Where the Pool does not own its own elevators arrangements have been made with elevator companies to "ship Pool grain." Recently the Saskatchewan Pool bought the elevators of the Saskatchewan Elevator Company, another farmers'co-operative organization. It was a big business venture involving the transfer of 451 country elevators, 27 annexes, headquarters office building, two terminal elevators at Port Arthur, one at Buffalo, N.Y., lease of the Canadian National Railways terminal elevator at Port Arthur, and about thirty elevator agents' houses.

LONG TERM CONTRACTS

In Manitoba the Pool is building 100 new elevators this year and in Alberta elevators are being bought and built by the Pool.

The Pool is able to acquire three properties, borrow money from the banks, and extend its plant over the future because the members join under long term contracts, averaging five years. The membership fee is only $5, one dollar of which is for a capital share and $4 for organization expenses.

The Wheat Pool in Western Canada is a notable example of the advancement made by the farmers of the west. Already it has shown the possibilities and advantages of cooperative marketing. The Farmer in Canada, the man who is a member of the Wheat Pool, has realized that under the old system he sold his grain to middlemen who bought it for the express purpose of making a profit, in the reselling of it. Under the old system, too, the farmer sold his wheat and took what the market offered. In the Pool system he delivers his grain when convenient and obtains the average price of the selling period, together with the saving in the handling costs. The Pool price to every member is the price at Fort William, less handling charges and freight charges. The latter, of course, very, according to the length of the haul.

With the development of Canada's agricultural areas, only one-fifth of which are as yet under cultivation, the growth of the Canadian Wheat Pool may reach a magnitude never before conceived in cooperative marketing.

RACE UNCHANGED YANKS AND CARDS KEEP IN FRONT

Ruth Clubbed His 44th Homer as Team Won 14-0 at Chi.

A race is still a very uncertain thing.

At Chicago, Waite Hoyt, shut the White Sox out with two hits and the Yankees, by swinging their bats diligently collected sixteen hits and won the game by a score of 14 to 0. It was a complete Yankee success, even to the making of his forty-fourth home run of the season by Babe Ruth, as an anti-climax. Tony Lazzeri followed Ruth's homer with one of his own. It was his eighteenth home run of the year.

The defeat marked the end of a White Sox's winning streak that had run through eight games. Incidentally, by winning this game the Yanks took protected their lead in the final race against the Indians, who defeated the Red Sox.

ROBINS BEAT CARDS

And now come the Robins, just awakened from a sleep to make life miserable for the National League leaders and to keep the country speculating on the possibilities of the pennant race.

They came in in the eighth inning at Ebbet's Field, rewarded some fine pitching by Petty by batting Bill Sherdel from the box and hitting him and Grover Alexander for four hits and four runs which beat the Cardinals, 4 to 2.

Meanwhile the Braves, who really started all this business of knocking off the league leaders, continued their bludgeoning by beating the second place Reds again and permitting the Cards to retain their two game lead.

The Reds seem practically out of it now, with only four games for each to go, but they still have a mathematical chance.

Excitement was the cause of the Cards losing this game in Brooklyn. It was suffered by Billy Sherdel, the left hander, who is apt in everything except his power to withstand nervousness. He had had good luck in the Robins running bases badly for seven innings to have a 1 to 0 lead over the Brooklyns. They ran bases so badly, indeed, that although they had got seven hits, three of them in one inning, they had been unable to score.

SEEK INJUNCTION TO STOP FIGHT

Threaten to Take Proceedings Against Holding Bout.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22—Threatened injunction proceedings to stop the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship bout did not make their appearance yesterday, but today is expected to settle the matter one way or the other, Attorney's representing B. C. Clements, president of the Chicago Coliseum Club, who obtained an injunction in Indiana prohibiting the world's championship from meeting any other boxer before he fights Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, were in consultation most of the day.

They were trying to decide which would be the better method to prevent Clement's claim that Dempsey broke a contract to fight Wills. One method is to enjoin him, if possible from fighting Tunney here, and another is, bring suit to attach his receipts in the Tunney fight.

Other lawyers who filed actions against Dempsey includes Attorney Seeger, counsel for Jack Kearns, who is suing Dempsey to recover money alleged to be due him, are steering clear of any move that would stop the bout. They do not favor "killing the goose that lays the golden egg."

While these matters held legal interest at the scene of the fight, Jack Dempsey at Atlantic City crowed everybody, including his sparring partner, by failing to show up at the World's heavyweight champion dog track for his last public workout contented himself with road work this morning and a little scuffling with the light punching bags.

Dempsey considers himself ready for his test next Thursday night and feared that any other work might be detrimental rather than helpful. He will do no more boxing unless he decides to slip over a round or two with Big Bill Tate, his chief sparring mate, in a strictly private workout.

TUNNEY CONFIDENT

"If I am defeated, it will be because Dempsey is the better man," declared Gene Tunney, challenger for the heavyweight crown, in a statement issued by his Stroudsburg camp. With the big event but three days away, Tunney said: "In accordance with ancient pugilistic custom, I suppose I ought to make a formal statement on the eve of my contest with Jack Dempsey.

"There little that I can say that I have not already said. I am in the finest condition of my entire ring career, and I am confident that this condition, my years of application to the study of boxing and the urge to win the heavyweight championship of the world, will carry me to victory over Jack Dempsey on Thursday evening. I am not foolish enough to say that he has no chance to whip me, I merely state that I think that I am in good enough physical, and mental condition to justify a prediction on my part that I will win."

Tunney ended his strenous training period Monday. He did his final boxing and yesterday and today will content himself with light work. The challenger Monday after fighting weight.

Interest in baseball locally today was shifted to the exhibition grounds where the B.B.S. and the Nationals provided the entertainment.

At Kingston Fair Grounds, the Oslers in full array are out to down the Peoples in two tonight.

Either "Lefty" McCay or Joe Spring will pitch for Oslers and Bruce Cairns for Kingston.

Th's is the week of Tex. Rickard's biggest of all flatic extravaganzas. On Thursday evening, down Philadelphia way, Jack Dempsey will risk his world's heavyweight title and h's remodeled nose against Gene Tunney. Both are likely to be damaged. Thousands will look on. The biggest fixture the world over is promised crowd ever seated at any sports event. Everywhere the chances of the two battlers are being discussed. As pointed out more than once, Tunney is a big favorite with the rank and file even though Dempsey is the money favorite. Millions of those who have been watching the two men in training are eagerly sought. Much depends on the last word as to their condition and mental poise. One is interested in an expression by Foxhall P. Keene on Saturday when his opinion as to the probable outcome was solicited. He said: "I have a conviction but any man out of the ring for three years, dubbing around and spending much time at Hollywood, can't be as good as he was."

• • •

Jack Dempsey has much on his mind. He would be more than human to throw off the worries of lawsuits, injunctions and attachments on the eve of risking his money-making title. One's mind must be at ease in reaching high physical condition. The champion has been laboring under a heavy handicap in getting ready for Tunney. His mental point must be affected by the hands reaching out from all sides to grab some of his profits.

Rough and ragged has been the going for champions in this particular year. Few have survived the competitive rush. Paul Hornbenach, Harry Greb, Mickey Walker and Rocky Kansas have fallen in boxing; the Pittsburg Pirates and the Washington Senators failed to maintain their high estate in baseball; William T. Tilden slipped for the first time over six years in lawn tennis; Willis Macfarlane failed to retain his open golf title in the United States, as did Jim Barnes in England; even Bobby Jones lost his amateur crown; American Flag and Pompey were supplanted in racing; Paavo Nurmi crashed into a runner who could beat him; Willie Hoppe was knocked off his billiard pedestal. Few, in fact, have escaped the ravages of the whirl'ng storm of rival entrants. Now comes Jack Dempsey's turn.

• • •

The Royal Typewriter Company announced today it had purchased the broadcasting rights for the Dempsey-Tunney championship bout at Philadelphia on Thursday night, with from 25 to 30 radio stations in the "hook up." The purchase price was not given.

The WJZ network of stations of the Radio Corporation of America, and the WEAF chain of at least 25 stations will take part in the broadcast, the announcement said, and in addition to these, the high-powered stations of the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company will probably be included. The transmission is expected to cover two-thirds the area of the United States.

• • •

For radio fans—The big fight gets under way at 9:45 p.m. (eastern standard time) with the preliminaries start'ng at 8.00 p.m.

Another athlete has joined the local fraternity in the person of Jimmy Naphin late of Napanee. Jimmy was one of Napanee's leading ball and hockey players and should be a real acquisition to both rinks.

TEX RICKARD'S SCHEME TO CHOKE RADIO BLOWS UP

New York, Sept. 22—Tex Rickard's money-making scheme that would have prevented radio fans of the country from getting news of the Dempsey-Tunney fight next Thursday night, has met with ignominious defeat. His plan to have wires run direct from the sesquicentennial auditorium in Philadelphia to Madison Square Garden and other large halls in the principal cities of the country, went up in smoke today. Officials of the Broadcasting Company of America smilingly informed him that because of lack of time they would be unable to install such service.

Right on top of that came a despatch through the Associated Press from the sesquicentennial officials in Philadelphia that they would not send for Rickard's idea of barring the newspapers of the country from broadcasting the detailed description of the fight, which they receive over their telephone wires from the ringside.

Defeated from all angles in his money-making scheme, Rickard's representatives in New York this afternoon were attempting to salvage what they could from the wreckage.

As a last resort they were d'ckering with officials of station WMCA on the roof of the Hotel McAlpin, to let them the radio rights to the fight for $13,000, if they in return would supply the necessary wires to Madison Square Garden. Rickard was still anxious to have a paid Madison Square Garden audience, even if the telephone company could not give him a wire. If they put over this deal they will still be able to herd the public into the Garden at $5 a much per head.

W. E. Harkness, vice-president and general manager of the Broadcasting Company of America, subsidiary of the A.T. & T., and which controls station WEAF, said that his company had also turned down the original offer to sell the rad'o privilege to WEAF for $35,000, saying: "We are not interested."

When Rickard's agent, or the man who claimed to have an option on the privilege, asked him to submit it to WEAF officials, Harkness said he did, but found them also "not interested."

The man holding the option, Harkness said, wanted $35,000, plus his interest.

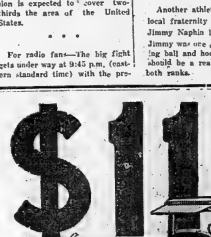

When asked if he had ever heard of anybody selling the radio rights to any similar big fight, Harkness replied he had not.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN, DRINK MORE WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, be cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

Drink more pure bork hute or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no long er irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall, two of First National's most prominent young featured players, had a terrible scrambling recently. It happened right out in the street, too, and fascinated people paused to send in a call forthe riot squad. However, it was all smoothed out and the young pair are now good friends.

You see, it was all part of a motion picture, of course. This pair, with Charles Murray, are featured in "Subway Sadie," which is the current attraction at Griffin's Theatre here.

Dorothy and Jack became engaged, according to the story, and went window shopping in an effort to live up some necessary furniture. They stopped in front of a furniture store and gazed at a bed-room suite. It was of mission-oak and Dorothy decided she wanted it. Jack, being a bit old fashioned, figured it was necessary because that was his mother started housekeeping with.

And the row was on. It was a good one while it lasted, but Director Sam Taylor called a halt after enough footage had been shot. It is one of the real laughs of the picture, which by the way is filled with guaranteed comedy.

"Subway Sadie" was produced under the management of Al Rockett, who, with his brother, will be remembered for their immortal picture, "Abraham Lincoln." Alfred A. Santell directed.

AT THE BELLE

Hollywood added another to its list of unusually large and amazing motion picture sets when Cecil De Mille's Russian village for "The Volga Boatman" was built. This is said to be one of the largest technical achievements in motion pictures and on a par with the castles of "Robin Hood," the Egyptian scenes of "The Ten Commandments" and the circus maximus of "Ben Hur."

The village occupied more than one-quarter of the huge De Mille lot. Scores of the houses were practically with four walls and so arranged that the walls could be lifted out and scenes taken actually within the village, with out the necessity of building separate sets.

Art Directors Mitchell Leisen, Anton Grot and Max Parker had the advantage of the advice of Dan Sayre Groesbeck and Theodore Kosloff. Mr. Groesbeck was a war cartoonist and a sergeant in the White Army of Kolchak in Russia, while Mr. Kosloff, a native Russian was born in a town similar to the one depicted. In size and extent, Mr. De Mille's new Russian village was even larger than the big English castle of "The Road to Yesterday."

"The Volga Boatman," which will be produced at The Belle Theatre to-morrow, Friday and Saturday, was originally inspired by the song of that name, and it is an original story of Konrad Bercovici, the celebrated author. It was adapted for the screen by Lenore Coffe. The featured players include William Boyd, Elinor Fair, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Victor Varconi. Herbert Edeson and Arthur Rankin are important members of the cast in this remarkable picture of revolutionary Russia.

INTERNATIONAL CITY PLANNED BY MUSSOLINI

Splendors of Ancient Ostia Are to Be Revived By Italy

Rome, Sept. 22.—An "International City"—a world centre of wisdom and culture, a "laboratory of civilization"—the home of glory and grandeur—such a city is in the building as part of Mussolini's plan to revive the Rome of old.

Its location is Ostia, Rome's ancient seaport. Its stones and timbers, its walls and towers, are but dream-stuff so far. But Mussolini has a vision of this "International City" as a thing of tangible substance and form.

Philanthropists are being besought to lend the project aid.

The "International City" is to be a magnificent symbol of world-wide civilization.

Its temples and palaces are to house the crystallized heritages of the human mind through all time.

Spiritually, the city is to be a fountain whence endless streams of enlightment and brotherhood will flow.

ARCHITECTS MAKE PLANS

Forty international architects have prepared designs for such structures as the "Temple of Arts," "Conservatory of Music," "Palace of the Governments," "International Institute of Letters and Sciences," "Hall of International Relations," "Palace of Medicine and Surgery," "Temple of Religions," "International High Court of Justice," "International Library," and "Tower of Progress."

Every nation would exhibit its own victories of mind, its own spiritual conceptions, its own culture, in the "International City."

In spirit of inspiration, he believes will guide mankind away from selfish materialism—from all baser motives—and tremendously unite the great soul of the world."

SETTING DATES FAR BACK

Ostia, the proposed setting of the "International City," dates back to the Roman civilization's earliest days. It was the first of the Roman colonies.

Lying at the mouth of the Tiber, on its left bank, the port was connected with Rome by the "Via Ostiensis," famous as the ancient pavement and ancient bridges of this primitive road are preserved along what is now a modern highway.

History mentions Ostia as a trading place as early as 351 B.C. It was a base for Caesar's fleet during the Punic Wars. Its commerce grew steadily with the growth of Rome and the decay of Italian agriculture.

"MIKADO" PRODUCED WITHOUT KIMONAS

Majority of London Critics Welcomed Daring Experiment
Popular as Ever

London, Sept. 22.—The majority of the dramatic critics here extend a cordial welcome to what is generally regarded as a rather daring expedient in producing the "Mikado" in entirely different costumes and general color scheme from that of any previous production. The "Mikado" last night opened the Gilbert and Sullivan opera season of several months, and the continued popularity of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas was shown in the crowds the queue for last night's performance began to form at 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, few bookable seats now being available for the first performance.

The Manchester Guardian congratulates the producers of the "Mikado" on "doing away with the conventional kimonas that used to suggest nothing so much as the morning undress of ladies in a certain section of London."

The critics were not very well pleased with the insertion of musical "cues" in the orchestration, which they consider entirely unnecessary. "I. Suffron to be gradually buried beneath additional accompaniments, like Handel," the Times' critic says.

The general audience, however, was too enraptured with the production to take exception to anything. It was well-nigh delirious in its applause, repeatedly holding up the performance with its expression of delight.

The "Mikado" was broadcast, this being the first time any of these operas have been wirelessed to invisible audience.

GIRL OF THREE KILLED

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 21.—Thelma Wainwright, aged 3 was struck by a street car yesterday afternoon near her home, dying a few hours later in the General Hospital. An inquest is being held this afternoon.

GEO. WHITE'S SCANDALS GAVE AUDIENCE THRILL

"Scandals" it right.

A moderately large and representative audience was thrilled in various ways last night by the George White 1926 Edition of the Scandals and it is not overstating the mark to say that they got an eye-full.

Thirty-four girls in various stages of nudity danced and sang—very prettily indeed—and the mountings of the show were quite elaborate and the technical end of the stage management carried on perfectly to obtain the desired effect, namely, sharp contrast combined with slight shock.

Some very fair male voices helped in things along musically and there was the "Royal Filipino Sheik Orchestra" playing overgrown "ukes" and guitars, but it was mostly the girls the crowd was interested in and certainly no show has been here in years with more pulchritude to the square inch.

SHOT HIS OWN BROTHER

Mistook Him For Deer; Bullet Pierced Brain

St. Samuel, Frontenac county, Que., September 21.—Firing at what he thought was a deer moving in a clump of bushes, Joseph Gray, a young farmer of this village, shot and killed his own brother, Henry Gray, during a hunting party on Sunday.

The brothers had left their home together early in the morning to spend the day hunting in the woods. They soon discovered a deer moving in the thicket, and in order to better ship the animal they separated, one on both sides of the game. Joseph Gray saw something moving behind some trees and fired a shot. The noise of the rifle was answered by a cry of agony, and when Gray rushed to the spot he found his brother lying dead on the ground. A bullet had pierced his skull.

An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental death was returned.

BATHING DRESS ONLY ALLOWED AT LIDO CAFE

Couple Turned Away Because They Did Not Wear Beach Clothes

London, September 22.—Quite a large number of folk have gone "roaring" to Vichy, Aix and other resorts while the lure of the Lido grows greater every year. There's something very satisfactory about going to a place where you know there must be sensation; and after the strenuous exercise of the season, society loves to play at simple life and lounge on a sun-warmed shore in the minimum of bathing suit, and just dress in pyjamas when it comes to the hour for dejeuner.

This reminds me of the wonderful story of the very correct couple who went to the Lido and did not bathe. On the day after their arrival they stepped into an attractive restaurant attached to their hotel to have dejeuner. The tables were crowded by elegant folk all in beach pyjamas and bathing wraps—a pretty and decorative gathering forming a perfect revue of summer bathing a la mode.

REFUSED SERVICE

Our well-dressed couple, complete with gloves, stockings and all the paraphernalia of civilised costume, were delighted with the scene, and sat down preparatory to ordering lunch.

What was their horror when the waiter, stood advanced towards them and respectfully informed them that no customers except those in bathing dress could be served! This surely must be the only instance on record of people being asked to leave a restaurant because they were dressed!

SHIPS AT TOQUES

Cowes being over, the little harbor of the Toques is positively congested with lordly yachts. It looks as if there were no room for another one. Yet each morning more vessels seem to have crept in with the tide. Mr. Solly Joel's Eilean carries off the palm for size and super-magnificence. But there are others. Lord and Lady Mountbatten were there on board their trim little Shrimp. Mrs. Richard Norton was with them as their guest.

MORE SNOW AT CALGARY

The Old Love Or New?

"It was for his sake," Constance answers. "Uncle Godfrey was so averse to their engagement that he entreated me to use my influence with Annette. I did not think that Roy really loved her—you know how impressionable he was—and she, too, fancied that he had a penchant for Minnie. Besides," concludes Constance with a sob, "she loved him so much that she did not care what she suffered if only it was for his good."

"How child!" repeats Dick.

There is a long pause for consideration; then Dick says:

"The best thing you can do, Connie, is to make a clean breast of it to Roy, and let him do what he thinks best. Roy are both free, so if they like to make it up, well and good."

"Roy will hate me," Constance says despondingly.

"Did I hate you?" Captain Brisley says, softly. "My child, surely you are brave enough to tell the truth now?"

"Yes," she answers, firmly; "I will write to Roy at once."

"Is that the only cause of your trouble, Connie?" asks Dick, gently detaining her as she rises; and the girl's hot blushes and downcast eyes say that it is not.

"Come, confess, my darling."

"I thought—"

"Well, and what did you think?"

"I thought you cared for Amy," says Constance, timidly.

"You are a foolish, jealous child," he answers, triumphantly. "You always seemed so cold to me that I was obliged to console myself." Why was it, Constance?"

"I thought you would hate me if you knew how horrid I had been," says Miss Fitzroy, with becoming humility.

"How is it," remarks he, fervor, smiling; "how is it, Connie, that loving me yourself, you so incorrectly measure the depth of my love for you?"

CHAPTER XIX

FORGIVEN

"A gentleman wishes to see Miss Annette, sir. I told him she was going out; and he said he could not detain her many minutes; but that he was leaving London almost immediately."

It waited but a few days of Christmas, and Monsieur and Madam Chabert and their niece were staying in London, at the Charing Cross Hotel, when the latter's maid appeared at the sitting-room door and made the above announcement, and Monsieur Adolphe took the card from her hand and passed it to Annette, who was standing by the window, dressed in her outdoor attire, looking on the busy scene without.

She stretched out her little gloved

Jean Claude Lessard, who has been food controller at the Chateau Lake Louise for the past summer has been awarded a scholarship at Harvard University by the Province of Quebec Government. Mr. Lessard has had a particularly brilliant career at McGill University during the past two years. He will continue his study of railway economics at Harvard.

Mr. Lessard also held the position of food controller at the Canadian Pacific Hotel Algonquin in St. Andrews, N. B., for three years. He is not yet twenty-two years old.

fingers languidly and took the card, while her uncle said gayly:

"Which of your admirers is it, Annette? I saw two of the most devoted yesterday."

"Who were they?" asked Madam Chabert, smiling.

"Lord Elford and Signor Carouli; the latter looking as melodramatic as ever. What a superb Mephistopheles he would make!"

Meanwhile, Mademoiselle de Vitry had read the name on the card, and her face, usually so pale and still, had flushed a little.

"It is Mr. Fitzroy," she said, calmly. "Shall I see him, auntie; he wants just a word with me he says?"

"See him, of course, my dear. Shall we go down to Lacey's Artiphot" asked kind-hearted Madam Chabert. "We shall not be very long, Annette; and meanwhile you can see Mr. Fitzroy."

"Perhaps he may only want me for a moment, auntie." Annette said, hesitatingly. "Wait a moment to see, will you?"

"Certainly. Show the gentleman up, Sophie." And a sudden silence fell on the group, as they waited for Roy's appearance.

He came in quickly, dressed in deep mourning (for M. Bennett's death had taken place but a few weeks before) and the blue eyes, so proud and yet so sad, went straight to Annette's face as she stood in the window with mournful very like a prayer in their depths.

She went forward to meet him; but she did not hold out her hand, and the low with which she greeted him was very cold and proud.

"I was sorry to hear you had been in trouble," she said; and the low tones, were gently in spite of every effort to the contrary. "Allow me to introduce you to my uncle and aunt, Monsieur and Madam Chabert."

M. Adolphe bowed, and made some voluble speech as to the coldness of the weather, while Madam Chabert, in her kind-heartedness and dismay at Annette's stiff greeting, held out her plump, gloved hand, and told Mr. Fitzroy she was glad to see him.

"I am afraid I have called at an unseasonable moment," Roy said; "but I am returning to the Grange to-day, and could not leave London without see'ng you. I have something of much importance to say to you," he added, turning to Annette.

"I hope Mr. Fitzroy will excuse us," said Madam Chabert, "but my husband and I have some business at Lacey's; we will return for you, Annette, my dear."

"Very well, auntie, I shall be ready Annette answered, quietly; and Roy held the door open for L'xie, while her husband followed just a little interieure, and looking at Roy from a professional point of view, thought what a superb jeune premier he would make.

As the door closed after them, Annette, abruptly moved from the window and crossed to the fire, shivering a little with an affection of cold which was assumed to hide her real agitation.

Roy watched her for a minute or two in silence. How beautiful she was in her rich velvet gown and dark sables, with a little fur cap on her pretty chestnut hair, and a rose flush on each cheek; and with what an intense yearning Roy's heart went out to her! Ah! how well he realized at then that, whatever was in store for him in the future, unless Annette loved him still, he could find no happiness.

"Annette," he said, at last, gravely —"Annette, I have come to ask your forgiveness. When we last met, I was mad with anger and pain, and spoke as I ought never to have spoken even had you been as false as I then believed you were."

"As I then believed you were!" Annette's heart throbbed quick and fast. Some explanation had been given then.

"But no wonder my words seemed cruel to you," he went on, drawing a step nearer to her, "no wonder you questioned my right to insult you. Annette, I know all. Constance has told me everything. I know you were not false. I know that the man with whom you left Gosport Hall was your uncle, not your lover. I know that in what you did you were actuated by, a mistaken wish for my happiness. It was a bitter mistake for me, Annette, and caused me months and years of suffering; but you were not to blame, you to forgive the cruel words I spoke and I have come to you now to ask the anger I felt against you, and to give me back the—the—his voice broke here—"the friendship I have so justly forfeited."

Annette's heart was beating almost to suffocation under her velvet and sables, and for a moment she could not speak.

Roy went on:

"Have I offended past all forgiveness?" he said, in his passionate, broken voice. "It may well be so, considering the greatness of my offense; but, Annette, I have suffered so much that the greatness of my suffering ought to have some weight as a plea for pardon."

Still Annette did not answer; but the fair face under the dark fur cap quivered a little, and into the great, gray eyes there came a very soft light.

"Do you know what you were to me, Nettie?" Roy went on, stepping now beside her as he knelt upon the rug. "Do you know—can you fathom the depth of my love for you? I loved you from the moment I saw you, I felt no other woman could be to me what you were. Do you remember the evening after you came to us—shy little bird as you were in your dark dress—how you startled me, and how you rode home holding my hand? I can feel your little, trembling fingers now! Ah! if you knew how often I have thought of that moment, how often I have lived over again those few happy days at the Grange. Oh! my child, why did you let them persuade you? —why d'd you let them introduce doubt into your mind?"

"I thought it was but a passing fancy," she murmured, sadly.

"A passing fancy!" he repeated. "Could you not tell true metal from false, Agnetie? Heaven knows how deeply I loved you how keenly I suffered at you apparent inconstancy. Oh! child, have you not learned that the sharpest anguish a heart can know is to think that its idol is unworthy? But all that is past, for its misery perhaps the future may atone. Annette, you are a woman and generous, you will not send me from you unforgiven?"

"You were quick to accuse," she said, bitterly.

"I d'd not accuse without apparent proof," he rejoined, hastily. "Constance blames herself bitterly for her share in your flight."

"Ah! she pleaded well," Annette rejoined, bitterly. "She urged the fickleness of your character, the imprudence of such an engagement, your uncle's scorn, your own repentence. She pleaded by my love for you, Roy; and though it almost killed me to go, I went—because—because I loved you."

Roy's eyes grew dim as he listened, and he took the little, trembling hand in his for a moment; but she drew it from him as if his touch hurt her, and he almost shook a little.

MANY ARTICLES IN THE MUSEUM ARE PRICELESS

Relics of Antiquarian or Historical Value Are on Display

IN KIWANIS KARNIVAL

Prominent Men of City Generously Loan From Collections

The museum at the Kiwanis Carnival has been a continuous source of interest and many pleased and surprised expressions have been heard by those who have visited the two large rooms at the Armouries that have been, conscripted as a home for the exhibits.

It is impossible to give any more than a brief reference to the various sub-collections and the individual exhibits so numerous that every journey examination of them would require hours of time.

Foremost of interest is the marvellous collection of legal, historic, literary add other documents as well as curios and relics loaned by Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton. It is well known that Col. Ponton has been for many years an enthusiastic collector of articles and documents having antiquarian of historical value and from the riches of his store he has sent down some priceless specimens.

The selection of course by Mr. H. Wt Greenleaf is one of the most extensive and complete in all Canada. There are, in all, forty-four cases required to hold the coins and in each case there are approximately 100 specimens. Some of these were coined away back three the dawn of the Christian era, in ancient Greece, Rome, Syria and Egypt. Others are the product of the various units in the year 1924.

English coins dating from the reign of King Henry VIII. King Edward I and on down through the list of sovereigns to the present time. There are 300 English copper coins as well as many others in silver and gold, nearly every civilized country is represented in this marvellous numismatic collection.

A number of medals of various kinds are also found, including the extremely rare medal struck in 1759 to commemorate the conquest of Canada. Not another, two or three of these last mentioned medals are known to be in existence.

Many pross references have previously been made to the collection of paintings of nature birds that are exhibited by Belleville's well known nature student, Mr. Walace Havelock Robb. The paintings are the work of Mr. Allan Brooks than whom the world has no superior for the faithful, true and life-like presentation of birds in their native habitat. The 32 pictures on exhibition represent a huge cash value and it is a great favor to the Kiwanis to secure their loan for their Carnival. They attracted great interest at the recent Canadian National Exhibition where they were admired by many thousands.

Another exhibit of uncommon interest is the collection of marine shells, corals and other forms of marine life shown by Thos. G. Bell, Isabel St. Mr. Bell also displays some remarkably fine mineral specimens.

A brief but by no means complete catalogue of exhibits and exhibitors follows:

War trophies—G. W. Dawes.

Music box, formerly the property of Dr. Crosby, Atchka—H. W. Greenleaf.

Oil-yokes, pioneer settlers' utensils, tools and weapons—C. E. Hanna.

Spinning-jenny, 185 years old, war relics, etc, by Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bolgerstead.

Collection of war medals etc.—G. W. Dawkins.

Wedding vest and trousers of satin, 100 years old, worn by late Gro. Benjamin, M.P.—loaned by F. P. Benjamin.

Covered Bible, 1535—F. S. Deacon.

War trophies, German helmet, shells, bomb throwers, etc., by Lt. Col. Ed. O'Flynn.

Picture frames carved by Austrian prisoners—R. R. Stiver.

Paintings by British, French and Russ

Praise From Miss Toronto For Octette of Mannequins: Fashion Show Real Delight

It took a lot of self-possession last evening at the Kiwanis Karnival to restrain from breaking the command ment regarding coveting of another's possessions, when gown after gown of loveliest texture, of smartest style, of undreamed of lines, and charming effect, was displayed by the eight lovely models who wore gowns from the sumptuous stock of the Hitchin Company.

Again, as in previous evenings, the setting for the showing of the gowns was a big fashion sheet, the pages of which were opened by the little Misses Bernard Smythe. Then the clothes, which even Miss Toronto, professional displayer of lovely clothes, assured The Intelligencer were as beautiful as eh shad ever seen or worn, were presented. The audience gasped as costume after costume was worn and such exclamations as, "How glorious," "How shabby" and "How perfectly charming" greeted each attire.

Some of the outstanding successes were:

A black crepe with cascaded bodice, the cascade of white georgette, studded at the edge with turquoise blue beads, black hat, worn by Miss Thelma Hicks;

A navy crepe two-piece effect with yellow front and Oriental trimming and large black hat, worn by Mrs. C. Mott;

These were followed by a black georgette dinner gown, two-piece effect, with crystal trimming and big flowers, beauty rose at the hip, worn by Mrs. Pearson.

A two-piece blue cloth sport dress, high white collar, black button trim down the front of the white crepe waistcoat, and black felt sport hat, worn by Miss Vera Rainbird;

A lovely navy blue georgette with straight lines and featuring inverted pleats, tan collar and trimming, with a large black hat, worn by Miss Kathleen Goodenough;

A black crepe satin two-piece effect, pleated skirt, and lipstick red trim, worn by Miss Dorothy Gibson and

A green crepe romaine with silver sleeve trim in frene Castle style, worn by Miss Hilder Marsh.

Miss Toronto made her greatest hit in a peach georgette evening gown and a black and white crepe dress with which she wore a stunning tam.

The style show wound up with a tableau in which Miss 1200 (Miss Gladys Rushworth) in the picturesque costume of a century ago, greeted the models of today.

Miss Toronto paid a pretty and well deserved tribute to the Belleville octette when she said that in all her experience she had never met more graceful and charming mannequins than those who represented this city.

The beautiful coats worn by the models were from Ritchie's, also the hats worn by the charming models. The coats, while Delaney supplied the magnificent furs and Miss McCrodan the chic hats worn with the fur coats.

OSCAR ASCHE IS BANKRUPT

Creator of Chu Chin Chow Suffered Many Financial Losses

London, September 23.— Ten years ago Oscar Asche produced "Chu Chin Chow" here in London. He was the author and also acted the principal role. It ran more than five years, eclipsing the London record of every other play. Since then plenty of people, not seeing Oscar Asche's name on the play bills, have assumed he had retired on his wealth and wondered how many millions he was worth.

But today Oscar Asche appeared in the bankruptcy court here. He told the judge he had liabilities of more than $200,000 and no assets. The man who, for a time was the most envied actor of soter managers and playwrights said his plight was due to failure to obtain certain royalties from America, to his inability to collect profits made by a touring company in Australia, to his having been out of work recently, and to money on an unsuccessful musical comedy. It also transpired that he dropped about $225,00 trying to breed racehorses. He also claimed to have paid a far larger income tax that he really owed.

"Chu Chin Chow" was first produced in August, 1916, and held the stage until finally withdrawn five years and two months later. This extraordinary record was not duplicated in America, though, where it had a run of three seasons. In London, however, it was the greatest of wartime theatrical magnets. It became a regular thing for British soldiers on leave to see the play at least once before returning to the trenches. Thus it acquired a certain halo which partly accounted for its phenomenal success.

Asche said that he received $400 weekly throughout the run of "Chu Chin Chow," and also about half a million dollars in royalties. After the amazing run of that play came to an end he put on the comedy "Cairo" which he also was the author and wherein he also acted the leading role. In this his salary was $750 weekly. From another of his plays, "Kismet," he drew about $150,000 in royalties.

GALWAY WINNER OF 5-MILE RACE

Stiling Man Second to Win the Ireland Trophy

The fifty-mile road race yesterday afternoon at the Exhibition grounds did not draw as many entries as was expected but nevertheless some keen competition was furnished. "Bud" Galway finished a good first, covering the distance in 33 minutes. The beautiful W. E. Tumpson cup was awarded to the winner who will retain it for one year. Captain of Stirling, finished Galway closely but was quite a few yards in the rear of the finish. The W. H. Irwin cup went to him

Pike came over the line third and captured the Bank of Montreal trophy.

Jack Marshall finished fourth. Jim Cook and George Brown were entrants but failed to finish. the former lasting until the fourth mile and the latter dropping out after he had run one and a half miles.

The judges were Ralph Morden, of the Y.M.C.A., and Meage Hartson and Mac Rae of the Lake Shore Road.

This race will be made an annual event and next year will no doubt see more interest taken. The Labor Council have worked hard to put their programme across but rain spoiled the proceedings on two occasions.

AT EUREKA LODGE

At the regular meeting of Eureka Lodge last evening, Wor. Bro. Archer, man gave an interesting address on his recent tour at Great Britain and Northern Europe. Wor. Bro. D. B. Adams presided as toastmaster for the evening and the toast to the visitors was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. C. J. Symons. A hearty vote of thanks was moved to the speaker by Very Wor.-Bro. J. O. Herity.

MISS TORONTO MADE WELCOME

Looked Very Stunning on Arival — Talked Charmingly

Miss Toronto on stepping off the Toronto train was welcomed to the city by The Intelligencer. The city officials who had motored to meet her had assembled at the rear of the train and were still watching for her while she was having on her second coach, was busy telling The Intelligencer a good deal about her aims and daily life.

Dressed in a Scotch plaid coat of red with black checks, a big black velour hat, a red dress with military collar, gold stockings and tan and rattlemake shoes, she was a very lovely sight as she lighted from the train closely followed by her mother who "invariably travels with her". She looked rather hopelessly about until the Intelligencer asked her if she was Miss Toronto and her mother, w ho it might be observed is a very beautiful woman answered for her. Then the press told her that the city officials were looking for her and grasped a few words while the opportunity offered itself. In answer to the question "are you athletic" she said "yes, but not any more than I can help". I like all sorts of athletics and indulge in many but not golf. I do not diet, I like all kinds of fo ods things to eat and eat them. She made a few comments upon the charming garden about the station, and observed very shyly (she is very modest) that "You have some very fine looking men here". She also commented upon the very fair way in which her contract with Belleville had been handled and just as she was about to tell a few things about her school life along came Alderman Wotten to welcome her. She very shyly shook hands with the different members of the reception committee and introduced her mother after which Alderman A. E. Collins proudly led her to his car and drove her to the Bay of Quinte Country Club where Chairman Sidney Bell, Mrs. Collins, Alderman and Mrs. Wotten and her mother she had tea.

RESENT BISHOP'S WORDS

Regina, Sept. 23.—In silence the city council here last evening, on petition signed with 22 names protesting that when the Rt. Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, London, England, arrives in Regina, Thursday, no public building be loaned him in which to publicly address an audience.

Objection was taken in the petition to statements alleged to have been made by the bishop in various parts of Canada and said to have reflected seriously on Canadians not of Anglo-Saxon origin. The petition was then filed.

BRITISH FILMS TO PLAY CANADA

Determined Move by Producers Planned—Agencies For Montreal

London, September 23.—The establishment in Montreal of a greater number of agencies representing the British film producers is likely, according to information received at the offices of the Quebec agent several here. Both the Stoll Film Company and the Gaumont British Film Company have sent representatives to Montreal, having become especially interested in the Canadian film market, following the threatened boycott of American films in Quebec last spring. It was indicated that a determined move will be made to introduce British films into Canada. Dr. Lemieux has received a list of nearly a thousand names the majority of which are British. He has also received inquiries from Italian film producers who have submitted a lengthy list of Italian films. Many of those British productions are super-films with a fine atmosphere suitable for Canadian audiences.

HOSTESSES PAY GUESTS

Titled Girls Earn Pin-Money By Gracing Parties

London, Sept. 23.—Girls of good family and titled families if their accomplishments are sufficient, are hired at a house party and to make the guests feel at home.

The girls who accept these posts are met on arrival by a motor-car, and one of the best bedrooms is placed at their disposal. It is the aim of the hostess, of course, to disguise the fact that her titled guest is paid to come.

Only girls with extremely bright, vivacious temperaments are wanted for the posts.

"My people are poor but famous," said a girl who accepted one of these posts. "The offer came as a God-send. I wanted to go north, and now I can do so with a care-free mind. All expenses will be paid, and I have a three weeks' engagement. I can play and sing, and have a number of parlor accomplishments. The most valuable is the art of telling a good story and making people laugh."

END OF SUMMER TIME.

New York Reverts to Standard Time on Sunday

New York, September 23.—Daylight saving time will end Sunday morning at 2 o'clock, at which time the clocks of the city will be put back one hour. Daylight saving was more widely observed this year than any season since the repeal of the national law which was passed as a war-time measure. It was estimated by the Merchants' Association, which has opposed the law, that during the season which will end Sunday morning more than one-half of the population were under the daylight saving plan.

THE WEATHER

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay.—Strong easterly to southerly winds, with rain tonight and Friday. Somewhat warmer Friday.

Miss Florence Garbe Arrives For Carnival at the Armouries

Understudy to "Miss Toronto" Will be Mannequin at The Style Show Tonight.

Another Kiwanis surprise was sprung on the public today in the announcement that Miss Florence Garbe who came second to Miss Toronto in the Beauty Contest will act as Mannequin tonight along with the local girls who are acting so acceptably each evening. Miss Garbe is a charming girl and is busily engaged every day as a model and it was only a very strong persuasion and extra effort that she was persuaded to make the trip to Belleville today. She is the cause of Miss Toronto's loss as Garbe will not only be in the Fashion show but she will visit the various booths and take part in the dances after the programme downstairs is concluded.

There has been considerable controversy in Toronto as to why Miss Toronto won the Beauty prize over Miss Garbe and tonight the Belleville public will be given a chance to judge for themselves. Just to be able to compare these two Toronto beauties will be interesting. The committee advise coming early to make sure of a seat.

Mrs. F. F. Reid, Sidney Tp. Victim of Morning Crash

Car Demolished by Freight

Mrs. Frank F. Reid, age 51, residing near Jones' Creek, is lying in Belleville General Hospital, with a compound fracture of the right limb, the left arm fractured, the jaw broken in three places, and concussion of the brain and with little chance of recovery as a result of a serious accident this morning at 8 o'clock at a point known as Shoebridge's Crossing on the second concession of Sidney, approximately one-half mile west of the city limits.

The new Chrysler Sedan which was being driven by her husband was struck by a Canadian National westbound way-freight, travelling at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

NEVER SAW TRAIN

The driver evidently oblivious of the approaching train, drove the car directly on the tracks and when the front wheels were mid-way between the rails the engine struck the car throwing it slightly to the left diagonally across the one rail, then the second dupact caused it to turn over completely revolving, driving it some ten feet south across the east-bound tracks. When the car first turned over Mrs. Reid was catapulted twenty feet to the west, and when picked up was lying in a state of blood in a semi-comatose condition. Mr. Reid crawled out from beneath the wreckage and assisted his grandson, Frank Marvin, age 6, who was riding in the rear seat, from the tangled mess. Mr. Reid sustained cuts and bruises, but was able to get about.

AN EYE-WITNESS

Harold Shoebridge who was an eye-witness to the affair, living at the crossing, informed the city police. Mrs. Reid was rushed to the hospital in the ambulance by Sergeants Harman and Boyd. Dr. J. J. Robertson and Dr. S. R. McCreary were called and performed an operation on the injured woman in hopes of saving her life.

The crossing where the accident occurred is not a public driveway and the trains do not give any warning signal.

The train was in charge of Albert White, conductor, and William Adams, engineer, James Costello, J. Baxter and G. Hennett, brakemen.

Mr. Reid stated that he had glanced in both directions previous to turning to the right to cross the track, but failed to see the locomotive. The car was driving north across the right of way in order to reach Mr. Shoebridge's home where he was to pick up the two children and take them to the School Fair at Wallbridge. The party had just left the home of Chas. Marvin, their son-in-law, which is situated but a short distance down the road. Mrs. Marvin had purposed to accompany them, but on second thought decided to remain and let allow little Frank to go along with his grandparents.

Mr. Reid has always been regarded as a most careful driver and had only this week purchased the new car, and this may in some way, account for the accident. It was a miraculous escape for Mr. Reid and the youngster, considering the extent of Mrs. Reid's injuries, but she was nearest the crash.

The car is practically a total wreck and with the exception of the tires and windows some other accessories, it is of little use.

POLICE SOON THERE

The Provincial Police took measurements of the scene. In order to cross the tracks it is necessary to change the gears and Mr. Reid may have made a mistake in manipulating them. Glass splinters and other fabris was scattered about the place after the accident.

Mysterious "Miss Kiwanis" At The Carnival Tonight

Somebody is going to be $5 richer by attending the Kiwanis Karnival tonight and picking out the Mysterious "Miss Kiwanis". — "Miss Kiwanis" will be about the Armouries all evening, and she was there last evening. DEATH TOLL IN PARAGUAY CITY MAY REACH 500

Official Estimate, 200, But List is Still Growing

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 22.—Delayed messages reaching here state that heavy loss of life and property damage were caused in the city of Encarnacion on Monday night when the central part was swept through that place.

Although exact figures are lacking, official reports estimate the number of dead at 200, while other sources say that the number will reach 500. The death list is growing hourly. One report stated that 350 persons are suffering injuries from the storm which has left many families homeless and destitute.

It is expected that the property damage will reach more than $1,000,000.

The chief of the military zone at Encarnacion has telegraphed the Minister of the Interior stating that 100 bodies have been buried already and that the work of extricating victims from the debris is still going on.

Further official messages form Encarnacion say that the commercial centre of the city, a district seven streets long and four wide, is virtually a mass of ruins. More than 400 buildings were razed by the gale and streets are strewn with bricks, timber, trees and broken household gods, greatly hampering the work of rescuers. A scarcity of food supplies is beginning to be felt.

TRIED TO OPEN BOMB WITH CORKSCREW

Doubtless because he was a Scotsman, a bickle (Barbitite) man, when his schoolboy son brought home a globe of blue opaque glass cast up on the shore, tried to open it with a corkscrew!

He though it might contain a written message from the sea. When he broke the outer glass the inner tube, fortunately, remained intact.

The naval authorities pronounced the mysterious globe to be an explosive bomb.

SPINSTER LEAVES HOME TO CHURCH

The unusual proceeding of reading the will of a dead person in a church, vestry took place at Bolkington, Nuneaton, Warwickshire, after the interment of Miss Emma French, aged 72, a native of the village.

Following the funeral service the party went in the church vestry, where the vicar, the Rev. G. Brewer, read Miss French's will under which her residence, West Holme, was left to the church. Miss French had been matron of various schools.

McCOSKEY GUILTY OF KILLING GUARD

Convict Sentenced by Justice Logie to Be Hanged November 26

Kingston, September 23.—The jury in the case of Thomas McCoskey, the Portsmouth penitentiary convict who was charged with the murder of Guard Earl Junkins, brought in a verdict of guilty, and Mr. Justice Logie sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on November 26 next. The prisoner maintained his stolidity as the verdict was announced and during the brief charge by His Lordship, the only indication of his interest being a slight drooping of his head.

After the jury had announced its verdict, His Lordship asked the prisoner if he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed on him, and the prisoner responded feebly: "Nothing." Without donning the black cap, as used to be the custom, His Lordship bade McCoskey stand up. Addressing the prisoner, His Lordship said that, after a fair trial, in which everything had been done for him, he had been found guilty, and intimated that no words from the court could affect a man of the prisoner's mentality.

He advised the prisoner to make good use of the time between now and the date of his execution, to make his peace with God.

The case was given to the jury at 12.45 p.m., the jury being out one hour and twenty-five minutes. During the trial McCoskey sat in the prisoner's box, dressed in a suit of penitentiary blue, and on either side of him sat two guards of the penitentiary, C. R. Frost, of Lindsay, appeared for the accused. Mr. Frost in his address to the jury mentioned the word "insanity," but after the jury had been withdrawn per the court's order, Mr. Justice Logie said he could not allow such a plea, as no evidence had been offered to back it.

"A LAWYER YET NOT A THIEF"

I have spent more time in Britain this summer than ever before. It must be one of these oldest lands in the world, for here are dolmens and cromlechs, Druidical remains dating back thousands of years before the Christian era. They were here before Socrates was born in Greece, before Confucius was born in China and before Buddha was born in India. Britany is more packed with legends, quaint customs and old world ways than Santa Claus' gift sack. In the district of Treguier I saw the tomb of Saint Yves de Vertie. He was a thirteenth century lawyer who served the poor more than the rich; and probably not without a sense of humor, they inscribed on the worthy lawyer's tomb "advocatus sed non latro res miranda populi"—"a lawyer, yet not a thief—a matter of wonderment for the people!" After his death he was canonized into a saint and on May 13, his name day, large crowds visit the tomb. A pious tradition obliges the faithful to crawl beneath

WINTER GRIPS TWO PROVINCES A SECOND TIME

All of Alberta and Saskatchewan Freezing—Heavy Snowfall

Winnipeg, September 23.—Winter extended its chilly presence over the whole of Alberta and Saskatchewan bringing freezing temperatures and heavy snow, falls ranging in depth from a few inches to more than a foot.

It was the second time within ten days that Alberta has been blanketed with snow, and the untimely advent of winter has once more halted harvesting operations, which have been delayed enormously by inclement weather. The snowfalls also prevented beet pickers from starting operations today.

The snow was of a light character, but was continuous and Calgary, Lethbridge, Edmonton and Medicine Hat reported a steady fall of snow. In central and northern Saskatchewan it was also snowing.

Manitoba up to the present has been without snow, but light frosts were general in the province last night and predictions are for snow flurries in several localities tonight.

Officials of the Dominion weather bur eau offer no hope of immediate relief from the cold wave now enveloping the prairies.

MINER MAKES HIS ASTHMA PROFITABLE

An asthmatical miner of Rhos, North Wales, has turned his complaint into a lucrative occupation.

He offered to descend outcrop pit shafts in place of the usual canary to test the works for gas and damp.

His efforts were successful and his services have been retained by the directors of several enterprising pits.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Mainly About People You Know

THE "RUBBING" KIND

Drinking alcohol which was procured for rubbing purposes was given as the cause of intoxication when citizen this morning appeared before Judge Wills charged with being intoxicated in a public place. The accused pleaded guilty and in reply to the usual question as to what caused intoxication, said he procured a scrip from a physician to enable him to get some alcohol, which he partook of. A fine of $15 and costs was imposed which was paid.

FINE OF $10.00

A fine of $10 and costs was this morning by Judge Wills imposed upon two citizens. One case was in regard to driving a car in a manner that was negligent and liable to cause an accident and the other was for driving at a speed in excess of 20 miles in the city. The accused pleaded guilty to the charges preferred against them.

HORSES KILLED

A team of horses, the property of Mr. Fred Peck whose farm is on the Provincial highway near Cobourg, were yesterday struck by lightning and killed. They were valued at $250. Mr. Peck was standing in a shed near by when the bolt struck the horses.

CIVIC COMMITTEES

A regular fortnightly meeting of the various civic committees will be held this evening. The business to be transacted is chiefly of a routine nature.

DROVE THROUGH BARRICADE

A sewer is being constructed on the east end of College street and despite the fact that a barricade was across the street where excavation is being made, and two red lanterns were lit, a party last night drove a car through the barricade and narrowly escaped going into the ditch. After some difficulty the car was riven out of its perilous position.

PRIZES TONIGHT

At the Kiwanis Karnival tonight the silver cups presented by Messrs. W. H. Cummins, M.P., and W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., and the flank of Montreal for winners in the five-mile race will be awarded.

TEMPERATURES

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 70 as compared to 72 for the same date last year. In the evening a northwest wind prevailed which caused the temperature to drop to 46.

THE FIGHT OVER RADIO

The Kiwanis Club have arranged with the Toronto Radio Company to furnish the results of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, round by round, to followers of the ring tonight. The not has been installed in the assembly room upstairs in the armouries. The main bout starts at 8.45 p.m. with several preliminaries preceding it. This is an added feature and will, no doubt, draw a big crowd of interested fans.

AT OSGOODE HALL

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in single court before Mr. Justice Wright, a case of local interest was disposed of. It was a case re Lewis Benjamin estate. C. McKay for executor, moved for order construing will, and for determination of a certain question. W. N. Poston, K.C., for Isaac Benjamin and Hyman Benjamin. Judgment: I hold that the two brothers, Isaac Benjamin and Hyman Benjamin, are to be treated as if they were the beneficiaries named in the policy itself and as such entitled to receive the insurance money. This is without prejudice to any rights the creditors may have to take such action as they may be advised to recover from these beneficiaries, but as already stated this is a matter to be determined upon evidence in a regularly constituted action. Costs out of the estate.

B. H. S. ENTERTAINED

The High School girls who were defeated by the Nationals yesterday were entertained at Dickens' after the game by Thomas Givens, veteran florist of Bloecker Avenue, Mr. Givens had the tables tastefully decorated with flowers from his garden. He has been keenly interested in the progress of the team this season and is an ardent fan. His generosity was greatly appreciated by the girls.

PLAYED HERE TODAY

The Peterboro and Kingston Midgets clashed here this afternoon in a semi-final game for the O.B.A.A. championship. The Peties won from the Kingston team yesterday by a score of 16-1 and made a sudden death game necessary. Walter Gerow umpired.

WALLBRIDGE SCHOOL FAIR

The School Fair held today at Sidney Town Hall, Wallbidge, was a most successful affair and the entries were in many cases here numerous than ever previously indicating a growing interest on the part of the childre in the production of flowers and vegetables and in domestic science and manual training.

MARRIAGES

SLOAN—SPRAGUE

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Sprague when their only daughter, Frances Pearl, was given in marriage to Mr. James H. Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sloan, of Port Dver, Ont. Rev. D. C. Ramsay officiated. The bride, whom as given away by her father, looked lovely in a frock of tan crepe de chene with hat to match. Her going away gown was of black crepe de chene trimmed in pink with hat to mach.

Th young coupl were unattended. After the ceremony they left for Montreal and points east.

On thier return they will res'de in Belleville.

The lowest known temperature is 169.5 degrees below zero—the temperature of liquid oxygen.

THE JOHNSTONE SCHOOL OF DANCING

Prof., Mrs., and Miss Johnstone, qualified teachers of dancing and department of physical culture opens Saturday, first, at 2.30. This class will meet Saturdays only.

Private lessons given in Ballroom, Stage and International Dancing.

The thing to remember is that dancing is not merely a question of knowing the steps, but thrt to dance well one must have style, grace, deportment and rhythm.

The trouble with some people is they go to an unqualified teacher, or perhaps learn from a friend, who has a local reputation as a good dancer. Not result a terrible mess which they must forget before they can ever begin to dance.

The above partial list conveys only an inadequate impression of the wealth of romantic interest that surrounds this really wonderful exhibition. Few indeed, outside of the immediate possessors were aware that in our city so much of the quaint, curious and beautiful could be found.

In conclusion, we must not forget to mention the mammoth owl, captured only last Saturday in North Hastings by Belleville's veteran conservator and builder, W. H. Laffman, and now placed on exhibition.

The exhibits are all tastefully arranged, labelled, and placed in suitable cases so that no harm can come to them from handling.

The Kiwanis is deeply indebted to all those who have so graciously loaned the exhibits and otherwise assisted in making the exhibit so conspicuous a success.

EUROPEAN TOURS

A MOUNTAIN UNDER THE EARTH

In the course of my wanderings I have often found myself in the bowels of the earth not only in coal and salt mines, but in the famous Caves of Kentucky and the Crystal Caves of Bermuda, which latter might also be said to be under the sea, but I still reserve a praise I give to no other, for the Grand Canal caves of Han in Belgium. Not only are they the most remarkable caverns in Belgium, but some of their chambers, adorned with coral and stalagmites are among the loveliest under the earth. In the chamber known as the Salle de Dome, 500 feet long by an many broad and 20 feet high is probably the most wonderful known to man, with a lake at one end and a lofty still or underworld mountain at the other, at least it looked that way to me in the mysterious artificial light of the cavern. When in Belgium I seek out Rochefort for its twenty minutes car ride to the Grottoes of Han, with as much enthusiasm as you seek to ride battlefield of Waterloo. It is a trip that will pay you quite as well

THE LAKE OF GARDA

The Lake of Garda, a little off the direct route to the famous cities of Italy, has not been visited by the tourist as much as have Lakes Maggiore and Como, although it is easily seen on the Milan-Venice line at Desenzano, at its southwestern extremity. It was here that I alighted and took the Lake steamer to Riva, which before the war was in Austria. Calling as we did at the little shore resorts enroute, I had a fine opportunity to see the amazing beauty of this lake country. There is never monotony of scene on the Italian Lakes, but on Garda the contrasts are striking. In the north, about Riva, the surroundings are rugged and wild and precipitous cliffs tumble into the dark depths. Limone, noted for its lemon cultivation and other little villages on that shore nestle in the shadow of the cliffs, the lemon trees terraced on the hillsides. On the western shore, Tremosine is the most remarkable village, perched high and almost dangerously on the rock. From ancient to modern days, poets of all climes have praised this lake-Catullus, Virgil, ante, Goethe, Heine, Carducci and Tennyson.

18,000 SQUARE MILES OF MEADOWS

The densely populated countries of Europe may vie with each other in telling of how many persons live to the square miles, but Sweden, if it could do so, might tell of how many grassy glades and how many million wild flowers it supported to the square miles. for as much as 12 per cent. of that country is occupied by its beautiful dales and meadows, while over half the country is given up to woodlands. There are countries in Europe with over 600 persons to the square mile, in Sweden there are only a score thirty-two. What this means to the tourist who wants to get away from the crowds can be easily imagined. I have travelled for hours on the plains of Skane, and through the well-wooded province of Smalsnd, by lonely lakes and meandering streams, and in the immense expanse north of Svealand, so majestically criss-crossed by mountains and enjoyed the sickness of nature through hundreds of square miles that could not boast even thirty-two fellow human beings.

PICTURESQUE MEDIEVALISM

I have often been to Carrassonne, since years ago I read Nasbaud's famous poem, for its picturesque medievalism, is probably as much a lure as any city in Europe. But last week, I was proceeding west from Narbonne and had the unplanned good fortune to secure a seat on the left of the coach, and for at least three miles before I reached Carrassonne, I had views of its impressive citadel that I never knew could be had. The old city is one of the most curious in the old world, for it stands much as it did in the Middle Ages-its walls having been carefully restored by Viollet-le-Duc in 1855-1879. It has a double line of fortifications and about fifty round towers. The citadel dates back to the fifth century, when it was occupied by one Visigothe. The tourist often gets his first good view of the Pyrenees from the ramparts of Carrassonne and sunsets of indescribable beauty. The old eighth century cathedral of St., Nazaire will repay all the time given to it in the upper city.

AT THE CAPITOL

There has never appeared in this city a richer class or as artistic a specialty as that of the Westin. His lovely wardrobe, beautiful stage setting, uniforms and wigs, all denote the artist who has played in the largest and best theatres and before the most critical audiences in the world Westin's impersonations of great personages of all parts of the globe are strikingly true in every detail. Included in his generous list are the Hitler impersonations. His act is something new in vaudeville and is seen but rarely in smaller cities.

THE CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP.

(From the Montreal Gazette)

Discussion of the conditions which are still in progress in the press and contributed to the defeat of the Conservative Government a week ago elsewhere. These discussions serve no useful purpose unless all the factors are considered frankly; and that has been done, it will not be difficult to find the means of freeing the Conservative party from the disabilities which now prevent it from playing its proper part in the major politics of the Dominion. The question of leadership overshadows all others; it cannot be kept out of the discussion and to attempt to exclude it would be, from the point of view of national interest, both unwise and unfair. That something has gone wrong with the Conservative party is a thing so obvious that the point need not be labored, and it is equally obvious that Conservative policies cannot be made effective unless the defect is isolated and the remedy applied. If the fault has been principally or largely one of leadership, then it must follow that a change of leadership is imperative, not in the interests of the party alone, but in the higher interests of the country, the Conservative policy being essentially and traditionally a national policy. It is because such grave national assets are involved in the success or failure of the Conservative party that the question of leadership demands examination, as a public duty, and for the same reason it is necessary that discussion of the subject be conducted in full freedom from personal or other minor considerations. Individual fortunes or ambitions cannot be permitted to outweigh factors of great national moment in the determination of a question such as that which now confronts the Conservative party in Canada, and in justice to Mr. Meighen it should be said that he has not put them into the scale in any public utterance since the election.

What has to be decided is whether or not Mr. Meighen can lead the Conservative party to victory, and to a victory sufficiently decisive to ensure the effective application of Conservative policy. In coming to an honest decision, it is necessary that full weight be given to the vital interest which the country has in that policy. Surely, in such a situation, the advantages or disadvantages of Mr. Meighen's leadership must be measured according to the lessons of experience. Twice, at least—and with in a period of only twelve months—the Conservative party has had victory within its grasp, and twice the opportunity has been missed; and in this statement of the case the unfortunate, and costly blunder committed in the opening days of the last Parliament has not been included. To what outstanding cause is the party to attribute its failure to obtain a decisive mandate a year ago and its defeat in the recent election? The Toronto Mail and Empire asks: "What "other man at the head of the party could "have done any better in the last election than "Mr. Meighen did? What reason is there for supposing that Quebec would have been kinder to any other leader in Mr. Meighen's place? We go on saying that Quebec's coldness toward the Conservative party is owing to personal antipathy to Mr. Meighen. Who knows "that to be a fact!" These queries, of themselves go far in explaining the weakness of the Conservative party. They express an amazing unfamiliarity with political conditions in this province and imply an utter inability to comprehend the sentiment and temper of the French-Canadian majority whose votes control all but a handful of seats in the province. We doubt if there is a man, woman or child of average intelligence in Quebec who could not answer the questions asked by the Mail and Empire, and answer them accurately. "Who "knows that it is a fact?" Does not the fact speak for itself, and with convincing emphasis? French-Canadian Quebec has voted solidly against the Conservative party led by Mr. Meighen; and has done it thrice in succession, despite the admitted fact that the Conservative policy conforms absolutely to the social and economic requirements of the province. There was no accident about these votes; they were given deliberately upon each occasion by an overwhelming majority—and upon one issue—Mr. Meighen. Everyone knows that who knows anything about the campaigns conducted in this province since, and including 1921.

Toronto may say that there was no justice in such a proceeding, that the people of Quebec had no real ground for the antipathy shown. We do not argue the point because it is not material. The essential fact is that Quebec will not have Mr. Meighen, and it is a stubborn fact, one that is not affected in any way by debates as to whether the French-Canadian attitude is just or unjust; whether Mr. Meighen has been at fault or has unfortunate. And it has been shown that the Conservative party cannot succeed without Quebec. Even the Hamilton declaration—which the Mail and Empire itself cannot excuse—did nothing to strengthen the Conservative position in Quebec, and its failure to impress the French-Canadian voters can hardly be cited to their discredit.

Whatever decision may be reached by the party, says the Mail and Empire, or forced by Mr. Meighen himself, there is no doubt that he can count on receiving fair play. To that statement we subscribe, and the reason is readily from a knowledge of the fact —a fact known to Mr. Meighen as well as to anybody—that Conservatives in this province have been anything but niggardly in their support, will compare favorably with the record of Ontario. But the Conservative party has reached a position in which the question of fairness to the party itself, and to the Dominion, supersedes that of fairness to one individual, and no acceptable guarantee of a wise decision can be found in the intimation that the issue is to be determined in advance in the limited territory lying between the Don and Humber rivers. The party must be as free to act as Mr. Meighen itself is free to act, and in neither case ought there to be a motive inconsistent with the national interest. Certainly there can be no doubt in the minds of Mr. Meighen's friends as to his future success in the event of his retirement from the party leadership. His talents are universally recognized, and his material rewards in the practice of his profession would very far exceed those which would be his as Opposition leader. He is still, a comparatively young man, and it is by no means unreasonable to suppose that, under more favorable circumstances, public life may call him back.

FRANCE DISARMING

An important step which France has made in the direction of disarmament deserves to be recognized. Nearly 4,000 persons have been released from the Fruch army and the age limit for conscription has been preliminary to cutting the enlistment raised from 20 to 21 years, as a result to one year. It is true that these changes are made, as a measure of economy, but in the past economic considerations have taken a back seat when they clashed with military ambitions. The fact that France is now making definite move towards reducing the strength of her armies is accepted as a proof of a greatly improved situation in Europe. The entry of Germany into the League of Nations is, of course, a very important factor in reassuring public opinion in France, and the commercial rapprochements between the two nations which have been made are another evidence of greater confidence and more friendly sentiments.

France would not have reduced her army under any consideration, if she still entertained the same suspicions and distrust of German policy which she harbored after the armistice. It has taken a long time to restore the German nation to a position where her actions and her motives are not distrusted by her former foemen. The time does seem now to have arrived, however, when a greater degree of good will is making itself manifest. When France and Germany begin to talk business and make industrial arrangements to their mutual interest, and when France actually reduces the numerical strength of her army by substantial figures, Europe may indeed be said to be making progress.

A WOMAN'S GOOD-BYE

Glasgow Herald:

When two men say good-bye after a call, it is seldom more than "So long, old chap," but the moment a woman stands up to go, and she has adjusted her gloves, she always begins with "Oh, my dear, I quite forgot to tell you," and then the call begins all over again. Nowadays whenever I hear that phrase I promptly sit down again, for I know I shall not be wanted for at least 10 minutes. I wonder how many hours of my married life I have stood with my hand on the handle of the door of a room waiting to open it for the departure of a guest. Women can do most things from lawyering to engineering—and there used to be domestic service, but one thing that they never have learnt is how to go.

SERVICE

"This soup isn't fit for a pig," said the indignant diner.

"Then I will take it away," said the waiter, "and bring you some that is."

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

SCENERY.

"Henry, don't drive so fast."

"Why not?"

"I want to see the view."

"You can buy every view on the route at the hotel tonight."

A WASTE OF TIME

"May I come over to see you?" the baseball pitcher telephoned his girl. "I'm not playing today—got a sore arm.

"Then why bother to come over?" she asked sweetly.

THE UNHAPPY MEDIUM

He—If you hadn't taken so long in getting ready, we should have caught that train!

She—Yes, and if you hadn't hurried me so, we shouldn't have had so long to wait for the next one!

"His Love Lives On"

"He can't have left her much, you know, because he was only just getting nicely established"—said the friends of Frank's widow when he died, only 31 years of age.

But the family realized the true nobility of Frank's nature, when the solicitor announced that, just the year before, the young man had been foresighted enough to provide through insurance with The London Life, an income of $100 a month for his wife as long as she lives.

The cost, equal to $5.78 a week, was his sacrifice for the wife and children he loved.

The London Life agent has had experience in arranging such policies of protection and will be glad to advise. London Life rates mean lowest net cost.

GET ANTIDOTES FROM BACTERIA

Important Discovery Made By Famous London Physician

IDEAL ANTIDOTE

Tested on Human Beings and Found to React Favorably

That the immunizing portion of certain bacteria can be washed free and used as an antidote against the poison produced by the bacillus from which it has thus been separated is the discovery announced by Sir Thomas Horder, physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital. It is the result of years of research, in collaboration with Dr. N. S. Ferry, of Detroit.

Tests were first carried out with the typhoid bacillus, and later with others in which the anti-poison substance is more or less loosely bound up with the bacterial cell.

The washings were found to contain antigens of extremely high value, and the washed cells were left very low in antigenic content.

The washings were then injected into animals as antidotes, and results, compared with those of other injections (ed. vaccine and serum), were very favorable.

The experimenters, whose work is described in the "British Medical Journal," concluded that they had found something nearer to the ideal antigen than anything hitherto discovered, whereby specific treatment of diseases caused by germs has been confined to the use of vaccines and serums.

A vaccine is an emulsion of dead germs, which produces protective antibodies when injected into the human body. A serum, on the other hand, is the fluid part of the blood of an animal which has been rendered rich in antibodies by the previous injection of the germ.

The new method of producing immunizing power for injection has been tested on human beings with favorable results.

VISITOR FELL IN DISUSED SHAFT

Albert Tonks, of Westgate street, Gloucester, who was taking part in an outing to the Forest of Dean, went for a walk in the Crown Woods, where there are a number of disused pits.

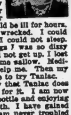

He was peering down the shaft of one when the fence on which he was leaning gave way, and he fell a distance of ninety feet.

Members of the party heard the crash as the fence collapsed, and were just in time to see Tonks disappear. They procured a long wire rope, with hooks which they lowered down the shaft.

Tonks managed to fasten the hooks to his waist-belt, and was drawn to the surface. He was taken to hospital suffering from a fractured jaw a severe gash under his chin, bruises, and shock.

LIFE-SAVER HAS CENTURY RECORD

Made First Rescue at Ten —The Latest at Sixty-Two

SMALL REWARDS

Went to Work in Wife's Petticoat for Lack of Dry Shirt

A "century" in life-saving is the proud record of Thomas Jackson, a retired coal-porter, living at Loddiges road, Hackney, E., on behalf of whom a public appeal has been launched by Robert Gower, M.P., for Central Hackney.

It may almost be said that Mr. Jackson's "score" of lives saved from drowning is 100 "not out." Although he has been warned by his doctor not to do it, he says that if he saw a person in the water in difficulties, force of habit would be too strong for him.

Now 82 years old, Jackson saved his first life at the age of ten and his last—his 100th—last month.

He has received 14 certificates from the Royal Humane Society, a letter of warm appreciation and a medal from Queensland, another medal with four bars presented to him by residents near the Regent's Canal—from which most of his life-saving has been done—and other acknowledgments.

His rewards have not been on the munificent side. Pressed on this point, he said:

"In all, I have received £5 10s. for my work. I think you will find this works out at 1s. 1½d. for each life saved.

"Of course, I never did it for money, that doesn't matter.

"Once I lost two days' work, or £1, through saving a dead body. I received 6s. at the inquest, and 1s. 6d. out. Sometimes I have been insulted for my pains, particularly when they were cases of attempted suicide.

"One week I went in five days in succession off Queen's road Bridge, Dalston. I had five suits hanging up to dry at once in the backyard and was obliged to go to work in my wife's flannel petticoat because I hadn't another shirt left.

THE EASIEST DEATH

"Drowning is the easiest death there is. You can take that from me, because I know. Twice I have been unconscious in the water.

"There comes a bubbling in the ears, and after that pictures of one's past life rise in the mind like the transformation scene in a pantomime.

"It is the coming to that is so painful.

"At one time I used to be sent for regularly when anyone fell in the creek, which was at the back of the house I lived in from my birth on 12 years ago. Little children who could barely talk would stumble in and say: "Mr. Jackson, Sammy's fell in."

"At Hastings I was in the sea for three hours rescuing three children who had gone out in a boat. I had only gone down there for the day, and I had come back, otherwise my ticket would not have been available. I got home at one o'clock in the morning, my clothes having dried on my back. I have only taken my clothes off once; that was to get a dead body."

HIS "SCORE"

The list of Mr. Jackson's rescues is as follows:

60 from Regent's Canal; 10 from Cock Rivers, Temple Mills; 15 from River Lea; 10 from Victoria Park waters; 3 Hastings; 2 Aldershot; 1 from Bournemouth; 1 from Folkestone.

This makes 102, but two of the persons were dead.

A coal-porter at the Shoreditch gas works for 40 years, Jackson retired last April on a small pension. He has been suffering from pneumonia and bronchitis and is in straitened circumstances. Two of his sons have saved four lives between them, three from drowning and one from fire.

HARLOWE

Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Morey who have been visiting at J. White's have returned to their home in Rochester.

Miss Beatrice Babcock spent Sunday with Miss Anna White.

A number from Harlowe motored to Hebbe last Sunday to attend the camp meeting.

Mr. W. Thompson has greatly improved his house by putting on a new coat of shingles.

Mrs. J. Gray and Mrs. J. Miller with Mr. Cecil Miller and Mrs. Lila Gray spent Saturday at Kingston Fair.

Rev. Mr. I. C. Wickware preached a very impressive sermon on Sunday in memory of the departed soldiers.

The Harlowe people were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mr. R. Young, once a resident of Cloyne.

LONDON'S OLDEST "CABBY" TALKS

Still Lives Above His Stable With Aged Wife

NOTABLE "FARES"

Recalls Points of Horses But Would Sell His Cab Now

Dressed in a long nightshirt and a tall silk hat, William Kentish, aged 99 years, 3 months, sat on a sofa at his residence in Kilburn, and chatted gaily with a newspaper representative on cab driving past and present.

Some days ago we published a photograph of a shooting of 88, said to be London's oldest surviving "cabby."

Kilburn people put safety pens to paper and proclaimed the existence of William Kentish, sometime known as "Father Christmas," by reason of the impressive fringe of grey hair which entirely surrounds his face.

Mr. Kentish said his 80-year-old wife, who has long ringlets resting on her shoulders, and who is known locally as "the duchess," still lives in a "horsey" atmosphere.

Their little home is above a stable which contains the last cab that "Father Christmas" took out.

And that is not so long ago, for he was plying for hire after the Great War ended.

Just the other day the old cab was dragged out and washed. Like Mr. Kentish, it has "gone in the joints," and will never see the road again. Old Valentine, the horse, has long since passed away.

"That Valentine wasn't a particularly good horse," Cabby Kentish explained. "To look at him at times made you marvel how he stood up. But then I got him for eight and a half guineas. Now, for horses give me stuff like 'Pots and Kettles' and 'Happy Jack.'

"Happy Jack' was a rare flier. When there was ice on the ground the one horse in London that would keep his feet was 'Happy Jack.'"

ODD NICKNAME

Cabby Kentish began life as a butcher in the Borough, and then drove a cab for six years before he knew it as "Ragged Jack."

He was a cabby for just on 60 years and at one time was so prosperous that he had four or five of his own cabs.

But money was not given away even in those days, and he had to work hard so hard that he became nicknamed "365 Days in the Year." "I never rested," he said, "for I wanted to bring up my family properly."

"I carried King Edward when he was Prince Albert, the present Queen's mother, Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery and Stanley, the singer. Stanley got £50 for every song he sang, and once when I was at the Albert Hall door with him he accepted an offer of £100 to sing a third song."

CAB FOR SALE

In his palmy days the run to and from the Derby was a matter of three guineas, and "Happy Jack" made light work of that.

Now the whip is laid aside, the last horse has gone, the old cab lies useless under the old cabby's bedroom. But he still sports the old hat, though he is unable to leave his room.

This he will not be parted from, though he would gladly sell the cab, for as he says, "I want money when I'm alive. It's no good to me when I'm dead, is it?"

Toronto Girls Proved Superior in Second Game Here

THE SCORE WAS 11 - 3

Errors on Part of the Locals Handicapped Jean Ramsay

Belleville High School were given the game from further competition in the Women's Ontario Soft Ball Association series after receiving a trouncing at the hands of the K & S Nationals of Toronto at the Exhibition Park yesterday. The score was 11–3 and that just about indicates the margin of the two teams on the afternoon's play.

The Toronto girlies even put up a much better brand of ball than they did at Sunnyside Beach on Saturday last, while on the other hand Walter Grove's kids did not play as well as in the first game. Nine bad errors coupled with Jean playing helped to lose the pastime but the winners hammered out eleven clean blows one of them a home run while the best that the tri-color could do was to glean four safeties.

The visitors led in both hitting and fielding and should win the Intermediate Championship of the Province without a great deal of trouble.

"Margy" Elleby in their stellar little roundsman has plenty of speed good control. She serves them up to the batters in real boy-fashion and is one of the best shamsters seen in action here this summer. She struck out five and allowed four hits.

Jean Ramsay did not perform as well as in Toronto but the fielding behind her was rather loose at times and she did not deserve to lose the affair by eight runs.

Nine juicy errors put her in some bad holes. The ladies from the Sunnyside league pounded out eleven hits.

The Toronto infield showed a well-balanced system of defence and the outfield managed to get under most of the fly balls knocked in their direction.

Little Mary Adams played a good game at third and was the means of stopping several likely looking scoring sessions on the part of the Nationals.

The High School have had a most successful season under the tutelage of Walter Grove and Cleo Colling and with this year's experience will be able to do better next season. The most of the girls will still be available for one or two more campaigns.

The Nationals deserved to win.

Some of the players are nearly ready for senior company and will no doubt be found with the fast-paced Supreme league by the well-known Annie Miller.

George Fox the manager is an astute baseball man and thinks his girls will win the Ontario title.

The Nationals opened the scoring in the second inning.

Thain singled but was forced at second when Crawford hit to Mary Adams Emily Gault singled. Miss Stubenoy walked filling the bases; Miss Ross singled to centre scoring two of them; Miss Elleby sacrificed; "Tiny" Seymour was safe when Audrey Wilkins dropped a fly and two more scampered over.

In the third Miss Fraser singled; Miss Thain fled to Jean Ramsay who threw the ball over "Peg" Holloway's head at first base; E. Crawford singled; E. Gault also hit safely to centre field and Miss Fraser counted and Miss Crawford went over a minute later on a wild pitch.

Belleville managed to get the first run in the third. After two were down Jean Ramsay singled and Mary Adams drove through with a safe bingle and Lorna Ridley pounded out a double which sent Jean over the pan.

In the fifth Miss Thain tripled to right; E. Crawford singled sending her home. At this stage the B.H.S. conjured on a fast double play, Audrey Kelleher taking K. Gault's grounder forcing Miss Crawford and doubling Miss Gault at first.

The High School made an effort to overtake the Nationals in their half.

Two were out and Jean Ramsay was called safe for interference; Mary Adams was safe on Miss Barr's error; Lorna Ridley was safe on M. Thain's error which filled the bases; Aileen Wilkins singled smartly to left field and two of them scored.

In the seventh the visitors started again. M. Thain singled; E. Gault was safe on Jarrel's error and Miss Thain went home on a sacrifice fly.

In the ninth they made the total eleven. B. Fraser the last batter up got a home run; Crawford was safe on Kelleher's error; Stubenoy was safe on Mary Adams' bobble; Rosty singled and scored Miss Crawford for the final run of the game.

Tommy De Joss of Toronto umpired behind the plate and Vera Weir de bases.

The grand stand was nearly full but the spectators were given only one few town chances to cheer.

The High School pupils swarmed the stand immediately on their arrival at the grounds shortly after 3:30.

YANKEES LOST JUST AS GAME WAS SEWED UP

Hugmen's Lead Cut to Two as Indians Beat Boston —4 Games to Play

Chicago, September 23. — Urban Shocker had a shut-out victory in his grip in yesterday's game with the White Sox, but in the ninth inning he relaxed his grip and the Yankees were beaten, 2 to 1. Shocker had come through nicely against Hollis Thurston, though he had allowed more hits than the Yanks were able to make off Thurston, and for an instant appeared to have won his game. With a count of three and two on Spencer Harris after two men were out, Shocker curved another ball up to the batter and started out of the box under the impression he had struck the batter out, but Umpire Moriarity ruled the ball had missed the plate, and that Harris had drawn a base on balls.

Right there the twitch came, and came so quickly that almost before the Yanks were aware of it, the game was over and the Sox had won. Johnny Mostil was put on to run for Harris and Bill Hunnefield went to bat. Mostil romped to second base when Hank Severeid let a pitch get away from him for a short passed ball and Hunnefield doubled to right centre, Mostil scoring. Bill Barrel then smacked the ball into left field, and Hunnefield, rounding third base, raced for the plate. Babe Ruth had no chance to head him off and tossed the ball into the left field bleachers. Under the circumstances, Barrett was credited with a double on the hit that won the game.

The defeat cut the Yankee lead in the pennant race to two games, since the Indians defeated the Red Sox again. Thus the fate of the Yanks and their winners still is in doubt as they face a series with the Browns while the Indians are playing the Athletics.

ST. LOUIS WON EASILY

At New York.—Three Brooklyn pitchers could not stop the Cardinals from hitting at Ebbets Field yesterday and the National League leaders increased their lead over the idle Reds to two and one-half games by beating the Robins, 15 to 7.

It was a game devoid of any feature save the batting of the Cardinals, who looked for the day like the Yankees at their best.

OSLERS DEFEATED KINGSTON 12 - 3

Hard Hitting and Brilliant Fielding Did the Trick

Kingston, Sept. 23.—Hard-hitting and brilliant fielding by the Toronto Oslers won the game here between the Oslers and the Kingston C.O.B. L. team, by the score of 12 to 3.

There was little doubt of the decision from the first innings when Joe Breen, sensational shortstop, knocked out a three-bagger in centre field and scored three men. A peculiar feature of the game was the fact that there was not one strike out.

"Lefty" McCay was on the mound for Oslers and Cairns twirled for Kingston.

Joe Breen was the star of the game, although Del Cherry, Kingston's brilliant centre fielder, played an outstanding game.

OVER MILLION BET ON FIGHT

Dempsey Reigns as Favorite With Odds Around 2 1-2 to 1

New York, Sept. 23.—More than $200,000 changed hands yesterday in Wall Street on the outcome of the heavyweight championship fight. This was by all odds the largest single day's betting since the match was made, said, according to W. L. Darnell and Company, 14 Broad street, who placed a large portion of the wagers, brought the total amount now upon the fight to about $1,000,000. Today's betting is expected to swell this sum to $1,500,000, the largest on record for a championship bout.

In all Wednesday's wagers Dempsey was a favorite. At the beginning bets were placed at 3 to 1 that the champion will retain his title. A little later considerable Tunney cash made its appearance and the odds were forced down to 2½ to 1. During the afternoon a flood of Dempsey money came in and the odds went up to 14 to 5. At the close 2½ to 1 was offered on Dempsey while the Tunney backers were asking 3 to 1.

SWIMMER'S SUICIDE WAS SPECTACULAR

Cape Gris Nez, France, Sept. 23.—A young man of dark complexion hurried to the beach here on Monday morning, and, taking off all his clothes, rushed into the water and swam until out of sight.

Several persons who saw the amazing action of the man picked up his clothes. A letter in a coat pocket said the swimmer was Line Zarraga Rodrigez, 26, of Madrid, and that he intended to swim the Channel without the aid of food, top or other moral or physical support, so that a Spaniard could have the honor of breaking all previous records in crossing the Channel.

No trace of the young man has been found. The note directed that the clothes be taken to a restaurant where he had been previously employed. The police theory is the youth sought a spectacular mode of suicide.

DEADLY DISEASE CURED BY FAST

The Rev. Walter Wynn, speaking at a Rotary Club lunch at Bromley, Kent, said he had recently completed a fifty-two days' fast from all solid foods. He had then cured himself of a deadly disease that had baffled the doctors, who said that it was useless for him to enter a hospital.

"During the fast," he said, "I lived on a milk and water diet, wrote a hundred-page book, walked, and did gardening."

JACK DEMPSEY HEAVY FAVORITE AS BATTLE NEARS

Issue Will Decide Ownership of Title and of $650,000

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—The application for an injunction to stop the Dempsey-Tunney fight tonight was dismissed this morning by the unanimous opinion of three judges in the coomner pleas court.

Philadelphia, Penn., Sept. 23.—Jack Dempsey, champion, and Gene Tunney, challenger, two modern gladiators, were girded today to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world and the richest prize in the sporting world—$650,000—before the greatest throng that ever paid to view a boxing match anywhere.

Few sore, ancient or modern, have required more diplomatic manoeuvres, negotiations and ultimatums that this part, but the path to the communistic today seemed clear, barring a last minute injunction or a hurricane.

Cloudy with possible showers was the prospect early today. The day broke with overcast skies and at times there was a slight drizzle.

Preliminary skirmishes in the ring were scheduled to begin at seven standard time with the signal for main attractions between 8.30 and 8.45.

While lawyers moved to settle the last remaining legal issues and workmen put finishing touches on the stadium, the advance guard of visitors numbering close to 20,000 converged on the city over night, with an overflow crowd expected during the day. While the seating capacity of the stadium is 132,000 it is expected 200,000 people will seek the scene of the battle by nightfall.

Between the sets—

Drink Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

The wealth, society and public life of the continent will be represented as the fight with people whose names fill society's blue books holding the choicest of ringside seats and mingling with the fans clutching the $3.50 pasteboards.

Nothing in boxing or sporting history in this country has even remotely approached the proportions of this spectacle, taking all angles into consideration.

Dempsey has been established favorite. Wagers on him, accepted as a barometer of public opinion, have reflected steady lengthening of odds of from two to one to close to four to one as the time of the bout approached. Dempsey, all critics believe, will make a rushing, tearing battle of it from the start, just as he did against Jess Willard and Luis Firpo. Tunney's best prospect of victory was conceded to be in the fight going the limit or close to it.

both fighters are confident. Dempsey said—"I'll knock Tunney out in the first round if I can," while the challenger said he was confident he would win.

NINETY YEARS OF BELL-RINGING

Chief of the ringers at Southwark Cathedral, Thomas Mash is the third member of his family to hold the position.

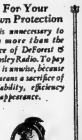

His grandfather's name appeared on the "peal-board" in the cathedral tower 90 years ago. Since then he, or his son, or his grandson have marked all great events with their peal of bells, from the death of William IV. onwards.

The present holder of the office has held it for 23 years; he does not take part in long exercises in bell-ringing, as his father and grandfather did, but he is always to be found at his post in the cathedral tower when the bells are rung for services or to mark special occasions.

DEVON WELL YIELDS
ANTIQUE TREASURE

At the bottom of a well at Chittlehampton, North Devon, has been found an old stone basin, of great interest to antiquaries, which is believed to be connected with St. Urith, the second of Devon's modern saints, in the 12th century. St. Urith's Well, or Uddy Well, as it was known to the villagers, was resorted to as a place of pilgrimage. People came long distances to pay their devotions to St. Urith's memory.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE REGENT

One never wearies of good, sound, rugged melodrama spiked with comedy.

Such a photoplay is on view at the Regent Theatre now with Maurice (Lefty) Flynn as the star. It is called "Smilin' at Trouble" and it has much to commend it.

It makes no pretense toward art. It is in every sense entertainment. It relates a compact, fast-moving story. It never drags; its suspense is delightfully maintained by adroit direction and skilful acting, not only on the part of the star but his supporting cast as well.

The story may be told briefly. It concerns a young civil engineer who is assigned to a hazardous job. He finds that the cam on which he is at work has been built of rotten cement. The bully foreman tries to scare him off his interests. They fight in a bitter battle in an aerial tram car high in the air. The dam bursts, releasing tons of raging water that engulfs the countryside for miles around.

AT THE BELLE

With scores of people delving into research and with scores more preparing the many special properties which were needed, "The Volga Boatman," Cecil B. De Mille's second independent effering is as correct historically, as any motion picture can be made.

Elinor Fair, William Boyd, Victor Varconi, Robert Edeson and Theodore Kosloff are the principal players chosen by De Mille. Miss Fair, with a splendid record behind her, is De Mille's latest nominee for future stardom. William Boyd is the fast-rising leading man of "Stella Frederick" and "The Road to Yesterday."

Victor Varconi is a Hungarian matinee idol, who, after an American year in "Triumph" and "Changing Husbands," returned to Europe where he appeared in the biggest film ever made on the continent, "The Last Days of Pompeii." Theodore Kosloff, most famous of all Russian dancers and actors, needs an introduction as the score of his ability to contribute splendidly both as an actor and technical expert on Russian affairs. Robert Edeson is a talented and popular player.

As the exotic centerpiece of his story Konrad Bercovici who wrote the treatment and Lenore Coffee, the adaptior, have made "The Volga Boatman," straining in his harness, like a leader of a group of revolutionists, while the main feminine figure, a Princess Vera, a proud young Russian aristocrat. The initial scenes were photographed on the Sacramento River in California fifty miles from the nearest railroad where a full portion of the atmosphere was transformed into a veritable reproduction of the Volga. The picture will be shown at the Belle Theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

AT GRIFFIN'S

Low Cody, long distinguished on the screen as a sophisticated heartbreaker and home wrecker, emerges triumphantly as a fire-water comedian in his latest vehicle, "Monte Carlo," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Christy Cabanne, now on the screen at Griffin's.

"Monte Carlo" is a frothy comedy, smooth moving and well constructed, with more of a plot than is afforded most comedies, and Cody's distinguished performance as the American scion of wealth, who, estranged from his father, suddenly finds himself receiving the adulation of a prince because he accidentally acquired the prince's clothes, gives his hilarious situations a delightful flavor.

Cody's place in comedy of this type seems assured after his work in "His Secretary" and "Monte Carlo." Gertrude Olmsted has the leading feminine role in the picture and acquits herself creditably indeed. She is charming and appealing as the little New England school ma'am who comes to Monte Carlo after winning a popularity contest in her home town.

CAT'S MEAT MAN IS REAL CATERER

In England are Social Degrees Among Felines They Discriminate

London, Eng., Sept. 23 (By Canadian Press).—In order of precedence the cat's meat man comes last in the ranks of caterers, says a correspondent of the Times. He deserves his such fate, for he provides for millions of real personalities. Like many deserving people he is not thriving; yet you meet him still in streets which were once respectable—streets which descended in their day to the stately bustle of carriages and pairs. In these streets the houses are of the Georgian period and they are full of social memories. They have great basements and hall doors which now wear a forbidding look, as if they were the portals to cenotaphs of departed greatness.

Outside them on a cold and foggy morning you may hear the mournful cry of "Me', Me', Me' " and the dismal thoroughfare becomes populated with cats. Out come the regular customers, and also many paupers. Of course, your aristocratic cat does not dwell here. He has no need of the cat's meat man.

There are social degrees among cats. There is the high-class cat who is a colleague of the butler and the footman—the cat with the "down" unctuous walk who is under no necessity to whine for his food. There is the cat who abides with the cook and who has accommodated himself or herself to modernte means. There is the cat of the poor who really has to work for his living and who dwells in the suburbs of starvation. Last of all, there is the cat with no abode at all,the cat who doesn't know why he was ever born or why his existence should be merely a famished sleep as a trespasser behind some one's railing.

Now, all these cats, with the exception of the aristocratic cat—the Persian or the Maltese and such like—with delight and avidity answer at the sound of "Me', Me', Me' ". They erect their tails and bunch their backs and strike at the barrow. Some know—you can see it on their faces—that their meal has been paid for in advance; some implore credit in a weak voice; others, obviously destitute, crave a lick of the skewer which piins the horse-steaks together.

The cat's meat man is human. He knows that "Me', Me', Me' " has summoned not only solvent cats but impoverished and hungry cats from out the surrounding slums. In the fullness of his heart he steals a bit from the paying guest to help the guest who cannot pay. The richer cats take their meals as a matter of right. The poor cats show their gratitude by rubbing their sides against the trousers of the cat's meat man. They bow in the street goes the barrow with a "Me', Me', Me' " and the cat's meat man vanishes.

BLACK DIAMOND
GIRL IS MISSING

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—Ricka Ott, ballet once in the national magazine as the Pittsburg girl with the most unusual job, the only known woman coal miner in America, is missing from her home in the St. Clair district, and a long search has failed to discover her clue to the whereabouts. Today the father stands at the mouth of the mine on his farm in the St. Clair district, and laments the loss of his beloved daughter, Ricka.

For Ricka was brave, daring and strong. She never wanted a soft life, coddled existence. She did not want to dress in calico or lace, or crepe de chine; she preferred to don overalls and work among men. Rather than to perform the tedious task of housework, although her father insisted her task was the latter.

Nobody knows what happened to Ricka. Presumably disappeared, leaving behind her pick, miner's lamp and a heartbroken father who never wanted Ricka to work at the mine.

Folks of the St. Clair and Carrick districts who knew her as the "black diamond girl" are speculating on just what happened to Ricka. There are rumors and rumors, but none has been verified.

In addition to catching an eight-inch trout, a fisherman in the Adiron dacks got a gold watch and chain. So far fish on chain hav'ng caught the line when the fish struck.

THE HOME OF THE SILVER BIBLE

My Swedish excursion this week brought me to Uppsala, the Swedish Oxford, for its great university was founded in 1477. The Uppsala Codex I took up some of my time, for it is the largest in Sweden and was commenced in the year 1250 and took 185 years to complete. Here is how, old Gustavus Vasa and his consorts and also many others with renowned names. Here also is the tomb of Carl Linne, or Linnaeus, as the great botanist is better known. Emmanuel Swedenborg, the founder of the Swedenborgians also lies interred in this beautiful cathedral. Uppsala Castle which dominates the town also deserves a visit to honor its nearly four hundred years. At the University I came across that famous treasure of the North, the Codex Argenteus, the Silver Bible, a translation into the Gothic language of parts of the Gospels, made by Bishop Ulphilas. It is the only Gothic manuscript in existence and is supposed to have been written about A.D. 360. It formed part of the spoils of war taken by the Swedes from Prague in 1648

CHURCHES FOR OVERSEAS DOM.

Suggestion to Re-erect Them in Canada and Other Dominions

It's latest suggestion for the disposal of the 19 "redundant" city churches is that if it is finally decided to dismantle them, they should be presented to the British Dominions overseas for re-erection and re-election abroad.

This is the course that has been suggested to the Bishop of London by E. Page Croston, F. R. G. S., of the Museum Galleries, London.

The suggestions which I ventured to make on this matter some time ago have brought forth a surprising response," said Mr. Croston.

"The Bishop of London has received applications fro various responsible sources as a result; I understand, of articles which appeared in the Press of Australia, Canada and the United States.

"One enterprising Canadian community inquired as to whether one might secure St. Bride's Church, Fleet street, for them, as they apparently fancied its architectural style.

"When replying that St. Bride's was not on the disposal list, I rather felt like suggesting that they go a little further and apply for St. Paul's!

"I believe that some Canadian churches are taking up the matter with Dr. Winnington-Ingram during his present visit to Canada, and similar action is planned. I understand, in Australia, New Zealand, and other countries during his world tour.

"When expressing his appreciation of the suggestion as made in the first instance, the Bishop informed me that it was the opinion that the churches would look strange if removed from their present environment. In my opinion, however, a church could gain an added beauty if re-erected on some "heaven-kissing hill" in Canberra, Wellington, Pretoria, or Ottawa, instead of remaining in its present crowded and usually dingy London surroundings.

"I have pointed out again to Dr. Winnington-Ingram that the gift of such structures from the mother church to her offspring in the newer countries would not alone form an added fraternal link with the English-speaking people of the world, but would place in possession of some additional millions for the extension of its spiritual activities.

"It is estimated that between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000 could be realised from the sale of the valuable building sites thus released.

"Thus these superb examples of the architectural genius of Sir Christopher Wren, the wood carvings of Grinling Gibbons, the strained glass and works from other old masters would be preserved for posterity."

The Old Love Or New?

"Yes," she went on passionately, for the torrent of her pain, so long silently endured, was loosed now and the burning words came quick and fast; "I left because I loved you, and I was content to suffer—oh! how I suffered, Roy—for your sake, content—more than content, happy,—to give up my happiness for yours, That night—you remember how you acted Claude and Pauline?—you remember how they praised my acting? Ah! it was not acting, for my heart seemed breaking as I spoke the words —my farewell to you. You have forgotten them, have you, Roy? How often—Heaven only knows how often —they have come back to me in the long, long nights since then! You remember? I thought you could not forget them:

"Tell him o'n now that I would rather share
His lowliest lot, walk by his side an outcast,
Work for him, beg with him, live upon the light
Of one kind smile from him, than wear the crown
The Bourbon lost."

"Say, that if his eyes Could read this heart, its struggles its temptations,
Its love, itself would pardon that desertion."

She had spoken the words rapidly, passionately; and as she finished them she burst into faint low, stifled sobs.

"Oh! my child, how I have wronged you," he said, brokenly. "Forgive me—oh! forgive me!"

She arose from her kneeling posture, but trembled so violently that Roy almost involuntarily put out his arms to support her; but she held him back with her little, shaking hands. "Ah! do you think I have not suffered? Ah! Heaven only knows. Suffering does not kill, or long, long ago I had died."

"But it is over now; be calm, dear child, you terrify me," he said, soothingly.

"Give me one moment," she said, faintly. "It is not often I give way thus, even at the memory of that terrible past."

She sank into a chair and bowed her head for a moment, struggling for composure; then, with her face very white and tear-stained still, but calm, she raised her head.

"There, that is over," she said, quietly. "I must apologize for having distressed you."

There was a short silence, then she spoke again, still calmly and quietly:

"When we last met you refused me forgiveness," she said, smiling faintly; "I will be more generous. You judged me harshly, Roy; but I was never with you. You are forgiven, and henceforth we can be friends, can we not?"

She held out her hand to him, and, taking it in his, he bent and touched it with his lips.

"Firm friends ever!" he said, rather huskily, and the passionate blue eyes sought her face with a fierce sorrow and love in their depths; and Annette, as she met his glance, felt her cheeks crimson and her heart beat quick.

"Tell me about them all," she said, hurriedly. "Constance is engaged, I saw in the Queen."

"Yes, to my old friend, Brinley."

"And the other girls—Amy, and Jessie, and little Blanche—how are they?"

"Blanche is no better—she grieved sorely for you, Nettie. Amy is setting up a lover," he added, smiling faintly, "George Godwin, the son of our old friend, Sir Henry, is the happy man. They are not to think of matrimony for some time yet, though, on account of Amy's youth."

"And Dave? And Duncan?"

"Duncan is in the navy. Dave has just passed into the Royal Engineers; he is a very handsome fellow. We were very proud of Dave."

"I should like to see him," Annette said, musingly.

"He will be much flattered. May I bring him?"

"I shall be glad," she said, quietly

There was a long silence, which was broken by Roy this time.

"Annette," he said, with a ring of passionate tenderness in his voice, which thrilled her inmost being, "Annette, you have said that you forgive me; but forgiveness, precious as that is, is not enough for me now. You see your generosity makes me exacting. I want something infinitely more precious."

They had both risen, and Roy had taken her hands, holding them in a close clasp, which almost hurt her in its intensity, and she looked up in his face with startled, half scared eyes which sank before the fierce passion in his.

"I am not satisfied, Nettie—I ask a yet more precious boon." That love you had for me—is it gone? Has it died away in these years, in which mine has deepened in intensity and in pasion? Ah! no, it has not, my darling, my loved one, my own! I read it in your eyes, You love me a little still?"

CHAPTER XX

LORD ELFORD WINS

Roy felt Annete start and shiver in his grasp, felt her trouble from head to foot, as a sudden blow had struck her, and for a moment there came into her eyes a world of wistful pain and questioning; but she did not move, only stood still, with a stillness which startled him a little.

"Will you give me the love for which I ask?" he said, a feeling like fear in his head over the lovely, still face. "Will you be mine, Nettie, now? Ah! don't let any consideration separate us now. I love you—my darling, my darling—I love you. Will you come to me, my dearest?"

She put her hand up to her head with a troubled gesture of pain, then a strange, sudden faintness came over her, and her beautiful head sank heavily forward on his breast.

"You are mine, beloved—are you not?" he said, tenderly. "We shall be very happy, and all that miserable past will be forgotten."

"Forgotten!" sounded the white lips of the young girl, as she made an effort to conquer her weakness, and half disengaged herself from his support.

"I will teach you to forget," he went on, oh! so tenderly and passionately. "We will go away, just you and I together, my darling. I am the only one you know. We will go to some sunny, foreign clime. Oh! Annette, I cannot—I will not live without you. You are my life—my life!"

All self-control had left him now, as for a moment, he clasped her close, and pressed his lips to hers in one passionate kiss; but with a sudden, fierce strength she flung away from him.

"You would deceive me!" she cried, Annette. Tell me that you love me still!" he pleaded.'

"I cannot!" she said, in a voice of such concentrated scorn, that Roy looked at her in surprise. "It would be false! I loved—not you—all! Heaven help—but what I thought you were! I loved an ideal which you have broken down forever! Leave me!" she added, rising him with flashing, indignant eyes.

"How dare you insult me with the offer of your love now?"

She crossed to the bell, and rang it hastily, standing erect and proud; while Roy, stung and indignant at the haughtiness of his dismissal, turned and faced her with equal haughtiness.

"You never loved me," he said, bitterly. "I was mad to suppose it—mad!"

And with three words he turned and left her; and when the door had closed after him, Annette's pride suddenly deserted her, and she threw herself on a couch, sobbing out, in a passion of pain:

"He was right—he was right! There is no pain like the discovery of the unworthiness of the one whom one loves! What have I done?—what have I said, that he should think so vilely of me as to suppose I would go with him when he is not free?"

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and luxuriant and you "appear years younger.

THIS WOMAN NOW WELL!

Her Suffering Relieved and Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I am certainly very grateful for the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also the Sanative Wash and the Liver Pills. In the early spring I was suffering so much from loss of blood that I thought I would never be any better, so doctor's medicine relieved me only for the time being. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the "Toronto Star," and I find the Vegetable Compound exhists the best for me. I have been taking them about two months and I intend keeping them by me all the time. After reading your Private Text-Book, I felt that I could not say to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanitire Wash, and I can safely say that I feel a different woman. My friends remark how well I look. I am a very busy woman, but I am ready at all times to boost your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES GIFFIN, 949 Landsdowne Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

You may be having an experience similar to Mrs. Giffin's and will be interested to know what she did. Every sick woman can feel confident that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her, since we are told that it does help 96 out of every 100 women who take it.

NEIGHEN GOVT RESIGNS TODAY

Formal Announcement Will Be Made Late in Afternoon

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—Premier Meighen, it is now expected, will place his resignation in the hands of the Governor General either late this afternoon or tonight.

Mr. Meighen again met members of his cabinet this morning, the meeting lasting till nearly one o'clock. The Prime Minister afterwards intimated that he had no announcement to make at present but expected to have one late this afternoon or tonight.

Mr. Mackenzie King is understood Prime Minister and External affairs, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King:

Finance, Hon. J. A. Robb.

Justice, Hon. Ernest LaPointe.

Railways, Hon. C. A. Dunning.

Interior, Hon. Charles Stewart.

Public works, Hon. J. C. Elliott.

Solicitor General, Hon. Lucien Cannon.

Secretary of state, Fernand Rinfret.

Labor, Peter Heenan.

Civic Affairs

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last night a number of accounts were approved of and the following recommendations were considered and passed on to the Council meeting for adoption or rejection:

That the necessary bylaw be prepared for the construction of a sewer on Mary street from Brock to Colborne Street.

That the salary of Miss Moorman for such time as she is employed as special assistant in the Gas department in connection with the investigation under Messrs. Reese, Roberts, Sou and McLean be paid out of the special appropriation provided for said investigation.

That in view of the length of services and that it is hoped in the near future to have collection for all departments made by the city treasurer, thus effecting a considerable saving in office staff, that the application of Miss Meyers for an increase be favorably considered and that her salary dating from September 1st, 1926, be at the rate of $70 per month.

'TWAS HOT TODAY

While the temperature today hovered around the 80 mark, it was not much higher than a year ago when it registered 79. Yesterday the maximum was 64 as compared with 71 for the same date last year. The minimum yesterday was 54.

Chic Clothes from Sinclairs Adorn Kiwanis' Mannequins

Northway's clothes alone would not have made Miss Toronto famous at Atlantic City when she was there exclusively at that fashionable resort recently. This is easy to believe after seeing the lovely garments displayed by the charming mannequins who modelled for Sinclair's at the fashion show at the Kiwanis Karnival last evening, wearing many of the Northway products.

It was really a delight to hear the exclamations of admiration and absolute surprise which greeted the beautiful costumes displayed by the girls. When the wonderful lines, fabrics and workmanship on the gowns and cloaks were really realized, everyone could readily accept the saying that one might as well be out of the world, as out of style. Nobody could ever be quite happy with any substitute for the ultra modern dresses, coats and cloaks they saw last evening.

One feature of Sinclair's display was the fur fabric coats. Four coats were presented so closely resembling fur that the audience could not be convinced by words that they were not "animal grown." They were startlingly beautiful in texture, in faithful reproduction to the original animal fur, in lines and in the beautiful linings. The dresses featured the two-piece styles and were so lovely that Miss Garbe, professional mannequin, owned up that "she was really envious of the women who would own the lovely clothes—she had never seen more variety and style." Evening dresses, sport dresses, dinner dresses, dreams for every occasion, were shown in such lovely colors and variety as to bewilder the audience really to find which was loveliest. When it is considered that the clothes are from the Northway, Harry Robin, Livingston and Scott, it is little wonder that the show was surprising.

Wonderful furs from Delaney's were displayed and hats from Miss McCrudan's splendid stock. Miss Campbell also presented her really exclusive line of millinery with the fur coats from Delaney's.

FEAR TYPHOID SO GET SERUM

Men Inoculated and Then Conscripted For Salvage Work

Miami, Sept. 24.—Florida's hurricane stricken lower east coast bent its efforts today to the prevention of disease and the removal of homeless refugees to cities to the northward for shelter and refuge. Thousands yesterday heeded their arms to the anti-typhoid needle and while serums were being used up quickly aeroplanes were bringing in more from the north. Meanwhile thousands of refugees were leaving for their former homes in the north and for northern Florida cities where food, clothing and shelter awaits them. All women and children are being removed from Hollywood where the greatest fury of the storm was felt. All men have been conscripted for the work of clearing away the mass of tangled wreckage. Additional survey of the sixty mile coastal area where the storm was worst felt showed 316 known dead. 1,000 injured, and a property loss of approximately $165,000,000.

OHIO IS CENTRE OF HEAVY STORM

Near - Cyclone Levelled Stretch of Earth 100 Yards Wide

Cleveland, Ohio., Sept. 24.—Ohio today began checking up the damage done yesterday by a tornado in Sandusky and Erie Counties, by a storm of cyclone proportions in Columbiana County, by water spouts in Lake Erie off Lorrain and Huron and by a steady downpour of rain which inundated fields throughout the state. Total damage was estimated today at between $100,000 and $250,000. No lives were lost in any of the storms but according to early checks some were injured probably fatally.

YOUR LAST CHANCE TO ATTEND KIWANIS KARNIVAL TO NIGHT

Tonight will bring to a close the Kiwanis Club's most successful week's Carnival and Style Show

MISS TORONTO WILL ACT IN THE GRAND DRAWING FOR HOPE CHEST TO-NIGHT

Tonight someone is going to be the lucky winner of the Hope Chest that has been on exhibition all week in the booth at the Kiwanis Karnival. This beautiful chest contains more than $100.00 worth of fine merchandise—and at the close of the program on the stage tonight, Miss Toronto will act in the capacity of drawing the lucky name from the hundreds of slips. This will be done on the stage and the name immediately announced. All holders of tickets are urgently asked to be present as the lucky winner can appear on the platform.

CHILDREN WORE PRETTY COSTUME

School Fair at Sidney Town Hall — Public Speaking Contest

Viewed from any angle or from every angle the school fair held yesterday at Sidney Town Hall surpassed any previous school fair held at Wallbridge.

The exhibits were more numerous, better in quality and better presented than ever previously and the judge, Mr. A. A. Poole, of the Department of Agriculture at New market was emphatic in his congratulations to the pupils responsible for so creditable a fair.

A very pretty feature of the fair was the parade competition in which the pupils of Allendale, the winners, were shepherdess costumes of pink and white and carried crooks. The winners were trained by Miss Nellie Finkle. School section No. 10 of which Mrs. Bert Bush is teacher wore khaki costumes with red kerchiefs and carried nets. School section No. 20 of which Miss Helen Rogers is in charge wore blue middy dresses and white sailor caps. Sering, 17, Mrs. Cecil Frost's pupils, were costumed as blue jays. Miss Luella Knapp's pupils of No. 13 wore flower decorated costumes; and Miss Hazel Walker's pupils of No. 5 wore similar costumes to No. 13. After considerable deliberation weighing each point, Mr. Karl Morrow awarded the prize to Avondale.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The public speaking contest was in the opinion of Mr. Roy Atkin of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, agreeable to the county. In this Miss Myrtle Cummings, of Avondale No. 2, Miss Mary Orser, of No. 10, Miss Reta Brown of No. 2 and Miss Verna Chard of No. 17, contended that "Education is of more benefit to the children of Hastings than great wealth". The points brought out by the children were very clever and very astutely presented especially by Miss Myrtle Cummings whose address also won the prize and proved her to be a coming platform orator.

MISS TORONTO TO AID KIWANIS

Will Display Atlantic City Costumes to Admiring Throng

Miss Tolmie or Miss Toronto, will appear in the Style Show again tonight at the Kiwanis Karnival, and she will display the official costumes that she wore to Atlantic City. These costumes are valued at $1500.00 and will be well worth seeing.

Miss Toronto's second appearance in Belleville within three days, was made possibly only by almost night and day travelling, as she was modelling in Tillsonburg last evening, and by leaving there at 5 o'clock this morning was able to arrive here at 4.25 this afternoon.

Following the Style Show tonight Miss Toronto will mingle with the crowd and will be pleased to meet any and all—she will play the games and attend the dance.

Miss Toronto's arresting personality and charming appearance made for her many admirers the other evening, and they will no doubt wait to see her again in her Atlantic City wardrobe.

HOSTILE TO CAPT. FONCK

Minola, N. Y., Sept. 21.—District Attorney Edwards today made public an affidavit by Col. H. E. Hartney, former general manager of Aeronauts Inc., backers of the disastrous Fonck ski plane flight in which he stated he resigned from the organization because he believed Capt. Rene Fonck was incompetent to handle a ship of that size and load.

RE-ORGANIZATION EFFECTED OF BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERY

Belleville Presbytery met at Stirling on Thursday and transacted much business.

The chairman Rev. A. J. Wilson, B.A., of Napanee, conducted devotional exercises, followed by a roll call and constitution of the court. On motion it was decided that a chairman or co-chairman be not eligible for re-election. It was also decided to elect without nomination.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Tabernacle Church of this city was elected chairman, Rev. C. C. R. McQuade, of Odessa, re-elected clerk, and Mr. Harold Martin, of Stirling, re-elected treasurer.

Organization being completed standing committees were appointed for the year, thirteen in all. Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Religious Education and Young Peoples work, colleges and students, statistics and roll, finance, church property and boundaries of pastoral charges, ministerial relationship, maintenance and extension, stewardship, Sabbath observance, vising records of congregations.

Reports of committee were heard and some live discussions followed. Rev. D. C. Ramsey, M.A., and Rev. C. W. Barrett spoke on behalf of Queen's theological college and Rev. Dr. E. M. Baker for New Albert, boys College which opens Tuesday 28 September.

Dr. Solast, of Toronto gave an interesting across on the literature designed for moral and spiritual development of our young people.

Rev. Fred J. Harwood Msc. D.O.C., having resigned his charge at Mission to devote his time to teaching. Rev. W. C. Barrett, of Stirling, was appointed interim moderator for the May meeting.

Rev. H. B. Kenny was elected to represent the Presbytery on the executive of the Settlement Committee, of which he is a member. Members of the Presbytery were invited to attend a Conference on Dominion and World Service, Sydney Hall, Toronto, Tuesday, Oct 5 and 7, when outstanding speakers will give addresses.

Some matters were laid over until the next meeting. The report of Conference Committee on charge of boundaries of Presbyterials and the report regarding the election of commissioners to general council.

The next Presbytery meeting to be held in Holloway Church in the city.

MORE FAKE "EVIDENCE"

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 22.—Clarence Wiseman, 19, son of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sleight, who confessed attempting to manufacture testimony to support the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping story, admitted to District Attorney Keyes early today that he had been a 'plant' in the alleged evidence fraud.

Wiseman said he had been coached to tell newspapermen he drove his mother to and from Carmel during the time Kenneth Ormiston and the mysterious woman companion occupied the cottage there. Keyes said the youth's testimony completed the chain of evidence in the Carmel angle of the case.

HEAVY FROSTS HURTING WEST

Fear Losses to Farmers is to Run Into Millions of Dollars

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Snow, rain and sleet which has prevailed throughout Western Canada for the past two days, have caused the most serious delay in harvesting the prairie grain crop in many years. Fears are generally entertained that the final yield will be greatly reduced and that millions of dollars will be lost to the Canadian farmers through deterioration of grade values. The cold wave that hovered over Alberta for several days has spread over the entire western grain belt, Manitoba being visited by a snow storm last night that reached blizzard proportions in some districts. Wintry conditions are general throughout the prairies and heavy frosts are reported from several points. Alberta continued to bear the brunt of the inclement weather, Calgary and Edmonton districts experiencing 18 and 12 degrees of frost respectively.

GIFT TO P. E. C. HOSPITAL

A gift to the Prince Edward County Hospital which has pleased the Superintendent, Miss Gaden, and the nurses beyond measure, is a beautiful water cooler with porcelain tank and glass water receptacle. This gift has been made by Miss Mary Dunkley in memory of her departed sister, Lizzie Dunkley, and in addition to being a thing of beauty, it will assure the patients of cool refreshing drinks at all times.

LABOR CONGRESS DEMANDS ACTION

Advice to Defy Court Injunction Rejected by Big Majority

PICKETING QUESTION

Dispute Over Proposals of "Left Wing" to Ignore Court Orders

Montreal, Sept. 24.—Peaceful picketing" was a subject which stopped deep feeling amongst the delegates at yesterday's meeting of the 42nd convention of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, held at the Mount Royal Hotel. The discussion was enlivened by the efforts of the "left or red wing" of the Congress to induce the executive committee to go to the extent of advising and aiding labor to continue picketing, whether or not against the law, and to ignore injunctions of courts in that respect.

The radical element fared badly, however, when it was a matter of voting though prominent in the debate. The various clauses of the report of the special committee named to deal with the matter were adopted, except for the last clause, and this will be taken up on resumption of sittings today. There was a battle even as to whether the convention was to adjourn at thereguler closing hour, and adjournment had ac be voted on.

Tim Buck, of Toronto, and Delegate John Macdonald, also of Toronto, led the fight against the ideas of the special committee, of which Vice-President Jas. Simpson, Toronto, is chairman, and indirectly against the whole executive committee of Congress. There were amendments proposed which had to be voted down, but throughout it was shown that the vast majority were content to leave to the executive council the task of pressing, first, for amendments to the Criminal Code, which would make it clear that picketing is legal, and, secondly, to have provincial legislation in each province, which would prevent the civil courts granting injunctions against picketing.

Dr. H. L. Northrup, of Philadelphia, was elected president of Homeopathic Medical Society of Pennsylvania.

PUNCH AND LIQUOR ADS

Noted Magazine of Humor Will Refuse Contracts

London, Sept. 24.—Punch has decided hereafter to refuse to print advertisement of liquor. After the existing contracts expire no new ones will be entered into for such advertisements. No explanation for this revolutionary move has been vouchsafed.

"I have no statement to make about the matter at all," said P. L. Agnew, chairman and managing director of the company owning Punch. "With all courtesy, I must refuse to discuss the matter."

ARE TO HONOR THREE PREMIERS

Freedom of City For Prime Ministers Attending Imperial Conference

London, September 24.—The Corporation of the City of London has unanimously decided to confer the freedom of the gold boxes to Premier J. B. M. Hertzog, of South Africa, and Premier J. G. Coates, of New Zealand, and Premier Walter S. Monroe, of Newfoundland, on the occasion of their visit here in connection with the Imepiral Conference, which opens on October 19.

The freedom of the city is being conferred in recognition of the eminent positions these statesmen occupy in the dominions they represent, and in recognition of their services to the British Empire.

The ceremony will be held in the Guildhall, the grand civic hall where sovereigns and princes are entertained, freedoms conferred and the great city functions take place.

TO USE ANCIENT PLOWS

International Match Will Have Medieval Aspect

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 25.—A feature of the international ploughing match to be held here on October 12, 13, 14 and 15 will be ploughing with a yoke of oxen and an ancient plough. C. F. Malone, of Stamford, has brought a span of oxen weighing a ton each from Manitoba, and will enter in the matches. A plough at least 125 years old will be used.

MOOSE APLENTY HUNTERS LUCKY

Good Reports From Two Sections Where Sportsmen Flock in

Montreal, Que., Sept. 24.—That the present moose hunting season, which opened on September 10th, has already surpassed any previous seasons in the Vermilion River District along the line of the Canadian National Railway, is the opinion of Armand Tremblay, the well known outfitter of Latuque, who has just returned from Creek Des Prairies.

What is more, Mr. Tremblay's opinion is backed up very substantially by the fact that, with the season but thirteen days old, nine American sportsmen have bagged a moose each, with antlers ranging from a spread of thirty-eight inches to fifty-three inches.

Equally good hunting is also reported from the Lake St. John and Lake Edward districts along the Canadian National Railways. Moose are already beginning to answer to the call and sportsmen are assured of good hunting whatever district they decide on going to.

TWO KIND FISH

Mr. Harold Wallace of Sneigrove, near Brantford, landed two good-sized muskellunge, while trolling at Moira Lake yesterday morning. The beauties tipped the scales at 24 and 18 pounds respectively. Reports emanating from Moira Lake are to the effect that the big fish are biting with considerable fierceity at this season.

AN ENORMOUS EGG PLANT

Mr. A. R. Scott, 362 Dufferin Ave., brought to The Intelligencer Office today an unusually large home-grown egg plant, measuring nine inches in length, twenty-one inches in circumference and weighing four pounds and five ounces. The average weight of the vegetable is in the neighborhood of one pound, so Mr. Scott has reason to feel proud of his ability in producing this specimen. The seed was purchased from Chas. E. Bishop and in the spring when the plant reached above the ground, a glass was placed over the top which helped materially in increasing the growth.

CONDITION THE SAME

The condition of Mrs. Frank F. Reid, who is lying seriously injured in Belleville Hospital remains the same today. The physicians who are attending her are holding out hopes for recovery.

BASKETBALL

Forms 1D and 1C played the opening basketball game of the season on the High School grounds last night. This was the first game to be played for the Riggs Trophy. The trophy is given annually to form which proves itself the best basketball players. Form 1D was an easy victory for 1C. The line-up was as follows: 1D—Evelyn Jack, r.f.; Lenore Stafford, l.f.; G. MacLaurin, c.; Helen Lee, r.g.; Barbara Holton and Ethel Reid, l.g. 1C—Betty Corrigan, r.f.; Dorothy Lambert, l.f.; Edna Harris, c.; Thelma Redick, r.g.; Mary Grass, l.g.

ACCIDENT TO TOY

Billy, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs D. C. Elliott, 267 John street, was the victim of an unusual and painful accident yesterday when while eating an all-day sucker he fell, the stick cutting the back of his throat. It was found necessary to put in four stitches. Dr. J. J. Robertson is in attendance.

$200.00 AND ONE MONTH

Patrick Cahrna, proprietor of the Stewart House, Deseronto, who was arrested by Officers Sylvester and Hitchcock, last week, on a charge of "keeping liquor for sale" was fined $200.00 and costs, five days month in jail at Napanee yesterday. He was defended by Mr. Simpson of Napanee.

CASE DISMISSED

Two residents of Pinnacle Street, settled their differences over a "spite fence" in police court this morning, it was alleged that a fence was built by one of the parties which obstructed the view of another neighbors and complications arose between them. The case was dismissed and the costs of $7.50 paid by the defendant.

QUEEN'S AND PICTON

Dr. G. A. Platt, B.A., M.A., M.D., of Picton, ex-president of the Alma Mater Society, ex-editor of the Queen's Journal and ex-captain of the Queen's rugby squad, is the organizer of the Prince Edward Branch of the Alumni Association. Graduates in Picton and vicinity will celebrate the formation of their branch and inaugurate their campaign at a banquet to be held in the near future.

BACON AND HOG FAIR

Many from Belleville and the vicinity left today for the Bacon and Hog fair which is being held at Stirling at the station yard. The judges are Messrs L. Pearsall, of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, R. B. Martin, of the Provincial Live Stock Branch and Homer Maybee of the Dominion Hog Graders, of Toronto.

Deaths & Funerals

MISS HAMANN

The funeral of the late Miss Hamann took place on Thursday afternoon from the residence of her brother, Mr. A. Hamann, Foxboro village. At the house and interment at Frankford cemetery. Rev. R. O. Stewart, of St. Andrew's Church, city, officiated.

Many were in attendance and the floral tributes were beautiful in effect. Bearers were G. Clemens, C. Massey, E. Wescott, J. B. Day, F. B. Spencer and R. B. Hamilton.

BUTTERFLY LANGUAGE

Butterflies converse by signs, not by spoken words, according to Mr. Coulson Kernahan, the well-known author. Their language is not unlike that of deaf and dumb women and men, he says. At a distance, butterflies semaphore to each other by closing, opening, snapping or trailing their wings; but, sitting beside one another on a flower-bed, a leaf, or a wall, their conversation is carried on by means of certain upward, downward, and sideway movements of their feelers or antennae, using their wings to emphasize a point, just as we make gestures with our hands.

Budapest holds the world's record for suicides with an average of five a day for the past several months.

Social and Personals

Miss Shore, Y. D. M., returned yesterday from London.

Miss Snider of Kitchener is in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Hill are in Ottawa for a short visit.

Mr. Harry Redden left recently for Peterboro where he will attend Normal School.

Miss Margery Warren of New York is in the city visiting her brother, Mrs. Warren, Victoria Ave.

Mr. C. L. Orrill, of the Bank of Montreal staff, has gone to Campbellford to relieve at the Bank office there.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bennett and daughter Joan of Toronto are spending a few days with Mrs. Bennett's parents, 167 Victoria Ave.

Col. W. N. Ponton K. C., Past Grand Master of the Masonic fraternity was last evening the speaker at St. Clair's Chapter, R. A. M., of Toronto.

Mrs. (Rev.) C. S. Lord of Pension Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lord and Master Ian of St. Mary's are in the city, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bampstead.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tice and Mr. and Mrs. George Tice, of Belleville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Pybus, 188 East street, after attending the baseball game Wednesday afternoon. —Kingston Standard.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Macklem and daughter Ruth, of Chatham street, left the city today on a motor trip to visit friend and relatives in Detroit, Ont. On their return they will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carson who have spent the summer in that city.

After eluding the searchers for the Mysterious Miss Kinsale for over two hours at the Kiwanis Karnival last night, she was finally identified as Miss Phyllis Hamilton, of Miss Jean Galway. A strange coincidence lies in the fact that Miss Galway was herself the "mysterious one" last year.

Mrs. W. H. Gilbert and Mrs. F. E. Malott were hostesses at the regular weekly tea given at the Belleville Rowing Club and Mrs. Deacon and Mrs. Holton poured tea. The affair was a very great success and the ladies present took a keen interest in the game played in the Lazier cup series for which the finals will be played on Tuesday.

Mrs. Simpson Rusk, formerly Mrs. Olive Ferguson of Belleville, whose wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening in Deseronto, at the home of her uncle, Mr. John Armstrong, is in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wardner until tomorrow afternoon when she will leave for her new home.

Alderman and Mrs. Wotten met charming Miss Garbe (Miss Niagara Peaches) at the 4.30 C.N.R. yesterday afternoon and drove the fairest beauty to the Quinte were she had dinner previous to appearing at the Kiwanis Karnival. Alderman Wotten is still wondering which is the lovelier of the two, Miss Toronto or Miss Garbo, and refuses to commit himself to an expression of opinion.

At the rectory of Emmanuel Church yesterday afternoon, Mrs. George Marshall entertained at the first of a series of tea to be given by the Ladies Aid of the Church, and a large number dropped in to tea during the afternoon. The reception room was decorated with a profusion of shasta daisies and the tea table with its pretty appointments of roses and fern was presided over by Mrs. R. H. Ketcheson assisted by Mrs. Robert Santer, Twila Warham and Bessie Hart.

Again last evening Miss Mikal's dancing class delighted the huge crowd at the Kiwanis Karnival with a charming programme and the sad leave was most insistent in its encores. The graceful little dancers were irresistible and their costumes clever. The programme opened with Pierrot and Pierette by Miss Constance Marsh and Miss Alice McIntosh, followed by a valsette by Miss Lillian Rushworth. "Goodnight" by Lois Corman and Phyllis Temple, "Minuet by Misses Alice McIntosh and Sheila Taylor, "French Dolls" the Shorey twins, Jean and Betty, and "Gallope Brilliante" by Misses Esther Marsh, Constance Marsh and Lillian Rushworth.

EUROPEAN TOURS

WHERE THE MOSQUITO FORGETS TO STING

About six hours by steamer from Venice, I came to the beautiful Brioni Islands, a small group off Pola, in the Adriatic Sea. Of all the pleasant places on the Istrian coast, I think this spot must be claimed as the finest for a holiday and rest. It is different from most resorts. On the largest island which is the real resort, there is no village, simply round the lovely harbor stand the hotels and the Casino; yet the island is complete with every comfort as much as if it were next door to Naples. The irregular coastline is wooded down to the water's edge and the avenues away from the shore are flanked with palms and semi-tropical plants. The ruins of a Roman villa testify to the fact that it has been loved for a holiday for two thousand years. There are also the remains of a basilica and arches. Its beaches are a delight to children and to bathers and if there are mosquitos here, they forget to sting, for there has never been anyone stung on the Brioni islands yet.

ONE DAY AT AARHUS

Having ordered a carriage the day before by telephone I proceeded to Agri and thence over Mols Bjerge, enjoying every moment the landscapes where the numerous heather covered hills are crowned by acres and acres of barrows, the last resting place of the Vikings. Soon we arrive at Femmoller, the Fire Watermills, with its good hotel. Thence to Kalo and a visit to the ruins of the old castle, on the peninsula. In this old royal castle Gustavus Vasa of Sweden was once a prisoner. From Valo we drove to the famous castle of Rosenholm, the ancient home of the Rosenkrantz family, and after asking permission, were allowed to see some of its fine interiors. From Hornslet station near by, I got the evening train back to Aarhus, quietly brimming over with the calm of the passing countrysides and the thoughts of the past which ruined castles and ancient burial mounds.

FAILURE MADE SUCCESS

The New York Times marked its 75th birthday on September 18, and, like everything else the Times does, its anniversary number was a review of city, national and Times growth.

Today the New York Times is a recognized success. It is impartial in its views, but never spineless. If there's news to be had the Times gets it apparently regardless of the price it has to pay for it.

When the world war broke the New York Times did what many other U. S. papers hesitated to do—faced the fact that the place for the United States was with the Allies, and without any evasion did so persistently.

Today it is a paper of tremendous revenues, a commercial success and a newspaper achievement. In 1896 its revenue was $500,000; for the past 12 months it was $25,000 000.

That the fact makes it all the more interesting to dig back a trifle into newspaper history to the days when the Times was flat on its back, its credit no good and deficits running $1,000 a day.

That was 1896. True, prior to that time it had been "rescued" by several interested groups of men; it had been revived by men who wanted to use it to repair the political fortunes of men who sought some ready channel to the public's ear.

It was at this juncture that Adolph S. Ochs came to New York to look the situation over. Mr. Ochs, at the age of 20, had secured the Chattanooga Times on a cash payment of $250, and he had made a success of the paper. He was certain there was a field for the New York Times, and the successes that have crowded in on that paper since the resourceful Ochs put his hand to the helm have been chapters of satisfactory awards for service well rendered.

A flat failure in 1896, and today and for some years past one of the outstanding successes of newspaperdom. The story of the New York Times is something for a man in any field to think about.

OLAJEN
Trade Mark Registered
A Builder From Childhood to Old Age
Trial Offer
If by chance your druggist hasn't Olajen in stock, send us $1.00 for a trial jar. With it you are not absolutely satisfied, your money will be returned. We cannot better demonstrate our faith in Olajen than that. Now, can we?
To Parents of Children Between 5 and 16 Years of Age
If your children appear to be outgrowing their strength, if they are underweight, anaemic and generally listless, they need Olajen. Olajen is simply wonderful in cases of underweight, malnutrition, anaemia, loss of appetite or nervous diseases. Hundreds of physicians are prescribing it to remedy these conditions. It gives splendid and rapid results.
WHAT OLAJEN IS MADE OF
Olajen is not a liquid medicine or a pill. It tastes like chocolate fudge. The base of it is chocolate with a combination of Iron, Sodium, Calcium, Lecithin and Protanicol. Olajen restores these vital mineral elements to the blood. We say that no other preparation has so far been able to do. Olajen is a scientific combination of food and mineral medicine.
Remember, the medical profession has been testing and prescribing Olajen for years.
Buy Olajen from your local druggist. He has Olajen in stock or can get it for you at $1.00 in about a week to ten days. Three or four weeks' treatment will be sufficient for you to notice the wonderful improvement in your children's pep, energy and digestion.
OLAJEN, LIMITED, 27 FRONT STREET E., TORONTO
Olajen can be obtained from the following Belleville Druggists: D. G. BLEECKER, DOLAN'S DRUG STORE, DOYLE'S DRUG STORE, LATTIMER-LAVOIE DRUG'S LTD., J. S. McKEOWN, A. R. SCHRYVER, OSTROM'S DRUG STORE

CONQUERING DIPHTHERIA

The Ottawa Journal draws attention to the fact that Dr. S. J. Crumbine, General Secretary of the American Child Health Association, says the time is near at hand "when every care of diphtheria will be an indictment against the intelligence of parents, and it will not be many years before every death from diphtheria will be referred to a coroner's jury for investigation to fix criminal responsibility." This is a pretty strong statement, but there would appear to be good grounds for it. The experience of Auburn, N.Y., is cited in support of it. Up to 1922 diphtheria cases invariably ran over the hundred mark, with deaths numerous. In that year, however, the inoculation of school children began, with the result that there has not been a death in the city from that disease since March, 1924. Fifteen cases were reported in 1925; but they were all among unprotected persons. Not a single case occurred among those who had taken preventive treatment. Not one child has lost a day from school because of diphtheria, since he new method was made effective.

Therefore parents should take notice of this. But it is not alone diphtheria that medical service is conquering. There is reason to believe that in time scarlet fever and other diseases will also be, while there are hopes that in time cancer will share their fate.

LIMITING THE DRIVERS

The Outlook:

Statistics tell us that there is now one auto for every five people in Uniacombe. We suggest the limiting of drivers to four pedestrians each.

IN NO POSITION

The Outlook:

The wife of a dying man sent out for a preacher to come to the bedside of her husband, who was no better than he should have been. The preacher came and said, "You had better renounce the devil, my friend."

"Renounce the devil!" exclaimed the dying man. "Why I am not in the position to make any enemies now."

A REMEDY

Life:

Hafter: I'm becoming so nearsighted that I bump into people when I walk along the street."

Shafter: "Goodness, man! That's dangerous. Why don't you buy a car and drive it?"

A VERY BAD FOG

A business man in London one foggy morning received a telephone message from his bookkeeper.

"I'm sorry, sir," the bookkeeper said, "but can't come down to the office this morning on account of the fog. I have not yet arrived home yesterday."

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH
K. K. Kellogg

Jealous Women
YOU can't blame them. Beauty and health are given but they are difficult to keep. No wonder women guard them jealously. No wonder their mirrors reveal the furtive glances of the afraid. It is too bad that women do not realize that constipation's ruinous poisons undermine health, destroy beauty, sap vitality and sicken with headaches. But thank goodness, beauty and health may be safeguarded by safely, surely and permanently relieving constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.
No matter if constipation has become chronic, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will bring permanent relief. This is why: ALL-BRAN journeys through the body unchanged in fiber. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It is 100% bran and brings 100% results.
All Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps through the intestine, it cleans and purifies—stimulates the flow of digestive juices—absorbs and carries moisture. It causes a laggard intestine to function as nature intended. That's the splendid thing about the action of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—it promotes natural, healthy and regular elimination.
Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone, or with fresh or preserved fruit—sprinkle over other cereals; cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes on the package.
Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran product, for it cannot do a whole-bran job. Chances are, it will do no good at all. Don't take chances. All grocers sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

WAVE OF CRIME SWEEPS RUSSIA

Receives Its First Definite Check With the Death Sentence

Moscow, Sept. 24—A crime wave throughout the country that was growing more and more violent, got its first definite check today in the death sentence of Zalacki, a Chartov gangster convicted of killing a laborer. The central executive committee of the Ukraine promptly approved the sentence serving notice of a beginning of a fight to a finish against hooliganism.

The outbreak of crime began soon after the government sanctioned the sale of vodka of 40 per cent. alcohol and grew steadily worse until in the last few weeks the crimes against women and men became so frequent and violent that the country was aroused. A strong demand was voiced that the government class hooligans with bandits who may be shot without a regular court trial. In Moscow alone in the last three months 12,4550 complaints of gang crimes were made. In Leningrad all the labor bodies demanded that the death penalty be inflicted on the leaders of a gang of youths who had attacked a girl.

DANCING CLASS GAVE EXHIBITION TO DELIGHT CROWD

One of the charming features of the Kiwanis Karnival and one which was enjoyed until it looked as though the dancers must remain performing all evening; was the recital by Miss Audrey Mikel's dancing class.

From a huge box in which Jack Miss Esther Marsh) bounded to vision the different numbers were announced and included: Pizzicato a ballet dance by Miss Constance Marsh, a Dance Grotesque of Tomorrow, by charming little Mary Yose Thompson, French Dolls by the Sheery twins, Jean and Betty; Kolenka by Misses Lillian Rushworth, Constance Marsh, Winnifred Marsh, Alice McIntosh, Margaret Cummins, Elinor Gray and Helen Findlay. The latter was very charpingly presented in Russian costume.

Miss Mikel was most heartily congratulated on the success of her brilliant pupils whose performances told a tale of most talented instruction.

OSHAWA LIBERALS ASKS FOR RECOUNT

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 24—On behalf of W. H. Moore, Liberal candidate, application was made to-day before the County Judge for a recount of the ballots cast in the riding of Ontario in the general elections for House of Commons on Sept. 14. Returning officer, A. W. Jackson, last evening declared, Dr. T. S. Kaiser, Conservative elected with a majority of 870. Various discrepancies were disclosed, however, among other things 500 of the ballots distributed to D. R. O's in the city of Oshawa were not accounted for in the returns.

NIGHTGOWNS SHORTER

Declare Reports From Belgian and Irish Convents

London, Sept. 24—Word from Irish and Belgian convents, where the newest secrets of milady's lingerie are first known because her finest undershings are made there, indicates that nightgowns will be worn shorter this year.

Last year the nightgowns had a sort of mid-Victorian cut and reached to the ankles. But not so this year, according to other authorities in the convents. The 1926 nightgowns have a modish cut and reach down only to the knees.

The convents are looking ahead to a profitable season, too, due to the edict of the fashion-makers that lingerie must be cut to fit each gown, the petticoats ending just an inch above the bottom of the frock.

URGES "DOMINION SQUARES"

Ottawa, September 24.—That a fitting way to commemorate next year the 60th anniversary of the formation of the Dominion of Canada would be to decorate in each of the large centres in the country a square as a memorial to Confederation, is the proposal of Noulan Cauchon, town planning expert. He suggests that every town and city have a "Dominion Square." Montreal already has one, and he urges that Connaught Square in Ottawa be renamed and renamed in honor of Confederation.

BRITISH REINFORCEMENTS

Malta, September 24.—Nine British warships, consisting of the entire third flotilla of the Mediterranean fleet, have suddenly been detached from their station and are steaming toward China to reinforce H.M.S. Hawkins, ordered to China last week.

DUTCH CONSCRIPTS ARE INSUBORDINATE

Resentment at Training Results in Mutinous Outbreaks in Garrisons

The Hague, September 24.—There has been much disaffection among conscripts in the Dutch army during the last two months, and serious disorders broke out last night at two places.

Long route marches and other incidents of training have been responsible for disturbances in various garrison towns all over Holland. In one case the officers had to release an arrested soldiers in order to prevent further serious trouble.

The minister of war issued instruction sabout two weeks ago, regarding methods to be adopted in suppressing these insubordinate acts. He said military police units should be used only in extreme cases in which order could not be restored by ordinary means at the disposal of the commanders. The effect of the ministerial instructions, however, has been contrary to what was intended.

Serious disturbances occurred last night at two garrison towns—Assen and Ede. At Assen great damage was caused in the canteen by mutinous conscripts, who demanded more beer after a hot march. After due warning, followed by volleys fired in the air, orders were given to the guards to fire on the mutineers. A sergeant was killed and a soldier seriously wounded before order was restored. In this case no military police units were used, although they were held in reserve.

At Ede similar disturbances occurred but order was restored by the military police, who made several arrests. No shots were fired.

SICK WOMAN IS SAVED

Three Rivers, Que., Sept. 23.—The town of Nicolet, some 15 miles from here, this morning was swept by fire which destroyed the home of sixteen families, and buildings adjoining them. There were no injuries, but a sick woman had to be rescued from one of the houses. Fire broke out in a garage following the explosion of a gasoline tank.

Coal boat crashed into the bridge at Division street and Elston avenue, Chicago, and caused damage of $10,000.

PETERBORO KIDS TRIM KINGSTON

Northern Lads Go Into Finals With Merriton For Midget Honors

Peterboro Royals defeated Kingston circle 4S in a ladder death semi-final game in the midget O.B.A.A. series at the exhibition park yesterday afternoon by a score of 7-5. The winners will now meet Merriton in the finals. The Petes trailed for seven innings but in the eighth they scored four runs and put the game on ice.

These youngsters are all under 17 years of age and the brand of ball they played was really a revelation. Some of them have all the car-marks of coming ball players. Belleville should promote this midget and juvenile game and encourage the youngsters in their efforts.

Cripps started on the mound for Royals but developed a sore arm and was relieved by Holmes who pitched fairly effectively during the remainder of the game.

Matheson was going good up to the eighth inning but he walked two and the Petes promptly pounced on the opportunity to score. Woods pounded out the longest hit of the day, in the ninth when he pounded out a long three bagger to left field.

Waller Grow and Vern Weir umpired.

Kingston—Woods, 3b; Robinson, 1b; Quigley, c f; Elliot, 2b; McKee, s s; Bews, l f; Patterson, r f; Amey, c; Matheson, p; Elliot, p.

RED-LEGON REFUSES PRO. HOCKEY OFFER

Despite the tempting offer he received from the New York "American" hockey team, "Red" Legon of Peterboro has not turned sun-fans registered at Queen's for the winter session. Legon is a valued hockey player on the Queen's senior interfaculty team and is a halfback with the Queen's intermediate rugby team.

He played with the Petes two years ago when they beat out Belleville in second round games, and also with Pete Ball Club when Jakie Solomon was the big noise.

TUNNEY DEFEATS FLABBY DEMPSEY 132,000 LOOK ON

Popular Ex-Marine Wears Sceptre as World Champion

Philadelphia, September 24.—The sceptre of the world's heavyweight kingdom that Jack Dempsey had held since 1919, is wielded today by a new monarch, Gene Tunney, idol of the Marines and of New York's Greenwich Village.

Through a steady downpour of rain that drenched the greatest fight spectacle of all time, Tunney of the Marines, the man who shouldered a buck private's musket in the conflict of the ages, fought his way to the peak of ringside heights.

EXPERTS WERE WRONG

In a match that completely reversed the general expectations, stunning in its one sidedness, Tunney flayed and pounded the titleholder into semi-consciousness, Dempsey was so badly battered that only fighting instinct kept him on his feet through the hectic struggle to the final bell.

Tunney won all the way.

He was conqueror to all intents and purposes, after beating Dempsey to the ropes in the first round and staggering him with a succession of smashing rights to the head.

From then to the finish the challenger dominated the fight, out-fighting, out-boxing and out-generalling the title holder with a masterful exhibition.

Dempsey was a mere shadow of the fighting machine that has been ranked among the greatest in boxing annals.

DEMPSEY A SORRY FIGURE

Against a cool and calculating opponent such as Tunney, it would have taken Dempsey at his best to keep his crown. But such fighting equipment as he could summon for his last stand was pitifully inadequate to combat the determined, resourceful and smashing drives of the former Marine.

Both "good, battler" and "powerful right hand conclusion" exploded what the fondest hopes of his followers.

Dripping wet and bleeding from a half dozen cuts about his face, his left eye closed tightly and a lump the size of an egg over his right eye, Dempsey was a sorry, even if a game, figure in defeat. Three years of idleness have taken their toll.

The greatest fight crowd of all time, the largest in fact that ever paid to witness any sporting event anywhere—cut through the soaking downpour to see the passing of the old champion and the crowning of the new.

Some 132,000 filling the vast reaches of the mammoth stadium, paid the record sum of nearly $2,000,000 to see the fight.

Dempsey's great heart was willing to carry him into fury of battle. The spirit was there but the flesh ravaged by three years of idleness, could not be lashed into the supreme effort. Time and time again Tunney shook Dempsey until the latter's knees knew bent, not with one blow, but with a storm of punches. A weaker man, with less courage, undoubtedly would have gone under the attack, but Dempsey braten and beaten badly, never once stopped fighting.

No fighter in the modern history of the ring displayed more courage than Dempsey while losing his cherished crown. He was not the Dempsey of old, not by 50 percent, but he was game and asked for another chance at his conqueror.

Tunney's victory was a popular one. He unquestionably held the hopes of the vast majority of the crowd and he was cheered enthusiastically throughout the fight. In only two of the ten rounds, the sixth and the seventh, was Dempsey conceded an even break by the majority of ih critics. Tunney was sure of himself after his first few exchanges and from then on he held the upper hand.

FITHE MISSUS IS LOYAL

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Estelle Taylor of the movies who married the former world's heavyweight champion, hastened eastward today to comfort her husband.

"I don't care two whoops about fame, fights or fortunes," she proclaimed, "so long as his name is Jack Dempsey, and he's as crazy about me as I am about him."

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Gene Tunney new heavyweight champion, believes that he won the bout in the first round. "The right I landed on the point, after the first, fell didn't do Jack any good," he smiled. His followers are also of the same opinion. Experts analysing the battle generally today that the sting of Dempsey's punch had been lost as a result of his three years of inactivity. Dempsey looked splendid in training but in the fire of actual combat his timing of blows was amazingly poor and his coordination in delivery was off.

London, Sept. 24.—Jack Dempsey's defeat and Gene Tunney's accession to the heavyweight boxing title caused a sensation among sport lovers as most English critics believed that Dempsey would win within the first few rounds. Although the bout did not start until 2.30 a.m. London time many fans stayed up to listen to the report over the radio and read the extras put out by a number of morning papers.

NO DINGHY RACES

Not a breeze stirred on the Bay of Quinte Wednesday which condition precluded the postponement of the final dinghy race to be contested in the Hungerford cup series. The race will be run some day next week.

KOOTENAY IS BLANKETED

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 24.—Kootenay Lakes district and probably all of Kootenay in southern British Columbia, was covered by a blanket of snow this morning, following several days of rain. This is the earliest snow fall on record. The apple crop has only been partly picked.

BIRD NASH AUTO SALES

160 FRONT ST. BELLEVILLE.

"I Was in a Habit Rut."

"I had always used a safety razor. I'd insert a new blade—a good enough first shave; then each shave worse.

"The blade got duller and duller, until in a fret I'd throw it away and insert a new one. A constant annoyance, an expense.

"I thought I'd go through life shaving this way. Ever dissatisfied. I was in a habit rut.

"But now I own a Valet AutoStrop Razor. I sharpen the blade, I shave, I clean the razor, all without removing the blade.

"I'd never go back to the old way."

And neither will you go back to the old way when you have used the Valet AutoStrop Razor with the automatic self-stropping feature built right into the frame of the razor. Not only does it mean a "first shave" edge every day on the same blade, it also means a quicker and smoother shave.

Just switch for awhile. See if you'd go back to the old way.

ELECTRIC ENGINE CENTRAL FREIGHT

New 170-Ton Locomotive Hauls Load at 32 Miles an Hour

MOTORS AIR COOLED

Railroad Will Add Several to Equipment as Design Removes Old Difficulties

A new monster electric freight engine—the first of its kind to appear on the roads here—made a successful test run on the lines of the New York Central Monday, when it pulled a 108-car train nearly 150 miles at a maximum speed of more than thirty two miles an hour, without heating of encountering other difficulties which have impeded the use of electric engines for heavy duty.

As a result, the New York Central will add several similar engines to its equipment, for use over the electrified parts of the line between New York and Harmon, and over the West Side line as far as Seventy-second street when that section is electrified. The engine tested Monday was No. R. 1200, and No. 7201 is already under construction. When the electric engines are in use in Eleventh avenue and in Riverside Park it is believed that the complaints of noise and smoke will be eliminated.

1-A MILE LONG

Hooking on to the mile-long train, weighing more than 3,000 tons, at the train sheds of the New York Central at Harmon, the new locomotive made the three round trips to New York and back. At the throttle was J. J. Rogers, veteran Central engineer, and motorman driver of the Century. With him in the cab was R. Gildersleeve, another picked man from the railroad's passenger engineer force.

After the drive Rogers came down from the cab, rubbing his hands together. "She pulled easier than The Century ever did," he exclaimed. Thirty-three technical experts made careful examinations of the visit parts, and declared them in perfect condition after the test run, and H. A. Currie, assistant electrical engineer of the New York Central, declared the engine, which was designed especially for his road, to be a success.

OFFICIALS RIDE IN CABOOSE

In the caboose which followed immediately after the engine in the long train rode Mr. Currie, W. S. Hamilton, electrical engineer of the General Electric Company, assemblers of the locomotive; J. T. Seavey, assistant engineer in the electrical engineering department of the New York Central; J. A. Connely, superintendent of electrical equipment, and Miles Bron son, superintendent of the electrical division of the New York Central.

Installed in the same car were instruments which recorded on dials and tapes the temperature of the motors, the current being consumed, the speed attained, and the other technical points under observation during the test. Mr. Currie described it as the most complete and elaborate test run ever given any piece of railroad machinery.

BUILT BY GENERAL ELECTRIC

The engine was built by the General Electric Company, at Schenectady, of parts manufactured by the American Locomotive Company. It is made up of two units, joined in such a manner as to allow the sixty-eight foot locomotive to flex in the middle when going around sharp curves. Each unit consists of a cab and two four-wheel trucks, on arranged that controls in both ends allow it to be run in either direction without turning. Its safe running speed is sixty miles an hour. There are eight motors; one mounted on each axle, and the whole locomotive weighs 770 tons.

Mr. Hamilton, one of the designers of the new engine, explained that the principal difficulty with electrical locomotives for heavy handling lies in the motors, which tend to overheat unless they are made so large and heavy as to be impractical. In the new product of his plant this problem has been solved by a unique design and by the use of blowers which pump a stream of cold air through the motors as they run.

Mrs. Laura White, 35, of Canton, Ohio, was seriously wounded by her husband who mistook the movement of her arm behind a tree for a squirrel.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

The stark realism of "The Volga Boatman," Cecil B. De Mille's new personally-directed feature, is softened to make it one of the most talked-of pictures of the season, in its opinion of many critics. Presenting for a background the tumultuous days of Russia in Revolution, De Mille has woven in romance, melodrama and humor with a high-handed capitalism as his setting for the spectacular without losing the human touch.

A startling contrast between the splendor of the aristocracy, and the squalor of the peasants is brought out in the picture, which follows the experiences of three leading characters—a Prince, a Princess and a Volga Boatman—through the Russian revolution. William Boyd plays the title role, while Elinor Fair, Victor Varconi, Julia Faye and Theodore Kosloff are also featured. "The Volga Boatman," will be shown at the Belle today and Saturday and was adapted for the screen by Lenore J. Coffee from Konrad Bercovici's original story.

AT GRIFFIN'S

One of the greatest assemblages of comedians ever to play in a single picture appears in the cast of "Monte Carlo," Christy Cabanne's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy now playing at Griffin's theatre.

The picture is a farcical satire on the deportations of American tourists, written around the adventures of three girls who win a trip to "Monte Carlo" in a newspaper contest. It is entertaining.

Since his invention of villainous roles, Lew Cody has gained wide recognition, as a whimsical comedian and in this part may be supported by such high experts as Tyler Brisson, favorite of screen and stage, whose "Hop of Tris" has a vaudeville hit; Jeffrey Karl Dunn, the comedy star of "The Big Parade"; Cesare Gravina, Harry Myers of "Connecticut Yankee" fame; Arthur Hoyt, the "height of insignificance," and ZaSu Pitts the feminine Buster Keaton.

The Old Love Or New?

"Sir, your presence here is an outrage and an annoyance to this lady."

"By what right do you make yourself the arbiter of my actions, and the interpreter of this lady's wishes?"

The two young men faced each other haughtily, with flashing eyes and angry looks. Lord Elford, white and calm, even his anger only betrayed itself by the angry glance and firmly-closed lips; while the Duca Carouli was trembling with indignation, and his dark Italian, beautiful face was white and distorted with fury.

It was very unfortunate, thought poor Annore, who was a very reluctant spectator of this unpleasant interview; but Lord Elford had been announced in the midst of one of the young Duca's most passionate declarations, in which his passion and fervor had been sufficiently expressed to frighten Annette, and Lord Elford was only too ready to offer his protection her pleading glance demanded.

"Your persistence is unmanly to a degree," said his lordship, towering over the shorter form of the young foreigner.

"Mademoiselle Chabert has given you your answer. You have a strange idea of what is due to a lady, Duca."

"I want no lessons in good breeding from you, milord," retorted the other seriously. "I was not aware that Mademoiselle Chabert had given you permission to select her visitors, and give the congé those of whom you do not approve."

You will be good enough to leave mademoiselle's name out of the discussion," said Lord Elford, haughtily. "I see you annoying a lady, and claim the right to interfere. Do not be alarmed," he added, with a sudden change of tone, as he turned to Annette. "Leave me to deal with this fellow. I am afraid, we are distressing you."

But the Duca's furious anger terrified Annette, and she dared not leave them alone together; so she shook her head in silence, and stood by, looking very much distressed.

"Signor," said Lord Elford, calming himself by a strong effort, "surely you have some regard for mademoiselle's wishes?"

"You requested me to leave mademoiselle's name out of the discussion," the other said, with an insolent laugh. "You are the first to drag it in."

"Sir, your conduct is——"

"Oh! hush, Lord Elford!" Annette cried, in terror, catching his arm.

"Forgive me," he said, instantly, with great gentleness; "I had forgotten your presence."

He put her gently into a chair, "We can resume this discussion then, trusting again, he said; when and where you will, Signor Duca; at present it must cease."

"As you please, milord," was the equally haughty reply. "But do I understand that those words are meant for my dismissal?"

"Certainly," he said.

"But I accept dismissal from on one mademoiselle," said, the Duca haughtily turning to Annette with a bow, and fixing his dark, passionate eyes upon her despairingly.

"I have already told you, signor, that this persecution—I can give it no gentler name—pains me considerably," said Annette, firmly.

"That sufficies," he returned, growing white to his lips. "Mademoiselle, I kiss your hands. Milord, we shall meet."

So saying, he turned on his heel, and left the room, while Annette, feeling embarrassed and uncomfortable, gave a little nervous shudder, and tried to conceal it with a laugh.

"I am very glad he is gone," she said, trying to speak gayly. "He frightened me dreadfully."

"He has but little control over himself," said Lord Elford; "though, indeed, I did not show much myself. Can you forgive me for having behaved in such a hasty and unwarrantable manner?"

"There is nothing to forgive in so much zeal for my service," she answered, smiling at him, and giving him a kind glance, which emboldened Lord Elford to draw a step nearer.

"My zeal carried me too far," he said, gently. "You are trembling still; I am afraid this has startled you dreadfully."

"Oh! no. I am foolishly nervous, but I have not been very strong lately, you know, and the Duca looked an absurdly melodramatic Lord Elford," she went on, struck by a sudden thought. "I hope—oh! I hope you will not let this foolish discussion go any further. You will not quarrel with him?"

"Not if I can help it," he answered, looking well pleased at her anxiety. "Would you care, Annette——"

"I could not bear any quarrel about me," she said, hastily; and then she leaned back in the armchair, and looked out into the Regent's Park, in which the trees were just beginning to don their fresh green spring attire.

Lord Elford and Annette were in the drawing-room of a pretty house which M. Chabert had hired for the London season, for the young prima donna had an engagement at the Royal Italian Opera, and great things were prophesied of her in the newspapers, although M. Adolphe was just a little anxious, for Annette had drowned visibly through the winter, which they passed chiefly in Paris, and she was still lookink pale and fragile.

Lord Elford, standing opposite to her at the open window, looked down at the beautiful, sunny face, and the warm glory here he felt for Annette could hold its peace no longer.

"Poor child!" he said tenderly; "you look as if you wanted some one to shield you from every breath of trouble.

"That would be impossible," she answered, smiling; "unless the breath of trouble meant the Duca Carouli."

"Give me the right to take care of you, Annette!" he said, suddenly. "You need some one to love you. I have loved you. You refused me once, but I cannot give you up so easily. I have kept up the pretense of friendship, because I feared that a whisper that my love quieted still would banish me from your presence; but you must know that my love exists still."

Annette was silent; her lips quivered a little, and her eyes filled. This love was very grateful to her, but she dared not yield at once.

"Have you nothing to say to me?" he said, in a moment. "Is my love—my pain nothing to you? Forgive me if I pain you; but I love you sodearly, that my words are not coherent. Annette, speak to me— just one word. Will you be my wife?"

"Lord Elford," she said, timidly, "I do not love you."

"But I will teach you to love in time," he said, passionately. "Darling, I am not afraid; let me have the right to cherish you from all harm, to protect you from all annoyance, and I will soon win your love. I am not afraid."

"Stop; let me think," the young girl said, and bent her head in her hands for a moment.

She was not blind—what woman is?—to the advantages he offered her. She knew the position she would gain, by such a marriage; she knew the honor and rank which would be hers, if she became his wife; she knew how sting able he was; how good and generous; she knew how deeply he must love her to wish to make her his wife; she, an actor's daughter, an actress herself; but the possessor of an ancient, noble name; the heir of an unentailed race.

She knew how the world would deride his choice, and how little he reeked that decision if he could give her thebetter of his name—the solace of his love. Could she accept such generosity when she had nothing, not even her love, to give him in return?

True she would have to give up her profession, and with it the triumphs she had won; but for this she cared little. Her successes, the applause she received, the flattery and adultation palled upon her, she found on true joy in them; often, oh! how often, she had longed to lay down her laurels, and win peace! Would she find it, if she married Lord Elford? But she alone must not be considered—could she add to his happiness?

She turned to him suddenly and put her hands in his.

"You know I do not love you," she said, gravely, lifting her restless, shining eyes to his face.

"I will make you do so in time," he said, bending over the little hands and touching them with his lips, even as Roy had done years before in the schoolroom at the Grange.

"Not only that I do not love you, but that years ago, my love was given past recall," she went on.

Lord Elford winced as if in pain.

"Hopelessly given?" he asked, huskily. "Can it never——"

"Hopelessly given," she interrupted him, quickly. "Hopelessly. The man I love can never be anything to me. Oh! Lord Elford, how can I ask you to accept the ashes of such a heart as mine?"

COUNTLESS WOMEN SUFFERING

There are countless women suffering from ailments which are dragging them down to despair—backaches — headache — pains in the sides —nervousness and mental depression, all of which may be symptoms of ailments that may be quickly relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If such women would only be guided by the experience of thousands of others who have been restored to health by this old-fashioned root and herb remedy, much suffering might be avoided.

MEIGHEN QUITS BOTH AS PREMIER AND CON. LEADER

Governor - General Lord Byng Has Invited Mr. King to Take Office

Ottawa, September 25.—The Government has resigned. The resignation of the Meighen administration was presented to the Governor General this morning shortly after ten o'clock by Premier Arthur Meighen and was accepted by His Excellency.

It is expected that the King administration will be sworn in by noon today. The definite hour, it is intimated, has not yet been fixed.

WILL AID DEPARTURE

After returning from Rideau Hall where Mr. Meighen tendered his resignation, the retiring Prime Minister said the Conservative party would facilitate in every way the attendance of a Canadian representative at the Imperial Conference on October 19.

"If a session of parliament is called this fall," he said, "members of the late Government have agreed to assist in the prompt passing of last session's estimates and the despatch of any other business unfinished at dissolution."

Mr. Meighen then announced his intention of resigning as leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Meighen's resignation was followed by summoning to Rideau Hall of Mr. King, who was invited to form an administration.

MR. MEIGHEN'S DECISION

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen announced this morning that he did not intend to contest seat in parliament and that when Conservative conference meets on October 11 he would resign from leadership of the party.

TRAINS OBEY WORDS

Electric Models Respond to Inventor's Orders

London, Sept. 25.—By making two model electric trains obey his spoken orders, an inventor at the Engineering Exhibition here today, startled the people present.

The inventor was Major Raymond Phillips. When he shouted "Go" his train started, and when he said "Stop" and "Go back" his orders also were obeyed. It looked like black magic, but Phillips explained that a microphone working on a new principle was set to correspond to a particular pitch of the voice. When that tone was used, the current was allowed to pass through a relay, which set up the desired operation.

MISS TORONTO ADMITS SHE'S ENGAGED, TO WED HE IS TALL, HANDSOME

Here's bad news for all the admirers of Belleville who danced with Miss Toronto and fancied that the smile she gave to each was the sweetest—she is practically engaged.

This she told The Intelligencer yesterday afternoon, at the tea given in her honor at the Queen's. Of course it was rather a personal question to ask, but the scribe couldn't resist asking her if she were still heart whole and fancy free and in her usual—straightforward and very modest manner she gave the above fee asking that "he" is marvellously handsome, tall and young.

His name She withheld.

More surprising news—Miss Toronto liked school. She was absolutely mystified when some of the ladies at the tea told her that they abhorred the name of school, and said that she enjoyed every day of her scholastic career. She loved her instructresses and adored the girl with whom she associated and still adores to look back at her school days and meet the acquaintances of a few years ago. She loved the sisters of Loretta Abbey and looks forward with greatest pleasure to every trip to her Alma Mater.

Miss Toronto does not rise early in the morning (at least when she can help it) in fact she does just what every one of her sisters, some a little less favored by the godess of beauty does, except that she retains her loveliness without any effort, eating perfectly healthy meals with as much sugar as she wants and doing pretty much as she wishes.

One delightful feature of the beauty of the Queen City is her attention to her mother. Mrs. Toronto is her first thought and Miss Toronto is never quite at ease until she finds her mother in congenial surroundings.

CANNIFTON FIRE CAUSE OF LOSS

Blaze in Oil Room of Maguire's Store Last Night

Fire which threatened the entire village broke out last evening at about 10.30 in the oil room adjoining Maguire's General store at Cannifton.

The family had just retired when Miss Maguire noticed a smell of smoke and immediately aroused the family who rushed for help and immediately answered by practically the whole village and the efforts put forth by the crowd and some firemen from Belleville, saved the blaze under control and confined to the frame oil room though it repeatedly threatened the brick building. Practically everything in the oil room was destroyed, the loss amounting to several hundred dollars and the building was also damaged. Messrs. A. Belgate, Bert Bunnnie, C. Van Allen and Burton Lemmon who attempted to enter the oil room all were singed about the head.

The cause of the fire is believed to have been a defective electric wire.

ANCIENT COFFIN OF TILES IS UNEARTHED

Peking.—A young farmer digging in the dry bed of a river near Tsingchow City was amazed to unearth an ancient coffin of tiles decorated with effigies and warriors in bas relief, and containing a number of curbs. The farmer reported to the magistrate, who sent scholars to view the find.

They declared the coffin a relic of the Chow or Chin Dynasty of 2300 years ago. On the front of the coffin in an inscription translated to read: "Drawn and Written by Kao Kuan." The relics were removed to the district of Yenseu.

COSTLIEST RAIN IN MANY YEARS IN W. ONTARIO

Fruit and Cereal Farmers Dismayed By Losses—Floods and Ruin

Toronto, Sept. 25.— Torrential rain, accompanied by wind that reached gale proportions in many districts, deluged southwestern districts of Ontario yesterday and last night and today. Farmers and orchardists are checking up the damage that will run into thousands of dollars.

In the Niagara fruit belt heavy loss was sustained by peach growers, especially. The heavily burdened peach trees which were almost ready for picking, shedded their fruit under a terrific driving rain and orchard grounds are, as a result, strewn with bruised fruit. In the Milton district where the rain was said to be the heaviest in history, gardens and farm lands are under water while cellars are flooded creeks are overflowing their banks and it is feared roads will be washed away in some sections. In Halton County streams are running at the highest mark reached in 75 years, and motor traffic is at a standstill owing to waterlogged highways.

SORRY IT'S OVER THRONGS ATTEND FINAL CARNIVAL

Once More Irresistable Gowns and Coats Are on Display

The Kiwanis Karnival is over for the year.

Over, yet very much alive in the minds of the thousands who made a mecca of the Armouries during the past week and enjoyed themselves as they never had before.

The wheels of fortune, the bingo boards and the games of chance have been laid by for a year, but many a home is today proudly pointing to some lovely souvenir won at some game or contest at the Karnival.

Just as every one thought that four days of lovely costumes must have exhausted the supplies of "something new—something yet undreamed of", the little mannequins astonished the audience by the marvellous coats and gowns from Earle and Cook's stock. Gowns for evening, for afternoon, for dinner, and for every fastidious occasion were displayed before the astonished and almost hypnotized hundreds.

One switch drew a little more admiration and applause when displayed by Miss Vera Rainbird, was a green shot taffeta with georgette and lace cascade.

Then Miss D. Gibson wore a rose taffeta with gold lace and central floral finish with gold braid.

Miss Goodmurphy wore a lovely rose georgette with silver lace panney effect.

Miss E. Marsh, a stunning rosewood afternoon gown with silver medallion belt effect.

Mrs. Charles Mott wore a navy georgette afternoon dress, two piece effect, and accordion pleated skirt.

Mrs. Pearson wore a green georgette with handsome Roman embroidery.

And Miss Rushworth again appeared as Miss 1800 in the final tableau which was very lovely.

All in all the clothes were stunning and beautiful, and the hats and furs, loaned by Woodley's were a revelation of what Belleville stores carry for their customers, who as Miss Toronto prettily put it, "may shop in Belleville for just as lovely costumes as they would purchase in any city in America."

Miss Toronto, who carried off many a heart, wore the stunning costumes she displayed at Atlantic City, and perhaps drew most admiration when she appeared in a red georgette petted gown with surplice effect, and carried a big lace fan of the color of her dress.

Saturday's Market

Fruit comprising plums, muskmelons and water melons and peaches were this morning offered in considerable quantities upon the market and with the exception of peaches were reasonable in price. Imperial grapes sold at 35c and 40c a peck, blue plums 40c a peck; musk and water melons ranged in prices from 15c to 30c each according to size. Peaches sold at $1.25 and $1.60 a basket.

Vegetables were plentiful and a large quantity were sold. Potatoes retailed at 45c and 50c a peck, tomatoes 25c and 30c a peck. Beets, carrots and parsnips 5c a bunch, celery 10c and 15c a bunch.

Fresh dairy butter commanded a good price namely 48c and 50c a pound. The ruling price for special eggs was 42c per dozen.

Dressed fowls are almost a luxury judging from the price asked. Chickens ranged from $1.00 to $1.30 each, ducks 40c and $1.00 a pair, duck $1.25 and $1.40 each.

Homemade cooking was disposed of by several vendors of same.

TWO MOTOR CARS STOLEN AT NIGHT ONE RECOVERED

Miss Kathrine Hyman's Machine Found Intact—One Missing

Two motor cars were stolen last night. One of them was recovered early this morning but the police have not as yet found any trace of the second motor.

The Ford coupe owned by Miss Kathrine Hyman was taken from its parking place in front of the Armouries at 9 o'clock last night. It was found on Bleecker Ave., near Pine Street early this morning and taken to the police station. Nothing was broken.

A Studebaker light six, 1925 touring, License 271-527, owned by D. V. Huffman, Grove street, grocery, was taken from the garage some time in the early hours of this morning. The thieves in order to reach the garage forced an entrance through the store and stole cigarettes and tobacco and took some loose change in the till. The police are working in an effort to apprehend the gang.

A DUCHESS APOLOGIZES

Glasgow, Sept. 25 (A. P.)—The Duchess of Somerset, attending a fete at Cuidoca House, Inverness, apologized for the actions of some of her "kin" in the troubled days of old. The Duchess had an ancestor who led the English army against Scotland at the Battle of Pinkie. Discussing past events the Duchess suggested that the conduct of the former Duke of Somerset be forgiven. Had she been living at the time, said the Duchess, she would have an ardent Jacobite.

"No Cruel Thing Can Be Done Without Character Being Thrust Degree Towards Barbarism"

Fall—the season when kittens and pups born during the summer and not put out of their poor miserable existence before they had commenced to take any interest in life, and so survived—has arrived and those who have earned a name for kindness to animals are really being victimized by the persons who were too lazy or too mistakenly tender hearted to drown the poor little animals.

There is one home in the city where the lady of the house, a widow, has earned the name of being particularly humane and to her has fallen the lot of being victimized. Last evening she heard a smothering kitten, a giggle and upon ing the door found three misserable little whining cats thrown in her porch, the fifth happening of the same kind in a few weeks. Only kind hearted persons perpetrate the poor little creatures being thrust out into the street to grope about until death overtook them or the dogs destroyed them. The perpetrator of the joke had probably not heard of the following:

Quoting from the well-known passage in the Litany of the Russian Church:

And for those also, O Lord, the humble beasts, who with us bow the burden and heat of the day, and offer their guileless lives for the well-being of their countries, we supplicate Thy great tenderness of heart, for Thou hast promised to save both man and beast, and great is Thy loving kindness, O Master, Saviour of the World—Lord, have mercy.

Police officials who at present are empowered to put an end to the sufferings of animals join with the public in the desire that some better means be provided here for this duty.

EXPERTS AGREE FALL REPAIRS UPON THEORIES ARE ABOUT DONE

Cancer Condition Not Contagious, Infectious or Hereditary

Lake Mohonk, N.Y., Sept. 25.—For the first time in the history of medicine, experts from Europe, Canada and the United States agreed here on an authoritative statement of the present state of scientific knowledge concerning cancer.

The statement, which is designed to aid the medical profession and public generally, was made public by Dr. George A. Soper, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, at the close of a five-day international cancer symposium, held here under the society's auspices. More than 100 specialists, leaders in their respective countries united in it.

It was agreed that cancer is not contagious, infectious, that it is not hereditary, and that its cure depends largely upon its early discovery. The only effective treatments known at present, it was declared, is by surgery, radium and X-ray.

MEIGHEN'S RETIREMENT QUIETLY FORESHADOWED

Montreal, Sept. 25.—The Gazette this morning publishes the following editorial, interpreting the retirement of Mr. Meighen:

On October 11, when the Conservatives members and supporters of the dance caucus here, they must decide whether to select stempgary or permanent leader. Sentiment, so far as expressed, is strongly in favor of the selection of a permanent leader, his selection to be confirmed at a national convention in 1927. If Right Hon. Arthur Meighen retires, as he probably will, the choice of a new leader appears to be confined to Hon. R. J. Manion, Premier Rhodes, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Sir Henry Drayton, and C. W. Bell, Hamilton. Premier Ferguson's name is also mentioned, but he will not have tested Ontario sentiment in a provincial election in time to be a competitor for the federal leadership.

TOM MOORE REMAINS LABOR MEN'S PRESIDENT

Montreal, Sept. 25.—Tom Moore was again the unanimous choice as president of the delegates of the convention of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, his name as yesterday, meeting being received with acclamations, and no opposition offered.

P. M. Draper was again re-elected as secretary-treasurer, also by acclamation.

A keen contest rose over the selection of the three vice-presidents, and ended with the displacement of Vice—president Bert Merson, president of the Toronto Street Railwaymen's Union, by R. J. Talon, of Calgary. The other two vice-presidents, J. T. Foster, of Montreal, and Jas Simpson were re-elected.

DIGS FOR CRYPTOGRAM

American Seeks to Prove Bacon Wrote Shakespeare

London, Sept. 25.—Hoping to find an iron box containing proof that Bacon was Shakespeare, James Howard, an American, is continuing his digging operations in the bed of the River Wye at Chepstow. A dozen men are engaged in the search, which Doctor Orville Owen began fifteen years ago.

Besides excavating in the river bed the diggers have been prodding into the banks. Many manor houses in the neighborhood also have been ransacked, but tonight the great cryptogram remains as cryptic as ever, and shakespeare retains the title of world's champion dramatist.

BEANS CLASSIFIED AND GRADED IN U.S.

Washington.—The latter partner of the well known firm of Pork & Beans, has been the subject of an exhaustive ruling by the Department of Agriculture, concerning the standardization of the lowly edible.

The Department has classified all American beans in 19 classes and fixed grade sizes on all varieties. The classification is a modification of the former regulation of the Department.

SODA WATER FANS IN U. S. ON INCREASE

Washington.—The United States has increased its consumption of soda water more than 50 per cent. in two years according to the Department of Commerce.

In 1925 production of soda water apparatus amounted to $23,559,851.

Almost every section of the Association building has undergone repairs and been redecorated during the summer months and in the course of a few more days everything will be in readiness to resume the regular Autumn activities.

The dormitories, bowling alleys, swimming pool, and locker rooms have come in for special attention being redecorated, cleaned, etc. Minor repairs will be made to the gymnasium and equipment before the end of the month so that everything will be in order for the commencement of the indoor physical activities, October 11.

In the physical department a number of special features still take place during the coming weeks. Thanksgiving Day the annual three mile road race will be run and judging from the interest displayed of late by a large group of middle distance runners throughout the city, there should be an exciting series for this event. For the benefit of the swimming enthusiasts there will be two special features staged, an Across the channel swim contest will be required to swim twenty-two miles or 3319 times the length of the Y natatorium. Each candidate must swim for one hour every time each week but will only be allowed to record at the total distance covered in these above hours. By rotating efforts over and above these three hours will not be allowed to count on the total. The entry completing the twenty-two miles in the least of three hours per week will be declared he winner of the "Trans-channel swim." The century honor swim is open to whole members only and is to be 100 miles. The members themselves to record the correct number laps they swim at each attempt. They may swim as many laps per day as they wish but in order to count on their total each swimmer must do a minimum of ten lengths of the pool on the occasion

QUANTITY PRODUCTION PAYS IN MOVIE BEAUTIES

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 25 (A. P.)—Quantity production has entered the realm of make-up in the motion picture industry with the result that a stenographer can be transformed into the Queen of Sheba in eight minutes.

In building the new First National studio a few miles from Hollywood, the make-up department was planned to operate on the cafeteria system with the result that stop watches show a saving of minutes in the case of individual work which means hours in big production.

Eleven minutes from the time a man in ordinary street clother checks into the studio under the new plan, he may be on the set as a Balkan prince. Four minutes covers the metamorphoses of a Negro bootblack into a Nubian slave.

Turning a white man into an Indian is the most lengthy job in the plant for it requires the painting of the "Indian" with a red dye.

At all up-to-date roof clubs, the rule is that the player may address the ball in any language. And Gaelic is recommended as being particularly effective. —Ottawa Journal.

SAY TIPS ARE UNFAIR RAILYMEN URGE BAN

London, Sept. 25 (A. P.)—Railwaymen of King's Cross, one of London's largest stations, will not accept tips. They regard the tipping habit as "degrading to the railwaymen and unfair to the public."

The King's Cross local union passed a resolution requesting the executive of the National Union of Railwaymen to introduce into parliament a bill designed to make the giving and receiving of tips punishable by law.

RICH MAN'S DAUGHTERS BITTEN

Geneva, September 25.—Two daughters of an American millionaire named Lombard, who owns the beautiful castle of Trevano, near Lugano, were bitten by a mad dog yesterday. The victims were sent to the Pasteur Institute at Berne for treatment.

"TWISTER" AT PETROLIA

House Torn From Foundation — Many Hydro Poles Razed

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 25.—A substature "twister", believed to be an offshoot of tornado, struck near Petrolia, 16 miles east that cut a 25-mile zenith in Ohio yesterday afternoon, and did considerable property damage.

Nearly forty hydro poles were razed, causing a temporary cessation of power service, and one house was torn from its foundation. Other houses and barns suffered partial damage.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

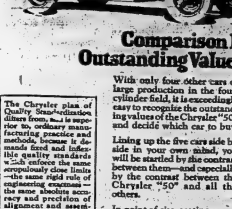

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should be Taken to Enrich the Blood.

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with now girls and often. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood making properties. In these pills new life is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Rutty, Barton Street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 65 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor.

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Comparison Brings Out the Outstanding Value of the Chrysler 50

With only four other cars of large production in the four-cylinder field, it is exceedingly easy to recognize the outstanding values of the Chrysler "50" for 50, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, become it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits —the same rigid rule of engineering exactness as the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, precise and correct in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, but is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits —the same rigid rule of engineering exactness as the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, precise and correct in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

Lining up the five cars side by side in your own mind, you will be startled by the contrast between them—especially by the contrast between the Chrysler "50" and all the others.

In point of size, seating room, beauty of design, beauty of finish and power, the Chrysler "50" stands out as unmistakably that you recognize the price at once as far and away the greatest offering ever made in four-cylinder cars.

It will continue to yield a sustained speed of 50 miles and more per hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and 30 miles to the gallon—for months and years, as the result of Chrysler's plan of Quality Standardization.

At last it is possible for you to make a convincing and conclusive comparison of values —studying the economy, appearance and performance factors of the Chrysler "50" in comparison with everything else offered—and satisfy yourself almost at a glance in which car you should invest your money.

Examine and ride in the new Chrysler "50" and you will not consider any other car in its price class.

CHARLESTON EXHIBITION

An exhibition of the Charleston by Miss Evelyn Whalen and Mr. Kenneth Bleiler was heartily secured, also a single Charleston by Mr. Al Katz of New York City, now a resident of Belleville. Miss Mikel's class again delighted the audience with a pretty recital, each number of which brought down the house.

FINGER CRUSHED

Samuel Barnum, of James Street, had the little finger of his left hand severely crushed between two barrels while in the discharge of his duties at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company's plant at Corbyville yesterday. Five stitches were required to close the wound.

HEARING ON MONDAY

A youth was brought to the police station last night after complaints had been received from neighbours that he was discharging a revolver and creating a disturbance. He pleaded not guilty to the charge this morning, and was allowed out on bail until Monday when the trial will proceed. The lad who is of a mischievous disposition evidently desired to create a little excitement among the residents. He did.

Sunday School Rally is Held

Huntingdon Twp. S.S. Convention was held Wednesday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mr. Foster of Moira presided. Afternoon devotions were conducted by Mr. H. M. Wood and the charting reviewed by Rev. R. O. Seymour. The ladies served tea.

Evening devotions were in charge of Rev. J. M. Fraser.

Rev. J. Simpson gave a masterly exposition of First Timothy, calling it the Teachers' Manual.

Rev. R. O. Seymour spoke on Environment and conducted the installation of officers.

Mr. Arthur Wood is president; Mr. W. H. Rollins, Vice-President; and Mrs. F. E. Geary, Sec.-Treas.

Mr. Elmer Post was in charge as Sec.-Treas. last year. The opinion was that it was a very succesful convention. Next year it will be at Moira.

NASH MOTORS ON SALE HERE

Mr. H. N. Bird, Formally Begins Distribution of Famous Car

The past week has seen the opening of another motor car agency in Belleville, and the famous Nash line of cars will be handled in this city and district by the new firm Bird Nash Sales, Mr. H. N. Bird, Proprietor, 160 Front St.

This firm, while new in Belleville, is not by any means unknown to people of the district, in which the proprietors have for many years successfully and satisfactorily conducted a motor car business. In assuming the agency of the Nash in Belleville the Bird Nash Auto Sales are placing within reach of local citizens a motor car which has created a sensation in the motor world this year, both for its beauty of line and for the real value it offers.

The new Nash comes in three series, the new Nash comes in three series, which are represented eight models—a complete line of open and closed cars. Powered by a seven bearing crank-shaft motor—an ave-all Nash model—this group represents the finest achievement in Nash history for they are truly advanced in beauty of finish, engineering features and appointments. The power ful engine has in the new models 25% added power and 25% faster pick-up with supreme smoothness and quickness. In the exterior and interior finish of these models, Nash has exercised thoughtfulness and taste in line and appointments.

The Special Six Series, including the favourite Five Passenger Four Sedan delivered at $1630.00 is made in five open and closed models and the Light Six Series in three models—all open and touring. The popular Light Six Sedan delivered at $1325.00 is a favourite and has many high priced features. The Bird Nash Auto Sales' wish to extend to anyone and everyone a cordial invitation to see and ride in these new Nash models.

Incidentally, they are prepared to offer a trade-in allowance on your present car equal to that obtainable by any other dealer in the city and can guarantee a satisfactory deal.

Miss Nora Lynch Winner of Draw Her Ticket 1202

One of the head lights of the Kiwana's Karnival last evening was the drawing for the hope chest and this item proved one of the most amusing and interesting phases of the show.

The tickets were put in a washing machine, set in motion, and Mr. J. L. R. Gorma, impersonating a charwoman, and after getting a few hearty laughs at the expense of Alderman Wotten and Ald. Greenleaf in which he brought the spirits of the audience into just the right track, led Miss Toronto to the platform, As she put her hand into the receiver several times in succession she was stopped by Ald. Gorman, but when it commenced to look as if the limit should never be drawn, Miss Toront, finally with great determination drew out number 1202 and Miss Nora Lynch, 77 South Front St., was proclaimed the winner.

When she received the news Miss Lynch's joy and surprise were unbounded, and her pride unexcelled when Miss Toronto helped her pack the wonderful array of fine linen, silk undies and everything.

She received the key and she took her unexpected possessions home by taxi, and early this morning still held the ticket with which she had won the prize in her hand. Strangely enough she had purchased the winning ticket only last evening.

Wives of Kiwanians Give Charming Tea For "Miss Toronto

In honor of Miss Toronto, the wives of the Kiwanians of the city entertained at a very bright and delightful tea at the Queen's yesterday afternoon and the affair was a great success. The guest of honor arrived at the hotel at about five o'clock in F resident's Hanna's car and was welcomed by the ladies and by Mr. Howe, proprietor of the hotel.

As Miss Toimie passed through the rotunda of the hotel her beauty caused a flutter in the many sitting about and when her identity was thus revealed, evening papers and other literature was dropped and the delighted guests could not restrain staring in open-eyed delight.

She was take, to the tea room where dainty food was served from tables laden with their bright decorations of American beauty asters, and after tea she met many of the guests, introductions being made by Mrs. A. B. Collins. With unaffected friendliness she recognized those she had previously met in the city and asked how the Karnival was progressing. After tea the ladies had a delightful social hour in the parlor room where every one felt ever more in love with the city's lovely guest.

THE LAND YOU CANNOT SEE IN ONE SUMMER

In a sense there is no country in Europe that you can see in one summer, but this is pre-eminently so of Switzerland, one of the grandest districts of which you would only want to see in the winter. But even if you confined yourself to the summer inside there is many a delightful rail trip, lake trip, highway excursion or jaunt along some famous bridle path that you would not have time to "take in." Like the old fashioned au revoir formula of the New England farmers, the Swiss patter always has a "Come again" tone in it. Whether you approach Switzerland from France through Geneva, from Germany through Zurich or from the Italian Alps it is best to have a well outlined schedule of just what you want to see and "go to it." I find it good advice to warn all travelers who have benefited by the low exchange in France, Germany, and Italy, not to blame Switzerland that it did not suffer in its currency during the war. What you get for your dollar in Switzerland is worth more than a dollar, especially if you plan your own trip and avoid abject dependency on others.

MUSIC IN THE BLACK FOREST

Here I am again at Baden-Baden amid the shade of the woods and mountains and where at this time of the year music is the topic of every one every day. The orchestra is on duty every morning at 7 o'clock twice, resting only in November, the concert hall always seems to my enlightening mind one of the most acoustic I have ever been brought his violin, here Liszt played his own works, here Caruso sang. Here Berlioz, Thomas, Anton Rubenstein and Brahms have wielded the baton. And who has been here to see them? Among the names of famous visitors, in the past I see Bismarck, Renan, Victor Hugo, Rosinia, Clara Schumann, Offenbach and Turgenieve. There is a casino music in the Trinkhalle, dances, concerts, lectures and operas and all the neutral relaxation that the beautiful surroundings encourage. In normal years as many as 80,000 visitors will flock to the place, as if it were true vacation, the past Lawn Tennis in 1914. "There are two capitals of Europe: Paris and Baden-Baden."

A HAPPY CHILDHOOD A MATTER OF HEALTH

Let Baby's Own Tablets Keep Your Children Well.

Little children very quickly get out of sorts. By prompt treatment they can usually put an quickly be set right. Most of their troubles arise in the first place from the stomach or bowels; that is why a good cleaning-out is the first thing prescribed by the doctor. Formerly castor oil was the means used to bring this about; now-a-days Baby's Own Tablets do the same work, but without trouble to the parent or discomfort to the little one. Children take Baby's Own Tablets happily because there is no nasty taste and because no griping after-pains follow their use.

As a specific for childhood indigestion, vomiting, constipation, colic, colds, teething pains, etc., there is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets. They never do harm and always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE TIPPING LIMIT

An interesting experiment will be inaugurated in the United States on the first of next month, when, by the approval of the president, a "tipping schedule" will be put into force, so far as government employees are concerned. The government will allow its employees sixty cents a day for tipping, and no more. Anything they may feel like giving above that amount to the porters and bell-hops and others who regard the "tip" as their natural right will come out of their own pockets. Sixty cents, in the official mind, is enough. No doubt, the object is to keep a check on expense accounts. Tipping is an uncertain quantity, and it would be an easy matter to exaggerate the amount of one's largesse. But by writing down the sum to such a low figure, a serious blow has been struck at the system. It will die a hard death, however, as previous efforts to abolish it testify.

The tip, it may be remarked, strange as it may seem, is not entirely popular with those who are in the habit of receiving it. Some employers rely on the principle of tipping to escape the duty of paying fair wages to their help. When the tips are not forthcoming, the employees are "out of luck." They would much rather be placed upon a regular wage scale than be subject to such uncertainty. Perhaps this sixty cents a day limit will help them to secure the reform they desire. There can be no question about the feelings of the general public in the matter. The abolition of the tipping system would meet with universal approval, except in the cases of those who like to make a vulgar display of their liberality.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Professor Jackson, of Toronto University, hits the nail on the head when he asserts that seasonal unemployment is one of Canada's most pressing problems. Until it is solved, or partially solved, he points out, we need express no surprise that every year we should lose thousands of our best young men to the United States.

Of all countries in the world Canada, by reason of her extreme in climate, has perhaps the greatest variation between the peaks of employment and unemployment in her basic industries. Yet no organized effort has been made to devise means of stabilizing the situation. In recent years governments have been forced to bury themselves with unemployment. But their concern has been with measures tending to relieve the immediate suffering arising from lack of work rather than in seeking to remedy the conditions that cause it.

It is true that in the early years of the Employment service of Canada, which was created in 1918 by the then minister of labor, an intelligent and well-planned start on the seasonal unemployment problem was made, but following a change of ministers and other officials of the department the position was allowed to drop as far as the federal government was concerned.

It has been repeatedly stated since that it is no part of the Dominion government's business to attempt to so order industry so that our people might be employed all the year round. No intelligent person ever expected that it should; but that does not relieve it of responsibility for studying the problem. No one is in a better position that the Dominion government to undertake an exhaustive investigation of the kind required. It was for just such work that the Labor Department was created.

10,000 MILES OF PESSIMISM

Commander van der Kun, squeezing himself out of the coaling tower of the Dutch submarine K-XIII in San Francisco harbor, after having sailed over and dived through 10,000 miles of brine since leaving Holland, a record never before approached by an unconvoyed submarine, said:

"I am always pessimistic on a submarine for that is safest. I do not let, eye, the men become optimistic. The regular ration of Holland gin which our navy gives to every sailor is pro bibited by me on the submarine On a surface boat the men may drink gin and get optimistic if they like, but under obo water they must be serious and take no chances. Every nation is working on the submarine. It certainly has not been outlawed." It is not tobe supposed that the nations which ten years ago protested the "inhumanity" of submarines are now building them for the purpose of introducing prohibition among their navel crews. An undersea boat with a cruising radius of 10,000 miles from its base or mothership is an instrument of frightfulness well calculated to produce pessimism not among its own crew, but also among all those who expect to get jobs as escort officers during the next international argument.

NOT SO EASY

Among the reforms demanded by the Dominion Trades and Labor congress, now in session at Montreal, is one which has been on its list for many years—reform of the Dominion senate. The Labor parliament doesn't like the senate. The senate has frequently stood in the way of legislation which the congress, representing organized labor, has been anxious to get passed. Until now, the congress has demanded—at its most drastic possible "reform" of the upper chamber; nothing would satisfy it but the abolition of the senate, its removal root and branch. Of late, however, the labor men have to realize that such an undertaking would be hardly practicable. The senate is regarded in Quebec and the Maritime provinces as the guardian of minority rights and the bulwark of provincial rights, and public opinion in those provinces is irrevocably opposed to its abolition. To abolish it in defiance of the will of the people of any of the provinces which were parties to the Confederation pact would be a violation of that pact, and not to be tolerated.

And so the trade congress would now be satisfied with such a measure of senate reform as the one which has curtailed the power of the British house of lords—a measure providing that when a bill has passed the house of commons at three consecutive sessions it shall automatically become law without the necessity of the senate's sanction. This proposal the congress executive makes in its annual report.

But even this comparatively mild measure of reform would be loss easy to bring about than it seems. To do so a bill would have to be passed by the British North America act at the wish of the Canadian parliament expressed in a resolution adopted by both houses. And the senate be willing to consent to an arrangement for the curtailment of its power? The British house of lords was anything but willing; its consent was forced by Mr. Asquith's threat to create a sufficient number of peers, pledged to the reform, to swamp opposition. Rather than have order thus cheapened the peers gave way. But the same expedient would not be ready to hand in Canada. The number of senators is fixed and cannot be cancelled.

It looks as if any measure of senate reform to be successful, must originate within the senate itself.

EASIEST WAY

Barber: "Shall I take a little of the ends of your hair off, sir?"
The Born Joker: "Yes; I think you had better take it off at the ends; unless you can get it out of the middle."

CUSTOMERS

Good Haviwayr:
For every hardware store in the country there is on the average a population of 2,900 people. For every grocery there are 325 people; butcher shop 800; drug-store 1,600; clothing store 2,200; furniture store 4,002; and shoe store 1,800.

A CONFESSION OF FAITH

Argument:
General Alvaro Obregon, one-time President of Mexico, said little for publication, when he arrived at San Francisco last Monday, but that little was compact of Aristotelian and Epicurean wisdom. The General revealed that he believes in Aristotle's golden mean, and that he is inclined to follow that mean even when it leads to the Garden of Epicurus, where, Puritans say, only evils grow.

To such a man reformers and blue law bigots, addicted as they are to extremes are naturally anathema. His country, he said, wants none of them. "Mexico does not aspire to obligatory virtue," he added. "There is only one vice—the earth-crave. Many men are viced with virtue." Then came a statement that should be engraved on the walls of every reform and uplift organization: "There is no harm in one good cigar, one glass of wine, one look at a beautiful lady."

GOOD ENGLISH

Dolly Dalrymple, in the Birmingham News:
Wednesday we had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt University, who is an honored visitor to Birmingham. Dr. C. B. Glenn, Superintendent of the Public Schools of this city, having invited him to address the Teachers' Institute in session here.

We summoned our best English in wo'coming Dr. Mims to Birmingham and then blandly expressed our timidity over talking to one so learned.

"I feel very much about English," said Sawney Webb expressed it," said Dr. Mims. He said he'd much rather hear a man say 'I seen it' when he really saw something, than to say 'I saw it' when he didn't see anything."

THRIFTY MANI

With academic thoroughness the Columbia University School of Business has looked into the matter of the sexes' comparative curiosity and finds that more men than women stopped to stare into the show window where the coast was made. And as window-shopping finds males in the lead! But does anyone claim that men predominate in the crowded aisles of stores? The truth is that males are curious when curiosity is inexpensive.

BOUNDLESS DANCING

Radio music, inaudible to bystanders controlled twenty couples of dancers in England, who were newly invented portable receiving sets and inconspicuous headphones, and the dispatch intimates that spectators who did not know what was happening considered the dancers crazy. And if it was a modern dance, how about those who did? But in any case, the purpose of the experiments in soundless dancing is obvious. It is a dodge of the movie magnates to lend added reality to their society pictures.

HAVE YOU HEARD.

AN ABSOLUTE CURE

"The doctor has ordered her to the seashore. Now, they're having a consultation."
"Of doctors?"
"No; of dressmakers."

A SMILE FROM SWEDEN

Postal Clerk—You've put two cents too much postage on this letter.
Old Woman—My land! I only hope it won't go too far.

WAITING FOR RESULTS

Clerk—How are you coming along with your poultry?
Customer—I've been swindled. I bought three different incubators and not one of them has laid an egg yet.

MAKING THE GRADE

Botanist—I've just discovered a new plant."
His Wife—Call it Qtephoma."
"Why?"
"Because it fits perfectly in this crossword puzzle I'm inventing."

ON THE SAFE SIDE

Little Willie was sizing up the new visitor. "So you're my grandma, are you?" he asked.
"Yes, dear, on your mother's side."
"Well" replied the boy, "you're on the right side all right."

WINTER comfort is necessary to the health of growing children. Overchilled siddling, chilly, drafty homes are subject to colds, and other childish ills.
You get the comfort and healthfulness of the right kind of heat from McClary's Sunshine Furnace because the warm air is humidified in the furnace before it ascends to the rooms.
Correctly installed by McClary's accredited dealer in your district the Sunshine Furnace is guaranteed to deliver heat uniformly to every room in your home, under all conditions at all times.
The Sunshine Furnace by the simple operation of the drafts, without any structural alterations, burns hard or soft coal equally well and because it is an all Cast Iron Construction coke can be burned either alone or mixed with coal, without danger of cracking or burning out the furnace.
Write your nearest McClary's Branch for free booklet, "Winter Comfort in Your Home," that will give you all the latest interesting information about heating fuel and the proper installation of furnaces as necessary in solving the problem of comfort in Winter.
THE NOTEWORTHY SUCCESS OF THE SUNSHINE FURNACE IS DUE TO ITS SPECIAL SOLID CAST IRON RADIATOR CONSTRUCTION
The extended Air Heat Rim in McClary's Sunshine Furnaces adds practically 50% to the heating surface, thus greatly increasing the amount of heated air with the same coal consumption. Every square inch of this extended surface is in direct contact with the heat from the flame. Not a particle of heat is lost in the room above.

NEWS OF MOVIES

THE SELLER

Scathing—decidedly new in Western photoplay presentation is ushered in "Whispering Smith," which feature production has been booked at the Capitol theatre for two days, beginning Monday.

Heretofore we have seen Indians and renegades stage raids and holdups on the frontier, and after stealing the girl ride away to the hills where, eventually, the hero locates the thieving band, stages a heroic battle and rescues the heroine—and marries her.

In "Whispering Smith," one of the most colorful stories of the early west —founded on actualities—all this is lacking and in its stead are featured authentic historical scenes of railroading in the shadow of the Rockies. Of bands of marauders, freight car thieves and hold-up men. Of daring robberies and foul murder of railroad and ranch hands.

In this production of "Whispering Smith," Director Malford had the cooperation of Spearman and also Joe La Fora, the man who inspired the author to write the book. An extensive cast is featured. This includes H. B. Warner, John Bowers, Lilyan Tashman, and Lillian Rich,—to the support are Eugene Pallette, Robert Edeson, James Mason, Nelson McDowell, Warren Rodgers, Richard Neil and Will Walling.

Social critic says modern girls are just educated dolls. Maybe that's why they say "pa-pa" when you squeeze 'em.—Sault Star.

Letters to the Editor

AN ANNOUNCEMENT AND REMINISCENCES

181 Trelowarren St.,
Camborne, Cornwall,
England.
Sept. 11, 1926.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir,

As one who lived in your midst and read your paper for ten years (1887-1897), and had a love for news items, hands, that you insert the following announcement in your issue for September 21st coming.

As an employee of the late Mr. John G. Frost, and later Mr. G. A. Bennett, many have been the odd jobs I have done in and around The Intelligencer Office and in the homes of the late Sir Mackenzie and his son, Mr. Chas. J. Bowell—and, but for the state of my health—for which your "Lady of the Snows" is too severe—my residence there might have extended for many years longer. Both wife and I have always held love the beautiful "City of the Bay" and never tire of talking of its beauties and charms, and the people who help to make them.

I read somewhere the other day that the first motor car in Belleville was owned by Dr. Adolphus Hargrave, (the black and livery stable keeper) and is still preserved in the city, May I make a claim with perhaps Mr. Harry Greenjeat or Mr. G. A. Bennett on everyday—when it was brought into the city it was taken to Messrs. Greenjeat's stable at the back of what was then the old Library and Christian Science Building on Victoria Ave., in negotiating the corner of the C. S. building, it came to grief—(I think Mr. Harry Greenleaf was at the helm of the tearoome thing). However, if my memory serves us me right, I had to repair the woodwork next morning. So that I think, my Mr. Greenleaf and myself, though now far apart, were jointly responsible with Mr. Burgoyne for ushering in the first motor car or automobile into Belleville. I should have made not or reply when I read the remark last year, but was ill at the time, so could not do so.

Thanking you, sir, in anticipation for the insertion of the following, I am very sincerely yours,

CHAS. T. GILL.

FIRECRACKER CONTEST OPEN IN CALIFORNIA

Tulare, Cal.—Freckle-faced youngsters from all parts of the state were here today to compete in a contest which places a premium on their freckles.

The contest is a feature of the Tulare County Fair, which opened today. Any boy can enter who is under 15 and has at least one freckle.

"Spec" O'Donnell, juvenile film star and king of the fair, will decide the winner.

Announcement of the contest was made before the vacation period started and boys have spent the summer cultivating their freckles in the interest of applying lotions to remove them.

What we wonder by way of making conversation, when strangers swimmers do in the winter time?—Buffalo Courier-Express.

ADMINISTRATORS' SALE RE JANE BROWN ESTATE

To close this estate there is offered for sale by private sale the following property No. 99 Station Street, Belleville, described as follows: Part of Lot No. 1 on the South side of Station Street and North side of Lime Street according to a Plan prepared for Tobias Bleecker by A. J. Bleecker, E. S. more particularly described as follows: —Commencing at the North West corner of said Lot Number One (1) thence Easterly along the Northern boundary of said Lot to a point half way between the Eastern and Western boundaries of said Lot, thence Southerly in a direct line parallel with the Western boundary of said lot to the land owned by one Richard Spry, thence Westerly along the Northern boundary of said Spry's land to Lingham Street thence Northerly along the Easterly side of Lingham Street to the place of beginning, the said lands having a frontage of about 33 feet on Station Street. On the said lands is a storey frame dwelling house connected with the city sewage and water systems and heated by gravel and at present furnished. The furniture will be sold with the house. Terms at least 50% cash on sale, balance arranged.

For inspection or further particulars apply to—

CONDEMN FLANNELETTE AS HOUSEHOLD DANGER

Coventry, England, Sept. 25 (A.P.)—Flannelette, a popular article of wear for women and children, has become a common household danger owing to its inflammability, says Dr. W. Aylmer Lewis, district coroner.

Coroners of England have urged a movement to have flannelette generally outlawed by parliament because of the numerous accidents.

"The number of inquests I have held on deaths in this district from this material is appalling," Lewis said.

COMMIT SUICIDE IN FAMILY MAUSOLEUM

Arad, Rumania.—In order to cause as little trouble as possible to the authorities and to their respective families, Gustaz Brauns, 45, and Anna Lazar, 18 close Brauns's family vault as the ideal place to commit suicide when they tired of life here.

Brauns was one of the town's richest merchants. Anna was his secretary. They became infatuated; and when local gossip began to make life unpleasant, they decided to die together. Some years ago Brauns had prepared a vault

ST. LOUIS CARDS CLINCH PENNANT

Victory Over Giants, While Philadelphia Beat Reds Closed Exciting Race

LESSER LIGHTS SHONE

Unconaidered Sand - Lotter and Cast-Off Gave Cards Triumph

New York, September 25.—George Torporcar, a New York sand-lotter who never got a chance in his own home town, and Billy Southworth, a former Giant outfielder, who was traded to the Cardinals early in the season because it was said he was not strong enough for the Giants' team, ended the uncertainties of the National League pennant race at the Polo grounds Friday by clinching the pennant for the Cardinals.

They were the leading sluggers of the day for the Cardinals, who overtook a three-run lead set up by the Giants in the first inning and beat them 6 to 4, after while in the second game contending Reds were merely breaking even in a double-header with the last-place Phillies. The victory of the Cardinals, accomplished by the defeat for the Reds, gave the St. Louis club a three-game lead and, regardless of what may happen in the two remaining games they must play to complete the season, won for them their first National League championship. Indeed, it was for St. Louis the first championship in baseball since the Browns of the old American Association, obtained the last of four successive pennants in 1885, enabling it to be represented for the first time in a world series with the champions of the American League, and giving to Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, and for many years the leading player of the National League, a chance to appear for the first time in such a series.

And an unconsidered sand-lotter of New York, a substitute of the Cardinals, and a castoff Giant, made all this certain after many weeks of a thrilling, changing race between the Reds, Pirates and Cardinals.

The triumphs of the Cardinals is firmly cornering the elusive pennant

JUNIORS SERIES BEGINS IN TOR.

Louisville Plays at Leaf Stadium Sept. 28, 29, 3 and October 2

New York, September 25.—Arrangements for holding the "Junior World's Series" to decide the supremacy of Class AA teams were announced today with Toronto, International League champions, opposing Louisville, pennant winner in the American Association, at Toronto, on September 28, 29, 30 and October 2. The following games will be played at Louisville commencing October 3 and continuing when one of the clubs has won five out of nine prospective contests found popular with metropolitan fans as well as enthusiasts throughout the east, whose sympathies have leaned towards St. Louis in its quest for its initial banner.

RICKARD EXPECTS A RETURN BOUT

Promoter Holds Tunney By Contact — Likely to Give Dempsey Chance

Philadelphia, Pa., September 25.—A return match between Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, and Jack Dempsey, may be put on next spring by the great mogul of boxing, Tex Rickard. Rickard has Tunney under exclusive contract for his fight services, and the promoter announced that Jack's request for a return bout might be decided to. Rickard also said that he considered Harry Persson Berglish championship and Monte Munn, who registered preliminary knockouts last night, as possible contenders.

Champion Gene Tunney, the ex-marine, will set out for home tomorrow, his home being Greenwich Village, New York. Mayor Jimmy Walker will greet him at City Hall, and it is considered likely that some people will be present when the champion steps from his car.

The erudite pugilist is to receive additional honors, it was announced today. He will be given a commission for a lieutenancy in the reserve of the Marine Corps, for which he has passed an examination.

Today Gene took his ease, touring the city in a motor car and attending a theatre. He called on Dempsey to pay his respects to a "game sportsman." The two fighters spent half an hour in private conversation and it was later learned that Dempsey had renewed his request for a return bout.

Dempsey was comforted against his defeat by the arrival of his actress wife, Estelle Taylor, who came from the far west.

"Hello Glamorgy," she said.

"Well, honey, I forgot to duck," said Jack.

"I have Jack," Mrs. Dempsey said to reporters, "and the championship doesn't mean anything to me."

BIG STABLE WINNINGS

"New York, Sept. 25.—Harry Payne Whitney's successes this year have placed his stable at the top of the winning owners with a total to date of $355,450, as against his total for the entire season of 1925 of $144,581. The E. R. Bradley score is $320,646.

70,0000 WET, DREARY, RETURN FROM FIGHT

Lost Sense of Direction in Philadelphia and Wandered About

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—The receipts from the Dempsey-Tunney championship bout were announced today as $1,895,733.

The total attendance was 135,732.

It was also announced that Dempsey's end of the receipts would amount to approximately $700,000 and Tunney's to about $200,000.

It was estimated the promoters would have a profit of about $560,000.

The total paid admissions were 118,736. In addition there were 1,996 complimentary tickets issued and 5,000 tickets for sm-

Montreal, Sept. 25.—Senior rugby football opens in this city today when the Montreal Big four squad meets Queen's University at the M.A.A.A. gridiron in an exhibition game, which should give the devotees of the fall sport some indication of the strength of the two teams for their coming league fixtures in their respective unions.

BANDY HERD WINNER

Richmond, Surrey, England, Sept. 25.—Sandy Herd, "grand old man" of British golf, captured the British professional championship on the 38th hole in the final round with J. Bloxham, of Coventry, another veteran of the links.

Abe Mitchell, Archie Compson and George Duncan were among the famous younger professionals eliminated.

CLEVELAND SET BACK

New York, Sept. 25.—Cleveland's pennant hopes flickered who, Rommel outpitched Uhle and Philadelphia won the first game of a scheduled double-header at Cleveland, 3 to 1. The second game was called at the end of the second inning because of darkness followed by a heavy downpour of rain. A double-header will be played to-day.

EXPLAINS HOW TEMPESTS GET THEIR ORIGIN

Cyclones, Typhoons and Tornadoes All the Same Family

IS CALM IN CENTRE

The "Core" Can Be as Wide as Ten Miles Across.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Causes of such terrific tempests of wind and storm as that which struck Miami with destructive force are not yet entirely clear to the scientists who make the weather and the freaks they present study.

John Patterson, of the Toronto weather bureau said:

"I would not be at all surprised if this were part of the storm that hit Turk's Island on Friday." In this storm the wind was reported to have reached a velocity of 150 miles an hour.

ALL OF SAME FAMILY

"These great storms are all of the same family—whether you call them cyclones in the Bay of Bengal and the Indian Ocean typhoons in the seas around Japan and China, hurricanes on the Atlantic or tornadoes on the land," said Mr. Patterson.

"The storms at sea generally have a wider sweep and last longer. American scientists have found that many of these great hurricanes originate at the Azores and sweep westward, striking the coast of America, sometimes glancing around to the Gulf of Mexico, as in the case of the city of Galveston which was almost destroyed some years ago.

"This is the third or fourth great storm of this present season though this one is point of destructiveness seems to have outdone all the rest."

MOISTURE AND HEAT

"What is thought to be the cause of these tempests?" he was asked.

"Generally an abundance of moisture in the air at a time when it is very hot," said Mr. Patterson. "The combination of heat and moisture make the air very unstable. But it must adjust itself. Thus the trouble starts. Just exactly how this instability is created is something that can hardly be explained. But there is generally a sudden uprush of air, and then the wind increases steadily. It starts fairly slowly at first but gradually grows in intensity as it moves westward.

"A peculiar feature of such hurricanes or typhoons is that there is a core or centre in them which is calm. The wind bowls all around that core but in it the waters remains fairly smooth and the blue sky can be seen above by day or by stars by night. That core might be anywhere from five to ten miles in diameter.

Asked as to the velocity attained by the wind in such storms, Mr. Patterson said they might easily go to 100 miles an hour. A test by wind-measuring instruments recorded a velocity of 110 miles on one occasion, though it is usually assumed that the instruments will not "stand up" under more than 100 miles an hour.

"It is quite possible that a speed of 120 miles an hour or more may have been reached in this case," said Mr. Patterson. "It should be remembered also that the destructive power of a wind of 120 miles is nine times that of a 40 miles gale." The ordinary rules of mathematics do not apply in measuring the destroying power of the wind.

FADE WHEN LAND IS HIT

According to the statement of the weather experts, such fierce storms generally lose their energy when they strike the land. This is due to the fact that the moisture goes out of them. The land winds are dry and take the moisture out of the air.

The fact that Turk's Island, which was hit so hard by the hurricane on Saturday, is only about 600 miles from Miami, leads to the theory that it may have been the same storm which vented its fury on the Florida coast.

The forecaster at the Toronto weather bureau stated that no weather reports had been received from Miami since Friday night.

THREE STORMS

"There have been three distinct tropical storms in the West Indies in the last three or four days," he said. "The same storms that hit Miami has since travelled in a northeasterly direction and last night was about 175 miles from New Orleans.

When the weather bureau got no record of any kind from the Florida city the assumption was at once made that there was some serious damage done by the storms.

The forecaster states that it is hard to exaggerate the intensity of these tropical blows.

"We occasionally get a report of a 100 mile wind around Newfoundland," he said, "but that is nothing compared to the hurricanes they have down in the West Indies."

SOME START NEAR AFRICA

"Reports indicate that some of these hard blowing storms originate as far away as the northwestern coast of Africa. Just how they originate is not easy to say, but it is a matter of a combination of heat and moisture and wind. These storms are not usually of a large area, but they sweep with terrific intensity on their path. Sometimes when they hit the West Indian isles they curve and recurve back into the ocean.

"We don't know just how hard the wind can blow but it is not out of reason that it might be 150 miles an hour. And any city that stands in the direct path of anything like one of these tropical blows is certain to suffer.

WHERE GLADIATORS FOUGHT IN ENGLAND

Wells, at Newport in the west of England recently, I took occasion to run out the three miles to the site of ancient Caerleg, one of the most interesting Roman sites in Great Britain. Here is the largest amphitheatre in the Kingdom, where Julius Caesar's days gladiators fought and according to tradition, Christian martyrs were put to death. I remembered that Tennyson once wandered here before he wrote "The Marriage of Geraint," and gave the place fresh fame as the seat of the Court of King Arthur.

Modern England has almost begun to encroach on the old site, but arrangements are now made to further excavate and preserve the place for all time and it looks as though England will have in Caerleon, a Roman city to look at and not imagine as at York and Chester, where the past is distilled all buried beneath houses and streets. Those Romans for the sight of a few ancient buttresses, Caerleon is but a dirty meadow, but I hope to live to walk within at least myself for the amphitheatre, when tourists will seek it out as they do Stonehenge today.

"A HOME FOR A BEAUTIFUL IDYLL"

After passing through Tromso Sound, I reached Tromso, which is beautifully situated on an island of the same name. Considering how far in the north of Northway, the little place is, it is wonderfully prosperous with good buildings and suburbs. Some of the most graphic descriptions of Nordland and Nordland life, are those given by Jonas Lie, the famous Norwegian novelist. He spent the most impressionable years of his life in and around Tromso, where his father was District. "If there is a home for a wonderfully beautiful idyll," he writes, "it must be in that third villages of Nordland in the Tromso district. It is as though the sun kissed Nature all the more lovingly because he knows how short a time they have to be together."

TAKE NO CHANCE ON EATING FUNGI SAYS DEARNESS

London, Ont., Expert Speaks on Recent Poison Cases

SPECIES ARE DEADLY

Poison Acts Quickly and Cannot Be Counteracted

London, Ont., Sept. 16.—The city health inspector, Dr. Downham, secured a left-over portion of the mushroom stew that had proved fatal to the family of Mrs. Marks' family, and took it to Professor John Dearness to see whether the poisonous kind could be identified. The latter found that the mushrooms, caps and stems had been stewed in a milky or greasy liquid, with sliced onions and celeriac. On fooling the mixture apart, it could be seen with the naked eye that more than one kind of mushroom had been put in the dish; one species at Otto-pore could be identified. Microscopic examination of the gill structures revealed Russia, species and at least three other kinds. Two pieces of stem and cap clearly showed the characteristics of an Amanita—the species known in botanical as Amanita verna.

A DEADLY VARIETY

In answer to the question: Are there more than one species of Amanita? He said: "I have records of eleven different Amanitas growing in Ontario. A few of them are listed as edible; indeed, one, the yellow-gilled Amanita, is said to be delicious, and the most delicious mushroom that grows. A few of them are deadly poisonous, in virulence the white-capped verna-phalloides group heads the list. Statistics of fungus poisonings show that more than 90 per cent. of the fatal cases are chargeable to this group of Amanitas.

"There are several reasons for the fatal-ness of fact. First, they contain a deadly poison for which science has not yet discovered any real antidote; second, when fresh the are clean, fragrant, attractive plants that give no warning to the senses of sight, smell or taste of their deadly nature; and third, their young stage they may be mistaken for the 'button' stage of the common meadow mushroom.

NO EFFECTIVE ANTIDOTE

"According to the literature of the subject, the victims of Amanita poisoning do not feel any alarming effects until the poison is digested and begins to enter the blood circulation; then, by the time medical aid is summoned, enough of the poison may have mingled with the blood current to defeat any remedial effort of the physician. There is no known effective antidote, hence all the physician can do is to combat or alleviate the dreadful effects. Those in most fatal cases are said to include vomiting, diarrhoea, cramps, great thirst, coldness of the skin and extreme drowsiness, blue jaundice, convulsions and profound stupor, ending in arrest of the action of the heart."

HOW TO DISTINGUISH

"How can the Amanitas be distinguished from other mushrooms?" he was asked.

"The different species vary greatly in size, color and markings. If you find a mushroom that has the following combination of characters it is an Amanita:

"1. The stem can be pulled out or broken off at the juncture with the cap, without splitting or breaking up the tissue of the cap.

"2. If the fresh cap is laid, gills downward, on a piece of dark paper, it will shed a print of its gills in white spores. If the spore-mass is microscopic or darker, the plant is not an Amanita.

"3. A veil or annulus attached to the stem or adhering to the margin of the cap.

"4. A basal cap, called the volva, to which the stem is adnate, and out of which the whole plant has risen. This structure varies from a fresh, flabby, loose cup to an adherent, scaly sheathing, and even a friable, powdery covering, very liable to be left in the soil, even with careful digging.

NOT RARE IN ONTARIO

"The white Amanitas are not rare in the Ontario woodlands, especially in mixed woods of hardwood and evergreens. In such woods they flourish in the leafy mold among beech roots, where their clean white caps breaking through the dark mold are pretty objects."

The use of Oxalic is becoming more and more popular in Ireland.

THRILLS WITH SPEED FIENDS

Cars Hurtle Round Track at Brooklands—Express Trains Seem Slow

London, Sept. 5. (By Mail).—Of all the thrills that fall to the lot of adventurous man, the greatest is that of being hurtled round the world-famous track at Brooklands at a speed that makes an express train seem slow.

These men are not fools. They are the world's best drivers, and though you will find them crouching a hundred and forty or more miles an hour on the track, they know when to go slowly on the public highway.

It has been said that death is their passenger and that the specter of tragedy flies alongside them as they tear breathlessly round the two miles 1,320 yards of concrete. There is no comparison between flying and motor racing, the latter sport providing more thrills and risks in one mile than flying does in a hundred. Incredible as this may seem, any man who has tried both sports will agree.

Imagine what might be the appalling consequences of a mechanical breakage at a speed of over a hundred miles an hour. Cars have sometimes thundered over the top of the Brooklands—and the experience is not for the fainthearted! First, they contain a deadly poison for which science has not yet discovered any real antidote; second, when fresh the are clean, fragrant, attractive plants that give no warning to the senses of sight, smell or taste of their deadly nature; and third, their young stage they may be mistaken for the 'button' stage of the common meadow mushroom.

Come on to the starting line. Round this hairpin bend, and the driver of the car which controls the electric wiring system for firing the machines. On the car, as far away, climbing higher and higher by the banking with every lap. The maximum height of the banking is over 28 feet, and if we take our turns at the correct speed all four wheels of our car will be pressing hard on the concrete in spite of the fact that we shall be flying over as an acute angle.

The trees and the telegraph poles at the side of the track flash by as a terrific pace. Tongues of fire leap from our exhaust pipes, the engine roars healthily, and occasionally we fail to hold the track properly, skidding and slipping downwards, and a second later regaining our position. For lay after lay the concrete ribbon unwinds itself. If we move our head beyond the limit of the protection afforded by the bonnet of the car the wind pressure smacks us violently in the face and we soon find all about it. And there is the feeling that any moment something may break! It is like—

MY VISIT TO GRETNA GREEN

In the world romance of marriage, I suppose that Gretna Green is as world famous, perhaps more so, for the tying of knots as Reno, Nevada, is for their untying. On my way to Scotland I have often passed through the little bordertand village, but only this week did I pay my visit to the old Blacksmith's shop, which runkway matches have made famous for nearly two centuries. Outside is the signpost. "To Gorrieamill, 2 miles, To Annan 8¼ miles; To Carlisle, 9¼ miles, To Glasgow, 25 miles," and on the little cottage a signboard reads, "Marriage Room: Old Blacksmith's Building, Gretna Green, Famous for Runaway Marriages Books, Romances, Postcards, Relics of the Old Priests and other Antiques. Marriage Register kept."—and in the other window a card announcing "Refreshments." Many a notable as well as commoner traveled "Cupid's Causeway" to be joined here, Lord Brougham, Lord Macdonald, Lord Eldon, and Lord Erskine fled to this border wedding house and its unlicensed "priest". Even today, to be married at Gretna Green adds spice to the romance, though the ceremony be more orderly.

QUEBEC ENFORCES LORD'S DAY ACT

Premier Taschereau as Attorney-General Notifies Industries Concerned

Quebec, Sept. 25.—That sufficient time has been given to the interests concerned to comply with the provisions of the Lord's Day Observance Act, and that should they neglect to do so, the law will be enforced to the limit, is evidenced from a letter which has been warded today by Premier Taschereau, Attorney-General of the Province, to the large industries engaged. The letter states that, after holding an investigation, it has been clearly proved that hardly and work on Sunday can be declared to be necessary or urgent. Consequently, it is added by the letter, the time has come to comply with the law without further delay.

WEEKLIES CHANGE HANDS

Noted Periodicals Involved in $3,000,000 Deal

London, Sept. 25.—A deal involving $3,000,000 was concluded today with the exchange of contracts by which William Harmon, chairman of the Inverek Paper Company, purchases from Sir John Ellington a controlling interest in several weekly publications. The periodicals include the Illustrated London News, the Sketch, the Sphere, the Tatler, Eve, the Drapers' Record, and Men's Wear.

A new company will be formed as soon as the shareholders sanction the scheme.

EXPORTS OF BUTTER AND CHEESE

In the twelve months ending with the sixth month of the present year, according to the Dominion Dairy News Letter, Canada's export of butter decreased close upon two and a half million pounds compared with the previous year's returns, but a cent and a half per pound increase in price to some extent counterbalanced the deficit. On the other hand the total export of cheese increased by over twelve million pounds and by almost three cents a pound in price.

CO-OPERATION MEANS CONSERVATION

Ontario is ablaze with Autumn Splendour

MR. CITY-DWELLER, where did you spend your boyhood days? Was yours the privilege of wandering through the fields and woodland where every tree and bush had been painted by the divine artist?

Today you say 'tis but the hectic flame of a dying year. Then it contained all the mystery of an enchanted palace.

Ontario's highways lead you to the land of yesteryear—over white roads flecked with fallen leaves, patterned here and there by checkered shadows of trees. Fields and hillside are gay with fiery sumach. Maple groves aflame, backed by the darker evergreen.

Through this lovely panorama, in every direction, leads Ontario's splendid system of highways. You are entitled to enjoy them, for they are yours. Keep in mind, however, that upon you will rest the expense of maintaining them in proper condition.

Speeding eats away road surfaces. It "milks" your pocket-book for both motor and road upkeep. Moderate driving is far more economical and pleasurable.

By so doing you will greatly assist the traffic patrol who operate for everyone's safety—who have instructions to enforce the law rigorously.

THE HON. G. S. HENRY, Minister of Highways.

S. L. SQUIRE, Deputy-Minister.

FALL GARMENTS SHOULD BE OUT GETTING CLEANED

The Fall of the Year once again and now that the Kiwanis Karnival is over and the excitement died down, you'll probably have time to think of other things than Miss Toronto and the Fashion Show. And speaking of fashion, those clothes you will be no doubt be buying before very long after inspecting the newest at the Karnival this week can be kept looking just that way—in their original fresh and new state—with the careful attention of a competent cleaner and dyer. Which brings us to the point of the story.

Sprague's, Cleaners and Dyers are in a position to provide you with just that service necessary to retain the beauty of your garments and prolong their life for it is indeed a fact that proper cleaning and pressing methods will actually prolong the life of your clothes, rather than injure them, as many were formerly led to believe. Recent day methods have advanced to such an extent that no one would consider being without the services of a competent cleaner, and with emphasis on the "Competent" for, just as you wouldn't trust your car or your house to be painted by aninferior workman, much less should you be willing to trust your garments to an establishment, the results of whose work you are not certain will be satisfactory. Reputations have been in the business local-ly for many years, and as ever increasing business is evidence enough that the work done by this firm is really satisfactory.

And, by the way, now is the time to get those Fall and Winter coats out and have them put in shape ready for use when you want them one of these days. Then, too, your summer goods had better be treated with Lovrex, and made mothproof before you put them away.

Spragues can do it for you; this is an absolutely effective method of foiling the moths. They'll starve to death if you let Sprague's moth-proof your garments. Just try it and see.

A Good Way To Become Independent And Self-Supporting

Thousands Have Followed It Successfully

Young people, who want to capitalize their public and high school training, and make it pay, should include in their educational program the intensive, specialized course at the Ontario Business College—the short, quick and direct road to independent self-support and success.

The O.B.C. courses are intensely interesting and exceedingly thorough. They embrace the following subjects:

Accountancy, Auditing, Banking, Bookkeeping, Business Arithmetic, Business English, Business Ethics, Business Papers, Commercial Law, Correspondence, Filing, Office Practice, Penmanship, Spelling, Stenography, Typewriting.

The successful experience of thousands of former students has long many to state that their training at O.B.C. constituted the very best kind of investment possible to make. If is an investment that cannot depreciate or become lost, and which yields large dividends.

Now is a good time to start. Now students from far and near are arriving at O.B.C. almost daily.

DODGE CHASSIS USED FOR TRUCK BEST IN SIGHT

The latest additions to the line of commercial cars and trucks being sold by Dodge Brothers dealers are two new types of two ton capacity. Like their smaller predecessors the new chassis will be supplied with a variety of bodies suited to practically every requirement. Two lengths only are made; the short-er, for 9-foot bodies, has a wheel base of 137 inches and 156 longer, which is for 10-foot bodies, has a wheel base of 162 inches. Both chassis are equipped only with pneumatic tires, with either single or dual rears optional. Where single tires are used 32 x 6 inch size are fitted in front and 34x7inch at the rear. For dual rear tire equipment disc wheels are standard with 34 x 5 inch tires both front and rear.

The pressed steel frame side rails for the shorter chassis are 7 inches deep and for the larger 7½ inches. From engines on both chassis are 37 inches long, 3 inches wide and have 9 leaves, while the rear springs are 56inches long, 3 inches wide and have 11 leaves. The semi-floating rear axles employ a spiral bevel gear final drive with a reduction of 6.286 to 1. Both service and hand brakes are of an internal self aligning type operating in heavy pressed steel drums at the rear wheels. The brakes are so connected that the pedal operates all four brakes while the brake lever actuates only two. This feature, it is declared, assures long life and even wear of the brake linings.

This new and larger truck embodying the same well tried constructional features found in Graham Brothers one-and ten-and-a-half trucks," declared Mr. Buckley, of the Parkdale Motor Sales, local Dodge Brothers Dealers, "fills a long felt need for an equally strong unit capable of handling heavier loads."

"The power unit consists of the well known Dodge Brothers four cylinder engine which has given such satisfactory service in Graham Brothers trucks and motor coaches with a heavy duty truck type transmission. The heavy rear frame, springs and other chassis parts insure service with two-ton loads just as satisfactory as that supplied by the smaller trucks hauling the loads for which they were designed.

"Dodge Brothers 3-ton commercial cars and Graham Brothers three capacities of trucks with bodies specially designed to fill the requirements of over 400 different vocations now meet 90 per cent. of all commercial haulage requirements."

FINEST DISPLAYS AT THE CARNIVAL GOOD MADE HERE

During the past week thousands of our citizens of Belleville and District have thronged the Armouries, taking in the Second Annual Kiwanis Karnival, and lending their support to make it the wonderful success it has proven and which the cause deserved.

Contributing in no small measure to the outstanding success of the Karnival were the varied, interesting and attractive displays of Belleville's live, progressive houses of business and industry, firms who realize the immense advertising value of displaying their products before these thousands of prospects for their goods.

It was a week in which Made in Belleville products came into their own. The exhibit attracted as much attention as possibly any other in the Armouries was that of the Belleville Electric and Stamping Limited Manufacturers of the Well Known "Redi Heat" Electric Appliances, a complete display of which was to be seen at their booth. During the comparatively short period of five years that this firm has been established, the reputation of its products has gradually extended, until today the name "Redi-Heat" is known from Coast to Coast and Border to Border as one of the very best Brands of Electrical appliances on the market.

In competition with long established firms, "Redi-Heat" goods are winning a place in good-sellers among dealers everywhere. The whole range, irons, toasters, heaters, burners and the latest product, the Range-tes at the present time and the plant ite, are being turned out in quantities running at capacity production.

How's that for the state of Industry in Belleville and its possibilities for the expansion of newly organized and small firms.

By supporting such firms as these, asking for their products by name when buying—as Belleville citizens keep their industries to the fore and in a growing state.

And with the industries which our city has at present in a state of expansion—and only when they are in this state, can we hope to attract other and larger firms to the city, realizing as they will, that conditions are conducive to profitable manufacturing in Belleville.

Incidentally, you can obtain the irons, toasters, heaters and burners if the Belleville Electric and Stamping Limited is local's storps. Each dealer is ready to serve your Redi in any line you require.

Again, there is another comparatively "youthful" business represented at the Karnival in that of Isaac Stephenson's Duco Re-finishing establishment. You are probably aware that right here in Belleville you may have your car refinished in Duco, in any one of about fifty different colors, or in a combination choices of three tone effect, and more, over that that the job will be done as satisfactorily in every way as if finished at the Factory. The producers of the now Famous Duco, recognized as the best word in Motor Car Finish, see to it that only qualified mechanics as their authorized refinishers in any locality. They are all required to take a thorough course in Duco work before they are assigned the Re-finishing Station. Isaac Stephenson Local Duco Re-finisher, established a little more than a year ago, has satisfied local motorists that his firm can turn out Duco work as satisfactorily done as is possible to secure anywhere; during the comparatively short time the he has been established by has refinished dozens of local cars, with complete satisfaction in every case.

His exhibit at the Karnival, this week brings to the fore another use for Duco, and one with which many are unfamiliar. The exhibit demonstrates that furniture may be beautifully finished in Duco, and made to look like new. Furniture finished in this way is immune from scratches, is not affected by boiling water, etc., and has a lasting and beautiful finish, which enhances its value greatly.

WONDER PICTURE IS PRIZED WORK OF LOCAL ARTIST

If there was one exhibit more than another worthy of special notice at the Big Kiwanis Karnival this week, that one was the "Wonder Picture" displayed for the first time. The hundreds of citizens who took advantage of the opportunity of seeing this picture gazed varied at its beauty and realism, and at the ingenious and novel manner in which it was displayed.

The picture is an oil painting by Mr. Fred Smythe of the Al Sign Studio of this city. A reproduction of an incident in the Great War, we see faithfully put upon the canvas by the artist, Mr. Smythe, a scene the incident be-which is said having been personally seen by Mr. Smythe.

This is the story: In the village of Pantphout, was a little church which under heavy gunfire was destroyed completely. By miraculous intervention apparently, the crucifix in the church, a large figure of the Redeemer on the Cross, remained standing and unharmed Amid the death and destruction surrounding the cross, it alone remained when all else had "passed away."

This is the setting for our picture, and Mr. Smythe, with the recollection of the scene still vivid in mind, has put into his painting all the contrasting beauty, pathos and horror of the original scene. The drag may be seen in the background, the shattered remnant of the building made who but a short time before were worshipping in their little church.

After considerable experiment. Mr. Smythe has perfected a color scheme by which one is enabled to view the picture in the dark, thus bringing out fully its beauty and realism. The picture is indeed a work of art and proved a real treat to patrons at the Kiwanis Karnival.

First snow of the season which covered the ground to a depth of one inch, fell in Great Falls, Mont.

COSTLY TRAGEDY IN U.S. AS TRAINS MEET AT CROSS-OVER

PROPHESIES END OF GREAT BRITAIN

Dean Inge in Survey of Empire Has Many Forebodings

TRYING TIME, AHEAD

Says Position as World Power Cannot Endure Much Longer

New York, Sept. 27.—The early passing of Great Britain as a world power is forecast by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, London, in an analytical survey of the Empire, published today as the latest of a series by various authors on "the modern world."

Living up thoroughly to this title of "the gloomy Dean," he sees great danger not only in the international situation, but even more from "anti-social and imperialistic sectionalism which is the course of industrial civilization, especially dangerous in a country situated as we are."

"The main danger is interior to the Empire," declares the Dean. "The omens at present are very unfavorable.

"Everything points to a coming time of trial for the nation and the Empire. It seems for every reason unlikely that our position as a world power will endure much longer.

"Much depends upon the friendliness of the United States, on which we certainly cannot count, though of which we should not despair.

"The natural friendship which many Englishmen enjoy with individual Americans must not blind us either to the intense concentration of the American people at times, upon what they consider their own interests, or to the prevailing unfriendliness of America, as expressed by its political class and journalists, to this country.

"If in the future we are attacked by a European coalition we may take it as probable that the United States will leave us to our fate, unless indeed, we are invaded by a black army."

NO OCCASION FOR WAR.

There is no occasion of war at present between the British Empire and the United States, says the Dean, since our Government invariably gives way.

"Americans by insisting upon repayment of the vast debt incurred by France, to which we readily put our names, have secured that we shall remain permanently tributary to themselves.

"We probably shall retain our present form of government it only because there is no obvious alternative," Dean Inge concludes. "In plain living and high thinking will be our salvation or the salvation of the 'remnant' which will survive the turmoils of an age of transition. Plain living will be forced on us, whether we will or not.

"England is at present moving in the direction of syndicalism made in France," he asserts.

"The Englishman is neither industrious nor thrifty; he is disposed to be lazy, open-handed and fond of good living. We owe our position as a great power to geographical situation and to comparative freedom from Continental entanglements. It may seem unscientific to attribute much importance to sheer luck."

Of the world war he says: "No greater misfortune has ever befallen Britain. There are ominous signs that it may be the last great war to be decided by naval powers."

The gloomy Dean thinks that the future of Canada is problematical. Racially it should be secure for northern stocks, since the climate is too severe for Mediterranean and still more so for negroes. There is nothing impossible in Lord Dufferin's prediction that Canada's ultimate power may exceed the power of Great Britain."

The Dean looks with disquietude on the immigration to the United States, however, and wonders why some of the British unemployed do not go to Canada.

Thieves stole 60 gallons of grain alcohol from the plant of S. H. Gott and Sons, Candeo, Pa.

ARCHDEACON BEAMISH IS ON A YEAR'S LEAVE, TO TOUR OLD COUNTRY

On the last day of his stay as incumbent of his church, the Rev. Archdeacon Beamish yesterday conducted five different services in St. Thomas' Church. Being the Harvest Festival, the Church was most beautifully decorated with grain, fruits and flowers presented by local churchgoers. At 8 o'clock Holy Communion was celebrated, at 11 o'clock the morning service with Holy Communion; in the early afternoon a special service was conducted for the children; at 6 o'clock a large number of infants were baptised, and at 7 the evening service was conducted by the Archdeacon, assisted by Rev. Mr. A. L. Geen and the Rev. Canon Jones of Kingston.

LARGEST OFFERING!

The eleven o'clock matins and the evensong were two of the best services that have ever been held in St. Thomas' Church, the Archdeacon preaching both times. The church was crowded morning and evening and the special offerings in the history of the Church were received. The text for the morning service was taken from St. Luke in the seventeenth chapter "Giving Him Thanks." The evening sermon was taken from the sixteenth chapter of Deuteronomy, "Thou Shalt Observe the Feast of Tabernacles Seven Days After Thou Hast Gathered in Thy Corn And Wine." Mr. Cyril Rice sang at the 8, 11, Children's Service, and in the evening. Large numbers of Communicants attended both morning services and in the evening the Church was crowded to capacity with the congregation and a large number of visitors.

TO TOUR ENGLAND

Mr. Beamish, who has been granted a year's leave of absence by the Bishop, is going to tour England, giving addresses during the week and conducting services on Sunday. He will proceed to Belfast, Ireland, first, and will then come back to England.

The Archdeacon has been Rector of St. Thomas' for a quarter of a century, and although he has retired from the incumbency of the Church he will still be rector, though a new vicar will be appointed. Mr. and Mrs. Beamish will sail for the Old Country on the fifteenth of October.

RESCUE PARTIES TO DIG STEADILY

Distressed Womenfolk Urge Them To Best Efforts —43 Men Trapped

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 27.—Eighty rescuers were in supervision today in their attempt to reach 43 men entombed by a cave-in three days ago in a shaft of the Isabel Mine of Oliver Iron Mining Co., here.

Bodies of the three men crushed to death by the cave-in, Andrew Sabo and Earth crumpled a cage in the shaft have been recovered. Three separate shafts, each having as an objective the eighth level of mine, 300 feet under ground where it is believed 43 men were entrapped, and a diamond drill, are the means by which the rescue workers hope to learn the fate of the imprisoned men.

At least one is expected to attain its objective by to-morrow night, although the drillers encountered a mass of clay through the earth and rock prevent any accurate predetermination of the progress to be made.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCT. 3 - 9

By Royal Proclamation, His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada has designated October 3rd to 9th as Fire Prevention Week. During that week addresses on fire prevention subjects will be given in the schools, public meetings will be held in many of the cities, towns and villages, and the owners and occupants of property everywhere throughout Canada will be counselled to give special attention to the removal of fire hazards from their premises.

Fire waste is one of the most serious economic problems confronting Canada at the present time. The public incurred by fire and the enormous expenditures rendered necessary to adequately protect life and property from its ravages. At least seventy-five per cent. of all fires are caused by carelessness and can therefore be prevented.

NEW ALBERT OPENED WED.

To-morrow, Sept. 28, crowds of boys, both old, and new, will report to the Technical School, Albert College building on the Dundas Highway, ready to start the new school year. To-day workmen are busily engaged cleaning up the new buildings in preparedness for the boys' early return. Classes will be resumed on Wednesday.

Dr. Baker has moved to his new home. Principal Bishop has been here for a week. The staff are all in readiness.

CHINESE DEAD TOTALS ONLY 300

Return Fire By British Was Effective But Overstated

London, Sept. 27. — Casualties among the Chinese during the recent trouble at Wanhsien, over the seizure by the Chinese of the Yangtze River, totalled 300, according to official British advices today. Approximately 200 of these were soldiers, while the others were civilians, wounded or killed by gunfire.

The Chin Hsin, the Chinese delegate, charged before the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva last Friday that more than 1,000 Chinese had been killed when the British gun boats bombarded the Wanhsien.

The official telgrams say steamer Woolsung has been returned to the British Naval Commander at Ichang, bearing the bodies of Commander F. C. Bayley and two British soldiers killed in the fighting at Wanhsien. The steamer Wanhsien has arrived at Wusiehow, and a crew has been sent to return it to the British.

Optomistic Showing is Made Through Montreal Report

Montreal, Que., Sept. 27.—Increased earnings and decreased operating costs are shown in the financial statement of Canadian National Railways issued today which deals with a summary of earnings and expenses for last August and with a summary of results for eight months of 1926 in comparison with similar periods from 1923 and covering years of amalgamation of system.

In August last, net earnings increased 21.07 per cent. in comparison with August 1925. Earnings for the last months were $3,791,076.64 in comparison with $3,128,403.07 for August last year.

Net earnings of the railways for the first eight months of 1926 amounted to $13,443,283.83 as against $8,346,691.91 for first eight months of 1925, an increase of $12,443,283.83 for the current year, equivalent to a gain of 148.38 per cent.

MURDERERS AWAIT DEATH

BY PLAYING PINOCHLE

Oakland, N.Y., Sept. 27.—Seven murderers in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting the electric chair are passing the time playing pinochle. They are in separate cells, but they pass cards through doors to a guard who calls out has been played.

MAN IS WAYLAID ON UNION HILL ANOTHER FLEES

Holdup Netted $16—Wm. Masters Hurt—Second Attempt Failed

William Masters, a cheese-maker of Highland Factor near Robbin's Mills, was waylaid and beaten up at a point near Union Hill, Prince Edward County about eleven o'clock one evening last week. Mr. Masters who was returning from Belleville had reached a narrow strip of road and was proceeding slowly. He noticed another car a few rods ahead, stalled at the side of the road with the lights dimmed and he supposed it was a motorist having tire trouble. As he was about to pass the other car two men jumped on the running board and one of them clutched at him prying in his hand and he struck Mr. Masters directly over the right eye inflicting a severe gash and dazing the victim. Quickly one of them pinned him to the seat, while the other went through his pockets and made a haul in the extent of $16.00. Mr. Masters was unable to put up any fight and the pair of whom no accurate description has been received made off in their own car.

As soon as he was sufficiently recovered, Mr. Masters reported the matter and received medical attention.

The Intelligencer learned that the place is not particularly dark nor is there any wooded lands here adjacent. One of the assailants is described as being in the neighborhood of 40 years of age while the other is reported to be a youth younger. Mr. Masters is able to be about his work but suffered from a white shiner.

What is believed to be another attempted hold-up occurred at nearly the same spot last night. Roy Allen, a resident of Mountain View, was going home after visiting friends and as he was about to ascend the hill another car came down directly in front of him and tried to block the path. By quick use of his hands and remembering the experience of Mr. Masters he reversed the car to the ditch and stepped on the gas not stopping to investigate. It was about 10.30 and as Mr. Allen was all alone in the car he thought best to take no chances.

Local motorists who were in the vicinity by last night reported a car coming way down the hill with the lights purposefully extinguished and a man acting as though he were asleep at the wheel.

COAL TIE-UP IS NOT SOLVED

And Premier Baldwin Says Government at End of Patience

London, Sept. 27.—Premier Baldwin, outlining the Government's most recent efforts to effect an agreement in the long coal tie up before the House of Commons today declared that the Government had come pretty well to the end of its powers of meditation between the contending parties.

He said that the Government had reached an impasse in its decisions with the workers because it had been impossible to get any flexibility in their demands concerning the hours or work to be considered. The Premier stated that although the Government's latest offer had been rejected it was willing to continue proposals for a short time. The offer to which Premier Baldwin referred provided in effect that miners return to work under district settlements pending negotiations on National agreement. These terms have been under consideration by the miners executives for two days and have resulted in no immediate prospect of peace.

THREE AMERICANS

KILLED NEAR MANILA

Manila, Sept. 27.—Seven Moros were killed and a number wounded and three constabulary privates were killed and five wounded in a clash between a Moro band and the Philippine constabulary to-day near Ebian, Sulu Province. The constabulary was attempting to round up a band which had been depredating.

NEW PRINCIPAL OF ALBERT TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Staff in Readiness—Pupils Arriving For the Term

Principal Bishop of Albert College was today's guest-speaker at the Rotary Club. His address of the inspirational sort fired his audience and brought frequent applause; his eloquence and charm as a speaker stamped him as one of the outstanding men of the community in which he again resides. It was said unofficially that he would shortly be a member of the Rotary Club.

His subject—and his personal concern as head of a boy's school—he said was: "The Business of Developing Human Resources."

And he stressed its importance.

Boards of Directors, he said, were not anxious so much about technical or practical affairs as they were in having the right kind of executive in actual charge. "The human element in every big corporation was the all important factor.

Character was of greater value than technical efficiency. The key to success is not only knowledge, but character. Where is it made? In the homes; and particularly in the schools—institutions of the kind the new Albert is opening.

The right sort of personnel plus character was the greatest need of this country.

Mr. C. M. Reid moved a vote of thanks, emphasized by Vice-President J. O. Herity. Rev. Dr. Baker made the introductory speech.

EAGLE IS SHOT AT BIG ISLAND

Measures Seven Feet Tip to Tip and Is Heavy in Body

Mr. W. F. Clarke the well known blacksmith of Big Island, and also of Melville, were out at an early hour today in the vicinity of Big Island in pursuit of wild ducks when they noticed a large bird flying near. It circled some 50 yards above them. Both leveled their guns and fired with the result that the bird was brought down. It proved to be an immense eagle which had a wing spread of seven feet and a exceptionally heavy body. Its talons were capable of carrying off an object of considerable size. In Mr. Clarke's blacksmith shop the bird was exhibited today and was viewed by a large number of people. Its breed no person seemed to know.

A LETTER FROM FORT LAUDERDALE

The first letter to reach Belleville from the devastated areas of Florida was received this morning by Mr. and Mrs. James Orr, 7 Grove St., from their daughter who went to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to engage in business some time ago. The epistle which is printed below gives a first hand account of the conditions which followed the hurricane. It reads:

Fort Lauderdale, Fla.,
Sept. 22, 1926.

Dear Mother and Dad:—

No doubt you received our telegram Sunday saying we were all living. The cyclone started at 1 o'clock Saturday morning and practically destroyed the end of Florida. FT. Lauderdale looks just like a city during the war. We are very thankful to be living. Vernon's house had the roof blown off and the furnishings nearly destroyed with water but he has insurance on it. The new shop was destroyed but our machinery and stock can be saved and will be running shortly, although it is a terrible blow.

The ocean came over the outer beach Dad, and swept the city 4 ft deep. Down town there are large yachts from the river lying all over the docks and some are 75 feet down Andrews Ave. The old Overland had the top and windshield blown away and stood in 4 feet of water for 72 hours, but I have it running again now. Vernon's big W. Knight came through O.K., but we have not seen the Chev. since the storm. It is no doubt destroyed.

There are thousands of automobiles lying all over and many piers and houses are down everywhere. It lasted 12 hours with a 120 mile an hour wind. The dead have not been counted yet nor the losses.

Miami was destroyed. The big skyscrapers there gave away and caused millions of dollars damage.

I will write more when I feel I can but we are all well and will pull through.

Your loving son,
LEO.

P.S.—Vernon and I haven't slept only a few hours since Saturday, am watching the shop all night with a rifle.

Sports Official Of Chicago Club A Visitor Here

Mr. Linton Treacy, brother-in-law of Mr. Mackenzie Robertson and secretary of the Chicago International Hockey League entry in this year's new proposition, spent the day in Belleville after attending the N.H.L. meeting in Montreal.

He discussed hockey matters freely, and with exact knowledge of the present situation. He was formerly manager of the Portland, Ore., team. Mr. Treacy expects to do well in Chicago. Hockey has not really been seen there to any great extent, but he has not the least doubt it will "go over" there as it did in New York, although he does not expect first night box office receipts of $45,000, such as they had at Madison Square Gardens.

All the troubles of the league over players will eventually be straightened over.

NEW CABINET AT WORK TODAY

Many Appointments to be Made and Policies Decided

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—The first business meeting of the new cabinet of Premier Mackenzie King was being held this afternoon. It opened shortly after four o'clock and will probably continue for some hours as there are important matters to dispose of. It is probable that most vacancies as well as new appointments to be made will be dealt with before Premier King leaves for the Imperial conference. One of the first things to be taken up is the Customs inquiry. As the Prime Minister started on Saturday, two more commissioners to assist Sir Francis Jeanieu will be appointed. Their appointment is expected soon, as the premier announced that the work of the Customs would proceed almost immediately. Government also intends to appoint counsel, and it is said that the Hon. N. W. Rowell has been offered the post of Chief Counsel for the Commission.

There are three senatorial vacancies, two in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia. Also appointments may be made to the Lieutenant Governorships of Ontario and of Manitoba, a new deputy minister of department of Customs must be appointed sooner or later, but it is probable that this will be delayed for a little time until the new Minister is familiarised himself with his department.

*KILL "THE UMPIRE"

NOW IT HAS BEEN DONE

New York, N.Y., Sept. 27.—"Kill the Umpire," has often been shouted in a baseball game and now it has done.

Displeased by a decision fa a semi-pro game in Long Island City, a fan felled Patrick McTavey with a blow to the jaw. McTavey's head struck o the hard ground and he died of a fractured skull.

The fan vanished.

ENGINE PLOWED INTO A COACH

NINE ARE DEAD

Of Steel Construction Nine Killed and Thirty-five Injured

Bethlehem, Penn., Sept. 27.—At least nine persons were killed and 35 injured today when the Scranton "Flyer" of Jersey Central Railroad ploughed into the "Lehigh Limited" of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at a cross over of the two roads in this city.

The accident occurred about 5.45 a.m. within a hundred feet of the station.

The "Lehigh Limited" left Buffalo last night for New York. The "Flyer" is a through train from Binghampton, N.Y., for Philadelphia, Penn. The huge Jersey Central engine struck three cars back of the Lehigh Valley locomotive, throwing the steel coach on its side. It was in this car that all of those killed or injured were riding. Railroad men said had the car been of wooden construction, they believed the killed and injured would have been far more numerous.

CANADIANS HURT

Eight Canadians were among the injured. They are: Dr. George C. Mitchan, wife and four children, Dorothy, Fred, Edward and George Jr., 9 Banks Street, Toronto. Mrs. Mitchan is suffering from a possible fractured skull and body bruises. The others are only slightly hurt; Mrs. Jean Behrodt, sister-in-law of Dr. Mitchan, same address, received body bruises, Alice Pearce, of 13 Mayfield Ave., Toronto, received body bruises. No Canadians are among the four dead so far identified.

WITNESSES AMAZED

The inmates were running very slowly and came together at a point where they were in plain view of each other. People standing on the station waiting to board the Lehigh Valley's New York train, were amazed as they had the terrifying experience of seeing two pullman trains apparently bearing down upon each other at a busy junction point. Henry Smith of Manch Chunk, leaned out of the Lehigh train which crashed into the other, is in hospital here slightly injured, as is also Joseph Hartley of Ashley, Smith's fireman, who was thrown clear, leaping immediately after the crash that he thought the Lehigh Valley train would crash before reaching the crossover. When he saw the Lehigh Valley train was proceeding into the station, it was too late to bring his own train to a stop.

MACKENZIE KING AGAIN PREMIER

He and His Cabinet Took Office on Saturday

KINGSTON NOT NAMED

Hants-Kings Seat is Sought for Him—Ontario Representation Weak

Ottawa, September 27.—Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King is again Prime Minister. He and his Cabinet took office on Saturday. The Cabinet is, as was previously published except that Colonel Ralston, slated as Minister of Defence, is not included. This omission is only temporary, and is due to the failure of Paul Hazard, M.P., Yarmouth-Shelburne, to secure the consent of his constituents to accept a senatorship and make way for the election of Colonel Ralston for that constituency. Another constituency, probably Hants-Kings, will be found for the Defence Minister.

The new Cabinet is composed as follows:

Prime Minister and Minister of External Affairs: Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

Finance: Hon. J. A. Robb.

Justice: Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Railways: Hon. C. A. Dunning.

Interior: Hon. Charles Stewart.

Public Works: Hon. J. C. Elliott.

Agriculture: Hon. W. R. Motherwell.

Trades and Commerce: Hon. James Malcolm.

Customs and Excise: Hon. W. D. Euler.

Health and D.S.C.R.: Hon. Dr. J. H. King.

Immigration: Hon. Robert Forke.

Postmaster-General: Hon. P. J. Veniot.

Marine and Fisheries: Hon. P. J. A. Cardin.

Solicitor-General: Hon. Lucien Cannon.

Secretary of State: Hon. Fernand Rinfret.

Labor: Hon. Peter Heenan.

Without portfolio: Hon. Raoul Dandurand.

Among the flowers in the famous gardens at Hampton Court Palace are 20,000 pansies, 12,000 snapdragons and 10,000 chrysanthemums. There are half a million plants in the gardens altogether.

KAISER TO RETURN LIKE CROWN PRINCE

Paris, Sept. 27.—German Monarchists and wealthy industrialists are plotting with the ex-Kaiser for his early return to Germany in a similar manner to the ex-Crown Prince, who is now installed in his castle at Oels, in Silesia, according to a correspondent of the Petit Parisien in Holland.

There have arrived at Doorn as the guests of the ex-Kaiser Marshall von Mackensen and Princess Windischgratz, daughter of Prince Furstenberg. Their visit follows that of certain influential members of the group of industrial magnates, headed by the late Hugo Stinnes.

The ex-Kaiser and his friends maintain that he is not a prisoner in Holland, and that the Dutch Government has no right to prevent him leaving the country.

William Regula, farmer, and two sisters were married at a triple wed-

FIVE-DAY WEEK NEW FORD PLAN

An Permanent Policy Not to Affect Wages or Production

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—Following many months during which the industrial was tentatively tried out, the five-day week for workmen in the plants of the Ford Motor Company has been adopted as a permanent policy, it was officially announced today. The short-week plan was inaugurated experimentally in some of the Ford plants late in July. The efforts since had been to give it gradual effect, so that normal production should not be disturbed.

Such workmen as seem to deserve it, it was indicated, will receive as much for the five-day week as they had been getting for six days. But this will depend solely on merit, it was asserted.

Henry Ford announced more than ten years ago he believed the five-day week practicable and has been experimenting along that line since.

Another feature of the policy adopted by the Ford organization is that eight hours will constitute a day's work and that there will be no extra labor, classified as overtime.

Of course, the Saturday feature cannot apply to the railroad owned by Ford or certain other continuous work. However, not affect but a very small percentage of the total number of men now employed by Ford.

For the past four years Ford employees have been working on an average of but five days per week and being paid accordingly. Two days the 10,000 or more employees have been idle without pay, while plans for a 40-hour week were being worked out. It was essential that could not be decided in an overnight conference.

Experience during the past few years showed that the plan now adopted can be successful financially both to the employer and the employees.

A new scale of wages is also being considered by the Ford Company.

ORIGIN IS FOUND OF ROUGH RIDERS

Title to Roosevelt's Famous Command Given By Associated Press

San Antonio, Sept. 25—(A.P.)— Research into musty and yellowing files of newspapers of 1898 has established to the satisfaction of Hermann Hagedorn, secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, that The Associated Press was instrumental in applying the term of "Rough Riders" to Theodore Roosevelt's famous regiment of cavalrymen.

Hagedorn made the research in connection with the filming here by Famous-Players-Lasky of the story of the regiment, to settle many disputes as to the origin of the picturesque name. He found that an Associated Press item on the night of April 18, 1898, from Phoenix, Ariz., was the earliest available record of the name.

Up to the time of this dispatch, which was printed by the Los Angeles Times among other papers, Roosevelt's regiment was being widely heralded as "Teddy's Terrors."

Colonel A. O. Brodie, a famous soldier, took the first steps to organize the nucleus of the cowboy regiment at Prescott, Ariz., and was to have been its commander, according to an Associated Press despatches early in February 21, 1898.

The principal item of April 18, however, which so far as known first used the term "rough riders", follows:

ARIZONA ROUGH RIDERS
Regiment Can be Ready for Muster in Ten Days

(Associated Press Night Report)

Phoenix, Ariz., April 18.—Governor McCord is deeply interested in the formation of Col. Brodie's regiment of Arizona rough riders. Today he telegraphed the President as follows: "I beg you to remember that Arizona was the first to offer the government a regiment of cavalry recruited from cowboys of the Southwest. The regiment can be ready for muster in ten days and will be an honor to the Territory and to the nation. Please give me authority to raise such a regiment outside of our quota of volunteers to be called for."

Throughout subsequent dispatches, the newspaper correspondents continued to call the regiment "Teddy's Terrors," but the papers also picked up the phrase "Rough riders," Hagedorn said, "used to Roosevelt's men. It was not long before it became the regiment's title and was used by the men themselves. Unquestionably, the newspapers of the country, following in the lead of the Associated Press, gave the colorful name to Roosevelt's men."

Enjoy a New THRILL~ Try this Amazing New Gasoline

IMPERIAL Ethyl Gasoline is so much more powerful than any other motor fuel you have ever used, and so much quicker on the start, that you will notice the difference immediately.

On cold days—when you really need the power and easy starting which this new miracle fuel gives—you'll get driving thrills that add a new zest to motoring.

Throttle down to a "loaf" in traffic—or come to a dead stop—and, when you step on Imperial Ethyl you'll feel your car respond like a flash—with a sure, smooth "pick-up".

Difficult hills are easy on high gear with this new fuel and you'll find your motor absolutely knockless.

Imperial Ethyl Gasoline is more than a gasoline. It is a unique and wonderful product—obtained by combining "Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound" with a very special grade of gasoline.

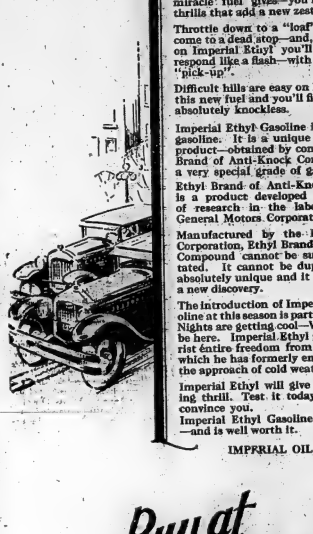

Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound is a product developed by seven years of research in the laboratory of the General Motors Corporation.

Manufactured by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound cannot be successfully imitated. It cannot be duplicated. It is absolutely unique and it stands alone as a new discovery.

CAUTION!

Do not confuse this wonderful new fuel with the many so-called "Anti-Knock" Gasolines on the market. And do not be misled by other gasolines purposely colored red to resemble Ethyl.

Our well-known Premier Gasoline has as much "Anti-Knock" quality as any gasoline made or sold in Canada with the sole exception of Imperial Ethyl Gasoline. The latter is more than a gasoline—it's a motor fuel of super-efficient qualities.

For your protection, no dealer or service station will be permitted to sell Imperial Ethyl Gasoline through any pump that does not conspicuously display the official Imperial Ethyl Trade-Mark as re-produced in this advertisement

The Kiwanis Club Thanks You.

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville, wish to take this opportunity of thanking the general public for their wholehearted and generous patronage at the Carnival and Style Show of last week.

Everybody seemed to catch the spirit of the enterprise with the result tha we owe a debt of gratitude to many individuals too numerous to mention, who helped materially to make the Carnival the success that it was.

We do feel that we should especially mention the 9 young ladies who acted so acceptably and gracefully as mannequins in the Style Show, and Miss Mikel's Class of Girls who delighted with their dancing. To these young ladies we are indeed grateful for their assistance and the way they performed their duties.

We believe this Carnival is now being looked upon as an annual event of importance in Belleville—and we hope that in the future the Kiwanis Club may continue to warrant your confidence in all our projects.

Again thanking all who helped to make the 1926 Carnival a huge success,

We Remain,

THE KIWANIS CLUB OF BELLEVILLE,

RADIO FANS ABLE TO GO ON STRIKE AND HERE IS HOW

Chicago, Sept. 25, (A. P.)—A Strike that does not have the pickets or the other embellishments considered proper by such matters continues in effect in Chicago. It has been running since the department of commerce at Washington announced that the radio law of 1912 did not permit its control of broadcasting. "WALK-OUT" A "TUNE-OUT"

The "walkout" really is one in name only, for the striker stays at home and refuses to listen. That is, he turns a deaf ear to those broadcasting stations he considers "unfair" to his interests.

Backing the move is the Broadcast Listeners Association, through whose efforts a previous strike for a general "silent night" in the Chicago area was successfully conducted. Before this walkout only part of the best stations adhered to a "gentleman's agreement" to remain off the air each Monday night so that receiver owners could enjoy far distance.

NATIONAL EFFECT

The associations latest drive is directed against what it terms as "air pirates and wave jumpers." It contends that new broadcast transmitters which come on the air in its present crowded condition, and those which select wavelengths other than those to which they originally were assigned by the department of commerce are "unfair" and urges its members to pass them over when they are turning their dials.

In addition to affecting Chicago stations, the association has stated that its movement is nation-wide and that listeners all over the country are joining in the effort to keep the air free of congestion. The B. L. A. also is taking upon itself the task of warning stations which stray about on the air, advising them that their listeners will decrease in number as a result.

Response to the strike has been large, the association officials said today, adding that the drive will be continued until more stable conditions prevail, or until congress enacts a law governing the situation.

CANADIANS APPRECIATIVE

Coldstream Guards Band Says Delighted at Return

London, England, September 17.—The band of the Coldstream Guards arrived at Liverpool today from its Canadian tour. Lieutenant Evans, conductor of the band, said that it received a wonderful reception in all parts of the Dominion.

"Canadian audiences know appreciate high-class music," he said. "Jazz is virtually dead in Canada, except for dancing. The people there are very responsive to all popular classical music."

Mrs. Thos. Adams, of 21 Earle St., was the recipient of a cablegram on Saturday bearing the sad news of the death of her mother, Mrs. Biddle, who was struck by a motor car on the streets of London, England. Mrs. Adams has the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends.

DISCHARGED FIREARM

Francis Donahue pleaded guilty in a charge of discharging firearms on Dove Street on Friday night. He was fined $1 and costs of $11.50, besides being given a reprimand by Judge Wills. It was ascertained that the youth had drilled a hole in the house opposite when he fired a .44 revolver from an upstairs window. The weapon was partly loaded when found by the officers. "I hope you now realize what it really means and the best time you want to shoot, take it considerable distance away from dwelling houses," offered the bench.

MORE CARS GONE

The stolen car epidemic continues to baffle the police. Last night Ex-Alderman George F. Gatron had his Mc-Laughlin touring car stolen from the curb near Bridge St., Church. It was found on Bleecker Avenue near Pine St., at 8 o'clock this morning. In exactly the same spot as where Mr. B. E. Hyland's Ford coupe was found on Saturday. Mr. Gatron's automobile was in good shape, the thieves evidently being on pleasure and when their joy ride was completed the car was left near the outskirts of the city.

FOR INTERMENT HERE

BROCKVILLE SENATOR MAY BE GOVERNOR

Arthur C. Hardy is Mentioned as Likely to Succeed Mr. Cockshutt

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—It is persistently reported that Senator Arthur C. Hardy of Brockville will be named the next Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. It is pointed out that it would be fitting that he take such a post, especially in view of the fact that his father was once Premier of that Province. As for a successor to Sir James Aikins as Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, there has been no discussion as yet, but a short time ago the name of Hon. Tobias C. Norris, former Premier of that Province, was mentioned in connection with the position.

Cyril Rice Coming To Belleville

Cyril Rice, Canada's noted boy tenor, is coming to Belleville tomorrow, Tuesday, September 28th, to give a recital.

Belleville people are fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing this noted boy singer, Cyril Rice, who was former soloist at Grace Church, New York City, and the "Little Church Around the Corner", New York City.

Cyril Rice is of English birth and parentage, but came to Canada at an early age. He was soloist in Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, Ont., at the age of seven. Three years later he was made soloist at Grace Church, New York City.

Since leaving New York, Cyril Rice has directed some of the finest choirs on the continent. His interest in aiding boys who are musical is well known to Canadian people, having sent five Canadian boys to New York last year, who are now singing in New York churches.

This is the fourth year that Cyril Rice has toured Canada and the U.S. He has sung in every Canadian city but five. It is planned that he will go later to Europe, singing in England and on the continent.

When lightning struck a two-story stone school building, in Bedford Md., hundreds of pupils marched out in orderly ranks, as they had been taught in fire drills.

Alex Cousins Dies On Board His Ship

The Joseph L. Russell, of John E. Russell fleet, steamed into Toronto Harbor with two barges in tow and her flags flying half mast, fore and aft on Saturday.

On the tug was the body of Alex Cousins, twenty-four, of Belleville, one of the crew, a fireman. He was found dead in his berth last Thursday midnight as the tug battled its way up the lake between Oswego and Toronto, steaming with the wind and heavy seas enroute to Hamilton. Cousins retired about 9.30 Thursday night and at midnight when his mate, Malcolm Anderson, of Toronto, called him to go on watch, he found him dead in his berth. Unable to turn around in the wind and heavy seas, owing to the two barges, Captain Malcolm Willard had kept going ahead.

Cousins was well known in Belleville. He had recently been married. His father died four years ago after a long career as a sailor. Alex Cousins was for four years, while a boy, a bellboy at the Quinte and recently had been a taxi driver for Mr. "Duke" Smith.

Mr. Cousins was born in Belleville July 5th, 1905. He was employed with the Russell Construction Co., on their tug Russell for the past six weeks. Previous to this he was in poor health with rheumatism and heart trouble. He is survived by a widow, mother, two sisters Myrtle and Margaret, and two brothers, Arthur and Russell. He was an Anglican, attending St. Thomas Church. The body arrived from Toronto last night and was taken to the home of his mother, 39 Church Street.

Letters to the Editor

PRES. OSTROM'S THANKS

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:—

On behalf of the Belleville Agricultural Board kindly permit me to express through your paper our hearty and unanimous appreciation to all who in any way contributed to the success of our annual agricultural fair held the first week of this month.

With special mention to parents of children privileged to take part in the Pageant, and for their creditable performance, to Merchant and Manufacturers for their interest and excellent displays of merchandise, exhibitors of all farm and other products, exhibitors in the speed events, donators of cash and other prizes; employed help for their courteous attention to the public, etc., hands for their liberal and appreciated contributions, the dining hall convenience afforded by the ladies of Holloway St. Church, all who took part in the opening program, and in particular the general urban and rural co-operative interest that is so evident, all of which made for your directors a week of pleasure; and has imbued in each a spirit of endeavor, to make the 1927 exhibition one we will again all be much proud of.

G. F. OSTROM,
Pres. Belleville Agriculture Board.

MR. MEIGHEN

Mr. Meighen's decision announced Saturday to retire from the Conservative leadership removes the cause of many expressions of regret here where he was particularly well known, and where he has visited many time with relatives. His fine qualities of heart and mind are well known; his gifts as a statesman and parliamentarian and as a public speaker are outstanding and are as much taken for granted as are his personal probity and sincerity. But what cannot be overlooked is that in two general elections the party under his lead has failed to carry enough constituencies to enable him to form a Government. What ever the reasons or combination of reasons that fact remains. Doubtless that is as obvious to Mr. Meighen as to the country at large. He is stepping aside for some else. That some one has not been decided. Whoever he may be he faces great duties and great responsibilities.

There seems little disposition here at the moment to name any single individual as yet in view as the man to supplant Mr. Meighen. Names already published from end to end of the country have met with merely polite and faint praise. Conservatives of this district have not consolidated this early on any one man as the few Conservative leaders but it has been said that if sHouse leaders is to be chosen temporarily until a Dominion Convention is held some time next year Sir Henry Drayton should be the man.

SENATE APPOINTMENTS

Certain defeated Liberal candidates at the last general election are being mentioned in connection with a vacant Nova Scotia seat in the Senate. The Ottawa Citizen (fed. Lib.) issues a reminder that the Liberal party is pledged to Senate reform, also offers timely advice that one way to reform the Senate is to stop sending political back numbers there.

The Liberal party, says the Citizen, is well rid of some of its former spokesmen in the House of Commons, who have done enough damage to true Liberalism without having them fastened for life on the Liberal cause.

The Senate cannot be reformed by loading it up with political barnacles and reactionaries. So far as the Nova Scotia seat is concerned, that province would be just as well served by appointing a Nova Scotia fisherman out of one of the fishing boats to the Senate. Such a man would at least be able to tell Parliament and the country something about the problems of Nova Scotia's declining fishing industry from first hand practical experience without having to pussyfoot for fear of treading on the gouty foot of any political party.

GOVERNMENT ACTIONS

One outcome of the recent customs disclosures is the instituting of government actions against two closely associated Quebec companies, the Dominion Distilleries company and the St. George Import and Export company, for the recovery of about $1,000,000 out of which, it is claimed, the public revenues were defrauded.

These actions, it should be noted were instituted by the Meighen government. Will they now be carried by the King government? Probably they will be as a matter of form at least; but will they be seriously pressed? Apologists for the King government have denied that there was any fraud in the transactions between the companies and the late Hon. Mr. Boivin while he was minister of customs and excise; they have asserted positively that the public revenues lost nothing. And it should be considered that the most active promoter of the alcoholic transactions was a prominent Montreal Liberal and former member of parliament as well as a personal friend of the late minister.

The position of the King government in this matter is not an enviable one. It would be, politically, a good stroke of business to recover several hundred thousand dollars for the public treasury; but then it could not do that without indirectly condemning itself and probably implicating some of its strongest Quebec supporters.

IN THE CAMP OF THE PHILISTINES

The Ottawa Journal:

Mr. Robert Forke, who succeeded Mr. T. A. Crerar after that Western Moses had led his Progressive hosts within sight of the Promised Land, is of another kidney from Mr. King's "Valiant." How are the mighty fallen! Six years ago Progressivism was to lead us out of bondage. The old tyranny of the two parties would be smashed; we would be taken to the uplands; Utopia was just around the corner. And now our hopes have vanished. The vast hosts from the plains have dispersed their captains have surrendered their swords; their leader has taken service with the enemy.

"Prostrate on earth the bleeding warrior lies,
And Isrel's beauty on the mountains dies."

And all with the benediction of that champion of the oppressed, the Manitoba Free Press! Before us is a cutting from the Free Press of only a year ago. Is it, or upon it, the Free Press threw its best journalistic foam, for groupe. The old parties had failed. They had made a mess of politics. They had brought distress upon Canada. Only by groups could we be saved. So much for consistency—and sincerity.

Well, few will weep much over the Progressive ending. For the party was a monumental sham. It was incompetent, insincere, and hypocritical. The worst party in the least efficient two Parliaments since Confederation.

But what will Mr. Forke do in Philosophy? He is an estimable benevolent gentleman, well-meaning, but is Mr. Forke the man to get immigrants for Canada? Is he competent for one of the biggest tasks in Canada? Our immigration tale during the past five years has been one for tears. We have had five Ministers, six policies, and no immigrants. Yet now, when everybody knows that immigration is vital, we are given as Immigration Minister—Mr. Robert Forke.

To paraphrase what Wellington said to his new recruits, we don't know how the prospective immigrants will feel, but Mr. Forke certainly frightens us.

LONDON BOOK SHOPS

Pierre Van Passaens:

London bookshops have no equals anywhere. For the book lover there is no more fascinating afternoon's occupation, than wandering through the dusty aisles of some old store, crammed with worn volumes. Half the charm of these places lies in their proprietors. The men who run second hand bookshops in England are born for the job. They have a quiet charm and dignity—an eagerness to serve — a love for the wares they sell that impresses even the most commercial book hunter.

They will search for hours to find you the particular book you want to see, now will they be deeply offended and hurt if you decide against the purchase after all the trouble they've taken. They are as lovable a type as you meet anywhere in the city—those slightly bent, gentle old fellows with their quiet voices and pleasant manners.

WHY WE LOVE THE FLAG

The Sentinel, Toronto:

Every Orangeman in British America should fly the Union Jack on his house on all public holidays and other suitable occasions. That would be a silent, but potent, answer to those who are striving to have it supplanted by some other design. Let the Jack be in evidence everywhere, and it will be impossible to create a sentiment for a Change.

Orangemen fought under the Union Jack at Queenston Heights in 1812; at the Mackenzie rebellion in 1837; at the Fenian Raid, in 1866; in the Riel rebellion in 1870, and again in 1885; in the Boer war of 1900, and in the Great War 1914-1918.

The sections made to keep our flag from defeat by enemies of all kinds have endeared the "old flag" of bonnie to the hearts of loyal British subjects.

DOWN TO BUSINESS

Hamilton Spectator:

Whatever may have been the underlying causes of the verdict, the fact remains that Mackenzie King has been put into office with improved chances of carrying on. It is the part of wisdom to accept the situation with as good grace as possible and assist the new government to bring about that condition of stability and national unity which is necessary for the progress of the Dominion.

There is a great constructive work to be done, and it can be successfully carried out only with the good will and co-operation of all interests. It is to be hoped that no more time will be wasted in vain regrets, but that the politicians will settle down to business and consecrate their energies to the service of the people, from whom their final authority is derived.

SWEETS FOR THE OLD

Boston Transcript:

Jonn F. Moore quotes Dr. Eliot as having said recently, his supposed indifference to criticism—"I cannot remember minding it. But I fear now that I am getting old, for I now receive much praise and I find I like it." Perhaps this is a characteristic comment on the elderly. Not long before he died Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in his room at the Capitol, smilingly read a highly complimentary letter he had first received from Massachusetts. "Read that he said, handing the letter over to a friend. "I am growing old, and praise is sweet."

"In His Quiet Moments"

A True Story

Always the life of the party' everybody admires Ted Carruthers for his breezy good nature and winning personality. He is a real man through and through.

But in his quiet moments—

Poor Ted has his personal problem from which he cannot shake himself free when alone. A recent illness, the price of overwork, left his health impaired. The doctor says it is only a matter of time.

He how has only a few short years in which to provide for Mary and the children. What is he to do? He is not able to get life insurance and cannot save much more than $3,000.00 a year. In five years this will be but $1,500.00—not nearly enough!

'Tis now he realizes just what it would have meant if he had insured when able, to provide for his wife an income of at least $100.00 a month ($1,200.00 a year) as long as she lived. At his age (35) $6.40 a week—with the London Life would have guaranteed it, and worry would not now be further sapping his strength, killing any chance he may have had of recovery.

* * *

The future may easily be made safe for loved ones by insurance, and worry removed from those who have dependents.

"MOOI HOLLANDE"

The scenery of Holland is very generally the loveliness of the plain and lowland. In parts of Gueldres and Limburg miniature mountains and woods do present a picturesque landscape. This is especially true around the heights of Arnhem, in the woods of Hrt Loo, on Holland's one mountain, the Wiselerberg. On the boundary between Limburg and Germany there is a range of hills for the eyes only of the Netherlanders, for they belong to Germany. Despite the flatness however, the attractiveness of the country has never been questioned. The absence of the sensational scene and the abnormal land scape centers attention on listening to an anthem of lilts harmonizing sounds which create a fresh ideal of beauty. It has made the Dutch re love their country, that many of them never leave it. To adventure away into the next province is often called "going abroad" so far does it seem. The whole nation is dominated with a quiet restful with its quaint beauty, which explains why the folk here often refer to their country as "Mooi Hollande"—"pretty Holland."

LONDON GIVES WILLINGDONS BIG FAREWELL

King and Colonial Secretary Represented at Station

THANKFUL AT CHANCE

New Governor-General Inspired By High Mission

London, Sept. 27.—In brilliant weather and surrounded by a crowd of well-wishers, Lord Willingdon, Canadian governor-general-elect, and Lady Willingdon, left Waterloo Station yesterday on a journey which will end at Rideau Hall, Ottawa.

The party immediately accompanying the new governor of the Dominion and his consort comprise the following: Mrs. Byng, wife of the controller of the household; Lt.-Col. Osborne-Jacobson, Captain Price-Davies, Viscount Harding, A.D.C., Captain the Hon. J. Jervis, A.D.C.

His Majesty the King was represented at Waterloo Station by Viscount Hambleden. The gathering on the station platform resembled the meeting of former peers of the Empire with which Lord Willingdon has been so closely connected. Particularly picturesque was the figure of Sir Rabindranath Tagore, the famous Hindoo poet.

Lt.-Col. L. C. Amery, secretary of state for Dominion affairs, and Mrs. Amery, arrived early, and also early on the scene was Lt.-Col. Sir Ronald Waterlow, principal private secretary to the prime minister who represented Premier Baldwin.

The high commissioners of the Dominions, with the exception of Hon. F. C. Larkin, who is in Canada, were present, also Lauren Pearce, secretary to the Canadian high commissioner in London, and Dr. Lemieux, agent-general of Quebec. Relatives and personal friends of Lord and Lady Willingdon were in the gathering. These included Lady Beaney, Lady Margaret Boscawen Lord Richard Nevill, Captain and Mrs. Preston-Thomas, son and daughter-in-law; Lady Mabel Egerton, Major Beaumont Nesbitt, brother-in-law, and Dr. Hu Wong, who was associated with Lord Willingdon in connection with the Boxer indemnity, commission recently in China.

Lord and Lady Willingdon sailed for Canada on the Empress of Scotland. There was no formal reception for them on the arrival of their boat train at Southampton. Lady Willingdon's suite on the ship was well-nigh smothered with flowers, these including a magnificent display of carnations which had been sent by Premier Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin. There was also a generous display of white heather from Col. Amery and Mrs. Amery.

Lady Willingdon is taking with her to Canada her black cairn terrier which was christened "Armistice" because he was purchased on the anniversary of Armistice Day.

Lord Willingdon, in a genial but non-committal chat with the Canadian Press on board the liner, said he was looking forward with very much pleasure to his stay in Canada as his experience there as his earlier years had been exceedingly pleasant.

"I think it is a great thing to have the chance of doing something in this way for the Empire," Lord Willingdon said with reference to his appointment to the governor-generalship of the Dominion. "So far as Canada is concerned, it seems to me that the two great things wanted are British capital and British immigrants.

"I understand that a great part of the governor-general's duties is to get about the Dominion and see the country for himself. I am looking forward to many opportunities in this direction."

Lord Willingdon mentioned that he knew Lord Byng very well and that doubtless he would exchange greetings with him on the ship's approaching Canada.

SEVENTY THOUSAND NEW YORKERS S&W FIGHT

New York, Sept. 25.—Seventy thousand New Yorkers, muddy, water-soaked, bedraggled and sleepless, made a disorderly retreat from Philadelphia. The first trainload of them arrived at the Pennsylvania station. They kept on coming on sixty-eight prearranged specials and on regular hourly trains.

Thousands and thousands of people kept pouring into the station long, lost ing as if they had been swimming the English Channel with their clothes on. Water was still dripping from them, as they made their way across the station. Thousands of shoes were still gurgling and squishing. It was probably the most thoroughly washed up crowd that ever entered a railroad station.

The joke of it was most of them had lost in the pursuit of Phils and wandered about.

REMARKABLE HAND AT BRIDGE ORIGINAL BID FOUR HEARTS

The Kingston Standard publishes the following account of a remarkable hand at bridge recently held there and The Intelligencer would be glad to hear of any comment on the hand and the play, and also of any remarkable hand held and played in Belleville:

A rather remarkable Auction Bridge hand was held recently in this city in a game in which a long time or other during the evening several well-known lawyers, a County official, a local newspaper man and Mr. W. H. Williams, K.C., of Pembroke, the visiting Crown Prosecutor, participated. In one of the hands dealt by Mr. Williams' partner and in which the dealer was the declarant, his original bid was four Hearts—a somewhat bold bid with no other bid made. When Mr. Williams, as dummy, laid down his hand it was disclosed that he had no fewer than five Hearts himself, namely Jack 6, 5, 3 and 2, but beyond that he had practically nothing save the Queen of Spades (and only one other of that suit) and some minor cards in the other suits. Spades were led whereupon Mr. Williams' partner took with the Queen from Mr. Williams' hand and then, without further play, laid down his own cards showing this remarkable distribution: Ace of Diamonds alone, Ace of Clubs alone, Ace, King and 2 spot of Spades and all the remaining Hearts that were not in his partner's hand, namely, Ace, King, Queen, 10, 8, 7, 4 and 3. That is to say, the combined cards of the two partners had every single Heart in the pack while Mr. Williams' hand as well, held the Queen of Spades necessary to complete his partner's hand for a Grand Slam.

This is regarded as a remarkable hand, with all 13 of the originally declared still in the combined hands, to say nothing of the other numerous strong cards in the declarant's hand.

It will be noticed that though the declarant had all four aces in his own hand, counting one kings, dred points, he did not declare "No Trumps" but called hearts instead. As a matter of fact had he declared no trumps a grand slam would have resulted just the same, as the cards happened to lie. But, it is to be noted that if the hearts in his partner's hand had been in adversary's hand and had diamonds or clubs been opened he would then have been forced to put with one or other of his solitary aces, thus wearing that suit for his opponents and then would not have been able to establish his hearts. Thus he would have been sure of only eight tricks—not even game. The heart bid, therefore, seemed to be much the safer, but there was some discussion as to whether no trumps should not have been originally declared.

MADOC TO HAVE WAR MEMORIAL

W. I. of the District Planning Fitting Tribute to War Heroes

Madoc.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of St. John the Baptist on Sept. 30th, when Miss Margaret A. Watson, the very popular High School teacher, was united in marriage to Mr. Hilla Foley, of Belleville, by Rev. Mr. Sirotzka of Madoc. The bride was attended by Miss Kate Rose of Brighton, as maid of honor and four bridesmaids. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the reception for the bride was given at The Leeder's, the home of the bride's mother.

The Young Worshipper's League of the United Church held a banquet on Thursday last with an attendance of over 80. Games and singing were indulged in for an hour or so and Rev. Mr. Foster is to be congratulated on his very marked success with these young people.

The members of the Women's Institute of Madoc are planning to erect a war memorial and the design chosen may be viewed in the window of Taft's furniture store. It is to be of light grey granite and it is hoped that hearty co-operation will be given to make the memorial worthy of the cause it represents.

Mrs. E. M. Tansley is in Colborne this week as one of the judges at the Agricultural Fair.

The Rebekahs of Madoc tendered a banquet to Bro. Tweed friends on Friday night last, which was much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Chas. Whitsitt is away acting as judge at several Fairs.

FEW STAFF CHANGES AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Ottawa, September 27.—The staff at Government House apparently will not be changed very much this year. So far as can be ascertained now, the only member of Baron Byng's entourage to accompany him overseas will be Captain Lord W. W. Montagu-Douglas-Scott, M.C., second son of the Duke of Buccleuch. Captain Scott came to Ottawa with Baron Byng and will return with him.

Mr. A. F. Sladen, C.M.G., C.V.O., probably will remain as Governor-General's secretary, a post he has held for some years. Lt.-Col. H. W. Snow is private secretary and comptroller of the household at Rideau Hall. There are two resident aides-de-camp, Major H. Willis O'Connor, D.S.O., and Major J.T.U. Archambault, D.S.O. It is not unlikely that Captain C. S. Price-Davies, M.C., who was on Baron Byng's staff up to a year ago, will return from the Old Country with Lord Willingdon, the incoming Governor-General, in the same capacity.

PICTON DISTRICT OF GOOD ROADS

People Anxious For Relatives in Miami—Social Notes

Picton.—Mrs. Flora Hudgin entertained delightfully on Tuesday afternoon, from 4 to 8 at afternoon tea at her home on King Street. The living room was very attractive with an abundance of asters arranged about. Mrs. Clare Norman and Mrs. Will Turnbull assisted with the serving of refreshments.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Ruth Gertrude Haulenbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wh. Haulenbeck, Orange, N.J., to Mr. John Hasley Nixon, also of Orange, N.J. The marriage will take place Saturday, Oct. 9th, at 6.30 p.m. in Grace Church, Orange, N.J. A reception will be given by the bride's parents at seven o'clock the same evening at Hotel Suburban, East Orange, N.J.

Mr. Will Meakle, Toronto, was a business caller in town over the week-end.

Mrs. E. L. Zealy and daughter, Miss Mabel, were guests recently of Mrs. Max Palter and family, Bowery Street.

Mrs. Max Palter is having some anxiety over her brother, Mr. Sinden, and family, who are residents of Miami, not having received any tidings from them since the disaster. Miss Charlotte Smith, is still unable to be at business on account of her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Milton Vandusen and family, Picton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cahoon, Schoharie.

Miss Florence Mallory has returned to her home in Bloomfield, after a sojourn in Muskoka. Miss Estelle Bell spent a day her week in Kingston.

Miss Marjorie Purtelle went to Guelph on Wednesday last. Miss Purtelle will take a course in Domestic Science at McDonald Hall.

Rev. Dr. Alfred Brown, an ex-pastor of the Methodist church in Picton, who was in town and officiated at the funeral of the late Mrs. John Bickley, which was held on Tuesday, took the opportunity of renewing a good many of his acquaintances while here.

The Council is still engaged in the work of street improvement in Bloomfield. Efforts at present are being directed on Stanley Street and when it is completed the work done will add much to the appearance of that part of the village.

Miss Ralph, Wellington, is undergoing treatment in Kingston Hospital.

Mr. A. E. Strickland, formerly of Wright's Drug Store, Picton, has obtained his Materia Medica at the supplementary examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto.

Mr. Bothwith, cheesemaker at Cherry Valley, secured first prize on cheese at Picton Fair.

YANKS CHAMPS RUTH IS HERO

Babe Hit Three Home runs in Two Final Games of Year

HIS TOTAL NOW 47

St. Louis Cards Beaten in Last Appearance By Cincy

St. Louis, Sept. 27.—The Yankees are the champions of the American League for the season of 1926 and will meet the Cardinals in the world's series. This was established when the Yanks defeated the Browns in both games of a doubleheader, winning the first game by a score of 10 to 2 and the second by a score of 10 to 0.

As the scores indicate, the Yanks recovered their punch. Babe Ruth made three home runs, one in the first game and two in the second, and he boosted up his total for the season to forty-seven. Bob Meusel also hit a home run in the first game and Lou Gehrig one in the second. The other Yankees hit the ball at timely moments and the flag fell into their clutches.

At New York.—Held scoreless for eight innings by two St. Louis pitchers, Cincinnati staged a rally in the ninth and scored six runs, taking the final game of the season at Cincinnati from the new champions, 2 to 1. Fourteen thousand fans braved a bitter wind to witness the wind-up.

TEN N.H.L. TEAMS IN TWO SECTIONS FOR WINTER PLAY

All Four Canadian Clubs in Eastern Wheel With N. Y. Americans

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Two sections of five clubs each in the new alignment of the National Hockey League for this winter, following the submittance of Detroit and Chicago at the annual meeting held here this week, and, bringing the circuit to a ten-club strength. The loop will be divided into eastern and western sections, with Ottawa, Montreal, Canadiens, Toronto and New York Americans are the five clubs compromising the eastern section. New York Rangers, Boston, Pittsburgh and Detroit and Chicago make up the western group. Intersectional games will be played in accordance with a schedule to be issued shortly, western teams making two tours over the eastern circuit in the season and vice versa. The three leading teams in each section will play off for the section championship at the end of the season, and the two sectional champions will meet for the league title, which will now carry with it the world laurels.

Opening games will be played November 16 and the schedule will end on April 2, each club having about 30 home games, Canadiens will open the season here on November 16 in an intersectional game with Pittsburgh, while Montreal Maroons will meet the New York Rangers on the same date at Madison Square Garden. Chicago will be ready with artificial ice in the Coliseum in that city by the opening date. Detroit, if its new rink is not completed by that time, will play its first few games in Windsor.

Little time was necessary to complete the arrangements, for the season's openings, but it was the player questions and the agreements with the Central League—now known as the American Association—and the minor leagues which kept the meeting in lively session throughout the week-end.

NEW FIRM TAKES OVER HAMILTON INVESTMENT HOUSE

R. O. Denman and Associates announce the formation of the investment house of Denman & Co. Limited, to take over the business of Browning, Harris, Denman & Company.

The new firm, which will be headed by Mr. Denman, will deal in listed stocks, bonds and high grade investment securities. The present offices and telephone connections, will be retained.

TEAR CLOTHES OF SMILING TUNNEY

Riotous Mob Greets New Champion in Old Home Town

New York, Sept. 27.—Champion Tunney arrived in his hometown Saturday and was welcomed by a hysterical demonstration in a riotous demonstration, which was beyond the ability of police assigned to the Pennsylvania station to govern.

The champion stepped down from the train at noon.

Awaiting him were his manager, Billy Gibson; Tim Mara, who is reported to have won $40,000 on Tunney, and the members of the reception committee representing the city.

Around the station and in the lobby was jammed a tremendous crowd although it was not as large as that which greeted Gertrude Ederle, when she arrived from swimming the English channel.

The people surged toward Tunney and he was nearly mobbed. His clothes were torn and it required valiant efforts by police to clear a way for him.

Finally he reached the big automobile waiting to take him to the city hall, but hardly was he within the city limits when people swarmed over it, almost turning it over.

The crowd broke into a cheer as the car rolled into city hall square and up to the steps of the historic old building.

Tunney stepped quickly from the car and while hats were waved and the crowd cheered walked up the wide stone steps and to the mayor's office where Mayor James J. Walker, who was among those at the ringside Thursday night, was waiting for him.

The Toronto Leafs begin the "little world's series with the Louisville Colonels at the mammoth new stadium on Fleet St. tomorrow. Fandom of the Queen city are all "het up" over the series and "Howling Dan Howley" has the team in tip top shape, for the meeting with the American Association winners. The Leafs have by long odds the most reliable pitching staff in the International League and Sam Doyle the veteran right-hander is slated to go to the mound against the visitors.

George Earnshaw of the Baltimore Orioles, stood the Colonels on their heads last Autumn and the Leafs have found Jack Dunn's star "easy meat" in most of the games this year. The representatives of the Blue Grass region are none too optimistic so reports state. It would certainly be a great Solman's fondest dreams if the Leafs can nail the Class A. A. pennant to the mast as well as the International League pennant.

* * *

"The melancholy days are here. The saddest of the year," but in the eyes of the average baseball fan they are the finest of the year. The one big question, before the fandom of the North American continent concerns the big classic of the year the world's series. Father Time has been at work all three weeks and once more we find that his hands have encompassed the calendar and the Blue Ribbon of the baseball universe will commence on Saturday with the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals opening the lottom. They St. Louis fans are getting their first glimpse of the big-time classic and a celebration that out-rivalled that of Armistice Day took place in the Missouri metropolis when the Cards had finished the National League pennant. Fans from Yukon in the North and California to the barren regions of Hades-a-Day are pulling for Rogers Hornsby and his gang of stars.

Will he surprise all the "little asspeleon" Miller Huggins in series? Will Babe Ruth continue his onslaught on the St. Louis pitchers as he has those of the American League? Will the greater experience of the Yankees figure in the deal? Who will be the hero of the play?

These and other important questions are in the throne of every baseball follower in the country.

The Cardinals, youthful and bubbling over with enthusiasm and enthusiasm will be faced by a more sober, steady and experienced team.

Rogers Hornsby one of the greatest players of his time will exert every ounce of baseball strategem possible in his managerial capacity to outwit the clever Miller Huggins. Locally, opinion is divided on the outcome, with the sympathy for the time-dogged Cardinals probably overshadowing the best hopes for the Gothamites.

YANKEE PILOT KNOWN AS THE "MIRACLE MAN"

Dislikes Publicity and Remains on Bench Throughout Games

New York, Sept. 27. — Miller Huggins has brought the New York Yankees to the top of the American League playing heap four times since he joined the club as manager in 1918. He has won one third under his management; once it finished second by the first year that he was at the helm, and once he dragged down to seventh place when the team cracked and crumbled from sheer old age.

The feat of bringing the Yanks back to the pennant from a seventh place club in the season of 1918 established Miller Huggins as a miracle man. But the Yankee pilot is still a puzzle. Miller Huggins who sits hard in the dugout and simply manages Huggins eschews the limelight; is rarely seen on the coaching line and as he seldom talks for publicity ball fans know little of him. When things are wrong Huggins gets the blame; otherwise the credit goes to Babe Ruth and Co.

Huggins is a student of baseball and of players made, his mark as a smart ball player when he made his debut with the St. Paul club in 1901. Three years later Huggins found himself in Cincinnati, his home town, where he remained until 1910 playing second base. Traded in 1910 to St. Louis, Huggins four years later succeeded Roger Bresnahan as manager of the Cardinals.

His success with second rate ball players was the talk for years in the National League circuit where he twice brought his club up to third place. It was while Huggins managed St. Louis that Rogers Hornsby came to the club, a youngster from a Texas town. Huggins saw at once that he had a find in Hornsby. He personally corrected Hornsby's batting stance and saw the young Texan rise to baseball stardom under his guidance.

Huggins this year confounded the experts, few picked the Yankees to finish even in the first division. Two holes in the infield to be plugged up shortstop and second base, and with a rookie first baseman with less than a year's experience, the task for the midget Miller looked hopeless. Kelly, a shortstop obtained from St. Paul, played only a few games with the Yanks at the end of the season and he was a problem. Lazzeri, bought from the Salt Lake Club, was made over into a second baseman. Koenig, with a high strung temperment and always overanxious, demanded Huggins' constant attention but Lazzeri filled into the hayseed without difficulty.

With much coaching and tutoring the defense held together while the heavy batting carried it along to victory.

Beat Los Diegui, 8 to 3, to Again Capture Pro. Golf Laurels

Garden City, L. I., Sept. 27.—In spite of the general laudable which has carried throne after throne away from champions in all lines of sports, Walter Hagen won the P.G.A. championship at Salisbury for the third time running, and thus established a new golf record.

He defeated Leo Diegel, former Canadian open champion and at times one of the most brilliant golfers in the world, by the score of 5 and 3 in the final round of the P.G.A. event in which he has been the outstanding play for the making he is the one that he has captured the crown in the nine years that the event has been held.

QUEEN'S LOOKS PRETTY SNAPPY

Defeated Montreal 14-1 With Voss Booting For Heavy Gains

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Senior rugby made its debut for the 1926 season here Saturday when Queen's university, Interrogitable titleholders, defeated the Montreal Big Four score 14 to 1, in an exhibition game which fell far below even what is expected of a pre-season training battle.

Whether it was the leaden skies; the downpour which fell just before game time, and kept the crowd down to a paltry 2,500 and rendered the field somewhat treacherous, and the drizzle which hung as a mist over the gridiron, throughout most of the contest which kept the game below pre-season standard it is a question. Whatever the cause, what was anticipated as a game which would give some indication of the ability of these two teams for their coming campaigns, degenerated into a tame kicking duel, in which Carl Voss of Queen's outpunted the four different Montrealers who endeavored to match kicks with him. It was Voss's superiority in kicking which made the gains for Queen's and the majority of their points came in the same old way for the tricolor, the ability to take advantage of the other team's fumbles.

CHICAGO AND DETROIT GIVEN A FRANCHISE

National Hockey League Held Important Meeting Last Saturday

Montreal, Sept. 27.—With hockey men here from every organized professional hockey league, one of the most important meetings ever held took place Saturday when the National Hockey League delegates assembled. The representatives present from the new Canadian Hockey League, the Central League and Eastern Canada Provinces, the now defunct Western Canada League were not admitted to the N.H.L. gathering when it was started, but these leagues are represented, it is said, to a nice amicable feeling between their organizations and the circuits. The loop also in the matter of numerous playoff deals.

One of the early proceedings of the gathering came the scout of war between the amateur and professional bodies. It seems that Alex. Gray and Lorne Chabot, of Port Arthur, have accepted advance money from the New York Rangers and now the Rangers want to report. President Calder stated that if these players refuse to report to the Rangers and are allowed to remain in amateur hockey, the professional body would be forced to cease co-operation with the amateurs.

The Chicago team was definitely taken in, the National Hockey League formally accepting the Windsor bid being held by Tack Hardwick and Fred McLaughlin. The Detroit team was also officially entered and the Hamilton-Townsend interests. It was announced that if the Detroit rink is not ready in time to open the schedule, the first home games of the team will be played in Windsor.

LEAFS' PLAYER ARRESTED

Pitcher Fisher Up on Charge of Reckless Driving

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Clarence H. Fisher, one of the leading right-hand pitchers of the Toronto Leafs championship International Baseball League, was arrested here on a charge of reckless driving while operating an auto model and on a charge of breach of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Fisher's arrest followed an accident when the automobile which he was driving struck Gregg Forster while he was stepping from a street car. Towner was knocked down, sustained injuries to his arms and knee but he was able to go home. With Fisher at the time was Jess Doyle, another member of the team's pitching staff, and a woman whose name the police did not take. Doyle was allowed to go. Fisher was held awaiting bail.

Fisher joined the Toronto Leafs in July, coming here from Buffalo, and he won ten straight games for Toronto in the final dash for the pennant.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles Nor do surgical operations.

Piles are inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must have the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist at work some years ago to find a safe internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's. We gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

WORLD'S SERIES NEXT SATURDAY

Cards Go to New York For First Games—Sportsman's Park Sold Out

New York, September 27.— The twenty-third annual world's series will start at the Yankee Stadium next Saturday afternoon, provided the baseball championship is blessed with dryer weather than was the recent fistic tinular argument!

The contending teams are the Yankees of the American League and the Cardinals of the National—selected by a process of elimination which began last April. The eliminating process was a long and arduous matter. The Cardinals clinched their pennant on Friday at the Polo Grounds, but it was not until the late hours of Saturday afternoon that the Yankees won a doubleheader at St. Louis and put the flag beyond the machinations of the hostile Indians.

The chief interest of this world's series lies, of course, in the fact that it is the first ever played in St. Louis. There are eleven cities making up the major leagues and St. Louis is the only one that has not yet been awarded in the October days, by baseball-mad throngs, solemn magnates, hordes of writers and experts, ticket speculators and hot-dog vendors.

And for the first two days of the series the Mound City will have to follow the series by its usual methods—the radio, the bulletin boards and the newspapers. The first two games, on Saturday and Sunday, will be played in New York; Monday will be a day of travel, but on Tuesday, the day that St. Louis has been waiting for since 1888 will dawn.

The next three games, three on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will take place at Sportsman's Park. If the series is not already over by that time, the canvass of players, managers, writers, magnates et al, will run back to New York to play the sixth game. Should a seventh game be necessary, no one has yet been invested in the October days, by baseball-mad throngs, solemn magnates, hordes of writers and experts, ticket speculators and hot-dog vendors.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Leafs and Louisville Meet in Toronto Tomorrow

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The "Little World Series" between the Toronto International League Baseball champions and the Louisville American Association champions is scheduled to open in Toronto on Tuesday, September 28. The plan is to play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with Friday, October 1, open in case of a postponement of any of the previous games. The next games will be played on Saturday, October 2, after which both clubs will move to Louisville.

IN MEMORIAM

CLEMENT —In loving memory of Mary Clement, died September 26th, 1925, dearly beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LJ Clement.
The little things she used to do,
The things she used to say
Comes crowding back to memory,
As we think of her each day.
As we loved her, so we miss her,
In our memory she is dear,
Loved remembered longed for always
Bringing many a silent tear.
Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers, Sisters.

NEWS OF MOVIES

FOR THE BELLE A. street-boring bridge, several locust and passenger trains, horse cars,—and three more wrecks.

That was the order the property man received who was serving the Metropolitan unit filming "Whispering Smith," under George Melford's direction. The order was filled with the co-operation of the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

Here's the definition of early from the director beneath a story as "Whispering Smith" was filmed. The scenes transpire during the building of the Union Pacific toward the Rocky Mountains, when rustlers and bandits made heavy inroads upon the railroad, wrecked trains and stole their precious cargoes. The picture will be on view at the Belle theatre today.

H. B. Warner, Lilyan Tashman, John Bowers and Lillian Rich are featured. Don't miss it.

RAZORS FOR ARMY MADE I NMONTREAL

Loaden, Sept. 27.—In connection with an announcement made here today that safety razor blades for the British army will in future be manufactured in Montreal by a well known company, the Daily Express carried the headline, "America to Shave the British Army." Safety Razor Contract Goes Abroad.

The announcement states that the razors will be made at Slough, near London, but that the blades will be supplied from the Montreal factory. All the old-time razors are to be withdrawn from the British army, it is understood, and will be replaced with the safety type. As the army amounts to a hundred and forty-two thousand men and there are a hundred and eighty-five thousand territorials, this is a large order.

The Daily Express, quotes an official as saying: "Prices come before patriotism." It is likely that members of Parliament will raise a scandal regarding the contract. The London manager of the rival company says: "The order is a large one and is likely to extend over a number of years. We contracted to supply a large quantity of razors and blades and won the order in spite of severe competition." The contract price was not revealed.

Here and There

The financial statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway issued from Montreal for the seven months of 1926 ending July 31st, shows the large increase in the net profits of $6,691,301.53 over the "profits for the first seven months of 1925. The gross earnings were $ 1 ,826,207.11, as compared with $90,344,887.78 for the first seven months of 1925.

Unofficial estimates prepared by the authorities of the Department of Commerce, Washington, estimated that Americans visiting Canada this year would spend approximately $190,000,000. This estimate was intimated to be very conservative and that it was more than likely that the amount would exceed the $200,000,000 mark.

Announcement was made recently over the signature of E. N. Todd, Freight Traffic manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, of the appointment of D. A. Wanklyn as Industrial Commissioner of the Railway, with offices in Montreal. Mr. Wanklyn replaces Graham W. Curtis, who has resigned, to fill the position of general manager for Montreal Rail and Water Terminals, Limited.

Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company, accompanied by a party of internationally known financiers of New York, visited the National Exhibition at Toronto recently. Mr. Kahn, who is perhaps the leading art and music patron of the United States, addressed a luncheon of the directors of the Exhibition on September 2nd, the day of the Exhibition, which was set aside as "Music Day."

It is understood that purchases in Canada of 5,000 railway cars may result from the visit of the engineering experts, Mr. Vauclain, and the Tvanaport Commissariat's representative, Mr. Baronsky, who have been delegated by the Soviet Republic to investigate the possibility of securing this number in Canada. They have also been instructed to make a study of the organization of the Canadian railway shops and the repair methods in general.

Three thief cubs were caught recently near Lake Dorcas in Northern Ontario by Arthur Beauvais, well-known driver of the Chateau Frontenac dog team at Quebec, and will be trained by Beauvais for the harness. He is confident that by mingling the wolves with huskie puppies for several months they will lose some of their scientific nature and make an attractive addition to the Chateau team. Beauvais states that, while wolves have endurance, they have not the "heart" of a huskie dog.

From Sheep to Governor in 12 Hours

When the prize sheep of J. T. Bretour's herd at Burford, Ont., was clipped at the opening of August 26th, he little thought that in scarcely more than twelve hours his luxuriant back would be worn as a top-coat by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec.

But that is just what happened when the fleece was accomplished was related by His Honor Lieut.-Governor Perodeau, who referred to the smart garment he wore in opening the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto recently.

"This overcoat dropped from the skies, "stated his Honor, which is just what it did.

Based on Lieutenant-Governor of a sister Province had appeared at the Canadian National Exhibition in an official capacity for over 20 years, the Executive of the Canadian woolen and Knit Goods Industry decided to make the presence of the Hon. Mr. Perodeau in this way.

Mr. Bretour, the best sheep breeder in the herd of Mr. Beethoue was shorn at Brantford by his nephew, Mr. Russell Treyday. By 2 p.m. the wool had been scoured, dyed, blended, spun, knitted, warped, woven, finished and shrunk, and a fine piece of tweed was given to Mr. Quinlan, a Brantford tailor. By 4 p.m. the coat was finished and ready to wear.

It then took a watertight package it was rushed by motor to a flying field, picked up by aeroplane and brought down at the Exhibition by Parachute Jumper J. L. Clapp, who jumped from the machine into the weather, where he was picked up by a motor car which rushed it to the Fair.

The Hon. Mr. Perodeau was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Ironne McKenna, his A.D.C., Lieut.-Col. Papineau, his Honor Adc Cockshutt, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, Miss Cockshutt, and Colonel Fraser, all six being dressed in "All Canadian" costumes. His Excellency during his visit to the Exhibition inspected the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers exhibit, which consisted of a miniature factory, operating machinery, and samples of many finished articles received from all provinces in the Dominion. He also made a special visit to the Canadian Pacific exhibit and inspected the exhibition of the model train from Wembley which is elevated on a platform and operated and runs in front of a frieze which takes the visitor from Quebec to Vancouver.

MARJORIE PICKTHALL'S NEW NOVEL

One of the surprises of the present publishing season is a posthumous story by Marjorie C. Pickthall. This able writer, who was cut off suddenly just when she had mastered her powers, evidently left a considerable body of manuscript behind her. We have already had a volume of short stories and one of verse, and now comes "Little Hearts," a full-length romance. The background for this descriptive is southwestern England in the days of Wesley. Beyond the unobtrusive appearance of a Methodist prophetess, however, there is no religious atmosphere. One of the principal characters, supposed to be a Jacobite, is succored by Michael Campion, a poverty-stricken, country gentleman, who is something of a philosopher. His cousin, Dorothy Sophia "Little Hearts," a fully-developed picture. The romance is beautifully written, but its plot is so slight that it should never have exceeded the confines of a short story.

Who wrote "God Save the King?" An interesting controversy has been waged in the English press of late regarding the origin of the national anthem. Some claim that it was built after a German model and dates back to the reign of George the First. Another antiquary declares that the words were written by Dr. Jeremy Bettridge and composed by John Bull, and that it was first sung at Merchant Taylor's Hall, on July 7th, 1607, by the gentlemen and children of His Majesty's Chapel Royal, when King James the First, was present at a dinner given by the company on his escape from the Gunpowder Plot. The words illustrate their Tudorish tricks' applied very nicely to the Guy Fawkes incidents.

Sir Rider Haggard's autobiography, "The Days of My Life," which was written 15 years ago, will be published in two volumes early in October. The autobiography covers the first 64 years of the author's life, and gives a full account of Haggard's early days in South Africa, and the Boer War, of how he came to write "She" "King Solomon's Mines" and the "Allan Quartermain stories of his travels, and of his friendship with many distinguished people. Cecil Rhodes, Robert Louis Stevenson, Andrew Lang, William Morris, Joseph Chamberlain, Rudyard Kipling, Empress Frederick of Germany and Theodore Roosevelt appear in the pages of this book.

Every reader of "Allan Quartermain" will remember that huge Zulu warrio, Umslopogaas, and will be glad to learn that he has a vital place in a Sequel of high birth, whom Haggard met in South Africa. The chief was tall, thin, and fierce-faced with a great hole above one of his temples over which he also pulsated. One day long after Haggard had left South Africa and had become a famous novelist, the chief had a talk with an Englishman named Osborn, whom the natives called Mallsinat, "as it true, Mallsinat," said Umslopogaas, "that Indanda (meaning Haggard), has been using my name largely in books that he has written?"

"Yes, it is true, Umslopogaas."

"So! Now what does Indanda do with the books when he has written them?"

"He sells them, Umslopogaas."

"Then, Mall-sinat, say to the Inkoos Indanda when you next find known the Black Water that as he makes money by writing about me it is right and just that he should send me half the money."

"Haggard took the hint and sent him, not money, but a very fine hunting-knife with his name engraved upon it."

"Bison of Clay," just translated from the French, is a romance of people who lived on earth 25,000 years ago. The author, Max Begouch, is a well-known archaeologist who with his brothers, in 1912 discovered fossils and relics of prehistoric life in a cave by the property of his father, Count Begouen, near Ariege, France. At the same time they found two bison modelled in clay, which are reputed to be the oldest existing examples of prehistoric sculpture. From these bison the novel takes its name. Mr. Begouen has now drawn on the knowledge of prehistoric conditions and customs gained from the explorations of the caves to tell the romance of The Lynx and the woman chief, Spring-on-the-Prairie. Robert L. Duffus has translated the novel from French.

The Old Love Or New?

"It is just possible that he may trust his wife," said Roy. "Why should he not?"

"Every reason in the world, mon cher. A woman ought never to be trusted."

"You are severe," said Roy, quietly. "Well, perhaps you are right."

"There are my mother and Dora!" exclaimed Mr. Carruthers, as a handsome barouche, containing two ladies, stopped and Roy took advantage of a slight block in the stream of carriages to cross to them and exchange greetings.

Lady Carruthers, a handsome, fashionable-looking woman, with easy, graceful manners, received Roy with admiration, while Dora, a very stylish girl dressed in olive-colored silk and velvet, faced with the palest blue, and made in the extreme of fashion, gave him her hand smilingly, and flashed her handsome eyes into his face—for was he not young handsome, rich, and single?—and answered his questions in a very sweet, if slightly affected manner.

"Tired after the ball? Oh! dear no, Mr. Fitzroy. I was out riding this morning at nine."

"What energy," Roy answered, smiling. "Were you really in the Row at nine?"

"Yes; and I generally am. Don't you ride, Mr. Fitzroy?"

"Yes; but not quite so early as that," he rejoined. "Perhaps now though that you offer me such an inducement I may follow your good example."

"I shall be delighted," said Dora, with a bewitching glance. "Shall you be at Lady Travers' to-night?"

"I think so. Shall I have the pleasure of meeting you?"

"Yes; we are going to the opera first. It is Faust you know, with Patti, for the night, and we shall leave after the second act. Mamma, look," added Miss Dora, with sudden excitement, "there is Madeline Quentelle, Charles, and I suppose that is Lord Elford. How handsome he is!"

Lord Elford's mad phaeton was in the line of carriages on the opposite side, going slowly at a foot pace, for the number of carriages had increased greatly. Lady Carruthers lifted her pale eyes with all the grateful insolence of a great lady, and looked at Annette, taking in the young actress' great beauty and costly surroundings with keen interest. She was leaning back in the phaeton, heedless of any scrutiny, and of the many glances turned upon her; but just as they passed, Lady Carruthers' carriage Lord Elford made some remark which called forth a little silvery laugh, and at the same instant lifting her eyes she met Roy's gaze.

The color rose in the fair face, and she inclined her head with a slight smile. Roy lifted his hat and bowed low, and the phaeton passed on.

"Who is your friend, dear?" Lord Elford asked, carelessly. "Do I know him

"Mr. Fitzroy, of Royston Grange," answered Annette, quickly. "I met his acquaintance there for six weeks, Frank. Mrs. Fitzroy was a school friend of my mother's; but Uncle Adolphe parted me away."

Light as the words were there was an undercurrent of pain, which Lord Elford perceived; but he mistook its cause. Annette had seen Roy's attitude with regard to Miss Carruthers, her smiles and blushes. Roy's apparent devotedness, and her thoughts had gone sadly away to the young wife, whom she fancied he most neglect. Was he, could he be unworthy? Annette thought sorrowfully, and some strange pain at her heart made her turn to Lord Elford and slip her hand through his arm with a sudden little caressing movement which pleased him, and made him bend down, to her with a tender smile, and softly whisper:

"My darling!"

They drove on, and had gone halfway around the Park, when, among the pedestrians in the footwalk, Annette recognized a gentleman well known in the musical and literary world, and asked Lord Elford to pull up.

"How are you, mademoiselle?" he said smiling. "Your most obedient, milord And so we are going to lose you from our midst, Mademoiselle Annette. I am will not congratulate you; it is a shame to bury such talents as yours at Elford." "Why, you think I shall not appreciate them, Monsieur Rinaldi?" said Lord Elford, laughing.

"Impossible—impossible; but you are an exquisite, milord, and have no right to such a monopoly. Why should we be deprived of such a great pleasure?"

"You shall not be deprived, monsieur. Come to Elford, and you shall hear all your favorites."

"With pleasure," Monsieur Rinaldi answered gayly. "Mademoiselle, I think after all you have some reason to be congratulated. Milord appears to me some what reasonable."

"He is on se peut plus raisonnable," said Annette, smiling, as she held out her hand to him—a hand adorned little hand framed in its thick, flat gold wristlet; throwing all the more sweetness into her smile. It may be, because at this moment Roy Fitzroy's grays were passing them on the other side.

"An revoir, mademoiselle," said Monsieur Rinaldi, lifting his hat. "Milord, to you my congratulations may be addressed, mes plus sincerers felicitations."

"Au revoir, Rinaldi," Lord Elford answered gayly, as they drove on. "Fancy being congratulated on such an acquisition!"

"I am receiving many fine thing in the world to me," he answered, softly. "I thank Heaven for it daily."

Lord Elford laughed, and again the little hand went out to his, "how good you are—how good you are! So much too good, dear, for such as we are."

"I cannot be, you talk like Annette," he said, gently.

"But it is true!" he said, earnestly, with very real gratitude in his face. "Oh! Frank when I think of how some other woman suffer through neglect or unworthiness, I, unworthy by, unworthy, so ungrateful, should be so blest as I am!"

CHAPTER XXIII.

LADY TRAVERS' PARTY

Lady Travers' party was a very brilliant affair, even for a London dance in the height of the season. Wonderful to relate, there was no crush and plenty of room for everybody; for Lady Travers had taken the wise step to add to that of her rooms to overflowing by inviting all her friends and acquaintances on one evening.

The house in Palace Gardens was large and admirably distributed; besides which a ballroom had been built out on the back of the house, and by this means, in addition to the mansion itself, and Lady Travers' parties were rather looked-upon affairs, the ballroom, the conservatory, home with their dainty' ball dresses in ribands, and themselves fitted and bruised with struggling through the throng.

Lady Travers' parties too had another charm—they were most sociable gatherings, and the old, middle-aged, and elderly found among her those elements which conduce so greatly to the pleasantness of the party; for many of the best people were welcome at her house—artists, authors, musicians, even an actor or actress occasionally, fashionably and unexpected in their private life. Some worthy folk secured her ladyship of a young countess as their professional, and justly but she kept the Bohemian tendencies within sufficient limit to let them only benefit society. A whisper of any thing not quite correct in the way of morals sufficient to close the doors of her salons against any guest, no matter how highly placed or distinguished for rank or talent.

When Lady Carruthers and her daughter entered the ballroom on the night of their meeting Roy in the dance, which was at its height, and the band, concealed in a bower of choicest evergreens in a gallery at the upper end of the hall, was playing "Le Premier Baiser" waltzes with due expression and effect; among the couples circling around the room in the dreamy maze of the waltz, Dora Carruthers' quick, dark eyes discovered Roy Fitzroy dancing with a pretty, blushing-looking damsel, in pink satin and pearls.

Dora was looking very handsome in a dress of palegreen silk, and pink coral room for friends and acquaintances."

Lady Carruthers eyed her rather hostilely, the more so when she saw the admiration which showed itself in Roy's eyes; it was bad enough, she thought, that Mademoiselle Chabert should have carried off one of the eligibles of the season, so she made some slighting remark about Annette, which she regretted the next moment when she saw the flush of annoyance and resentment colored Roy's cheek, and noticed how coolly he bowed in answer to her remark.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 26.

The Lesson-Sermon is composed of selections from the Bible relative to the subject, with correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. First and Second Readers read the selections in sections alternately.

A citation from the Bible: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled" (Matt. 5: 6).

Citations from the Christian Science textbook: "The habitual struggle to be always good is unceasing prayer."

"Simply saking that we may love God will never make us love Him; still more we need to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness." (p. 4).

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

The beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents all ready for use.

It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region the urine is scanty and full of sediment, which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get sluggish you've got to assist nature's efforts like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

SURVEY OF CITY BY GAS EXPERT

Has Found Meters and Records Unsatisfactory and Out of Date

COAL WAS INFERIOR

R. O. Wynne Roberts Tells City Council of Conditions Here

At the City Council meeting last night the following letter relative to the gas works was read:

I desire to report for the information of the city council that the arrangements were made for an early start on the survey of the city as soon as the preliminaries were disposed of.

I can go into details at the work already done but it would envolve a long report so I will endeavor to summarize the salient.

The city survey field work was started on August 10th, and the inspector has made a careful examination of many buildings.

The services and meters are found to be in great need of overhauling. Meters which have been set for reasons have shown on test to be almost entirely slow, some will not register. Several meters are over 20 years old and some 35 years an excellent tribute to the different makes; but it is doubtful wisdom to continue such meters in use.

The gas generally is exceedingly irregular but most of this will be removed when the gas main near the works has been attended to.

It has been a very slow business to examine the services on Front Street, but the information is essential to enable us to reorganize the business.

I have conferred with Mr. Stock city auditor as to the future records of gas consumed. The old records are unsatisfactory. It is necessary to have the bookkeeping kept up to date.

Owing to the lack of systematic records, it has been necessary to have clerical assistance to enable the survey to proceed.

The supply of coal has recently been inferior and steps were taken to have samples analyzed. The attention of the coal agents has been drawn to the quality and satisfactory rebate will doubtless be arranged.

As soon as the leaves mainly due to unaccounted for gas are reduced and the pro-rata for a self supporting department are fairly assured, it will be desirable to consider the conducting of a new gas holder as the first portion of the rebuild plant.

Yours truly,

R. O. WYNNE-ROBERTS.

GIRL NOT KIDNAPPED

Hamilton, Sept. 28.—After several hours of questioning by detectives, the 11-year-old girl who told a sensational story of being kidnapped on Friday afternoon when four strange men in an automobile, and later escaping from them by jumping from the car, admitted today, according to police, that she had invented the story to explain her absence from school.

She had played truant, she said, and called at the home of her aunt, who scolded her and told her that little girls who played truant were often kidnapped. This warning gave her the idea.

She will appear in Juvenile Court next Saturday, charged with giving the police false information.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT STILL KNOWS WHEN NOT TO TALK

Washington, D.C., Sept. 28.—"My dear fellow, I have been out of politics a long time, but I still know enough about politics to know what I ought not to talk about." This was the reply of William Howard Taft, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, when asked by a newspaperman for his opinion on the workings of the Quebec liquor law. Mr. Taft has just returned from Murray Bay, Que.

MISSING LINK IS FOUND AGAIN

Ape-like Pre-Historic Man's Skull Found in Java

London, Sept. 28.—British Anthropologists were thrilled today by a despatch from Batavia, Java, which said that Prof. Heberlein of the Netherlands Government Medical Service, has discovered at Trinil, in Central Java, a complete skull of a pre-historic ape like creature termed by some the "missing link" and by science, the pithecanthropus erectus. The despatch said the skull was found at the same place where Prof. Eugene Dubois of the Amsterdam University discovered in 1892 the upper part of a skull, two teeth and a thigh bone from which was reconstructed prehistoric creature known as pre-like human being designated as the pithecanthropus erectus.

Miss Mildred Teldesly, who has established more than 6,000 skulls at the Royal College of Surgeons, believes that if the reported discovery is true, it is the most important of many years. A complete skulls of pre-historic human beings are exceedingly rare.

SIR JAMES CRAIG HEARD IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 28.—"I urge upon you all that no matter what happens at any time and in any place never to despair so long as you hang together as loyal brethren, under the terms of constitution which have made our empire what it is and under the flag which has flourished over the British constitution past". This was the message which Sir James Craig Premier of Ulster delivered at a banquet tendered in his honor here last night by the Orange Associations of greater Winnipeg.

Sir James outlined a scheme which he has for enabling men or Ulster to visit Canada with the object of becoming better and separated pleasure that people from Ulster were happy and pros-

SOMETHING "NEW" IN VEGETABLES

Something new in the vegetable line was exhibited to people on the city market this morning in the form of a "cultivated dandelion" and a "Chinese celery cabbage." Both specimens were grown in the gardens of F. Brummel R. R. No. 2 Frankford and are the only known species developed in this part of the country.

The dandelion was placed in a glass measure, filled with water and the leaves drooped over the edge of the ground. The plant resembles an ordinary dandelion with the exception that the leaves are a great deal larger. It is used by householders for catsup purposes and is cooked as "greens".

The Chinese celery plant is formed somewhat as a large head of lettuce. The seed came directly from China and it is coincident that while the scribe was present representative of the yellow race purchased several heads. It is said that the inhabitants of China have an especially rare way of cooking the vegetable which appeals to the palate. The seed was purchased from the Buckalee Seed Co., Rockford, Ill.

PLUCKY PILOTS SAVE STUNT MAN

Lost Strength, Being Numbed By Cold, While Climbing Air Ladder

Evansville, Ind., September 28.—George "Daredevil" Ashby, aeroplane stunt performer is alive through heroic work of pilots of two aeroplanes at a benefit air circus for Florida storm relief yesterday.

Ashby's act, the last on the program, included trapeze work on a rope ladder suspended beneath a machine.

He had only numbed by a cold wind, he attempted to climb the ladder but lost strength. He slipped and was suspended at the end of the rope, a long couple about his leg.

Floyd Stork, pilot, signalled for aid. Another pilot, another flyer, ran forward when the signal was received. Four times he jockeyed his plane beneath Ashby. Each time Kirk and Stork plane beneath Ashby, stood in the cockpit and grabbed the man's arms. His body fell upon the top wing of Kirk's plane. Kirk held it fast as he drew it away. Kirk then managed to get a hold upon the parasute form to keep it from falling from the machine while several moments sped along virtually without a pilot's control.

Kirk then manipulated foot levers and held the "stick" under his left arm and braced his right arm against the instrument board to hold Ashby in his plane.

"I made a landing, but how I can't say. We got down, that's all I can tell you."

DECIDE AGAINST ANY RESTRICTION IN IMMIGRATION

Debate in Bridge St. Church Has Interesting Point and Conclusion.

Nearly a hundred people attended a very interesting debate held in the Bridge Street United Church last night between the Senior Young People's Association of Bridge Street Church and Akens Church, Sydney.

The Akens debating team took the affirmative and the Bridge Street the negative.

Miss Hogal and Mr. Campbell represented the visitors while Miss Madden and Mr. Pearoll debated for the local church.

The subject of the debate was:

"Resolved—that Immigration into Canada should be restricted to those coming from the British Isles, for the next ten years."

The Akens debaters lost the contest, by the small margin of 25 points.

Refreshments were served afterwards and a social hour was enjoyed by every one present. Addresses were given by Dr. Malott and Mr. Holton. Mrs. Stewart sang accompanied by Miss Barbara Stewart.

The debate was very closely contested and very well argued. The judges were—Miss Young, the Rev. Mr. Sharp of Point Anne, and Miss Sullivan. Mr. Brason was the presiding officer. The winning team will debate with the Bridge St. Church team, on October 11, in the semi-finals and the winners will debate with some team in the Kingston District for an exceedingly handsome trophy.

BEATRICE LILLIE, LADY PEEL FORCES SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28.—Beatrice Lillie, English film actress and musical comedy star, in private life the wife of Sir Robert Peel was made defendant in two suits filed in Superior Court in which Mrs. Priscilla Whelan accused her of stealing the love of her husband. Donald Whelan, a second writer in one suit Mrs. Whelan asked $100,000 damages—in the other she asked for separate maintenance from her husband, and named Lady Peel corespondent.

Beatrice Lillie is a Toronto girl who, after winning success on the stage in Ontario, went to London just before the Great War broke out to join her mother and sister. She was placed in the war-time revue. "Bran pie." She won the plaudits of the Canadian soldiers overseas and because "the talk of hands as if ordering him to stop. But

LAD IS JOLTED FROM HIGH SEAT LEG IS CRUSHED

X-Ray Discloses Severe Injury to Ted Watts, Cannifton

Ted Watts, 12 years of age, residing with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watts, Cannifton village, this morning was the victim of a painful accident and one that was fraught might result in the loss of a leg. The lad on his way to school boarded a wagon laden with sand and just down on a spring seat in the front, with the driver. The boy was later jolted off the seat, falling behind the heels of the horses. Before the driver had time to stop the animals, a wheel had passed over Watts' left leg above the knee not only breaking it but splintering the bone to some extent. Mr. J. E. Storey as soon as possible secured the victim to the Belleville hospital where the fracture was reduced after an X-ray had been taken. The break was not so serious as at first thought.

OTTAWA CABINET WILL SOON FILL MANY VACANCIES

Three Senatorships In Line — Two Lt.-Governors to be Named

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—The cabinet has been called to meet again this afternoon.

Yesterday's meeting was short, but it is probable that the one today will be longer and that some of the matters which are pending will be disposed of.

Appointment of two more Judges to Customs inquiry commission, appointment of Counsel for the Commission and enlargement of scope of the inquiry are among those things which the Prime Minister indicated would have the first attention of the cabinet.

It is understood that the Government has already approached certain Judges with a view to their serving on commission with Sir Francois L anieux.

Other appointments which will probably be made before the Prime Minister goes abroad include three vacancies in the senate. Two of these vacancies are in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia.

Premier King announced last week that he expected to be able to bring Colonel J. L. Ralston, of Halifax into the cabinet some time this week. Col. Ralston will fill the remaining vacancy in the cabinet, that of National defence, if arrangements can be made to find him a seat. There will be appointments to the posts of Lieutenant Governor in both the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. Premier King will go to welcome Canada's new Governor General, Lord Willingdon.

LONDON TIMES IS SATISFIED

Reviews With Favor Premier King's Cabinet — Era of Prosperity

London, Sept. 28. (Canadian Press Cable)—In an editorial reviewing with entire favor Premier King's cabinet the London Times says this country already is shaping confidently for a period of tranquil development. Mr. Meighen's last act, the Times adds, was one of statesmanship and keen judgment.

"The policy of Canada First," the paper continues, "need not be taken as meaning selfish preoccupation of the interest alone—autonomy involves knowledge and responsibility and the great difficulty is that Dominion statesmen are absorbed in local policies and seldom have time to study anything but matters immediately in hand, while unwilling to trust anyone else to act in their name.

"Though it is a small event in itself, it is satisfactory from this point of view that the Canadian Liberals have found a fitting representative for the Washington post and it will prove a convenience to all parties in Canada to have their own permanent representative on the spot."

KIWANIS RICHER BY ABOUT $2,100 FROM KARNIVAL

Best Means of Making Money Yet Devised—For Charity Work

Local Kiwanians received with enthusiasm at their luncheon today, Secretary George Griffin's financial report on the Big Karnival of last week.

The total receipts of the Karnival as announced by the Secretary, were $5,095.94. With total expenses in the vicinity of $3,000.00, a balance of approximately $2,100.00 was the satisfactory sum by which the coffers of the Kiwanis Club were enriched, an amount which should enable the Club to do a vast amount of valuable service work during the coming season.

President Charles Hanna voiced the satisfaction of the Club members regarding the unqualified success the Karnival had proven; every man had done his utmost to put the show over in real style, and through the hearty co-operation of all the Karnival had shown a profit in every department. Cyril Birt, well known local manager of New York, gave the Club a treat in his rendition of two excellent solos. Kiwanian David Wren of the Peterboro Club, the guest and speaker of the day, gave the members an interesting and inspiring a talk as any to which it been his pleasure to listen, ten to for a long time. Choosing as his subject, "Working Capital", the speaker pointed out that members of Kiwanis working for the social betterment of their neighbors, have capital in invest, capital in the way of interest, of fresh power, of energy, and of enthusiasm, and the sum of these, wisely invested, would yield a return, than which none could be better,—the satisfaction of seeing rays of sunshine lighten the paths of the unfortunate and needy.

RECEIVES WORD FROM ORMSTON FROM WINDSOR

Missing Radio Operator in McPherson Case is in Canada

Windsor, Sept. 28.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at the Los Angeles Temple of Aimee Semple McPherson, who disappeared in May, shortly before Mrs. McPherson was kidnapped from a bathing beach, is being sought in Windsor as a result of a telegram received yesterday by the Los Angeles Times from "Kenneth Ormiston", sent from Windsor.

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—The Times says it received a telegram yesterday from Windsor, Ontario, signed by Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator of the Angelus Temple, who is sought in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson case.

The message read: "Stories published about me attempting to negotiate for immunity are without my knowledge. Nothing to fear except a divorce action."

At the Windsor Telegraph office it was declared the message was left there by a man, who mailed money for its sending. Ormiston, the object of a nation-wide search by officers, is charged jointly with Mrs. McPherson and five others with criminal conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the evangelist's disappearance.

MISSIONARIES SAFE IN CENTRAL CHINA

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 28.—That the military situation affecting travel in the Yangtze Valley in Central China is much easier, is indicated by a cable received at Foreign Missions Office of United Church of Canada reporting the arrival at Shanghai of three men, five women and twelve children from the West China Mission. Within one week they travelled 1,500 miles down the Yangste River, passing Wanhsien and Hankow where disturbances occurred two weeks ago. Other missionaries, who left Shungking in West China last week are remaining at Ichang, part way down the Yangtze awaiting return to their fields at Sungking, when the opportunity arrives.

GOT ACQUITTED WHEN HE KILLED LOVER OF WIFE

London Watched Trial in Paris That Was Very Human

PLOT AND INTRIGUE

Rich Man Found Woman He Loved In His Own Store

London, Sept. 10 (By Mail)—In the midst of the chaos produced by the fall in the franc, Paris has had a sensation which has excited the interest of the fashionable world to a higher degree than lies within the power of politics. There is no element of drama missing from the case, which began with the shooting of the handsome and athletic M. Robert Marge, and was followed by the appearance of M. Albert Lahrel, the prominent manufacturer, in the dock of the Seine Assizes.

Mme. Marge, a girl of 24 years of age, of medium height and build, highly intelligent distinguished looking, the very type of a "republic of letters," M. Lancel was still unmarried; he had been too busy making money to have time to court a suitable young woman in his own sphere of life, but he was greatly attracted to the girl, nevertheless.

In 1919, M. Lancel, walking through one of his shops, was struck by the appearance of one of the saleswomen, Estelle Levesque. She was handsome, but she was more than that. Regular in features, well made and vivacious, there was a glance in her eye that was captivating, and she looked at her employer with an air both of submission and effrontery which swept him off his feet.

He made her acquaintance, and discovered that she was married and the mother of a little girl. She was unhappy at home, and she detested the sordid surroundings to which her poverty condemned her. M. Lancel easy life in the fashionable world made love to her, and soon carried her off in triumph and set her up in a luxurious suite of apartments.

THE BORED WIFE

Meanwhile the pretty saleswoman had been divorced by her husband, but it was not until ten years afterwards that M. Lancel married in 1922. Estelle Levesque, whom he still loved with devotion, mingled with some disquietude. He brought her to his house in one of the fashionable streets of Paris, where he lived in a style corresponding to an expenditure of some five thousand a year.

Mme. Lancel had her car, her servants, all the accompaniments of an easy life in the fashionable world, but she was unhappy. She was bored with the monotony of her existence.

Then at a dance she met Robbie Marge, a young man about town, a polo player, football player, a boxer, a daring aviator. He was tall, splendidly built, gay and genial, and he danced to perfection. When Mme. Lancel met him she felt the same sort of "thunderbolt" which M. Lancel had experienced when he first saw her.

Then one day the self-satisfied millionaire received an anonymous letter which shook his pose to its foundations. It told him that his wife was in the habit of visiting the apartments of M. Marge at various hours, and it promised to give him the proof if he would make an appointment.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

He did so, and he found waiting for him a well-dressed woman of middle-age, who began to pour into his ears the story of his wife's faithlessness with so much exact detail that he could not refuse to believe it. He guessed that this was a case of jealousy. Robert Marge, the good looking and popular athlete, had won the affections of more than Estelle, and this woman was one of his discarded mistresses.

One morning in January, at 11 o'clock, M. Lancel got a telephone message, and he instantly summoned his friend Blanc, who in turn called three young women in at a shop to come with him.

In the first room they saw, M. Marge standing, evidently disconcerted, but meeting their looks with cool contempt; while Estelle was found half cowering behind a screen. Lancel bounded forward, and dragged her out, while M. Blanc at the same time advanced and seized Robert Marge by the wrists.

At first the athlete made no attempt at resistance, but when Lancel began first reproaching his wife, then abusing her in coarse terms, he became angry, while Estelle, who had been weeping bitterly, suddenly changed her attitude and called on her lover to defend her.

Robert made a move forward, but Blanc tried to restrain him. Robert tossed him aside and stood confronting Lancel. His attitude of nonchalance had also changed, and beginning first by mocking at the exasperated husband he passed his fist and slapped his face.

Lancel reeled from the blow; then he drew a revolver and shot at Robert twice, sending one bullet through his chest and another into his heart. The athlete made a desperate attempt to hold himself straight, but feel bleeding and helpless on the floor, while Lancel seemed only then to realize his situation, and the others looked on aghast.

Estelle had thrown herself on the floor beside Marge, and, lifting his head, she cried: "Bobi Bobi look at me. I beg your pardon, sweetheart; say, Bob, that you forgive me."

Then slowly she released her hold and let his head rest on the floor. Marge was dead.

The scene at the trial resembled a first night, when a long expected drama by a famous author is presented. The court was full of fashionable women fanning themselves, sniffing smelling-salts, and eating chocolates as they discussed in whispers each phase of the stage as it developed.

Lancel, with his regular features, his pale face, his small moustache, his high forehead and his earnest look was the centre of attraction. He was calm and correct in demeanor, but at one point when the judge pitilessly recalled his own faults of conduct Lancel wept bitterly.

For the defence it was pleaded that Lancel shot Marge in self-defence after the latter had attacked him. He had a blouse on his shoulder which a doctor said might have been caused by a clenched fist.

FAMILY SERVANT IN MAD MOMENT

Butler Kills Wealthy Employers on Getting Notice to Quit

Hereford, (By Mail)—Burghill Court, a beautiful thatched house standing in extensive grounds a few miles from Hereford, was the scene of a terrible shooting tragedy.

The victims were two sisters, the owners of the estate:

Miss Elinor Drinkwater Woodhouse, aged 60 years; and Miss May Gordon Woodhouse aged 57 years.

Charles Houghton, a butler, who was under notice after being in the service of the family for 25 years, was arrested after the tragedy, and remanded on a charge of murder.

The tragedy occured at 9.30 in the morning. Shortly after breakfast, at which the butler waited on the sisters, Miss Elinor Woodhouse went into the kitchen to give instruction. The housekeeper approached her and begged her to allow Houghton, who had been perhaps depressed, to remain. She refused to accede to this request, and said he would have to go.

Then were the last words she uttered for, as she came out of the kitchen a shot rang out and she fell bleeding to the floor.

Miss May Woodhouse rushed out from another room, only to receive the second charge from a double-barrelled sporting gun.

The housemaid staff rushed to the scene, and the butler ran into his bedroom, and locked himself in.

The servants, seeing what had happened, ran out of the house in terror, a number of policemen. The butler and spread the news of the tragedy in the village.

Medical assistance was summoned, but when the doctors arrived the two women were found to be dead. The elder was shot through the head and the other through the heart.

Captain Munro, chief constable of Hereford, was quickly on the scene with a number of police. The butler had by this time barricaded the bedroom.

After an hour the police induced him to come out.

There were six wounds in his throat.

At the great General Motors plant in Oshawa, another modern factory is being rushed to completion.

Building again for Greater Service

To the sound of the riveter's hammer and the song of the carpenter's saw, it rises . . . a fitting climax to the sixty years in which this institution has played a vital part in the promotion of Canada's welfare.

And it foretells an era of even greater service . . . for it will be devoted to the manufacture of the popularly priced Pontiac Six . . . the new member of the General Motors family whose success has already electrified the automotive industry.

Containing well over 100,000 square feet of floor space, the new Pontiac Six building is merely one phase of an expansion program involving $650,000.00 and affecting, directly or indirectly, all of the corporation's six different makes of cars.

New facilities and equipment . . . more modern machinery and more efficient arrangement of productive units . . . even greater provisions for a superior order of craftsmanship and quality—thus does General Motors of Canada reiterate its determination ever to serve its public better, ever to provide the maximum values that human skill and capable organization can produce.

By building again for greater service, General Motors both strengthens its powers to build a better car for every purse and purpose—

—and prepares itself to meet the ever-increasing demand for its newest product . . . a demand that spreads throughout the Dominion and the Empire overseas.

PAPER PRAISES MEIGHEN

Leader Daily News Notes Good-Spirited Action

London, September 22.—The Daily News in an editorial this morning dealing with the resignation of former Premier Meighen and the accession of Mackenzie King to the premiership of Canada says Mr. Meighen deserves the thanks of all parties because he has made it possible for Mr. King to attend the Imperial Conference by promising to facilitate the business of Parliament in this end.

"Mr. King's instant decision, upon assuming the premiership, to attend the conference," the News says, "will not only strengthen its deliberations but will effectively dissipate the unfortunate suspicion that Mr. King had the intention of sacrificing the 'Cabinet of Empire' his personal benediction."

COUNCIL CUTS ONE ASSESSMENT

Steel Co. of Canada Building Now Owned By Houston Co.

REWARD FOR BRAVERY

Clerk to Write Royal Humane Society Respecting Heroism

The business brought before the city Council last evening was transacted in an expeditious manner, there being no discussions upon the recommendations or other matters. Assessment on the steel company's property was reduced to $10,000 per year as the greater building had been dismantled and a recommendation was passed requesting the proper authorities at Ottawa to change the brand of coal being used at the post office building.

Members present were Mayor R.J.B. Graham, Aldermen MacConnell, Collins, Hyde, Wootten, Cherry, Goudy, Gorman, Sinclair, DeF. Proctor.

Accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were assented to and the following recommendations were adopted:

That the salary of Miss Hoardman for such time as she is employed as special assistant in the tax Department in connection with the investigation under Messrs. Wynn, Roberts, Sos and McLean be paid out of the special appropriation provided for said investigation.

That in view of the length of services and that it is hoped in the near future to have collection for all departments made by the city treasurer, thus effecting a considerable saving in office staff, that the application of Miss Meyers for an increase be favorably considered and that the salary dating from September 1st, 1926, be at the rate of $79 per month.

ROLLING MILLS ASSESSMENT

Owing to the fact that the property formerly owned by the Steel Company of Canada and purchased by the Houston Company Limited, formerly of Tweed, was assessed for a very large amount and that after the assessment had been made the Steel Company of Canada dismantled the building to a great extent, it is hereby recommended that for the latter part of the year 1926, the fixtures said property be reduced to an amount equal to an assessment of $10,000 and that the assessment for property and business for 1925 be $10,000.

That Messrs. Wynne, Roberts, Sos and McLean be authorized to, proceed with repairs of the carburetted water-gas set at a cost of about $175.

That the clerk be authorized to write the proper authorities at Ottawa and request in the strongest local at the post office as suggested in a communication. The communication suggested that the Government use Pocahontas smokeless coal instead of bituminous coal.

That the clerk be authorized to take up with the Local Humane Society the matter of obtaining recognition of the bravery exhibited by Fred Fisher of Oakville who saved from drowning a lad named William Logan of this city.

That Messrs. Wynne, Roberts, Sos and McLean be authorized to proceed with matters outlined in a communication, namely, fixing a new door neck and crown plate at a cost somewhere about $200.

An account of the Children's Aid Society for the taking care of some children amounting to $134.50 was ordered to be paid; also some expenses.

A letter was read from Messrs. Porter, Payne and Wills, acting solicitors re the request to erect a canopy over an auto accessory shop on Front street. The letter stated that in their opinion the council would be exceeding its power if it granted the request.

Petitions were presented for a sanitary sewer on Emily street, also to pave a portion of Ridley street.—Referred to proper authorities to ascertain if properly signed.

It was recommended that the City Hall and Council Chamber be granted free of charge to the Women's Institutes of Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward Counties for the holding of a district convention here on October 26th and 27th.

A few enquiries were made and answered satisfactorily.

Ald. Collins was chairman of committee of the whole on bylaws and two bylaws were passed, namely, a bylaw to construct a sewer on Mary street, and a debenture bylaw for $4,944 for the purchase of a motor hook and ladder equipment for the fire department.

MOTION

Moved by Ald. Collins, seconded by Ald. MacConnell, sadly and momentarily we, the members of the City Council of the City of Belleville, in regular session this 27th day of September, record our profound feelings of regret in the death of Mr. Stewart Masson, K.C., our late solicitor, who served the city long and faithfully and with distinction, and that a copy of this resolution be recorded in the minutes and a copy sent to the family of deceased.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Council adjourned.

Record Price Paid By American to Austrian Monastery

Vienna, Sept. 28.—The sale to American agents of another earliest Guetenberg Bible for $275,000, the highest price ever paid for a book, was announced by a representative of the firm of Hasselman, Frankford-on-Main, buying agents for Dr. Otto H. Vollbehr, whose collection of rare books recently was exhibited in New York. The Bible was purchased September 17 from St. Paul Monastery at Lavanthal, the Austrian Government yesterday granting a permit to export it to America on payment of a tax of $25,000. It will be sent this week to join the Vollbehr collection in New York.

Deaths & Funerals

JOHN C. BRYANT

From the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. Sager, 11 Ontario Street, the funeral took place yesterday afternoon of the late Mr. John C. Bryant. Rev. C. M. Sharpe conducted a service at the home and officiated at the interment at Wellington cemetery. Relatives and friends contributed a number of floral tributes. Bearers were J. Wilson, F. Andrews, V. Huffman, C. H. Ridley, C. Brown and H. Cunningham.

T. WILSON HARRISON

The death of T. Wilson Harrison occurred suddenly yesterday at his late residence, 211 Benton Road, Toronto. The late Mr. Harrison was born in Prince Edward County in 1854 of United Empire Loyalist parentage and after spending his early years there he took up his residence in Toronto, where for a number of years he was associated with the firm of Scobbell as organizer in Ontario and the Western Provinces. After severing his connection with this company, he was engaged with his son in the manufacturing of fancy leather goods. Deceased was a member of the Masonic Order and during his lifetime as a staunch Conservative. Besides his widow, he leaves one son, C. E. Harrison, and a daughter, Helen.

PINK SHIRT CRAZE STARTED IN PARIS ON VISIT OF PRINCE

Le Touquet, France, Sept. 25 The Prince of Wales launched a new fashion when he stayed here during part of his summer vacation. The Prince was seen one day to leave the Golf Hotel wearing a pink shirt which had the sleeves cut off at the elbows. The Prince played a round of golf in this cool garb, and the news spread like wild fire.

The next day the shops in Paris Plage were raided for pink shirts, which appeared on the golf links with the sleeves cut short but the supply of pink shirts was not equal to the demand, and the next day telephonic and telegraphic messages were sent to London ordering pink shirts by the hundred weight, to be sent by Trumpet byn a'rplane. They have since been all the rage, and the idea has been taken up even by the women players.

"Let there be harmony in things material—liberty in things not essential—Charity in all."

THE NEW KING CABINET

Mr. King's task of cabinet-making is completed and the new ministry have been sworn in.

Most of the old ministers are retained in their old positions. An exception is the exchange of portfolios by Hon. J. H. King and Hon. J. C. Elliott. Mr. Elliott takes charge of the important department of public works, and Dr. King will be minister of health and soldier's re-establishment.

There are six new members in charge of departments. They are: Peter J. Veniot, who is to replace Hon. Charles Murphy as postmaster-general; W. D. Euler, minister of customs and excise; James Malcolm, trade and commerce; Colonel J. L. Ralston, militia and defence; Robert Forke, immigration and colonization, and Mr. Heenan, born in Old Erin, Labor.

The most interesting features of this cabinet-making job are the inclusion of Messrs. Euler and Forke in the new ministry. One of the most important of the departments at present is the department of customs and excise. In view of the recent disclosures, the judicial investigation now in progress and Mr. King's promise of a thorough cleaning-up in this branch of the public service, a strong man will be required at the head of the department. That Mr. Euler is the man seems to be conceded—that he possesses the strength of will and the disinterestedness necessary to carry to completion a difficult and unpleasant but important task, remains to be seen.

Mr. Forke's presence in the new cabinet will not add much strength to it except such as may be derived from the fact that that gentleman has been the leader of the Progressive party. Intellectually he does not rank high; but, assuming that in accepting Mr. King's invitation he is acting with the approval of his Progressive friends, his entrance into the cabinet can be regarded as a guarantee that most of the Progressives in parliament will give the new government steady support.

BRITAIN'S MOST DANGEROUS STRIKE

Apparently the leaders of the British coal miners strike are now willing to admit that the industry cannot afford to pay the wages for which they have been striking or to limit the work day to seven hours. On these points they are ready to make concessions. But they still stand out for their plan of placing the coal mining industry upon a national basis. Premier Baldwin cannot agree to this proposal, for the mine owners will not listen to it, and a settlement on that basis is not to be looked for. But Mr. Baldwin has promised the miners' executive that the government will establish a national tribunal for the adjustment of disputes on condition that the miners return to work immediately on the basis of district agreements. The offer of a compromise was not acceptable to the miners' representatives, but they did not actually reject it, and may later agree to a settlement on the premier's terms.

The best hope of an early settlement is the dread of the strike leaders that, if the strike continues much longer, it will crumble and fail. The miners are growing restless; they want to resume work. Thirty thousand of them have already gone back to the mines despite the entreaties and even the threats of the leaders. What the latter fear now is a general and sudden breakdown of the strike by the voluntary action of the miners themselves. It that should take place it would probably mean the dissolution of the Miners' Federation, and the consequent loss of office by the Federation officials.

This is probably the most disastrous strike that has ever taken place in Britain. The loss to the coal industry is but a small part of the total loss, for almost every industry in the country which uses coal has suffered many plants having entirely closed. The total loss to date is estimated at not less than $2,165,000,000. And the effects of it will long be felt. Britain has lost a large part of her export trade in coal; it has passed into the hands of German companies, and it is not at all likely that the European markets can be recaptured.

This tremendous disaster comes at a time when the country is but ill prepared to stand up under it. Staggering as the British people are under a crushing burden of war taxation, with a million unemployed and about $250,000,000 being distributed annually in doles which tend to pauperize those who receive them, the industrial outlook in Britain is anything but bright.

TALL MEN NEED MORE FOOD!

If two men are of the same weight but one of them is short and fat and the other is very tall and thin—which one needs the most food, the most calories? Dr. Takahira of Japan has discovered that the tall thin man needs many more of the best producing calories than does the fat one. It all depends on the total area—not weight—of a person's body. The greater the area the more calories are needed.

Dr. Takahira has devised a formula for finding out what the area of any one's body is. With the aid of some friend who knows algebra the following formula can be applied, and it can be found who, among any given group, needs the most calories:

The area of the body is equal to Wo.425xHo.725x72.46. "W" here means body weight in gilograms and "H" height of the body in centimetres.

THE PERILS OF BABIES

Border Cities Star:

Bulldog jaws and prominent chins will be the rule unless mothers stop their babies' habit of sucking their thumbs. This is the portentous warning Dr. D. W. Stanley Wilkinson, of Melbourne. Thumb-sucking, he says "has a direct inhibiting action on the normal growth of the lower jaw." A little study of the face may show what he means, as regards the action of the muscles. "Wise babies will no doubt take to mirrors, furnished them by equally wise mothers.

The only trouble with Dr. Wilkinson's warning is that it doesn't seem to be retroactive. One wonders how all the thumb-sucking babies of hundreds of generations gone before, have escaped the dread bulldog effect, and why should all begin to happen now?

Perhaps it's the last age.

VENGEANCE FOLLOWS CLOSE THOSE WHO HAVE VIOLATED TOMBS OF ANCIENT EGYPT

Many Are Again Asking if Mummies of Long Dead Kings Are Guarded By Some Occult Force—Famous Investigators Nearly All Meet Quick Death —Story of Haunted Necklace.

London (By Mail).—Are the mummies of the Kings of Egypt guarded by some occult force which visits a terrible vengeance on those who violate the sanctity of the tombs?

To the long list of tragedies and mysterious occurrences with which modern Egyptologists who have dabbled in the dark secrets of the ancients have been associated is now added a startling story of abnormal happenings in connection with a three-thousand-year-old Egyptian necklace, formerly the property of an Edinburgh lady.

Found in a tomb between Helio-polis and Cairo and sent by a Scottish woman resident in Egypt to her friend in Edinburgh—as a Christmas present the necklace was responsible for so many occult thrills that it was thrown into Loch Leven in an attempt to thwart its evil influence.

Icy cold hands reaching out from the blackness of night, sounds of sobbing, queer lights, mysterious footsteps and scurrying sounds were among the terrifying manifestations. PARTED WITH GEMS IN TERROR.

How several well-known Edinburgh people tested the necklace and parted with it in terror after witnessing occurrences which defied every ordinary natural law is told by J. W. Hopeley, the author.

For some time it was retained by a brother of the owner who on retiring at night took it with him to his bedroom. He thus describes what occurred on the first night:

"Went to bed between 11 and 12 o'clock. Laid the necklace on the pillows about a foot behind my head, on my right side. Lay awake for some time as usual, and, just as I was going to sleep, heard and felt a thud on the pillow, just about where the necklace lay.

"I was instantly on the qui vive, but I did not move.

"Voiced that thud was exactly as if someone with a light hand had made a vigorous grab at the beads. Nothing further for some time.

"Then definite taps on the walls at different points, all near the ceiling to far as I could judge; sometimes isolated taps, sometimes two or three in succession.

"Wardrobe gave a very loud crack, which I had never heard it do before—perhaps never noticed, but think otherwise. Knocks continued, and kept me from sleeping.

"While lying awake heard necklace rustling behind me. Sound not unlike clinking glass, but of movement on the pillow. Listened to this for a long time.

"Clock struck two, and being anxious to get some sleep got up and flung necklace over staircase. There, after, slept undisturbed."

"Woke at 2 a.m., bed shaking from side to side. First impression was that some one was trying to arouse me, just as if he had grasped side of bed and was jerking it. Felt three distinct shakes after being really awake; there must have been several before.

"Lay quite still, and then felt as if awake; there must have been several before.

"Lay quite still, and then felt as if someone was bending over me. Nothing to be seen."

Not long afterwards the beads were entrusted to a woman who one night became aware of a figure standing close to her bed.

"It was that of a woman, tall, with dark hair which streamed down over her shoulders and breast. She had a very small nose, high cheek bones, dark eyes, and was very beautiful. A feature that specially attracted attention was that she wore a great profusion of beautiful beads round her neck and hanging over her breast.

"She wore a skeleton garment, and in her hands carried a casket breast high."

The figure moved towards the washstand, and their laid the casket down, afterwards turning and looking towards the bed before it disappeared. It certainly is a remarkable fact that there have died recently in tragic and sometimes mysterious circumstances nearly a dozen men who in some way interfered with the peace of the tombs of Egypt's mighty dead.

Lord Carnarvon, the director of the excavations of Tutankhamen's tomb, is dead. The Hon. Aubrey Herbert, who was present, is dead. Sir Douglas Reid, who had undertaken to X-ray the mummy, is dead. Professor Lafleur, who investigated the tomb, is dead. The two French Egyptologists, Bendite and Cassavos, who helped in the work, are dead.

SHE LIKED REAL MILK

A rich man had entertained a waiter of Sunday school children at his country residence and just before their departure he gave them glasses of new milk from one of his prize cows.

"How do you like it?" he asked of one little fellow who appeared to be enjoying himself.

"Boo-full" said the youngster. "I wish our milkman kep' a cow!"

A School on Wheels

1. The interior of the classroom. 2. A corner in the well equipped kitchen. 3. Showing the spacious teacher's sleeping accommodations.

IT is doubtful if the news of an approaching circus, heralded by dashing and wonderful advance posters has ever caused as much joy and excitement, as the announcement of the coming of the "Canadian Pacific School Train" into the hinterland of Northern Ontario.

There are more than fifty children in that one sub-division of the Railway who have never been able to go to school for the simple reason that there was no school to go to; but they have all heard of the joys of "school days," and longed for the day when they too might skip to school with a bundle o' nice new books under their arm.

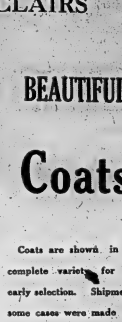

A little furor of excitement passed over this district a few days ago when the proclamation went forth that the school train was coming, in the middle of September. "School!" —just think of it—and not the kind of school that the carried city and town kids have, but a school on wheels—a school that suddenly appears one day and goes and comes again, like a gaspe cabin."

This unique experiment of bringing the school house into the unbroken parts of this sparsely settled country is being carried on by the Provincial Government of Ontario in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific Railway, with a view to providing educational facilities to the children of railway men and residents in the remote stations along the line in the Northern section of the Province between Chapleau and Sudbury. This territory was selected by the Department of Education after making a thorough survey of the educational needs of the district, and should the travelling school prove to be a success it was intimated that the plan probably would be extended to include other railway subdivisions.

The School car is so fascinating that it would make anyone, no matter how old, want to go to school again. About one-half the car is devoted to the school room, which is fitted with desks for little boys and girls and big ones too, a desk for teacher, a blackboard, bookcases with school books and good fiction, and even a real bell to summon the scholars. Behind the school-room is the bedroom of the teacher and in the rear of this again is quite a kitchen so thoroughly equipped with everything from stove to icebox, as to bring envy into the heart of any housewife. The teacher's name is Walter H. McNally.

It is anticipated that the car will stop at about six communities during the month, making a brief visit of from three to six days. Upon leaving the teacher will give the children enough homework to keep them busy until the car returns again in the course of a month.

LETTERS REVEAL TRAGIC ROMANCE

Unpublished Account of Passion of Marie Antoinette and Fersen

'TWAS PURE PASSION

Thought She Would Be Saved on Threshold of Guillotine

London, (By Mail)—The love romance of Marie Antoinette, Queen of France, and Count Axel Fersen, the handsome Swede, is illuminated by letters they exchanged, which are published in English for the first time.

What was the nature of the love between Fersen and Marie Antoinette? Was it as purely romantic as has generally been supposed? These are questions that readers will try to solve as they scrutinize these short notes, written in times of difficulty and danger, when the writers might leave much to be understood.

Fersen was nineteen when he was presented to the Queen in Paris. The Swedish Ambassador reported that the Queen could not take her eyes of him. Fersen was straightway admitted to the select circle. He knew Marie for nineteen years, and was called "the Queen's friend." He adored her. Yet the world has trumpeted the thought that his devotion was as pure as that of Sir Galahad. He was thirty-eight when the guillotine ended Marie's existence.

Two years before the end, during the return from the King's and Queen's flight to Varennes, Marie wrote to Fersen—who planned and partly conducted the flight—"Do not be anxious about us; we are alive." Next day from Paris she wrote:

"I exist!... How anxious I have been about you, and how I pity you for all you must of suffered in hearing no news of us. How could Heaven permit such things to happen to you!

"Don't write to me; it would only expose us to fresh dangers; and especially don't come here under any pretext whatever. Every one knows that you got us away. Everything would be lost if you came here. We are watched day and night. I do not mind.

"Don't be anxious. No harm will come to me. The Assembly is prepared to treat us leniently.

"Farewell.....you'll write and more.....

WORDS ERASED

The blanks in this letter, it is explained, represent words that were erased by Fersen. What was it Marie Antoinette wrote that Fersen thought it desirable to hide from posterity?

After the mob invaded the Tuileries Marie wrote to Fersen: "Do not be unhappy on our account. Pray believe that course does not go for nothing." She end the note: "I am still alive, but it is a miracle. The day of the 20th was awful."

The last letter she wrote to him, some months before her execution, ran: "I have had yourletter of the 25th. I was much touched by it. Our position is frightful, but do not be over-anxious. I am not without courage, and I have that within me that tells me shall be saved—the very belief holds me up."

After the Marie days not write any more letters to Fersen—she is too closely watched—but she sends him news by another hand, and he sends a reply.

Then comes the captivity of the royal family, and the death of Louis in February, and of Marie Antoinette in August 1793.

"Oh, pity me, pity me!" writes Fersen to his sister, after the Queen's death.

HEADLESS AUTOIST EMPTIES BLIND PIG

Detroit, Sept. 27.—A run-away automobile zig-zagged down a street here today, jumped a curb, crashed through the side of a brick building and came to a stop a few inches from the bar of an alleged negro bootlegging establishment, with a headless driver at the wheel.

The amazed patrons fled in all directions and the police were able to find only one witness of the accident, the bartender, who was so frightened they were some time in getting the story from him.

The driver lost control of the machine and was decapitated by part of the wall as the machine ploughed through.

SIDNEY COUNCIL IN BUSY SESSION

Many Items of Importance Before Rural Body For Adjustment

A meeting of the Sidney Council was held at Wallbridge, September 26th with all the members present.

The minutes of the August meeting were read and adopted on motion of W. H. Rodgers, seconded by A. L. Burke. A letter from the C.P.R. Co. was presented to the Council requesting the drainage of certain lands in Sidney.

Moved by Vanderwater, seconded by Vandervoort that the Reeve and Mr. Ray Aitkin be a committee to look after the interests of Sidney Township in the matter.—Carried.

Moved by Reid, seconded by Rodgers that the claim of Wm. Tiffi for damages to his car be referred to the Local agent of the Globe Indemnity Co. for settlement.—Carried.

Moved by Burke, seconded by Vandervoort that the following accounts be paid:—C. Scantlebury, $3.00; A. L. Coon, $14.26; Intelligencer, $220.30. —Carried.

Mrs. Weese and Mrs. W. Coon were present to ask for a grant to the Frankford Public Library.

Moved by Rodgers, seconded by Vanderwater that a grant of $15.00 be made to the Frankford Public Library.—Carried.

Moved by Vanderwater, seconded by Rodgers that Council adjourn and attend the funeral of the late Township Solicitor, Mr. S. Masson.—Carried.

On returning, the Council resumed its order of business.

Moved by Reid, seconded by Vanderwater that a grant of $15.00 be made to the W. Hastings Pioneers's Association and a special grant of $10.00 be given to plowmen resident of Sidney Township, the latter amount to be divided into three prizes of $5, $3, and $2.—Carried.

Moved by Vanderwater, seconded by Reid that an Auditor's Report of all Township Accounts be presented to the ratepayers of the Township on Nomination Day, the same to replace the Financial Statement as previously submitted, and that auditors be appointed by law on December 15th and begin the audit of the Township Accounts on the following day.—Carried.

Moved by Reid, seconded by Vanderwater that the interest of 5 per cent be added to the taxes from the 15th of December, 1926, for the current year instead of from Jan. 1st, owing to the fact that the statutes compel all Township Councils to pay the County Requisition on the 20th of Dec. instead of Jan. 1st as in former years.

Moved by Vanderwater, seconded by Burke that a letter of sympathy be sent to the family of the late Stewart Masson.—Carried.

Moved by Rodgers, seconded by Burke that the Council adjourn to meet Dec. 15th as provided by the Statutes.—Carried.

Special Offer to Rheumatics

Local Druggist Guarantees Money Back If Old Time Remedy Does Not Bring Quick Relief.

What chance does any sufferer take when Rheuma is guaranteed to banish all torturing Rheumatic pains and swollen joints or money back?

Why not investigate this offer? Talk to J. S. McKeown about it. Rheuma must drive the Rheumatic poison from the system, bring swollen joints back to normal and relieve all agony or it costs nothing.

People so crippled that they could not walk have been freed from the iron grasp of the demon, Rheumatism, with the Rheuma treatment.

No matter how skeptical you may be, nor how many remedies you have taken to relieve your suffering, you owe it to yourself to try Rheuma on this money back offer. All druggists sell it. Everybody can afford Rheuma. It's not expensive and absolutely harmless.

MAGICIAN THIEF IN LONDON SHOP

Diamond Necklace Disappears Under Eyes of Several Storemen

GEMS WORTH $5,000

Thieves Were Actually Suspected By Men They Robbed

London, (By Mail)—A £1,000 diamond necklace has been stolen from a jeweller's shop in Vigo street, Regent Street, W.1. By a man who seemed to have possessed the powers of a magician.

He actually stole the necklace from the shop window two feet behind him while he was leaning over the counter talking t come of the partners who served him.

Less than three feet away stood an assistant with his handon the door as a precaution, against any attempt on the part of the man or the companion who was with him to run away. The eye of the partner and his assistant never left the pair while they were in the shop, but the necklace vanished, and it was not until more than half an hour after their departure that it was missed.

The two men are now being sought by Scotland yard detectives, who are investigating the mystery.

They entered the shop and asked to see some expensive tie-pins which were in the window. One of the men discussed the merits of the pins for a few minutes, and then said they were rather expensive, and that he would have to think the matter herb. He and his friend then left the shop, and said they could return later.

"The man who took the necklace must have been a conjurer," said one of the partners. "He stood with his back to the window, the door of which I had left open when I extracted the tie pins for him to see. He stood leaning over the end of the counter, and I was behind it and but a few inches away from him. His friend stood at the front of the counter facing me.

"One of my assistants stood two feet away, holding the door handle as a precaution against either of them running away. The four of us never moved. The man with his back to the open window was smoking a cigarette, and kept flickering the ash on the floor. How he put his other hand through the curtain, felt for the necklace, extracted it from the window, and put it in his pocket without either myself or my assistant seeing him do it is a procuision against either of them baffles me completely. It seems incredible."

Neither of the men, stated the partner, was too well dressed, and they spoke in a cultured way. He suspected them from the first, and watched them carefully as they handled the tie-pins, but now was raised after their departure.

Popular Montreal Matron Recovers From Long Illness

Montreal Woman Tells How She Regained Health. Troubles Caused by Nervousness and Stomach Disorders Quickly Relieved, Says Tanlac Deserves All Credit

Thousands of men and women suffering from a generally run-down condition will get a message of hope and cheer from the experience of Mrs. Joseph Lefort, 445 Chambly Street, Montreal, whose quick recovery from a long, serious illness surprised her closest friends. If you never feel quite up to the mark, if you are fagged out, you'll be glad to know about Tanlac and what it did for Mrs. Lefort. Here is her story:

"About two months ago, I realized that my condition was far from good. I had spells in which I would tremble all over, and I would feel as if my head would burst. I suffered from severe headaches and would be very sick at my stomach. I was very nervous and unable to sleep.

"I was advised to take Tanlac and the first bottle brought such great relief that I have kept on taking it. I am now on my fourth bottle and feel like my old self once more. Dizzy spells and headaches have disappeared, nerves are in better shape and I get up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. I not only enjoy my meals but go about the housework with vim and energy. Because Tanlac has done so much for me, I take pleasure in recommending it to all."

Mrs. Lefort is only one of thousands who have found happy relief from pain and gained new strength by taking Tanlac. Why not heed Her advice. Keep well, keep youth and health—take Tanlac. Get your first bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today and see how much it will help you.

SPORTS

SAY ST. LOUIS BATTING CREW BETTER BALANCED THAN YANKS; WHAT SEASON HAS SHOWN

Hitting is at last the modern world's series. In the old days the spine men averred that pitching was sixty-five per cent. of the victory, but that was a generation which saw Matty, Mitner Brown, Ed Walsh, Rick Altrock, Alexander and Johnson at their best. Robe Marquard and others of the old masters.

It's the punch that wins nowadays. Beginning in 1921, John McGraw, with only a fair to middling pitching staff, won two world's series and lost two others only by the skin of his teeth. There are no Matty's, Browns and Walshes lurking on the modern rosters. Hitless wonders might get by in 1906 but the hard punchers are in the limelight now, as witness the Giants of 1921 and 1922, the Yanks of 1923, and the Pirates of 1925.

In a way, of course, hitting is the converse of pitching. Good pitching on one side means light hitting, and the other. It is impossible to separate batting from pitching, but the days are gone when the twirler sat astride the world's game like some colossus.

There are no more Walshes and Altrocks to cry, "Give me a run or two and I'll do the rest." With the advent of the lively ball, smaller field, heavier bats and hitters who "swing from the handle" a good pitching staff doesn't mean as much as it did in the good old days.

Which brings us down to the little matter of the Yankees and Cardinals. You will hear it said that the Yanks are the better hitters, that their long range batterers will shell the Cardinals right out of the park, that the "Murderers' Row" ever sets started the series will be what Hank Gowdy would call a "breeze."

As a matter of fact, the Yanks are overrated as hitters. They have never hit up to their spring and early summer form, when they batted well over .300 and murdered pitchers impartially and got the reputation generally for being fence-busters and heart-breakers.

True, they are good hitters, but not nearly so powerful as several of Miller Huggins's other teams and not so powerful as a half dozen outfits in recent years. For one thing, they lack balanced hitting strength. They have four .300 hitters, but then comes a drop to .334, to .276, then to .263 and finally to .260.

The Cardinals also have four men to the .300 division, but the next batter sports a .297 mark and the next .292. Here are six athletes virtually in the .300 category, whereas the Yanks have only four that could be termed, by any stretch of the imagination .300 hitters.

If Ruth is stopped you have dash's seven how to the Yankee pennant, but if Hornsby or Bell or Southworth is stopped you have five others springing into the arena with a dangerous club.

The Giants, one of the best world's series teams ever known, had the same balanced batting order. They stopped Ruth in two series and the Yankee attack crumpled. Every one of the Giants called his pretty well. A pitcher can concentrate on one individual and may get by, but it is a different matter when you have six more opponents to contend with, any and all of them dangerous.

Now look at the other side of the picture. The Yanks are longer hitters than Mr. Hornsby's outfit, which may mean considerable in a field the size of Sportsman's Park. They have made 15 more doubles than their foes and six fewer triples in the average up to the last few games of the season.

The Yanks have made forty-five fewer hits, but sixteen more runs by two less games.

The Yanks are better walkers and by more bases on balls—principally because of Ruth—and they have turned these gifts into runs by following them up with timely hits. The Yankees have made more runs than St. Louis on fewer hits and in fewer games—a fact worth pondering over in the next few days.

IMPROVED BATTERY SERVICE FOR BELLEVILLE MOTORISTS.

An improved battery service—which should be of interest to every motorist—is announced today by the Belleville Vulcanizing, F. W. H. Evans, proprietor. In the past this well-known firm has established an enviable reputation in the tire repairing line, being complete ly equipped for fine work of all kinds and offering an outstanding service.

And now, with the installation of the latest scientific equipment on the market for the charging and general care of batteries, Belleville Vulcanizing is in a position to offer in this new department a battery service unexcelled anywhere in the city. The department is in charge of Mr. Harry Weiss, formerly of Quigley Battery Service and an expert in Battery work.

The equipment recently installed includes an eight hour constant potential charger, a unitron for slow charging, and a portocrat—otherwise known as the X-Ray of Battery Service. This unique machine determines the condition of the battery plates, without the necessity of tearing the battery itself down. By its use one may readily know whether or not the plates will stand recharging.

The plant is thus thoroughly equipped for charging, repairing, storing and general care of batteries, with special service for the well known Monarch make, for which Belleville Vulcanizing are distributors. Mr. Evans, the proprietor is thus simplifying the battery problems of local motorists and giving Belleville as up-to-date and expert a Battery service as may be found anywhere. Willard and Exide Batteries are also stocked.

HANNA SHUT OUT OTTAWA PLAYERS

Guelph Twirler Pitched No-Hit No-Run Game in Junior Baseball Series

Guelph, September 28.—Pitching for the local Bantams in the first of a two-game series in the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association final contest, Ottawa Bantams, Jack Hanna Monday afternoon twirled in brilliant fashio to turn the visitors back without a run, Guelph winning the game by a score of 6 to 0. Hanna, who has three previous no-hit games in his credit, was in remarkable form, striking out twenty batters, only allowing one hit out of the infield; a long fly to centre in the ninth, which was an easy out.

GIRL'S BASKET BALL

The third inter-town basket ball game for the Rines Trophy was played Monday afternoon on the High School grounds between the commercial forms 1A and 1B with a score 36-8 in favour of 1B.

From the first 1B had the advantage and held the lead throughout the game. Miss Merry acted as referee.

Line-up:

1B—Jean Craft, Eva Coddick, Mr. Lauder, M. Parry, B. Doolittle, F. Walden, E. Cole.

1A—Hazel Butcher, Eileen Baker, Mary Cruiji, Kitty Howie, Rose Hennon, Constance Morris.

VOSS MAY FORSAKE QUEEN'S FOR ARGOS

Stellar Young Tri-Color Has Also Been Offered Chance, With N. Y.

Carl Voss, who was regarded as the logical successor to Harry Batteaise as the pivot of the Queen's rugby squad for this season, may not be seen in a tri-color uniform this fall. It is understood that Voss has encountered difficulties in satisfying the academic requirements set for intercollegiate athletes and that he may leave college.

New York Rangers, of the National Hockey League, hearing of this latter possibility, have made Voss an offer to turn to pro. hockey. Voss was a star defence player with the Kingston Juniors who went through to the amateur hockey finals last spring. However, it is not considered likely Voss will accept, but that, if he is unable to arrange his course at Queen's, will return to his home in Toronto, and the Argonauts, of the Big Four Rugby Union will be the ones, to gain.

FIRST CLASS ROW IN JUNIOR BASEBALL

Kingston, September 28.—Kingston Victorias have protested the series with the Toronto McCormicks on the grounds that a Toronto player signed up and played for two different clubs during the season, contrary to the rules. The protest has been filed with the O.B.A.A., and the fee to cover it has been contributed by the players themselves.

The Victoria management are quite incensed over the fact that two Toronto players were used in the game between the Toronto McCormicks and the Kingston Victorias in the third game. The Victoria management claim this very unfair and will demand an explanation of why they had no voice in the arrangements. It looks as though a stir might be caused in the O.B.A.A. and if so, it's about time it was.

It is pointed out also that the Victorias have travelled 1,450 miles to get where they have been while the McCormicks were allowed to journey from Toronto a distance only 450 miles to get into the finals.

It is stated that the Oshawa team objected to the Toronto first base player being in the game and he was not use din the Oshawa series.

C.P.R. Freight Traffic Appointments

Changes in the freight traffic department of the Canadian Pacific Railway covering territory in the United States and the Montreal district are announced over the signature of K. N. Todd, freight traffic manager, from headquarters of the system in Montreal. They are as follows:

W. C. Bowles, special freight traffic representative, Montreal. He entered C.P.R. service at Montreal in 1891 but was later transferred west and has held traffic appointments at Winnipeg, Calgary, Nelson and Vancouver, returning to Montreal in 1922.

H. W. Gillis, assistant freight traffic manager, eastern lines, Montreal. His C.P.R. service since he joined the railway in 1905 has been exclusively in Montreal.

A. Walker, assistant general freight agent, eastern lines, Montreal. Mr. Walker joined the C.P.R. in 1911 at Winnipeg, was stationed in that city until 1919 when he came to Montreal.

W. A. Kittermaster, general western freight agent, Chicago. He entered C.P.R. service as contracting freight agent at Detroit in 1890.

A. L. Preston, general eastern freight agent, New York. Mr. Preston has much middle western experience and in 1904 was appointed general agent at Winnipeg for the C.P.R. He has been at New York since 1921.

L. R. Robinson, appointed general New England freight agent at Boston. He has had wide railway experience in the U.S., and first joined C.P.R. service when appointed New England general manager, Canadian Pacific despatch at Boston in 1908.

By The "Observer"

Speculation is rife as to the possible outcome of the world's series between the Yankees and Cardinals which starts on Saturday. Already the local betting fraternity are on the market and both teams seem to be given equally good backing. The race in both leagues have been close and neither the St. Louis or New York team are better to any great percentage than the remaining seven teams in the league. Both of them come down the stretch with plenty of competition. Sportsman's Park at St. Louis is completely sold out for the series and orders are pouring in to the Yankee offices for passboards. Several local men are expected to go down.

The 1926 world series will develop into one of those "homecoming" affairs. The fall classic will have the old master and the ambitious pupil flavor. That will be the official menu when New York Yankees meet the St. Louis Cardinals in the annual play-off for the world championship.

Miller Huggins first gained managerial fame as the pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals. He won no pennants but showed enough ability to cause the owners of the New York Americans to wean him over to their league. His success as leader of the Yankees is too well known to need much comment. He has already won three pennants and one world series. He appears to be on the threshold of another pennant.

In the fall of 1915, a mere stripling, Rogers Hornsby was given a chance for a tryout. He came to the club as a shortstop. Miller Huggins, then in charge of the St. Louis club, was impressed. However, the rookie appeared to lack the physical stamina necessary to stand the strain of the big league.

That young man was Rogers Hornsby. He has developed into the premier second-baseman of the majors. As a manager he has shown ability on a par with his marvellous play.

Hornsby's career should be one of inspiration to every player ambitious to shine in the major leagues. His road to success was far from an easy one. While it sn't generally known, Hornsby was twice handed his release from minor league ball clubs. These early reverses, enough to discourage the ordinary youngster, simply made him fight back all the harder.

In the spring of 1914, Hornsby reported to the Dallas club of the Texas League for a trial. In the large crop of rookies trying to impress the manager of the Dallas club, Hornsby was entirely overlooked. He drew his release April 29.

Willing, yes anxious, to accept a chance in a league of lower classification, Hornsby signed with Hugo of the Texas-Oklahoma League. On July 2 of that year, Hugo passed him on to Denison, of the same organization. The following year while with Denison, his work attracted the attention of one of the scouts of the St. Louis Cardinals and he was purchased for the sum of $500.

Just think of it, Rogers Hornsby cost only $500. In these days, players of far less ability bring 30 times that amount and then do not always deliver. There could be no stranger coincidence than the playing of the world series by New York and St. Louis with Huggins and Hornsby in the managerial roles. It would truly be a case of the pupil putting his stuff against the old master.

The futility of making predictions regarding the outcome of athletic contests was never more strikingly illustrated than in the case of the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Dempsey went into the ring a 4 to 1 favorite. Practically every boxing critic of any account, including many famous boxers, had given their opinion that Dempsey was a cinch bet.

True there were a few critics who gave Tunney an even chance of winning but they were in the very small minority. The man on the street who takes only a casual interest in the big fights, seeing few, if any of them, had more courage than the critics. Proving that the so-called experts are no better judges than their brothers who make no pretense of being experts.

Any time a man gets a chance to fight a champion, he is worthy to face him. If he were not he would never get the chance. Tunney was sadly under-estimated, and Dempsey's long lifetime forgotten, by the majority who picked Jack to win.

Lionel Conacher, formerly one of the greatest amateur athletes Canada has ever known, believes that all lines of sport would be helped greatly if so-called amateurism were abolished and athletes could compete openly and without fuss for their services. At St. Catharines the other day the "Big Train" declared himself on this, saying warmly: "I'd do away with this sneaking, underhand subsidizing of amateurs, and pay them outright, fair, square and above board." Many amateurs, contended Conacy, are secretly paid now, and there should be no secret about it. The "Big Train" feels that general professionalism would be much better for sport in general. "A man can be just as good a sportsman accepting money for his game as he can when he plays gratis." Conacher said further, "and probably better, for he then has time and incentive to play better." There is a lot to this argument.

Some time ago it was predicted that with the swimming of the English Channel by Miss Gertrude Ederle in better time than any of her male predecessors would end channel swimming as a sport. But almost immediately afterwards Mrs. Corson swam the same channel in record time for a mother.

Then a German swimmer was signalled enough to break the channel record of Miss Ederle. It restore the athletic prestige of his race given out that he did it as a sex. This record had hardly been placed in the archives of channel swimming when a Frenchman broke the record of the German. All these things made it look as though channel swimming might be established as a perpetual sport with a variety of records. Already we have certain chief'ed records. We have in Captain Webb the first person to conquer the channel. We have in Miss Ederle the first woman to conquer the channel. In Mrs. Corson, we have the first mother to make the swim. In Michel, we have the swimmer who made it in the fastest time.

It looks as though the channel swim might be made an annual sporting feature with the events classified. There should be a race for ladies, a race for gentlemen, a race for parents, one for grandparents and a free-for-all race.

Ki Ki Cuyler, one of the stars of the National league, a player so capable that Pittsburg was only too ready to sacrifice Max Carey for him, was the final player in the old loop to make 100 runs. Cuyler, whose name was on the tip of every tongue last season, was supposed to have incurred the jealousy of Max Carey. That was believed to be one of the reasons for the trouble of the champions. Cuyler's name has not been spread across many night column headlines this year, but his work has been high class, nevertheless.

There never has been a time in the three years he has been with the Pirates that he tried any harder than he has this season, especially in this final dash for the flag, which seems only a faint hope with the Pirates. Cuyler has been in the line-up every day, and though he is known to have felt none to well, he refused to take a rest.

Cuyler's stock has not gone up a whole lot in Pittsburg, but the newspapermen are still for him strong. They realize that there are not three better outfielders in baseball than this same young star who thrilled the country with his sensational work in the world series last season.

Cuyler was chatting the other day with a group of men about his season's work and the apparent passing out of the picture of the champions. Cuyler said the season had been an upside down one for him all along and there were times when he felt he should be on the hospital list.

A fellow might just as well be there playing as on the bench. Double-headers have hurt this club. So many successive one's are not child's play.

DENTISTS GIVING ONE FREE DAY

October 12th Selected By Association As Demonstration Time

EXAMINATION; ADVICE

Press, Radio, Movies All Lined Up to Aid Common People

The Ontario Dental Health Day to be held on Wednesday, October 20th, will include among its activities an under-taking never yet attempted in connection with a campaign of this kind.

This new feature is the free dental examination and advice to be given by the dentists to all who request it at this time. The importance of this service cannot be over estimated. There are many people who find great difficulty in appropriating and applying knowledge give in a generous way, they get scant benefit from the public lecture or the printed page. They need individual advice and instruction. The personal free service to be given by the Profession will prove of great benefit to all such people. The dentists are making this contribution at the request of the Ontario Department of Health.

Other activities being organized by the Department are the showing of special dental health films in the theatres, the broadcasting of mouth health messages from the various radio stations, dental health plays and newspaper publicity. Addresses on mouth hygiene will be delivered before service clubs and other organizations and mass meetings of school children will be held.

The purpose of the undertaking is to inform the general public in regard to, and to give instruction in, the danger of allowing dental infection to remain in the connection with the prevention of dental diseases. That many systematic diseases are caused by infection at root ends and Pyorrhea pockets cannot be denied and it is true that many of these conditions can be prevented by sufficient care at the proper time. It has been well established that regular inspection and proper treatment, a balanced diet and sufficient mastication of food will, to much to prevent decay and Pyorrhea.

The application of this program to the daily routine of life will be a lesson to be taught on the Ontario Dental Health Day.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

To Alexander Korda, director is better equipped by actual experience and study to produce "The Outsider," that fascinating drama of the exotic life of Budapest and the Hungarian gypsies of the Transylvania mountains. Vin Rowland, C. Lee, who has just completed his production of the Dorothy Brandon play at the Fox studio. The picture will be shown at the Belle theatre to-morrow.

This impressive chapter of the story makes an annual pilgrimage to such interesting places of continental Europe as study the stage and screen drama, as well as travel.

Lee selected a brilliant cast to interpret the characters of the play. Lou Tellegen has the finest role of his entire screen career as the Hungarian gypsy governor. Jacqueline Logan and Walter Pidgeon have the roles of the English dancers who are reigning favorites of London and Continental stages.

Korda has surrounded the Fox company by Joseph Schenck for this role. Charles Lane, Gustav Yec Seyffertz and Ray Atwill are included in the cast. Robert N. Lee adapted the play to the screen.

It is an odd coincidence the Rowland Lee should have had the opportunity to direct this film as it comes as a fulfilment of a desire which was born a year ago when he was visiting Budapest. All of the sets in the picture are being constructed from designs contained in the director's collection of Hungarian art and architecture.

AT THE REGENT

Fast action, thrills and love are the necessit s for a successful motion picture. These are the component parts of "The Terror," the Universal Blue Streak Western, starring Art Acord, which opened at the Regent Theatre yesterday.

The picture, with its fine story, its excellent cast and its first rate direction is one of the most entertaining pictures offered in theatre-goers of Belleville for many weeks.

Acord's long experience in the saddle and his leading baby ing experience in the Ziegfeld Follies, offer a combination of kinds hard to beat. Velma Connor is decidedly sweet as the heroine and the cause of much of the action.

Charleston Exponent, But - Domestic In Her Tastes!

THE life of a social butterfly did not hold the greatest interest for Isabella Riggin and so she turned her talents toward other channels, and "Libbeck," she has become a well known exponent of the dance, having introduced Henry W. Herrman's ballroom Charleston at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York and at Coral Gables, Florida.

Even her profession is not enough to completely fill the life of Miss Riggins, and she has developed an accomplishment even rarer in a society bud than dancing. An original fondness for "playing around in the kitchen" has resulted in a real domestic flair, which Miss Riggins tries to satisfy as often as her busy professional life will permit.

Cocoa Jelly Pudding is a favorite dessert, particularly when made in accordance with the recipe below:

Cocoa Jelly Pudding

1 tablespoon cocoa
1 tablespoon butter substitute
4 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon gelatine
4 tablespoons cold black coffee
1¾ cups boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt the butter, add the cocoa and the sugar and salt. Keep over a hot water. Soak the gelatine in the cold coffee for five minutes, dissolve in the boiling water, add the cocoa and cool. Add vanilla. Pour into a wet mold and chill.

DIWAN ASSERTS INDIA IS LOYAL

Death Ingo Wrong and Empire's Resources Far From Exhausted

Toronto, September 28. —Speaking before the Canadian Club here this afternoon, Diwan Bahadur Sir T. Vijayaraghavacharya, of India, discounted the statements attributed to Very Rev. William Ralph Inge of London in regard to the attitude which would be adopted by India in case of future trouble.

"Dean Inge says the attitude of India in any future trouble is extremely doubtful. Coming from India as I do, I can say that the attitude of India is as free from doubt as the attitude of Canada would be in another Great World War," said the Diwan. "The Indians are equal subjects of the King, along with all his people. I have faith in the British Empire, and it is strengthened with the assurance that the future greatness of Canada, as of India, is bound up with the British Empire. We are not little Canadians or little Indians, but all subjects in a mighty Empire, which, God willing, will be strengthened in the future as in the past.

"Dean Inge sees a dark future for the British Empire. As one from India, I feel no phophecy has been more misconceived. The resources of British states manship are not exhausted. We are in the era which is the begining of a still more glorious future. The future rests with all British subjects the world over."

GIRL BANDITS WORRY LONDON

Scotland Yard Faces Problem in Experts Trained by "Limehouse Lizzie"

London, Sept. 25—The bobed haired bandits and other types of the woman criminal who have been operating with increasing regularity in London recently are declared by investigators to belong for the most part to a well organized feminine robbery gang, recruited and trained by a master mind—an ex-convict well known as "Limehouse Lizzie."

These girls in recent additions to the criminal element, are usually well educated—of the "girl about town by day and crook by night" type. "Limehouse Lizzie," described as one of the most fearless of London's criminals, is credited with scouring the west end for suitable material and then training them in a "crime academy" in the east end the exact location of which is a mystery.

Scotland Yard, a focal point of England's crime detection system, admits it has a problem on its hands in dealing with the feminine crime wave, which has developed in many recent cases of burglary, housebreaking, frauds on merchants, note forgery, holdups, blackmail and other forms of law breaking. Members of these activities are attributed to pupils of the "Limehouse Lizzie" school.

DRAGGING-DOWN PAINS RELIEVED

Woman Suffered Nearly a Year. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health.

Moose Jaw, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with dragging-down pains and bearing-down, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my right limb to the leg. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother-in-law told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. So I took two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two more children since then and am perfectly well. I used to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use this letter any way you see fit, and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman, I'd be only too glad to try."—Mrs. ARTHUR HOUGHTON, 718 Athabasca W., Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Box Plaits Put a New Front on the Two-Piece Frock

BUTTERICK 6653

AT PARK BEACH—Worn at one of the day resorts in the fashionable sports frock of crêpe de Chine or flat crêpe. For the cooler climates of the Riviera, the French dressmakers use wool jersey in the new range of pastel colors. The very soft, powder blues, all the rose shades that begin with bois de rose, crayon green, violet and canary color are chic and delightful.

Box plaits give the two-piece dress a tailored air and keep it in the sporting class. Stitching on the skirt-tip, narrow belt and on the hem is a detail of finish that almost amounts to a trimming.

Successful Musicians Come Out Of West

JOHN NELSON HALL
("Sleepy" Hall)

And Reason Is, Only Hardly Men Can Stand Strain Declares "Sleepy" Hall

New York City.—John Nelson (Sleepy) Hall thinks he has discovered why most successful musicians come out of the West.

Says Mr. Hall: "Only men who have led vigorous outdoor lives are able to stand the strain of being orchestra leaders. I oppose a good many people think that conducting an orchestra is a soft snap. All I wish is that some who feel that way would try it out.

"To begin with, you have to spend night after night in a smoky, usually poorly ventilated room. More than that, you are under tremendous mental and physical strain all the time.

"But, must be on your toes every minute, in order to keep your players full of interest in their work. You must work out a system—or as near such a system as possible—for pleasing everybody. You must stand for hours in a space hardly bigger than a pocket handkerchief. And finally, you must lose hours of sleep.

"Do you wonder that it takes a Westerner to stand it? I come from Montana myself and even I often get groggy from the pace we keep.

Mr. Hall is an ex-Annapolis man and the man and a member of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity. He began his musical career in the Yale Banjo Club, in fact, he paid his way through Yale by banjo playing.

At Castilian Gardens, Pelham Parkway, he has made a reputation for himself by his interpretations of what he calls "real songs"—snappy tunes with lyrics that tell. His stage fashion of the day such as "So Does Your Old Mammy Do" is the latest and most popular contribution to hitdom.

The Old Love Or New?

"You dance, do you not, mademoiselle?" asked Lady Travers, turning to Annette, as Dora, having decided that she never danced quadrilles, but would be happy to sit out with Roy, went away on his arm.

"No, I think not, Lady Travers," Annette said, smiling. "I shall remain a spectator to-night, I think."

"Why? Is Lord Elford exigeant enough to—"

"Lord Elford is only too indulgent," said Annette smiling, and glancing at him. "He is so fond of dancing himself that he is astonished at any indifference to it. Shall I indulge you with one waltz, Frank?"

"I shall be charmed," said Lord Elford. "I hope they will play the 'Brise des Nuits.'

"We will give orders accordingly," said Lady Travers; and she went away for the purpose.

"Is not that Mr. Fitzroy?" said Lord Elford, glancing at Roy, who was sitting with Miss Carruthers on a causeuse, fanning her with an air of devotion.

"Yes," said Annette, quietly.

"He is singularly handsome," said Lord Elford, musingly, "I wonder if he admires Miss Carruthers?"

"Apparently he does," says Annette, rather scornfully.

"It should be not," sweetheart?" said Lord Elford, smiling.

"He is married, Frank;" and Annette's voice shook a little.

"Well, darling, perhaps his wife does not object. Ah! there is the 'Brise des Nuits,' and his arm glided around her waist, and they mingled with the dancers, while Roy's jealous eyes watched them with a fierce pain in their depths, which Dora saw, and wondered at.

CHAPTER XXIII.
"DOCTORS' ORDERS."

Annette was soon tired, and after two turns around the room she gave in, and stood, with her hands through Lord Elford's arm, watching the other dancers; and Roy seized the opportunity of Miss Carruthers being claimed by another partner to make his way across to her.

"I see you dance, mademoiselle." May I have the pleasure?" he said.

"Thank you," she answered, quietly; my performance is over for to-night. I shall not dance again Mr. Fitzroy, unless when I should have been happy. Do you know Lord Elford? Allow me to introduce you."

The man bowed—Lord Elford with his usual cordiality and easy grace; Roy rather coldly and distantly; then as the latter turned to Annette—

"May I take the privilege of an old—shall I say friend?" he said, "and offer you my congratulations?"

"You are very kind," Annette said, growing very pale, and, standing with her long bodice drooping on her cheek, while Lord Elford acknowledged the felicitations in a few words, and made some commonplace observation on the music.

"It is a capital waltz," he said. "I like all Lanothes waltzes, by the way. What a pretty girl that is in black contrasted all with the man with the dark beard," he added, and Roy glanced at the persons indicated.

"The man is my brother," he said, smiling; "and——"

But before he could finish the sentence Annette interrupted eagerly:

"And the lady is your wife. I remember her as Miss Gosport. You are right Frank, she is lovely."

"Lovely, indeed," Mr. Fitzroy must receive my congratulations," said Lord Elford, smiling. "Mrs Fitzroy is very beautiful."

"Pardon me," Roy said, with a slight smile; "you are somewhat mistaken. That lady is Mrs. Fitzroy, certainly; but she is my brother's wife. I am not married."

The ballroom seemed to swim before Annette's eyes as he spoke; the brilliant assembly seemed to fade away and the music to sound distant and faint in her ears. She saw dimly Lord Elford's serious face and Roy's wondering eyes, and heard the former's voice—

"What is it, Annette, are you faint dear?" he said, gently, as he felt how heavily she leaned on his arm, and he bent over her in alarm.

In a moment she rallied.

"It is nothing," she said, smiling faintly. "I think the heat is too great, or else with so much music for me. Frank. Don't talk to me for a minute or two," she added, trying to speak lightly; "and I shall be all right."

In a few minutes she joined in the conversation again with as much calmness as there ever was, but she was not pouring within her, and the cold cry rent not ready to rise to her lips:

"Free—free—free!"

Years afterward Annette remembered the awful agony of those few moments, and wondered how she had borne it in silence. Roy was free when he had asked her to give him the old place in her heart—the place which he held still which no one can ever be bestowed could ever hold—he had been free, and she had repulsed him with anger and contempt.

There had been some terrible mistake.

The Ritchie Co., Limited

She thought, as she stood there, stately and beautiful in her white robes, with her heart full to bursting, and more intensely wretched than she had thought it was possible for a woman to be and live. Oh! how could she bear it this terrible burden which she had brought chiefly upon herself? How could she do her duty to the noble, true-hearted man who had wooed her, and whose wife she had promised to become, when her every thought, and hope, and love, were centered on another? Oh! if she could only die—death seems an easy solution to a difficulty when one is young, and strong, and death is probably distant—she thought misery and trouble wherever she went. Roy had been wretched through her.

Lord Elford, happy to win his love and trust of her, would be broken-hearted if he knew it he guessed the truth. Oh! how easy it would be to die and get rid of all the weary trouble!

And all the time she was masking her anguish with a smile, and asking questions about Bob and Minnie, with a pretty air of interest.

"Dare is not here, I suppose?" she said then.

"She is stationed at Chatham, and is too new to his corps to care to ask for leave. Duncan is on the Chinese station."

"And Constance?"

"She is in town, on that important business of shopping," Roy said, smiling. "She is staying with a married sister of Brinley's, Lady Jewley. Ah! here comes Bob; he has recognized you, mademoiselle."

Dr. Fitzroy and Minnie came up and greeted Annette with some coldness. Neither could quite forgive her for her engagement to Lord Elford; but after a moment, something in the sweet, sad grey eyes touched Minnie, and she found herself talking with her natural sweetness of manner. Bob's young wife was looking as lovely as of old; she was dressed in black, with gold ornaments, and Lord Elford was charmed with her pretty, piquant manner.

"I wish you would take pity on me and give me a waltz, Mrs. Fitzroy," he said, smiling. "Annette is so busy that did get her to dance one turn with me, and it seems to have exhausted her. Have you one left?"

Minnie launched and accepted, nothing loath, and Lord Elford beat over his fiancee.

"I will leave you with Mr. Fitzroy, my child," he said. "Perhaps you had better let him take you to some cooler spot."

"It is very warm here, and you look pale, Annette," said Bob, glancing at her perfunctorily. "Take her into Lady Travers' boudoir, Roy, it is cooler there, and she can rest. If you don't take great care, Lord Elford, that little wife of mine will dance you off your legs. She is insatiable."

"Lord Elford is quite willing to be danced off his legs," said Annette, hurriedly, as she put her hand through Roy's arm, and they moved away together. "Perhaps," she added, hesitatingly, losing her not daring, to be alone with Roy, "we had better stay here."

"Doctors' orders are imperative," he answered, smiling; then as she still hesitated, he went on, quickly and passionately: "Ah! do not fear I shall not forget myself this time."

Annette flushed; then grew very pale; but she made no further objection, and they left the ballroom and entered Lady Travers' boudoir, a pretty little nest, hung with rose-color and silver moldings. Tiles Annette sank down on a couch, and Roy threw himself into a chair beside her.

The room was perfectly empty, and they were alone.

CHAPTER XXIV.
FALSELY TRUE.

For some minutes there was a silence only the faint musical ticking of a French clock on a cabinet disturbed the perfect stillness of the little room, a stillness which Roy did not care to break, and which Annette could not. She was painfully agitated. Her handkerchief, and she felt how on her dress one and fell quickly as her breath came quick and fast, and her lips quivered with uncontrollable emotion.

Roy's face was averted, or he could not have failed to see her agitation, and Annette felt thankful for even the momentary respite. Still, she knew that her time was very short, and that in a few minutes Lord Elford would return for her, and the opportunity would be gone forever.

"Mr. Fitzroy," she said at last, turning to him with a very pale face and eyes heavy with unshed tears.

Roy turned quickly.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed. "What is the matter? You are ill."

"No—no!" she said, eagerly. "I am not ill, only, oh! Roy, will you can you forgive me?"

LORD AND LADY BYNG LEAVE CANADIAN SHORES FOR HOME

HOPE TO RETAIN FINE BUSINESS FOR BELLEVILLE

National Castings Ltd. Has Had Offer to Move Elsewhere

C. OF C. TAKES IT UP

Triennial System of Election of Aldermen Strongly Favored

Two important conclusions were reached at the resumed Chamber of Commerce dinners at the Queen's Hotel last evening under the chairmanship of Charles A. Cameron. They were:

(1) To request the City Council to place before the people again this year a by-law providing for the triennial system of election of aldermen.

(2) To do everything possible to retain the National Castings Limited for Belleville in the face of negotiations started in another municipality to obtain it.

Between fifty and sixty leading men of the city formed a committee of the Council and of the service clubs were present and as a result the discussion was brisk and practical.

ELECTING ALDERMEN

Mayor Graham opened the discussion on the question of triennial selection of aldermen, which means of course that a number to be selected later shall be elected every three years, in the council at the time being men two, and still with one year to serve. Continuity of organization and of policy would thus be ensured, Ohsberhaller that unsuitable men would be chosen and would be there for three years was not worth a moment's worry, the mayor thought, because the scheme as it was in operation in many other municipalities had shown this not to be the case. Ex-Mayor H. W. Ackerman, K. F. Nattress, and C. E. Hanna, all favored the idea and Mr. Hanna went so far as to suggest that this year's council should be elected by acclamation.

Mr. John Elliott, chairman for the second year of the Board of Education favored the plan and suggested that it was time former mayors again offered their experience to the city much as did ex-chairmen of the School Board so that the city should thereby be the gainer.

Mr. Jamieson Bone and Mr. Charles Symons, the latter a member of the Parks Board, also spoke, and Mr. Symons strongly recommended the longer term citing his own experience as proving the continuity of personnel and of policy on any board made for highest efficiency. A motion to the effect that the Forum-Committee of the C. of C. request the Council to put the matter before the people this year was fostered by Mr. Symons and seconded by G. S. Crook. It was carried enthusiastically.

NATIONAL CASTINGS

Mr. Mackenzie Robertson introduced the matter of the National Castings Limited. This fine business which was so hard hit by fire in June was in jeopardy as the result of its losses just when it had rounded the corner toward prosperity. And the tragedy was heightened as far as Belleville was concerned in that unless it could be offered assistance here, there was every possibility that it would go elsewhere—for there had been offers from other places; a dozen of them, Mr. Norman Turner later said.

STARTED IN 1920

The business was started here in 1920 by Mr. Turner. The late Mr. James Higgs, former manager of the Steel Co. of Canada, was associated with him. Later, Mr. H. W. Ackerman and Mr. Wright, manager of the Delora Smelting Co., became interested. The business was the making, at first, of gray castings; and later after the installation of the $15,000 electric furnace, the making of small electric castings, for which a big field was waiting, and was rapidly developed, so that in the four years the business was going the volume rose from $17,000 to an estimated $70,000 for

GROANS UNDER TRAIN
MAN WILL LOSE BOTH LEGS

North Bay, Sept. 29.—When the conductor of the Canadian Pacific Railway freight train heard a groaning underneath the train as he was pulling out of Woman River shortly after one o'clock this morning, he investigated and discovered Thomas Davis, of St. John, N. B., seriously injured. Davis was rushed to hospital at Chapleau where it was found necessary to amputate both his legs.

BOY GIVEN A LIFT
KILLED AS CAR UPSETS

Peterboro, Sept. 29.—Roy Dawson, 12, of Ballieboro, was fatally hurt when crushed beneath the running board of a car which overturned on a hill near his home, yesterday. The young lad had accepted a ride home with a neighbor, Melville Wood, who was uninjured.

EVIDENCE BEGUN IN B.O.T.A. CASE

Police Officer Due to Have Operation Before Case Complete

The two Frenchmen, Proulx and Lepage, of Ottawa, who were arrested on Sunday, the 19th, by Provincial Officers Thompson of Napanee and Hitchcock of Belleville with a cargo of liquor on the highway near the Bay of Quinte Country Club, faced trial this morning before Judge Wills.

Mr. C. A. Payne who is defending the accused, asked for a further enlargement on the grounds that one of the witnesses was absent. The Crown however, informed the Court that Officer Thompson would enter a Montreal Hospital on Friday for a major operation and it was deemed advisable to take his evidence.

HIS EVIDENCE

The officer stated that he was forwarded orders to watch for the car and when on the highway on the morning of the 19th, he saw the car pass. By taking a shorter road he phoned to Belleville for assistance and a higher powered car. He met Officer Thomas Hitchcock on arrival here and the liquor-laden motor was overtaken on the Trenton road and the occupants arrested. They were brought to Belleville along with the seized car and contents. He said the back seat was filled on a level with the door and several bottles lay on the floo. seat. A car bearing the same license number went through Napanee on July 6th, he said, with the appearances of being loaded down. He was not, however, able to investigate as the car was away in the traffic. The remaining evidence will be taken on October 6th.

GASOLINE - LESS ENGINE SCORES

Paris Motor Car People Concerned For Future of Product

Paris, Sept. 29.—On the eve of the Paris National automobile exhibition a sensation in automotive circles appeared in advance yesterday in the form of big advertisements in the Paris press by the Bleeriot Company, offering for sale a gasoline-less, wood-burning automobile, which, it is claimed has proved a success. Recently a fourteen seat auto bus of the type made a complete circuit of France 2,200 miles—at a fuel cost of $15. The fuel is simply wood or charcoal heated to high temperature by a special apparatus attached to the left side of the car and transformed into gas which, mixed with air, passed on to the motor and is exploded in the cylinders the same as ordinary gas from liquid fuel.

"TRUTH" HAS OPINION WE GO TO THE U.S.A.

London, Sept. 29 (Canadian Press Cable).—Discussing Canada's political future, the editor of Truth, the well-known weekly journal, incliues to the opinion that it is inevitable that the Dominion will be absorbed by the United States. The Dominion's political history, he says, is based on tariffs, so it would seem a question whether urban manufacturing interests are to predominate over the interests of the people of Prairies. "All Canadian politicians, newspapers, millionaires, and professors, affirm that never will Canada join the United States," says Truth.

"That is just why, in my opinion, the thing will happen." The Empire is in the real danger until its integrity and independence are guaranteed by its neighbors.

"To be sure all its nice people favor British connection. They come to London every year and have many friends here. Some of them even become Englishmen. But in democracies it is not the 'nice' but the very 'nasty' people who govern."

Truth points to a decrease in the emigration of British people to the Dominion and the steady flow of American and people from other countries and says the presence of the American "big interests" offers Canadian commercial men a choice between combination and ruin.

U. S. LABOR ORGAN PLEASED WITH HEENAN

Washington, D.C., Sept. 29.—Labor the official publication of the railway brotherhoods and other railroad employees, gives great prominence in this week's issue to the fact that locomotive engineer, Hon. Peter Heenan, has been chosen Minister of Labor in the new Canadian Cabinet. Mr. Heenan, who is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is hailed as a veteran trade Unionist. It says Mr. Heenan's selection is gratifying to organized Labor.

FIRE IS COSTLY CAR DESTROYED

Blaze in Rear of Old Victoria Block Gave Fire men Hard Work

BEGUN ABOUT 6 A.M.

Mr. Garn Dobbs Loser to Some Extent — The Details

Fire starting from an unknown source in a garage on Victoria Ave., between Garn Dobbs' plumbing establishment and what is known as the old Victoria Block, completely destroyed motor 3 McLaughlin touring car owned by Harold Barriage and did considerable damage to the stock and fixtures in the Dobbs store.

AT SIX O'CLOCK

The fire was discovered about six o'clock this morning in the alley where the car was parked and in but a few minutes the flames were pouring out on all sides and the fireman experienced difficulty in getting at the blaze. Final by they managed by means of maneuvering to play three streams on the seething building. The upper portion, of course, fell in and nothing was left but the frame and proved an easy prey to the flames.

WORST LOSS UPSTAIRS

The second story is used entirely for storage purposes and it was here that Mr. Dobbs sustained the heaviest loss. The building was a veritable furnace and the fire-fighters were forced to remain on the roofs of the adjoining build ings. The loss was greatly drayed up through the stairway leading to the apartments of J. A. Watts and W. P. Watham.

Mr. Dobb's display room was damaged by water and smoke and the workroom in the rear and the storeroom above bore the brunt of the attack. His losses are covered by insurance.

CAR COMPLETE LOSS

The car was in the midst of the conflagration and is a complete wreck. The top was eaten away, upholstery and body badly scorched that it is beyond repair.

It was learned that the owner, Mr. Barriage was about the premises early and immediately after the fire belonging to E. A. Kellaway which he purposed to use for private uses, and ran his own car in the place. He had received permission from Mr. Kellaway yesterday to take the truck.

The building above the Kellaway store were slightly damaged by water and smoke. The fireman had the blaze under control by 7.30 a.m.

AT 9.30 LAST NIGHT

At 9.30 last night the fire brigade answered a call to 91 North Front street and after some time fought a stubborn blaze which originated in a frame dwelling owned and occupied by Mr. Bruce Fraser. The blaze had gained considerable headway when the fire brigade arrived, but by well directed efforts they saved the building from destruction. The fire, which started in the lady's parlored as wall-aid the contents. Shortly before 8 o'clock this morning the firemen had another run to this place of the smoldering embers had rekindled and threatened destruction to the building, but it was soon extinguished. The loss it is understood is covered by insurance. In this case the fire fighters under the direction of Chief Brown did prowess service in saving the building from complete destruction.

MR. KING'S BY-ELECTION

Local Conservatives Believe Opposition Unlikely

Prince Albert, Sask., September 29.—The executive of the Prince Albert Conservative Association has been summoned for a special meeting on Thursday next to decide whether a candidate will be placed in the field to oppose Premier Mackenzie King, in the forthcoming by-election.

Leading Conservatives here have intimate dhat there is no likelihood of any official opposition. They expressed the opinion that everything should be done to facilitate the Prime Minister's return to the House and to make it possible for him to attend the Imperial Conference.

SCOTSMEN LEAD IN KING CABINET

Seven Roman Catholics, Six Presbyterians Are Included OF MANY OCCUPATIONS

Farmers, Lawyers and Publishers—Average Age is 53

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—A local writer has figured out that the new King cabinet is the youngest since confederation, the average age being 53 years.

Scotsmen predominate with eight portfolios held by men of Scottish ancestry. Religious affiliations are taken from records compiled mostly before Church Union and show there are seven Roman Catholics, six Presbyterians, two Baptists, one Anglican, one United Church and one Lutheran. These figures include Hon. J. E. Sinclair who is to be added to the cabinet.

Ministers, their ages, national origins, occupations and religions follow:—

Premier King, 52, Scotch, Presbyterian.

Hon. J. A. Robb, 67, Scotch, Miller, Presbyterian.

Hon. A. A. Dunning, 41, English, Farmer, Presbyterian.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, 449, French Canadian, Lawyer, Roman Catholic.

Hon. J. C. Elliott, 54, Scotch, Lawyer, Baptist.

Hon. H. H. A. Cardin, 45, French Canadian, Lawyer, Roman Catholic.

Hon. Chas. Stewart, 58, Scotch, Farmer, Anglican.

Hon. Robert Forke, 66, Scotch, Farmer, United.

Hon. James Malcolm, 46, Scotch, Manufacturer, Presbyterian.

Hon. Peter Heenan, 52, Irish, Locomotive Engineer, Roman Catholic.

Hon. Dr. J. H. King, 54, Scotch, Doctor, Baptist.

Hon. Raoul Dandurand, 65, French Canadian, Lawyer, Roman Catholic.

Hon. P. J. Veniot, 53, Acadian, Inspector General, Roman Catholic.

Hon. J. E. Sinclair, of Queens, P. E. I., who will be in the Cabinet, is 47 years of age, of Scottish extraction, a farmer and a Presbyterian.

JURY AT COAST AWARDS 40,000 TO POLITICIAN

Gen. A. D. McRae Was Defendant in Libel Action at Nanaimo

Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 29.—A special jury in the assize court here last evening awarded Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines for British Columbia, plaintiff in a libel action against Major General A. D. McRae, $40,000 damages.

Hon. Mr. Sloan sought $50,000 on the ground that he had been libelled in an article in "Searchlight", an election pamphlet published during the provincial election campaign in January 1924. In effect, the article stated that in 1918 and 1916 when the affairs of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company had become serious, by involved the sum of $60,000 was paid by the Company to the plaintiff for protection and favorable treatment from the Liberal party.

WORD IS HEARD OF HUFFMAN CAR; YOUTH ARRESTED

Will Be Brought Back From Niagara Falls Where Apprehended

Otto Rittage, 19, of this city was arrested by the police at Niagara Falls last night. He was at the time of his apprehension, the police declare, driving the Studebaker car license 271-527, owned by D. V. Huffman, Grove St., which was stolen from the garage last Friday night. Immediately upon receipt of the telegram Chief of Police Alex Kidd informed Hoffman and they left early this morning for the Falls where they will take charge of the car and bring Rittage back to this city where he will face trial.

Police believe that they have solved the mystery of the numerous car thefts in the city and Rittage may be implicated in other charges.

VERA CRUZ STORM VERY SERIOUS NO LIVES LOST

Wind at High Velocity — Interior Areas Also Hard Hit

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Sept. 29.—A hurricane of great violence swept in upon Vera Cruz yesterday, from the Gulf of Mexico, leaving in its wake much damage in the city and adjacent towns and villages. From the Gulf region the storm made its way inland into the interior, where it is reported considerable damage was done.

Houses were uncroofed, several tugs in the harbor were sunk and the storm was invaded the city and drove city persons living near the waterfront. Wind at one time reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour.

The storm raged for several hours and the streets were filled with debris and trunks of trees. Many cars was destroyed when warehouses were inundated. The villages of Paso Del Macho and Soledad were badly damaged and Boca Del Rio, a town at the direct path of the storm, suffered heavily.

NO WIRES TO MEXICO

New York, Sept. 29.—Telegraphic communication with Mexico City was practically paralyzed today, the typical hurricane reported from Vera Cruz.

NO LIVES LOST

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 29.—The Mexican Telegraph company's cable office here was in communication with Vera Cruz today but had received no additional details on the situation there resulting from the two hour hurricane which struck the Mexican port yesterday.

No loss of life had been reported to the Telegraph company. Cable service has not been interrupted although land lines between Vera Cruz and the interior were reported down.

Property loss at Vera Cruz was estimated at 5,000,000 pesos. Damage to small shipping in the harbor was considerable.

STEP ABOARD OCEAN LINER AT OLD QUEBEC

Citadel in Salute To Vice-Regal Party of 21 Guns

GUARD BY ROYAL 22ND

Left Canadian Soil Where They Entered Land 5 Years Ago

Quebec, Sept. 29.—Lord and Lady Byng spent their last day on Canadian soil in their official capacity today. The Governor-General lunched today with Hon. Narcisse Peredeau, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, at Spencer Wood. Afterwards their excellencies were driven to Kings Wharf where five years ago they landed from England. They were accompanied by a mounted escort of Dragoons. On the wharf his Excellency inspected the guard of honor provided by the Royal Twenty Second Regiment.

As the steamer left the wharf the Fifty Seventh Battery Canadian Artillery, fired a salute of nineteen guns from the Citadel.

HIS VALEDICTORY

"I return to England imbued with the ideals of Canadianism. I have absorbed them during five happy years in Canada and it is my purpose to do my very best to maintain them. The ideals of Canada have been beneficial to this country and they will continue to do so, but it is not only Canada that they will benefit, for they will exercise an influence for good in whole league of English speaking nations."

This was the valedictory to Canada of Lord Byng of Vimy, the soldier and administrator who for the past half decade has presided over the destinies of the Dominion. His Excellency's term as Governor General expires on Nov. 11, 1921, has ended and this afternoon saw him and his gracious consort, the Lady Byng, sailing down the St. Lawrence river on board the Empress of France, with their faces turned towards England.

COUNTRY CLUB SEASON ENDING

More Competitions Than in Any Former Year Carried Out

PRIZE DAY, OCT. 14TH

Two-ball fixed Foursomes at Napanee on Today

The Bay of Quinte Country Club is that approaching the conclusion of by far its most successful season. Many more competitions have been started and finished or barely finished than ever before and the credit for this is mainly due to all-round sport: it is Turvill, the energetic men's captain, who is a bit of a disciplinarian but gets results.

The course like all golf courses this season has benefited from the frequent rains and the fairways are perfect. The greens at the moment are, however, not as good as they were earlier in the season. But they are still very good.

On October 14th the club will stage a prize day and entertainment winding up with a dance.

THE HOME PUPS—2-ball mixed foursome in finals:

Alice McIntosh and W. J. Cook play Helen McEwen and A. H. Ketcheson.

THE GRAHAM CUP—Ladies' and Men's Club handicap championship:

A. H. Ketcheson plays winner of H. D. Purdon—Geo. McIntosh.

FAULKNER CUPS—Four-ball mixed foursomes. Will reach semi-final stage next week.

FINALS FOR CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP—J. S. McKown vs. W. J. Cook.

FINALS FOR THE CLUB HANDICAP CUP recovered from a serious illness, Leonid Krassin resumed his post in London as Soviet Chargé d' Affaires.

PARISIAN WOMEN LAUNCH NEW STYLE

They Wear Hair Hanging Down Their Back in Revolt of Mannish Fashion

Paris, Sept. 28.—"With her golden hair hanging down her back," is not merely the refrain of an old song: it is the latest fashion. It has been launched by Parisiennes who have refused to cut their hair and have taken this original form to show their revolt against mannish fashion. Within the last few days dozens of young women with hair flowing freely down the hipest line have been seen in boulevards, theatres and cafes.

The fashion has caught on quickly and among the limited number who have scorned the barber's scissors. The small shapes of hats, they explain, made it necessary to either endure headaches or let the hair escape.

Those with curly hair usually let it hang over the back in ripples. Straight hair is caught at the neck and allowed to hang freely, while some wear double braids to the waist.

ADVANCED GEOLOGY AT TORONTO VARSITY

Dr. E. S. Moore, University Mining Expert, Tells of Conditions in Scots and England

Toronto, Sept. 29—Post graduate work in the Department of Geology at the University of Toronto will be carried on this winter by a number of students from the west, who are coming to Toronto to follow up various branches of advanced study, under the direction of Dr. E. S. Moore, who is at the head of the department. One graduate from the University of Alberta will specialize in the microscopic study of types of coal found in the Alberta fields. Another Alberta man will make a special study of phosphates. From Manitoba, graduates will come to study the iron deposits of that province, mineral veins, ore deposits in British Columbia, and other problems.

Dr. Moore advocates the establishment of coking plants as a solution of the coal problem in Canada. Several years ago he recommended building the Hamilton plant. This plant has now doubled its capacity. Most of the coal used there is Scottish, but Canadian coal could be employed with equal success.

Dr. Moore has just returned from Gull Lake, near Midland, where 23 students in the Department of Mining and Engineering are studying surveying, stream measurement, and engaging in geological field work. A month or six weeks at the Gull Lake study camp forms a part of the regular student course.

At the end of August Dr. Moore returned from England and Europe, where he had spent the summer. In May, together with Dr. Coleman and Dr. T. L. walker he represented the University of Toronto at the International Geological Congress in Madrid, Spain.

HOPE TO RETAIN FINE BUSINESS FOR BELLEVILLE

A list of ninety-seven well-known firms throughout the country which were customers of the National Castings Ltd., was read and this made a deep impression.

There were many questions piled at Mr. Turner all of which he answered satisfactorily.

WORKERS ARE LOYAL

The payroll was six hundred a week and growing. The organization is still intact all of the skilled men being still here with one exception. The organization is loyal and is waiting until the plant starts up again.

What is needed, Mr. Turner said frankly, is the sale of stock to the extent of $40,000 to start the thing going again. The big financial issue in regard the matter as too small for them to bother with. It must be a local floatation. Comment was made as to how easy it is here in this district to sell worthless stock and how difficult to sell high-class stock of the kind that is being completed. It was everyone's firm conviction that the National Castings must not be allowed to leave Belleville, even if the City Council had to take over the concern by way of guarantee of bonds or erection of a building on the burned site.

Mr. Wright, an expert metallurgist, spoke his absolute faith in the enterprise and said he was willing to put more money into it. Mr. W. C. Sprung, of the Sprung Company, said he could keep the business here. Col. Ponton spoke favorably and promised a small subscription.

The matter ended with the following resolution moved by Mr. Robertson and seconded by Mr. Jamieson Bone, being unanimously carried:

TESTIMONY RESOLUTION

"RESOLVED that this meeting of members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the Open Forum Committee, having heard with deep regret of the great loss sustained by National Castings Limited in the destructive fire that occurred in the month of June, 1926, respectfully urge upon the City Council, the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens generally the advisability and urgent necessity of taking such measures as will bring about the establishment of this important industry as a going concern in our city."

ECHO OF THERMOPYLAE AND THE 300 SPARTANS

Ancient Greek Skull and Helmet Received at Royal Ontario Museum Were Found at Famous Pass

Toronto, Sept. 29—Leonidas and his heroic story are brought vividly to mind by a human skull which has just been received at the Royal Ontario Museum, and which in 1924 was excavated at the famous Pass of Thermopylae in Greece. The skull is said to be about 2,400 years old, and when first found was encased in a Spartan helmet. In 480 B. C., Leonidas and 300 Spartans, at the narrow pass of Thermopylae, opposed the invading Persian armies. Every man perished in the battle, and the Greeks afterwards erected a monument in the form of a lion, in memory of the event. Thermopylae and its hero warriors has often been the subject of song and story, and the incident has come to stand as a symbol of heroic resistance.

In the same consignment received at the museum is another Greek helmet which was found on the Plain of Marathon, about ten miles from Athens, and a great Greek wine jar of terra cotta, standing twenty inches in height, and having inscribed on it the figures of armed warriors—overseeing, probably heroes of the Persian war.

Belgian Royal Heir Rides in Third Class

Stockholm, Sweden, September 29.—Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium rode into Stockholm in a third-class sleeper when he arrived here to make final arrangements for his marriage to Princess Astrid. He found all the first and second-class reservations taken.

Many reporters were waiting at the station, but none of them thought to look in the third-class section for the Belgian heir-apparent, and he reached the palace in a taxicab without being recognized.

Y.M.C.A. Sports

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR SOME KEEN COMPETITION

The two feature swimming events which are slated for the month of October at the Y Natatorium will give an opportunity to the members to demonstrate just how good they are when it comes to an endurance test. The "Across the channel swim" a twenty-two mile event, should bring out quite a number of the entries in the Across the Bay Swim of July 1st. Although it is an indoor event and the swimmers perform in heated water, it is nevertheless a real test of stamina since every one entering must swim for an hour without stopping if they wish their efforts to count in the race. Three hours per week is the maximum allowed to be recorded by any entry but by steady plugging a considerable milage can be made in the allotted time. Several of the members have been trying out their stroke find that remarkably fast time can be made with the assistance of a push off the ends of the pool. Undoubtedly when the totals are compiled it will be found that exceptionally fast time has been made for the whole distance.

The Century Hour Swim although a much greater distance, has no time limit and as it is only necessary to swim ten lengths of the pool to count on the total it is possible for even the "only fair" swimmers to get their names on the honor list. Those who wish to enter both events will be allowed to count their totals in the Across the Channel Swim, on the Century Honor Swim also, or in other words they may be carried on concurrently. Suitable awards will be made to both the Across the Channel Swim and to all those who complete the Century Honor Swim.

JUDGES SELECTED FOR INVESTIGATION

Justices Wright of Ontario, and Brown of Saskatchewan for Cashpan's Probe

Ottawa, September 29.—It is reported that the Government has selected by two additional judges who will act with Sir Francois Lemieux in conducting the forthcoming inquiry into the Customs Department.

One is said to be Mr. Justice Wright, of the Supreme Court of Ontario and the other Mr. Justice Brown, of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan.

Hon. N. W. Rowell is designated as retired counsel, and will have with him R. L. Calder K.C.

It was stated at the Prince Minister's office that no official appointments had yet been made.

It is now probable that Mr. King and his party will leave for the Imperial Conference from Quebec on the eighth or ninth of October. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, will accompany Mr. King, but it is not known yet who else will go. Hon. James Robb, Minister of Finance, will be acting premier during the several weeks' absence of Mr. King.

ACIDS MAKE KIDNEYS HURT

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your backbarts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Now is the time to have your awnings taken down and put away. Let B. W. Brown, 10 Campbell St., do it for you. s29-6td

Sun and Smooth Sea Accompanying Voyage of Empress of Scotland

Empress of Scotland, at Sea (by Radio), September 29.—Sunny weather and smooth seas are accompanying the passage of the Empress of Scotland, flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet, to Quebec, carrying His Excellency Viscount Willingdon, new Governor-General of Canada, and Lady Willingdon. The ship is expected to arrive at Quebec this coming week-end.

Their Excellencies were much interested in moving pictures shown aboard the ship, illustrating phases of life in the Dominion and including subjects so varied as Hart House, Toronto, students' residence at the university; Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, and the Doukhobors in British Columbia.

Last night both Viscount and Lady Willingdon took part in a dance held in the ball room of the Empress of Scotland.

O. L. Kennedy was instantly killed by a street car at Windsor.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLED SKIN

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur.

Mainly About People You Know

THEY VISITED PICTON

On Tuesday evening about forty members of Quinte Rebekah Lodge No. 133 visited Macpelah Rebekah Lodge No. 166 Picton. Arriving at the lodge room they were met by a large number who were present to witness the Rebekah Degree exemplified by Quinte Degree Staff. Five candidates were instructed into the teachings of the Degree, also by the P.D.D.G.M. Bro. F. Martin moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Degree Staff and congratulated them on the splendid manner in which they conferred the Degree. P.D. D.P. Sister A. Rose, of Frankford also congratulated the Staff. A number of Belleville members spoke in reply. After the business was concluded a banquet was prepared to entertain the visitors and members, and full justice was done to the good things provided.

BASKETBALL

A very exciting game of basketball was played on the High School grounds yesterday afternoon between the forms 1E and 1F resulting in a tie score of 30-30.

The sides were evenly matched and each kept up a swift play. These first year students showed remarkable skill in their game and provided some interesting moments especially toward the latter part of the game when the score 8-8 was changed to 10-10.

This tie will be played off later in the series.

Line-up:

1F— Forwards, Thelma Luscombe, Grace Dunn; centre, Grace Arnott; side centre, Alice Belair; guards, C. Smith, Mary Butler; spare, Clara Ostrom.

Referee—Miss Merry.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY

A meeting of the Executive of the Bible Society was held in the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. to arrange for the coming of Rev. Mercier McLaren the former Missionary of Labrador who so interested a gathering here about a year ago, that he was requested to come again when he promised to do. It was arranged for him to give an illustrated address in the school room of Bridge St. Church on Tuesday evening. Everybody is invited. Mr. McLaren has been asked to address the Rotary Club.

CANNIFTON

Miss Mary Mills has gone to Peterboro to attend Normal School. Before leaving the Sunday School presented her with a parasol and silk scarf in recognition of her services.

Mr. Donald Weeks, Niagar, was the guest over the week end of his mother, Mrs. Kent.

Mrs. Sarah Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Vanalstine and son, Trenton, spent Sunday at Mr. Wm. Coles.

Mrs. Wathan spent Thursday with her niece Mrs. Symons, Belleville.

Mrs. Mathews spent a few days in Tweedsmuir at her brothers, Mr. Cansons.

Airplanes will be used in road-making in the Alps near Mont Blanc.

Deaths & Funerals

ALEX. COUSINS

Many were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the funeral of the late Alex Cousins, a fireman who expired suddenly on the car Joseph L. Russel. At the home 250 Dundas street, 59 Church street, a brief service was held by Ven. Archdeacon Beamish after which the body was conveyed to St. Thomas Church where Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, the Rector, conducted the burial services of the Anglican Church. At Belleville cemetery the interment took place. An evidence of the popularity of deceased was the large number of beautiful floral tributes. Pallbearers C. Bird, W. Carter, C. Smith, E. Bennett, H. and C. Lobb.

STIRLING FALL FAIR

A number from the city and vicinity were today in attendance at the second and last day of the Stirling Fair. Weather conditions were conducive to a large attendance of spectators. In the various classes the number of entries were in excess of last year, this being especially the case in fruit and vegetables. The display of cattle was also good. During this afternoon an interesting programme was carried out including speeding events.

REUNION

I was making good speed in the jolly old Nash.
When I rounded the corner that day;
The next thing I heard was a terrible crash,
Past years came before my eyes all in a flash.
And I found myself sunk in the bay.

I came to the surface as fast as I could,
And shook water out of my ears,
And there lying prostrate was old Billy Wood,
A friend of my younger days, trusted and good,
Whom I hadn't encountered for years.

SAID I: "Bill, old man, you've recovered, I see,
I'm glad you perched with your life."
SAID Billy, "How are you?" and worked himself free;
Then he pointed high up in a neighboring tree,
And politely remarked, "Meet the wife."

BILL'S wife then descended, dressed nearly in brown;
Bill surely was lucky to win her;
She said: "I'll rush home and put on a new gown;
Then Bill here is while till the children climb down,
Then bring your old friend home for dinner."

Social and Personals

Dr. R. J. Fahey was in Toronto today on business.

Mrs. Harry Jones of Toronto is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bland, Youmans Street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fink left for New York by-day where they will attend the World's Series Baseball games.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Byers leave today-to-morrow for the World Series ball games at New York. They will also attend the Sesqui-Centenial Exposition at Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mr. Harry B. Huntsfergood and Mr. W. H. Reeves left today for Philadelphia where they will be judges at the dog show held in conjunction with the Sesqui-centennial exhibition.

AT CAPITOL THEATRE

There are dogs and dogs but possibly none so well known or better trained than filmland's famous canine actor Rin Tin Tin. A marvel of intelligence in this popular animal, who will be the featured star in an extraordinary feature picture at the Capitol Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The title of the picture is "The Night Cry" and it is rated as one of the very best in which this remarkable dog has ever appeared. When the film was first shown here to the public, Rin Tin Tin and his owner appeared in conjunction with it, regarding the picture as the very best the talented dog had made. Don't miss this outstanding, odd "different" feature photoplay, at the Capitol the last half of the week.

HAVE SERVED EMPIRE IN VARIED LANDS

Lady Willingdon, as Daughter of Famous World Traveller, Has Also Globe Trotted With Husband

A penetrating pen will some day write a history of Rideau Hall which will hinge upon the personalities of its various occupants. There have been dyes when devotion of arts and to literature were the ruling passions, days when the glamor of royalty made the Hall of focus point of all social eyes; there were days when scions of Britain's oldest and finest aristocracy filled the King's place in his biggest Dominion.

In October it will yield to the sway of as lovely a pair as ever held dominion over the land of achievement, but because their duties have been carried out with so little sensation or appeal to lurid interest that gossip and small talk have had little to do with their name.

They are of quite different stock to the last few families to occupy the seat of government. Though bearing a title of high degree, they are not aristocrats in the sense in which Lord and Lady Byng were of the aristocracy, or the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. They belong to that exceedingly interesting class of English, the yeoman stock. Their family records go back in history far beyond the origin of many of England's most famous titled families.

A family originating in the days of Elizabeth, or of the Stuarts (where, indeed, many great families had their beginnings), is regarded as fairly historic, but the families of both Lord and Lady Willingdon trace their way beyond that even to Norman times. In spite of what may have gone in London the coming and going of dynasties, from Plantagenets all the way down to the House of Windsor, these yeoman of England have clung to the soil of their native land with a tenacity that preserved them intact as a class. They regarded with pride and love of toleration the rise of aristocratic families, but treasure to themselves more highly the descent from father to son of rich farms, of old manor houses, of thoroughbred cattle and ancient woods, and all that they stood for. Into the veins of these families Lord Willingdon makes fascinating reading. Until the railway age their class was safeguarded from the invasion of parvenus of England by railways and the conversion of distant country districts into mere suburbs of manufacturing cities has also worked changes in the status of this old yeoman stock. Three or four generations have seen the evolution of the English farmer into the country gentleman administrator. Galsworthy in his Forsyte stories traces the fortunes of one of these families and their gradual rise to himself an example of the evolution. The love of the soil still clings to him and his privileges and duties are his chief brain from politics. The son of a great manufacturer, he finds his vocation in politics.

Coal and steel spell railways. The early part of the nineteenth century saw the development of the great motor industries manufacturing and transportation.

Frederick Freeman Thomas father of Lord Willingdon was an iron and steel coal merchant. When Freeman Freeman Thomas completed his education there was no necessity for his entry into business. The family had acquired its wealth. The next step was therefore politics, and the diplomatic life. The ambitions of the Thomas family had reached that point.

In the meantime the earn thing had been happening in the Rideau Hall. Lady Willingdon's grandfather was a friend of George Stephenson of railway fame. Through him he secured his first contract. He married a daughter of the first resident of the new town of Birkenhead, child of the railway age. She encouraged him to become a contractor and eventually he became probably the greatest railway contractor in the world. He built part of the Grand Trunk Railway, he built railways in Great Britain, in India, in Argentine, in Italy, in Borneo and elsewhere. When his son, Lady Willingdon's father, came to manhood, he too had acquired an echo of this world's goods that a generation earlier was necessary. He took to politics. Twenty years as a member for Hastings, then an official of the navy department, and then he became Governor of Victoria Australia. It was here the two great yeomen families crossed trails. Freeman Freeman-Thomas went through Eton and Cambridge for his two senior years he was captain of the cricket Eleven and his team to victory in a contest out of which Cambridge graduates are still able to get a vicarious thrill. When he left college and after a few years' travel, he became attached to the staff of Lady Willingdon's father as aide-de-camp.

Lady Willingdon was the Hon. Marie Adelaide Brassey, one of Lord Brassey's three charming daughters, who with their father and their clever mother created all over the world in the famous sailing yacht, The Sunbeam. Of those wanderings the mother's facile pen kept a record, and the publication of her diaries made her one of the most popular writers of her day. In Canadian libraries there is to this day a lovely volume profusely illustrated with photographs and sketches from those trips on which the merry family became as well acquainted with the world. Lord Brassey's title, like Lord Willingdon's was conferred as a reward for important Imperial service.

Backed, therefore, by the best traditions of the finest British stock, familiar with remarkable achievements in commerce and industry, and personally associated with the administration of civil government, Lord Willingdon has much to offer to Canada.

1913 Lord Willingdon was made Governor of Bombay Presidency in India, in which province over thirty million people of mixed races in British and native-ruled states. One of the powerful princes in his province was the Gaekwar of Baroda. He was there throughout the war when Bombay as the Indian port nearest to England was the channel for the great flood of soldiers that went from India to help win the war in the west. So successful was the administration that he was persuaded at the end of his term to proceed south to the presidency of Madras (which, by the way, became famous under the same name by which Canada was ceded to Britain), where he had forty-three millions under his administration. There he won universal and full meeting native co-operation that he completely frustrated the plans of a conspiracy to drive the Hindus against British rule. From the splendor of his oriental presidency, Lord Willingdon returned home with Lady Willingdon to England in 1924. There his remarkable knowledge of the oriental mind was called into use in the matter of the return of the Boxer indemnity, which was complicated by the present political state of China. His mission took him across Canada and he had a bird's eye view of the country. He was in China when the message reached him, inviting him to be Canadian Governor-General. On his return to London, Lord Willingdon made a speech in which he recounted some of his impressions of Canadians. The two characteristics which seemed to impress him were the confidence and the optimism of the country. He concluded by a simple statement that was almost a vow. This is what he said:

"I am determined, so far as it lies in me, to do my utmost to assist in the prosperity and progress of the great Dom inion."

Lady Willingdon is a very charming woman. Bred in an atmosphere of public service, she has been a valuable asset to her distinguished husband. She has suffered, too, and carries with her heart a grief that will make her kin to Canadian women who wear little silver crosses. Her elder son, Gerg his "bit" in France, vanished with the host of missing men. It was at the battle of the Lys, in 1914, that he "went west," and no man has discovered what his fate was. Not among the dead, or the wounded, not among the prisoners was he found. Here is a mother Canada who can sympathize with those folks "out in authority over us" who shared the common sorrow of the world. Their second son, Capt. Inigo Freeman-Thomas now the heir to his father's honors, is married to a daughter of Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson.

On the return of Lord Willingdon to Canada which he had represented in the House of Commons, he took a holiday in the return to Quebec City of the relict which had been taken in the conquest of Quebec and presented to Hastings.

There seems little doubt but that Lord and Lady Willingdon will be personally popular in Canada. Lord Willingdon is a sportsman, noted for carrying into all his daily dealings the principles of fair play. He is genial, in spite of his natural reserve; he is fine looking, well bronzed, muscular and looks ten years less than his sixty years. He is a fine French scholar, has a broad knowledge without being a bookish man, and is well versed in financial affairs.

Lady Willingdon is a worthy daughter of one of the noblest women of her age, the late Lady Brassey, whose charities were famous. Much of her sweetness, her fortitude and her graciousness have been transmitted to Lady Willingdon, who is also a charming hostess and a woman of broad intelligence.

WHERE SOLDIERS STILL HOLD

In asking admission to the League of Nations Germany has been stressing her anxiety to be restored to the full possession of the territory left to her by the Peace of Versailles. Still on the German side of the Rhine a considerable allied army of occupation remains. Possibly not many of us over here realize that not only French and Belgian but British troops remain in German territory, holding it as a guarantee that the German war debt shall be duly paid, and that the other agreements of Germany as to armed forces and munitions of war shall be carried out.

This allied force is being gradually lessened, some 10,000 troops being taken out this month, but there still remain 60,000 French, Belgian and British troops on German soil.

Complaints are not being heard now that Germany is violating her agreement regarding armed strength and war munitions, and, moreover, Germany seems to have settled pretty well into a frame of mind adverse to any restoration of monarchial or military autocracy. The end of the entry of Germany into the League of Nations, followed by apparently cordial and friendly relations between the German and French representatives, seem to promise that the evacuation of German territory by the allied troops will be complete at an early date.

In the whole matter the League of Nations has played a great part. More and more as time goes on, the League seems to us to deserve the hearty support of all who hope for the extinction of war in the world.

THE UPWARD ROAD

George H. Jones, who started out, a poor boy, as office and stenographer, is today chairman of the Standard Oil Board with a salary of $125,000 a year. How did he reach such eminence? He doesn't know, and nobody does. It would be impossible to determine specifically what qualifications have been the means of advancing any man who has marched to high place. But it is usually possible to identify two or three characteristics which are held in common by all successful men.

When Mr. Jones was asked to say what had helped him to rise from 'obscurity to prominence, he modestly said there had been a good deal of luck about it. There is no denying that something of that nature does play a part in men's lives; but not often. Good luck never comes to the young man who is unprepared for it. It is being ready with a sound equipment that makes the knock of opportunity seem like a stroke of fine fortune. And the story of Mr. Jones' life is simply a story of a young man who worked so hard and effectively on every job he took in hand that he gave it added value. He used his brain and did not watch the clock.

One sees a kind of winning method counts in a young man. "Given a boy from Mr. Jones' own estimate of what of no particular importance," he says "one person does methodically what is required, while another sees new kinds of work to do and makes the job important. The second will get ahead." That is the decisive teaching of experience Yet there is one other qualification which is basic, and without which failure is certain. "To get ahead," observes Mr. Jones, "a man must be dependable. He must have integrity. You must be able to have confidence in him." Of course. Nevertheless, there are thousands of young men who believe that sharpness and cunning are essential to success.

THE PRESS AND PUBLIC SAFETY

The Editor and Publisher of New York, makes an impressive story out of the good work being done by daily papers throughout the United States in bringing about a lower toll of life from automobile traffic. One journal secured the construction of passenger subways between a particularly dangerous street. Another persuaded the Legislature to pass a law punishing drunken drivers with imprisonment. A third induced the authorities to compel all cars to stop at certain arterial streets, and with excellent results. A fourth caused the assembling of 60,000 auto owners for the organization of a Safe-Driving Club. These are but examples out of a long list of effective crusading.

The bringing into life and activity of a league of drivers in the cause of safety promises larger results than perhaps anything else that has thus far been done. When every operator of a car is pledged to render a service equivalent to that of a police officer, and throws out the window his dislike of being regarded as an informer, the entire situation as to recklessness will be changed. And it has got to come to that if the growing record of slaughter and maiming is to be checked.

The press has a mission precisely in that direction. Because of its contact with public thinking it must lend its influence to all measures calculated to bring about general safety. And that is what it is doing.

THE IMMIGRATION ISSUE
(Vancouver Province)

What is Canada's greatest economic need in this year of grace 1926? . . .

Put this question, to the first 100 people you meet, and in ninety cases the answer will be the same: "Canada needs more people."

The tariff is important; reduction in taxation is very desirable; clean, honest government is the earnest wish of every good Canadian; fearless handling of corruption like that which has been disclosed in the customs department, is essential.

But a protective tariff which will foster home industries will not bring prosperity unless there is a large and increasing home-consuming market; reduction in taxation on any extensive scale is not to be expected unless our war burdens can be shared by a much larger population than we have at present; rebates on the people by smuggling would not be so attractive to evil-doers if sound prosperity existed at home. . . .

U. S. VIEW OF ELECTION RESULT
(Boston Transcript)

Mackenzie King's return to power will mean a policies on minimum to increase the tariff as against American goods. This will no doubt be taken as good news for American manufacturers in general, but so many of the Canadian industries are now in the hands of Americans that the real interest of American manufacturers is a little hard to figure. At all events there is nothing in the situation which promises to check the steady flow of Canadian brain and brawn into the United States—and certainly nothing to disturb the entire friendly and sympathetic relations between the American and Canadian Governments and people. The result of the elections is indeed a marked rebuke to all forms of Canadian chauvinism, which always thrives better under "Tory" rule than under Liberal rule.

BLESSING OF PROHIBITION
(Detroit News)

We who live in cosmopolitan Detroit are quite liable to lose a bit objectively urban viewpoint on prohibition; and visitors from less populous centres have theirs. For example, the other day an elderly banker-farmer from a small town in southern Indiana was taken down Woodward avenue "our High street" Jefferson that he might see traffic at its worst. He was amazed at the number of cars of course, but his interesting observation was:

"What a blessing it is that you have prohibition in Detroit. Think what it would mean if there were as many as a lot of those drivers could get drunk and try to go through that crowd!"

HAS ITS PLACE IN WORLD
(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Jazz music has its place in the world, just as have the cartoonist and the humorous writer, but it is wrong to exalt it to a place it does not merit. It may or may not be dying—we think not, because it is improving in the direction of a symphonic form and the fact that it has changed so much since it originated a few years ago, is proof that the jazz musicians realize they were on the wrong track and are endeavoring to return to the simpler and more melodious music of the pre-jazz era.

MR. MEIGHEN'S RESIGNATION
(Ottawa Journal)

For outside the boundaries of his own party, wherever homage to probity, character and high devotion to country rises above party narrowness, there will be regret at the retirement of Arthur Meighen from Parliament. For, Mr. Meighen, however some may feel regarding his qualifications as a party leader, proved himself a great public servant. In a day when public apathy all but endangers democracy, in a time when the serious things of life are shunned by too many of us, his career and his unstinted devotion to his country were a challenge and an inspiration to us all. In the cause to which he had dedicated himself, for things which he believed good for Canada, he all but wore himself out. There must come with his going a sense of national loss.

Disraeli said of Peel that he was, in his time, the greatest member of Parliament. That, we think can be said here in Canada of Arthur Meighen. The accidents and fluctuations of politics deprived him of any chance of proving himself a great Prime Minister; we can only be left to conjecture what he might have done for Canada with wider opportunity. In a sense, his claim to the highest form of statesmanship is like Hamlet's claim to "the soldier's music and the rights of war" the claim that—

He was likely, had he been put on, to have proved most royally.

But to every difficulty of administration in which he was tried Mr. Meighen proved himself equal; and at least one or two high achievements will stand to his credit.

He goes out without a stain upon his armor. To his last fight he gave his all; it was not his fault if he did not reach the summit. He believed in himself, he believed in Canada, and he believed in his policies, and he was true to that last to all of them. He lost, but we think, in the circumstances, it can be said of him:—

"Great is the facile conqueror.
Yet greater he, who, foiled, still dares,
Breathless, unhorsed, all covered o'er
With blood and sweat
Sinks foiled, but fighting evermore—
Is greater yet."

SPOILING IT

"You look positively beautiful tonight."

"Oh, you flatterer."

"No—it's true. I had to look twice before I recognized you."

SHE KNEW

"Do you understand the nature of an oath, madam?" asked the attorney of the fair witness.

"I'll tell the world I do. I married a sailor," was the emphatic response.

IN NO HURRY TO LEARN

"Ethel's been learning to play golf for four or five months now."

"Then either her instructor is inefficient, or she is stupid."

"Neither. The fact is, he is handsome and Ethel is flirtatious."

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED
Toronto Telegram:

New York Times recalls that the printers in 1851 wore silk hats to and from work. . . .

As form published the same year is reprinted which records the arrest of two women on Broadway for wearing bloomers and also Hasard NYKth for bloomers and short satin dresses. They were taken into custody and placed in a cell to ponder on their disgraceful conduct."

Sight of printers sporting silk hats on their way to work might not cause a riot on Broadway in 1926, but it would certainly cause more excitement than the appearance of two ladies wearing short satin dresses and bloomers.

MANY NOTABLES AT CONVENTION ON GOOD ROADS

Seven Provinces Officially Represented at Edmonton

Edmonton, September 29.—With the governments of seven of the nine Canadian provinces officially represented, and two premiers, four high-way ministers, half a dozen deputy ministers and many chief engineers and other departmental executives, included in the attendance of 700 delegates from all parts of Canada and several states of the Union, the thirteenth annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association opened at the Macdonald Hotel here under conditions assuring a most successful gathering.

The premier, Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways for Ontario, after calling the convention to order and briefly welcoming the delegates, invited His Honor William Egbert, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, to perform the opening ceremony. His Honor in the address said that Alberta and Edmonton felt honored in having chosen for so important a convention, which brought about a desirable interchange of ideas between East and West, and thought the solution of many vexed problems connected with the providing of high-way transportation. Alberta, though a young province, had made a good start in road building, and had spent $2,000,000 in the past three years.

Mayor K. A. Blatchford brought the greetings of Edmonton, and said it was unnecessary to couple the freedom of the city, as Edmonton's hospitality was wide open to all visitors.

Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta expressed the hope that mutual understanding of eastern and western problems, and an increased knowledge of Alberta's resources, would result from the convention.

The Government of Alberta was a convinced convert to the doctrine of good roads, and was carrying out an ambitious programme of main highways, while encouraging the municipalities to develop good market roads. The recent bad weather had one good effect, in demonstrating the utility of the improved roads in the province and creating a demand for their extension. Good roads were justified, not only by their economic benefit, but by the social aspects of interprovincial and international touring, which promoted good feeling between the peoples of widely-separated sections.

Premier John Bracken, of Manitoba, promised that his province would keep pace with the others. Manitoba's system had now reached the point where practically the whole revenue from motor and gasoline taxes was needed for the maintenance of existing roads.

OGDEN MILLS OPPOSES GOV. SMITH IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 28.—Representative Ogden L. Mills was today nominated by the Republican convention to oppose Governor Alfred E. Smith for the Governorship of New York State. Gregory Smith was nominated by the Democrats today. The Republicans are meeting here and Democrats at Syracuse.

WILL MAKE ADDITIONS TO TITANIA'S PALACE

Wilkinson Coming to America Before Miniature Marvel is Brought From Sesquicentennial

Paris, Sept. 29—Major Sir Neville Wilkinson has completed a vacation at La Baule on the Brittany coast, where he continued the work of adding to the miniature masterpiece, Titania's Palace, which is now being shown at the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia. He expects to sail for the United States from the land soon, prior to the showing of the palace in New York, where, as in the case of Philadelphia, the proceeds are to be devoted to the care of crippled children.

Sir Neville said he hoped it might be possible to allow the miniature palace, containing objects of inestimable value, to spend alternate years in Great Britain and the United States. For the fulfillment of such a hope, he says, an organization must be created in America similar to that founded in Great Britain, where all the institutions caring for cripples share the admission receipts, as well as spontaneous gifts for the children inspired by visits to the palaces or by books written around it by the builder. Major Wilkinson is now working on a new book, "Yvette in Colorado," which is especially intended for American children. In Great Britain the palace has been taken to every town in the country, arousing great interest and the hope for the same success in America if his plans mature.

Not only is the visit of the palace expected to interest the children and help the crippled, but also to arouse a love for the arts and crafts and for beautiful homes. The palace contains products of all periods and of all civilizations—from ancient Egypt to modern Sevres and Cobelin—each article being a marvel of minute perfection, such as leather-bound printed books the size of postage stamps, miniature paintings from the great masters, carved ivory and gold, silver and bronze statuettes, glassware, porcelains, a piano, a harp, an automobile and a baby carriage. The palace is complete after twenty years of work except for several temporary floors and ceilings.

At La Baule Major Wilkinson collected a thousand tiny seashells for a portion of the manor. Adam, noting that completed a Roman mosaic bathroom floors of marvelous perfection and beauty, even under a powerful magnifying glass, Major Wilkinson hopes to obtain collaboration in regaining an American non-sectarian occupation to the Titania's Palace.

BABOON SELLS TICKETS IN STATION AT LONDON

Runaway Puncheo Them With Her Tooth and Flings Out Change in Handfuls

London, Sept. 29—A young female baboon escaped from her cage in the Crystal Palace Station and took possession of a ticket seller's office during the rush hour yesterday. The ticket seller disappeared, but later he said that he had gone to telephone to the zoo.

According to a porter, who observed the frisky jungle "flapper" from a safe distance, she first emptied the pigeonholes of the desk and then took a seat at the window of the ticket office as if she knew the job. She held a penny in her mouth and blinked contentedly.

"A passenger then approached," the porter continued. "He stepped up to the counter with a coin, looking up and pecked with astonishment when he saw the baboon. But she seemed to know what he wanted for she took a ticket, punched it with her teeth and flung it through the window, along with a handful of pennies."

The baboon stayed where she was discovered, and farmers are hopeful that a general resumption of harvesting will be possible in a few days.

Southern Saskatchewan reported temperatures as high as 80 degrees above zero, with a drying wind. Alberta experienced a warm wave, and in Manitoba the thermometers rose gradually throughout yesterday and today with warmer weather in prospect for tomorrow.

WARM SPRING WEATHER FOLLOWS SNOWSTORM

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 27.—Warm, sunny weather was reported generally from the Prairie Provinces over the week-end, and farmers are hopeful that a general resumption of harvesting will be possible in a few days.

FLORA FIGURES IT OUT BUT WHO CAN SAY SHE IS RIGHT?

Flora Dora lives in New Castle, Ind., and although only eight years old she knows enough about family muddles to fill volumes. A year ago Flora's mother died and the grandmother (her father's mother-in-law) started to take care of the house. Then began a romance that didn't stay put until Flora's father had married her grandmother, says "The Pathfinder."

Now, according to Flora, her father is his own father-in-law; he's also his own daughter's grandfather. But what about Flora. She's in a worse mix-up, she says. Her father's marriage makes her not only her own aunt but also her own mother.

DISTILLERIES HARD HIT

London, September 29.—Owing to the decrease in whisky drinking many Scotch distilleries are closing down, according to a report from Edinburgh. Highland farmers who have just harvested one of the finest barley crops on record for the whisky distilleries are hard hit. One Highland distiller said today that there already was too much whisky on the market and that stocks had been accumulating in the warehouses.

HON VINCENT MASSEY GOES TO WASHINGTON

Will Be Canada's First Minister Plenipotentiary to United States

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Hon. Vincent Massey, of Toronto, is Premier King's choice for Canada's first minister at Washington. This Mr. King announced today.

Definite appointment, however, will not be made until after the Prime Minister has discussed the matter with the British Government, which he intends to do when he goes to London next month. Mr. Massey probably will be asked to visit London at the same time.

A man of diversified interests and attainments in the realms of art, education, business and politics, is Hon. Vincent Massey, M.A., Premier King's choice as Canada's first minister plenipotentiary to the United States. In his fortieth year, Hon. Mr. Massey is one of the youngest men in public life in this country.

FOR Sour Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it over comes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

LEFT-HANDERS IN FIRST GAME OF TITLE SERIES

Bill Sherdel for St. Louis, Pennock for Yankees, Prospect Saturday

New York, September 29.—Ruth and Gehrig together kept the world's baseball championship contenders, the Yankees and Cardinals, idle today, but the rival field marshals, Miller Huggins and Rogers Hornsby, improved the interval by an intensive study of tactics and strategy.

The chief result of this "master-minding" is the prospect that the opening game of the world's series on Saturday will develop a battle of left-handers, probably between Herb Pennock, the veteran pitcher of the Yankees, and "Wee Willie" Sherdel, of the St. Louis club.

Pennock has been the most consistent of the Yankee staff this season. Close observers favor his selection not only because of his ability as a "money pitcher," but also because he requires at least three days' rest between games. By twirling the opener, he would be ready to come back quicker than if held for a later assignment.

Huggins indicated today he was virtually certain to pick a left-hander, which would preclude the choice to Pennock or Dutch Ruether among the regulars. The midget manager, however, also is grooming Urban Shocker, spitball ace and a right-hander, for early service. It is possible that Huggins may switch to Shocker on the opening afternoon, but Urban is more likely to start the second game.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the veteran who helped the Cardinals in their winning drive after being "sold down" the river by the Chicago Cubs, will get the first game assignment, Hornsby indicated, if Sherdel is not selected. Alexander is in the June position as Shocker; he is virtually certain to pitch on Sunday if he does not Saturday.

If Your Eyes Are as They Should be

You are a fortunate individual. For not many are so blessed. The trouble is that so many folks THINK their eyes are normal, when as a matter of fact they know nothing at all about it, as their eyes have never been examined. It is impossible for a person to diagnose his own visual condition. I often make wrong eyes right.

Delora Intermediates will meet Bridgeburg in the finals for the O.S.A.A. championship. The westerners are reported to have smart leage and the smelters to bring home the bacon will need to be up their best behavior. Delora have had two weeks rest since their last game. Manager Elliot expects his proteges to come through with flying colors.

Offensively the infield of the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, shows a slight superiority over the New York Yankees coming to bat in behalf of the American League in the approaching world series.

The four regular infielders of the Cards have a batting average of .297, against .271 for the same number of players likely to occupy places in the Yankees' first line of defence. Banishing all thought of the two pitchers are not important, but the Westerners maintain their slight edge here, also, with a total of 37 to 30.

GERRIG TOPS BOTTOMLEY

Lou Gehrig with a batting average completed on Gehrig has been more successful in hitting for extra base than the guardian of the first base for the Cardinals, with 46 doubles, 20 triples and 11 home-runs. Bottomley has hit for the circuit more often than Gehrig with 19 home-runs, but is behind in doubles and triples, his totals being 38 and 13. The stolen base performances of the two first sackers are nothing to grow excited about, but Gehrig leads, 6 to 4.

Shortstop Hornsby, even though below his usual form, has on-hit Tony Lazzeri, but the Yankee second-sacker has been much more successful in negotiating triples and home-runs.

With a batting average of .317, compared to .270 for Lazzeri, Hornsby has made only 2 triples and 11 home-runs, while the former Pacific Coast star has 14 three-base hits and 18 home-runs. Hornsby drove out 25 doubles to 27 for Lazzeri, and they were all even in stolen bases at 10.

BELL'S FINE RECORD

Lester Bell, St. Louis third baseman, has a better record than that of Joe Dugan, who will play opposite him. On paper Bell is the best hitter in either infield. His average for the season is .320. Dugan has hit .284. Bell, however, has made 30 doubles, 14 triples and 17 home-runs, while Dugan has been forced to satisfy himself with 20 two-base hits, 5 for three-base hits and 1 for the circuit. Bell has stolen ten bases, while Dugan has been able to get away with only two thefts.

Mark Koenig, of the Yankees, and Tom Thevenow, representing the opposition at short-stop, are not among the leading hitters, but Koenig's average tops that of Thevenow, .280 to .255. The advantage also extends along the line of extra base hitting, Koenig leads in doubles, 38 to 19; in triples, 8 to 5, and in home-runs, 5 to 2. Thevenow is the better base

ABOUT SPECS TOPORCER.

George Topreer will probably have a chance to look over the tops of his specs from an infield position for the Cardinals during the series. His last out-ski Mike Gazella, who has the first call as a Yankee infield substitute, 226 to .222. No excitement whatever has been caused by the bare running of this skillful but modest pair, Topreer having stolen one base and Gazella barely doubled his output with two. Neither has made any impression on the home-run records.

With their next stop the world's series, the New York Yankees came home last night, making the trip from St. Louis, where the season was brought to a close Monday, in a special train.

The American League champions were followed by the St. Louis Cardinals, representatives of the National League in the annual baseball struggle for world supremacy, and both teams will practice daily for the opening of the big series Saturday.

The intervening days will give the St. Louis team an opportunity to become thoroughly familiar with the turf, backgrounds and shades of the Yankee stadium. The Yankees are more accustomed to that they know all there is to know about the St. Louis field, where they have played throughout the season.

Manager Hornsby of Huggins brought his team home in fair shape. Benny Bengough, young catcher, will not be available on account of injuries, Pat Collins, is suffering from slight injuries. Collins, however, will be fit by game time Saturday, Manager Huggins said.

Babe Ruth has a sore leg, but it will be well and limber before the end of day, in the opinion of the slugger and his fellow players.

Here's a brief record of the opposing managers in the world's series which will start at the Yankee Stadium Saturday:

MILLER HUGGINS—Born in Cincinnati, March 27, 1880. Played second base for the Reds and Cardinals. Became manager of the Cardinals in 1913, succeeding Roger Bresnahan as manager. Signed a contract with the Yankees in 1918. Has won four American League pennants —1921, 1922, 1923, and 1926. Won World Series from Giants in 1923.

ROGERS HORNSBY—Born in Winters, Tex., April 277, 1896. Started his professional baseball career with Dallas club in 1914. Bought by Cardinals in 1915 from Denison club. Led National League in batting for six straight years, 1921 to 1925, inclusive. Succeeded Branch Rickey as manager of Cardinals in June, 1925.

Gene Tunney will hardly be the drawing card that Dempsey was. It will take more ballyhoo, as the saying goes, to work up a $2,000,000 gate in the next heavyweight championship bout. One doubts if the figure set up in the huge stadium at Philadelphia last Thursday will be approached for years and years. Such a gathering and such a gate made what may be lasting history. Still, a bout between Gene Tunney and Jack Delaney would be a great drawing card. Both are clever, both can hit. Their styles are much the same. They love sharpshooting. Tunney has come to be a sharpshooter. At least he was against Dempsey, even though it must be admitted that the former champion was an easy target to hit. His awkward style of being in with both arms low, ready for a punch with either hand, made him a mark for a left or right hook. Tunney took full advantage. He might find it harder to hit Delaney.

LEAFS WON 1ST FROM COLONELS BY SCORE OF 2-0

Bunched Attack in Fourth and Fifth Innings to Beat Louisville

Toronto, Sept. 29—Dan Howley' Leafs, International League champions, scored first blood in the game with Louisville American Association champions at the Stadium before a crowd estimated at between five and six thousand partisans. The second game was being played this afternoon.

The score yesterday was 2-0, and Jess Doyle, veteran right-hander of the Toronto Club, was always boss of the job with the exception of the first inning when the Colonels, filled the bases with two on three hits, two of which were somewhat tainted. In this pinch Doyle displayed his mettle by forcing Cotter to foul out to O'Neill. After that the gallant Stager mixed up his offerings so deceptively that the Kentuckians were almost as helpless as the Keys of Reading, and for that matter did not look much better from an offensive standpoint.

For the greater part of the game they were hitting up mild pops or feeble flies to the outfield and, in six of the nine periods, went out as fast as they came to the plate. The invaders outhit the Leafs, 6 to 3, getting two other hits with as many down in the fifth when Tincup's tap to Lawrey took an unexpected hop and Pittinger followed with a looper to right which Cardin could not reach.

Doyle fanned four and, barring one walk, his control was faultless. The exception was a nice red man, who did the hurling for the blue grass gang, was almost as effective as the Toronto veteran, but as is the custom of the Leafs, they took advantage of every opportunity, converting three hits into two runs. Tincup un-canned the Toronto tribe until the fourth, not giving them a semblance of a hit until Gilbert came to bat in that fateful frame.

Gil drew the count to 3 and 2, and then slipped a single to Cardin, who did well to knock it down, much less make a play on the flash. Mullen, with the infield crowding the plate expectant of a sacrifice, slashed a hit right on which Gilhooley ran to second. Lawrey expired on a nicely placed bunt which moved up both runners, and then Cardin crashed a fly to centre on which Gilhooley romped home with the first run of the contest.

It was enough to win as it turned out, but the Leafs gathered in another for good measure on Miller's corking double, the only extra base hit of the contest. Shanks of the victors, made a dumb play on Doyle's cap, forcing the plate cultivator and making him get to first. He might not have been off Miller, but the chance was there. In none of the other periods did the Leafs threaten, although they had the old Spalding several long drives.

Webb, in left, robbed Gilhooley of a second hit by a sensational running catch made over short which, if it had gone safe, would have given the Leafs another tally. Miller's shortstopping was immense and Lazzo covered much territory in left.

The second game of the series will be played today when it is altogether likely that Carroll will pitch for Toronto and Callop for Louisville. The attendance was not up to expectations although the weather was clear and bright, but rather chilly. The game was played in the remarkably fast time of one hour and sixteen minutes.

TIME TO PLAN YOUR HUNTING TRIP

The falling leaves and the tang of frost in the air remind us of the rapidly approaching hunting season. When the call of the woods is insistent, irresistible, and must be answered by a trek northward into Ontario's famous forests. It is well to make plans as early as possible.

Canadian National Railways have already anticipated the needs of their hunting friends and have prepared suitable special train service to and from that unexcelled hunting territory served by their lines and lying north and south of the French River. Each year sees an increase in the number of hunters attracted to these grounds. Open season for Deer and Moose north of the French River is from Oct. 25th to Nov. 30th, both dates inclusive; and south of the French River—Nov. 5th to Nov. 20th, both dates inclusive. Many who can afford the time to make a longer journey visit the territory lying north of the Canadian National Railways—Quebec-Ontario-Winnipeg Line. This is a veritable mecca for sportsmen and abounds with moose; open season in this area is from Sept. 15th to November 15th, both dates inclusive.

On request, any Agent of the Canadian National Railways will gladly furnish you with special Hunters' Time Table and help you plan your trip. 329-6-7-30

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT THE BELLE

Jacqueline Logan, declared by capable critics to be one of the most beautiful girls appearing in moving pictures, receives a glowing tribute from an Oriental visitor while engaged in filming "The Outsider," Pine Films version of the stage success by that name, showing at the Belle theatre.

"Miss Logan told me about it," said Rowland V. Lee, the director, "but the truth is that Yuji Kadogo chief secretary of the bureau of social affairs of Tokyo had been watching her for some time as she portrayed the role of Jackie Saxon, daughter of England's leading surgeon.

"Finally, when the sequences were finished, the Japanese visitor, who was under escort of the Japanese Embassy, stepped up to me and inquired her name. When I told him Jackie Logan' he seemed puzzled and shook his head. "Jackie Logan'," he said "is the most beautiful girl in the United States—but she does not have blond hair. Still, this girl is beautiful"

Mr. Lee explained that wig-fitters do strange things in Hollywood, and finally succeeded in the dubious task of making Jackie's auburn tresses were reposing beneath that gold crown.

Whereupon Yuji Kadogo gave Jackie a searching look and then smiled broadly. His judgme nt had been vindicated —and he was content. After all, a blond wig is merely a blond wig!

CAPITOL THEATRE

Monte Blue is the same popular favorite as ever, with local audiences. A good crowd at the Capitol last night saw Monte playing the leading role in the first class feature picture entitled "Other Women's Husbands". A laugh at every turn greets the efforts of this youthful husband as he endeavours to play a double game; the girl of his young attorney-friend has a special attraction for him, but Monte's efforts are just about one jump behind him and he comes friendly with the attorney. The humorous situations arising before the difficulties are settled induce much good laugh. but finally our hero and wife decide to call the ship of matrimony again together and make a better job of it than on the first attempt.

One increasing picture and one worth while. It will be shown for the last time at the Capitol tonight. The Capitol Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Mr. W. H. Brown, supplied excellent music, and contributed in no small measure to round out a good bill.

AT GRIFFIN'S

First National's big steel special, "Men of Steel," which has just been released after having been in production since last November 2, is one of the biggest yet filmed by this organization. It will be shown at Griffin's Thurs., Fri., and Sat. For not only is the story an unusual one and the settings magnificent, but Silk has done his best work of his screen career, according to those in the know.

Silk wrote the story from which this picture has been filmed from a suggestion received in R. G. Kirk's short "United States Flavor." No one knows better than Silk what kind of a story in the writing of the story he worked knowing the person who was to play each part—knowing their skills and personality. This made for a great vehicle at the start. The United States Steel Corporation has co-operated from the beginning with First National in the making of the picture.

The great Easley Mills of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company were turned over to the film company for the filming of the steel mill scenes. The open hearth ore mines of the same company were also placed at the disposal of First National, and scenes so big, so powerful and smashing as to take one's breath away are the result.

Silk is pleased with the picture, "I feel that we have a great picture," is about all he will say. But the way he says it tells the story.

Montreal, Sept. 29—Agreements were reached over the week-end between the National Hockey League, on the one hand, and the American Association, formerly the Central League, and the three proposed entrants. A separate agreement was reached with the American Association, the fifth minor league, the Prairie League, Canadian professional, and Canada-American combine under another agreement, which in effect was not different from that signed by the American Association.

Chicago and Detroit will operate teams in the American Association, as well as the National Hockey League. The Soo Greybounds will be transferred to Detroit, while Eddie Livingstone, of Toronto, has secured the rights for an

In a recent report from the Canadian Pacific Agent at Shanghai received at Montreal it is stated that the summer in vicinity of Shanghai has been trying on account of drought. The crops have a distant, rous effect on the crops. The long and intense heat wave was only reasonably broken by a typhoon which struck the Coast near Shanghai.

A plan is projected by the Osaka Prefectural Government authorities in Japan for the promotion of a new commercial museum commemorative of the tenth anniversary of the restoration of world peace. It is estimated that the exposition will be opened in Osaka in 1929. The plans for the exposition, which will be carried out at a cost of $2,000,000, have been approved by the Prime Minister.

So successful on Canadian farms have been young bachelors, who prior to residence in this country were students in agriculture at the Holleigh Salvation Army Schools in Kssex, England, that the Army will shortly receive into those institutions their first classes of a contracted one destined for farm lands in the Dominion." The course will be given during the winter months, and will have a thorough training in branches of agriculture, particularly adapted to conditions in Canada.

Prospects for the establishment of an air route in Japan for mail and passenger service have brightened with the announcement that the Ministry of Communications have included an appropriation in the budget for a meteorological department for such a service. It is anticipated that there will be enough passenger traffic to more than double the railroad fare for the sake of speed between Osaka and Tokyo, the leading cities of Japan.

The Hebridean emigrants who are this leaving their island homes for misty lalands for a new life in Canada have, curiously enough, been driven from home by the search, it, although the romance of this migration, extending over a hundred years, is a wonderful field for fiction. The extent of this field has been realized, however, by the new novel "Eyes of a Gypsy," by the Canadian writer John Murray Gibbon, well known as the known author of "Drums Afar", etc., and Dean of Publicity of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Action should be taken by the authorities in the Province of Quebec to shorten the open season for hunting deer and moose, according to Ozark Ripley, well known writer on animal and wild life and prominent hunter and angler. Mr. Ripley also believes that the deer season be too early as in September the deer are still in their red coats, and their numbers are only conserved through their ability to hide amongst the leaves of the underbrush which have not yet fallen. He believes that a scarcity of this game will result from the lengthy season.

The Earl of Clarendon, Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs in the British Government, who has been touring the Dominion investigating conditions generally while the 3000-family scheme from Great Britain is working out, declared, in an interview at the Canadian Pacific Windsor Street Station at Montreal recently, that one of the things that impressed him with the success of the scheme depended was the loyalty and cheerfulness of the mothers of families brought out to Canada to be located on farms. His lordship paid a special tribute to the type of women brought out under this scheme whom he had met during his personal visits among immigrant families.

Little is known of the so-called Canada-American League, which includes Bolton, Providence, and other centres in that vicinity, particularly the Canadian end of it. Quebec was slated for a franchise, as was St. John, N.B., but both of these cities arbitrarily to enter owing to distances to travel. However, Mr. Brown, of Boston, avers that the league is set regardless of the Canadian end of it.

It is also learned that President Calder will notify Art Duncan, former Vancouver Maroon defence player and captain, whom the Detroit club have signed as playing manager, that he must report to "Tuck" Hardwick's Chicago team. FLOWER LOVER'S HEARD LECTURE

Mr. H. J. Moore From the Department, Toronto, Employed Lantern

A small crowd of enthusiastic horticulturists gathered in the city hall last night to hear Mr. H. J. Moore, of Toronto, a departmental official, give a very interesting address on perennials and bulbs. Mr. Moore lectured for about two hours, explaining how to make very beautiful flower beds, different combinations of flowers in beds, the time to plant bulbs, how to take care of bulbs, and that sort of thing. Lantern slides were shown of bulbs and a practical outline of a perpienial bed. After the lecture Mr. W. C. Reid proposed a vote of thanks, and President Findlay seconded it. Mr. Moore remained for a while to answer any questions pertaining to flowers in general.

QUEEN MARIE'S VISIT

Bucharest, September 28.—Prince Nicolas will accompany Queen Marie on her visit to Canada and the United States. The Royal party will number twenty, including ten servants. The Queen will go direct to Washington after landing.

The Old Love Or New?

He had risen from his seat, and sate lifted the lovely, tearful face to his, hold ing out her hands in supplication.

"Forgive you!" she said, huskily." "What have I to forgive?"

"The hasty, cruel words I used when we last met; she said quickly: "I did not know all. You believe me, do you not? I did not know——"

"Did not know what?" he asked, looking at her in astonishment, mingled with some alarm.

"I thought—I heard you were married," she answered, her cheeks pink now with the pained color which arose in her distress.

"Who believed that 'I was married?' he said, slowly, turning to her.

"Yes," she said, faintly. Then going on eagerly, she added: "It was at Laval. You recollect. My uncle saw Minnie on the stairs at the hotel. He was struck by her beauty, and inquired who she was. They showed him the visitors' book, pointing to the name of Mr. and Mrs. R. Fitzroy. He concluded it was you, and told me.

"And you believed it?" he said, slowly

"How could I do otherwise?" she said, simply. "I had no longed for your happiness that I believed my prayers had been answered at last, and that you were perfectly happy in the love of your sweet young wife. I had left you in order that it might be so. I had no right to complain, no right even to reproach you in thought." But [illegible]

She paused, struggling with her tears.

"You thought I had consoled myself for your desertion," he said, gently.

"But, Annette, surely in our interview on the next morning you must have been undeceived?"

"Ah! no," she said, piteously. "How should I be undeceived? Believing that I had betrayed you, believing that I had played you false, you had every right to reproach me, and no word was spoken to let me suppose that you were single. Oh! Roy, I suffered, for I——"

"But on the second interview. Annette," he said; "then, at least, you could not have supposed that I was married man?"

She made no answer, only hid the shamed face with her little gloved hands, and trembled from head to foot.

"What had I done? What do you know of me, that you should think me so unutterably base?" he exclaimed, bitterly. "Did you think that I would bring any young girl to my home, and give her my name, and swear at the altar that I would love and cherish her, only to betray her foully? Annette, it is not possible that you believed this even for a moment. Surely, ah! most surely, you know it was not so."

Still Annette was silent. She had sunk upon the couch, and bowed her head on the cushions, while her whole frame shook with the agitation and excitement of the moment.

"And yet," he went on, as a sudden thought struck him, "you did believe it. Now your words are explained. You called the love I proffered you an insult. You turned from me in scorn and contempt. Well," he added, bitterly, "the insult you deemed I offered you you have in very deed offered me, and I thank you."

"Oh! Roy, forgive me," she sobbed, piteously. "I have suffered—oh! Heaven, how I have suffered! Forgive me —forgive me! I did not think, or I must have known it was not so. Remember that during all those long weeks I believed that Minnie was your wife. Besides," she went on, "in my profession we are so liable to insult. Oh! Roy, forgive me—forgive me!"

He stooped over her and gently raised the bowed head from the cushions.

"You know I must forgive you," he said, softly. "How can I help it, Annette?"

A sudden flash of joy gleamed in the lustrous grey eyes, then faded slowly and left only the wistful sadness which was their usual expression now.

There was a pause then. Roy had resumed his seat, and drawn the chair nearer Annette's sofa.

"Annette," he said, suddenly, taking the unsteady hands and holding them fast, "if you had not believed that I was not free, what would your answer have been?"

"Is it fair to ask me that now?" she said, faintly, lifting her eyes to his with an unspoken prayer in them.

"I do not know—I cannot tell. Oh! Nettie, am I always to suffer though my love for you?" he said, passionately.

"No, no I trust not—I pray Heaven not," she said, softly, looking down into the handsome face, which looked so unutterably wretched. "Roy, some day—ere very long, I hope—you will find some woman to whom you can give your whole heart, and who will love you with all hers, and you will be happy."

"Then you do not love me?" he said, bitterly.

"Roy," she replied, in faint, broken tones, "you know I am not free. I have promised. Would you have me break my word?"

He arose impatiently and turned from her. Annette watched him silently as he paced up and down the room with hasty, uncertain steps.

"Annette, have you no pity for me?"

"Have I no pity?! Oh! Roy, you know I would willingly lay down my life to save you one pang. Anything but to break my word and his heart."

"You love him best" was his angry exclamation.

"Would that I did," she said, passionately—"would that I did!"

"Annette," Roy said, more gently, coming to her side again, "we have had mistakes enough; do not let us mar our future, and longer. Oh! love, think how I have suffered all these months and years; think how I must suffer in the future if you refuse my prayers now. Annette, have you thought of what my life will be? You are not wise to-play me thus," he added. "You make me reckless—you make me—"

"Hush!" she said, suddenly. "That is not Roy who speaks."

"It is truly," he interrupted, passionately. "You have no right to give me your love, and then take it from me. Will you ruin my life, Annette? will you be happy when you are that man's wife knowing that you have a blighted life at your door?"

"Roy, you are killing me," she said, piteously. "I gave him my promise free by and willingly; I cannot reclaim it. Ah have I not done it enough? I am not free. I have suffered. You too," her hand stole into his, "will suffer for a time; but, dear Roy, we have both to our suffering partly on ourselves, we must bear it. Would you have me false indeed, Roy?"

"Neither—oh! Nettie," and his voice was broken and husky, "I love you—I love you!"

"He has been so good and generous to me," she said, brokenly. "He loves me so tenderly. He has accepted the little affection I could give him so frankly, he trusts me so truly. Oh! Roy, do not ask me—do not ask me to betray him."

Roy, with his face hidden in his hands made no answer, and there was a short silence. Annette stretched out her hand and laid it softly on his arm.

"Roy," she said, gently, "I cannot bear that you should grieve thus."

"How can I help it?" he said passionately. "I have no hope—every hope dire within me when I listen to you. My life seems over. Ah! you did not know that I loved you thus, Annette; but my love strengthens daily. What is there before me? Only a life spent in sand, vain endeavor to forget the past to shut you out of my heart; to repent if I have sinned—for I shall never, even in every sleep—the broken purposes and wasted years of the past."

"Oh! Roy—Roy," she said, but, piteously, 'you are breaking my heart.'

The pain on his face as he turned to her was terrible to see. Annette shiver ed as she looked.

"Oh, cannot!" she cried, wildly. "Roy I cannot ruin another life. Heaven help us both!"

She drooped her head on the cushions again in a passion of sobs. Roy put his arms around her, and gathered her close to his breast.

"Only one moment," he said, hoarsely "My darling—my darling, he would not grudge me this!"

He crushed his lips against her brow and hair, and thrust, in an agony of love and farewell, and Annette clung to him with a sick faintness coming over her, which shut out the miserable, passionate face from her glance.

Then he put her back upon the cushions with a great, choking sob, and turned away again.

There was a long silence, which Annette broke, lifting herself from the cushions, and speaking in a faint, hollow voice.

"I want you to promise me something," she said, pleadingly. "Will you Roy? I cannot be at peace unless you do. You will not let this disappointment sadden your life? You will do well for yourself, my dearest!" she added, passionately. "You will not degrade yourself and break my heart by an ill-spent life? You will become what I have always prayed you would be—a good and noble man?"

He turned suddenly and looked up at her. He was seated, and Annette had risen, and was standing by him as she spoke.

"Why should you care what becomes of me?" he said, in low, swift tones, full of anger and pain. "Why should you care if I go to my ruin or my death?"

"Why should I care?" she says, in the low weak voice of which she has spoken. "Oh! my darling, you know I care—how much Heaven only knows."

Her voice failed and sank to a whisper, and she struggled for strength to continue.

"I must have your promise," she said, wildly. "You must give it to me, Roy. Ah! the time is so short; they will come and I shall have no chance of saying you again. Promise me that you will do what is right. Oh! my darling, there is happiness to be won yet in the discharge of duty—happiness, and, I hope in time, love for you."

"Tired Nature's sweet restorer"

ONLY during the relaxation of sleep, can Nature rebuild the brain and body tissues which have been used up in the activities of the day. Often, unfortunately, when we go to bed, our nerves stay up; and sleep does us little good.

"Ovaltine" taken at night soothes and restores the nerves and promotes restful sleep.

"Ovaltine" is the greatest health-giving beverage in the world—abundantly rich in the vitalizing and energizing elements from Nature's tonic foods—ripe barley malt, rich creamy milk, fresh eggs, and flavoured with cocoa. One cup of this delicious beverage contains more nourishment than 12 cups of beef tea or 3 eggs.

Take a cup of "Ovaltine" every night before retiring, and see how refreshed and invigorated you will feel next morning.

Puzzling Death of Man and Wife in Auto—Could Have Escaped

London, September 30.—Rarely has there been related a more amazing story of the horrible death of a man and his wife in a motor car than that heard during the last three days by a coroner's jury, sitting in a farmer's barn in picturesque Bedfordshire.

Lindsay Marshall, regarded by the countryside as a prosperous farmer and county councillor on the best of terms with his wife, and the father of two young children, left his home in the evening with his wife, in their car to visit friends at a short distance, and apparently was in the best of spirits when he left. Yet an hour later a guardsman cycling home came upon the car by the roadside, and from it flames were shooting as high as the telegraph wires overhead.

Inside the car, the guardsman saw, was a man, rigid, at the wheel. Beside him was another figure. It was impossible to do anything but let the fire burn itself out. The doors of the car were found open, indicating that the occupants had made no effort to escape. The bodies were almost unrecognizable.

REVOLVER DISCOVERED

The day following a revolver was discovered in a nearby river, and investigations showed it had been recently purchased by Marshall.

Today, witnesses gave evidence that the purchase of enough prussic acid to kill ten men had been traced to the dead insured's motor car report gave the jury as his opinion that the car's general appearance indicated it had been soaked with petrol and then set on fire.

Against the obvious inference from this evidence, however, was testimony that the car had run nearly 30,000 miles without an overhauling of the engine; while as far as the prussic acid was concerned, a witness swore that a dog had certainly be brought to the deceased's place for destruction. It was brought out that the deceased owed certain amounts on the car, but had never been pressed for payment.

JURY'S VERDICT

A verdict of murder and suicide was returned today by the Coroner's Jury against Lindsay Marshall.

The coroner stated that Marshall, regarded as a prosperous farmer, must have shot his wife and then poured petrol over her and over the car, set fire to it and then swallowed prussic acid.

His financial position was certainly involved, the coroner said, Marshall bearing responsibility which might have caused his mind to give way.

The death of Marshall and his wife were not due to a sudden impulse, the coroner observed, but the act was planned in advance. Marshall had told the fire he should destroy all evidence so thoroughly that no trace either of Mrs. Marshall's bullet wounds, or his own poisoning, should be found.

DR. BAKER IN CRASH

Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, Principal emeritus of Albert College yesterday afternoon was driving in the vicinity of the upper bridge when his buggy was struck by an automobile. The impact was sufficient to throw the Doctor out of the vehicle, but fortunately he escaped serious injuries. The buggy was damaged to some extent. Dr. Baker was taken to his apartments in the new college where he will rest quietly for a few days.

AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 30.—Wheat showed an early upward trend today as a result of heavy buying on the part of several big houses. Scarcity of nearby supplies at Liverpool, was a bullish factor. Opening at 1-8 off to 3-8 up, wheat scored moderate gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, more starting unchanged to 1-2 higher and subsequently established a slight advance.

ANGLO-ITALIAN PACT IN VIEW?

Chamberlain and Mussolini Meet on Board Ship Near Leghorn

Leghorn, Italy, Sept. 30.—Sir Austen Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini met here today on boat on Italian vessel and it is assumed discussed international affairs.

Mussolini, travelling in strictest incognito, left Rome last night on special train. He spent the night at Viadana, about 25 miles from here and arrived in Leghorn this morning. The Premier and his suite were driven in automobile across the railway station to the port where they boarded a motorboat and were taken to the Giulia, former Turkish yacht captured during the war. Premier Mussolini received Sir Austen at the gangway, they clasped hands warmly, exchanging felicitations. After introducing members of their suites, the retired for a private conversation.

LADY CHAMBERLAIN THERE

Premier Mussolini sent a beautiful basket of orchids to Lady Chamberlain accompanied by a note written in English which he presented his "most devoted homage."

Sir Austen, his wife and son, took lunch aboard the Giulia as guests of the Italian Premier. The British flag was hoisted and Mussolini received his guests at the gangway, kissing Lady Chamberlain's hand as she came aboard. The British national anthem was played on the arrival and departure of Sir Austen.

As the two statesmen bid each other good-bye, they expressed the hope that they would soon meet again.

BOY BITTEN BY MAD DOG

FAKED K.K.K. LETTERS TO OBTAIN THE RETURN OF FADED LOVE LETTERS

Anonymous letters, thick and fast have been flying around recently between three young residents of Madoc Township, according to reports. The matter is rather a tangled affair, but the police have brought to light the real facts and it is now a dead issue between the parties interested.

It appears that a young lady had been corresponding with a gentleman friend and several "loving epistles" were exchanged between the two. To make a long story short, something occurred to estrange the two and the young lady was anxious to have her letters returned. Finding that personal persuasion was fruitless, she resorted to the help of another boy friend in whom she told her story. He immediately struck upon a plan to rid

AGED COUPLE KILLED IN CAR

Passed Standing Machine at Level Crossing at Cobourg

Cobourg, Ont., Sept. 30.—When the closed car in which they were riding was struck by the Canadian Pacific Railway's Chicago flier last night, Charles Gifford, 70 and his wife, Fannie, 60, of Buffalo, New York, were instantly killed.

The automobile according to witnesses, appeared to pass deliberately two other cars which had stopped because of the approaching train, at a level crossing. When struck by the train the car was thrown into the ditch where it took fire. Gifford was picked up on the road but his wife had to be extracted from the wrecked car. Indentification of the bodies was not made until early this morning.

Mrs. Gifford had many bones in her body crushed and broken while a large piece of glass from the windshield had severed an artery in her neck. Gifford was evidently thrown from the car by the impact, and was badly cut about the head. The bodies were taken to Port Credit.

An inquest will be held on Friday into the accident which resulted in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gifford, of Toronto, who were instantly killed when the car in which they were riding was struck by a train last night. Mr. and Mrs. Gifford had moved to Toronto recently.

"EMPEROR COOK" ADMITS DEFEAT AS MINERS AT WORK

Forced Back to Pits Through Starvation — No Outside Help

London, Sept. 30.—The first admission from A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, of defeat of the British miners in the coalstrike came last night when he declared in an address before the tobacco workers union that the miners were going back to the pits "beaten by starvation."

"They have fought courageously but they will be just as courageous in their retreat," he said.

He denounced the Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, a tool of the mine owners and took a fling at the General council of the Trades Union Congress for failing to furnish money to the miners, and for refusing to grant a coal embargo.

NO HELP FROM SUROVE

Paris, Belgium, Sept. 30.—Striking British coal miners are understood to have received little hope of financial aid from their continental colleagues at today's session of International Miners' Committee. No official statement was issued after the morning session but it is learned that British delegates failed to receive promises either of financial support or that continental coal would not be exported to England.

GIVE OPEN VERDICT AT OAKVILLE INQUEST

Oakville, Ont., Sept. 30.—Investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of a infant whose partially burned remains were found in the kitchen stove of an Oakville home on September 14, a coroner's jury returned an open verdict here last night. The verdict read that Vera Fish gave birth to a child on the ninth of this month and that it could not be determined whether the babe was born alive or stillborn.

ART DEALER AS BOOTLEGGER FOR SOCIAL LEADERS

Elaborate and Exclusive Supply System Exposed in New York

New York, September 30.—With the arrest today of Henry Fisher, a dealer in high grade art prints, at 225 Fifth avenue, federal officials said they had taken into custody the most "exclusive and highest-toned bootlegger" in the business. Lists of his customers, found in his art shop, had the appearance of the social register and directory of directors combined, and they contained hundreds of names. United States Commissioner Cotter held Finley in $1,000 bail for a hearing October 13.

Most, if not all, of the customers whose names appear upon the seized lists, will be asked to testify against Finley before the grand jury. They include society men and women, lawyers, doctors and prominent business men. Those customers, it was said, never called at the art shop for their "stuff," but always ordered it delivered to them. This was done without additional cost in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Elaborate precautions, according to federal officials, that he employed expert chemists to analyze all his goods before delivery, and that his regular patrons should receive only the best obtainable. There was in the art shop a list of "analytical chemists of standing" and their addresses and copies of "tests" had been sent to customers. It was stated, so that they could communicate with these chemists and satisfy themselves of the truth of Finley's claims regarding the purity of his products.

In one circular a great deal of space is devoted to instructions in the matter of mixing drinks. From this, it was said, one could learn how to prepare and serve such delicacies as "cocktails, daisies, egg nog, flips, fizzes, juleps" and cocktails galore.

One memorandum found seemed to have been written by a chemist. It read: "This is a redistilled (recovered) alcohol derived from a denatured product." On this paper was the name of a customer to whom some of the redistilled product had been shipped and after his name were the words: "Ges this look," indicating, officials said, that chemists were to be called to see that customers were not furnished with poison liquor. One circular commented: "Booth's gin has always been a favorite. That is why many gentlemen prefer it even to blondes."

BRITISH FREE TRADERS BROADCAST WARNING

Manchester, Sept. 30.—"We want to make it clear to the Dominion Premiers attending the Imperial conference that this country is unalterably determined to maintain the principle of free trade, unopposed shall not be materially changed," declared Lord Stanley of Alderley at the National Free Trade conference at Manchester, over which he presided.

"We are entitled to be suspicious", he continued, "when we see protection introduced under different names".

PAYMENTS TO MOTHERS

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 30.—The mothers allowance commission has received after 4,467 mothers in the province of Ontario during the month of September, involving an expenditure of $182,204.

CANNIFTON CHURCH SUPPER; DRESSED CHICKEN MAIN ITEM

The Chicken Supper held at Cannifton United Church last evening was a success in every way—nice weather, which brought out a large crowd of people enjoy all of the good things to eat, a large crowd which kept the women of the Church busy serving them from 6 o'clock until 8, and a musical program afterwards which was enjoyed by all those who heard it. The proceeds, totalling $600, more than fulfilled expectations.

The tables which were set in the roomy church shed, were prettily decorated with flowers and fruit and loaded down with all kinds of food—a satisfying variety for even particular palates. St. Andrew's Orchestra, of Napanee, supplied the entertainment in the church after supper. Rev. Mr. Farquharson acted as chairman. The musical variety here also—vocal solos and duets, violin duets, cornet solos, humorous readings and even a fog-horn in which everybody was asked to join. The cash extra gave several selections under the direction of Mr. A. MacGregor, consisting of marches, waltzes etc., and were enthusiastically encored. Last night's supper added one more success to the record of this annual event.

FEAR HEAVY LOSSES AMONG CHINESE PEOPLE

Hong Kong, Sept. 30.—It is feared that 150 fishing junks, with about 2,000 persons aboard, including women and children, were lost in the waters around the Portuguese colony of Macao in Monday's typhoon.

SECOND KILLING IN TERRITORY HELD BY ALLIES

Incidents of This Kind Alarm Berlin and Start New Trouble

Germersheim, Germany, Sept. 30.—Popular feeling against the French troops of occupation aroused by the killing of a German civilian here last Monday was increased today by the charge that another German had been killed by a French trooper at Treves, near the Luxemboorg border.

An official German report of the incident says four French cyclist troopers rode into a group of German pedestrians. An argument ensued during which one of the Frenchmen, allegedly without provocation, killed a German named Holstein. The Frenchman was arrested.

Germersheim, Germany, September 30.—The French Lieutenant Roucier, charged with killing a German civilian, and wounding two others here Monday, has been sent to Landau as a prisoner after a hearing by a French general from Coblenz.

His regiment will leave for France and will be replaced by troops from Speyer.

HINDRANCE TO PEACE

Berlin, September 30.—The German press today in every political shade view the Germersheim incident as proof that the military occupation system constitutes the greatest hindrance to a Franco-German understanding.

As long as foreign troops are on German soil, they say, brawls and friction are likely and an effective might be to wreck the entire work of conciliation started by Foreign Minister Briand and Stresemann in their conversations in Geneva at Thoiry.

Continuation of the occupation is felt to be particularly humiliating now that Germany is a member with her former enemies in the League of Nations. The pan-German press is especially incensed by demanding that measures must be adopted corresponding to the spirit of the Locarno treaties.

LAST TROOPS WITHDRAWN

Frankfort, Germany, September 30. —The Wolff Bureau, German semi-official news agency, says it learns that only 2,000 occupational troops are to be withdrawn next week from the Mayence and Coblenz region, instead of the hoped for 6,000.

PRAISE FOR THE TROOPS

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 30.—The following message has been received in the department of national defence from Baron of Vimy on his departure from Quebec: "Please express to all ranks of Royal Canadian Navy, Army and Air Force my regret at leaving and my appreciation of their work during the last five years."

Mr. Percy Cole, West Bridge Street, left for Toronto today.

Mr. Reginald Blakely left today for Kingston where he will resume his studies at Queen's University.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Ralenbury (nee Miss Grace Evans), of Peterboro, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lee, Cedar Street.

Mrs. Ellen Guna, accompanied by her daughters, Mrs. Nellie Armstrong, and Mrs. Adele Tims, has returned to Toronto for the winter months.

Officer Wilfred Frazer who was lately appointed to the Provincial Police Forces spent yesterday in town. He recently resigned his position on the Belleville Force to assume his new duty. He has been assigned to the Cobalt district and will take up his residency there immediately.

Several of the lady members of the Belleville Golf Club were hostess for the Wednesday afternoon tea, when twenty playing members and a number of guests from the Trenton Golf Club were entertained. The gorgeous autumn bloom which can be had in abundance this year, made the club house a very inviting place. The tea was poured by Mrs. Farley, and a number of the young girls assisted in looking after the wants of the members and guests.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY AND BIRTHDAY GATHERING

A wedding anniversary and birthday gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Thompson, yesterday, at 200 Station street. Mrs. William Thompson, of Bethel, mother of Mr. Thompson, was seventy-eight years of age and both she and her husband are hale and hearty and participated in the festivities. Mrs. Thomson received several presents from her children. Mrs. Addison Thompson and Miss Hazel Hawley, of Holloway, also enjoyed celebrating their birthday anniversaries.

It was the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson who were united in marriage at Rosemore by F. J. Anderson at Rosemore, September 29, 1914. Both they and their daughters, Jean and Helen were in the spirit of such a delightful occasion.

There were present—Mrs. Jos. Fitzman, mother of Mrs. Anderson Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, parents of Mrs. Addison Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Mary of Rodneyville, Mr. and Mrs. Hawley and Miss Hazel of Holloway, Miss Ethel Pitman of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson and their two daughters and Rev. H. H. Kenney who is minister of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for the third time.

After all had enjoyed the splendid repast, which was as dainty as beautiful, toasts were responded to and pictures taken of various groups. Many were the words of appreciation as the guests took their leave after a most enjoyable occasion. All hope to again join in another such reunion.

UNITED CHURCH W. M. S.

Over two hundred members of the Women's Missionary Society, representing the Belleville District of the United Church, were in session at the Tabernacle Church today. The various reports were read this morning and other routine business discussed. A luncheon was served in the basement of the Church at noon today.

AN OFFICIAL VISIT

Mr. R. T. Tinson of Brighton, D.D. G.M. of the I.O.O.F. Society for the Bay of Quinte district, No. 47, will this evening pay an official visit to Belleville Lodge No. 81 of this city.

BACK, TONIGHT

A telephone message was received from Chief of Police Kidd who is at Niagara Falls for the purpose of bringing Otto Rittwage back to the city where he will probably face several charges of theft. The chief stated that Mr. Huffman's car was quite badly smashed up and some delay was caused in making repairs. It is believed that Rittwage was attempting to cross the border into United States at the time of his arrest.

REMANDED A WEEK

Mrs. B. Cummings of Napanee, was convicted on a serious charge at Napanee yesterday morning. She was remanded a week for sentence.

BACK TO COBOURG

Fred H. Armitage was arrested at Marysville by the local Provincial officers yesterday afternoon. He will be taken back to Cobourg where a charge of fraud, awaits him.

HURT IN QUARRY

Murney Mason, aged 15, of Springbrook, met with a painful accident while in the discharge of his duties at the quarry at Springbrook yesterday morning. Mason was directly underneath a large derrick which contained a load of gravel and stones being shifted from one point to another in the quarry. One of the large stones became dislodged and falling, struck Mason on the shoulder, fracturing the collar bone and necessitating medical attention which was rendered by Dr. Harper of Madoc. He was take to his home.

BAKERS MET

A meeting of the district bakers was held in the Chamber of Commerce Building yesterday afternoon. Routine business was discussed.

FENCE IS LOWERED

A line board fence, some 9 feet in height on the north side of Mrs. J. Batty's home on Ashley street, has been for some time the means of litigation in court, it being alleged it was a nuisance. Recently in police court the case was disposed of when a complaint was dismissed. Although not compelled to do so, Mrs. Batty has of her own free will had the fence cut down to five feet in height and this has proved to be a great convenience to the residence against which it abutted. There will possibly be no more trouble about the fence, which proved to be a bone of contention.

QUEBEC NOMINATION

One fact in Canadian politics which is in a fair way of becoming generally recognized and accepted is the fact that Quebec must be allowed to choose the man who heads the Canadian government.

Seven years ago, at the Liberal national convention, held shortly after the death of Sir Wilfred Laurier, it was necessary to select Sir Wilfred's successor as party leader. The logical choice was Hon. W. S. Fielding, and he was favored by almost all the delegates from the English-speaking provinces. But Mr. Fielding had supported the Union government, which enforced conscription in the last year of the war; therefore the French delegates from Quebec would have none of him. As they constituted a very large proportion of the delegates, they carried the day and the choice fell upon Hon. W. L. King, who had not been in parliament or in Canada much during the war, but who was known to have supported Sir Wilfred in his opposition to conscription.

Mr. Meighen was a member of the Union government, and is therefore held responsible by the French people of Quebec for the enforcement of conscription. That is why French Quebec has, since the war, sent to parliament a solid phalanx of representatives opposed to the Conservative leader. The Montreal Gazette states the fact clearly: "French-Canadian Quebec," it says, "has voted steadily against the Conservative party led by Mr. Meighen, and has done it thrice in succession, despite the admitted fact that the Conservative policy conforms absolutely to the social and economic requirements of the province. There was no accident about those votes they were given deliberately upon each occasion by an overwhelming majority, and upon one issue—Mr. Meighen. The essential fact is that Quebec will not have Mr. Meighen. And it has shown that the Conservative party cannot succeed without Quebec."

This statement is part of the Gazette's plea in favor of making a change in the Conservative leadership. Mr. Fielding wouldn't be the leader because the Quebec French wouldn't have him; and now the Conservative party is urged to drop Meighen for the same reason, and appoint a man against whom the Quebec French are not prejudiced.

There is not much difference between Quebec "domination" in the matter of party policies. If Quebec is to be permitted to dictate to the two major parties who must be their leaders, why not permit Quebec to dictate the policies for which the leaders and the parties shall stand?

If party success were the only important thing, of course it would be all right for English-speaking Canadians to accept Quebec domination as an unpleasant but necessary evil. But there are other important considerations besides party success, and if this craving for party success were to make English-speaking Canadian Liberals and Conservatives alike meekly bend their necks to the Quebec yoke, such subservance would not be unlikely to result in national danger and disaster.

BUDDING GENIUS

Even if the astonishing kidnapping story told by Aimee McPherson, the Los Angeles evangelist, turns out to be a fake, that clever lady's bold and inventive genius would be almost paralleled by that of the eleven-year-old Hamilton girl whose story of her kidnapping by four ruffians in a motor car stirred this community to indignation last week. The little girl told a very circumstantial tale, quite consistent in all its details. She even gave the number of the car, and thus caused much annoyance to perfectly reputable persons. Now she is constrained to confess that her alleging story was purely imaginary. She was not seized on the street, thrown into the automobile and held there with a brawny hand over her mouth to prevent her screaming; the ruffians did not speed away toward the country; she did not escape from the car after it skidded and came to grief, as she had said. The whole thing was pure fiction, invented by the child, not in the spirit of mischief or through desire for publicity, but because she needed an excuse to cover the fact that she had been playing truant from school.

Here is an embryo genius. Evidently she has a fertile and active imagination, which, properly cultivated and judiciously directed, may yet carry her far. She might some years hence be capable of producing a "best seller" in the way of lurid fiction, or even develop into a sensational evangelist of large earning capacity.

FORTUNATE LOSERS

Germany and Jack Dempsey are in the same class. Dempsey lost his fight, and Germany lost the war. But Dempsey profited from the fight enormously more than his victor, and Germany suffered much less by losing the war than her European enemies have suffered by winning it.

Germany's present economic position is very much better than that of Britain or France or Italy or Belgium. A recently published analysis of German budgets shows that German military pensions, war costs and debt service consume 28 per cent. of the national revenue. The service of the British debt alone takes 50 per cent. of the national revenue. In France it is 55 per cent. In 1913 British and German revenue were about equal at $950,000,000 annually. Today the German budget is about $1,800,000,000, and the British budget is $4,000,000,000. That is a nation of 46,000,000 people are required to pay annually more than double the taxes by a nation of 72,000,000. And the bulk of the taxation is due to the war in which the more severely taxed nation was a victor and the more lightly taxed nation was vanquished.

The fact is an ironical commentary upon the proverb that nothing succeeds like success. In this case success too closely resembles failure.

IMPRESSIVE C.N.R. FIGURES

A comparison of the results of the first eight months' business of the C.N.R. this year with the results of the corresponding period last year shows an improvement which is little short of astonishing. The net earnings for the first months of this year were $20,828,-974.63, and those for the same period of 1925 were $8,353,591.31—an increase of $12,442,382.32, or 148.38 per cent. At the same time the ratio of operating expense to gross earnings decreased from 94.28 last year to 87.44 this year.

This report is gratifying for two reasons. It is evidence of a greatly increased volume of traffic, which in its turn is a sign of prosperity. And it is evidence of continued careful and energetic management. There is reason to hope that the time is near when the C.N.R. will cease to be a burden on Canadian tax-payers and will become a valuable national asset.

GENIUS v. STEADFASTNESS

George Watson, in Science of Thought Review:

In business it is not genius so much that is needed as steadfastness of purpose. It is not sensational dependability. Success in life, after all, depends rather on habits of industry and attention to business details than upon knowledge. Success, using the word by its highest meaning, is not determined by any amount of learning. We may be full of knowledge and be very worthless. Then, again, we may be ignorant of much that inhabits the realm of print and still be very useful. The best culture is not so much that which we receive at school, as that which by our diligent self-education and application we achieve when we become men. True education is gained through the discipline of life.

3,000 TURN OUT TO STIRLING FAIR RACES ARE GOOD

Fine Exhibits of Produce of Farm and Garden and the Home

BABY SHOW THRILLS

Horse Races Were Premier Event With Stirring Heats as Result

Nearly 2,000 people attended the annual Fall Fair at Stirling yesterday and everyone of that number was, I dare tooling satisfied that it was one of the best seen around Stirling in some time.

The weather was ideal and this helped to bring out the crowd.

There was amusement for all, old and young, big and small, with the horse races as the premier event.

Secretary Sine told The Intelligencer it was one of the most successful in every way, including financially, in many years.

All the exhibits were well represented and much comment was passed on the exhibits of vegetables, pure foods, home-cooking and manufactured goods in the Fair Building.

BABY SHOW

The Baby Show brought out thirteen lovely wee tots and judges had plenty to do in selecting their final choices. A few outside contestants entered, but the home boys carried off the honors. The prizes were as follows:—1, Baby Sandercock; 2, Baby Conley; 3, Baby Kennedy; 4, Baby Tracey; 5, Baby Richardson and Baby McInroy. Seven babies were scored in the finals and all received prizes, while No. 6, a Belleville baby, was rather too young, as the prevailing age was about 11 months, while the sixth baby is but 5 months old.

CATTLE

The cattle and livestock this year was not as well attended as in former years, but the stock shown were worthy entrants to their different classes and were all keenly contested.

A good number of sheep and swine were shown and all were up to the standard.

The poultry exhibition was very fine and real nice birds were shown by entries for many miles around Stirling.

Music was furnished by the Madoc band.

BEST SCHOOL PARADE

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan donated a fine silver cup to the best school in the parade, which was finally won by Harold S.S. No. 12.

SOFTBALL

There were three games of softball played during the afternoon which proved exciting from start to finish in each contest. Hoards, Bethel and Stirling crossed bats in the first game with the latter coming under the wire by a score of 25-18.

In the second game Hoards were the masters over the students downing them 16-7. A fine cup for this game was given, and Hoards carried off the silverware.

As stated before, the horse races were the main attraction and some very nice heats were run off, and the time, considering the track, was fair, although it seems certain that on a real track these horses in the free-for-all and 2.35 class could show some real speed.

1ST RACE

The first race brought out 5 horses in the free-for-all for a purse of $100, and it took four fast heats to decide a winner. The result of this race follows:

Si Mac, F. Sullivan, Frankford 1 3 3 4
Volo Ball, R. Turley, Frankford 2 1 1 1
Dick Small, John McCracken, Trenton 3 5 5 2
Butcher Girl, Stacey, Wooler 5 4 5 5
Dell H., A. Fuhr, Indian River 4 2 4 3

Time—2.29¼, 2.29½, 2.29¼, 2.29¼.

2.35 CLASS $80

Only three horses faced to starter in this race and it proved to be about the best of the day. "Sled" Craig, driver of Rex Hall, showed rare judgment in the handling of his horse and in all three heats he kept close behind the face and then went away to win nicely each time on the home stretch. "Sled" is a well-known driver and hails from Smith's Falls.

W. Smith's Cecil Maud, of Belleville gave Rex Hall something to worry about in the last heat, but the little roan owned by A. Armstrong had enough left to win by half a length at the wire.

The result was:

Rex Hall, A. Armstrong, Havelock 1 1 1
Leo Stuart, J. McNaught, Tweed 2 2 2
Cecil Maud, W. Smith, Belleville 3 3 3

Time—2.43¼, 2.42¼, 2.51.

2 MINUTE CLASS $200

Eight horses started in this race, but when the final scuffle was trotted only five faced the starter. Raymor Boy, Bartlett Jr., and Lucky Lulu being drawn.

In the running of the first heat of this race, some excitement was caused when after passing the wire, Tim Alert, throwing his driver, but not much damage was done. Three heats were all that was necessary in the race with Barney Kelley showing his heels throughout. The results were:

Barney Kelley, C. Garrison, Frankford 1 1 1
Jack Moore, Lou Wallman, Marmora 2 2 2
Clifford D., H. McGuire, Havelock 3 3 4
Tim Alert, W. Lett, Marmora 4 4 3
Black Joe, Sid Wheeler, Belleville 6 6 5
Bartlett Jr., H. Redcliff, Marmora ..... 5 5 dr
Raymor Boy, Frank Rush, Stoco 7 5 dr
Lucky Lulu, A. Gray, Trenton 8, 7 dr.

Time—2.25½, 2.26, 2.26¼.

½ MILE SINGLE BUGGY RACE

This proved to be a run-away for C. Vance of Stirling, who won the race, but had S. F. Hagerman's horse of Belleville, not broke near the start the results might have been different. The result was: 1st, C. Vance, Stirling, 2nd, S. F. Hagerman, Belleville, and Mr. Richardson, Stirling, 3rd.

Comedy Well Done By Stirling Players

The Empire Theatre at Stirling was packed last evening for the three act comedy "Married in Haste" presented entirely by local talent under the direction of Mr. G. H. (Gerry) Clute. The play was especially well-rendered and showed the results of constant practice on the part of those participating.

The play centered around the domestic relations of the Bence family who were supposed to have resided in a small new Jersey town. "Dad" Bence (Jerry Clute) the father of a family of three girls finds that their "extravagance" was driving him to bankruptcy, despite the fact that he was reputed to be worth in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars. He was chiefly concerned with his daughter Kathrine (Maisie McCullum) in this respect. He was anxious to have her marry Duke Merril (A. E. Dobbie) a young millionaire but finally on the spur of the moment she married (Kenmpy James) a plumber who was professionally an architect according to his version which naturally incurred her father's wrath.

However the marriage did not pan out as was expected and Kempy finds himself bewildered by the events but is given the support of Katherine's young sister, Ruth (Miss Betty Conley). Duke Merril by careful maneuvering managed to win back his fiancee's love and the play ended happily. Ben Wade (Dr. J. R. Guthridge) a young real estate agent who had married Miss Jane Bence the other daughter (Della Douglas) played important roles and delighted the audience.

The one remaining character "Ma" Bence was played by Anne Lagrow and her opportune speeches and sallies brought much merriment.

Mr. Clute had the most important part and he carried out the role of a tight-fisted and changeable father to perfection. The crowd were kept in a continual uproar by his numerous and timely interruptions. The company will present the play at Tweed and Madoc.

AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 29.—Inclement weather in the western provinces which once again has halted harvesting operations combined with outside bullish factors to boost prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. There was excellent investment buying with values steadily working upward. Opening advances ranged from 1 to 2 1-8c with May future in the strongest position.

BRILLIANT PLAY GAVE LEAFS 2ND OVER COLONELS

Two Out in Both Innings When Leafs Spurted—Carroll Hero

Toronto, September 30.—Staging the greatest kind of a finish in the second game of the junior world series with Louisville, the Toronto Leafs rewarded the brilliant pitching of Owen Carroll with a 3 to 2 victory in eleven innings today. With the Colonels leading 2 to 0 in the ninth, the Leafs bunched four hits with two out to tie the score.

In the eleventh there were also two down when the Howleyites unleashed another strong rally which carried them to victory. Lavery led off with a single to short and Carlyle followed with a smash to Beisel, who fumbled, but it was scored as a hit by the official scorer. Layton, who had done little on the offensive in the pinchers all day, attained a Babe's rating by punching a liner to right field which Lavery rode home with the winning tally.

By long odds the most salient features of the contest, which was replete with sensational efforts, was the pitching of Carroll, whose blinding speed and fighting-like stare had the Colonels completely cowed. He fanned thirteen, including Webb, who is slated to go to the Giants, four times, and would not have been scored upon but for O'Neill's failure to hold a third strike in the fourth frame.

In that session Carroll caused Webb and Cotter to succumb on strikes and had Beisel also on his string. O'Neill, however, lost the third strike, which was high and wide and the runner galloped to first. The tough break upset Carroll somewhat, and, before he recovered his equilibrium, Shanks and Meyer tipped off his goose egg to two runs. After that the collegian held sway and had the peculiar experience of fanning four men after the side was retired. He clearly outpitched the veteran southpaw Cuisop at all stages. The latter was effective, though rather fortunate to keep the Leafs away from the plate until the ninth.

In this inning, after Miller had gone out on a marvellous play by Pitinger, who stood between the Colonels and defeat more than once, Styles, who had replaced Heath, singled to left. O'Neill popped, but Carroll beat out a hit to Shanks. Gilmoley slipped a scorcher to Beisel, who was taken off his feet and did not attempt to make a play at first. This crowded the corners and put the issue squarely up to Billy Mullen. The sterling third-sacker was equal to the emergency, arousing the crowd to a frenzy with a stinging clash to left on which Styles and Carroll scored, the latter beating Webb's throw to the plate by a headlong slide.

It was a great game, the Leafs showing fine hitting power and playing splendid ball generally. Fisher may pinch in the third game today.

Mrs. Helen Taylor, 76, former grand matron of the Eastern Star of Wisconsin, died recently in Lancaster.

No More Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubt or delay, McKeown's Drug Store and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID to-day.

If Your Eyes Are as They Should be

You are a fortunate individual. For not many are so blessed. The trouble is that so many folks THINK their eyes are normal, when as a matter of fact they know nothing at all about it; so their eyes have never been examined. It is impossible for a person to diagnose his own visual condition. I often make wrong eyes right.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By darkening at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

The Deloro Intermediates will play the Bridgeburg team in the first game of the finals for the O.B.A.A. championship at the mining town on Saturday. Both teams will be at full strength, and a good game is anticipated.

Several local ball fans have left for New York where they will take in the world's series games.

* * *

By playing a surprisingly steady and plodding brand of the national pastime Rogers Hornsby and his St. Louis Cardinals finally gained the full glare of the National League spotlight on Friday, when they humbled the New York Giants, while the Cincinnati Reds fell before the Phils for their fifth loss of the span.

This marks the first time that the Fair Western entry has been able to gain since becoming a member of the National loop 36 years ago.

Full credit must be given to the managerial ability of Rogers Hornsby, who was pressed into service on May 31, 1925. At that time the Cards, under the leadership of Branch Rickey, were in a bad way.

The team, although composed of players that compared favorably with those on any of the other teams, seemed to be unable to get anywhere. There was a lack of the vital spark necessary to a winner and President Samuel-Breadon decided that the change of managers was a necessity.

When Hornsby took over the reins the team was in last place with a mark of .337. Immediate improvement in both the morale and play of the club was noticeable and from last place the Cards gradually fought their way up the ladder to finish, but 20 points back of the Cincinnati Reds

Although they got off to a rather slow start this season the Cardinals began their upward drive about midseason and due to some splendid mound work by Haines, Rhem, Reinhart, Sherdel and old Grover Cleveland Alexander, backed up with steady and forceful play, they edged up to the heights.

In a driving finish that caused first one and then another of the contenders to crack they mutilated their steady pace and gained the peak.

The acquisition of Alexander after he had been cast off by the Chicago Cubs, for cause, was probably the determining factor in the Cardinal success. The veteran right-hander came through in great shape for his new boss and proved a tower of strength in the final effort.

However, although the St. Louis fans became popeyed with excitement when their club finally settled the uncertainty there are going to be finals aplenty left to be foisted to watch the World Series on the same old score boards down town. The park will hold only 40,000 customers, which means that there will be about the same number left cooling their heels somewhere on the outside, who will be falling the ebb a lot of names because they couldn't get on the inside.

* * *

"I didn't get enough good pitching" says Ty Cobb, fiery leader of the Detroit Tigers. That is the same old story. Cobb's team invariably have been deficient in pitching, but there's another important reason for the Tigers' tumble—uncertainty as to the infield's position. Cobb has Bobby Jones, the veteran third baseman, go before two young recruits had been put through the fire and were found wanting.

Eddie Collins kept the White Sox in a prominent position until his leg went back on him. Without Collins at his side, shortstop Hunnefield went all to pieces. The crippling of Pitcher Blankenship was another blow which dropped the Chicago team into the mire.

Undoubtedly the league's form reversal in the American league was turned by the St. Louis Browns, led by the great pitching of Sisler. In spring the Browns looked formidable enough to finish among the leading contenders. But the pitchers couldn't deliver and the season's hopes soared. Rumors of Sisler's displacement added to the discomfiture of the manager and his players. Sisler undoubtedly stuck to his hopeless task, got rid of troublemakers and tried to inspire the indifferent ones. But the sympathy couldn't make the Browns win.

Lee Fohl's Boston Red Sox, chronic tail-enders, have made their worst showing since the team was purchased by a former owner to strengthen the Yankees. More than 100 defeats have made Bob fain turn away from Fenway park to root for the Braves.

OSLERS GET JUMP ON WALKERVILLE "CHICKS"

Windsor, Sept. 30.—Toronto Oslers with Joe Spring up, handed a smashing defeat to the forward-looking Walkerville Chicks on Stoddard Field here yesterday afternoon, the tussle endinz 12 to 7, in the first game of the O.B.A.A. semi-finals. For seven innings Merchand, the local moundsman, was in fine form, but Oslers shouted everything he had. The support given Spring at times was ragged. Girard relieved Marchand in the seventh frame, but starred at bat for the visitors, registering a double and three singles in five trips to the plate. Fleming, Hughes House and Doyle did effective work, each scoring twice. The teams move again to Toronto on Saturday.

DEMPSEY CAN HAVE "ANOTHER CHANCE"

New York, September 30. — Gene Tunney, new heavyweight champion, who is under contract to box under the direction of Tex Rickard when an opportune time comes, is holding himself in readiness to meet any opponent selected by the promoter. He looks with favor on Rickard's announced plan to have a series of elimination contests to decide the heavyweight boxing title setter, paving the way fee a championship battle in the summer.

Tunney, in an audience with sports writers yesterday, that Jack Dempsey can have a return bout "any time he says the word."

K. & S. NATIONALS TRIM OWEN SOUND IN ELEVENTH

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 30.—K. and S. Nationals won from the Owen Sound Wawanekas here yesterday afternoon in 11 innings. The Toronto aggregation were a lucky outfit to pull out their victory, as the local girls had things checked when they went into the ninth frame, leading by two counters. Two were out and two strikes on the Nationals' pinch hitter when she popped an easy fly back of second that the entire fielder muffed, and that was followed by another error and a hit, which tied the score. Visit Couture hit for three each in the ninth, and went out trying to stretch it into a homer. That was the last threat of the locals, and he Nationals went out in the eleventh and won. The local girls are confident they can win in Toronto in the second game on Saturday. Score:

Nationals	001 000 007 01—9
Owen Sound	011 033 000 00—8

ALEMITE GIRLS AND BOYS WON FROM NAPANEE

The Alemite girls won a heavy-hitting softball game from the Napanee girls at the eastern metropolis last evening by the score of 31-30. The locals staged a hair-raising finish to win the game. Coming in for the ninth, they were three runs down, but a spirited rally netted four runs and the home team were held scoreless in their half of the final frame.

Jean and Margaret Fairbairn each took a turn on the mound for the Alemites. The poor lighting system and small space in the Napanee armories tended to loosen the play and hence the heavy scoring. Jack Allen used his regular line up.

The Alemite boys added to the girls' victory by trimming the "B" Co. team 5-5 in a close and exciting game. Johnny Kerr and Bill Tattison did the hurling for the winners and both were in good form. Young Darrach on the receiving end starred both in the field and at bat.

Jimmy Naphin and Peets, both of Belleville, umpired.

The Napanee team held a great deal of respect for the Alemite girls and say that they are ready for Bay of Quinte League ball. The Napanee teams will play here next Tuesday night in the armories.

TRENTON MIXED TEAM WON OVER BELLEVILLE

Wednesday was a "rain day"—with the exception of the final score—at the Belleville Golf Club when twenty-two Trenton golfers, ladies and men, drove down for a friendly match, played six mixed 2-ball foursomes. The visitors won five, lost three, one match was undecided and one halved.

DELORO LOST TO BRIDGEBURG 4-3

Bridgeburg, Ont., Sept. 29.—Bridgeburg Merchants today won the first of home-and-home games with Deloro to decide the Intermediate O.B.A.A. championship by trimming the visitors in a ten-inning game, to the score of 4 to 3. The game was the most sensational seen in this town this season, and was featured by fast, snappy baseball of the variety a fan loves to watch. From the fifth the batteries were announced, and the locals feared the winning run three was not a dull moment, with the result always in the balance. A vast crowd from miles around witnessed the performance. The excitement of the after noon was crowned when Vince Upper knocked the sphere far into the centre field for a three-base hit, only to be recued a moment later by Russell's single, after the visitors were extinguished in the first half with the bases loaded, no outs, by a double play followed by an out by Upper.

Mrs. Dobber and Mr. MacConnell, J. T. Legault and J. Melntosh.

SIGHT AND PLEASURE

Everyone will admit that no work is done better than it is recognized even indistinctly it will be more or less badly done. Deftness of hand can only come of keen vision. Quick and accurate thinking can only be accomplished when the eyes help—not obstruct—the brain.

Besides this poor vision means that we only see a fraction of the beauties around us—many of the wonders of nature are missed.

Good vision therefore, contributes to good health good work and the enjoyment of recreation. No man or woman of today can afford to rest content with anything short of the best possible vision.

NEWS OF MOVIES

AT GRIFFIN'S

Thrills of the sort that pay pace in a big way are in store for motion picture patrons in "Men of Steel," First National's big steel photoplay, which comes tonight to Griffin's Theatre, with Milton Sills in the starring role and Doris Kenyon as the featured feminine player.

Sills has always been known as a "he-man," in past pictures he has been called upon to perform some difficult feats, but in "Men of Steel" he surpasses anything he has ever done on the screen both in scenes calling for strength and courage and in acting.

For example, there is a scene in which Sills and Victor McLaglen are trapped in a huge vat in a steel mill. McLaglen is trying to dump a ladle of molten steel on their heads. Sills catches hold of a big iron hook swung over the vat on a chain from a crane and with McLaglen hanging to his feet is swung out of the vat, over masses of molten steel to safety at the other end of the big room.

McLaglen stands well over six feet, and weighs more than two hundred pounds. The task of carrying him, by the strength of the molten steel that was ready to bring death was one requiring iron nerve as well as strength. Sills would not allow a double to take his place. It was his picture and he took the chances. This is just one of many thrills that fill this picture from start to finish and place it far above the ordinary "special." George Archambaud directed the picture.

AT THE BELLE

Romance — thrills—mystery — love and adventure!—all are contained in "Stronger Than a Crown," at the Belle Theatre. For picture starring Edmund Lowe, which opens tomorrow for a two days' engagement at the Belle Theatre.

It's a picture that has everything which goes to make perfect screen entertainment. Mr. Lowe is excellently cast as the dashing and handsome young American in love with a princess of Lidavia, a mythical kingdom of Europe. And no wonder he is in love, for the object of his adoration is delectable young Dolores Costello, whose father, Maurice, long reigned as favorite. Miss Costello, playing her first leading part gives promise of even greater things to come.

Another scintillant personality of the cast is Margaret Livingston, who is fast taking first rank among the "stars" of the films. Miss Livingston invests her characterization with fine feeling and sympathy; in this picture she plays less of a vampire role and more of a second heroine.

Paul Panzer, one of the best of Hollywood's "heavies", is the vindictive and menacing Marquis Pretalli of the story and he gives a most colorful performance.

AT THE REGENT

When Bill Hart stopped before a battery of cameras in "Tumbleweeds" some months ago, it was the first time in a year and a half that he had faced the movie lens.

But the great star looked better than ever, weighed exactly what he weighed when he first entered pictures, more than ten years ago, and in every way was the Bill Hart—"Two Gun Bill"—the public has learned to adore.

"Tumbleweeds" is now at the Regent theatre and if ever the west was represented faithfully on the screen, this is one time. However, this has always been a characteristic of Mr. Hart's productions. He is faithful to the types and incidents of the west. He does not believe in wild exaggeration and untruthful representation of people he holds in reverential esteem —the men who made the west.

A fine cast is supporting Mr. Hart and the picture is a real thriller. King Baggot directed.

OBITUARY

ROBERT AULT

A life-long resident of Marlow Township in the person of Mr. Robert Ault passed away early this morning at his home, three miles north of the village. He had only been ill a short time.

Mr. Ault was well-known in the community where he had spent practically his entire life. He was born 69 years ago.

The deceased was a very prominent horseman and took a keen interest in racing and was regarded as one of the leading race horse men in that district. He was a strong supporter of the Conservative party. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife.

The funeral will be held on Saturday next, interment in Hazzards Corner's cemetery.

She comes as a boon to the housekeeping set,
This bright little maid that we call Jane Gillex.
She washes the dishes, the pots and the pans,
The clothes and the windows, the pails and the cans;
The floors and the bathtub—in short we maintain
That for all household cleaning, no equal has Jane.

The Old Love Or New?

He turned and put his arm around her as she stood by the chair and as she spoke she looked straight down into his eyes.

"Roy, you will promise?"

"Of what avail?" he said, wearily—"of what avail? I could not perform. You take yourself from me, Nellie, nothing good remains."

"Ah no, do not say that," she replied with a quick cry of pain; and Roy leaned against her as she stood, and looked his last into the lovely troubled face.

"You will promise me," she said, in a moment, softly, pasing her arm around his neck in an irrepressible movement of tenderness. "Roy, do not make me more wretched by refusing. We will not meet again. Promise me."

For a moment he did not speak, only pressed his face against her shoulder with a dumb movement of pain; then he said, softly:

"I will do my best, Nellie, for your sake."

"No; for the sake of what is right," she said, gently, and clasped his arms for a moment around his neck, and stooped her lips to the short, crisp golden curls rising against her bent head. "Heaven bless you, Roy. And now you must leave me. Send uncle to me," she added, faintly. "I must go home."

He pressed her close to him for a moment in a long last strain; then he put her softly into a chair. She was white as death, but still she tried to smile on him, and lifted her beautiful gray eyes to his in mute farewell, then the clinging hands drooped, and the clinging hands relaxed their clasp, and she fell back, conscious still, but weak and exhausted from the struggle.

Roy bent over her, touched the closed lids and white brow lightly with his lips and went in search of Monsieur Chabert, whom he found in the exdroom, preparing dispatched him to Lady Travers' boudoir, Roy glanced around the ballroom, and at one end he could see Lord Elford, looking a little bored, buttonholed by a great foreign potentate, and with a hasty adieu to Lady Travers, he went hurriedly away.

"I am ill, mon oncle," Annette said faintly, when M. Shabert hastened to her in great alarm. "I must go home."

"The carriage is there, my child. You look ill indeed, Annette. You have overtired yourself. Come, mon enfant."

He wrapped her cloak carefully around her.

"Shall I call Lord Elford, Annette?"

"Oh! no," she said with a shudder. "I am so tired. Make my excuses to him and say good-night."

He led her downstairs in silence, wondering at her agitation and faintness, but making no comment; and all that long night while Joy wandered through the silent streets, restless and miserable, returning home at dawn, worn out and exhausted, Annette lay, dressed as she was, on her bed moaning faintly at intervals, heedless of the crushed silk and lace, of the diamonds which still glittered on her white throat, uttering impatiently in her dumb, unreasoning anguish at the great flashing gem on her finger, which was the outward token of her engagement to Lord Elford, and conscious only that Roy had bidden her farewell forever.

CHAPTER XXV.
A MYSTERIOUS COMMUNICATION.

The house Lord Elford occupied in Grosvenor Square was a spacious and handsome one, befitting the position and wealth of its owner; and if sometimes since he had known Annette de Vitry, his lordship had thought the great rooms rather dreary, it was for the want of the sunshine of a woman's fair presence, not for any want in themselves.

On the morning after Lady Travers' party Lord Elford came down to breakfast in a rather anxious and uneasy mood. His lordship was in every respect a model young Englishman. Whether he was alone or had guests he never indulged himself by rising late and breakfasting in his dressing gown and slippers, and the morning in question was no exception to the rule.

He had risen at his usual early hour, had sluiced himself in cold water, after the fashion of "tub-loving Englishmen," had donned the neatest of morning suits and came down to the dining-room, where breakfast was laid, looking as fine a specimen of manhood as any one need wish to see.

It was a chilly morning for June, and a fire had been lighted in the dining-room, where the table, with its snowy napery, massive silver, and various appetizing condiments, was perfect in every detail. It lacked, of course, a bright, sweet face and a graceful, white robed form behind the urn, but it would not be long before even that want was supplied; and, meanwhile, there was a stately-looking butler to pour out Lord Elford's coffee, if required.

The Times, duly cut and aired, lay beside his plate, and a little heap of letters; for, as I have said, Lord Elford was a rather prominent members of the House, in consequence of which he received copious epistles from all manner of people who peddled with politics, entreating his aid for the "Open Museum of Sunday" movement, the "Eastern Question Seen in a New Light," the "Woman's Rights" discussion, or various philanthropic institutions, to which if Lord Elford had subscribed as largely as each and all evidently expected him to do, he would have had to enter a philanthropic institution himself as a pauper nobleman.

For the most of his correspondents, he had few relations, and not many letter-writing friends, so it was no wonder that he pushed aside the letters with a slight frown, and when the stately butler had uncovered the hot dishes, he applied himself to an omelette aux fines herbes, made, as only a French cook could make it, following up the omelet with some raised pie. Then having finished his breakfast, he carried the Times, the letters, and himself to the library, and pulling up an armchair to the fire, threw himself into its extended arms, and heedless of the little pile of letters at his elbow, began to solilquize aloud, as people do on the stage so constantly, and in real life sometimes, under high pressure. Naturally the monologue concerned Annette.

Appearances Decisive in the Dress of Two-Piece Effect

The young girl finds herself in sympathy with the modern spirit, the vibrant color and the sense of motion conveyed by the sectioned designs of the new prints which lend up a rousing fun of designs, colors and arrangements for borders, robes and panels. Their designs turn to modernistic, geometrical patterns, kinetic designs full of the motion of leaping flames, bent branches, lightning, signals and fabric showers of drops of more crystals, to pictorial prints of sports, village scenes, robust impressions of New York, in lovely flower patterns and pure English prints. Combinations of several colors, and modern ideas descending toward the hem are new. The frock illustrated is the two-piece effect and is excellent for border, prints and plain crêpes.

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as to what the Change of Life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I could hardly move. I felt tired and sick most times and thought I had a friend on earth. I did not care if I died or lived. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicine, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. Ezra Wilson, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

The Discovery. Snapped to the saddle of an Arab rider, the goatskin bag of milk turned to cheese by galloping horse and desert heat. At the journey's end was provided a wholesome, hearty meal.

KRAFT for your family, old or young. You may have noticed how many children love KRAFT Cheese. It is probably because, containing the vital elements of milk and being properly aged, blended and pasteurized, it tastes so good and in addition is so easily digested.

In Europe people eat much more cheese than we do here in Canada. They have discovered what an economical and wholesome repast it makes. KRAFT Cheese has a tremendous market abroad.

KRAFT has used great care to give you good cheese; won't you be equally careful to get KRAFT? Other cheeses have been made to resemble it in outward appearance, but, dear public, the resemblance stops right there.

Try KRAFT Cheese and you will find that it digests easily. (It is made in Canada from A to Zed.)
